WANT CURE INFLATION
There's a lot of middle-headed thinking about inflation. At least, there's a lot of middle-headed talking, and it is charitable to assume that this arises out of careless thinking, although in an election year politicians would not be so careless.

Marriner S. Eccles, the late President Roosevelt's chairman of the federal reserve board, said President Truman's proposals for fighting inflation "more political than economic." That is true, whatever the intention, and it is accurate to say that the plan really calls its program. He has a right to be.

The weakness and fallacy of the Republican let's-pull-it-off-as-long-as-we-can approach speak for themselves. The unsoundness of the administration's more active approach is exemplified by the proposals of Rep. John D. Dingell of Michigan.

Dingell proposes an excess profits tax geared to hit only "big business." He proposes and discusses it as an anti-inflation measure. The Michiganian gives four ways he claims his tax would fight inflation. Let's examine them very briefly.

First, he says, it would deprive big corporations of $4,300,000,000 of purchasing power. But that is the money needed for expansion of plant. It does not compete in the consumer market, helps toward making more goods, not toward raising prices.

Second, he says, it would help government take in more than it spends, and thus balance the federal budget. But the anti-inflationary virtue of a balanced budget arises from reduced spending, which both holds down the amount of money in circulation and increases government competition for consumer goods. To balance the budget by providing more money to spend is inflationary, not deflationary.

Third, he says, it would induce corporations to raise their prices, because they would keep so little of the proceeds. On the contrary, it would encourage them to raise prices to get enough to pay the tax and still have some left over.

And fourth, he says, it would discourage more money demands based on big corporate profits. But so long as the cost of living stays up and goes up, workers will continue to ask and fight for raises.

The fact that such a hindside-foremost program is the first proposed move against inflation is clear indication either that its sponsors do not know why inflation is all about, or that they do not dare strike a forthright blow against it.

The steps that can control inflation are not going to be popular ones. They're not going to be measures directed against the vote-poor rich. They're going to be aimed at the rich, the powerful, the most effectively organized masses, whose unaccounted prosperity and unparalleled spending cause inflation.

A GOOD SUGGESTION
There is nothing more dangerous from a traffic standpoint than the death trap where two trans-continental highways intersect, such as the junction of U. S. 93 and U. S. 30, four miles west of Twin Falls.

These approaching such an intersection on either highway, particularly tourists who are unfamiliar with the country, take it for granted the route on which they are traveling is barricaded against all cross traffic by stop signs. On a main federal highway it's only natural for them to assume such security.

For the same reason, motorists coming up U. S. 93, come from as far south as Mexico, are likely to be off their guard when they run into U. S. 30. It's easy for them to overlook the stop signs because they seldom encounter such warnings on a federal highway, particularly in open country.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—President Truman has enlisted the aid of the leaders of organized labor in an all-out, one-fronted attack on the communists of Russia and the American system of individual enterprise offers more abundant life to men and women who toil for their living.

Mr. Truman has even permitted his own cabinet to be used to publicize John L. Lewis in a revised pamphlet on "Organized Labor and the American System." This pamphlet was originally written for distribution among our troops in Germany.

Workers boss Jack Halpern, who has never had a major strike at his automobile plant in South Bend, Ind., recognized immediately the need of labor control administration during and after the war.

For advisers he selected two of the ablest men in the CIO and AFL, respectively—Clintond Green and James D. Jones. He plans to name labor experts to each major industry. He always seeking the right man for the right place.

Significant—He has given his blessing to the voluntary effort of the labor leader to enlighten their foreign associates on the underlying significance of the Marshall plan as it affects workers everywhere.

Among those now conferring with members of the British labor party and trade union movement are such outstanding labor leaders as George Lansbury of the railway clerks, and David Dubinsky of the foreign garment workers.

Recall—Mr. Hoffman's AFL-CIO aides take formidable opposition in their sleep will campaign from their enclaves on the American labor front.

Significant—As influential faction of the British labor party, they have been suspicious of the Marshall plan. They resent the fresh deprivations such outstanding labor leaders as George Lansbury of the railway clerks, and David Dubinsky of the foreign garment workers.

Surprise—The army pamphlet may surprise even domestic lookers-on and participants in the labor-management drama, in view of the Truman-Church injunction battle with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters. The April edition was revised abroad after criticism that it read with a political placard, and that it was too favorable to the labor side.

Five on Vacation
The new issue contains few alterations or additions, but two are of current significance, against the background of the presidential campaign and the class with the Kremlin. A fresh chart shows "What John L. Lewis has won for miners since 1940."

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGGER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—The miscalculated labor movement of this period in American history is the most chaotic and destructive of the freedom which the American constitution guarantees.

By this anti-American device, the best workers in America were reduced to a state of equality with the worst. Time spent on a job was the worst measure of pay. The quality or amount of work could not be considered.

By "collective bargaining" the unions were allowed to set up an absolute monopoly on the labor market. Dave Beck, of the teamsters' union, Don Tobin's strap, excluded from the union in Washington and Oregon in a jurisdictional fight with the brewery workers. Not even the movement of the United States itself or of the respective states concerned had any right to do this. Dave Beck and Turner would surely be investigated by congress.

Lewis could shut down the coal mines in a squabble over a relatively petty amount of money which he claimed for his pension fund. The miners collectively sacrificed half a billion dollars in wages to the tune of a national white set up by Lewis for a few millions for the pension fund.

At this writing, about one-fourth of the numerous strength of the American union movement is ruled by immigrants. But worse, the prevailing concept of the rights and duties of men, which is shared even by the most ardent American-born workers, is based on the idea that a foreign idea absolutely at war with American freedom.

It would be bad enough that Americans were permitted to sign away their civil rights and human freedom in the public voluntary act in foolish enthusiasm over ill-considered benefits. But it is a violent attack on the authority of the whole people when the national and state governments compel millions to submit to such a loss of liberty without their will or without consultation.

Such unwilling millions of Americans have been robbed of billions of dollars in dues, assessments, fines and "contributions." And the whole union movement, voluntary, non-committal and unwilling, have lost an important degree of their freedom.

More fatigue, the weariness of righteous men, has stilled the protest against the senseless business of "collective bargaining." The thing was put into national law by Senator Robert Wagner, an immigrant from Germany, the home of social regimentation on the continent, whose native predilections were contrary to life and liberty of the United States.

Japan's Reds Use Coercion For Members

TOKYO, Aug. 19 (AP)—Japanese communists are using coercion to win party members by telling the peasants they had better join or occupy that island. Others are joining the party to get high wages. Party members pay very high taxes.

According to Japanese press reports, these tactics are adding more than 100 members a day to Japan's communist party. The situation is causing considerable concern to a number of American officials, and thoughtful Japanese. They believe the communists really could gain control in Japan over a period of years unless Japan develops real leaders who would purge communists from the government and give the people a real faith in democracy.

Residents of Hokkaido listen well when communists tell them to join the party or face death when the Russian "invaders" come. Only narrow strips of water separate Hokkaido from Russian-occupied Sakhalin and the Kurile Islands.

Most Hokkaido businessmen are not afraid of an invasion. However they are eager to escape paying high postwar taxes. They would rather join the party and get a tax cut. The communists are especially active on Hokkaido. Communist elements now are leading railworkers in walkouts there in violation of a government no-strike order.

There were unconfirmed rumors that Japan's communist party will move its national headquarters soon to Hokkaido.

Truman Plans for Campaign Tour of Nationwide Scope

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—President Truman expects to be on the road most of the time between mid-September and the November election. His campaign will cover every section of the country.

This was disclosed by Sen. J. Howard McGrath, Democratic national chairman, late yesterday after a two-hour White House conference with Truman.

The President will include the south in his speaking itinerary, McGrath said. Time will not permit his speaking in every state, but he will appear in every section of the nation.

McGrath's conference was his first one with Mr. Truman before the latter's departure Friday afternoon on a nine-day cruise. On that trip the President will work on his address and make a stop before launching into his campaign.

The President will formally open his tour for a term in the White House on his own right with a Labor day speech at Detroit and five other addresses in Michigan on the same day.

Letters Asked in Carone's Estate

A petition for letters of administration in the $10,000 estate of Sam Carone, also known as Sam Coroni and Sam Croni, was filed Wednesday in probate court by James C. Reynolds.

Carone was found dead Aug. 13, after living in what seemed to be abject poverty. However, investigating officers found $12,229.19 in cash, postal savings and bankbooks. Two sisters and a brother, residing in Bitritto, Provincia di Bari, Italy, were named as heirs. They are Narduccio Carone, Francesco Carone, and the brother, Francesco Carone.

Reynolds was requested as administrator by Sam Carone, a first cousin of the deceased, who is the nearest relative living in the United States.

Court Test Slated in Wyoming Vote

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 19 (AP)—Gov. Lester C. Hunt of Wyoming today laid out a court test of his right to the Democratic senatorial nomination he won Tuesday.

Carl A. Johnson, Hunt's opponent for the nomination, said he had not conceded the primary election to the former Democratic party one-time lead Hunt polled in the primary. Johnson contended that Hunt was "entitled to seek the state office of United States senator" from Wyoming.

The court will have to decide the question," he said. Johnson asserted that the Wyoming state constitution barred the governor from seeking a senate post while he was still in office.

Sheep Flock Slashed Stopped in Nation

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 19 (AP)—The reduction in recent years of American sheep flocks has been halted, R. Ward, Oregon, Ore., wool growers official, reported.

"The flock has turned. Stockmen are making a concerted effort to increase and improve breeding stock," said Ward, vice president and general manager of the Pacific Wool Growers association.

There is a trend in Oregon, Washington, California, Idaho and Nevada to raise mutton type sheep, many of them on small farms, Ward said in an interview after sessions of the executive committee of the National Wool Growers association.

There are more than 18,000 motion picture theaters in the United States.

Labor Needs Increase for Local Areas

BOISE, Aug. 19 (AP)—South-central and southwestern Idaho registered an increased labor demand during the past week.

The Idaho state employment service said a decline in demand was reported in the rest of the state except for eastern Idaho where there was virtually no change.

The Jerome area reported a demand for harvest help in grain and hay cutting.

Ready Again Union Airst Issue

LEWISTOWN, Mont., Aug. 19 (AP)—An air crash here that demolished the frame of a crop-dusting plane failed to daunt its California pilot.

Pilot Roger Brandt, Marysville, Calif., walked away uninjured from the plane's debris. Only the engine and spraying apparatus survived the crashup with the pilot.

Brandt mollied away a rescue crew that had come to take him to a hospital with a single request: "How soon can I find a plane to fly to California?"

Fire Danger Hits Peak in Sections

MISOULA, Mont., Aug. 19 (AP)—After an early-summer hill forest fire danger is increasing daily in Montana, northern Idaho and eastern Washington.

Regional U. S. Forest Service Fire Dispatcher Fred Fite said the greatest danger apparently is in the Blaine-Rock national forest. Fire danger also is high in the Flathead, Lolo, Nez Perce and Colville forests, he said.

Twenty smoke jumpers were flown from here yesterday to control a fire estimated to have spread over 200 or 300 acres in the Salmon national forest, near Salmon, Ida.

Train Salutes Rebel's Grave

ALLATOONA'S UNKNOWN REBEL HERO GETS A SALUTE FROM EVERY PASSING TRAIN. WHEN THE TRACKS OF THE RAILROAD ARE MOVED TO MAKE WAY FOR A RESERVOIR, THE GRAVE WILL BE MOVED.

Grave of Unknown Rebel Hero Moves to Escape Water Flow

BY BROOKS HONEYCUTT
ATLANTA, Ga. (NEA)—The Yankees may have killed him, but Confederates in Georgia will not have flood waters from a reservoir project cover the grave of their unknown rebel hero.

A modest iron fence surrounds the hero's grave, which is but a few feet from the winding tracks of the North Carolina and St. Louis railroad at Allatoona, Ga.

As the water from the reservoir project will come within inches of the tracks, and grave, N. C. and St. L. officials say their tracks will have to be moved half a mile from the present right-of-way. The grave is on railroad property and the land division of the federal government has instructed the railroad to move the grave, according to John L. Tye, an Atlanta attorney.

Tye said the U. S. department of cemeteries would have to keep the grave up if it stayed there, and he doubts the federal would do it. "Besides," the railroad counsel added, "we want the hero on Georgia land."

Therefore, the railroad officials went to the Georgia public service commission and obtained permission to move the hero's grave to their new right-of-way. The state's permission was necessary because the N. C. and St. L. tracks are leased from the state of Georgia.

History books show the soldier was probably in the brigade of Confederate Brig. Gen. Claudius W. Sears, who led the battle against the Union ninety-third brigade on Oct. 5, 1864. History catalogs it as the battle of Allatoona; there the soldier died.

Presumably, the Yankees buried the rebel fighter, whose skeleton was found years later by railroad section hands. A few rusty buttons from a Confederate uniform were with the bones, so the legend goes.

The railroad official said the soldier received a proper burial and final resting place.

The headstone, about one foot wide and two feet high, reads: "An unknown hero, he died for the cause he thought was right." When trains thunder past the grave, the engines blow a long, mournful salute in tribute to the hero. "The metal sign beside the grave reading 'An unknown hero' vibrates when the trains pass as if it were a rebel battling the flag flying in the air."

The older railroaders tell the youngsters tall tales about Allatoona pass. They say many a signal as they round the curve in their engines shouts loon before them; the sound of Confederate fighters who died in that bloody battle of the pass.

The railroaders and townsfolk wonder it is right to move the grave; and yet they agree it is better to move it than have their unknown hero covered with water from the dam.

Water Shortages Hits Utah Capital

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 19 (AP)—Salt Lake City today faced possible restriction on the use of water.

City Water Commissioner D. A. Affeck said that unless an appreciable amount of rain falls soon definite restrictive measures would have to be taken.

Affeck reported that all facilities of the water department are operating at peak capacity and the demand still outstrips the supply.

The commissioner said all wells of the city were being pumped three shifts a day but "despite all we can do" the reservoirs are still going down.

3 Civil Actions Asking $325 Filed in Court

Three civil actions seeking a total of $325.86 were filed Tuesday and Wednesday in justice court. Two were filed by Guy L. Kinney and the third was filed by W. B. Barker and Donahy Barker.

Kinney's first complaint charges that between Nov. 7, 1947 and Jan. 6, 1948, inclusive, Neoplaxit delivered goods to Shirli C. Kirk, the total value of which was $1,232.14 and that $1,138.50 of this amount has been paid. Kinney seeks the remaining $93.64 and the costs of the suit.

The second complaint filed by Kinney, charges Ray Matheny rented a kettle for applying "hot rod"

Murder Charges Filed in Stabbing

POCATELLO, Aug. 19 (AP)—First degree murder charges have been filed against Mrs. Ernest (Gard) Fisher, 20-year-old Pocatello Negro, as a result of the fatal stabbing Sunday of Benjamin Fox, Pocatello Negro.

Mrs. Fisher was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Charles W. Hyde yesterday and held without bond.

Officers said Fox, a veteran of both the United States and Canadian armies in World War II, was stabbed through the chest with a hunting knife early Sunday morning in front of the Porters and Walters club here. He died 16 minutes later in a local hospital.

Police quoted witnesses as saying the stabbing followed an argument with Mrs. Fisher over a dog.

Collision Reported

HERBERT N. HOOVER, 778 Second avenue west, and O. L. Diven, Boise, were drivers of two automobiles involved in a minor collision at 12:33 p. m. Wednesday, city police officers stated.

The accident, which occurred at the intersection of Fourth avenue north and Shoshone street, damaged the left front fender of the Hoover machine and the right rear fender of the Diven car.

Police officers said the Hoover car was driven by Herbert N. Hoover and the Diven car was driven by O. L. Diven.

Safety Banner Riddle-Ended; Part of Drive

"Mystery" of the "today is safety day" banner strung across Main avenue at Shoobee street is ended.

It was put there Monday by city firemen cooperating in the campaign begun in Twin Falls this week by the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary.

Despite the single day restriction indicated by the banner, the program has only started. It will be carried on the rest of the year in an effort to reduce the number of Twin Falls area accidents.

Program Planned

Alarmed by the high rate of accidental deaths in Magic Valley counties and the numerous injuries in traffic, industrial, farm and home accidents, the auxiliary has planned a program to make citizens aware of the many dangers.

Mercedez Fichtner, safety supervisor from Kansas City, Mo., has arrived here to organize the program for the VFW auxiliary. She says the program has received much support from people in Twin Falls. Approval has been given by Mayor H. C. Lauterbach, Fire Chief E. H. Frecklow and L. S. Mitschke, commissioner of safety.

Slogan Contest

Interest in the campaign will be created by a safety slogan contest of Twin Falls grade school children. Safety certificate awards will be given for the 10 best slogans. National Safety Council "green cross" buttons will be worn by contestant participants.

Safety talks will be presented to the various groups by a member who will appear in many local business houses cooperating in the campaign and safety stickers will be furnished for use on stationery.

Book to Be Printed

Financial support of the program will come from advertisements, sold to local business houses. A book entitled "Invitation to Live," a volume of cartoons and facts illustrating accidents likely to occur, will be printed. Copies of the books will be placed in local schools with the hope that every child will take one home at one time during the school year. In this way, Miss Fichtner said, parents and children alike will be reached through visual contact with the book.

According to Elizabeth Reilly, VFW auxiliary president, funds remaining from the campaign expense will be turned over to Twin Falls youth activities.

Jerome Fines 15 Parking Violators

JEROME, Aug. 18—Fifteen offenders topped the list of parking violators in police court this week. Those paying $1 fines were Wayne Barclay, William Garrels, Hazel Fritzler, Mrs. T. C. Metzger, S. W. Smith, T. J. Wilkes, James Mann, By Right, Ted Bruckner, Vic Peterson, Jake Eizer, Mrs. Zavar Hansen, C. J. Marshall, John Halvorsen, and Ross F. Thompson.

Gerald Johnson and Gail Briggs paid $5 for stop sign violations. An impromptu U-turn cost Dee Hamblin a $5 fine. Fines of $10 were levied against Kenneth C. McArthur and Charles Griffin for fighting. Horace Allen was fined $20 on a drunkenness charge. Eldred Atwood paid $20 also for disturbing the peace. Elmer Wolfenbarger lost his right to operate a motor vehicle for one year and was fined $100 on a drunken driving charge.

Fledgling at 90

Mrs. Mary E. Kibbe, 90, Portland, Ore., tells her younger brother, D. L. Carroll, 86, Twin Falls, about her recent United Air lines flight from Portland to Twin Falls. It was her first flight and she said it was "an altogether new and interesting experience." (Staff photo-enslaving)

Trip by Plane 'Another Ride' To Woman, 90, Visiting Here

By RON RICE

Mrs. Mary E. Kibbe, 90, Portland, Ore., always wanted to fly. Ever since she first saw an airplane she wanted to go up. Last Saturday she boarded a United Air lines plane in Portland to come to Twin Falls and visit her brother, D. L. Carroll, 86.

"The trip was very pleasant," she said. "The stewardess told me it was going to be a rough trip because the air was choppy from Pendleton, Ore., to Boise. Some of the persons on the plane became ill, but I enjoyed the trip."

Mrs. Kibbe is an experienced traveler, having used every means of land transportation except ox team. She was born in Pennsylvania in 1857 and traveled by train to Iowa in 1868, the last year of the Civil war, when her family moved to that state to take up a homestead in the "new" territory.

She stated there was "quite a difference" between the streamlined trains of today and the iron horses of her girlhood.

"I was married in 1877 and my husband and I traveled from Omaha, Neb., to Belleville, Nev. The last 169 miles from Carson City to Belleville were traveled in a Concord stage coach. The trip took nine days," she said.

She stated she traveled with her husband from Longmont, Colo., to American Falls in "the 20s" and as a girl used to ride horses.

"I got a big kick out of my first automobile ride in 1925, but I was afraid the fool thing would blow up with all of that gasoline," she said. "Radio is the thing that amazes me most. I can't understand how it works, but I like to listen

Rustlers Prey On Herds of Utah Ranches

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 19—The roving days of blazing signals, mounted posse and wild rustler chase over the hills of Utah seem on their way back.

State Agricultural Commissioner Jermal A. Bergeson revealed here today that sheriffs and peace officers over the state have been warned to be on the lookout for rustlers, whose activity "is increasing alarmingly."

Bergeson said that the most rapid and alarming increase in the rustling line occurred in the Heber, Ogden canyon and Delta-Tooele areas. The rustlers are usually based at the spot of the slaughtering of cattle. The cattle's heads, entrails and hides are usually buried at the spot of the slaughtering.

Bergeson added that the agriculture department had been able to supply information leading to the arrest of three rustler suspects in the Ogden area this week.

ON LDS MISSION

EMERSON, Aug. 19—Spokane LDS President and Mrs. J. Melvin Loom have received word from their son James, who is in England on a mission for the LDS church, that he has been transferred to Nottingham and has been made district president. He was in London during the Olympic games and attended the contests.

Charles Thompson, Ogden, who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira T. Short, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Reed, West Salem, O., were the recent guests of her grandfather, H. V. Monner. Mrs. Bandy Mover, Aberdeen, was a week-end guest at the home of her friend, Betty Barry.

Almost all of Iceland's 39,000 square miles of surface is of volcanic origin.

R. W. Wilson, Filer Kiwanis president, points to one of two signs constructed recently as a Kiwanis project, while Art Kuris, Kiwanis secretary, and George Erhardt, chairman of the sign committee, look on. The signs have been placed on U. S. highway 20 between Twin Falls and Filer, and between Filer and Buhl. The signs advertising the fair, on the lower right hand side of these 8 by 14-foot advertisements, are removable and can be used for rodeos, livestock sales and civic promotions. The Twin Falls county fair board and the Idaho Wool Growers association cooperated with the Kiwanis in this project. Robert Brackett, of the sign committee, was not present when the photograph was taken. (Staff photo-enslaving)

Silverware of USS Idaho Is Given Museum

BOISE, Aug. 19 (AP)—A 20-piece set of massive silverware from the USS Idaho has been put in a showcase in the Idaho historical museum and State Historical art house.

The reason is that the museum lacks money to insure the service which is valued at $9,000.

Mrs. McDewitt had hoped to get the set insured before putting it on display. But on checking with the state insurance fund she learned it would cost $20 a year.

Lack Funds
"We hardly have money for postage stamps, let alone $20 for insurance," Mrs. McDewitt said. The set was first presented to the U. S. S. Idaho by the late Gov. James H. Hawley at Philadelphia in 1912. The ship was decommissioned two years later and the service stored in New York until 1919, when it was placed aboard the new U. S. S. Idaho, the third to bear the Gem state name.

The latter ship served in World War II and was decommissioned in July, 1946. The silverware, along with the ship's bell, wheel and compass, was presented to the state last May.

19 Sterling Pieces
Included in the service are 19 sterling pieces—the punch bowl too heavy for Mrs. McDewitt to lift—and a Brazilian silver fruit tray presented by the president of Brazil in 1919.

The first U. S. S. Idaho was a wooden sloop commissioned in 1863, the year that President Lincoln signed the act creating Idaho territory.

The second Idaho slid down the ways in 1905 and the exhibit now contains the bottle of champagne used to christen it. The christening was done by Mrs. Louise Gooding Fridmore, daughter of the late Gov. Frank Gooding, and now a resident of Gooding.
