Cleveland Captures Title 'S. Marshall' Dropped by 4-3 Win Over Boston Airlift Called Peacemaker

BRAVES FIELD, Boston, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians won their first world series game today by defeating the Boston Braves 4-3 in a spine-tingling sixth game witnessed by 40,103 frantic fans.

Choking off a Braves rally that fell but one run short of tying the score in the eighth inning, left-handed Gene Bearden saved the day for starter Bobby Lemon.

It was as frantic a finish as has been seen in some time in the game. Bearden needed but a run to get even, battling back in fine fashion after the Indians appeared to have the game all secured.

Cleveland took a 4-1 lead in the last of the eighth with Lemon seeming to gain more as he went along. Then he suddenly lost it.

Tommy Holmes' single to center started the rally that came so close to victory. After Al Dark laid out Earl Torgeson, second baseman, Earl Torgeson walked home on a 3-1 count to tie the bases, he was replaced by Braden.

The slim southpaw who had won his playoff game with the Boston Sox and who had shut out the Braves Friday on five hits, choked up the pitcher, and he had to be replaced by pinch hitter City Center, scoring himself.

VFW Council Plans Legislative Program

In a day-long session here Sunday, the state Veterans of Foreign Wars administrative council approved a long list of legislative recommendations and strongly criticized present state administration of veterans' affairs. The council, headed by State Commander James L. Ingalls, includes state officers and commanders of the 10 Idaho districts.

Among the recommendations were:

1. Establishment of a state loan program to enable veterans to buy or otherwise become active in businesses and farms. This would be patterned on similar legislation in Oregon and compensate for inadequacies in the federal GI bill.

Keel emphasized this would not be a burden on the taxpayers. Although a bond issue might be needed to start the program, he said collection of interest at a low rate would make money for the state. He declared that Oregon has made some $1,250,000 from veterans loans.

2. Establishment of a veterans department in the state government. The council urged the appointment of a five-man board by the governor to study the needs of the five veterans organizations. No one organization would be designated as "depository" and the full-time secretary would probably not be a veteran.

Expansion Urged

3. Institution of a long range program to improve conditions and enlarge facilities for the soldiers home at Boise, now populated by veterans of the Civil War and American war. The council urged the home be adequately maintained to accommodate veterans of World War I.

4. Immediate help for veterans on the home front. The council is providing adequate highway facilities to the area. Keel termed present conditions as "deplorable" and declared veterans there are having a hard time with little help from federal or state agencies.

Agency Praised

5. Maintenance of the identity of the state and federal veterans organizations. This was one of the few agencies to receive the praise of the council.

1. Governor Robins, for appointing a committee of veterans to selective service boards throughout the state. Keel declared some 99.7 per cent of all federal workers to be not even questionable.

"You know and I know because the fact that there is no record of those who work in the federal service despite the fact that they have tried to create the false impression of guilt and shame," Keel said.

Truman Says Global Peace Is Paramount

ENROUTE WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN, Oct. 11 (AP)—President Truman told a station platform crowd today he would make peace his paramount goal.

In a brief aside on the international situation at Hamilton, O., Mr. Truman tossed in the remarks after asserting that his administration had fought communism at home and abroad as vigorously as the Russian made him stand at him every day.

He made no further reference to the "peace-of-President" remark.

Blaise Dewey

Earlier, at Cincinnati, O., the President had accused his Republican opponent, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of refusing to tell the truth where he stands on the issue of the GI bill.

Speaking to a breakfast of Cincinnati Democratic leaders at the start of a 10-hour barnstorming tour through Ohio, the President said of Dewey without mentioning his name:

"He claims that if I am elected there will be unity. I don't know what he means by that."

"What's that stand?"

"He won't tell the country where he stands on any of the issues of this campaign."

He said that this is the home city of Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., the senate Republican leader, who has challenged so often the president's foreign policy.

"Taft 'My good friend' the President said the senator's frank statements had dispelled any hope that the GOP would follow a liberal policy."

Hopes Fading for Recovery of Man

HAMILTON, Mont., Oct. 11 (AP)—Hopes began to fade today that 72-year-old H. B. Davis, 2-Elmore, who was believed to be alive in the wild Bitter Root mountains near the Montana-Idaho border.

Serving as jurors are J. D. Acres, O. B. Blackford, Mrs. Edna Bailey, Bert L. Pale, H. E. Powers, A. B. Perry, C. R. Chamberlain, L. B. Tilling, Mrs. C. E. Teater, Harry S. Cowling, D. R. Turner and Harold E. Gaudin.

Bitter Root national forest Supervisor G. M. Brandburg said searchers were trying on two bloodhounds, flown to the scene from here Saturday. Airplanes also have been used in the search.

Emmett Resident Is Hunting Victim

EMMETT, Oct. 11 (AP)—Floyd E. Bligh, 31, Emmett, was asked yesterday, a victim of a hunter-bullet after being mistaken for a deer.

Carson Charles Mahaffey, Gem county, said Bligh's companion, Homer Robert, also of Emmett, had fired the fatal shot in the bellied deer while the two were hunting under the brush near Smiths Ferry.

Bligh is survived by a wife and two sons. He operated a service station here.

Robert brought Bligh's body to Emmett yesterday, after first seeking medical assistance.

Berlin, Oct. 11 (AP)—One of the top British air commanders in Berlin credited the Anglo-American airlift today with having prevented war between the east and west over the Soviet blockade.

The commander, Air Commodore R. N. Waite, said no exact figures were available on the cost of the 114-day-old airlift, but that it was the "best investment ever made."

"We don't know what it costs and we couldn't care less," Waite said. "All we know is that whatever it costs, it is cheaper than another war."

And so far it has prevented that quite successfully."

Other authoritative American and British sources agreed that the airlift is buying precious time for the western powers during which they can continue the search for a settlement that will stop the cold war from erupting.

Cost $400,000 Day

It is expected that available said that the airlift was costing about $1,000 for every plane landing in Berlin every hour $400,000 a day.

Col. William T. Babcock, deputy American commander, said the airlift is enabling the western powers to make three major accomplishments:

1. Boost the German ration in the western sectors of Berlin by as much as 474 calories daily above the level existing before the blockade.

2. Set aside increased food stocks from 10 to 20 per cent above the levels existing when the blockade started.

3. Increase the amount of reserve stocks for essential services, such as power, water, sewage disposal and transport, from 10 to 12 per cent.

Stocks of coal also are being accumulated for home heating, which probably will be permitted to start about Nov. 1.

500 Pounds of Coal

It is expected that Berlin Germans this winter will receive close to the 500 pounds of coal per person every month. Even this amount will be in excess of what the British and Americans had been making for the British.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall hoped that Paris today would herald a week-end in the cold war with Russia.

Marshall planned an early afternoon takeoff, thus winding up a critical period in which he and the President decided (A) to give the world an official version of the proposed Russian mission to Moscow and (B) underline that the whole project has been abandoned.

As a result, the United States was able once again to present to the world a picture of undivided determination in international affairs.

For one thing, reports of a split between Mr. Truman and his secretary of state were formally denied.

Truman himself said he had considered sending Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson to Moscow but had been dissuaded by the State Department.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican challenger to Truman, said the first move in this direction, it came roughly 24 hours after the disclosure that Mr. Truman had considered sending Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson to Moscow but had been dissuaded by the State Department.

Eager Beavers Take Over City's Offices

Considerably more than routine zeal and enthusiasm was shown Monday in the accomplishment of city administrative duties when youth month officials, sponsored by the Jaycees, swarmed from the high school to take over city offices for a day. City officials cooperated wholeheartedly in explaining the duties of their various offices to the young officials.

But the youngsters learned by doing as well as from explanations of their duties. Youth officials accompanied their big brothers and sisters in the city family and in many cases performed the work of running the city household.

Lecturing to a group of young officers was an investigation under way by city police. Chief Howard W. Gillette was interrupted by the arrival of another group of young officers with a young prisoner.

Officer Queried

The police chief questioned the arresting officer, Pat Daly, the youth police chief, to make sure the young man had been made in the proper manner. Then Gillette directed them on the procedure necessary to bring the young offender before a court.

The offender was brought before Youth Police Judge Kenneth W. Gillette, who was charged with creating a disturbance by throwing apples during the Friday night football game.

It's Paradise! Homes Galore In Bremerton

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP)—This Puget sound city of 22,000 comfortably-housed citizens is a paradise for apartment hunters.

The housing shortage is a local problem to most cities from coast to coast, but Bremerton has modern furnished and unfurnished apartments and houses for rent by the acre.

The reason is that more than 25,000 persons have left Bremerton since the end of the war curtailed work in non-essential fields.

Searchers Have Choice

Instead of searching in vain for a place to live, the new-comer here may spend days making a leisurely choice of available apartments and houses.

He can turn to the classified advertising sections of Bremerton's daily newspaper, the Sun, where he will find from one to two columns of apartments and houses for rent.

Random samples from a typical day's column of classified advertisements in the Sun read like this:

"Eight rooms, furnished, fireplace, automatic oil heat, fireproof, grand piano, double plumbing, $100."

"Eight rooms, furnished, fireproof, recreation room, two bedrooms, recreation room, marine view, newly decorated throughout, gardening service, completely furnished, $150."

"Attractive studio apartment; electric kitchen; full bath; marble view; utilities included, $30."

"Living room, kitchen, bedroom, bath, garage, beautiful view Puget sound, close in, all utilities paid, $60."

"Ultra-modern, three bedrooms, two bathrooms, kitchen and living room, furnished, walking distance, $80 per month."

The Bremerton newspaper rarely gets more than two or three "wanted to rent" classified advertisements a day, and local citizens believe those who place and come from uninitiated newcomers.

Author Fears New Video to Be "Monster"

PACIFIC GROVE, Calif. (AP)—"Television can become an octopus," a novelist John Steinbeck believes.

Or, he continued, it can become "a thing of great evil." Steinbeck wants to make it good.

"In any event it is the most powerful means of communication ever devised," the author of "Grapes of Wrath," "Cannery Row" and many other books said.

"To 'Hearse' Life"

"It will rearrange our whole way of life," the writer predicted, "its impact, good or bad, is so powerful because video combines elements of all previous communications media, he explained.

He and a group of his associates have formed a producing company that already has in production "backstage" television shows for sale to stations and sponsors.

Recently returned from New York, Steinbeck is livid over the temporary one-story frame house built years ago by his father.

Renovates Home

The tiny structure, an secluded, tree-lined estate where he wrote some of his most famous stories is being completely renovated.

Clad in a T-shirt and army trousers, Steinbeck settled back in the director's chair, somewhat tired from the confusion and over a cup of coffee explained his views.

"The thing is that the new video, where television is available has changed their whole social life," Steinbeck said. "They have set aside certain nights when they play home for particular programs."

Must Be Good

Interrupting a moment, the tall, broad-shouldered ex-war correspondent clamped his arms around a kitchen cabinet and moved it into place.

"But the program has to be good," he continued. "With radio, people could hear over five persons in a room—ignore it—but with television they walk over and turn off the set."

"Just imagine a housewife in the middle west watching French chefs prepare their world-famous dishes. It's not the same for a Paris fashion opening," he commented, describing two of the shows now in production.

Bureau Study Pauses Until After Election

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (UP)—The investigation study ways to streamline the government's executive branch has recessed until after election day as its congressional sponsors can do some political campaigning.

Plans for the 12-man commission on the organization of the executive branch of government to meet on Oct. 21-22 were shelved, it was said, because the legislators want to be home as the presidential campaign winds up.

The commission's next meeting will be on Nov. 8, six days after the election. Representing congress on the commission are Sen. George D. Aiken, R., Vt., and John I. McClellan, D., Ark., and Rep. Clarence Brown, R., Ohio, and Carter M. Hanson, D., Ala.

The group, under the chairmanship of former President Herbert Hoover, is inquiring into the executive branch to recommend changes which will make it more efficient and economical. It must report to the 81st congress within 10 days after the election begins early in January.

In two days of secret sessions last week, it was learned, the commission delved into two more of the 22 recommendations it recommended changes in the President's own department.

One was a report on federal personnel management in the departments. It was understood to be sharply critical of present methods which depend upon the budget bureau to watch the spending, and the civil service commission to keep an eye on the personnel.

This second report on federal supply and procurement still was occupying the commission's attention when it recessed last week. A 600-page document, it notes that most executive departments and agencies handle their own procurement. It urges that half a dozen or less procurement agencies could do the job better, cheaper and more efficiently.

A total of 62,856 were employed in 11 west coast plants, the report said. This is 1,818 more than on Jan. 1, and 11,801 more than in June when aircraft employment was at one of its lowest ebb.

Mass-Produced Homes, Avers Man Who Did

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Houses should be mass-produced like automobiles to compete in today's home market, says one of the nation's most successful builders.

William J. Levitt of suburban Manassas, Long Island, believes if builders would organize like big manufacturing businesses, new homes could be bigger and better at no greater cost.

Obviously you can't move houses down a conveyor.

Can Move Workers

But you can move specialized workers along a line of houses. And you can arrange delivery of materials and components, just like the flow of automobile parts to an assembly line.

Levitt has used such methods in building some 8,000 houses since the war. Most of these have been in the low-price class, but he has just tapped a new field.

Ignoring reports that demand for $20,000 homes was drying up, Levitt has just sold 100 of them—$20,000 worth—in two days.

"Too Little for Too Much"

Where such houses are idle and unused, he said in an interview, it's a case of "too little house for too much money."

Much of the fault, he believes, lies with "rugged individualists who use the same building methods their grandfathers did."

As proof that mass-production techniques will produce good home values, Levitt submits the record of Levitt and Sons (he's president and one of the sons).

Work Mechanized

This company has mechanized its work wherever possible, has specialized crews working on an assembly-line basis from house to house. It produces its own lumber, nails and cement blocks, has its own trucks.

Set up as an industry, Levitt and Sons has complete engineering, landscaping and legal departments. It even has a plan for workers' retirement at 65, for which it bears the expense.

No Union Labor

The company hires no union labor. Levitt is not over-critical of the productivity of unionized workers, most of whom he says are working on short jobs with uncertain future.

But he believes his employees produce more, and earn more, because in his large-scale operations they are assured of at least nine months of steady work each year.

With this organization, Levitt has nearly completed a new community of 6,000 four-room homes for rental and eventual sale to veterans. Families are moving into "Levittown" houses as fast as they are finished, at the rate of 150 a week.

Amassed at $2000

A surprise even to Levitt was his amassing success, late last month, in tapping the $20,000 market.

For $20,000 up (depending on lot size, from a minimum 100 by 130 feet up to an acre) the purchaser gets a three-bedroom, two-bath home, all on one floor, large unfinished attic, a garage 20 by 25, and two terraces. The houses have double-pane glass throughout, and infra-red and sun lamps are built into the bathrooms. All are equipped with automatic washers, electric ranges and refrigerators.

China Reds Move up

Wendell Industry Ready to Start Operation

Shown above is the new fertilizer plant at Wendell which is ready to start operations in the near future. The plant is owned and operated by three brothers, F. Quincy, Charles T. and John R. Gates. Large Fertilizer Plant Will Start Production at Wendell

WENDELL, Oct. 11—A new multi-million dollar fertilizer industry has sprung up in southern Idaho and soon will start producing triple super phosphate at a gleaming new plant here in the heart of the Magic Valley farming empire.

The product, to Gem State phosphate, the manufacturers are the three Gates brothers—Charles T., F. Quincy and John R.—prominent southern Idaho industrialists.

Only last week the Union Pacific railroad completed a spur line to the manufacturing plant here, over which the heavily-laden, rock-bearing freight cars will roll for unloading at the conveyor.

The ore will be mined on company property near Borden, Wyo., about 20 miles east of Monticello. Preliminary mining began last week, and as soon as all phases of the Wendell operation are complete, 200 tons of rock will be mined daily and shipped from the Borden area to Wendell for processing into fertilizer.

The Gates brothers will be the only Idaho company to produce the triple super phosphate. The triple super product results when the pulverized phosphate rock is acidulated with phosphoric acid.

While the main building of the plant is now complete for housing of grinding and pulverizing equipment, a pre-fabricated building is on the site ready for erection and will be used to produce the company's own phosphoric acid. A water system tested already and installed, and the plant's laboratory is getting finishing touches.

A market for the entire production of the fertilizer is arranged through an agreement with the Idaho Farm Bureau federation, whose 7,000 members in Idaho will purchase the fertilizer.

A majority of money invested in the new enterprise was raised among Farm Bureau members in Idaho. The rapidly expanding Farm Bureau has grown from a few hundred members to more than 7,000, the majority living in southern and southeastern Idaho. D. W. Clegg,

FURNACE

Exclusive Automatic Electric Ignition Control—NO Low Fire or Pilot Stage—Burns Oil Only When Heat is Required!

The typical oil heater is inefficient and uneconomical. Too much heat goes up the chimney; not enough into your house. If the heater has a pilot fire, that's all the worse. You can't save oil when you burn it 24 hours a day!

The solution to your problem is a highly efficient, economical H. C. Little oil floor furnace. This compact unit puts a large volume of heat into the house instead of up the chimney. It has no pilot light or low fire stage. With patented H. C. Little electric ignition, the thermostat turns the furnace on only when heat is required, then turns it off completely until heat is needed again. This is truly automatic operation! It's exclusive to H. C. Little in the oil floor furnace field!
