WASHINGTON—Washington's amazing delay in making any kind of a statement against atomic attack, destruction and human suffering has forced many local communists, statesmen, scientists and those who sympathize with any or all of these things to take a look at the federal situation.

The administration's slow-motion approach to the problem has shocked public officials, industrialists and many of the leading scientists. Many of these people have been forced to take a look at the federal situation and to ask themselves what they can do to help.

DEAR SIR: I don't know who did it for I'd love to know but I do wish the person who made the mistake of putting that black and white picture in front of the John White home on the sugar plantation in the state of Idaho. I would like to know just what the person was thinking when he put that picture in front of the John White home on the sugar plantation in the state of Idaho.

Four States Vote Down Plans To Permit Legalized Gambling

By The Associated Press
Votes in four states today down proposed to legalize gambling in variety of forms in yesterday's elections.

The gambling proposals were among 146 constitutional amendments, referenda and initiatives on the ballots in 31 states.

California voters rejected a proposal to legalize gambling, including a $100,000 bond issue for a state lottery. Massachusetts apparently defeated a lottery plan sponsored by its society for old-age pensions. At the same time, however, the state voters were giving a favorable margin to a proposal to establish a minimum-aid welfare assistance program.

Indiana laid flat its votes in two widely separated states. Rhode Island voters rejected a proposal to extend voting privileges to Narragansett Indians. Idaho voted strongly against a plan to legalize state school. The voters in the same state rejected down a proposal to give the option of prohibition of liquor sales, for increased aid to the aged, and to limit segregation measures in schools.

A number of proposals on liquor sales were rejected. In Arizona, a prohibition advocates failed poorly. With a burst of negative votes, Arizona Democrats defeated a measure to effect changes. And in that state, voters refused to switch the state from a wet to a moderate status.

Changes Due For Teacher 'Ethics' Code

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The teaching profession's 21-year-old code of ethics—struck down last year—is being revised.

The National Education Association said a survey indicates that most educators, for example, want omitted from the code as unimportant such listings of "unethical" conduct as:

1. "To be careless of one's personal appearance."
2. "To engage in a practice of 'dressing dress,' etc. of which the community does not approve, even though such practices are not immoral or in bad taste."
3. "To solicit sample textbooks."
4. "To accept gifts from pupils."

The association of teachers and school officials adopted the code in 1929, on the basis of a national teacher poll of the previous year.

With a view of modernizing the code, an association committee on professional ethics, headed by Alice C. Campbell, Spokane, Wash., after again has polled some 1,200 educators.

The committee said in its report that educators voted as the "most unethical" practice as the "most unethical" practice, and so to be dropped again in the new code—the denial of a teacher, or a recommendation for dismissal, without prior notice or an opportunity to be heard.

Revolt Suppressed

Puerto Rican nationalists and suspected communist sympathizers are lined up and kept under constant guard at an interrogation center in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Scenes such as this marked the collapse of the fanatical revolt which was marked by heavy fighting between nationalists and the national guard. The rebellion flared out with the capture and surrender of more than 400 persons after nearly 20 days in the fighting. The uprising has spurred mass registration by the women of the island for the June 4 elections when Puerto Ricans will choose their own constitution. (NEA telephoto)

California Hunter Search Is Ended

SANBPOINT, Nov. 8 (AP)—An extensive search was ended in the Trout Peak area northeast of here yesterday when a California hunter

James Demers, member of the Redondo Beach, Calif., police force, was the object of a search Monday night and yesterday. John Demers, Sanbpoint, his father, reported he was missing to Sheriff Robert Ellersick.

The lost hunter was a star athlete at Sandpoint high school during the 1930's. He competed at several national track meets as a javelin thrower while in high school, college and as a member of west coast athletic clubs.

The British inaugurated a 10-year development plan to replace Astoria for children.

ASHINGTON, Nov. 6 (AP)—Labor emerged from its never-ending political campaign to a bloody nose.

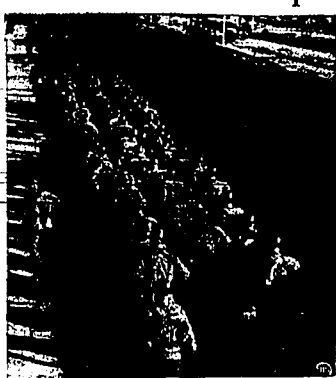

It is hoped that the Republican gains will be at least two seats in the House and one in the Senate.

Chairman Jack Kroll of the political action committee, while only unhappy through it, would not say whether the party's loss of its House majority from being worse than "a bloody nose."

Front Line in West Europe

These soldiers of the U. S. first infantry division, arriving in Germany for training, are part of the 100,000 troops America has to back up her policies in Germany—and hold the line if trouble starts.

100,000 U. S. Troopers Hold Line Against Reds in Germany

(Editor's note: How do we stand in Germany today after two years of occupation and the cold war? Peter Collins, editor of NIA's Washington column, who flew to Europe for a look at the situation there through a series of Washington correspondents' reports, tells the story from the eyes of the first-line troops and the soldiers of the first-line troops. This is his first report.)

By PETER COLLINS

BERLIN, Germany (AP)—If war broke out tomorrow, this is what we would have to hold the line in Germany until more help arrived.

The first infantry division, it is rated as a full division, highly trained and equipped. For the record, it is reported this equipment is of the same type that stopped the North Koreans.

The U. S. constabulary, it is rated as the equivalent of an armored division—three armored cavalry regiments. Its major assignment has been to back up German police.

These, plus the military police and other service troops to keep them fed, healthy, housed and equipped, are America's front line in Western Europe. If the forces in Austria and Trieste are excluded.

Boas of these forces in Germany are four-star Gen. T. H. Handy, who is General Marshall's deputy chief of staff at the Pentagon during the war. Now he operates out of this practically unburned old university town, formerly a big German army headquarters.

U. S. headquarters were moved here from Frankfurt when High Commissioner John J. McCloy took over from military government and every effort was being made to civilianize the administration of German affairs. But the military is being built up again and MDA—the military defense assistance program—is the biggest thing in Europe.

General Handy is the top military officer for MDA in Europe—though most of the staff work is done in London. Where General Handy's headquarters comes into the picture is in helping the western European governments prepare their regulations, then checking distribution of the deliveries and training European General Handy's more immediate assignment is to give military support to the U. S. High Commissioner and his policies in Germany, and to preserve peace and order as required. To do this he now has only 100,000 men. More are supposedly coming, but how many or when is indefinite and they can't be counted on until they get here.

General Handy's force is scattered in 13 main posts. Ten are in the U. S. zone in Germany, one is the Bremen supply center and the other is Maj.-Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor's small town force in Berlin.

This last is like a frontier outpost—over 100 miles inside the Soviet zone. There will soon be a slight increase in the Berlin garrison, Taylor reveals. But any day and every day, it must be prepared to fight fiercely to maintain its position.

In the air, the principal strength is in the second air division, based at Landsberg. It is rated at F-4's, but one of its two lighter bomber groups still equipped with P-47's while the other has been converted to P-54's.

There is a troop carrier wing and an air support wing, but two other units had to be sent to Korea for this air force. This leaves only a skeleton force on which to build another group still equipped with P-47's while the other has been converted to P-54's.

Both U. S. air and ground units are maintaining increasing liaison with British, French and other European forces and with General Montgomery's Western European Union headquarters at Fontenay-le-Comte, France. Ground and air units are constantly being exchanged for joint maneuvers. But there is a complete lack of unified command and a fully operating joint staff.

Families of U. S. officers and non-coms now in Europe create a real problem. There are now 22,000 such families in Germany, with 15,000 children of school age. Gradually they are being moved into new housing—paid for in part by the German government—to make more room for the German people themselves.

Intelligence reports now do not show much concern over the 50,000 German police organized by the Russians a year ago. They are not well-equipped and are a motley combination of U. S. army and air force officers are enthusiastic.

How is one to know when a child is being spoiled? The answer is simple: by being encouraged, loved and left alone if he is happy he is all right. Children are healthy and their growth is a matter of course. A healthy child is interested in that which goes on about him. He wants to see what is going on and what makes it go on. He gets ideas that require intelligent answers and is satisfied with an intelligent answer. A healthy child is content to go where he shares in the play of his companions and is content to share with them. Healthy children do not cry or fret or fuss. They cry for real troubles. The tears are quickly dried as soon as possible the troubles are forgotten. They are willing to help and are not afraid to help. They are not too much grumbling. A few grumbles are allowed any healthy-minded child. These children pick up new words readily and try them out on the family but they will, in the long run, accept the family's standards and they will be quick to reject any marked peculiarity and try it out for themselves. If a member of the family has a trick of speech that is odd, he will be quick to drop it, because they accept the healthy ways of all things. The healthy child will make mistakes. Experts Work To Cut Losses In Local Fires

On the morning fire, Cooper said the seedhouse fire was salvaged as well. All will be disposed of—just how remains a question—by feed or other purposes.

The general agent said very little could be salvaged from the 400,000 seedhouse loss. He said there is little market locally for such material, but that transportation costs add to the salvage problem.

Turning again to the wholesale grocery loss, Cooper said the seedhouse fire was salvaged as well. All will be disposed of—just how remains a question—by feed or other purposes.

The Jerome home demonstration agent suggested that the 4-H program of communities in the county should be linked together by an overall committee to coordinate the program. Volunteer local leaders should be trained in leadership methods to make the 4-H program a club leader.

Leaders attending the conference were divided into 10 discussion groups for the afternoon session of their meeting. The groups will discuss various aspects of 4-H leadership and make reports at the Thursday morning session.

Also scheduled Wednesday afternoon was a discussion of the selection of youth projects by the leaders under the direction of Dr. Smith. A movie picture on parliamentary procedure will be shown.

The conference is under the direction of Dr. E. W. Water, associate 4-H club leader. Local arrangements have been under the direction of F. H. Vandever, Twin Falls county 4-H club agent. County agents and club agents from many of the 16 counties represented also are attending the conference.

WESTFORD FIELD, Miss. (AP)—Ordered to report to his group commander, Earl J. Barrow, air force major sergeant, knocked on the officer's door and heard someone say: "Come in, lieutenant!"

Toy Weapons 'Not Harmful' For Poppets

NEW YORK (AP)—A Junior is playing for a toy flame-thrower for Christmas. Let him have it. A child guidance authority says you won't make him any less war-minded by depriving him of toy weapons.

Dr. Grace Langdon, a veteran at dealing with children, debunks an idea which came up at the recent inter-parliamentary union meeting in Dublin. A resolution was offered to outlaw all toy dealing with war to prevent children from being misled.

"You minded the resolution was killed," Dr. Langdon says. "Dear little things" are not children's minds off by depicting them of war toys," she said. "The desire is still there."

"The quickest way to stop children from wanting war toys is to stop war," she said.

Dr. Langdon, author of several books and articles on child behavior, said children naturally are imitators. So long as the father is a soldier, both son and daughter are going to play at being sons and daughters.

"Babies," she said, "small fry today aren't the only ones who have grown up with war or threat of war, hovering over them. Almost every generation was born under a similar atmosphere. Yet we still are a peace-loving nation."

Dr. Langdon, child development specialist in the American Toy Institute, said much of the appeal of war toys is their noise-making ability.

"The same appeal is found in cowboy toys—the same—children don't care whether the toy gun is for a soldier or cowboy. He will play with it so long as it makes a bang."

English Tests May Increase Meat Supplies

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP)—British experts are trying to develop a beef and mutton industry in Tanganyika to the dried cattle and sheep and a vast supply of meat.

Cattle ranching in Tanganyika provides many problems, mainly in battling disease but the worst enemy, locusts, can be conquered, even on the hazy hills of the interior, says a report from the British government.

A trial here is being raised on the area of the mountain west of Dar es Salaam.

The British government's colonial development commission and the territory's own veterinary and agricultural departments are continuing to study the problem.

A trial here is being raised on the area of the mountain west of Dar es Salaam.

The territory has a number of flocks and flocks of best material area, lying in the coastal zone, says the commission report.

The veterinary department reports that the thousands of acres of uncultivated grasslands give every indication of being excellent cattle country.

Meat Infection

On the plains, however, there exist in each case a surrounding area of bush, infested with ticks of one species or another.

The grass lands are flooded for a short period each year and the ticks would have to retreat temporarily to upland areas.

The ticks are not so common but retreats would be as well as protection from disease while the ticks were there.

A drug providing immunity, even for a short period, would be invaluable.

Meanwhile, the east African departments, the east African territories are conducting a campaign of a resistant and hardy strain of cattle with imported local animals.

Scout Groups In Jerome to Hold Program

JEROME, Nov. 7—A round-up rally, merit badge and Cub Scout program is being planned for the Jerome district of Boy Scouts for Friday, Nov. 17, at the new high school gymnasium. Activities will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the closing ceremony is being planned for not later than 9:30 p.m.

The annual affair will feature Scoutcraft and Cubcraft through live demonstrations in the gymnasium to the regular "round-up" rally feature.

According to Harold Harris, chairman of the rally, each troop pack or explorer unit will be given space around the gymnasium in which to make a live display. Exhibits or merit badges. Arrangements are being made so this can be done late in the afternoon, Harris said. He explained that flags, pennants, trophies and previously earned merit badge collections may be used for background, but are not to be substituted for live demonstrations. Scouts and Explorers will be limited to merit badges, at least, and preferably not more than two units. Before making their displays, Scouts are to check with Harris to prevent repetition and Cubs are to check with Guy Kennedy.

All troops participating in the demonstration will present their show at the same time with the audience taking their seats and circulating from one to another. The various shows will be repeated as many times as possible in the allotted time.

Tom Prescott will explain the program.

Count of honor and fellowship awards will conclude the program as the rally is open to the general public and all interested persons are urged to attend.

All Scouts, Cubs and Explorers are requested to wear tennis shoes.

Assisting Harris with the arrangements are George Davis, Boyd Freeman, Veris Sullivan and Arthur Mack.

First Commando-Trained U. S. Outfit in Korea Combats Reds

By STAN SWINSON

WONSAN, Korea, Nov. 8—The first commando-trained American outfit to fight in Korea is operating against the by-passed guerrillas in the northeast sector. The men are volunteers from General MacArthur's Tulehu headquarters.

Bypassed reds, striking at undefended villages and communication lines, are posing a serious problem. American forces had not been prepared for such fighting. To arm staff officers readily concede the Americans had no trained anti-guerrilla staff leaders.

The first such raider company, commanded by Maj. James H. Weir, Austin, Tex., is camped on a lousy ridge near Munchon, 10 miles north of Wonsan.

Many men of Weir's outfit fought in World War II. But five months ago they were bakers, cooks, typists and "chief commandos." Now they have become tough and expert in ship-to-shore raids, knife-fighting and judo.

They made their initial raid with 14 British commandos at Kumsan on the southeast coast before the Sept. 15 landings at Inchon. This was a raid to mislead the reds as to where the landings could be expected.

This crack force has one expert "pig" guerrilla.

It is an Korean interpreter. A 21-ton truck offers it mobility. Not a man is 18-over-fought guerrillas before. Not an officer ever saw observer duty in Malaya, Indo-China or elsewhere to learn guerrilla tactics.

U. S. 16th corps headquarters in Wonsan ordered a raider patrol to go to Kumsan, 20 air miles north, where 1500 guerrillas were reported to have made a raid the day before. No one in Kumsan professed knowing anything about it. Even if the report were true, the guerrillas had no way to mislead the reds. This lack of available local intelligence suggests the outfit's difficulty.

Professional Santa Isn't Easy Job These Days, Expert Says

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The most demanding and best-loved character in our town these days is Percy J. Bobbitt.

He is the dean of Washington professional Santas, and is thoroughly schooled on how to tell one little white lie after another to make them convincing. Bobbitt, 1 1/2 father of six, is No. 1 Santa at the Hotel Commodore.

His beard—specially made for the occasion—has been in the red getup and white bowtie for years.

Any Santa worthy of the uniform, he said, is taught to juggle his answers to the small fry without giving away his big fish secrets.

"For instance," he said, "when a kid gets to me, I ask, 'How do you do on Christmas eve. And that at the moment the horned critter are getting in on Sunday school and did a little ally lighting."

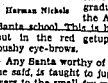

At that point Santa, who already has learned the kid's name, will bring down a big, official-looking book. It contains every conceivable full name—from Aaron to Zedekiah.

When he finds the child's number, he assures the youngster that if he get that new tripod or Teddy bear, Bobbitt says the mechanics of playing the role of a store-paid Santa is to lift 600 recalls up to your toes every day.

Psychology comes into the picture. Before he pulls in his first appearance he spends a couple of days peering around the toy department in civilian clothes. He must learn the mechanics of operating the latest model trains, atomic toys, and which dolls can say "mama," and so on.

Seems the children expect Old Kris Kringle to be a know-it-all.

Another full day is spent learning

Harman Nichols graduating from Santa school. This is his 14th time out in the red getup and white bowtie.

2 Men Fined on Traffic Charges

Two men paid fines after pleading guilty in justice court Tuesday to traffic law violations.

R. O. Kilburn, Twin Falls, was fined $3 and $2 costs for operating a truck without a rear view mirror. The vehicle is owned by the Clyde Bishop Lumber company.

Quiet Army Major Building up Big Piles of Atrocity Evidence

By H. D. Quigg

WITH PRIVATE CAVALEY DIVISION, Korea, Nov. 8 (AP)—A quiet army major who once was criminal counsel to the military government has become the custodian of two growing piles of horror.

One is a pile of photographs of murdered American soldiers and Korean civilians. The other is a pile of statements of eyewitnesses to these war crimes.

Major Robert E. Brown, 36, Indianapolis, who in 1947 was on the staff of the Marine Corps, Indiana, judge, has made a career in this war of investigating atrociously slayings. As division assistant judge advocate, he has investigated the atrocities reported where the first cavalry division has been in action.

From Aug. 17 to Oct. 25 he gathered evidence on 23 atrociously slaying incidents, eight involving American prisoners of war and the others slaying of Korean civilians.

"What is an atrociously slaying?" Brown turned up in the architectural style typical of the orient. Then you come to the photographs of the interior.

There lie the sprawled bodies—staked up, shot, hanged, clubbed, bayoneted, staked with blood.

"What is an atrociously slaying?" I asked. "We often think of the term as involving a torture or mutilation of some kind."

"I'd say it's the slaying of someone who has surrendered—or the slaying of civilians without any due process of law," he replied.

Brown handed me one series of pictures growing out of an ambush of an American service company en route to pick up food for fighting units. That was on Oct. 12, two miles north of the 38th parallel. Twelve captured Americans were put in a room.

"When American fighting troops entered the house the 12, sitting on the floor, were shot. Seven died. Five played dead and escaped the next morning after the North Koreans had withdrawn from the area. The dead had been bayoneted in the throat after the shooting. The five who escaped each had two or more gunshot wounds, and some deal in a police station." Twenty-four civilians, their hands tied, had been hanged to death with an axe or bayoneted to death. Some had their heads blown off.

"Some had simply refused to go into the red army," Brown said. "Others had not cooperated with the government. All these atrocities occurred in areas which the American forces were best of to secure."

"So far?" Brown said. "Out of all these cases, I have got only two persons who could be described as being connected with committing war crimes. Finding the criminals is quite a job."

Chinese Reds; Soviets Hold Key in Korea

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
 AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

As the United Nations begins consideration of the intervention of Chinese communists forces in the Korean war, the United States seems to be not so much in what the organization can do, but in what other participating nations will do.

Does China intend an all-out commitment, meaning war with the United Nations, or merely an "unofficial" effort in North Korea to be carried out by limited forces?

If the latter, can General MacArthur throw the "military" forces out and complete his assignment of clearing all Korea?

Will Korea become a neutral zone or permit the Chinese to continue an operation which carries a grave threat of general war?

At the moment, every move of the United States will be directed toward its war-time policy of preventing the conflict from spreading. Great hope is being placed in General MacArthur's ability to go ahead with the job before there is direct involvement with China. He gave his report to the U. N. some support to this hope.

Sightless Cat Loses Buddy To Poisoner

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 8 (AP)—Dick, a 15-year-old blind cat, was afraid to move today because the only friend he trusted, a big collie dog, had died.

Dick sat at a corner of Edwin Dalrymple's living room and waited for his faithful companion, Big Blaze, to lead him outside.

"Dick just now is beginning to realize that Blaze is dead," Dalrymple said. "At first he wanted to go out. 'At first he wanted to go out.' But now I believe he knows Blaze will not come back."

Minidoka Rustlers Demand Hearing

RUFERT, Nov. 8.—John Reed, John Kulovita and Leon Orsag, all charged with cattle rustling in Minidoka county, demanded a preliminary hearing when arraigned before Associate Judge Jake Wall in Rufert Tuesday afternoon.

Judge Wall set next Tuesday at 10 a. m. as the time for the hearing and fixed bail at $1,000 each. Since none of the three was able to provide bail they were remanded to the custody of the sheriff until the hearing.

Reed and Kulovita were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Floyd Stewart who solved the case of the missing calf in less than three hours from the time his complaint was received. The calf was taken from the Charles Freisberger farm.

False Alarm

LONG BEACH, Calif., Nov. 8 (AP)—Fire broke out in the Frederick hotel this morning. Several fire trucks extinguished the flames without much difficulty. All guests but one were roused and left the hotel. There were no injuries.

This afternoon the other guest, Charles Swanson, came out of his stateroom. He smelled smoking. He called the fire department. Seven fire trucks rolled into action again.
