8 in 1 Family Die as Cabin Lost in Blaze

SANDY, Ore., March 8 (UP)—A family of eight perished early today in a flash fire that destroyed a cabin at Wilson mill, 11 miles south of here.
 Burned to death before they had a chance to escape were LeRoy A. Ludwig, 34; his wife, Wang, about 37; and their six children, Rebecca, 15; Jerry, 13; Dennis, 10; Michael, 7; Ronnie, 5, and Cathie, 5 months.
 Awakened by dog
 Carl Wilson, owner of the mill, told authorities he noticed the fire at 1:15 a.m. when he was awakened by the barking of his dog. He said he looked out a window of his home to see the Ludwig cabin in flames.
 He said the entire interior seemed to be afire. Flames were shooting out the window.
 After a vain attempt to rescue the family, Wilson summoned the Sandy fire department and sheriff's deputies.
 No chance for rescue
 "It all happened so fast there was no chance to do a thing toward rescue," Wilson said.
 Wilson said an overhauled stove apparently caused the fire.
 Ludwig had been employed at the mill for the past two years. The Ludwig cabin was one of 14 scattered around the mill for workers and their families.
 Clackamas County Coroner Ray Ruliance removed the charred bodies to Oregon City after a preliminary investigation at scene of the tragedy.
 Cities and counties in Georgia collected $4,900,000 from alcoholic beverages in 1948.

Taylor Proposes Dry Pea Control

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—Sens. Taylor and the agricultural department today northwestern pea growers might be willing to accept acreage control.
 He protested the department's proposal to end price supports for the crop.
 He wrote Ralph B. Tritz, president of the commodity credit corporation: "I believe most of the growers who have contacted me would cooperate fully in a program of acreage control in order to keep the support in effect."
 Most of the production of dried edible peas is concentrated in Idaho and Washington state, Taylor said. Withdrawal of supports, he added, would have a "very serious" effect on the region's economy.

Play Is Produced By Church Group

PAIDREZED, March 8—An estimated 30 persons attended the Intermediate MYP play, "The Black Onyx," presented Friday and Saturday at the high school auditorium. Net proceeds from the play were $42. The group's next project is to buy a calendar sign to be erected at the front of the Community church, the Rev. Jack Taylor said. The Rev. Taylor thanked Carl Henderson and Carl Warner, class superintendent, and others in the case for helping produce the play.

Thin Spud Plants, PMA Man Urges
 March 8—Carl Kern, county production committee, urged city growers to plant acreage allotment for spuds at the continued program many potatoes, and which must be made them, damage the Idaho growers and have all farm price support programs.
 A price-support program entirely upon cooperation of growing with their acreage allotment.
 Kern said a reduction acreage of only one per cent would result in a 100 percent increase in the price of potatoes.
 He said the weather and irrigation, especially during the winter, are what the 1949 crop amount to about 100,000 bushels. About 100,000 bushels of the 1950 crop are expected.

Cheap Spud Seed Warning Sounded

JEROME, March 8—County Agent Virgil B. Cross advises farmers there is, and will be, a large supply of cheap potato seed offered for sale in Jerome county, explaining this seed is offered as one-year-out and comes from the upper Snake River seed-growing area. Cross warns Jerome county farmers this seed is almost entirely from fields that have been turned down for certification because of bacterial ring rot. He suggests if Jerome county farmers are going to plant one-year-out seed that they get seed they know—preferably grown by themselves.

Loyalty Vows Are Scorned By Teachers

BERKELEY, Calif., March 8 (AP)—University of California professors voted 900-0 last night to refuse to sign a non-communist oath imposed by the board of regents.
 They acted at a three-and-one-half-hour meeting of the academic senate for the northern section. (The university has eight campuses and two senate sections, the other in the south.) The senate is a self-governing body of full professors, associate and assistant professors.
 In other actions they:
 1. Took a firm stand against communists in the university.
 2. Expressed willingness to accept the standard oath of allegiance taken by all state officials—also national, including the President of the United States.
 3. Offered a substitute for the regents' oath.
 The regents-imposed oath called for signing by all university employees—12,000 in all—by April 30 or resignation.
 The senate substitute includes:

Another Navy Critic Ousted In New Row

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—A Washington naval doctor who criticized the secretary of Defense hospitalization of military hospitals was transferred out of a defense post, it was disclosed today.

Dr. Earl Adm. Joel T. Boone, who has a long career as a naval physician to three military hospitals, was transferred from the defense department to the War Relocation Authority. The defense department was informed on Feb. 28 that Dr. Boone was to be transferred from his post as chief of the defense hospitalization division of the defense department to the War Relocation Authority's office of medical services.

An instrument given to the War Relocation Authority for Boone was returned to the defense department. Officials said that Boone had declined to give the instrument for the transfer. However, it was returned to Boone on the condition that Boone order an "abortive" transfer.

It was what he called it when he was transferred as a witness before a Senate subcommittee on military and naval affairs. He said, it would affect the military and naval affairs of the United States. Boone was the latest in a long line of naval officers who have been ousted as chief of naval operations and other high positions. Boone's transfer was the latest in a long line of naval officers who have been ousted as chief of naval operations and other high positions.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

The tone of the 1937 war was Charles Augustus Lindbergh, an obscure aviator and barnstorming pilot who overnight became America's top hero. The whole world waited breathless when Lindy took off from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., on that morning of May 20, 1927, and headed his plane, the "Spirit of St. Louis," toward Paris, fame and fortune. The drama of the handsome young flyer leading the broad Atlantic alone in a tiny monoplane captured the world's imagination. On the evening of May 21, word flashed to the world that he had landed near Paris, totally unprepared for the wild reception that greeted him there. "He made it," said the quiet, modest flyer when other pilots, called "flimsy," "two" meant Lindy and the plane, which thereafter became a personality in its own right.

Four Tots Burned To Death in Blaze
NEWARK, Del., March 8 (AP)—Four children, ranging from 1 to 4 year old, burned to death in their beds last night as an oil stove touched off a blaze that engulfed their frame home, firemen reported. Dead were Bernard Courtney, 1; his brothers, Robert, 2, and Warren, 3, and a sister, Marie, 4. Firemen said they had no chance to rescue the Negro children from their blazing home on Newark's western outskirts. Only a few moments before the fire their mother, Mrs. Sarah Courtney, 25, had taken her 2-month-old baby to a neighbor across the street for a brief visit with her mother.

300 Expected For Legion's Policy Confab

SPOKANE, March 8 (AP)—More than 300 delegates, including 400 western governors, are expected here Thursday for the opening of a three-day regional economic conference sponsored by the American Legion.

The governors, Arthur Leggett, Washington; Douglas McKay, Oregon; John Bonner, Montana; and C. A. Robins, Idaho, will arrive here tomorrow to attend a meeting of the Columbia basin inter-agency committee.

Gov. Earl Warren, California, and Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman had also been expected to attend the Legion conference but officials said last night the two would not be able to come.

Robert Morrow, Brandon, Minn., chairman of Legion's agriculture and conservation committee, will deliver the keynote address on Thursday.

Joseph J. King, Portland, Ore., a member of the committee, said one of the reasons for the conference is to help formulate Legion policy on agriculture and conservation.

Speakers will include Edward B. Lasser, administrator of the farmer's home administration; Jay Hornell, midwestern meat packer; Dr. Frank Haver of the Bonneville power administration; Ronald A. Borne, president of Montana State college; and Herman Dyer, assistant commissioner of the bureau of labor statistics.

King said delegations from San Francisco and southern California are expected along with a representative of Governor Warren. Fay Hunter, regional director of social security, and Glenn Brockway of the U. S. employment service, are among the delegates expected from San Francisco. The conference ends Saturday.

Reconciliation Of Pea Support Action Is Urged On Hard Coal

WASHINGTON, March 8 (Special)—Gen. Glenn Taylor wrote to Ralph S. Trigler, director of the commodity credit program, today urging reconsideration of a recent decision to cut out price supports for the 1945 dried pea crop. He believes Idaho farmers would accept drastic acreage controls if the government would...

He has been receiving letters and petitions from growers in New Mexico, Utah, and Montana who are also active in the agricultural department and are supporting the action. Taylor said the action is being taken to help the farmers who are in a difficult position.

He said if a problem is discovered in one school or area it can be taken to the council. If the problem affects the community then a council project can be undertaken. Mrs. Hayes added that the project is being undertaken by the school board.

She commented the council should hold at least one school instruction class each year and council chairman should have a district local school chairman.

Mrs. L. C. Hammel presided at the business meeting of the council. The association president reported the founder's day fee will be $100.00.

The Washington PTA group, 1825 from the Junior-Senior PTA, also participated in the meeting. The meeting was held at the school.

For the summer roundup examinations are set for April 20 to 22. Mrs. Gail Montgomery announced.

Council changed. The county council was changed to a county board of education. The council is now composed of 12 members.

Mrs. Hammel appointed a committee to report forward having one night school class for each district. The committee is headed by Mrs. L. Z. Rosenwald.

Delegates elected. Mrs. Edward B. Brown, county secretary, was elected county delegate to the state PTA conference and convention to be held in Boise, Idaho, May 15-17.

Mrs. Tom Hovind gave a report on the Lincoln PTA committee on the exceptional child. The committee is now working on a plan for the child.

Next regular meeting of the council will be held April 3 at Lincoln school.

The 1935 traveling gavel programs will open Friday at the regular meeting of the Gooding Grange when Miss Grange will present the program and the Tuttle Grange will furnish the presiding officers.

Officers Elected

Pomona Master Virgil Norwood, Treasurer, and the business meeting following the potluck dinner at noon Saturday, Ralph Smith, Gooding, was elected treasurer to succeed Otto Ross of West Point who resigned.

Mrs. Gladys Gooding, reported for the newly organized home demonstration council, explaining the council was to advise the county agent and the home demonstration agent in carrying out their program for the county.

A resolution from the Wendell Grange calling for provision of livestock being transported during winter months was discussed but action was postponed to the next meeting.

Physician Speaks

The lecture program presented by Mrs. Myrtle Gibson, Wendell, featured an illustrated talk by Dr. Kenneth Tyler of the Gooding state tuberculosis hospital. Dr. Tyler explained procedure in detecting tuberculosis during its early stages, how to prevent its spread, and the possibility of obtaining a mobile testing unit for the X-ray testing for possible patients before they reach advanced stage.

Mr. E. Palmer of the Tuttle Grange read interesting facts of the first half of the 20th century, and the West Point Grange lecturer, Walter Marschek, presented musical number from his Grange.

Piano numbers were given by Mrs. Pearl Brown and Marschek, a piano solo by Marschek, and songs by the choir.

The April meeting of the Gooding county Pomona Grange will be held on the night of April 1, when a report will be given by state and local Grange officers on the county Pomona Grange session to be held at Gooding in December.

Woman, Reaching 101 Thursday, Can Recall Events Before Civil War

 you can walk into any clothing store and buy the finished article, from gathering herbs and brewing our own medicine to the present day intricacies of medical science, from days when nearly all food was prepared by drying or curing with salt to the present cold storage.

"In those days sickness and death were matters to be taken care of by the family and neighbors and now we have the hospitals and modern day funeral aids.

Even farming has changed until one can hardly believe it. Years ago it was considered a luxury to live near a spring in order to have water near the house. Nowdays getting water is a simple matter of turning a faucet.

Once the family washing meant heating the water in a large iron kettle on an outdoor fire and rubbing the soiled clothes between your hands, but today one can resort to an automatic washing machine or send a bundle to the laundry.

One of the most wonderful things is the progress in the mail system. We used to send our messages by horseback. Today there are the airmail, telephone, telegraph and radio.

Mrs. Abell's mother was descended from Irish scots and some of the children were in sympathy with the South, while others took sides for the North in the Civil war.

Her father raised hemp to get fiber for making clothing and he died while breaking hemp. Her mother was left with seven children to raise. Her mother owned sheep and sheared them herself.

With the help of her children, Mrs. Abell's mother washed and carded the wool, dyed it, spun it into yarn and wove it into garments for the family. "My mother could card, spin and weave at an early age and could knit before she was old enough to go to school," said Mrs. McPherson.

Before she went to school she accompanied an old slave woman and gathered plants and roots to make dyes for the cloth and yarn. Everyone in the family could knit and keep themselves supplied with caps, gloves, socks and stockings.

Mrs. Abell also helped make starch by soaking it out of potatoes and corn. "Mother also helped make cheese for their home use and for sale to the neighbors," Mrs. McPherson said.

Buhl Woman Will Be 101 Thursday

Mrs. Mary McPherson, left, is shown seated by the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Cynthia Abell, who will be 101 years old Thursday. Mrs. Abell has not only outlived 11 brothers and sisters, but her husband and seven of their eight children as well. She has been bedfast several years from an injury. (Staff engraving) steps and shooting wild deer." Her uncle went to Kansas to live before the Civil war and took her along to care for the children, while she and his wife got settled in their new home. One of the big thrills of the trip was crossing the Missouri river by ferryboat.

"She often recalls the night the soldiers came and shot one of their close neighbors through a window, and the disappearance of an 11-year-old boy who had hid some horses for his family."

In those days a family did all its own butchering and if possible made its own candles.

"Mother can remember their old candle mold, which had six molds to it, and she remembers very well the first coal-oil lamp she ever saw. Her mother bought the first sewing machine she ever saw, it was a Wheeler and Wilson."

Mrs. Abell at that time thought nothing of walking eight or 10 miles to visit a friend. Sometimes she walked to church. If she walked she carried her shoes until she was nearly there so as not to wear them out. In the winter, several families went to church in a bobbed sleigh.

"When mother lived in Kansas with her uncle she saw Indians stopping at the farm. She can also remember her uncle took packages of salted-down prairie chicken and quail to sell at the store."

"Mother's marriage was a double wedding and all four of the parties lived to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. My father died one month before they would have celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary," Mrs. McPherson recalled.

Mrs. and Mrs. Abell moved to Fairplay, Colo., the second year of their marriage. Abell freighted coal from the mines and goods from Denver and Colorado Springs up to the mines. He freighted the first smelter into Leadville.

"Father joined the Vigilantes, but only once ever helped catch any outlaws," Mrs. McPherson stated. Once he saw a horse thief hanged from a tree near Fairplay, many years later he bought a farm in Missouri from a man who was frightened back east by seeing a murderer swinging from an open jail door.

Mrs. and Mrs. Abell were living in Fairplay when an entire tribe of Indians swept through town closely pursued by U. S. troops. As Fairplay the Abells ran a hotel during part of their residence.

Later they moved to Colorado Springs and bought a cattle ranch. The next move was to Cheyenne where Abell freighted to Deadwood, S. D., and Ft. Laramie, Wyo. Later they moved back to Colorado again.

"They made butter—250 pounds were made at a time. Sometimes they visited. One of mother's steady customers was Helen Hunt Jackson. The bizards were so bad my parents kept ropes tied to the barn door and the house so they could go back and forth without getting lost in the storm."

"They returned to Missouri again in 1899 and came to Idaho in 1919. My father died in 1914," Mrs. McPherson concluded.

Idaho 'Atomic Belt' to Boost 750 Building

BOISE, March 8 (AP)—Anticipated heavy construction in eastern Idaho today was a good chance to send 1936 building volume in the state to a high as has not been since the Federal Housing Administration said today there was a good chance it might exceed 1940 volume. He added that during the first two months of the year, 1936, a total of $1,100,000 worth of construction was completed, or 14 per cent more than the same period last year.

Great Expectations
"We will see a volume of construction comparable to 1943," Lockwood said. "And with very heavy construction and Idaho due to the atomic energy commission's Aroo project, building may go even better than last year."

During February the FIA made 106 commitments for new construction and on existing homes for a total of $1,175,000. Lockwood said. Of this amount, $400,000 was on new buildings and $775,000 on existing homes. In addition, the FIA insured 316 cases during the month with a total value of $2,497,000.

Near January Total
In contrast, January commitments totaled 159 for a total of $1,110,000, while 238 cases were insured cases with a total value of $2,555,000.

Lockwood pointed out that a good many of the January and February insured cases were carryovers from last year, when the load was too heavy to handle before the end of the year.

During the period of several months elapsed between the time the FIA issues commitments on a building and when the case is closed by insured, the director pointed out, commitments are new—houses last 19 months, while those for existing houses are for six-month periods.

Potato Growers Floundering In Hot Political 'Spud Soup'

By PETER EDSON
WASHINGTON (NPA)—Political potato price getting trickier. Illinois farmers have proposed a bill amendments to end all government potato price supports until the market is free.

price supports, potato growers plan their rows closer together and use more fertilizer. Under marketing quotas, they would not be permitted to increase their yields in this year. Growers would have to limit their production to a specified number of bushels of potatoes they would market in order to be eligible for price supports.

The legal procedure for establishing marketing quotas is closely prescribed. The issue of whether to limit production to a specified number of bushels of potatoes they would market in order to be eligible for price supports.

Trying to forecast a timetable on how quotas could be imposed on 1937 potatoes shows what kind of trouble the government might be getting in selling for it. If the Lucas proposals passed congress, they are now in the form of H.R. 1111, which amending cotton acreage limitations. Assume these amendments could be passed through congress by the end of February, it would then take two or three months for the department of agriculture to promulgate and distribute them, have the farmers vote by mail and tabulate the results.

It would thus be some time in May before the quotas could be calculated and assigned. By that time nearly all U. S. potatoes are planted. And, of course, there is always the risk that the quotas might be voted down by a third or more of the 20,000 U. S. commercial growers who planted three acres or more in potatoes last year.

Senator Lucas' interest in pushing through his proposal to end potato price supports unless quotas are imposed is, of course, well intentioned. It is not at all surprising that he has become a national leader on potato price support matters. In fact, it is only about 1 per cent of the U. S. total.

Illinois corn farmers, however, have a genuine interest in the issue. If the potato price support things get any worse, the white flint is not a major potato producing state. It had only about 1,500 acres in commercial potatoes last year—about 1 per cent of the U. S. total.

What the department of agriculture is really afraid of is that if the potato prices are now changed in the middle of a crop year, it will undermine the farmers' confidence in all other government programs. The Lucas proposals would, however, take the department off a $100,000,000 hook, and that might be the simplest solution for a sorry mess.

Learn Recoils Heartbeat

MONMOUTH, N. J., March 7.—You know that your body recoils when your heart beats? Well, you may not know that your body recoils when your heart beats. It does, and it has led to the development of a new way to measure—in some ways—some of the smoothest methods of diagnosis, frequently the presence of heart disease when show no other symptoms.

The system it was hoped it would be the frequent failure of day electrocardiograph. The heart disease is a combination of electrical of the heart.

The device works: a bar is placed over the chest, which shows the line of a cable. If the body recoils from the blood in his heart, it has moved.

Substance movement activates a recorder. The device works: a bar is placed over the chest, which shows the line of a cable. If the body recoils from the blood in his heart, it has moved.

Sagacious Hank Gives Perfect Plan to Nab Loose Leopards

Today's essay has to do with leopards and tigers which, even if I do say so myself, shows a commendable change of pace.

Ever since that wild leopard escaped from an Oklahoma city and leopards in the population out of his wife, the man has been bringing me letters at frequent intervals. I do a story giving complete information on the best way to catch runaway leopards.

Every town with a zoo feels a bit uneasy as if it means as if I should be selected as an authority on returning wild animals to their cages is somewhat of a novelty to me, being as the best thing I ever killed was a mouse, and I did that with the business end of a broom while standing on a chair.

But in this highly competitive world a columnist cannot afford to let down a single reader, no matter what the request is. So here goes: Of course, I would say that the best way to rid a city of a wild leopard on the loose would be to open the lion cage and let a few lions out to roam the highways and by ways. Lions and leopards are natural enemies and are certain to get together for a tussling fight. And 99 times out of 100 the lion, being much larger than the leopard, will dispose of him.

Of course, this leaves a few lions ambling about the neighborhood, but there is a cure for that. Go to the tiger cage and free a few of those heavy fellows. They hate lions like poison and will set off for a 15-round bout with the maned critters. As a rule, tigers are the big fighters than lions and will rid a city of lions.

Now the city will be cleared of leopards and lions, with nothing but the big cats remaining free, wild and handsome. But that is none of my business. All my readers asked about were leopards, so I feel under no obligation to discuss the best way to catch tigers.

As for tigers, an anonymous donor has sent me an electric one, and it has completely changed my way of life. I used to do my shaving in the bathroom, but no more. As soon as I mastered the mechanics of the electric fellow I went to the hardware store and bought me 100 feet of electrical cord which, with the cord that came with the razor, enables me to shave almost anywhere on my property.

When I am washing the car when I am eating, and when I am watching the flowers. The electric razor throws off such a fine dust of whiskers that they are hardly noticeable, even when they settle on my whiskers, being a lovely shade of red. I'll admit that my neighbors consider me crazy for shaving out of doors, but there is always a chance that they are right.

British Custom Gives Comfort In Upset Times

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Those who believe this funny old world of ours is doomed to a "class war" and the clash of ideologies, might get comfort from the drama of the British parliament opening in London.

Thousands of Britons—rich and poor—gathered to witness the opening of the British parliament in London. The scene was a magnificent one, with the royal procession from Buckingham palace to the House of Commons.

Enter the king-emperor and his queen, the king-emperor in his coronation robes and the queen in her coronation robes. They were followed by the members of the House of Commons.

50,000 Miles - No Wear!

1. Proved by Punishing Road Test! For 70 days, six brand-new cars roared over searing highways along the Mexican border... putting sensational new Conoco Super Motor Oil to one of the cruelest tests ever devised.
