County GOP Unit Asks Resignation Of State Leader

Tom Smith, chairman of the state Republican central committee today was requested to resign in the interest of party harmony in a resolution unanimously approved by the Twin Falls county central committee, according to Walter Day, state committeeman.

Action on the resolution was taken Friday night at a meeting attended by about 30 members of the committee representing the full membership, according to Day.

The resignation of Smith was requested immediately "in the interest of party harmony and the best interests of the state Republican administration and the citizens of Idaho."

General Tried To Get Loan, Hughes Avers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Pianist Howard Hughes testified today that he had sought a $500,000 loan from the state of Idaho, but that he did not get it, according to a report by the state central committee.

Hughes told the senate investigating subcommittee that he had turned down the request. He thought "it might be open to improper investigation."

The subcommittee is investigating $400,000 worth of work contracts awarded to Hughes, a movie producer.

Two Versions Headed
It had heard earlier two versions of a $300,000 loan proposal involving Hughes and the state of Idaho. One version, that Hughes had offered to make a $300,000 loan to the state, was rejected. The other version, that Hughes had offered to make a $300,000 loan to the state, was also rejected.

It is the further feeling of this committee that the government of the nation and state of Idaho should be the leadership of the Republican party, is of greater importance than the role of any individual or group of individuals which is not in harmony with the wishes of the majority.

U. S., Russia Reach Accord For Palestine

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 10 (AP)—U. S. Rep. John H. Hilling said today that the United States and Russia had "agreed in principle" on a Soviet compromise plan for enforcement of the Palestine partition plan.

Hilling made the announcement following a closed session of a four-day United Nations working group trying to reconcile U. S.-Soviet differences on the proposed plan.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The supreme court today agreed to decide whether Oklahoma must agree to admit Negroes to the University of Oklahoma law school.

A test case on the issue was brought by the NAACP against the state of Oklahoma.

Meat Cutters Picket Three Local Stores

Labor strife appeared on the local scene today as retail and wholesale meat cutters went on strike in three Twin Falls markets. Affected by the work stoppage are the Five Points store and the two markets of O. P. Skaggs.

Normal over-the-counter sales are not being affected by the walkout of the Meat Cutters local 110 of the AFL.

Meat Striker

According to R. L. Reese, international representative for the union, "We are not striking for an increase in wages. The only thing we want from the employers is a contract with a minimum wage scale."

Arion Bastian, co-owner of the Five Points store points out that the union is not striking for an increase in wages and to try to keep within the laws of the union. I only employ one union member and if I signed this contract, my whole staff would have to sign it.

Bastian has been doing his own meat cutting for years and the strike has not curtailed his business. He is still delivering to customers by the managers of the stores.

Wholesale distributors, along with the other markets in town, are not being picketed.

Lone Bandit Is Held For "Robbery" Trial

Exactly two months to the day after he began his admitted series of Magic Valley hold-ups, Marshall Wendell Booth stood before the bar of justice Monday morning. Formally charged with robbery, "Major" Booth waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to district court.

Booth, 30-year-old Jerome man who was captured after a five-day city police hunt, is in the custody of Sheriff Brode R. Rayborn. Justice O. Humphrey set bond at $5,000 for Booth who was wounded by police prior to his capture.

Guerrillas Invade Island of Greece

ATHENS, Nov. 10 (AP)—A band of 100 guerrillas made a seaborne invasion of the west-end of the island of Crete, Greece, today, attacking the village of Exerohorion.

Ten other residents were wounded in the attack. The guerrillas appeared to be well armed and were reported to have occupied heights around the village after setting fire to a bank and two houses.

Hair Not White, Nor Is Beard 2 Feet Long, So Senator Taylor Rides Horse

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—You may have noticed lately the brief news items out of the west about Glen E. Taylor, D. 18, and his cross-country horse.

They have told how he figured out a way to keep his hair from growing too long. The clipping across the nation in the news of his hair was not how he developed a beard two feet long.

Stop-Gap Aid Cost to Be Over Half-Billion Dollars, Marshall Tells Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Secy. of State George C. Marshall told congress today that the cost of preventing communist domination of Europe is $57,000,000 in immediate stop-gap aid, and $16,000,000,000 in well-planned help over the next four years.

Aid Keeping Greece Free, Truman Says

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—President Truman told congress today that "Greece is still free" because of American aid but her economic plight "has not lastingly improved" and the military picture is "grave."

That is the way Mr. Truman sized things up as of Sept. 30, four months after congress set up a $400,000,000 fund to help Greece and Turkey combat communistic pressure from inside and outside their borders.

Honors Set

The presidential report issued that up to Sept. 30 only $17,400,171 of Greece's $300,000,000 and $15,400,000 of Turkey's $100,000,000 had been spent with $15,182 used for administrative expenses. However, $18,000,000 has been made available to the various agencies carrying out the Greek program and $10,000,000 to be spent in Turkey.

The report listed numerous "unfavorable developments" which have led in Greece "there is every reason to be optimistic about recovery" but in Turkey "it is not restored."

Mr. Truman said, "there can be no recovery unless the Greek government is restored."

Weather Hinders Harvest of Beets

Some Maedo Valley sugar beets may be left in the ground well into December if freezing temperatures continue at the same level suggested by officials reported today by the state employment service revealed that job openings in the area are scarce as winter weather forces seasonal unemployment in out-of-door industries.

Labor demand for sugar beet harvesters declined rapidly to a total of 126 and many beet growers blanketing southern and eastern Idaho late last week the harvest was a small one, according to extension and employment officials said.

Wintery blazes torred non-farm job centers down the state and suggested the state. The largest declines were noted in logging, construction and transportation industries.

Employment service officials estimated that $1,000,000 monthly would be lost because of seasonal unemployment.

Justice Slaps Top Tribunal Crops Ruling

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Justice Jackson slapped an "abundantly" label today on a ruling by five supreme court justices that a farmer buying federal crop insurance must keep informed on government regulations in the "Federal Register."

If the farmer, Jackson said, were to read "this voluminous" duty publication as it is issued from time to time in order to make sure every farmer has been promulgated that affects his rights, he would never need crop insurance, for he would never get time to plant any crops.

Jackson wrote the dissent to a 4-4 decision in which Justice Frankfurter spoke for the majority. Justice Douglas joined in Jackson's view, while Black and Rutledge dissented without writing an opinion.

Frankfurter's majority ruling said the federal crop insurance corporation need not pay $2,000 to Merrill brothers, a farming firm in Bonanza, Idaho, because of the failure of a 1945 wheat crop.

Federal crop insurance argued that while Black and Rutledge agreed on 400 acres of winter wheat average no more across the country.

The court majority agreed with this argument and said the government could not sue for the duty in the "Federal Register"—a daily compilation of government orders and regulations.

No 'Big' Change Seen for Buying On Credit Ease

By United Press
Retailers, banks and loan companies, for the most part, "held their breath" during the first week after the government lifted its controls on consumer credit, a survey showed today.

Comparatively few merchants eased terms for installment plan buying. For this reason, plus shortage under consumer resistance to high prices, there was no rub in total and only nominal change in government controls were in effect for six years and set the amount of down payment on the consumer.

This ended Sunday, Nov. 2. Official decisions in the country for 1/2 percent down on cars and home appliances and 20 percent down on furniture and floor coverings. Balances in both groups were payable in 18 months.

Major retailers said they feared a return to "easy payment plans" might result in runaway inflation if the congress would clamp on new controls.

Top Tribunal Reopens Case On Utah Cult

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The supreme court was asked today to set aside the conviction of 18 Utah residents on charges of conspiring to advocate plural marriage.

This action does not charge the practice of polygamy, but two of those in the present case were among eight whose conviction of polygamous marriage was upheld by the high court a year ago this month.

The group—46 persons originally were placed under arrest in a western federal-state drive—had a wide-reaching meeting house in Salt Lake City and published a magazine. The 18 are under sentence of one year in prison but are free on bonds.

Counsel for the 18 contends their conviction in the district court for polygamous marriage violated the federal constitutional guarantees of freedom of speech, worship and assembly.

Defendants in the case are Joseph White Muesser, Guy W. Muesser, Charles Frederick Zitting, Heber Kimball Cleveland, Zola Chastain Cleveland, Jonathan M. Hammon, John V. Barlow, Albert Edmund Barlow, Edmund Francis Barlow, Ianthus Barlow, Louis A. Kesch, Paulson Clark, Alfred, David H. Deager, Jean Barlow Deager, Bulon T. Jeffs, George H. Kalmar, Joseph Zelman Jessup and Alma T. Timpon.

Hunter Find Caps Case of Kidnaping

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10 (AP)—One of California's most baffling kidnapings was believed solved partially today with the "almost complete" identification of the skeleton of a 6-year-old girl in nearby Orange county.

Rochelle Gluskoer, 6, was kidnaped by an unidentified man in a sedan Feb. 15, 1946. An intensive manhunt failed to capture him or return the child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Gluskoer, delicatessen owners.

Last Chance

BOISE, Nov. 10 (AP)—Pheasant hunters throughout the state, except those in southwestern counties, will get their last chance tomorrow to bag their limit of rooster pheasants.

State fish and game officials today reminded nimrod that tomorrow is the last day of the bird season, except for southwestern Idaho. The bird season in that area closes Nov. 21.

Idaho Nimrod Is Accident Victim Twice Same Day

KUNA, Nov. 10 (AP)—Once a day is plenty for the average hunter to be shot—but it happened twice in one day to Alton Steen, Kuna.

Steen was out in the fields again in the morning while pheasant hunting. He had the wound dressed and went out into the fields again in the afternoon.

Onion Shipments Hiked Over 1946

IDAHO FALLS, Nov. 10 (AP)—Although U. S. movement of onions so far this season is 2,276 carloads below the figure for the same time last year, Idaho shipments total 1,834 compared with 1,503 carloads for the same period in 1946.

Utah has shipped 303 carloads this year, compared with 220 during the same period last year.

3 Generators Are Slated at Grand Coulee

COULEE DAM, Wash., Nov. 10 (AP)—The bureau of reclamation said today it plans to add three more 108,000-kilowatt generators to give Grand Coulee dam the greatest concentration of power in the world.

Bids probably will be called this month for the three generator units scheduled for operation in 1950, the bureau said. They would bring the dam's rated power capacity to 1,640,000 kilowatts.

The units, along with three already ordered and scheduled for installation in 1949, would be housed in the now-vacant cast powerhouse on the dam.

Winant Rewards Loyal Employees

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 10 (AP)—Friends and employees were liberally remembered in the will of John C. Winant, former ambassador to Great Britain and three times governor of New Hampshire, who shot himself to death last Monday night.

The will, filed in Merrimack county probate court valued personal property at $50,000, and real estate at $25,000.

The document, dated Nov. 18, 1940, left two-fifths of the residue to his widow and the remaining three-fifths to his three children.

Lewiston Man 11th State Hunt Fatality

LEWISTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—The 11th hunting death of the year for Idaho was marked up today with the accidental shotgun death yesterday of Oliver R. Tannahill, 55, Lewiston.

Authorities said Tannahill was shot by the accidental discharge of a gun in the hand of his pheasant hunting companion, E. H. Gilberg.

The document, dated Nov. 18, 1940, left two-fifths of the residue to his widow and the remaining three-fifths to his three children.

ANOTHER GLARING EXAMPLE

Apprehension of the lone bandit who has admitted to a sensational crime in the vicinity of Sept. 7, finally resulting in a shooting episode which could just as easily have resulted in fatalities, serves as another startling example of the inefficiency in our state penal systems.

It is this fugitive is under lock and key after a sensational series of hold-ups, it is brought to light that Idaho has one of the worst records in the United States for sloppiness in its penal institutions.

But the significant thing about it all is that he was released from an institution at Medicine Lake, Wash., last January without the law enforcement officials of Idaho being notified of the fact.

The captured man admitted being in the Blackfoot hospital for about 18 months where he had escaped eight times, and that he was transferred to the Medicine Lake institution because the hospital at Blackfoot "couldn't hold him."

He also admitted he had done time in San Quentin and Oregon State penitentiary. Naturally local law enforcement officials are at a loss to understand why Washington authorities could have released this man without communicating with Idaho officials.

If they had been notified, this man probably would have been suspected from the start and the whole affair might have been nipped at the outset.

But we have no reason to look askance at the state of Washington when Idaho has one of the worst records in the United States for sloppiness in its penal institutions.

Parachutes aboard commercial aircraft, he thought, "would tend to scare passengers away."

About the time 52 people lost their lives in an airplane disaster in Bryce Canyon, Utah, several intermountain newspapers, including the Times-News, raised the question as to why commercial planes are not equipped with parachutes.

In the Bryce Canyon tragedy, it was disclosed, the passengers knew for 10 minutes they were doomed to almost certain death. Under those circumstances, it stands to reason that some if not all of those would have taken their own parachutes.

Judging from the number of airplane disasters in recent weeks, it would seem that officials of the civil aeronautics administration and the airlines themselves should be looking for something that seems to be lacking in commercial airline operations.

We question whether parachutes on commercial planes would tend to scare the passengers away. The growing list of disasters, to our way of thinking, is likely to cause more alarm.

Scared or not, airline passengers would derive some comfort in knowing that parachutes were tucked away some place, "just in case."

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Political observers here have been puzzled by the administration's apparent willingness to act, eagerly—to back down and surrender several issues which were expected to provide them with heavy ammunition against the GOP in next year's presidential campaign.

President Truman himself raised the question on Oct. 15 when he declared that rationing and price controls were the most important of the "big three" of those "unimpeachable" sources of which you were undoubtedly heard.

He thereby upset the program of minor political aides at the Democratic National convention, for they had planned to assault the Republicans as responsible for high prices because of their termination of OPA. They made no secret of their belief that "Harry has put us in a trap."

STRATEGY—Sen. J. Howard McGrath, the party's Truman had decided to drop the issue, and Mr. Truman had decided to drop the issue, and Mr. Truman had decided to drop the issue.

STARVED—Now, Interior Secretary Krug has tossed another issue out the political window. In the address to the National Reclamation Association in Salt Lake City, he conceded that western projects had not received more money for western projects than any other area of the country.

CONCERN—Indeed, this question had become one of the most important in the economic program of Senator Taft, Speaker Martin and Rep. Ben Jones, chairman of the house appropriations subcommittee.

EMOTIONLESS—The Democrats' seeming general indifference to their opponents stems from the careful calculations and the political calculations of the party's top political advisers.

CONTINUITY—In short, what the Democrats desire is a campaign patterned after 1940 and 1944, when candidates Wilkie and Dewey ran on a sort of "be-lieve in me" basis.

MILITARY—Veterans in the "old guard" of the Republican party do not intend to let the issue of the military nomination fall to such outsiders as General Eisenhower and MacArthur without a fight.

It is pointed out that West Pointers are educated in the government, that they are assured of a regular income without regard to the state of the private economy, and that they can look forward to a private pension on retirement.

THE COURT CAN SOLVE IT In the recent argument within the federal supreme court over the precedents governing interstate divorce, there is a contention that the constitutionality of the court's ruling is in question.

NEW YORK—Long before the Hollywood tenorist ever heard of the bill of rights, I was pounding the bar and holding that course.

Washington Post: attorney in private practice, took occasion to protest.

Many instances of this have sprung to mind lately in answer to their pettiest clamor, but my choice was the publication of the income tax returns of the late Roosevelt opponents and the admission of the Roosevelt family to permit any examination of the books of the old lady's or Elliott's.

'Weep Not' on Grass Losses, Bureau Avers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Weathermen warn no more for the winter blizzard.

Agriculture department scientists say they have learned that man can beat nature in producing livestock fodder. And that discovery also may relieve some concern about the future of marginal lands which will be abandoned after grain prices hit the lows.

It also heightens interest in the airplane seeding experiments of the Indian bureau and the grazing division of the land management bureau.

Diseases Resists

Discussing the results of studies during the 1946-47 grazing season at the Woodward, Okla., agricultural experiment station, an official of the bureau of plant industry said:

"It is believed that every acre of abandoned farmland and estate crop land in the region can be made profitable by seeding it to adapted grasses."

"Every seeded pasture on the experimental range has supported more cattle and produced greater total yields of beef than the native range."

Costs of reseeding operations are not definitely determined and in any event, would vary with sections, but rough estimates place the probable cost at around $4 to $5 an acre.

Fencing May Boost Cost

Cost of temporary fencing, if necessary to protect the grass for 12 to 18 months while the grass is maturing, might raise the figure. But the agriculture department pointed out that by reseeding, abandoned cropland can be reclaimed within a little more than one grazing season. While it took 25 years for natural grass to reseed itself on cropland abandoned after the last war.

Heavy reliance is still placed on the native grasses.

They form the backbone for the reseeding program, but to the seed mixture may be added some other grasses, such as blue grama, introduced from south Africa.

A typical mixture of native grasses is blue grama, three parts grama, western wheatgrass and Texas bluegrass.

This mixture at Woodward produced nearly two and a half times as much gain per acre in weight of cattle grazed as the native range.

Idaho's Mystery Lake Full Again On Farm's Land

MOCCANNOON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Mystery lake is full again, Warren Gibbs reported today.

The lake covers an eight-acre plot of the Gibbs farm, receding each spring and filling again in the fall. During the growing season Gibbs plants crops on the lake bed. This year he leased the acreage to the Portneuf state of the Latter-Day Saints church and men of the state completed their harvest only a few weeks ago.

Only one year has Mystery lake failed to recede—that was in 1944 when the water stayed all summer and overran the McConnon-Robin road which bisects it on a built-up grade.

Gibbs said the water returned rapidly this year and the road again is in danger of flooding.

Exact cause of the water receding and returning has never been determined but it is believed a slight underground, affected by the irrigation season, is responsible.

AMERICAN POTASH INSTITUTE

Vegetables, and particularly the root crops, are heavy feeders on potash. Many of them use more of this essential plant food than nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined. Potash not only increases yield, but improves the quality of vegetables and makes them stand up better in storage and shipping. When soils cannot make enough potash available, sufficient should be added in the fertilizer.

Lady Nearly Choked—While Lying in Bed—Due to Stomach Gas

One lady said a few days ago that she used to be afraid to go to bed at night. She was swollen with stomach gas, which always got worse when she went to bed, and the gas would rise up in her throat after she lay down and would nearly choke her. She couldn't lie flat. Had to prop herself up on pillows. Recently this lady got INZER-AID and now says gas is gone, stomach feels fine, bowels are regular and she can go to bed and sleep soundly.

INZER-AID contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get INZER-AID, sold by all drug stores.—Adv.

U.S. Farm Agents for Rural Europe Could Help, Farmers' Survey Shows

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of four articles by one of the Iowa farmers who paid their own expenses, amounting to $1,500 each, for the first rural survey of Europe's needs. Clarence M. Wilson of Des Moines, director of information for the Iowa Farm Bureau, conceived and organized the trip and went along with the farmers.)

By CLARENCE M. WILSON
As told to Mary J. Parsons
DES MOINES, Ia. (UPI)—Germany could use 200 hopping good county farm agents, the kind you'll find in almost every rural American county.

Such agents would help in other places in Europe. 50 good home extension agents could do a lot of good too.

These county agents could help Europe reorganize her farms. For anything is to be saved of the peace, America must agree, and this is the only way in and save the European agricultural system.

The Iowa farmers who went to Europe for a personal look at the German situation, and what they saw the need.

Our food and agriculture officials in Germany agree with us about the county agents. But so far as I know nothing has been done about it.

If agents were sent over to help German farmers produce the food that is so vital they should be allowed to work free of the military forces.

Besides some sort of stop-gap aid to prevent western Europeans from dying of starvation and cold this winter, we all agree that there must be some kind of long-range rebuilding program.

Perhaps the county agents would fit into such a program, but there must be more than that. Trade barriers must be lowered and trade with other countries increased. Industry must be put back on its feet. Until Europe begins producing again for itself—food, raw materials such as coal and manufacture of goods—it will remain on the brink of disaster.

Some people have expressed surprise that farmers from the so-called isolationist middle-west would be interested enough with us about their problems first-hand. There is nothing surprising about it.

Farm bureaus and other farm institutions have increased the understanding of international affairs among farmers. I think our farmers are studying international questions much more than they are given credit for.

When we first conceived the idea, we expected interest to be not nearly as strong as we found. We called 10 farmers, leaders in their own communities, and put this proposition to them:

Pay their own expenses to Europe, around $1,500 each, with us to accompany them.

Be gone a month during one of the most important periods in their farm year.

Leave their wives at home. All work; no night-seeing.

When they returned, tell the folks what they saw, heard and felt.

Nine of the first 10 said yes immediately. The tenth regretted that he couldn't go just at that time. We had hoped to take 15. When break out with a multiple infection of the forehead, he said:

"Men," he said, "have been known to develop a fondness for the whole thing, felt that, by association has practically taken on the personality of its wearer."

"If he insists on wearing such a hat, he would do well to wash the band with soap and water, or have a new hat band inserted as the years go on."

The physician, Dr. Samuel Stander, associate professor of clinical surgery, New York university, said that a lot of men hate to part with their old hats—particularly those they may have worn through college.

And as a result, sometimes they

Stassen Calls For Tax Cut On High Pay

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, asserting the American economic system requires more money to take "dynamic capitalism," urged today a sharp cut in taxes and a special levy on large fortunes.

In a book entitled "Where I Stand," the announced candidate for Republican presidential nomination also suggested new programs for housing and health, three amendments to the Taft-Hartley labor act, and a dozen steps for combating communism in this country.

Explains Tax Proposals

Much of the material covering 12 chapters has been discussed previously by the former Minnesota governor. He said the three chapters on taxes, housing and health are new. His tax proposal would provide:

1. A "ceiling" tax of 50 per cent on an individual's income as compared with what he called the present "confiscatory 90 per cent."
2. A "floor" under taxes requiring all fortunes above "a certain amount" to pay taxes of all kinds equal to at least 1 1/2 per cent a year of the principal. This would amount to a capital levy three times on a fortune did not come up to 1 1/2 per cent. It is aimed at tax-exempt government bonds and what Stassen called "stagant investments" earning very little income.
3. Special reductions in rates for small businesses.
4. Some "correction" of the earned income tax.
5. General "consumers" or excise taxes if needed to balance the budget after paying $3,000,000,000 a year on the public debt.

Empty Hive, Not 'Beehive' State, Warned in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 10 (AP)—Things are grave with the bee population of the Beehive state, if things go on, it'll be the empty hive state.

In fact, things are so serious that state agricultural commissioner Clarence Tracy F. Welling, today called a meeting of bee raisers and agriculture leaders.

Welling said that the bee population has declined so much during the past several years that there is now the first appearance of an "unnatural balance" of nature.

If you'll recall those lessons about the bees, birds and flowers, you'll remember that bees are the agents which pollinate fields. And the decline of the bee population has seriously threatened the fertility of Utah's fields.

This would amount to a capital levy three times on a fortune did not come up to 1 1/2 per cent. It is aimed at tax-exempt government bonds and what Stassen called "stagant investments" earning very little income.
3. Special reductions in rates for small businesses.
4. Some "correction" of the earned income tax.
5. General "consumers" or excise taxes if needed to balance the budget after paying $3,000,000,000 a year on the public debt.
6. The entire program, assuming it became law, would then fluctuate to counteract sharp swings in the economic pendulum. When employment, for example, reached six per cent of the total labor force, there would be a special cut in taxes, easement of curbs on installment buying, and a stepped-up government building program done by private contracts and not on a WPA scale."

Empty Hive, Not 'Beehive' State, Warned in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 10 (AP)—Things are grave with the bee population of the Beehive state, if things go on, it'll be the empty hive state.

In fact, things are so serious that state agricultural commissioner Clarence Tracy F. Welling, today called a meeting of bee raisers and agriculture leaders.

Welling said that the bee population has declined so much during the past several years that there is now the first appearance of an "unnatural balance" of nature.

If you'll recall those lessons about the bees, birds and flowers, you'll remember that bees are the agents which pollinate fields. And the decline of the bee population has seriously threatened the fertility of Utah's fields.

Stassen Calls For Tax Cut On High Pay

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, asserting the American economic system requires more money to take "dynamic capitalism," urged today a sharp cut in taxes and a special levy on large fortunes.

In a book entitled "Where I Stand," the announced candidate for Republican presidential nomination also suggested new programs for housing and health, three amendments to the Taft-Hartley labor act, and a dozen steps for combating communism in this country.

Explains Tax Proposals

Much of the material covering 12 chapters has been discussed previously by the former Minnesota governor. He said the three chapters on taxes, housing and health are new. His tax proposal would provide:

1. A "ceiling" tax of 50 per cent on an individual's income as compared with what he called the present "confiscatory 90 per cent."
2. A "floor" under taxes requiring all fortunes above "a certain amount" to pay taxes of all kinds equal to at least 1 1/2 per cent a year of the principal. This would amount to a capital levy three times on a fortune did not come up to 1 1/2 per cent. It is aimed at tax-exempt government bonds and what Stassen called "stagant investments" earning very little income.
