TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG POT SHOTS

WASHINGTON—Stendulous veterans administration officials are today launching legal potshots to World War II G.I.s who converted their wartime protection into permanent insurance with the Veterans Administration unless this agency makes a job of correcting this situation.

Thousands of former soldiers have nothing to show for their investment except a certificate, and it is doubtful if this certificate is a legal claim against the government. In any event, the lack of an actual policy has led to the dropping of monthly or lump-sum payments to beneficiaries of men who have died since the axis surrender.

AMAZING—When ex-G.I.s write Veterans Administration—Carl Gray, asking why they have not received policies for which they applied even before their discharge three or more years ago, they get the most amazing answer.

It is usually to the effect that the issue office does not possess sufficient information on the veteran's military record. And this in spite of the fact that all the necessary papers were made out months or years ago.

Thousands of ex-servicemen, as well as the accompanying VA clerks, are given by many ex-servicemen as the principal reason for dropping their insurance, or for refusing to convert from the temporary to permanent insurance, is the lack of this protection, in view of today's fairly prosperous economic level, has assumed tremendous proportions.

FAIR EXCHANGE?

Dear Pat Sholt:

If the radio spot on Wednesday night at the fairgrounds by R. A. Richter was supposed to be a fair demonstration of the war effort, then I have been disillusioned.

Do you think Richter would have been able to give the "bums" his "bums" in exchange for some shell-toned pointers?

Stan Jackson

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—Eleanor the great obviously anticipates direct attention from the Thomas committee and from some care-free, factual reporter concerning her own activities since March 4, 1933.

Yes, the "bums" column for August was a defense in advance, for it called a planted question in a published Sunday by the Herald Tribune.

Westbrook Pegler asked whether it was still possible to "think freely and live" in a country as an American while serving your country.

Eleanor's column in other papers said a young man contemplating government service should be trained in the art of considering each of his every word and action and had better keep a diary and write at night every detail of his actions and his thoughts.

"If a young person had been raised with liberal tendencies or had been foolish enough to belong to one of two radical organizations—'youth', she wrote, 'then he must respect his job and find many other jobs closed to him. There are few young jobs who have remembered to be very enough.'

Mrs. Roosevelt herself has been a member, sponsor, patroness or political and social friend of more of the organizations which she described as "radical" than any other individual in the official set of the new deal.

Four of these organizations were officially condemned by Tom Carr, the attorney general, as "un-American" or "communist fronts."

Such "fronts" generally are formed and dominated by Russian agents, but are put forward to the American public with a deliberately deceptive seeming of patriotism, charity or reform.

Many other societies were formed in order to permit the use of an array of names of prominent, though not necessarily good, citizens as letterheads and proclamations.

After a term of doubt I decided years ago that Eleanor the great was not a victim of stupidity in lending her name and influence to such organizations as she joined or, more or less heartily, endorsed, but a crafty, scheming politician.

By belittling "respectability" as "reaction" she could gather a following. "Good" people are few and far between.

She failed in responsible office and brutal activity. What Mrs. Roosevelt uses this word, I think of my own long, not uneventful, life to make her own brilliant, brutal union goons take their dirty hands off the people of the United States.

I think, by contrast, of her own constant encouragement of some of the foulest gangsters, grafters and thugs in our criminal history.

I know which of us is the liberal.

I think also of the shocking proposals which she and Harry Hopkins put forth in their desperate wish to clamp the Hitlerian or Stalin-esque controls on the personal and family life of the American people when they realized that the war was almost won and that it was now or never for them.

She proposed that the government "meaning herself, should renege" us all of the problem of deciding what we should do to help with the war. In other words, she favored conscription for civilian workers as well as men for industrial labor, with every job in the United States at the disposal of some commissar friend of hers.

The spectacle of the grinding apart of families, the mingling of races and the disintegration of social and religious communities which this idea bespoke, the communal, barracks-like and the forced conscription, and immolation, was relished more noisily by Hopkins.

A concept by nature, Hopkins went into detail about the promiscuity of his plan and, to make sure we got the threat, he said, "It isn't just talk, and it won't blow over and it does mean you."

That is what Eleanor the great means by "liberalism."

As I said, she anticipates factual treatment of her own goons and tries to dismiss as outrageous violations of intellectual and social freedom and privacy the feeble and belated efforts of the Republican congress to drive out the vermin who were invited in by her husband.

She apprehends aright, but her attempt to belittle her own complexity will fail.

"GOOD" LOSERS, "BAD" WINNERS

You wouldn't think, after all the trouble it has had with the family, that Louisiana would elect another Long.

But strange things happen in this country of ours nowadays. Russell Long, son of the late Kingfish Huey, has won the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

His opponent for the nomination, Judge Robert E. Kennon, carried New Orleans by a 20,000 majority, but back in the woods, Russell Long came through with overwhelming support from the "poor down-trodden souls."

Difficult as it is to understand why the Longs, Bilbos, Peppers, Taylors and the like seem to come through as "the people's choice," it's to the credit of the American press, we believe, that such individuals in public office are revealed in their true colors.

In this connection it is interesting to note what one Louisiana newspaperman has to say—Ralph Nicholson, publisher of the New Orleans Item.

NO INTERFERENCE

Dear Pat Sholt:

Stewart Taylor's facetious handling of Tito on the Forum this week was a poor exhibition of his cleverness and wit.

Tito was supposed to be acting up a little somewhat like a feisty colt. We did not see the animal but we suspected that he airily was his hand.

Anyway, he for some reason didn't linger on the subject. Why was "The so frisky"? It seems there is a controlled press (about on you), but not informed us that this country is being a Russian state. This is a letter from a Russian, but not to the head of the Juovavala soviet state, but to the publisher of the New York Times according to Hoyle or Stalin.

Of course if Mr. Wallace and Mr. Taylor were to become opponents in one White House under parallel conditions, they would not be interfered with. Or would they? Confusing, isn't it?

Yep, it's Me!

THE DIAMOND AND THE ELK

This little yarn is about a year late in coming to light, but it's still good, and you'll find it as good as a new one.

A Field Agent belatedly reported how Dick also the elk, knocked it down. Dick himself had been shot at an elk before. Dick was more than just a little excited. Instead of making his way back to the office, he went running off to get a friend of his name Dick and his friend Dick.

When Dick and his friend Dick got to the scene of the crime, they found the elk was gone. They followed the elk tracks for miles without finding it.

This year, Dick won't be so unfortunate. He didn't get a permit.

OUR HUNTER BOARD

I wonder, Gooding—Really how do you not wonder about that little fellow, do you? Some of us know for sure just what to call the word for that person. Did the whole department have to turn out?

ROLL OF LETTUCE

W. R. Taylor came into the office to tell us the gent who lost that $2,400 at Bull must have had a roll of the long green.

Taylor opined it would take a real while to hold $2,400 worth of it. "Two $100 bills, two $50 bills and the rest in $10 and $20 bills."

In the city of you, constituents have felt earth tremors lately, Taylor said they probably were caused by the weight of that roll hitting the ground.

replicable newspaper is far better off with a good man who loses than a bad man who wins," he said recently in talking of the Item's battle with Gov. Earl Long, brother of the late "Kingfish."

"If you back a man who is good—and not just because you gain prestige. If you back a winning bad man, as soon as his qualities show, the people will charge they have been misled."

In fact, backing "wrong" winners may prove very costly to prestige, Nicholson contends, and he has been in Louisiana's political arena that a reputation for good, sound, honest expression is a much more valuable asset for a newspaper than riding winners in the wars of politics.

"The only reason to pick a winner, regardless of the man, is to gain special privilege," he says, "and we do not want special privilege."

Let the Longs, Bilbos, Peppers, Taylors and the like damn the American newspaper. That's a good sign and a credit to the newspapers. Whenever the press puts in with these birds, just to be riding winners or no other reason than special privileges which might result from such support, this country had better watch out.

SWAMPED—Officials answer that they have been swamped with the construction and serving of new hospitals, and with handling the problems of G.I.s choosing the exact time to take full rights.

To a certain extent this is true, and there is no suggestion that these types of beneficiaries are being neglected. They have not yet received their permanent policies, but have not yet received their permanent policies. In making permanent policies, write your name, address, serial number, service back to the check or in a note accompanying a cash payment.

REBELL—Russians for children of diplomats in Moscow. The children of the workingman, Kseninka and the Samarin's taught before they recruited communists, were closed by Moscow because of the children's too keen enjoyment of the American, capitalist way of life.

What they saw here belittled politburo and Pravda lies. The children of the workingman, the brutality of the police, the mistreatment of minorities and the proclaimed crackup of our social and economic structure.

Selective Service Officials have filed an order to draft questioning that's simpler than stepping in an open elevator shaft. It's a 4 x 6 card that has 16 questions on it. The officials claim the card can be filled out in a few minutes, and when you're through they know as much about you as your own mother does... or more. They state there are no jokers in the deck... but drafters are entitled to their own opinions. Drafts around the United States will register 2,500,000 late from Aug. 30 to Sept. 25. Multiply that by 16 and you have the biggest quiz game in the nation. Winners get a free trip to the nearest camp.

LAWS SHOULD BE CHANGED

Cliff Bergere, Indianapolis speed driver, who visited Twin Falls and other Idaho cities on a nation-wide safe driving crusade, offered several constructive criticisms of our state laws controlling the operation of automobiles.

He criticized two laws in particular, one which permits 14-year-olds to drive a car, and the other which makes it possible for motorists to get drivers' licenses without passing any kind of an examination.

"The Idaho law allowing 14-year-olds to receive a license should be changed," he said, "because the age of 16 is the absolute minimum for which drivers' licenses should be issued. It would be better if the minimum age were 18."

Rigid tests, according to Bergere, should be required of all applicants for a driver's license. In contrast to the Idaho statute which requires nothing more than the payment of a fee by the individual seeking a permit.

Two other points, we believe, are well taken. It has been well demonstrated in Twin Falls what results from 14-year-olds driving cars. These youngsters have difficulty in resisting the urge to show off. So they indulge in speeding and other forms of reckless driving.

That has been no little problem, with the local courts being forced to issue a number of youngsters the privilege of driving.

It stands to reason that many drivers whose vision and hearing are impaired, or who may be handicapped by other physical limitations, would not be granted a license if they were required to undergo rigid examination.

Irresponsible youngsters and persons with physical handicaps should not be allowed to endanger the lives of others. Our laws, as well as rigid enforcement and other factors contributing into the control of reckless driving, should be allowed to be unenforced if the statutes themselves are partly responsible for our traffic problems.

QUESTIONS—As the red soldiers gnawed and gaped when they beheld the well equipped and ornamented American G.I.s in Germany, Austria and other countries, they asked the questions that the youngsters were heaving to ask questions of their parents and instructors.

As the youngsters looked backward state, Stalin's diplomats, financiers and attaches live in the style of crass nobility in foreign lands, especially at Washington. The contrast between the youngsters and the old has a deep effect on children not yet fully indoctrinated on the beauties and benefits of the Soviet system.

A and story out of London tells about the president of the board of trade, whose conscience made him sit by while his wife spent scarce clothing coupons for a bathing suit and some other woolsen items. He did not feel privileged to tell her that he had lowered the coupon prices of those articles, effective the next day. The really sad thing is that in their married life this couple had not developed a sympathetic confidence such that the man—without betraying his secret—could have induced his wife to wait just one more day.

JUSTICE—Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson uses his present position as the nation's top jurist to none other than the late Charles Evans Hughes. While Vinson's contentment need not pick him in the nomination, it was his advice that led President Truman to elevate the Kentuckian, although the latter had not practiced law for many years.

Chief Justice Vinson died in the midst of the bitter feud between Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson of New York and Hugo Black of Alabama. It is originally Mr. Truman's plan to name the New Yorker and a possible wounding of political support for the Erie lawyer.

Hughes urged against promoting any sitting member of the court to G. J. It would only aggravate the basic disaffection, he pointed out. At the same time, he went on, the elevation of a conservative would accentuate the split which had developed. And Hughes' greatest desire was maximum of harmony on this bench.

Ironically, Hughes himself was the beneficiary of the same sort of Form. When Chief Justice Hoover fully intended to name Justice Stone to first place after the death of William Howard Taft. But after the reaction of the conservative who regarded even Stone as a "wild-eyed liberal," rushed to the White House, and proposed Hughes's name.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

WHERE EVERYBODY STUTTERS

The London Times, a very stately newspaper, has announced, without cracking a smile, that the Welsh village of Llindalew has produced a new word, handliedlooch, with its 38 letters has a close competitor in New Zealand. A native village in that stout member of the commonwealth is known as: Taumatawhakatangihangakoauauotamatepeokohunauakiutanahua, which contains 57 letters.

The word must cause a certain amount of confusion among ordinarily reliable Welshmen and send the Maori natives back into the brush shaking their fuzzy heads. The residents of these villages must use a word, however. Anyone who could even come close to telling the casual inquirer where he lived would necessarily have to be of strong mental fibre, steady eye, firm grip and glib of tongue.

Pronunciation must be limited to those residents who have been schooled by their siders. This restriction is welcome, for if the secret were to become general, it would only be a matter of time until a new word would be produced a new word; how long it would take to produce a new word; how long it would take to produce a new word; how long it would take to produce a new word.

Improvements Add Cheer to Buhl Schools

By HUGHETTE WINGER. Buhl, Sept. 4 — Students knew something had been done for them when school commenced at the Buhl high school Monday.

Departure from the old style of school decorating was in evidence. Pastel colors and knotty pine had taken away some of the sting of the three "R's".

Muscle Room Added. The music room, a new addition this year, has been redecorated in knotty pine and blended wall painting. The auditorium has been completely renovated with new pastel colored paint and a new lighting system.

According to George Likness, superintendent of city schools, a cyclorama has been ordered and will soon be installed to complete auditorium improvements.

Because of a change in building plans at the F. H. Buhl school, it was necessary to remodel one room to take care of a primary class. Likness said.

Twin Falls Voters Are Urged To Turn Out for School Vote

Editor, Times-News:—On Tuesday, voters of Twin Falls will have an opportunity to exercise the greatest privilege they have as American citizens, namely, the right to vote.

In times past, it has been customary for most of us in Twin Falls to shirk our duty and just a handful of faithful individuals decide who shall administer our schools for the coming year. It must be pretty discouraging for the members of our school board to realize that we're really interested in them at all except when things don't go to suit. Then we resort to the good old American custom of "arrogance."

Because of the reorganization of our school system, we will be voting for the first time in many years on all five members of our school board at the same time. It will be up to the five persons we select this year to determine the best way to meet the immediate, desperate needs of the Twin Falls school system, and to lay the groundwork for a long-range program extending many years into the future.

The decisions they make this year will affect not only our children but our children's children, and may possibly involve the expenditure of more than $1,000,000 of the taxpayers' money—your money and my money. There are grave responsibilities and we must elect people to the job whom we know to be capable and conscientious.

Voting in a school board election is not limited to taxpayers alone. Parents or guardians of children under 21 years of age who are residents of the district at the time of the election, including children under school age) are entitled to vote. Because the candidates in districts one and five are unopposed, there are contests only in districts two, three and four.

This is a serious matter, and it calls for serious, thoughtful consideration by each and every one of us. In the next few weeks we will determine for ourselves which candidates are best qualified to fill the posts, then go to the polls and vote and show them we really are interested and behind them 100 per cent. Let's make democracy live!

Editor, Times-News:—Neither President Truman or Secretary Marshall has told us what our foreign policy is and were we to know it, we would not ask them. Either of them might state in return that anyone who kept in touch with Washington through the newspapers (notwithstanding that they are "controlled") periodically should have already a picture of our foreign policy.

Here's Message For Driver Who Hit Pup Sunday

I hope you can get this message across to the hit and run speeder who killed the small black cocker spaniel puppy on Falls avenue last Sunday night in front of its two and four-year-old owners.

That pup was irresponsible as the driver of the car, but much more considerate of others. With that kind of driving, a child would have less chance of escaping the same better driver and safer car. His reflexes are quicker and he is smaller.

If the driver will just visualize the same thing happening to one of the children instead of their pet and act accordingly he may become a better driver and save lives before it is too late.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

By INEZ PUCKETT
Olive fools their gold, and knaves their power:
Let fortune's bubbles rise and fall;
Who sows a field, or trains a flower,
Or plants a tree, is more than all.

Got some big news through Mrs. Alvah Jay, a lover-of-gardening who lives over Kimberly way. Seems the sale of the Twin Falls Garden club are bringing Harry O'Brien to town on Sept. 8.

Thousands of you know who this goes to—the writer for Better Homes and Gardens magazine, whose by-line appears under the title, "Diary of a Plain Dirt Gardener." According to Mrs. Jay, Harry will speak in the high school auditorium at 8 p.m. of the date mentioned. It has a dandy subject too, "New and Old Flowers for Dirt Gardeners."

It's worth the price of admission just to have a look at a nationally known writer like O'Brien. (Wonder if he could tell some of us how to acquire acre thumbs?)

When you move a lot of old stuff gets dredged up from the attic, as it were. Look what we found in an old trunk last week—a Hupley Believe It or Not feature. It shows a husky football player running with a ball. Below are these words:

"Skip" Kovan completed 13 passes in succession in ONE game, Twin Falls High School, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Any of you fans remember that?

"It wasn't December wedded to May that ruined my marriage," said the business woman. "It was Labor day wedded to the Day of the Aunts."

There's a blue haze over the fields now. Goldenrod is in full bloom. At 6:30 of a morning all this looks wonderful as a jack wassler, a peacock, a turner and henrietta to the mellow voice of Jack Farrer broadcasting farm items, weather and what-have-you from his mike at station KFTT.

The little kitchen with the hued red strawberries on the wallpaper, is full of a smell of fresh coffee and frying-pan smoke. The hot cakes are nut-brown and plump, the halves of grapefruit look like yellow and enormous jewels—from the Arabian Nights maybe.

We never could save these people who are always low before breakfast. To know a good man is just ahead, that you have another entire day to breathe, laugh, think, and feel. Somehow, when we look out the kitchen window in the early morning, see the sun, smell the food, we feel good. It's wonderful to be alive!

Betty just wrote us about it. . . . the married Fred, our beloved, erneck, a marine veteran of Mid-way. The kids had their new home half finished when the physical sufferings Fred knew in war caught up with him and he fished—a typhoid victim. He was hospitalized to a hospital and there was Betty with no house and two kids on her hands.

The rest was like a beautiful dream; neighbors came and finished the job, put in plumbing, put down the linoleum, took care of the babies while Betty went to the hospital. When Fred is stronger he will be told about all this.

"I can't remember I think of it," writes Betty. "There are some leather people in this old world." (Nice to have a war vet is getting what he deserves for once.)

Old Rags, like Abraham, was standing so proudly his skin all but popped. His tail was at a jaunty angle and waving to beat all.

Now and then he made a few strutting steps as he gazed impatiently off toward the highway. "Well, what inarnation is this poach?" we wondered. Old Rags is usually so modest and seeks c-hacing. We need closer . . . and guess what? There nearby in the wheat field stood a coy little Spaniel rolling her doozy, eyes at him!

Charles Hranan lives over at Cassen. He's a farmer, and a good one no doubt. Mr. Hranan is a Czech by birth, and he agreed with us that his people really know the meaning of democracy. The Russians haven't had an easy time trying to push them into the Czechs. "They will never give in to the Czechs," said Mr. Hranan. "Always they will be for the ideas of freedom and democracy."

Magic Valley has quite a number of these Czech people. Tom Tvedt at Duhi, Frank and Adolph Zach at Castleford. They make fine citizens, and thorough, efficient farmers. They are an asset to our community and our country.

Funny how many people think of motion and speed as "progress." Unless we are doing something mighty worthwhile with the time saved by electric dishwashers, planes and telephones, we haven't gained anything. Progress ought to be something of the mind and heart, not just mechanical efficiency.

Words are funny things. This blind fellow we heard about went with him and lovely. He wore a sign saying, "I'm blind." People scurried past, paid little attention to him. Further down the street was another blind man doing a brisk business with his cane. He was carrying a sign in his cup. He, too, carried a sign, but it said:

"It's September. The flowers are in bloom—and I'm blind!"

SEPTEMBER BIRTHDAY POEM

SEPTEMBER BIRTHDAY POEM
Candles that burn for a September birthday—
Wealthened round with asters and with goldenrod.
As you go upward in your radiant dying
Carry my prayer to God.
Ask Him to keep her brave, and true and lovely.
Vivid and happy—gay as she is now;
Ask Him to let no shadow touch
her beauty,
No sorrow mar her brow.
Angels that came to watch at her baptizing,
Tell them to pray them to be always near.
Ask them to keep her little feet
from straying,
Her gallant heart from fear.
Candles that burn for a September birthday
Wealthened round with asters and
with goldenrod.
As you go upward in your radiant dying,
Carry my prayer to God.
. . . Allie Klimer.

Burley Mortician Moves to Salmon

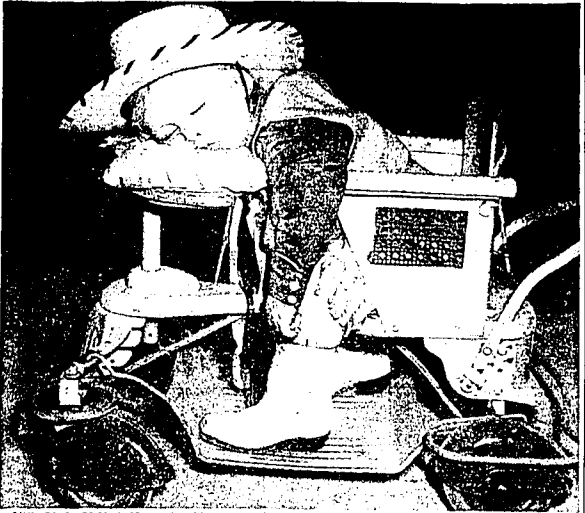

BURLEY, Sept. 4—Colin M. Edward, who has been associated with the Payne mortuary here since December, 1945, has moved to Salmon City, where he has taken ownership of the McGoldrick funeral home.

Mrs. Edward and her younger son will join Edward and their two other sons in Salmon City as soon as living quarters are available. Mr. and Mrs. Edward, who are the only husband and wife both holding funeral director and embalmer licenses in the state, took their training at the San Francisco college of mortuary science, completing their work in December, 1945. Both passed the state board test in January, 1948.

She went to the fair with her grandmother, Mrs. A. Box. Mr. and Mrs. McNeal and Linda have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Box. (Local photo-staff engraving)
