In a breakdown of some of the larger cities in Idaho for two party business lines the rates were as follows: Boise urban, $1.45; Boise suburban, $1.15; Boise rural, $1.00; Pocatello, $1.45; Twin Falls, $1.45; and 45 other.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG POT SHOTS

WASHINGTON—The convention-explosion within the federal security administration confirms Truman's private fears that Harry S. Truman happened to be a "hot" tickler that they cannot win him at the head of their Alibeth ticket.

Alibeth ticket—Truman and John W. Studebaker, former U. S. commissioner of education, exchanged letters last week. The letter's resignation, the nation's leading educational expert actually quit the State of Idaho with his work. His deputy, Dr. E. B. Studebaker, who resigned from the State of Idaho in his letter to Dr. Studebaker.

Only a few months ago Dr. Thomas E. Dewey, an acknowledged pioneer and expert in the field of public medicine, was quietly forced out to make way for Missouri physician, Dr. Leonard A. Scheide. The next lead to roll for the same reason is that of Arthur J. Altmeyer, social security commissioner, despite the fact that he is deeply dissatisfied with conditions in his office.

BARDINE COMPLEX

Dear Gent:

The sight of people climbing out of a jeep the other day reminded me of a night in the Pacific when a bunch of fellows were returning from one of our outfitting expeditions. This jeep, carrying Altmeyer, license number 2750-C, stopped on a street in Twin Falls. It couldn't help stopping to watch as it unfolded. When all the passengers had climbed out, I counted noses. There were four boys, two men and two women. They made eight in a Jeep equipped with side curtains and top. The driver, a young man, was in the front seat. The driver in the front seat was the driver in the front seat. The driver in the front seat was the driver in the front seat.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—I have been trying to imagine what the old disappointed New Dealers would say if it were possible to declare flatly today that Tom Dewey at some past time received a secret gift of $100,000 from, say, Winthrop Aldrich, of the Chase National bank, and other gifts up to about a quarter of a million from other rich men. But I can't do it. I can't do it. I can't do it.

BOB HOPE

Today we forgot his tickling for the subject of nose tickling. The art of perfumery is coming into its own. When a big institution, like the New York University, offers its students a course in advance elements of aromatics, it's certain to be snuffed at. At least, not outside of class. This course teaches the student to show to the world. All I'd like to know is who names the scent. It's getting so the labels on the perfume counters read like chapter titles in the Kinsey reports. The university flunked one student. He was caught taking an examination with two roses and a gladiolus stuffed up his sleeve. I'm still trying to figure out how they find a final examination if the professor happens to have a cold. Personally, I go for the more masculine perfumes, like "Old Gym Shoe," "Bar Travel," and my favorite, "It's Not My Stuff in Here." But I think the whole course is pretty silly if they're trying to sell the students on perfumery as a career. Imagine anyone making a living with his nose.

ART OF POLITICKING

The life of a politician must have its bright spots, or politics would not be so attractive to men and women who have easier ways of earning livings and finding entertainment. It also has its tribulations, to which science is contributing.

When upon time politics was simple. The candidate and the parties' orators could each prepare a single speech, as a barnstorming club lecturer does, and travel all over the country repeating it from memory.

Fast, complete newspaper coverage made that simple, though friendly reporters could help by selecting one section a day to write up. The radio, however, made it impossible. With everybody listening in—the candidate hopes—he cannot go around repeating himself word-for-word.

Radio also demanded a change in elocutionary approach. No more traveling, arm waving, striding around the platform, hypnotizing the audience with gymnastics. The orator must modulate both voice and gestures to keep near the mike and not blow it out. Often, too, he must decide whether to speak for those in the hall or those on the air.

These thoughts are suggested by the GOP convention just passed, the Democratic convention coming up, the bitter campaign which Thomas Dewey will try to break Harry Truman's lease on the White House. They are suggested also by the debut at Philadelphia of big-time television.

The Republican politicians were the goats. They were victims of television's understanding and excusable uncertainty how to go about covering its first convention. They were victims also of their own ignorance that the candidate must don grease paint if he wants to look good to the boys and girls on high stools in the nation's taverns.

Modern conventions always have a carnival. As television comes in the lid will clear off. Elephants—rubber and live—are old stuff. Bunting, buttons, ties with candidates' pictures, Indians in full tribal dress are trite. That's the sort of thing that can't stand still. The best of the fashion parade, Stassen's Hawaiian ukulele singers were good enough for a start. The model who stole the Dewey show by coyly raising her skirt to display garters with pink elephants must have swayed less votes—though Stassen did lose—than did Virginia Davis, daughter of the big leader, when she raised her skirt to show the picture of her Minnesota hero high on her thigh.

If this keeps up, television ought to be fun. It can bring other pleasures, too. Former Gov. Alf Landon suggested one. Political speeches, he says, used to run for two or three hours. The demands of radio cut them down by about two-thirds. He thinks, and hopes, that television boredom will chisel off another third of their length.

When that time comes let us know. We'll start listening to some of them.

DEMOCRATIZED—The "politicians" chiefly responsible for the former party's departure of these three recognized leaders in their respective offices. Oscar R. Ewing of New York, federal security administrator, was the first to go. He was appointed last year by the president. He has spent more time in "politicking," according to PSA officials, than he has at his desk. He has done it with the assistance of his federal assistant. Incidentally, the Studebaker resignation and Altmeyer's expected departure were forecast in this space several months ago. It was the fact that the personnel of this organization has become completely demoralized.

REPUTATION—The political consequences of open revelation of disaffection and demoralization in this social welfare agency might be the "final nail in the coffin" of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, especially when piled upon all other ills and difficulties.

Dr. Studebaker was—and still are—the heroes of the vast and influential groups which believe in further federal assistance to education, much smaller interest in the field of medicine and politicians, especially when piled upon all other ills and difficulties.

One of their principal admirers was and is Mrs. Ewing. Her husband's name was brought from Albany to Washington by FDR.

It will be difficult for the proponents of federal aid to education to find enthusiasm for Mr. Truman at the convention or in the campaign. It is the clincher that will drive the Americans for Democracy and Liberalism into open repudiation of the administration.

THE DOZEN MEANT IT

Dear Post:

I accept the challenge of Eden Bacheler, although he has placed somewhat of a disadvantage on not having given a single clue as to his identity. It won't be easy to see how I could have done it. Since I am a former resident of Los Angeles, I will be pleased to spend 10 days there, I'll report July 15 to the outcome.

An Old Male

Pot Shots has done another bit of sleuthing and named the identity of an Old Male. It was just a trifling matter, but finding out about Edna Bacheler, if they want to meet, will introduce them if they're both present in our office. If they're not, I'll try to get into it by continuing their feud in private, will furnish the proper names and addresses, but the above note ends the public part of the squabble. We have spoken.

OUR BULLETIN BOARD

O. B. Fairfield—We've shown your little message to a number of people. It seems to be a good idea to figure it out. Frankly, what's it all about?

HO HUM DEPT.

In Los Angeles, Joyce Murray says that she and her husband were within 15 minutes, watched as he ran. The third time, she looked up at him, screamed and threw a jar of vanishing cream at the intruder who promptly beat a hasty retreat.—AP News item.

ROOSEVELT'S GIFT

I think I was the first to tell you about this, back in 1944, when Roosevelt was still alive. He could have answered if he had the answer, but in a case like that you also hear in fear and drive on. That is what he did. He knew the people were so nuts about him that they'd otherwise wouldn't believe it or wouldn't care. Roosevelt said he was in for $250,000, but the truth was that it was the dough of his mother, who could give Harold Hicks himself lessons in light-fidelity. He said, "I'll remember, now, that when I take first wife—the rich one who was the wife of a professor until I came along—she didn't waste any time going down there but spit a crack in the atmosphere getting to Chicago and the estate and the probate business were.

And remember that he billed her estate, of which he was the sole legatee, for prayers that the preacher said over for the hymns that he got for the flowers that he himself, the morning spouse, laid on the grave of his late beloved.

The purpose of this fine account was not stated, but the effect was to reduce the estate by that much and the taxes by a corresponding amount.

On second thought, I guess you couldn't really say Roosevelt's mother could give Ike lessons in light-fidelity. But he couldn't teach her much, either. Her or her brother, Franklin.

Roosevelt told Rasbok he was the hook for $250,000, and Rasbok said he would underwrite it all himself, and he put in the mail that very night a check for the whole amount.

After he was nominated, Roosevelt told Rasbok he shouldn't take the fall alone and gave the check back. Then the boys got up a dinner and Rasbok subscribed $50,000 on his own account and $50,000 on behalf of his children, who were politically immature and couldn't defend themselves from this kind of thing.

Willie Woodin was in on this tin-cup testimonial and dropped his donation with a muffled clank, and Barney much came in for a touch of $30,000. I have reason to believe Rasbok, who had the habit by now, shovelled down another check for $50,000.

True, Mosseslaw had his affliction.

John immediately telephoned me Mosseslaw at Warm Springs.

BUYERS' DAY COMING

Department stores and even haberdasheries are advertising bargains, and clearance sales. Television dealers in some places have attached the heart out of list prices. Scotch is on open shelves at prices no higher than increased taxes would justify. Airlines are offering reduced rate vacation trips. Railroads are flooding printers with brilliantly-colored travel literature designed to get us onto trains.

All these, and more like them, are straws in the wind. During six war and postwar years those who sell goods and services had been getting increasingly irritated with us who had the impudence to want to buy. Now—and doesn't it seem nice?—they're accepting our patronage, even pretending to welcome it.

It would be unwise to exaggerate the importance of such straws. Most items still are in short supply, led by homes and automobiles, not to mention gasoline and heating oil.

Prices, after resting a bit, have got a sixth or seventh wind and started climbing again. Preliminary figures from the National Industrial Conference board show that construction contracts passed their previous peak in May, reached in January. The cost of food is up twice as much as the overall consumer price index.

Obviously the improved attitude on the part of sellers does not reflect a glut of goods on the shelves.

Clerks take their tone from bosses, if one were guessing why bosses and their clerks are getting friendlier to us customers, maybe it is because they have begun looking into a future that is getting closer.

It's mostly sellers' market. But buyers aren't quite so desperate for goods as they were. The smart merchant—of goods or services—never did deliberately insult his customers, though many did get careless. Some, less smart, let themselves get very independent and nasty.

Those whose eyes are open now are trying to rebuild good will against the day, sure to come if slow, when the customer again will be king. If you want to know which businessman will be haunting employment offices everywhere seeking jobs, here's a list of those who've been getting a little better than they wouldn't bother them by asking for something to buy.

LEND-LEASE

You probably know that borrow pits along roads become pits when dirt is pushed up to make a roadbed. But why is building material "borrowed" from the pits when there's no intention of returning it?

Did the theory of international borrowing originate in this road-building procedure?

Wise Bird

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

BENEFITS—Incidentally, speculative Republicans conjecture that Governor Warren, as an "assistant benefiter," may be able to change the political map for the Democrats.

With his great interest and sympathy in the peculiar problems of mountain, far west and the northwest territories, it is not surprising that he may obtain for them almost as many benefits as FDR with his dams, power, expansion and reclamation projects.

Governor Warren believes in generous federal aid in this field because of the great contribution which the West and the mountainous nature of this area can make to the national economy.

So much so that private utility interests are hoping he will have the most influence at the White House, assuming that the Republicans control it for the next four or eight years.

It is his power and talents to make it safe for the GOP as the solid south used to be for the Democrats.

THE FEDERAL PAYROLL

And the federal government grows bigger every day. Since last Jan. 1, the number of civilian employees on the federal payroll has increased at an average daily rate of 469—through April 25, 250 new employees.

Reversing the previous postwar trend, the number of federal employees increased by 2,540 in January—a rate of 204 a day. Apparently under an expanding rate of spending, the payroll grew at an expanding rate of 416 employees for every February, 451 a day in March, and 522 a day in April.

This new trend was revealed by the most recent report of the Senate subcommittee on non-essential federal expenditures.

By April of this year, the federal government had more than 2,500,000 civilian employees—that is, one for every 24 Americans. The number of federal employees in the United States when the payrolls of state and local governments are added to the federal total, there is one government worker for every 10 adult Americans.

The all-time peak of federal employment was reached in August, 1945, when there were more than 3,000,000 federal employees. Then, with the armistice in Tokyo bay, federal employment showed a rapid decline. Last December, the total was 2,540,000. The number of federal employees in 1941. But even the "low" December total of 1,994,000 was more than twice as large as the number of federal employees in 1929 and close to four times as large as the total in 1922.

OR, CLARE!

Clare Booth Luce, with her happy way of saying the unhappy things, tried to make a point by going back to her own days. She said she used to be a "dumb" concerning the people—"Too dumb to understand."

The new records show that Harry Hopkins on some occasions was a "dumb" about the situation of it. But he wasn't the first—he wasn't the originator.

The originator was none other than a Republican vice president candidate, "Charles Curtis, the running mate of Herbert Hoover in 1928.

In a speech at Spencer, Ia., Curtis, nettled by a heckler, said that the "dumb" was a "dumb" under-stand." The Iowa farmers put these words in a newspaper and made them a medicine for the Democrats all over the country.

Such contempt for the people does not inspire confidence and win votes for any party.—Milwaukee Journal.

Soviet Losing Gains in Most Globe Regions

WASHINGTON, July 6.—For the first time since the end of World War II, communists today appear to be losing ground in western Europe, Scandinavia, the western Hemisphere, the middle east, and Africa.

But it is beginning to show clear signs of renewed activity in Asia. And despite the current Tito-communism dispute, the situation is essentially unchanged in eastern Europe.

Result of Survey
These are the important conclusions drawn from a United Press survey of present and potential strength of communists throughout the world as viewed by government departments and intelligence agencies.

No responsible government official will say the east-west struggle has been won by the non-communist powers. But the first signs of optimism are developing.

Still a Menace
It is admitted that many social, economic and political factors favorable to the western powers outside Asia might change abruptly to give communists new life. In many areas where it is on the downgrade, communism is still a menace.

The current dispute between Yugoslavia and the communists, the unsuccessful Soviet efforts to drive the three big western powers out of Berlin, defeat of the communists in the Italian and Finnish elections, improved crop conditions throughout the world, and the new communist bi-partisan foreign policy are listed as important factors in the gains against communists.

Asia Drive Accelerated
The contention is that communist activities in nearly all parts of Asia is being stepped-up in direct proportion to apparent loss of strength elsewhere.

The poor economic and social conditions of the Asiatic millions make the area a natural breeding ground for communist propaganda. The communists are working overtime to spread the best of their activities that United States attention has been focused on Europe to the extent that it is "forgetting" Asia.

First Entry for Horse Show

Grand Stonewall, shown above with his owner, J. Frank Henry, Kimberley, is the first horse to be entered in the fifth annual Magic Valley horse show to be held at Frontier field, Twin Falls, Idaho, July 29, 30 and 31. A registered five-gaited American saddle, Grand Stonewall is scheduled to compete in the five gaited open, line harness, combination open, line harness stake, combination open to side and drive and five gaited stake events. (Staff engraving)

Preparations Made for Fifth Annual Horse Show July 29-31

Entries are rolling in for the fifth annual Magic Valley horse show to be staged at Frontier field in Twin Falls on July 29, 30, and 31. The secretary of the show, J. E. White, expects at least five states, including California, to be represented. A prize and trophy list totaling $6,000 will attract some of the finest horses in the intermountain west.

The Frontier Riding club, sponsor of the show, has been preparing for the 1948 event. Realizing that the show this year probably would attract more exhibitors than completed here in 1947, the club has constructed 40 new box stalls. Last year the club had only 16 such stalls.

Anticipating a record class in the Western stock horse event, the club has built an additional 40 stalls to house these animals. Spectators have not been overlooked either. Visitors to the show this year will find a complete new section of grandstands that will provide adequate reserved seating. In addition, there are hundreds of unreserved seats, all providing a good vantage point for the show.

At least four, and perhaps five, new classes will be added to the show this year providing at least 40 events during the three nights. Twin Falls business firms are sponsoring the various classes. C. R. Nelson, general chairman of the show, said rivalry will be keen this year among the exhibitors, chiefly because some of the greatest horses in the entire west will be on parade.

Signs Indicate Restoration of Business Faith

NEW YORK, July 7.—Signs of exciting business confidence looking toward booming fall days are appearing in the financial and industrial statistics.

Bank loans are increasing. Inventories in many lines are increasing. A sharp reversal from earlier in the year. Credit ratings, time-honored business index, are expected to go all above last year's figures. The construction industry is operating at an all-time high.

Loan-Demand Gains
The June 30 statements of the country indicate the demand for bank loans is picking up. Many banks are carrying more loans now than at the end of March or at this time last year.

Two reasons are seen by observers. One is that wage and price increases make it more costly to run a business. The other is that business volume is being increased, particularly at the production level, by the European recovery program and by larger military orders or the expectation of them. Business men need more credit to finance the wheel spinning. They borrow to prepare for bigger business, more profits.

The cautious increase in size of inventories recently is not due to fear of further inflation, according to the business survey committee of the National Association of Purchasing Agents. This group says the greater willingness of industrial purchasing agents to increase inventories reflects confidence in the business outlook.

"A policy of extreme caution prevails," however, the group says, and there is no reason to fear "the recent favorable labor and political developments may create a secondary boom and cause rash buying."

Travel Good for U. S. Citizens, Henry Says—It Teaches Them

By HENRY McLEMORE
When I was a little fellow and just beginning to travel—usually somewhere in Georgia to visit relatives I had been wished upon—Mama always begged me before leaving me in the day-coach of the wood-burner train.

She would plump me down on the green plush seat, warn me not to stick my head out of the window, give the porter a quarter to watch out for me, and then pin a tag on my shirt.

"I promise let this boy off at Stateboro, Georgia," a typical tag read.

"Well, Mama had better get to New York quick and start making out tags. Ties that read like this: 'Let this boy off at Shantown.' 'Let this boy off at Dublin.' 'Let this boy off at London.' 'Let this boy off at Istanbul.' 'Let this boy off at Damascus.' 'Let this boy off at Karachi.' 'Let this boy off at New Delhi.'"

Mama'll be tired of writing tags by now, but she'll have to keep going.

She'll have to make sure she gets off at Calcutta, Bangkok, Manila, Hongkong, Shanghai, Tokyo, Honolulu and San Francisco.

Because Jean and I are going around the world by Pan-American Clipper.

Asked why we are going around the world, we have never been able to hit on a completely satisfactory answer. I reckon the real truth is that we both like to go places—besides, the newest dog track in Florida has just opened in my home town for a summer meeting, and after a week of constant attendance I realized that a trip around the world would be a thrifty measure.

Four leading daily dailies and two leading dailies, and we can be in Bangkok with the elephants, ahead of the game.

Too, Jean and I are hearty admirers of longitude and latitude. She's crazy about longitude and I, like many husbands, am crazy about latitude. If you stay at home all the time you only get to know your own L. and L. On this trip we should quality as experts on Latty and Longy, as we call them for short.

Further, if you stay close to home you never see anything but nice time—standard time, daylight saving time, Rocky mountain time, central time, and Pacific coast time. These are all times that are pulled up their heels, curly, and give you a nickel for a cup of coffee.

But if you travel— if you go around the world—you meet Greenwich mean time. Here's a snarling, hissing, biting, clawing time. It updates your watch. It is not called "mean time" for nothing. It will sneak up on you if you don't watch out.

Further, and furthermore, it is good for a resident of the United States to travel around the world. It stays home he takes too many things for granted. He accepts, with no special appreciation, what this country offers and means to him. It is good for an American to get out and see how the rest of the world lives.

He is bound to come back thanking God for the right to carry his green passport signed by Marshall, and thanking God that there is a flag that is red and white and blue—and that it belongs to him.

2,500,000-Car Output Looms In Rest of '48

By DAVID J. WILKIE
DETROIT, July 7 (AP)—The car industry expects to build 2,500,000 more cars and trucks in the six months ahead.

The program is not only a hope but should be realized barring no major supply problems. The "big three" companies of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, or several of the smaller concerns.

The industry came through the year's first six months with a surplus of more than 2,500,000 vehicles. It achieved this volume despite a 17-day shutdown of Chrysler plants, stoppage in all GM plants of two weeks or more and the halting of Ford operations for model changes.

No Stoppages Expected
The car manufacturers, of course, do not expect any more serious stoppages, although an increased production tempo probably would make it difficult to supply some of the "big three" companies of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, or several of the smaller concerns.

Auto makers' worries. But these women have never since the end of the war and production has been mounting steadily. Last year the factories turned out approximately 4,000,000 cars and trucks and they appear certain to reach 5,000,000 this year.

Yet the backlog of unfilled orders still is higher than at any time since the first year of the war. The most commonly used in specifying the total of unfilled car orders is a national figure of 1,000,000. But higher, the factories are far behind their demand and the dealers generally have more orders on their books than they can fill for many months.

Latest word regarding new models is that the new 1949 Nash line will appear some time in October. The Nash plants probably will close late in August for the changeover. But guesses are that the switch will take from three to four weeks.

One or two of the General Motors divisions probably will be in 1949 model work by October.

Kaiser-Frazer also is doing some new model preliminary work. It is understood to be planning a new hard-top convertible, for presentation later this year.

Paper work on a virtually all the 1949 models was completed long ago. In many instances the tools and dies are nearing readiness. The scheduled production of current models, however, is yet to be attained.
