Slower Tax Payments Seen by 6 County Treasurers in Valley

By HARRY ARNOLD
Twas the week before Christmas and all through the state, adding machines were whirring as county treasurers totted up their collections of taxes for the first half of 1948. Magie Valley treasurers reported 65 per cent of the area's $5,000,000 tax bill for real property had been collected by the money deadline.

The money deadline was enforced rigidly, to the possible dismay of taxpayers who didn't make their payments quite in time either by mail or in person. Tax collections cannot be returned next month when treasurers complete their balances and again open their books for the year.

In Blaine county, collections this year were not as good as last year when first-half collections amounted to $1,802,216. The total 1948 tax due is $2,610,118, compared with $1,847 collections of $2,792,971. Collections in Camas county were reported slightly less than that of this year last year, with about half of

C. C. ANDERSON
TWIN FALLS

WASHINGTON—Now that communist forces seem able to overthrow the Chiang Kai-shek government and seize control of the major portion of Chinese territory, the U. S. State Department and on Capitol Hill admit that the revolution is a fait accompli.

Even Secretary of State Marshall, who once urged that the generalissimo be given a fair trial, now concedes that the communists would share, now concedes that he was mistaken.

His own diplomatic aides have disillusioned him on that score. So has ex-Secretary of State Acheson and William C. Bullitt, who visited China as special emissaries of the senate committee which investigated the relations and appropriations for overseas assistance.

When Chiang Kai-shek falls, according to these reports, the U. S. will be left with a vacuum, and disappear behind the "iron curtain" as completely as Poland, Czechoslovakia and other satellite nations have vanished.

TRAINERS—Eighteen of the 31 acknowledged political and military leaders of the communist movement in China, gained in guerrilla warfare, propaganda and statecraft in the red schools of Russia.

Most of the communist chieftains in China come from wealthy parents. In state departments and military academies, they are doctors, architects, lawyers, engineers, economists, and plain politicians. Although they remain in the background and act as advisers, they are the kind of bosses who run the Communist party in China.

BOSSERS—Like many of the communist leaders in Russia and the Soviet Union, the communist leaders in China are well educated, perhaps overeducated. Contrary to Secretary Marshall's belief, not a one ever handled a shovel or a plow.

Most of the communist chieftains in China come from wealthy parents. In state departments and military academies, they are doctors, architects, lawyers, engineers, economists, and plain politicians. Although they remain in the background and act as advisers, they are the kind of bosses who run the Communist party in China.

SINCERE—Not a single Chinese communist leader has a peasant or agrarian background. They are merely using the starving and anti-Chiang farmers, who are more than ready to take the Communist line of the warfare which has swept the sprawling continent since 1911.

The U. S. leaders, however, seem sincere in their desire for betterment of Chinese conditions. It is Secretary Marshall's belief, also President Truman's belief, that the U. S. will be able to help them as soon as they have gained control of China.

BOSSIER—Here is state department's dealer on the top and the smartest communist in China, a name which will blaze in the headlines in the next few months.

Chairman, central executive committee, Chinese Communist party; chairman, political bureau; secretary general of the secretariat; chairman, central committee; director of the research bureau; president, party school in Yanan.

Born 1882. Primary education: Studied under Mao Tse-tung in the United States, then in the countryside. Attended the Hunan normal school. Led a group of students to Peking to prepare them for study in Peking University in 1919 (preparatory for communist leadership, propaganda and activity on their return to China—Ed. Note.)

PEURANT—Showing his astuteness, Mao Tse-tung quickly broke with a Chinese named Li Li-sang, who had been Stalin's favorite in China. But Mao won out at the end and Li is now the Kremlin's man in China—an outright communist.

Li Li-sang argued with Stalin that China could be soothed through unification of the workers in the cities. Mao said "no." Pointing out that there are few industrial employees in China and Asia, Mao said Stalin to concentrate on the peasants. And it is their belief in Mao-Stalin promises which has fired the anti-Chiang revolution.

WRONG DIRECTION

Venezuela's deposed President Gallegos still says that American oil interests had a hand in the bloodless revolution that ousted him, in spite of state department denials. He also says that a friend saw an American plane attached to a rebel barracks at the time of the coup.

We don't know whether the officer was there, or what he was doing if he was. But we think it safe to assure Mr. Gallegos that Washington would have no interest in seeing the overthrow of the one South American government most like our own.

FORMIDABLE OPPONENT

A lot has been written about President Truman's courage and confidence that carried him to victory in the election. But, according to the lectures, he was never confident nor especially courageous when he came face to face with the live and rambunctious makings of his Christmas dinner. It was evident that the bird had the President worried, to say the least.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG POT SHOTS

NO INFLUENCE

Twin Falls school officials don't have much influence with the state, at least that's what Ed Lander, Bruin basketball coach from the south will tell you.

He really believes the symbol is in more obvious every day. We know that Tucker, another southerner by the way, found out that Ed asked for a sworn statement concerning his position in Twin Falls when he agreed to come here.

Well, water Al Morgan doesn't have any sort of working agreement with the weatherman. Or maybe Al didn't pick any special winter, this one, for example.

WATCHDOG NEEDED

A constituent phoned to inquire if the State's watchdog was barking. We noted all the things that the Pups for Kids Dept. but couldn't find a watchdog. The constituent who phoned like a teacher, doctor, architect, lawyer, engineer, economist, and plain politician. Although they remain in the background and act as advisers, they are the kind of bosses who run the Communist party in China.

SLIPPERY STREETS

You're, the streets of Twin Falls are slipping now. Only the other day Highway slipped one-fourth of a mile north and way across Fliter Ave. The last time one of our streets slipped was the other day. The streets are slipping. It is here that the controversy in difficult negotiations extending over many months. Now the U. N. good offices committee (from name) can only shake an admonitory finger at the offender.

WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE

It old Mother Nature continues to pile up snow in the mountains around the headwaters of Snake river, Shoshone falls may present one of its best shows in recent years.

With the best months for snow and rain still in the future. Another week or so and we'll have 40,000 acre feet of being filled to its 1,700,000 acre feet capacity. Jackson Lake, the other large reservoir on Snake river, isn't even half full but there's lots of deep snow above the reservoir.

Snow measurements on the watershed vary from three to six feet. These measurements have ample warning in case you want to take some photos next spring.

WATKINS TRUMAN WINS!

Today Idaho's four electors gazed at Boise—as do their counterparts in the forty-seven other state capitals—to choose the next president and vice president of the United States. And would that the founding fathers' shades might be there to see what has happened to their great idea.

Four good people will be on hand if you have forgotten who voted for them: Mrs. William Armstrong, Philip Ryan, Emma Alexander Simons and Ralph Shaver. They may be as well known to you as they are to me.

But it is not entirely horseplay. Legally, each elector will be free today to vote as he pleases. If they so wish, the electors may vote for their own nominees, and entirely disregard the mandate of the people. Under the constitution there is no device, save the electors' own sense of honor, to prevent such a course.

The possibility of such a weird happening comes about as follows: The constitution decided against direct election of the president by the people. Committees were set up in those days, communication was slow, and the electors were not sufficiently informed on the candidates to vote intelligently.

Hence arose the ingenious plan for indirect election, "by judicious persons, specially chosen by the people for that purpose," as James Bruce, the historian, explained it. Outstanding men were to be chosen in each state. They were to be men of the highest character, and of the highest knowledge, agree upon a president and vice president. It was provided that each state have a number of electors corresponding to the total of its congressional delegation.

This it happens that we in Idaho chose four Democratic electors, and they are now here to vote before they know whom they were to vote for, and who will vote today for candidates named by a Democratic ticket with no resemblance in law, and who presumably will accept the dictates of the voting citizens of Idaho though not in the least legally obligated to do so—Lexington Tribune.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—The cartoonists these days customarily show the United Nations as a poor, frightened creature seeking refuge from the storms of violence and hatred spawned by a divided world.

She studdes in a doorway out of the cartoonist's hand, at least that's what Ed Lander, Bruin basketball coach from the south will tell you.

We really believe the symbol is in more obvious every day. We know that Tucker, another southerner by the way, found out that Ed asked for a sworn statement concerning his position in Twin Falls when he agreed to come here.

Well, water Al Morgan doesn't have any sort of working agreement with the weatherman. Or maybe Al didn't pick any special winter, this one, for example.

STREETS CLIP

In a bitter dispute before New York's board of estimates, Mayor William O'Dwyer accused Webb and Knapp of having a financial interest through the sale of real estate in the area. The firm had proposed that certain property be condemned by the city and sold under condemnation. Not long after this charge was made, Webb and Knapp one of the largest operators. They owned adjoining lots in U. N. area.

This step was taken in order to avoid any appearance of having a selfish interest. But it did not break the deadlock. Since, according to his limited report, is still holding out for his limited objective.

This may seem to be a last resort temper when measured alongside the other trouble brewing in various parts of the earth. Yet it has more significance than we may realize. The psychologists tell us that we do count for more than what we say.

From the first, the U. N. has fared badly in this country. U. N. officials will not soon forget their scramble to find a place to build world capital. The poor refuge sent from city to city, including several here in the east that had seemed to be friendly.

"The action of Martin, Hallerck and Wolcott was the other extreme. Cooper, who was defeated for reelection, coupled his criticism with an analysis of what he thinks the GOP should do."

He called for: (1) A change in leadership of the Republicans in congress to provide a more responsive representation of the will of the mass of Republican voters;

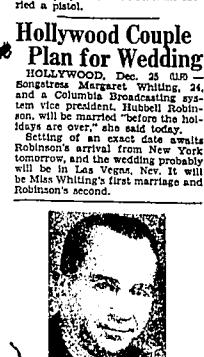

(2) A rebuilding of the party organization through the state, county and precinct levels, with an accent on the interests of young voters; and

(3) A re-statement of the party's principles based on some positive political philosophy which can stand the test of changing events and circumstances.

Bowl Games to Reap Rich Gates, Profits in Millions

NEW YORK, Dec. 25 (AP)—Attendance may be sagging in most sports events but the football bowl games still pack a wallop at the gate. An all-time record turnout of 891,404 is expected to pay $2,645,800 to watch 16 post-season spectacles Jan. 1 and two minor games earlier in the week.

Two of the sprawling enterprises shows that the Sugar bowl in New Orleans anticipates one of the largest gate receipts of $1,000,000. The Orange bowl at Miami, Colo., is expected to bring in $1,000,000. The Fiesta bowl at San Francisco is expected to bring in $1,000,000. The Rose bowl at Pasadena, Calif., is expected to bring in $1,000,000. The Cotton bowl at Dallas, Tex., is expected to bring in $1,000,000. The Sun bowl at El Paso, Tex., is expected to bring in $1,000,000. The Sugar bowl at New Orleans is expected to bring in $1,000,000. The Orange bowl at Miami is expected to bring in $1,000,000. Mayor Michael De Vita said he would study a report on prejudice by Dr. Robert D. Lytle, director of the Division of Social Studies, University of California, Berkeley. Lytle's report, "Prejudice: A Study of the Causes and Remedies," is one of the most comprehensive studies ever published on the subject.

Sacred Fire to Start Sun Bowl Sports Activity

PAASO, Ariz., Dec. 23 (AP)—Sacred fire from the heart of old Mexico will be brought north to light a sun bowl and to start annual sun carnival next week.

The fire will be born by Tarahumara Indians of the area near Chihuahua, Mexico.

Ahead of the fire-carriers, two teams of Indian runners will race 200 miles from Chihuahua City to Paaso, across the International border. The runners will carry the fire to the sun bowl in the presence of annual Tarahumara sun carnival. The event is a religious ceremony which has been held for centuries in the area.

Lettermen Boost SICE Cage Squad

Ducks Base Cage Hopes on Giant Player, but That's Not Enough

EGEGNE, Ore., Dec. 25 (AP)—Oregon's chances in the Coast conference northern division basketball race measure six feet, eight inches. That's probably not enough. For it takes five good men to make a championship team, and at this writing Coach John Warren does not have four others to go along with the six-foot, eight-inch Roger Wiley.

It's almost enough, though all but the six-foot, eight-inch Wiley are 220-pounds. He is agile for a big man. He pops in rebounds like another might pop peanuts into a bag.

Minor Outlaw Calls Meeting

An important meeting for all franchise holders in the minor outlaws league will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the Idaho Power company auditorium in Twin Falls, Ray Van Buren, Twin Falls, league president, announced.

Van Buren said it is necessary for each team in the league to have a representative at the meeting. All teams wishing to enter either the eastern or western division of the outlaw league are asked to have representatives at the meeting. Van Buren also announced the schedule for league games for Monday, all games at 8 p. m.

Florida Track $92,000 in Red

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 23 (AP)—Tropical track race course has announced it will be closed to the red after the first half of its 40-day meeting.

Weathering is down about 30 percent from last year and the track participates a loss of just an "even buck" in that area.

Bruce Langston, a tropical expert, said that the track would have to run about a half-million dollars a day for the balance of the season to break even.

Huskies to Keep Odell as Coach

SEATTLE, Dec. 23 (AP)—It was reported unofficially at the University of Washington head football coach Howie Odell and his staff have been retained for 1949 under a one-year agreement.

Manager of Athletics Wendell Broyles said he had not been informed officially on the matter but there was no question that the Odell regime would continue. Athletics Director Harvey Cassel was en route to California and not available for comment.

W.S.C. Vandal Rifle Squads Slate Match

PULLMAN, Wash., Dec. 25 (AP)—Washington State college and the University of Idaho rifle teams will meet on Tuesday, the 11th day of January, 1949, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the office of said University in Twin Falls, Idaho for the purpose of electing five members of the Board of Directors and transacting such other business as may come before said meeting.

Coast Loop Sets Annual Meeting

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25 (AP)—Officials of the Pacific Coast inter-collegiate conference go into their annual winter huddle at Palm Springs Jan. 2, and the agenda, as announced, looks as dry as the daily weather report of that famous California spa.

Conference Commissioner Victor O. Schmidt detailed the program of affairs which he said were "included" in matters due for official attention.

Not included—but which might be—were such pertinent topics as: A definite policy on conference football teams engaging in New Year's day bowl games other than the Rose bowl. A definite policy on conference football teams engaging in New Year's day bowl games other than the Rose bowl. A definite policy on conference football teams engaging in New Year's day bowl games other than the Rose bowl.

Now for matters "included" on Schmidt's agenda—

Discussion of televising athletic events and recommendations based on experimental video treatment given to certain football games. Football schedules beyond 1950, the 1949 and 1950 schedules having already been drawn. (Except for the reversal of the UEO-Notre Dame contract which expires next year.)

Supplementary spring football practice for candidates without varsity experience, and whether playing on junior varsity or lighted teams shall count as a year of completion.

Winter football practice and conditioning (which, without saying so, reflects comment from some quarters).

SAVE THIS COAL

When a 25% Smaller Pile Will Do the Job?

By applying oxygen to the center of the fire, an area starved by conventional stokers, the new Down-Draft Jet sets so much more heat out of coal that the usual cost of stoker firing is reduced as much as 25%.

1948 Has Been Busy Year for Sports World

NEW YORK, Dec. 25 (AP)—This has been a busy year in sports, with grim struggles in the ice and head-on collisions in the ring—but at times there has been lighter moments which have brightened the gloom.

For instance, there was the Santa Barbara stakes, won by Mrs. Anita King, a right-hander from Southern California and Bob Summerhays, who won the University of Utah.

Explanations Attempted on North Lights

By J. HUGH FRUETT, Astronomer, Extension Division, Oregon Higher Education System.

The aurora borealis which at times paints the northern skies with various colored arcs and shafts and curtains have over the years evoked curious interpretations. Some authorities consider these manifestations are omens of coming events. Others believe that still holding is the old theory that these are reflections of brilliant sunlight from polar icebergs.

The sun does reflect from the Arctic ice—sometimes continuously for 24 hours a day during our summer. A heavy stretch of the imagination might convince one that the summer auroral glow comes from 2,000 miles around the curve of the earth, but how shall we explain the gorgeous displays of our winter when continuous night prevails over the vast polar regions?

Due to Particles

These polar lights are now thought due to particles thrown off from the region of sunspots. These particles seem to be principally electrons, or negative electricity, forced away from the sun by tremendous light pressure. The electrons cross the 92,000,000-mile wilderness of interplanetary space at approximately 1,000 miles per second, thus reaching the earth in about 24 hours.

When the electrons come under the influence of the earth's magnetic field, they are strongly deflected from their straight-line course. Moving in large curves around the earth, they easily get onto the night side. Gaining down the earth's magnetic lines of force, they enter the rarefied upper atmosphere and cause the aurora glow, either directly or by induction.

40 to 250 Miles High

Accurate trigonometric measurements in Europe and North America show that during intense auroral displays the glow exists in the region from 40 miles to 250 miles above the earth. Most of them appear at an altitude of 100 miles.

A corresponding phenomenon can be produced in a dark room in a long glass tube sealed at the ends with metal caps. If a high voltage induction coil is connected by the tube caps and the electricity turned on, no light is seen in the air inside the tube. But if an air pump is set to work to drawing the air from the tube, after a little while a glow begins to appear.

As the pumping is continued, a stronger nebulosity fills the entire space. Finally when the air becomes extremely rarefied the glow ceases. This we find that when the air density is too high or too low, no glow is visible. In between conditions, the glow is at its effect.

In the outside free air above the earth an air pump is not needed to produce the glow. In this condition is found by going to greater and greater heights. Between 40 and 250 miles the glow is at its best. Below and above these levels it is not.

It has been suggested that ultraviolet radiation from the sun might produce the aurora, but the electron theory holds first place at present.

Christmas Eve In Peiping Not Like Elsewhere

By SPENCER MOOSA, PEIPING, Dec. 25 (AP)—It was Christmas eve in Peiping.

In some lands there are carolers in the streets.

If there is anyone in Peiping's streets after 8 p. m., he stands in wait of spending the rest of the hallowed eve with the police.

No one is allowed abroad after that hour, and the police say it is dangerous because there aren't enough street lights.

The police aren't afraid of thieves—those fellows that in other lands might steal a gift from under your arm or your tree.

In other lands there might be chimas ringing.

What you heard, if you thrust your head out of the door, was the bang of gunfire near the temple of the god of wealth.

Even that is reassuring. It means the fighting is at least two and a quarter miles west of Peiping, because that is where the temple is.

Christmas eve in Peiping.

Gooding Woman Makes Pheasant Plaques

Valley Woman Makes Unique Plaques From Pheasant Skins

By LETHA TESTER (Copyright, Dec., 1943)

GOODING, Dec. 25.—To most people a pheasant is now just a fond memory of a successful hunting trip, a delicious meal or a memory of brilliant plumage flashing through the air with the wings of wings. But Mrs. George M. Loveland Gooding, they mean beautiful wall plaques, capturing the beautiful colors and a lovely decoration for living room or hunter's den.

This original and unusual method of preserving one of nature's most colorful birds has become a fascinating hobby with Mrs. Loveland. It is not the usual "stuffed bird" mounting but a beautiful, natural looking hobby with Mrs. Loveland. The bird is still kept in its natural position but still gives the effect of a pheasant in natural poise.

Funners of the community, knowing Mrs. Loveland's unusual hobby, bring skins of birds to her for processing. She has never had any instruction in taxidermy but has learned through the old "school of experience" just how to preserve skins, how to give feathers a sheen of lasting beauty, how to stuff the head and replace the eyes.

When the Lovelands came to Idaho from Missouri about 12 years ago she was struck by the brilliance of the pheasant plumage. She had never seen one of the birds before and wished she could preserve their loveliness. She remembers her childhood experience with stuffing a squirrel. Her first attempt with taxidermy was a realistic reproduction of the tiny animal running up a tree. It caused much comment by all who saw it.

The first pheasant Mrs. Loveland made into a plaque, soon after she came to Idaho, still retains its original luster and beauty after 12 years.

A finished plaque may contain parts of three or four different birds since hunters seldom kill a bird without damaging some part. She spends hours matching saddle feathers, tail feathers and wings. Each feather must be exactly right and in harmony with the original bird.

"The first thing I do when a kill is brought to me is to begin to work up the horns," said Mrs. Loveland. "Few people realize that a pheasant does have horns. Hunters often tell her they see them when the pheasant runs across the field and then after they are shot they can never find the horns."

Recovery for 19 Nations Laggging Behind Schedule

PARIS, Dec. 25 (AP)—The European recovery program governments of western Europe are facing the grim fact that they are not covering as fast as the recovery program demands.

There are many explanations for this, but the executive committee of the organization of western powers has decided after lengthy conferences to lay the cold fact before the United States.

An interim report on the situation was virtually put in order at a meeting which lasted late into the night. The report has some minor changes to be made before the report is handed to Paul G. Hoffman, director of EPRU. In net effect the story will be this:

1. The 19 ERP members were expected by 1952 to be able to finance their own dollar purchases with exports instead of drawing on the U. S. treasury under the ERP plan. There doesn't seem much chance that they can do it.
2. The 19 associates will still need from the U. S. possibly one or three billion dollars a year.
3. The interim report will suggest several ways of improving the situation, but none sure-fire.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

BY INEZ FUCKETT
 The following passage from the Old Testament contains—1949 wish for all you kind and generous people of Magic Valley:
 "The Lord bless thee and keep thee;
 The Lord increase thy space to shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee;
 The Lord lift up his countenance upon thee and give thee peace."
 It was almost midnight. Someone gently shook the sleepy-bell in the front door of this Little High House. An old man stood outside in the white rain. He wore a robe and a cozy chair by the fire. There was an hour glass in his spidery hands. He set it gently on the desk.
 "When the sand has run, it must go," he said, and whisked the frost from his beard.
 We talked then, about the 12 months that had passed, and his eyes kept watching the hour glass where the puddle of sand was slowly melting down. When only a few grains were left, he rose and pulled the cow about his head, and said to the outside world, "Come in," we said, and helped him to a cozy chair by the fire. There was an hour glass in his spidery hands. He set it gently on the desk.

Holiday Times. One summer I heard horses on the Mallard river, later went over the Sawtooth as chairman for a surveying crew; taught school at Bullion when I was 18, at 13 I shot my first antelope with a Winchester lever shotgun and a load of buckshot.

Mr. Butler says the country around here used to be alive with game. "Those were the days," he writes. "This interesting ex-Idahoan lived in Silver City during the Dancoy Indian war. In 1921 he left the state, and didn't return until 1928 when he and his wife camped on Wood river." "My professional record will be found in Who's Who from 1929 on," he says. His letter ends like this: "If I had writing ability I'd do a book on my first 32 years out there and call it 'Idaho Boy'. It would open the eyes of the young men and women who think they have a tough time today."

"Come up and see my tele-fax, it's an invitation to eating... And may prove a big incentive on the con about the eating."
 Lava Rock Lem says he's bought up all the old 1948 calendars for a penny each. "It's a long chance," he says. "But if 1948 ever comes back, I'll make a fortune!"

This Magic Valley kid is now doing his time in the Army and writes that he's making out fine since he follows three rules:
 1. If it doesn't move, pick it up. 2. If it's too big to pick up—paint it.

Officers Selected, Projects Aired by Men at Castletford
 CASTLEFORD, Dec. 25—New officers elected at a recent meeting of the Castletford Men's club are: Fred Ringert, president; Bill Kinyon, first vice president; Al Kramer, second vice president; Howard Barnes, secretary-treasurer; Ed Conrad; Raleigh Senter; Gene Walters; Frank Strubb, director; and John Block, trustee for three years.

Plans were made to hold a farm institute in the near future. A committee, headed by Ray Cothran, appointed to investigate the possibility of enlarging the seating capacity in the high school gymnasium. Ray Patterson, recreation committee chairman, reported prospects are good for the repair of the Bull-Castletford road.
 A large representation from Castletford plans to attend a meeting of the Southern Idaho Falls and Game association in Twin Falls next month. Preparation of Christmas baskets and prospects for obtaining a Scoutmaster were also discussed at the meeting.
 The next meeting will be the annual club banquet and installation of officers.

Honor Ceremony Held for Gooding Boy Scout Group
 GOODING, Dec. 25—Awards presented at the Gooding district Boy Scout court of honor this week have been announced by District Chairman Fred N. Locke.
 Life rank, a high award in Scout work, was presented to Verne Dille of troop 31 by his father, Herbert Dille. First class rank went to Doyle Allen and Lee Allen of troop 98 and second class rank was awarded to Kevin Palmer, troop 88; Frank Miles, Stanley Day, Boyd Edlund and Richard Clemons, all troop 33.

Second class merit badges were presented to two troop 31 members, Clifford Nicholson, carpentry and home repairs, and Phillip Becker, wood carving. Dwayne Griffith, troop 33, physical development; Jimmy Myers, Billy Maxwell, Jimmy Hall, troop 86, first aid.
 The court consisted of Locke, District Commissioner; Walter Dixon, and Roy Palmer, Scoutmaster of the troop at Dilla. The three were appointed as a committee to plan the annual roundup during Boy Scout week in February.

Regular Hour
 Twin Falls stores will open at the regular hour of 9 a. m. Monday, according to Elvii Cain, chairman of the Merchants' Bureau. Cain said some confusion had arisen over a survey regarding a plan for stores to remain open Monday night the year around by not opening until noon on Mondays. He said the proposal is still being studied.

Crop Support Riddle Facing 81st Congress

By ROBERT E. BEIGER
 WASHINGTON, Dec. 25 (AP)—What sort of a farm price support program would be fair to both the farmer and the consumer?

Ever since the first World War, congress has been trying to find one. The issue is to be debated again soon after the new congress meets in January.

Farmers are beginning to fear that when the present price support program ends in 1950 their income will drop too sharply.

Two Views Held
 Many city dwellers, who have to buy the food the farmer raises, believe the government price support program has tended to keep food prices high. Some want the price support program stopped.

The problem is to find a method for guaranteeing or insuring the farmer against a "fair" price without keeping the cost of food too high for the city dweller.

The government has attempted to do this in various ways. Outright subsidies have been paid. There have been production control programs, marketing agreements, export subsidies and loan programs. That one of them is better than the other is still in effect.

"Fairly" is Sought
 Agricultural economists seeking a method to determine a "fair" price at which crops should be supported came up in 1933 with the "parity" price. This was based on the agricultural adjustment act that year. The economists studied a base period from August, 1909, to July, 1914, in which they believed prices for most farm products were more stable than in other years for which records were kept.

Parity was figured this way: First an index was made of the prices the farm family had to pay in the base period for 180 articles needed for family living and to operate a farm, and the cost of taxes and interest. These were national averages.

Also U. S. Average
 Next an index was made of the prices farmers received for their products in the base period. There were national averages also.

Each index was given the same numerical value—100.

On Jan. 15, 1947, the prices of the 180 articles in the index of things the farmers have to buy stood at 215. This means the prices of these 180 articles had gone up 115 points since 1909-1914.

In the 1909-1914 period wheat averaged 84 cents a bushel. Therefore, the parity price for wheat on Jan. 15, 1947, would be 84 multiplied by 2.15 or $1.80 a bushel.

This $1.80 would buy the farmer the same proportion of the 180 articles in the index in January, 1947, as the 84 cents he received in 1909-1914 would have bought at the time.

In Terms of Goods
 The parity price for any group of crops may be added together on any date and a parity ratio may be established. This shows whether the farmer, on any date, is making more or less return on his crops expressed in terms of goods—than farmers did in the base period of 1909-1914.

Congress has guaranteed the farmer, in various ways since 1933, that he will receive the parity price or more for some crops he raises. If the market price doesn't equal the parity price, the government stands ready to make up the difference.

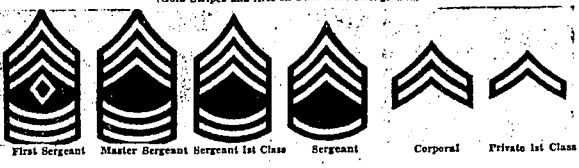

Tied to Living Cost
 The parity formula attempts to tie the crop prices to the farmer's cost of living. If the prices of the things he has to buy go up, so do the support prices. If the farmer's costs go down, so do support prices.

The parity formula was "modernized" by the 80th congress in 1946. The 1909-1914 base period still is used, but in addition the average prices paid and received by farmers in the 10-year period preceding the date for which a parity price is being set, also are taken into consideration.

Power Users Tax Area's Facilities

SPOKANE, Dec. 25 (AP)—For the second time in as many weeks, electricity users called on the northwest power pool Friday night for more power than it was able to produce.

An all-time high of 3,905,000 kilowatts was generated by the private and publicly owned systems combining the pool.

This was reported by P. M. Hatch, supervising engineer of the Washington water power inter-company operations.

He said during the peak load period, from 5:20 to 8:30 p. m., facilities of 150 power plants in the pool were taxed so heavily that generators slowed down two-tenths of a cycle.

The peak was reached despite the holiday closing of one Spokane industrial firm which ordinarily uses 50,000 kilowatts.

Hatch attributed the heavy load to the severe cold in Montana and Utah.

TRIP TO TEXAS
 FAIRFIELD, Dec. 25 — Mr. and Mrs. Jim Armstrong and family, Corporal, E. V. Fay and Carol Fay, Fairfield, have departed on a trip to Texas and other southern states during the Christmas season.

Whew!

ESTHERVILLE, Ia., Dec. 25 (AP)—Bob Peterson, farm bureau fieldman for Emmet county, sighed when he opened his monthly light bill from the city. It was for $1,189.95.20.

Explanation: City Clerk Glenn Story said the billing machine went hay wire. The amount should have been $3.50.

Threat of Prison Hangs Over Man

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Dec. 25 (AP)—A 35-year-old lumberjack, his life sentence pardoned by a governor who believed him innocent, walked out of the Washington state penitentiary into the shadow of the Oregon state prison.

But the shadow won't reach Clarence Boggie until after Christmas, at least. And it may never touch him at all.

Boggie, who served 13 years here for a murder he said he did not commit, walked from his cell here to spend Christmas with the aged Lebanon, Ore. parents who never believed him guilty.

Months later, Oregon Parole and Probation Director H. M. Randall disclosed that Boggie still had a

Capital Shifts To Be Many In Few Days

By ARTHUR EDSON
 WASHINGTON, Dec. 25 (AP)—There will be many capital shifts in town when the new congress takes over in a couple of weeks.

You've heard of the big changes in Democratic speaker of the house, Democratic chairman of committee... that sort of thing. But there will be other changes that will be a few shaves less than wind-shaking.

For instance, the special committee on reconstruction of senate roof and skylights and remodeling of house chamber will be looking for a new chairman. Present head: Senator Stevenson of W. Va.

Christmas Bonus Goes to Germans

BERLIN, Dec. 25 (AP)—The Russians announced Christmas bonuses of an extra month's pay for leading employees of coal and power industries in the eastern zone.

Mikhail Vasily Sokolovsky, Soviet commander in Germany, issued an "order of the day" in which he congratulated the two industries for meeting all production goals for 1948, and said those responsible would be awarded with the bonus.

Tallest?

TAHOE CITY, Calif., Dec. 25 (AP)—The "tallest Christmas tree in America" derby had another entry today.

Tahoe City residents lighted and decorated an 108-foot Ponderosa pine which grows smack in the middle of the town's main street.

The 5,000 colored lights adorning the giant tree can be seen for 13 miles across Lake Tahoe, around Tahoe City's claim.

Governor Plans Shift to Senate

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 25 (AP)—Gov. Lester C. Hunt says tonight he will resign at 10 a.m. Jan. 3 to become U.S. senator. Hunt is a Democrat.

He defeated Sen. E. V. Robertson in the November election. Hunt announced his resignation date to Secretary of State A. G. Clegg, who will become acting governor at that time. Clegg will hold the office until 1950.

Whisky Mash Fed Livestock On Big Farm

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS SUNSET HILLS, Va., Dec. 25 (AP) — Not one of the animals on the 7,100 acres of Sunset hills ever had a drink of water.

This sprawling, wooded farm is home grounds for a small family who will believe it or not, had a lot to do with the drinking habits of the livestock.

The mash, by the way, does wonders for the livestock. A. Smith Bowman, aged 80, and his two sons, A. Smith, Jr. and E. DeLoane, noted that the milk cows did a 30 per cent better job of filling milk pails on the farm.

The animals themselves go for the mash. One proof of this came one day when the older Bowman sold a pig to one of his neighbors.

Lost Sight by Atom Experts May Be Boon

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25 (AP) — Cataracts suffered by five pioneer atomic physicists may give them new knowledge of an old and baffling affliction.

Through the long history of medicine, men have lost their sight because of cataracts. But science still knows little about the nature of this affliction.

The five physicists were among the first to work in this country with atomic physics and are called cyclotronists. These devices generate high speed neutrons as projectiles.

They provided experiments which "showed the existence of neutrons," he said, "for experimental study of cataracts."

Through little is known as to the cause of cataracts and nothing as to their cure, cataract blindness need not be permanent.
