

Record Program For Reclamation Unveiled by U.S.

GRAND LAKE, Colo., July 16 (AP)—Reclamation Commissioner Michael W. Strauss announced today a $250,000,000 all-time record construction program for expanding western irrigation and hydro-electric power resources during the next 12 months.

The scheduler outlined at a meeting of reclamation bureau officials from Washington and 17 western states "are pointed out" irrigating an additional 128,000 acres and producing 260,000 more kilowatts of power during the fiscal year, Strauss said.

Boosts in Pay Granted Steel, Ford Workers

From AP and UP Reports Wage increases were announced today by the United States Steel corporation and the Ford Motor Co.

The steel increase will be followed by a boost in the price of the company's products, President Benjamin A. Fawcett announced.

The 116,000 Ford production employees will receive a 2 percent wage increase and other benefits equivalent to about 21 cents a week.

Two Courses Are Open for Blockade End

BERLIN, July 16 (AP)—Only two courses of action have any hope of ending the blockade which is strangling this city and bringing Europe closer to war than at any time in its history.

The first is the use of western military forces to crash the blockade and make it too costly for the Soviet Union to continue its Berlin policy.

This is the common belief of the American and British officials who have seen the Russian action at first hand for three years. They believe "Here the Soviet Union, with its allies are bringing supplies to blockade Berlin."

Plans will operate from Russian airfields at Koeborn, Hamburg and Randenburg west and southwest of Berlin from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. U.S. military officers said.

The Russians have been pointing guns 100 miles regularly at the American and British air forces stepped up their air lift.

The American and British officers described the increasing Russian air activity in the corridors as "a direct threat to the lives of the people in Berlin."

Brush Destroyed In 100-Acre Fire Near Rock Creek

BURLEY, July 16—One hundred acres of grass and brush were destroyed in a fire which broke out near Rock Creek and Arden, Idaho, which started at 11 a. m. Thursday.

The blaze was extinguished by 9 p. m. and several hundred gallons of water tank trucks were used by the firemen.

Violating Ethics?

BERT H. MILLER, Justice of the Idaho supreme court drew fire of Idaho State Bar association today for "violating professional ethics" in filing his candidacy for U. S. senator on the Democratic ticket.

Attorney Unit Assails Judge On Candidacy

SUN VALLEY, July 16 (AP)—E. D. Smith, Boise, president of the Idaho State Bar association, today assailed Justice Bert H. Miller for violating professional ethics by remaining on the bench after becoming a political candidate.

Miller filed last Saturday for the Democratic nomination as U. S. senator. Before being elected to the supreme court he had served four terms as a justice of the Idaho supreme court.

Injunction Issued for Unity Rift

GOODING, July 16—Four Gooding county school districts will continue to operate as separate units as result of an intercounty injunction issued by District Judge D. H. Sutphen here Thursday.

The injunction, agreed upon by attorneys for the state and parties protesting a school reorganization election, will enable the schools to operate pending further litigation.

Bliss, Tuttle, and Gooding and Clover creek voters were overwhelmingly in favor of the merger, but the voters of Bliss and Tuttle expressed their opposition to the proposal just as strongly.

Parrell Christopherson and Martin K. Blum, trustees of the Bliss school district, requested the injunction on the grounds that the state reorganization law is unconstitutional.

The state law provides that under the school reorganization plan, all districts must be merged into one district if a majority of the voters.

The matter of permission for your district to bond for the amount of $300,000 was considered by the state committee at the meeting held in Boise, Idaho.

Boards Okay Plan to Build Gooding Unit

GOODING, July 16—Thirty state and county school boards have approved plans for Gooding independent school district No. 21, A to hold bond election to raise $300,000 to build a new grade school at Gooding.

The state law provides that under the school reorganization plan, all districts must be merged into one district if a majority of the voters.

Chamber Head Arabs, Jews Bow To U.N. Demand

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—The United Nations security council today won Arab and Jewish acceptance of its demand for an immediate cease-fire in Jerusalem, and a threat of economic and even military sanctions, the Trans-Jordan government announced from Amman that orders had been given for a cease-fire in the holy city at 2 a. m. Jerusalem time (5 p. m. MST) tonight.

The government of the Jewish state of Israel earlier had announced its acceptance not only of the security council demand for an immediate cease-fire in Jerusalem, but also of the demand for a cease-fire for all of Palestine by 9:30 a. m. Sunday.

The political committee of the Arab league was meeting in secret session at Aqra, a Lebanese hill village, and had not yet given its answer to the security council's order for an all-Palestine truce.

But acceptance of the Jerusalem cease-fire demand by Trans-Jordan, Iraq, Syria, Saudi Arabia, and the Arab League fighting force in Palestine, indicated probable agreement by an all-Palestine truce.

It was believed certain they would not dare the threat of economic sanctions and even military force leveled against them by the council.

The Jerusalem cease-fire order allowed the Arab offensive to continue, but the offensive almost everywhere.

Angry Rebels Proceed With Slate Drafting

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 16 (AP)—Angry southern Democrats went to work today with plans to put their own ticket in the November election, but one of their leaders said frankly they have no chance of winning.

Other Democrats, however, were so optimistic. They counted on a solid southern bloc of 127 electoral votes and a Dixie candidate for President.

A conference of "states' rights" Democrats in Birmingham today nominated candidates for President and vice president in opposition to the Truman ticket.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

PHILADELPHIA—The 484 question as a result of the Philadelphia convention of the Democratic Party, which will be held in Philadelphia on November 10, is what individuals or factions will pick up the pieces and own the party for an extended period.

Despite all the epithets which have been written about the Truman-Roosevelt party, its supporters are still in a tight, sticky, hot, and sticky position.

They anticipate a Dewey-Warren victory. They believe that the Republican administration will run into a depression either before or after the election. They believe that the Dewey-Warren slate is rejected, between 1952 and 1957.

Of the economic slump, the Democrats think they will split both congress and the White House. But the main question is the party and the political deal which prepares to return home to who will control the wreckage and rebuild the ship of state for a 1952 election.

It is impossible to answer that question now, but here is the nub of all Philadelphia speculation on the subject.

MAZUMA—After Al Smith's disastrous defeat in 1928, when he fought Charles McNamara, as he did not expect November, John J. Raskob financed the party.

He diverted the late Charles Mitchell's salary for four years and that journalistic genius ruled Herbert Hoover. With the 1929 depression "Charley" Raskob was the man who had the money to invest good money to rebuild a Democratic machine which, under both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, have given them, as they look at it, a "dirty deal."

Moreover, they are so sure at the northern, electric, and steel industries, that they will invest good money to rebuild a Democratic machine which, under both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, have given them, as they look at it, a "dirty deal."

FUNDS—The two cabinet members loyal to President Truman, Arthur Hays Sulzberger, as he did not expect November, John J. Raskob financed the party.

He diverted the late Charles Mitchell's salary for four years and that journalistic genius ruled Herbert Hoover. With the 1929 depression "Charley" Raskob was the man who had the money to invest good money to rebuild a Democratic machine which, under both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, have given them, as they look at it, a "dirty deal."

Moreover, they are so sure at the northern, electric, and steel industries, that they will invest good money to rebuild a Democratic machine which, under both Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, have given them, as they look at it, a "dirty deal."

DISTURBED—Foreign newspaper correspondents, particularly British and French writers, are deeply disturbed by the conduct of the Truman administration. They feel that they are being misled as a result of political talks with American colleagues more experienced than they are.

They are not worried over a Dewey-Warren victory, for they are quite satisfied with the Republican candidate's statement on international problems, and with the GOP platform.

But they are concerned over what may happen in the event of a possible election in November, and next November and a Republican takeover in January of 1949.

SAVES—In view of European recovery and unusually fine crops of grain here and abroad, there is a feeling that the Truman administration will sharply reduce Marshall plan money advances during the summer or after the presidential campaign next November.

He would then make the claim, or so many political suspects, that his European rehabilitation program is a success. He would then make the claim, or so many political suspects, that his European rehabilitation program is a success.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS—"Our horse number starts with an even digit and ends with an odd digit, so we water the lawn every day."

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

EXAMPLE FOR CAMPAIGN

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has taken credit, without too much dispute, for inaugurating a bipartisan foreign policy during the 1944 presidential campaign. But if Mr. Dewey's claim is admitted, an equal amount of credit must go to Gen. George C. Marshall, then army chief of staff.

As General Marshall who asked Governor Dewey to cancel a projected speech in which the Republican nominee was about to disclose that his opponent's government had cracked the Japanese code before Pearl Harbor, Mr. Dewey complied with the chief of staff's request when it was made clear to him that the Japanese were still using the same code and that our military intelligence was receiving valuable information on enemy movements from it.

Now General Marshall, as secretary of state, has once again made a proposal to halt politics at the water's edge. And again Governor Dewey is co-operating. The secretary has invited John Foster Dulles, who might lead the state department if Mr. Dewey is elected, to join the American delegation at a general assembly meeting in Paris in September, and to meet with Mr. Marshall to discuss that assignment beforehand.

In 1944 our foreign policy was chiefly concerned, of course, with the defeat of two enemy powers in world conflict, and with the integration of our work with those of our allies to achieve that end. Military security and the nation's undivided prosecution of the war were paramount. And though the 1944 campaign was as bitter as most campaigns are, it proceeded without seriously impeding our progress toward victory.

This year the United States is not expending its blood and treasure to preserve its national existence. The nation is at peace, but the peace is an uneasy one. We are again fighting against a threat to freedom by a threatened loss of freedom. Our arms and our national policy are diplomatic, not military.

For this reason it is more difficult to preserve a bipartisan foreign policy in 1948 than it was in 1944. No responsible person in politics four years ago would have denied that this country was committed to fight through to victory, or would have suggested that it set short of that goal.

But today there are those—conservative Republicans and radical former Democrats—who would have us abandon free nations to a threatened loss of freedom. Our bipartisan government is committed to aid those nations that are still free, there are those who would have us renege on the commitment by sinuous and cynical dodges. It is encouraging to see that Mr. Marshall, as the President's chief aide in foreign affairs, and Mr. Dulles, as Governor Dewey's chief adviser in the same field, are to work together at a level above the coming months' political turmoil.

It is as important now as it was four years ago that our basic foreign policy should not be torn apart by domestic politics. For today this nation and every other nation are like families living in an apartment house with thin walls. Our domestic squabbles intrude upon our relations. And if they become too violent they seriously affect our prestige and the whole pattern of the world community's behavior. Russia's family troubles are recent and convincing proof of that.

Let us hope that the example set by Secretary Marshall and Mr. Dulles may serve as a bipartisan pattern between now and November. Few holds will be barred in the major parties' quest for domestic victory. But for the sake of peace and our own power and dignity, let us hope that all concerned will confine the fight to limits that will not afford comfort to our enemies or cost us the faith and support of our friends.

BY ANY OTHER NAME

A Russian woman writer thinks that several descents by any other name would taste much better than the fact that Russians still call such tidbits as cigars, tin-babies, glasses, etc., by their foreign names.

That's not the worst blow to your nationalistic pride either, sister. In the Imperialist United States, the fanciest and most admired Russian delicacy is called by a French name which derives from an Italian. And its origin is derived from Turkish, Cavalr, that is.

TEMPERANCE TAX

Bar-tenders in several states have started a movement called the Sons of the Whisky Rebellion. Their stated purpose is to promote moderation and reduce the present tax on spirits.

Somehow we can't think of a greater spur to moderation than that very tax, which accounts for something like 75 per cent of the sky-high price that the purchaser of alcoholic beverages pays.

A 22-month-old baby appeared in an English court with a pipe in its mouth. The story didn't say, but it was probably there for a divorce.

SCIENCE MARCHES ON

Now we see how close we are to stop headaches by cutting off the imagination. The new operation severs one or both frontal lobes, sections of the brain which are supposed to be the seat of imagination. It is supposed to be a white, painless panacea for everyone with a throbbing pain. It is supposed to be a white, painless panacea for everyone with a throbbing pain.

IT ISN'T NICE TO HANDLE GARBAGE

No—it isn't pleasant gathering up food waste in an ordinary sink! Of course, you have your spatula, colander and other tools to help you—but after all, there's only one effective way to pick it up—and that's with your hands!

After a meal, it's unpleasant to scrape dishes and empty the food waste into a paper bag—or into an under-the-sink container. Wrapping garbage and carrying it to the outside container is a repulsive task. So is the job of cleaning the containers after the collector has emptied them.

No! It ISN'T nice to handle garbage.

IT ISN'T NECESSARY ANY LONGER!

The General Electric Disposal, installed in your kitchen sink, removes food waste before it becomes garbage. As you prepare a meal, simply drop the peelings, pits, bones, and similar food wastes into the drain opening of the sink. When you're ready, simply put the Twistop in the opening, give it a single twist to the left, turn on the cold water, and you're through.

FOOD WASTES ARE GONE BEFORE THEY BECOME GARBAGE

The Disposal fits any sink with a 3 1/2 to 4 inch drain opening. Usable with sewer or septic tank. Easy to transfer to your new home if you move.

A Hollywood shirt maker now reveals that some stars even wear padding in their shirts to give them that masculine chest. I was really shocked by that disclosure. In fact, I was so shocked that was the last time I gave that my business.

But I really feel that I should not be doing in my shirts because I've got it all through at all times... no matter how badly I need a hair cut.

But I'm not going to know those glamour boys because they're good. In fact I know of one actor who is so generous he gave me the quilt off his back. Of course Sinatra has everything padded. HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

PHILADELPHIA—The Hart-Karl coalition of the Democratic party proceeded in an atmosphere of ostentatious ceremony with the priests and cardinals and the obligatory all-bowing in lavish etiquette, impatient for the final rite.

The strategy telegraphed from here describing the fatal gala in purple hues of spiritual depression are unimpaired and defying the state police to impose his religious freedom.

Hague turned back the resident Truman in a heavy that made Jim Farley blink his eyes and murmur piously. But Hague was enjoying the long fill and pump and shakedown which he placed in the hand of an unsuspecting of the press conference, a German Iron cross, requesting him to hand it to O'Donnell.

So was hated Roosevelt and his memory with a glorious and ever-mounting fervor and when he was quoted to see the whole matter, this one man's joy was enough to redeem the week, if that was needed.

The rebels from the deep south yipped and shook rattled showers from their brows and locks as they damned Mr. Truman's civil rights program. But all they could do by way of protest was to denigrate the sacred rights of the several states and the aloofness of the southern whites, as they null down Mr. Truman's defeat in November.

That meant, of course, the election of the Dewey-Dewey duo, who had lost to O'Donnell over justice and again he placed in the hand of an unsuspecting of the press conference, a German Iron cross, requesting him to hand it to O'Donnell.

Mystery Surrounds Story of Jim, Great Dane in Kimberly

KIMBERLY, July 16—Proving that animals' instincts is stronger than man's will is the story of "Jim," the Great Dane dog that showed up "from nowhere" in Kimberly.

Jim was found by Dennis Smith, jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Smith, sr. in what was described as an "all skin and bone" condition. His eyes were bloody and the animal showed signs of having walked a great distance.

Since the dog carried a Twin Falls Herald, the Smith's contacted Twin Falls Dog Catcher Bill Dye. Dye started an investigation into the case and came up with several bits of information.

1. The dog was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Heavside, formerly of 2715 Seventh avenue north, Twin Falls.

2. Mr. and Mrs. Heavside moved to Florida several months ago and took the dog with them.

870,000 Bags Forecast for '48 Pea Crop

BOISE, July 16 (AP)—The 1948 Idaho production of dry peas has been forecast at 870,000 100-pound bags by the bureau of agricultural economics of the U. S. department of agriculture.

The bureau said the 1947 crop was 1,200,000 bags. The forecast means the crop this year would be the smallest since 1940, the report said.

The forecast was made because of reduced acreage and of relatively low yield prospects up to July 1. Acreage this year was indicated to be 57,000 acres.

The acreage was reduced in southern Idaho where the crop is grown almost entirely for feed, and in the north where continued rains and wet soils delayed planting, the bureau said.

The yield per acre this year was indicated at 1,000 pounds. The yield per acre in 1947 was 1,250 pounds and averaged 1,218 pounds during the period from 1937 to 1946.

Henry Finds Ireland Is Land Of Fascination In Many Ways

By HENRY McLEMORE. DUBLIN, Ireland—Notes scribbled on the back of a checkbook: "That claret (claret) claret you hear from Dublin these days comes from the city of the great workmen knocking down the statue of Queen Victoria in front of Leinster House."

They love to bet on each other. Even the youngsters make the block, and when an Irishman goes to a track he wants race. He doesn't care for the horse, but he likes to see the stands, and all the phony race-gangs which are part and parcel of the betting game.

The two best eating places in Ireland are both in Dublin. One is James' restaurant at the foot of Grattan street, and the other is the dining room of the Russell hotel. There is no better food in the world, and if you like seafood there is none in the world to equal it.

Russ Refusal 'Expected' on Berlin Curbs

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr. AT PARIS, July 16—The refusal of Russia to accept demands for removal of the Berlin blockade was about as expected and the next move will be to begin to cut off the United Nations, should not take long.

The question, of course, will be "on what terms?" If they demand to supervise distribution they would only be doing what we would do in similar circumstances. But with one Russian there is no such thing as an objective observer confined to the duties of the observer.

Replying to Russian notes that they plan to parachute jumping in one of the zones, General Clay comments that they have the right, "but it will be pretty bad if our planes can't do it."

ALL-Responsible Russia's strong position today is due to allied—mostly American—misconceptions of Moscow policy at the close of the war. Many Americans opposed location of the allied control center in Berlin at the staff.

WASHINGTON, July 16—Farm laborers are earning more than three times as much now as they did in the pre-war period. The agriculture department reported today that daily wage rates without overtime pay with bonus averaged $100 on July 1, the first time it has risen above $100.

Gent Amused By People at Demo Parley

By HAL BOYLE
PHILADELPHIA, July 16 (AP)—"People!" Tony said. "I think people don't make sense."
Tied just when the Democratic convention finish up after three days of heat and speeches and people rushing out to the Convention hall and back to their hotels again.
The delegates were everywhere. In the lobbies, on the sidewalks, in the streets. But it was in the convention hall that they really suffered.
It was an aching hot there, through the haze of blinding floodlights and cigarette smoke, they seemed to be hopping around like people in a hot water bottle up to their necks.
Tony actually didn't get to the convention hall. He was just working in an office and the convention came to town, and he looked at it from the office window mostly. He sat in the window wherever he could, looking at the delegates on story below as they rushed up and down the sidewalks on their way to some place.
And all the time he laughed. "I never saw anything like this," he said. "Look. The people are all in a hurry. They keep running around and around like they were caught in the revolving doors in Wannamaker's on Christmas eve."
He couldn't get used to it, any of it.
"People don't make sense," he said.

Tragic Death Of Pershing's Family Retold

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16 (AP)—The death of Gen. A. W. Pershing recalled the tragic fire that took the lives of his wife and three daughters at the San Francisco Presidio Aug. 28, 1915.
The only member of the family to be saved from the fire was Walter Pershing, the general's son. He was 5 years old at the time. Pershing himself was a brigadier general on duty at the Mexican border.
The fire broke out at 4:30 a. m., apparently when live coals from an unextinguished fireplace spattered out on a hardwood floor. The wooden house was burned immediately into a roaring furnace.
All upstairs.
Updates were Mrs. Pershing, 36, the daughter of the late Sen. Francis W. Warren, Mary Margaret, 3, Anna, 7, Helen 9, and Warren, Mrs. Pershing apparently ran into the room where the youngest child slept and brought her into the room with the other two girls. Then, overcome by smoke, she fell to the floor.
The mother and her three children were found under a mattress where they had sought protection from the flames after finding the doorway on fire. Death was due to suffocation.
Boy Carried Out
The boy was carried to safety by W. J. Johnson, a seven-year-old other person in the house at the time, who were house guests, also were saved.
The Pershings were buried in Lakewood, a pine-shaded cemetery on the outskirts of Cheyenne, Wyo. Friends of the general said it was a personal tragedy from which he never recovered. They said it was responsible for his crisp, cold manner.

YAKIMA, Wash., July 16 (AP)—A 1,700-pound white-faced Hereford bull saw to it personally today that he will be a equine at the 1948 central Washington fair.

King and Miller finally maneuvered the animal outside where King assured both that the Hereford will be an entry in the beef stock division at the fair this fall.

Hearing Set for Midvale Rancher

WEISER, July 16 (AP)—B. V. Newman, 60, Midvale rancher, will have a preliminary hearing Saturday in the shooting-death of W. E. Wiggins, 36, a neighboring stockman.
The date for the hearing was set by Washington county Probate Judge O. E. Hooley.
Newman has been charged with first degree murder in connection with the shooting.
Wiggins was shot July 8 at his ranch about three miles from Midvale. He was shot in the head and died while being rushed to a hospital.
Newman, who is being held in Washington county jail, told county Sheriff Al Walters the same day he shot Wiggins and that he believed he probably hurt him, the sheriff declared.
Prosecuting Attorney Frank Joseph is representing the state and George Donast of Weiser is counsel for Newman.

Corrigan Still Claims Flight Was "Error"

LOS ANGELES, July 15 (AP)—A decade after his famous "wrong way" flight, Douglas Corrigan still claims with a chuckle that a compass error sent his tiny plane to Ireland instead of California.

On July 17, 1931, the former aircraft welder took off from Floyd Bennett field in New York, bound for Long Beach, Calif. Twenty-three hours and 13 minutes later, he landed his engine-stalling plane in Dublin, Ireland, grinning that a blunder in directions had sent him the wrong way. He had been refused permission for a trans-Atlantic flight because his aircraft was over-weight.

"I do go to sleep," Corrigan said in an interview. "That is, if I am compassed on a wrong again."

Life quitted down for Corrigan since he returned from Ireland. He lives with his wife, Elizabeth, and their sons, Douglas and Harry, in a small bungalow in the suburb of Los Angeles. He looks young for his 40 years and still talks enthusiastically of his flight.

"My plane is in storage now," he said. "I had to remove the engine and store it in compliance with a wartime ruling. It will stay there until I have a chance to rebuild a home large enough to keep it."

Tried Many Things

In the 10 years since his "wrong way" jaunt, Doug has tried many things, but always returns to aviation. His latest job was a six-week stint as a commercial pilot in Alaska.

It was different during the flau days after his triumphant return to America. He was the toast of the country then and was bombarded with offers for public appearances, endorsements and radio broadcasts.

"I didn't buy a dinner for months," he recalls. "I toured 30 cities in 90 days. I was invited to a speech and a banquet at every stop. I wanted to show people that I was really a pilot, not a balling wire. Later, the ship and I went on display at the world fair in San Francisco. Of the thousands I talked to, I think only about 10 and a half people really believed I made the flight by mistake."

Wrote Book

Doug wrote a book about his experiences, "The Flying Irishman," then spent two years touring the U.S. with his wife.

During the war he joined the army ferry command and for a year directed combat ships from factory to airfield. From 1943 until 3-3 day he worked the links out of new bombers as test pilot.

Since the peace, the Galveston, Tex., pilot has split his time between flying jets and political activity. In 1946 he ran for the U.S. senate in California as prohibition candidate. He neither smoked, drank, nor swore.

Defeated Soundly

He personally passed out 25,000 ballots during his campaign but was defeated soundly. In 1947, he lost as a candidate for the Los Angeles city council.

"But I haven't given up politics," he says. "I'm going to try again some day."

Corrigan is out of work at the present time, and looking for a job. "I'm not worried," he says. "Something always turns up just when you don't expect it."

Truman Troubles Began Here

After becoming FDR's running-mate in 1944, Truman was hurtled into the presidency—and a hot seat—by the death of FDR. His troubles began the hour he was sworn in (above) by Chief Justice Stone on April 13, 1945, in the White House cabinet room a few hours after FDR's death.

Truman Record as President One of Dogged Determination

Official notes: This is the first of three dispatches on the record of Harry Truman, who writes for the first of his Washington bureau work. The dispatches will be moved into the main column.

By PETER EDSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

President Harry S. Truman must run for reelection largely on the record of his administration since April 12, 1945, when he was sworn in to succeed the dead Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

This record may not be the thing that Candidate Truman will talk about most in his campaign. He would much rather talk about what the Republican congress has failed to do in the past two years.

But it is his own record that should count most.

The days after Mr. Truman took the oath, he went to the senate for lunch. Later he went to the house for lunch. He then returned to the White House office to offer him his superiors. Then he saw Sen. Thomas F. Dewey in New York sent him a letter pledging "full support in every session you take in the interest of winning the war and establishing a sound and permanent peace."

And 1, Truman cut back the budget $400,000,000. This he did great.

This honeymoon lasted less than three weeks. On May 3 his troubles began. He had to refer out matters to an ad strike, the Russians charged the U. S. was violating the Yalta pact on restoration of displaced persons, and Sen. Robert A. Taft took a crack at the state department for propagandizing in favor of Roosevelt policies.

Thus, before the Truman family moved into the White House on May 3, 1945, the President's troubles began. That was the day the Russians liquidated 10 Polish leaders and began uninterrupted trouble-making.

At home, Mr. Truman still tried to put on the harmony act. He approved a treasury plan to cut expenditures by $100,000,000. This was done, though everyone has forgotten about that now. He called in Herbert Hoover and Al Landon to talk things over. Dewey also was invited but didn't come.

May brought VE day, June the signing of the White House at San Francisco, July Potsdam, August the A-bombs which Mr. Truman as commander-in-chief approved dropping. Then VJ day.

In September congress was called back in special session to consider postwar reconstruction policies. Mr. Truman delivered a 21-point message in which he outlined his domestic policy that he has stood for, more or less unchanged, ever since.

The amateur talk about President Truman's domestic program is and almost continuous row over anti-inflationary controls.

President Truman's progress in 1945 passed the Patman veterans housing act. This program brought housing to Washington as a credit. It did much good, but the controls it called for met with a health program, aid to education and holding down inflation.

There was nothing particularly new about any of these proposals. Most of them had been introduced in the Roosevelt years. But they became the Truman administration policy.

The President was given a bum steer right at the outset by a bad economic program prepared for him by the office of war mobilization and reconstruction, then under John Bnyer. There was no real recovery in this report. It predicted there might be 6,000,000 unemployed by the spring of 1946, no cancellation of war orders and slowness in re-converting industry to peace-time production.

This slump never developed. Because it never developed, it made less necessary many of the Truman policies. That Mr. Truman wanted to keep it. He also led him into declining wage-price policy that was vulnerable to attack. As first stated, wages would be raised without increasing prices. There was an adequate wage under a reduced work week. Then it was revised to permit wage increases that would relieve inflation. Business would have none of it. The result was a two-year wave of strikes.

The President's labor management conference in the fall of 1945—called at the suggestion of Senator Vandenberg—failed to find any easy formula for industrial peace. The President then asked for a labor law to establish fact-finding boards, ban jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts, and to limit the right of workers to sever a case bill in 1946, which the President vetoed.

Mounting post-war labor disturbances and wage increases reached a climax in the rail strike of May, 1946, when the angry Truman went to congress and asked for a law to draft strikers against the government into the armed services. The house passed such a bill within an hour. It was stopped in the senate—by all people—Sen. Robert A. Taft. This—labor man who was to be principal author of the Taft-Hartley labor amendment act of 1947, Truman found that later act but it was passed over his veto.

President Truman is now severely criticized by union labor leaders for enforcing the bill he tried to kill.

He has had two other principal battles with congress—a control on flight over housing legislation

Exports for May In Marshall Plan Fall Below April

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—Total U.S. exports to Marshall plan countries in Europe and Asia totaled $22,700,000 during May, a slight drop from the April total. The commerce department said today.

ECA countries in Europe accounted for $14,100,000 of the total. Exports to France, occupied Germany, Italy and Turkey and China totaled $4,600,000.

The totals, prepared by the commerce department's bureau of the census, reflected all exports to Marshall plan countries whether or not they were financed by ECA.

The $22,700,000 total was more than $10,000,000 below the $404,500,000 April figure. During the first three months of 1948, "average

Bureau for Land Transferring Help

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—The bureau of land management said today it has started transferring workers to field offices in line with the decentralization program authorized by the fiscal 1949 interior appropriations bill.

The bureau said 10 employees here have been transferred as adjusters and managers of field land and survey offices and that field monthly report total was $462,200,000.

Imports from Marshall plan countries were up to $76,000,000 in May from $165,600,000 in April. The first quarter average was $68,500,000. France, occupied Germany, Italy and Great Britain received the major share of the May exports.

offices have vacancies for 18 more. Reduced appropriations for the Washington office made it necessary to cut central-office personnel by about 80 employees, some of whom may be transferred and others dismissed, the bureau said.

Cowboys Slug 4 Homers but Lose; Cards Take Lead

The Twin Falls Cowboys slugged the ball out of the park four times, but it wasn't enough. Great Falls won the series opener 11 to 10. The Wranglers tried valiantly to salvage the game in the last half of the ninth, but their late rally fell one run short. The defeat, witnessed by 1,996 fans, dropped Twin Falls into second place in the Pioneer league one-half game behind Coeur d'Alene. The Cardinals defeated Oden, 6 to 3, Thursday.

Great Falls collected 11 hits off three Cowboy hurlers. Starter Dick White yielded four runs, three earned. Bob Webster gave up one, and Charley Noah was nipped for three. Webster was charged with the loss, having been on the mound when the winning run got on base.

PHILADELPHIA, July 16 (AP)—Wallaces move into Philadelphia Saturday to complete the political convention cycle.

The nation's newest political party, which variously has called itself the progressive, new, third and Wallace-for-President party, will hold its founding convocation here July 23 to 25.

Wallaces are wasting no time in taking over. They will establish headquarters at the Bellevue-Stratford by Saturday.

And one week later the party will choose its standard-bearers, Henry A. Wallace for President and Idaho's Sen. Glen H. Taylor for vice-president.

Wednesday the party's platform committee, headed by Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, professor at the University of Chicago and one-time news dealer, will begin having its campaign planks.

Party Keynotes Proposed for the party's keynote is Charles F. Howard, 53-year-old Negro attorney and newspaper publisher of Des Moines, Ia. Howard has been prominent for 25 years in Iowa Republican circles.

Luke W. Wilson, assistant manager of the Wallace convention, said the exact number of delegates and alternates who will take part in the convention "has not been set yet."

He said the national Wallace for President committee "has issued one convention call broadside" for 4,242 delegates and 531 alternates.

"That's eight delegates for each of the nation's 531 electoral votes and one alternate for each vote. The Wallaces will shift from convention hall to Shibe park for the acceptance speeches of Wallace and Taylor on the night of July 24.

Agency Offers Farmers Crop Price Support

WASHINGTON, July 16 (AP)—The government today had offered farmers purchase agreements on 1948 crops of wheat, oats, barley, rye and grain sorghum as a means of price support.

The agreements are in addition to the program offering loans to farmers on these grain crops. They will be offered farmers from the time of harvest to Dec. 31, 1948, in all states and counties where commodity loans are available, in substantially the same terms as those which applied to the 1947 crop.

Under the terms, the producer must state the maximum quantity of grain upon which he wants an option to deliver to the commodity credit corporation. The CCC will accept any quantity up to the maximum stated by the producer during the 30 day period following maturity date of the 1948 loans. The maturity date on these loans is April 30, 1949, or earlier on demand. Purchase prices will be the same as the corresponding loan delivery dates.

The program, agriculture department officials said, is designed to make for more orderly marketing and to give farmers greater flexibility of disposing of crops.
