Booster Meet For Wendell's Grange Held

WENDELL, Sept. 25.—Members of Wendell Grange celebrated booster night this week. A program was presented under the direction of Grange Master C. T. Crow and Mrs. Joe Wadsworth.

The booster night address was delivered by E. T. Taylor, past master of the Idaho State Grange. Toastmaster for the evening was Ray Smith.

Other numbers on the program included readings by L. J. Hughes and Mrs. Grace Swenarsen, musicals by Dorothy Hamilton and Mrs. O. E. Elenhauser, an essay by Mrs. Ray Smith and a tribute by Mrs. E. T. Taylor. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hughes, only charter members present, were honored for being Grange members for 37 years.

Other awards were presented to James Hartwell, Noble Leland, Mrs. Grace Swenarsen, Mrs. Ruth Williams, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. King, P. J. Peterson, Ray Ward and Mrs. Mary Larson.

Post Master Taylor stressed the need for the Grange to awake to its responsibility to be a spokesman for the agricultural world. He urged the Grange to present to the public facts from the farmers' standpoint covering the high cost of living.

Claims expressed that the consumer today is getting more than his share of labor performed in the past. Farm prices are slipping and all costs the farmer has to pay are going up, the speaker said.

The need for organized farmers being educated to the facts, and then going out to see to it that the farmer is not misrepresented is a must for the Grange in its leadership today," Taylor said.

Air Transport Line Operates On Shoestring

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—The military air transport service is running the world's biggest air freight system on a shoestring.

It is doing so with a fleet of obsolescent transport planes which major domestic airlines gradually are discarding. And its personnel force has dwindled from a wartime peak of 500,000 officers and men to 22,000.

The C-54 four-engined transport and the war-weary C-47 twin-engine transport which fly the world's air routes daily and supply Berlin are, for the most part veterans of World War II.

Has 455 Transports

As of now, the military air transport service (MATB) has about 455 military transports. There aren't many major transports to back them up—probably not a sufficient reserve to meet a national emergency.

The whole air force stock of C-54s totals only 400, of which about 215 are in MATB. They carry up to 10 tons each. There are about 1,500 C-47s of which some 570 are in MATB. They carry three tons.

MATB also has one C-97 Stratofreighter and nine C-74 Globemasters.

The Stratofreighter carries a 15 to 20 ton load. The Globemaster can carry 25 tons.

Some Obsolete

The rest of the air force transport fleet consists of a few C-53 Packets which are primarily troop carriers; some 300 obsolete C-46 Commandos; 12 C-74 Globemasters and about a dozen C-97 Stratofreighters.

On order are 10 Constellations, 25 C-74s and 25 C-124s, the largest aircraft ever placed in production (its maximum payload is 50,000 pounds). Five C-124s are of the C-54 type. Presumably all of these will go to MATB. The air force also has ordered, and has started getting deliveries of, 357 C-119s. These are troop carriers and supposedly would not fit into the MATB picture.

Future Picture Vague

Air force appropriations—direct and indirect—for the present fiscal year total $4,919,911,000. Nobody seems to know how much of that ultimately will go to MATB.

A behind-the-scenes budget battle now is in progress on the question of new transport procurement. MATB must compete for its defense dollar with the bomber command. And right now the accent is preponderantly on combat plane procurement.

The Berlin air lift is striking evidence of what MATB can do with present resources. And it is so evident that, if a graver emergency should come, it can do even better.

Mary Alice Park Being Transformed Into New Recreation Area

With Mary Alice park to be changed into a recreation area, Mike Green, 5, gives a tangible example at left of what may be expected by fishermen. Mike, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Green, carries the three-pound trout with the fishhook pole's holding. The largest lake on the trout farm is shown at top right. It will be used for boating and canoeing during the summer months and will be available to hunters during the duck season. A grove of trees marks the site of picnic grounds. The dam shown at lower right backs up water for a lake which contains nothing smaller than three and one-half pound trout. The small stream is one of many to tempt fly fishermen. The recreation area is being sponsored by Percy Green and Paul Schaeffer. (Photos by Ron Rice-staff engravers)

Mary Alice Park Here Being Opened for Recreation Area

By RON RICE

Mary Alice park, known to Twin Falls residents from the early pioneer days, is the scene of new activity. The area, located four miles northeast of Twin Falls, is being transformed into a recreation area.

Fishing, hunting, picnicking and boating are a few of the features to be offered as soon as present plans have been completed by Percy Green who acquired the property in December, 1946.

Known as Green's trout farm since that time, the area will be open to picnickers this fall. The recreation area is to be under the direction of Paul Schaeffer, while Green will continue to operate the fish hatchery.

A total of four lakes are included in the project. The largest lake is to be used for canoeing and boating in the summer months. During the migratory fowl season, four blinds for hunters will be erected around the shores of the lake, which, according to Schaeffer, is large enough to permit shooting without danger to other hunters.

The other three lakes will be used for fishing during the summer and fall months and for skating during the winter. Many trout streams are found in the area. One small brook will be well-stocked for the use of children under 10 years of age, Schaeffer said.

The shaded picnic grounds will be equipped with benches and tables.

Schoolmates Visit

FILER, Sept. 25—Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Showers were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cossell, Newberry, Ore. Mrs. Showers and Mrs. Cossell, who were schoolmates, had not seen each other since 1918. Cossell, a minister, is now 65 years old. Showers is 70. They were both graduates of the University of Idaho. Jack Falk is attending the New Mexico school of mines and finance. Dunham has left for Boise to begin nurse's training.

Leave for College

EDEN, Sept. 25—Six college students from Eden have returned to their studies at various schools. Betty Lou Black and Ella Rae Henry have left for Salt Lake City to enroll in the University of Utah. Kenneth McLeod and Kenneth Martin are attending the University of Idaho. Jack Falk is attending the New Mexico school of mines and finance. Dunham has left for Boise to begin nurse's training.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

By INEZ FUCKETT

A Teacher's Prayer for the Winter Term

Lord, let me not forget that I am a sculptor who works with living clay and that the impressions which I make may endure for a lifetime; help me to remember that my job, however humble, is a noble one among the jobs of men. Leave my soul with humor, and with pity, that I may understand the pathetic youth-stuff in which I deal. Make me to respect the subjects I teach and present them in sincerity and in truth. Grant me a strong body and a fearless mind with which to meet the challenge of each day. Help me to keep the viewpoint of the adult; to be poised and mature amid the adolescent life about me.

Keep me from giving in to slothfulness by routine; touch my imagination with color and with flame; light my feet along the perilous highway of a changing world. Give me the courage that I fail not, steady me, O Lord, to do my teaching stint without shirking, and help me to say with a peaceful soul, a confident amen.

The above prayer of a teacher makes us think of her. The best days of her life were dedicated to youth and the highest ideals of youthful instruction. First she was a classroom teacher, then a principal. After 23 years in that position she died in harness.

That her memory has grown greener since that sad day in 1945 is shown by the beautiful memorial recently placed in the library of Bickel school in Twin Falls. This consists of two frames, 28 by 64 inches, hung on the northeast wall. The sculptured work presents little children as they sing, frolic and play. On the book cases below, drawing the work into perfect harmony, is the bust of a little girl busy reading a book.

"It's quite fitting that a memorial to Ethel Gray should have many children in it," said Vivian Rink, principal of Bickel. "All her energy and thought was directed to her students. She was never too weary or too busy for their problems and needs."

The memorial is the result of effort on the part of many people; first the PTA got behind the idea, then Mildred Eiro's musical attention donated the proceeds from one year's concert toward it.

Contributions came from local people, from former students of Mrs. Gray and many others. Jessie Fraser, Ann Hayes, Mrs. Elmer Phillips and Mildred Eiro were committee members on the project, and today this beautiful dream of a memorial to a noble Magic Valley educator is a reality.

Mrs. Mary Wall celebrated her 93rd birthday yesterday. This lady is a well known pioneer of the valley and has led an active and exciting life.

"Her special interest has always been music," says a citizen who knows Mrs. Wall, "and you should hear her play the piano!" According to this informant, Mrs. Wall owns an album of old musical scores.

corp for over eight years. "The Marines are a distinctive unit," says Ted. "Any young man who gets in can be proud. Physical and mental requirements are higher today than they have ever been."

The marines are sailors and soldiers, Ted told us, and their duties are exceedingly varied. "A man can get a complete education in this branch of the service," he said. "The marines carry over 200 correspondence courses. Besides this we have many technical schools offering special subjects."

Sergeant Howard, who is chief recruiter, came to Idaho from Dakota. "This outfit offers more money and better opportunity than before the war," he remarked. "There's a lot better chance for advancement, too."

Howard showed us a list of local boys recently recruited: Don Lenn and Robert Leving, Twin Falls; William McCasley, Buhl; Robert Bradshaw, Jerome; John Weir, Jarbligo, Nev.

Serns John hit a new high in the mental tests given the boys. He got 100 per cent!

"The men we enlist go to San Diego for 10 weeks of basic," Howard said. "Then they are given 10 days furlough before being assigned to regular duty stations. The marines have stations all over the southern theater and embassy guards in England, Rome and Paris."

After talking to Ted and Howard we decided the U. S. marines really knew how to select poised, intelligent—ah, yes, and handsome—young men for recruiting purposes. Nice to have these two clean-cut fellows in Magic Valley.

And those pants with the crimson stripes! How they do live up to the scenery!

Here's Everett Gustafson of Burley who took all the trouble to write us the page and column numbers of the recent Times article on Dr. Harry Van Riper. A nice, neighborly doc. Mr. G. and thanks a million. In case any of you folks want this information here it is: July time, page 60, first column.

You kidded—and told! But that's all right! The one you told! Called up last night.

Man is the only animal that can be skinned twice.

Ancient Greek boxing was quite similar to the modern sport except that contestants wore the caestus, a device similar to modern "brass knuckles" rather than boxing gloves.
