ISES to Help In Recruiting War Workers

The Idaho state employment service is recruiting government workers for the U. S. civil service commission when the need arises. A. J. Meeks, Twin Falls district manager, announced today.

The new law was designed to assist the department of labor and the civil service commission to utilize the public employment service to recruit for defense workers.

Under terms of the agreement the civil service commission will continue to hold examinations and will supply the needs of government contracts when the examinations yield a sufficient supply. When the commission determines that sufficient appointments cannot be obtained through examinations, it will authorize the appropriate agency to recruit in the open labor market.

The public employment service, including the office of the primary source of recruitment of personnel by the industrial branch, will assist in recruitment of their own workers.

Coordination is provided where a local employment office, recruiting workers for a government agency in its district, must recruit outside the area through employment service labor bureau facilities, the recruitment will be coordinated by the civil service commission.

The new agreement should be a great help in assuring the effective distribution and use of civil manpower both in government and private industry.

No Comedy

MITCHELL, Ind. Dec. 22 (AP)—The chain of events read like a slapstick comedy script, but it wasn't funny because Leon Tansley's house was burning all the time.

First, a neighbor called police instead of firemen. When the firemen got the word and responded a stalled automobile blocked their truck.

After the firemen arrived, the threads were stripped on one fire plug and the packing in the valve of a steam boiler exploded.

The house had to be laid to a plug a half mile away.

In the meantime, a policeman was struck by an auto and two drivers were arrested for interfering with the firemen.

By the time the house was laid the house was gone. So were all the Christmas presents Mr. and Mrs. Tansley and their eight children saved only the clothing they were wearing.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Gen. "Ike" Eisenhower's top assignment when he arrives overseas to assume command of the 12th Army Group is to lead the force will be diplomatic rather than military. The grave nature of his problem explains why the agreement with the British and the Columbia university was chosen for this position.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He must insure Europe's stability and defend the interests of the American people and congress are pressing around the subject of their failure to make greater sacrifices and preparations for a possible third world war.

This job has been unloaded on Eisenhower because President Truman has been reluctant to discuss in recent conferences with European leaders, did not think much talk should come from them. They feel it is the peculiar role of a non-political military man, especially in view of Eisenhower's World War II associations and connections over there.

"ISOLATIONISM"—It will be no vague, hearsay or general opinion that the speech by General Eisenhower will make to his continental colleagues. At his conferences at the White House, his individual talks with visitors at Columbia, he realizes that this unrepresentative view has become a stronghold.

It is not that the battle between the isolationist and internationalists have begun to ask this question: Shall the United States continue to pour out men, money and resources to support the United Nations, collectively or on behalf of individual members—should we devote our vast resources to preparing the western coast against the Japanese and South America, for a last-ditch stand against the Russians, as ex-President Herbert Hoover has recommended?

The world-famous exponents still are in the majority, arguing that the United States, friendship and aid to the United Nations, is a dangerous diversion of funds, of course, the official viewpoint and contention.

But the development of a new kind of "isolationism" is being fostered, one that is a serious threat to United Nations solidarity. Word of that fact from Eisenhower's lips may awaken the Europeans.

CONTRIBUTIONS—General Eisenhower may receive an argument from his European opponents presenting to them a balance statement which has been prepared unofficially by some of his erstwhile associates in the United States.

It lists the amount of money and the value of military supplies which we have forwarded to 15 nations and the amount of contributions in "cash and kind" for their contributions in that "police action."

It was originally prepared for numerous inquisitive members of congress, both Democrats and Republicans, and it has become a popular "korean paper" on the call list. Here it is:

ALLIED—The 14 nations allied with us in Korea in one way or another are the United Kingdom, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Greece, Turkey, Canada, Australia, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Ethiopia, Iceland and India. Those countries have received approximately $300,000,000 worth of supplies since the middle of December. In addition 2,600 troops and certain supplies are en route, and may have reached Tokyo of Pusan before this is published.

REINFORCEMENTS—However, these statistics present a fairly pitiful picture of our foreign reinforcements.

Troops: 16,840, with a few thousand additional in naval and aerial units.

Warships: One carrier, four cruisers, 18 destroyers, nine frigates, one air maintenance vessel, one patrol ship, one minesweeper, one transport.

Miscellaneous: Medical equipment and supplies, 500 tons of sugar, one field hospital unit, one field ambulance unit, and 125 tons of food from Great Britain.

In proportion to their resources, the Turks and the Greeks have been the most generous. India, which may be the next to suffer from the Stalin juggernaut, has sent no troops. She has contributed one field ambulance unit, and has offered 400,000 Java hats which have not yet been accepted.

BARBARISM—"PROGRESSIVE" LIBERALS may survive or stagger through the 1951 war crisis and mobilization. Unless they break out, President Truman hopes it can contain the danger of the United Nations.

Their biggest danger is the fact that the United Nations developments against the owners and at Washington suggest that even big league ball will be second class. The United Nations will be a "bread and butter" business, relatively high prices being paid for all the goods and services.

They will not be caught in the "draft" brilliant youngsters are being recruited because they may grab them during spring training or in the middle of a hot pennant race.

They will not be caught in the "draft" because they may grab them during spring training or in the middle of a hot pennant race.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

MECHANICAL CONSCIENCE

The advertisement calls it the "sinner's pal" but we are not quite sure whether we are sufficiently palatable with our best gift friend to give him one without his misunderstanding the motive.

The gadget, to pursue the description, is worn like a wrist watch, counts strokes automatically, and records them accurately. Is such mechanical literalism destined to take all the imagination out of golf?

There is no doubt that mechanical literalism is continually enriching modern living. Take such products as the electric shaver, the electric razor, the electric rest after waking a sleeper, and the mechanical card shuffler for those whose hands have not been sufficiently dexterous to forwardly passing or playing to encompass a cashless deal.

But if golf scores become as mechanized as the clock, the machine, the motor, the automobile, the plane to the pass where a fisherman will have to use the same meter in telling about his catch to his friends as the warden, and salesman may, then themselves carrying electronic recorders to make out their expense accounts, will be the same as now, but some of the most durable whereas will have gone out of American history—Christian Science Monitor.

PEOPLE UNDER THE GUN

A recent survey shows that of 14,000 non-American, non-Korean citizens sent to augment the United Nations military force in Korea thus far, Turkey has provided 5,000, or more than one third.

Turkey is about as remote from the Korean war, physically, as it's possible to be. She has no excess of anything and she is by no means a rich nation.

Since the end of the war Turkey has been continually feeling the hot breath of Russia on her neck; the fruits have been raining steadily in her lap since the end of Turkey's ownership of the Dardanelles, has frustrated Russia's desire to secure the access route to the Black Sea, and her position in the Balkans has been a main route to middle eastern oil has hampered Russia's effort to secure an adequate supply of that basic source of military power.

It is against this background that the prompt contribution by Turkey of 5,000 fighting men to the United Nations Korean force looms large and glorious. The act should weigh heavily with the United States in the continuance of financial, economic and military support to Turkey.—San Francisco Chronicle.

POT SHOTS

EFFECTS OF INFLATION

During one of those "T-N" news items, a headline reads: "A 'dollar a year' man was brought up in connection with the proclamation of an emergency."

It was agreed generally that there will be no "dollar a year" men assigned to the government in the present emergency. Such experts should get $2 a year.

Naturally the reason is perfectly obvious. The value of our money has gone way down since the emergency was declared. It is the peculiar role of a non-political military man, especially in view of Eisenhower's World War II associations and connections over there.

LOTS OF ROBINS

Dear Ted Shotton: You asked about robins here. Where we live on Fourth avenue east and Third street, there are dozens of them and have been all the time.

And right now there are a good many Canadian grosbeak birds. They are a pretty bird not as big as a robin. They feed on the Russian olives that are here.

A soldier by the name of Perry Rose passed through Mistle Valley Wednesday leaving a wish for a Merry Christmas for some friends he believes live in Twin Falls.

Mr. Helen Bailey received the message but has been unable to locate the family.

The soldier couldn't stop to look up his friends. He was one of the wounded soldiers aboard the airplane transport plane that brought Mr. William Vandeman back to Magic Valley to spend Christmas with his parents at Murtaugh.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

BOSTON—Professor James H. Shelton is the administrative chairman of the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League.

Shelton has a hand which stimulates friction between American and Jewish. He is a big name at the moment.

In the dark days of the Frankfurter-Lasiki-Niles combination which planted the seed of the Supreme Court, Alger Hiss in the state department as an executive in the days of the White House, Shelton was an ideological hanger-on at the Ford Lyceum in Boston. This was the stamping ground.

Shelton latched onto the WPA as an executive in the days of the "war on war" which cost as much as a shooting war and mostly satisfied the wants of the new deal parasites and the communists.

Whether Shelton could have got in by competitive life or even in the racket of pedagogy is a question. His professional rank was the minimum. He has been with the Anti-Nazi League since the '30s.

Barring the usual political put-up with the overbearing conduct of Isadore Lipchutz for a prior, he has done all right for a fellow of character.

He can pose as a crusader against fascism and get his picture printed as the head of a gang of contemptible snakes. Lipchutz lurks in the background.

The Christmas season officially opened at the college with the lighting of a large evergreen tree Dec. 15.

At the suggestion of the college bursar's wife, Mrs. C. E. Simonsen, the tree has been lighted every year for the last 18 years on the birthday and in memory of G. E. Bockock, former SICE president.

The annual Christmas dance was held in the student union building with the social committee, composed of John Cain, Payette; Ethel Young, Bellevue; Norma Jeanne Jauchau, Eden; Frank Williams, Malad, and Gene Williams, Buhl, in charge of arrangements. Report Urges Minimum Pay Law in Idaho

BOISE, Dec. 22 (AP)—State Labor Commissioner W. L. Robison recommended today that the Idaho legislature give "serious consideration" to enactment of minimum wage, wage collection and child labor laws.

The recommendations were made in the report of the Idaho Labor Department's first biennial report, covering its activities between Aug. 15, 1934, and the end of this year.

In calling for a minimum wage law, Robison said Washington, Oregon, Utah and Colorado are among western neighbors of Idaho which have such statutes. He said a minimum wage was most needed for "the protection of women workers."

"A brief review of our own state indicates a large number of female workers are underpaid, some receiving as low as 35 cents an hour," Robison said.

The labor commissioner said other states have been operating under wage collection laws for years.

Half of Wool Crop Is Sold; Prices Rising

BOISE, Dec. 22 (AP)—Approximately half of Idaho's 1951 wool crop have been contracted for at prices ranging from 60 cents to $1 a pound, according to the secretary of the Idaho Wool Growers' Association.

He said much of the contracting was done at the state wool growers convention in Pocatello Nov. 17-19 and prices have risen since then.

Higher Prices Seen

Clear commented some "hinted" of higher prices were "floating around this week," adding that he had no unconfirmed report of a sale at $1 a pound.

Bulk of the Idaho wool contracted so far was at from 70 to 80 cents per pound.

Few farms flock have been sold since most are marketed in pools, he said.

May Delay Contracting

It may be that in view of some prices reported this week of $1.10 and $1.25, the Idaho pool will not be too quick to contract, Clear said.

He pointed out, however, that much of the Montana clip draws a premium price because of its grading.

Clear said that this year had seen the "first substantial increase in wool prices since 1946. Wool prices were frozen that year and remained frozen until 1949, some months after the Idaho's 1950 wool clip brought an average of from 40 to 65 cents a pound, he said.

The announcement said the tentative list is subject to change if the program is expanded to include locally for housing, schools and other community facilities for military personnel.

The list of fields and their locations included: temporary expansion of Ft. Belknap, Everett, Wash., Wain, Fains Field, Everett, Wash.

Icy Highway Blamed for 2 Auto Mishaps

BOURLEY, Dec. 22—Dangerous night-bling conditions caused by heavy fogs which have blanketed the area south of Malia early Thursday were blamed for two accidents which occurred within four miles of each other.

Although damage was extensive, only Donald M. Kahler, 19, Dalton, driver of one of the autos involved, was injured. He is being treated at Cottage hospital, but his condition is not serious.

Motorists Warned

State Highway Patrolman Marvin Snyder warned motorists traveling toward Salt Lake City to expect severe icing conditions because of the fog which has covered the area for the last two weeks.

The two accidents occurred at 7:45 a. m. 14 miles south of Malia on U. S. Highway 30 south.

A 1947 Chevrolet sedan driven by Mrs. Lenora Van Bast, 21, Ketchikan, Wash., hit a slick spot on the road and swerved off to the side of the road overturning once and one-half times. Neither she, her husband nor their three children were injured, but damage was estimated at $300.

A passing truck driver, Hachico Paul Oaki, Dalton, City, stopped to aid the family and parked his truck on the shoulder of the road near the accident.

Car Hits Truck

Before the accident scene could be cleared, Kahler, driving a 1950 Chevrolet convertible owned by W. T. Grogan, Dalton, crashed into the truck. Snyder said Kahler failed to see the truck in time and then hit a spot of ice. The car spun into the rear of the truck.

Grogan, riding with Kahler, was not injured. Damage in the second accident was estimated at $500 to $600 and $150 to the truck.

Snyder said that following the accident he drove south toward Buhl to check the road condition and encountered heavy icing on the spotlight and windshield of his car.

Controlling the backboards all the way, the Nampa Bulldogs opened their defense of the Big Six conference basketball championship here Thursday night by defeating a short, but Big Six conference basketball champion Twin Falls team 55-42. Except for a poor third quarter, Twin Falls exchanged baskets for most of the game. Despite the handicap in height, Twin Falls pressed Nampa all the way.

Faced by the sharp-shooting of Stephens, Nampa took an early lead and was never headed, Twin Falls failed to score for the first time in the second quarter, 15-16 tie in the second quarter. Falah, outstanding Twin Falls guard, paced the Bruins with 11 points. Bob Nielsen followed with 10.

Falah was hampered throughout the game because of persistent back trouble. He left the game before the half ended with four fouls and went out for good. The fourth foul was the result of a foul on Bob Cross of Nampa.

Nampa took a 15-12 first quarter lead. Twin Falls fought back to tie the game at 21-20 margin at the half. Nampa pushed it along to 25-23 at the start of the third quarter.

Outstanding SICE Forward

Phil Aguire, American Falls, is setting the scoring pace this season for Coach Ernie Craner's Southern Idaho College of Education basketball team. Aguire, in his first year of college ball, has averaged more than 20 points a game in the seven contests played by the Panthers.

Eastern Oregon Nips SICE Panthers 89-81

LA GRANDE, Ore., Dec. 22.—Coming from behind in the 10 minutes of play, Eastern Oregon edged the Southern Idaho College of Education 89-81 here Thursday night in a long, nip and tuck ball game. It was the second win in a row for Eastern Oregon and the last of a seven-game road trip for the Panthers.

Coach Ernie Craner's crew, paced by the sharp shooting of Phil Aguire, American Falls, bumped into the lead early in the game and held the pace for 30 of the 40 minutes action. SICE led 44-42 at the half.

Aguire scored 31 points for the second time in a row and capped high scoring honors. He played only a little more than half of the game. Others followed him for SICE with 10.

Record led Eastern Oregon with 45 points, followed by Bob Green with 12.

It was a rough and tumble ball game, with 83 fouls called. Southern Idaho took five men via the postern route. In addition to Aguire, SICE had Ben (Belle) Bell, Gladders and Jay Waitre led the sidelines.

It was against Panther reserves that Eastern Oregon was able to come from behind and win. Eastern Oregon lost three men on fouls, but only two starters.

It was the sixth in seven starts for the Albion college, the last of the Christmas holidays. They will play their first game in Magic Valley shortly after the first of the year.

Bob Breck, now basketball coach at Santa Clara, holds the pro record for accuracy from the foul line—he dropped in 252 of 298 for an 84.5 per cent average during the 1948-49 season.

Naval Risks Ring Ranking In New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (AP)—Kid Gavilan risks his New York ranking as No. 1 welterweight contender Friday night when he faces young one, Micali, a 22-year-old former from this town's east side, in the main 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Back in top shape after a series of mediocre performances early in the year, the 23-year-old Cuban Keed is rated a 5 to 14 favorite to set back Jumping Joe.

Gavilan was the New York recognition of the wicker title for welterweight champ Ray Robinson's fight with whipped Billy Gramham in 10 at the Garden, Nov. 17.

There is a possibility of a four-minute fight for the wicker title in the event Robinson wins the middleweight crown from champion Jake Kaskas in Chicago Feb. 3.

Micali, a cocky fighter with an unorthodox bouncing style, best lights heavyweight champion Zsa Williams in a non-title 10 and looks to Ike in a return.

Micali features a potent left uppercut which has enabled him to score six knockouts. His record shows 15 wins, 10 by decision, 1 by DQ.

The 8 p.m. (MST) bout will be telecast and broadcast over the network.

Ohio Valley Cage League Termed Tough

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 22 (AP)—Diddle, a coach who should know says the Ohio Valley cage league is the toughest competition any time that goes after the Ohio Valley conference.

Diddle, veteran builder of champs at Western Kentucky college, said that observation by saying he is emphasizing that the little OVO is a real basketball giant—one of the toughest cage hoops in the country.

Five of the seven OVO members are equally rated in an already competitive cage battle for conference honors. Any one of the same five is rated better than a fair chance of winning a national title.

BOISE, Dec. 22 (AP)—The University of Idaho team shook off a slow start to trounce Utah State college 69-57 Thursday night.

Trojan Grid Coaches Also Get Releases

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22 (AP)—Six assistants to ex-Coach Jeff Cravath received their walking papers Thursday at the University of Southern California.

USC, which is buying up Cravath's unexpired contract for some $20,000, will allow his assistants to remain on the faculty until their contracts expire Aug. 31, 1951, said Athletic Director Willis O. Hunter Cravath, who went out Jan. 1, resigned under alumni pressure Wednesday to climax the worst football season in USC's history.

Hunter said he has notified the assistants that they may stay on if Cravath's successor wants them. Meanwhile, Hunter added, "They are free to make other plans."

About 20 coaches are listed as possibilities for the spot vacated by Cravath. Mentioned most prominently are Don Faurot, Missouri; Jay Brown, ex-Trojan lineman and highly successful headman at Compton Junior college; Clark Shaughnessy, late of the Los Angeles Rams; Jimmy Phelan of the Detroit Lions; Angelo Dowd, head coach at Los Angeles State; Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns; and Wilkinson.

Sugar Ray Flays Red Propaganda

The Negro boxer, who faced Francisco Robert Villamin in a 10-round non-title bout Friday night, said he wanted to reply to "those propagandists who attempt to exploit the American Negro as being wholly discriminated against in the United States."

"In our grand democracy we have tried to reach a full perfection," said Robinson to U. S. Marshall plan Ambassador Milton Katz and others in a brief ceremony in Paris office. "But I know that the U. S. has made it possible for a Negro with ability, whatever in business, science, mathematics or sports, to achieve the top."

Official Lists Holiday Fire Safety Rules

In case you already haven't checked your Christmas tree and other decorations for fire hazards, Fire Chief E. E. Balliett suggests you do so at once—fire tragedies mar many Twin celebrations. The fire chief offers these suggestions to make this holiday season a safe one:

1. Don't use lighted candles on Christmas trees; use electric lights instead.
2. Buy Approved Types
3. When choosing new Christmas lights, look for markings which indicate listing by Underwriters Laboratories, Inc.
4. Don't use cotton or paper decorations on your tree unless they are flameproofed.
5. Don't buy toys using gasoline, kerosene or other flammable fluids. Be very careful in selecting toy chemical sets.
6. Get Rid of Hazards
7. Remove all wrappings from the house soon after the presents are opened—before a lighted cigarette can fall in them.
8. Don't leave tree lights burning when no one is in the house.
9. Place the tree in the coolest part of the house.
10. Choose Small Tree
11. Choose a small tree. It will be less hazardous.
12. When needles start falling, take the tree down and discard it.
13. Keep a metal screen in front of your fireplace. Continue to make fire your servant and don't let it become your master.

Safety Council Urges Drivers to Pass Up Cup of Cheer to Avoid Yule Crash

CHICAGO, Dec. 23—Pass up that cup of holiday cheer if you're driving home from a holiday party. Records of the National Safety Council show that one-sixth of all traffic accidents involve a drinking driver.

With the nation's traffic death toll up 11 percent for the first 10 months of the year, the council is stepping up its Christmas safety campaign. One hundred and sixty-one national organizations are participating in the drive to reduce Christmas and New Year's accidents. "Don't Let Death Take Your Holiday" is the slogan for the campaign.

Traffic accidents reach their peak at the end of the year, the council points out, because of winter weather, earlier darkness and holiday festivity. "Travel after dark is expected to increase the hazards this year, with serious motor and pedestrian deaths on holiday travel and some families traveling to military camps to spend the holidays with those who cannot come home.

"All of these extra hazards call for extra caution," said Ned H. Dearborn, president of the council. "The spirit of Christmas emphasizes the sacredness of life, but the tragic deaths from needless accidents make a hollow mockery of Christmas joy and festivity.

"To keep death from taking your holiday—or someone else's—is a simple thing. All that is required is extra caution and courtesy, and a little more time during the holiday rush—just enough more time to be extra careful when driving on the highway or crossing streets and in recreational and home activities.

"If you're walking, watch for traffic—and wait for the green light before crossing streets. Carry packages so they do not obstruct your view. Motorists cannot always see you, especially during early evening darkness.

"If you're driving, start early and take it easy. Be extremely cautious in bad weather and darkness. And take it easy when you're celebrating. Don't let the merry spirit of parties replace your usual caution and common sense.

"A safe celebration for yourself and others—and you can help make Christmas happy for everyone."

Swivel Chair, Gun-Totin' Hound Lead 1950's Whacky Accident Parade

THE Service of the year seems to have it all. From the swivel chair to the gun-totin' hound, the parade of accidents is a whacky one.

At the annual congress of the National Safety Council, the swivel chair was the star of the show. It was the cause of a fatal accident in which a man was killed while sitting in it.

Another whacky accident was the case of a man who was killed while driving a car that had a swivel seat. The car rolled over two fish.

And 2-year-old Philip Burrows, Hollywood, Calif., got his head stuck in the toilet seat in some odd way. It took the fire department to de-foul the little Philip.

Now consider the peculiarly revolting behavior of John Schillinger's dog, who shot his master after taking careful aim. The pistol-packing pooch walked up to John's gun in Graham, Tex., and, according to witnesses, noted with apparent satisfaction that it was pointing right at Schillinger. So he snuffed the gun, raised one furry little paw and pulled the trigger.

Another whacky accident was a grudge against Policeman Donald Otto in Detroit. The patrolman was strolling with his girl friend on his night off. The pistol discharged, shooting off Policeman Otto's pants.

Any man can testify to the completely anti-social behavior of collar buttons. But the most anti-social of the whole clan is the one John H. Bradford, Richmond, Va., tried to put on. Dangling himself up for a party, Bradford was struggling. He struggled so hard that he had to go to the hospital for emergency treatment of acute "tiger" burn.

Among other odd mishaps of the year was the case of the collision between a boat and a car and the car that ran over two fish.

The first took place in Mayville, Ind., when a motor boat leaped out of the White river and crashed into a car parked 20 feet from the bank. "You can't blame" the boat for that one—the driver, Emmett Hotapple, confessed he had left the throttle wide open as the boat neared shore.

J. V. Short was driving along a flooded street in Toledo, O., when

Public, Private Power Both Praised In Report of Water Resources Group

(Editor's note: This is the first of two articles dealing with the report of the committee on water resources policy commission.)

By JOE MORIN
Washington Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—Both public and private power are praised in the recently released report of the President's water resources policy commission, but there is no doubt that the report makes the case for public power. The report, which is the first of two in the series, is expected to be published in the next few days.

The report, which is the first of two in the series, is expected to be published in the next few days. It is a study of the water resources of the United States, and it is a study of the water resources of the United States.

There will be JOE MORIN cause of the nation's shortage of coal and oil and relative abundance of hydroelectric potential. Steam generated power will become an increasingly important factor in the nation's economy, the commission reports.

Though conspicuously not taking sides in the controversy over valley authorities, as such, the seven-man body cites the Tennessee valley authority as an example of "success in already viable leaving little doubt as to the far-reaching effect of a complete program of developing the nation's water resources." The 10 river basins studied in coming to this conclusion were the Columbia, Colorado, Rio Grande, Missouri, Ohio, Tennessee, Alabama-Coosa, Potomac and Connecticut.

Pointing out that federal water projects now under way amount in cost to the total of all those heretofore completed and that four times as many are needed, the commission warns that the nation is falling far short of reaching potential hydroelectric gain for lack of "approved basin plans."

Specifically the commission recommends that, "all water resources planning and operation should be handled on a multiple-purpose river basin basis from the survey stage to appropriations."

To accomplish this they further recommend that, "Congress direct responsible federal agencies to cooperate with each other and with state agencies."

The report also says these many aided activities they propose the creation of separate "basin commissions" containing representatives from all responsible federal agencies and presided over by a presidentially appointed chairman.

These basin commissions would coordinate all surveys, construction activities, and the operation of the federal agencies in the river valley.

To continue their plea for a "mixed system" of resource development the commission asserts that private-public cooperation has always worked in the past.

"While private operation of power systems has permitted the nation to outstrip the history of the power industry in this country we have had in fact a mixed system in which public-operated power systems have played an important and influential part," the report states.

The 445-page preliminary report notes that the electric power industry is predominantly in private hands.

"Out of 87,000,000 kilowatts installed in all generating stations supplying the public in the middle of 1949, the privately owned total is 32,500,000 kilowatts against 15,500,000 kilowatts in public plants."

According to the report future power demands for this country will be astronomical within the next 20 years.

"By 1970, according to figures supplied by the federal power commission, the nation will require a total installed central station power capacity of 150,000,000 kilowatts to supply total energy requirements . . .

Though the presidential commission plans a detailed analysis of water law in the third volume of its report they do touch upon the need for revision of present reclamation policy.

The presidential body calls for a more equitable method of computing irrigation and power costs. The present method is the key to the whole complex problem of reimbursement and project feasibility.

Specifically the commission recommends eliminating "the test of feasibility for irrigation projects."

"They will be placed on the same basis as all other water resources undertakings for which economic evaluation alone is required. This will resolve the seeming conflict, in connection with certain projects, between irrigation and hydroelectric

Sparrows Go on Lengthy Journey

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Dec. 22 (AP)—Dr. Barbara Banchant Oskason, University of California, has spent a lot of time following Gambel white-crowned sparrows around.

She has traced them through all the western states. Last summer she went to a little village near the mouth of the Yukon river to check their migrations.
Her studies in the United States showed how they put on fat and how the gonad volume in the males increased 20 times in preparation for migration. In Alaska she found how they arrived just as the last snows were melting. Then they had to hurry to raise a brood before the short summer was over.

"We are not only interested in the health of AEC employees but wish to assure the safety of people in surrounding areas. I am quite pleased with the health program here."
The physician also decries popular notions that atomic energy plants are dangerous operations. Because of thorough care in handling dangerous materials, he points with pride to the fact that only two men have died in the history of this country's atomic program as a result of atomic poisoning—a record some older industries like steel view with envy.

Only a year ago farmers here were grumbling about reports that their sheep would turn brown and their bulls and rams would become sterile from atomic poisoning. Now they're casual about the operation. One comment: "High as gas is, I hope they get that atomic power going darn soon."
Dr. Duncan Holfaday, a member of Bowers' staff, has been conducting research project in the uranium mining operations on the Colorado plateau. AEO is financing a project at this school that will test hundreds of animals for effects of atomic poisoning.
In announcing that Bowers would join the staff here, William Johnston, AEO's Idaho manager, described him as "one of the leaders

Severe Critic Hurls Another Blast at Films

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (UP)—Jack Rosenblum, self-styled critic of films, says the movie capital never will produce another great film star.

He claims Hollywood is "dead." Rosenblum wrote the book "Hollywood Leg Man," an account of the business side of the industry. He is a columnist for the gossip column, Hedra Hooper. Before that he was a press agent for many of freedom's highest-estimated stars.

All Gone Sour
"Hollywood, although still clutched in the mantle of genius, is finished," Rosenblum said. "Everything has gone sour out there."
The critics are bitter and frustrated. The producers are fat, lazy and unimaginative. The stars are mostly freaks bored with their jobs. None of them have ever acquired or learned any real reality.

Atomphere Ebony
Rosenblum complains that "the atmosphere" of Hollywood is "stagnantly phony" and that even the famous "chickadee" of film-makers has lost its original business its "top shows" and "not circus enough."
Over the several years now, Hollywood has been trying to be something it isn't, he said. "It has been trying to reach to the public, to tell stories of great social significance."
"It has lost touch with reality. It doesn't give the public what it wants any more. The producers work of whom sit behind four secretaries and eight receiving rooms, are afraid to try new facts, afraid of new ideas."

Hoops Wanted
Rosenblum said the public wants more of the "black screen" hoops; more of the carnival spirit of the old days.
"It wants Garbo in her ermine," he contended. "It wants its sweater girls treated in the vein of the old Police Gazette. It wants entertainment per se."

Son, 72, Going to Visit Mother, 102
AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Dec. 21 (UP)—Sidney Charles Mitchell, 72, is going to England to see his 102-year-old mother in Plymouth. Mitchell and son had each thought the other was dead. She thought he was killed in World War I, and he thought she was killed by bombs in World War II.

Mitchell read in an English newspaper the other day that his mother had been interviewed by the magazine of Plymouth on her 102nd birthday. He wrote by air mail and a letter back from his mother within 10 days.

Stock Price Gyration Present Weird Pattern of Top Optimism, Dark Gloom

By WILLIAM D. HOBAN
AP Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—The stock market whipped around by the fear of inflation, advanced to a 20-year peak in 1949. It weathered some of the worst news since World War II and finished the year just about at the highest level since 1931.

Billions of dollars were added to the market value of all stocks listed on the exchanges as investors searched for a way to protect the purchasing power of their money. They were also looking for a share in a fabulous flow of dividends, the stockholders' cut of the largest corporate profits in history.

The year started with the bull market rolling ahead in accordance that started in June 1949. Radio-television issues put on a spectacular show, ballooning with a speed which recalled some of the volatile days of the late 1920's, but the balance of the market rose more of less placidly.

TV stocks were cut back sharply later but closed nearer their highs for 1950 than their lows.

A prolonged cool strike had little if any effect on trading activity. In mid-year the Korean war sparked panty selling through the exchange and prices tumbled. On average the market took one of the worst mailings in two decades.

Wall street did not recover from the shock of the Korean war until mid-July. By that time all the gains laboriously acquired since the start of the year had been wiped out. On July 13 the 1950 low was established.

From then until the national elections in early November, the market's main direction was upward. Nothing sensational but a slow, sometimes labored, increase in price. By mid-September all the heavy post-Korean losses had been recovered and prices still kept on showing ahead.

Background of the rise included: President Truman's request for more money for rearmament; authority to use priorities and allocations; the possibility of an excess profits tax. United Nations reversals in the Korean fighting—plus rich corporate earnings, fancy dividends, and rising prices.

Eventually the Korean news took a striking turn for the better and sentiment waned in congress for an immediate excess profits tax and strict control. Stock prices continued to rise.

In late October, just after reaching a 20-year high, the market was taken with a fairly bad case of nerves. Nobody was too confident of the effects of a short war in Korea. Stock prices had been rising for a long time, and the national elections were coming up.

On election day prices dropped sharply, mainly because of Gen. MacArthur's assertion that communist Chinese were intervening in the Korean fighting.

The stunning Republican victories at the polls the next day injected a new supply of buying fuel into the market and prices started climbing again. Wall Street was in an amiable mood.

At the end of November, the intervention of the Chinese in Korea started a chain of developments which soon plunged the nation into the deepest gloom in postwar years. By mid-December it was apparent that the United States was on the threshold of total mobilization. War controls and the highest taxes on record were regarded as virtual certainties.

The market's response was little short of amazing. Traders seemed to shrive on bad news. Just about the time when President Truman was reported to be considering declaring a national emergency, the stock market on average was just under its 20-year high.

Wall street, by and large, claimed that demand for stocks even in such days of crisis had a solid foundation. Money was poured into the exchange from the small investor and big institutional investors. Financial quarters said: "People were looking hard for a way to protect their money against inflation. As prices of things advance, according to theory, prices of common stocks advance because stocks represent ownership in

Utah Check Will Aid Safe Driving

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 22 (UP)—Utah's annual safety inspection, which begins in mid-February and continues until May 15, will cost $250,000 to bring vehicles up to a safe standard.

The state's highway patrol superintendent, Joseph W. Duder, said the motorist will be well repaid, however, in the knowledge that not only his car but the one approaching him on the opposite side of the highway center-line at 40 mph is inspected mechanically.

During the three-month period, every Utah vehicle used on the highways must be inspected by accredited mechanics to make sure it is safe. Duder said a survey of last year's inspection revealed that one of every five cars inspected had faulty brakes and one out of every three needed headlight adjustments.

things and the facilities to make things.

A lot of people, though, forget that inflation was a serious threat soon after World War II—and stock prices did not go up.

Reading Rate Increased by Film Flashes

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 22 (UP)—James I. Brown, associate professor of rhetoric at the university, is using a four-point technique to help people raise their reading speed from better than average to terrific.

Brown said his course is aimed at "the forgotten power" of the adult whose reading rate already is good and who is capable of attaining the highest effective reading level.

He uses specially devised movie films which step up reading rate on difficult material. A second device called the tachistoscope flashes sentences and phrases at high speeds to teach reading at a single glance. He builds vocabulary and uses time-paced readings to polish the student off.

The course potentially could raise an average person with 230-words-a-minute reading ability to as high as 1,400 or 1,500 a minute. Brown says that's about the maximum.

Christmas Thoughts

from the Fidelity National Bank ...

No matter if the town be large or small
No matter if the days are sad or gay
Each Main Street has a fine American way
Of saying, "Merry Christmas, one and all!"

In times like these 'tis well that we recall
Our Magic Valley's history and its pluck —
Success that came from work and not from luck,
A will that conquered even a canyon wall.

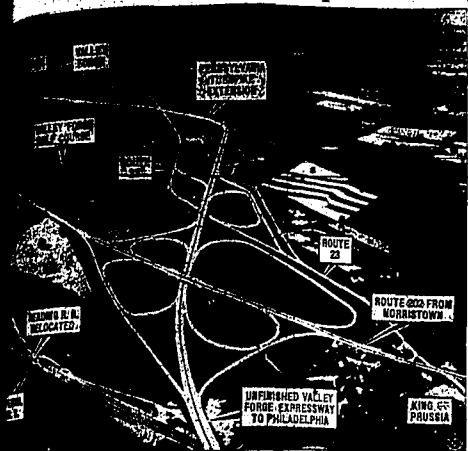

We feel that what America really means
Is ingenuity, dignity of work,
True love of country, man's right to excel.

Each silver star that on our Main Street gleams
Shows America's spirit where war's shadows lurk.
Each star says, "Greetings! And we wish you well!"

MacArthur Selected by AP's Editors As Top Newsmaker During Past Year

The Associated Press has selected Douglas MacArthur as the top newsmaker of 1950. MacArthur's job was to try to get enough outside troops onto the rocky peninsula to hold at least a beachhead. He succeeded. He came within 40 miles of the key port of Pusan, upon which U. N. forces converged, but soon the flow of battle was reversed. In September, a surprise landing at Inchon, masterminded by MacArthur, sent the communists on the run. It appeared that the war might be won by Christmas.

Then came "impossible" assignment number two. Out of their sanctuary in Manchuria—which MacArthur was not authorized to bomb—the Chinese communists poured hundreds of thousands of fresh troops against the allies. This unforeseen development created a "new war," MacArthur said, as he retreated.

In nominating Secretary of State Acheson as outstanding personality in foreign affairs, many editors noted the controversy which had enveloped the cabinet member all year. In January, he was under fire for adopting a policy (later reversed) of keeping hands off Purores. His department was attacked by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy for allegedly harboring communists. When Alger Hiss was found guilty of perjury, Secretary Acheson expressed sympathy for the former state department associate—a statement which evoked widespread criticism. In fact, the "battle of Acheson" was one of the hottest stories in Washington in 1950.

In voting Reuther as outstanding in labor—and Wilson in industry—the editors had in mind the precedent-making labor-management agreement reached May 23, when a three-year contract was adopted. This pact

Ancient Guns In Collection Of Ex-Officer

AMARILLO, Tex., Dec. 22 (AP)—An elderly retired peace officer here has a collection of guns that date back to the days when the notorious Dallas mob reigned.

One of H. L. Baker's prize weapons is a 30-30 Winchester rifle which he says was once the property of Ben Casey, an outlaw credited with killing a "dozen" persons before he was shot down in 1907.

Baker, a territorial day peaco officer in Oklahoma, said Casey got into trouble by killing an army captain during the Spanish-American war and was forced to desert.

Knew Outlaw

"I knew Casey and his partner, Walter Swafford, very well," Baker recalls. "I grew up with Swafford. Officers at Seminole, Okla., killed him, but several years passed before they got Casey."

"One of his old gang provided the tip that led to Casey's death. He was in the penitentiary and told officers if they would give him his freedom, he'd help them get Casey."

"They let him go and later he received the Nobel prize in medicine and physiology for their work.

William Faulkner, won the editors' recognition in the field of literature. The 47-year-old native of Oxford, Miss., has given the world a sharp insight into his South in such memorable novels as "Sanctuary," "The Sound and the Fury," "As I Lay Dying" and "Intruder in the Dust."

After completing a strenuous tour of Korea, entertaining troops up from the veteran singer—and entertainer Al Jolson, collapsed in a San Francisco hotel room and died at age 64. Noting his outstanding services for the G.I.s in the last war as well as this, the editors named him top figure in the entertainment world.

When Perle Meata was appointed U. S. minister to Luxembourg last year, much of her reputation was based on parties she had sponsored in Washington. She has won the admiration of Luxembourg, however, and is credited with having built that small country into a tourist spot for American troops abroad. Key character in the hit Broadway musical, "Call Me Madam," is said to be patterning after Mrs. Meata.

Cold Waves Bad On Tiny Rodents

DAVIS, Calif., Dec. 22 (AP)—Small rodents, such as mice, can starve to death quickly in cold weather, says Walter Z. Howard of the University of California. When it is cold the little animals must eat several times as much food as when it is warm.

"They do not seem to be able to break down fat stored in their bodies fast enough to prevent starvation when it is cold. However, through use of warm nests and huddling they can keep warm enough to prevent the quick starvation," Howard says.

Upped officers that he and Gary were going to eat dinner at a cafe in Anadarko, Okla.

Officers hid under the counter and in the kitchen until the two sat down. Then they shot Casey before he had a chance to return the fire.

Baker, who is 70 years old, has a large collection of guns. They seldom are fired, even for hunting, but he keeps them in perfect working order.

"That gun of Casey's is still as good a gun as you'll ever find," Baker said. "I have taken it deer hunting and it will shoot as true as any of these new guns."

Locusts Again Threaten Holy Land Regions

BETHSHEBA, Israel, Dec. 22 (AP)—The threat of locusts is upon the Holy Land again, in biblical times. Swarms have been reported from east Africa and the Red sea. Their arrival here is expected this winter.

Locusts are getting ready. The country has been divided into five areas, each comprising its biblical districts. In each district, plans are being made to combat what the farmers have come to regard as the "deceitful plague."

The invasion will be fought with chemical warfare, aircraft and agricultural machinery which will dust and spray affected areas with the offensive. Swarms will kill off the small locusts; contact poison, the larger ones.

The officials are likely to come at dusk. The counter-offensive will begin in the air and will continue without respite when the locusts settle on the ground.

It is too early yet to know whether the locusts will come to feed or breed. If they are intent on breeding they will not touch Israel's land, but they will breed and breed and may take off again with these new guns.

locusts. Dr. Y. Pines of the ministry of agriculture told the press. Storms for anti-locust weapons have been set up from Dair to Beerabab and scores of instructors are hard at work attending special courses.

Between 10,000 and 12,000 work hours will be devoted to clear out

Gilded Age of Movie Sirens Is Long Dead

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 22 (AP)—The gilded age of the old-time movie queen is dead. Some decades ago, when movies were new and glamorous, when men tried to find love in a star and drank champagne and ate caviar, the queens of the screen were pampered and spoiled.

Hollywood has changed, and today a top-ranking star usually is hard-working, or she gets fired, and another, or an electrician is likely to drop a light on her.

Good Example
Claudette Colbert is a good example of the modern movie star. She starts her day by driving to the studio in her own car.

Twenty years ago a movie queen would no more have driven her own car than she would have been seen on Hollywood boulevard without a milk coat. The cast of cinema sirens in those days were plain and pleased to be complete with built-in bars and chauffeurs dressed in comic opera soldier style.

Miss Colbert's car is a 1947 model of a popular make.

Story of Vetoed Volunteer Indicates Army Still Fights War of Red Tape

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (AP)—The fantastic story of Byron Asteriadi, a 27-year-old Korean, who wants to get back in the army and can't, has just come to light. It's a classic of army red tape and another example of the war of red tape and another.

The 27-year-old Korean got his first shot of his own to prove he's in top shape for active duty. Bull the army won't take him, even though he speaks Korean pretty well and served in Korea two years before.

Experts on Byron's case at the Pentagon say they're shocked by the fact that he isn't on active duty. The army is crying for men with his qualifications. Two colonels to whom the case history was taken first said it was impossible for him not to be in the army. Then they looked up some more regulations and said why, maybe it was possible.

Anyway, Byron Asteriadi, a patriotic American citizen, is now broke, working part time as a bellhop, unable to get a better job, and hoping only that the army will unwind the red tape enough so that he can shoot some enemies.

When the Korean fighting started Asteriadi tried to reenlist in the army immediately. He was turned down because he was a reservist. To get around this he joined the active reserves and asked for active duty. He had to pay for his own physical exam but they told him he would be in uniform in a week.

He quit his job to wind up his civilian affairs and then started to wait—which he is still doing. The only information he got was that the circular under which he had applied for duty had been withdrawn and that a new circular would come in soon which would let him in.

Asteriadi then wrote to this reporter for help. When the facts of his case were laid before the colonel who would give a complete explanation of the trouble he said he could prove that it couldn't happen to anyone else. Colonel No. 2, who got the facts and then returned to his office in a state of high indignation.

In a few moments he returned with a smile of great satisfaction on his face, waving a blue sheet of paper. This paper, he said, proved that the whole thing couldn't happen. It was a copy of an order sent to all reserve officials instructing that men with Asteriadi's qualifications be called to active duty immediately.

But why isn't Asteriadi on active duty? Maybe it's a human error somewhere, the colonel suggested. What's the best way for Asteriadi to get this error corrected?

Caught

BYRON ASTERIADI: "I can't get in or out."

See the top reserve official in Jamestown, the colonel says.

But isn't that where the error started? Yes, but that's where Asteriadi should go, the colonel stonily insists. What about the circular? These matters aren't handled by circulars, the colonel advises.

Is there anything you can do about getting this man in, colonel? That is not exactly the function of this office, the colonel reminds you. Doesn't this seem like a thousand pieces of business on the part of the army? That sometimes happens in the army, the colonel admits. And Asteriadi? What does he think about all this? He says: "New I can't get in or out. I can't get a job because being in the reserves is like having leprosy. I can't even get in any other service. My problem is . . . how to get in, that is, get in before my family and I starve."

So far the best the army will do for him is grant permission for two weeks of "non-the-job-training" at active duty pay. Beyond that the red tape is still unrolling.

Atmospheric Radioactivity Is Recorded

Work on a Geiger counter installation at the Idaho Falls airport is being changed by Gene R. ...

Natural Radioactivity Is Measured in Region by AEC

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19—Natural radioactivity in the air over the Snake River plains in Idaho is being measured continuously by operations office, U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. The Geiger counter stations have been installed at the reactor testing station at Idaho Falls, and at Paha, Pocatello and Arco. The installations by the AEC, with the aid of the civil aeronautics administration at the airports, maintain a continuous flow of data on the natural elements of radioactivity in the air. The continuing survey measures the level of natural radioactivity in the air. Following the atomic radiation level, the AEC is able to tell whether the amount of radioactivity released by technical operations at the reactor testing station.

Paper Gains Job In News Novelty

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 22 (AP)—If it wanted to, the Atlanta Constitution could set up shop as an international couple. Nearly a year ago the newspaper published for its novelty effect, a letter from an Italian girl seeking help in finding a husband in America. The letter was carried around the world on United Press wires and eventually an American man went to Italy and married the girl. Since then, the Constitution has received similar letters from a dozen other hopeful Italians. Some were from men seeking American wives. Anthony Capanno, 25-year-old blond of Benevento, Italy, asked for someone "tall, rich and sympathetic." Renato Velgrosso of Torino said he would like a wife in the United States because "my mind thinks like an American."

Reflective insulation in connection with the air-conditioning of the building is one of the purposes. Modern appearance is another. Louis Katz, the builder, says 60 tons of aluminum, acquired before the freeze, are being used.

British Humor Not so Queer; Just Different

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP)—The old story about making an Englishman happy in his old age by telling him a joke when he's young isn't exactly true.

After two years in London, an American may still be puzzled by British humor. He finds his best jokes falling flatter than a bride's muffin. A European cartoon which leaves him colder than an African in an igloo brings unbelievable mirth to his non-American friends.

It's all because basic humor is different here than in the United States. In Europe, jokes and cartoons either are political or based on current events.

Different Basis. Recent issues of the Yugoslav magazine "Politika" have been taking off on Russian claims of inventions. One cartoon depicted a bearded man at work at his desk.

Homework Value Proves Small in New York Tests

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (AP)—How valuable is homework? It may have no value, says Dr. James V. McGill, first assistant in social studies in New York City's John Adams high school, writing in "High Points," a magazine published by the New York City board of education.

Dr. McGill called four Adams high school social studies teachers in a two-term experiment. On the basis of ability and intelligence tests, they paired off 100 pupils, half in classes where no homework was required, the other half in classes with daily homework. Tests at the end of the year showed about the same level of achievement.

However, cautions Dr. McGill, let's not follow this conclusion out the window. A great deal of research still must be instituted in allied fields, particularly in the various branches of English, "to ascertain whether the nature of the subject matter is a factor in the result obtained."

State's Polio Rate in 1950 Third Worst

BOHEM, Dec. 22—Idaho's 1950 polio rate placed that state's 1950 outbreak total to become the third-worst-polio-year-in-the-last-30 years.

David F. Weeks, Idaho representative for the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, made the announcement today.

The annual rate for the incidence has been reported by the Idaho department of public health this year. More cases were reported during September, October and November than for the preceding eight months of 1950. Scattered cases continue to be reported this month.

Follow Pattern

"Idaho apparently is following the national pattern of the epidemic which has made 1950 the second worst polio epidemic year in history," Weeks said.

"More polio cases have been reported for the week ending Dec. 3 than have been reported for the comparable week in the last 23 years. It is anticipated by the metropolitan department of the foundation that by the end of the year nearly 31,000 victims will be stricken."

Idaho's two worst epidemics occurred in 1947 when 371 cases were reported and in 1948 when 311 patients were diagnosed as polio. This year to mid-December, 180 cases have been reported.

The state's individual county chapters have been staggered by the financial burden of continuing medical care and financial assistance to a great many patients still in hospital from last year's epidemic while also rendering this same assistance to patients hospitalized during 1950.

Reds Don't Block Tommies' Papers

SINGAPORE, Dec. 22—Communist propaganda in the British colonies fighting terrorists in the dense Malayan jungle still get their newspapers every day. That is because of an air delivery service set up by the enterprising Singaporean Standard.

An American pilot, Paul Sparrow, 76, Pasadena, Calif., who was shot down, flew the Standard "Standard" every day to Kuala Lumpur, the capital of the federal Malaya.

There the newspapers are picked up by men of the royal army service air corps at daybreak. They then fly over the jungle positions of British troops and security forces and drop bundles of the "Standard" by small parachutes.

Marriage Causes Family Tree Riot

MONTREAL, Dec. 22—The Miller family tree has run riot. It all started when Christian Godfrey Miller married Lucie Levasque, daughter of Emilie Levasque who had married Christian Godfrey's son, Corey Alexander, a year earlier.

Now the possibilities of relationships between all four are almost limitless.

For example: Christian Godfrey is his son's brother-in-law and Lucie is her sister-in-law. And Corey's sister-in-law, Lucie, is his step-mother. . . . and Christian Godfrey's daughter-in-law, Emilie, is his sister-in-law. . . . and since Corey Alexander's wife, Lucie, is his step-mother's sister, it follows she must be his aunt, as well as his wife.

Cigarette-Making Boom Spectacular

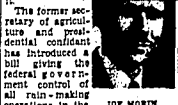

KARACHI, Dec. 22—Cigarette manufacture in Pakistan has registered a spectacular increase from 350,000,000 cigarettes in 1949-50 to 1,800,000,000 in 1950-51.

This was announced by the government at a recent meeting of the industries conference. Officials expressed the hope that Pakistan might become self-sufficient in cigarettes by 1954-5.

The meeting was told that experimental cultivation of Virginia tobacco had proved successful in northern Pakistan.

Solon Would Give Federal Government Control Over Rain-Making Operations

By JOE MORIN
WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (Special)—For centuries man has been fiddling about the weather and now, Clinton P. Anderson, D. N. M., wants to do something about it.

The former secretary of agriculture and presidential candidate has introduced a bill giving the federal government control of all rain-making operations in the country. In addition the proposed legislation provides for weather control as a weapon in time of war.

The proposals long range effects may be the most significant in the history of the thirty year and second only in importance to the harnessing of the atom.

If approved the power to control or at least modify the elements would be vested in a five-man board patterned after the atomic energy commission. The chairman would be secretary of commerce and the other four members would be appointed from private life subject to the approval of the senate.

Least this proposal seem visionary, Anderson put in the record the statement of Dr. E. J. Workman of the New Mexico School of Mines, who presented a report on artificially induced rain to the President's water resources policy commission this year.

"I feel almost certain that it is possible to moderate what otherwise would be a violent storm, whether the violence results from wind, excessive rainfall, hail, lightning or combinations of these factors," the New Mexico scientist said.

"These man-made changes in the climate, if demonstrated applicable to the control of the weather, of artificial precipitation of one national and possibly even international importance. This question should have vigorous application of research at this time," Workman wrote the President's water commission.

Of only slightly secondary importance is the military application of man's still undeveloped techniques in weather control.

Air Force Gen. George C. Kenney predicted some years ago, "The nation which first learns to plot the paths of air masses accurately and learns to control the time and place of precipitation will dominate the globe."

The legal complications of artificially induced rain are virtually infinite in the opinion of many lawyers back here. The ability to divert storms, "milk" rain clouds and ultimately affect even the seasons themselves is absolutely without legal precedent, they say.

These legal ramifications possibly were not the single aspect of the situation caused the New Mexico solon to introduce his bill.

"While the ultimate extent to which measures for weather control may be utilized is still speculative, application of such measures without proper safeguards, sufficient data and accurate information may result in inadequate or excessive precipitation; may cause catastrophic droughts, storms, floods and other phenomena with consequent loss of life and property, injury to navigable streams and other channels of interstate and foreign commerce, injury to water supplies for municipal, irrigation and industrial purposes and injury to sources of hydroelectric power."

The whole field of weather control has been described by jurists as a "legal vacuum" but, nonetheless, fraught with conflicting interests.

"I need only point out that the conflicting interests, for example, in-avoiding or preventing precipitation, may be summed up by saying that what may be a boon to the farmer or ranchman may be a wash-out to the operator of the baseball club or the twenty-fair," Anderson told the senate in introducing his bill.

The field of practical rain-making first came to public attention four years ago when Dr. Vincent J. Schaefer of General Electric's research laboratory at Schenectady, N. Y., produced a miniature rain storm by dropping particles of dry ice in a super cooled, synthetic "cloud" formed in a refrigerated box.

Most meteorologists agree that rain is caused by the formation of minute drops of ice in clouds at high altitudes. This ice forms at a temperature somewhat colder than the freezing point. It is also believed that for optimum precipitation ice should be produced in a thunderstorm at altitudes having temperatures of -15 degrees to -30 degrees centigrade.

Perhaps even more important it is generally agreed by both Dr. Workman and the General Electric scientist that small particles of foreign matter in the air are essential to precipitation. These include dust, factory smoke, etc. serve as "seeds" on which the ice crystals form, which in turn further cool the cloud and effectively compress the moisture out of the cloud.

All meteorologists are not agreed, however, that artificial rain-making is possible. According to one school of thought enough bits of foreign material to form the essential ice crystals are always present in any given cloud mass and, therefore, mere man can't force a cloud to surrender its moisture in the form of rain by adding to the concentration.

The scientists working in New Mexico and with General Electric say that the number of particles in a cubic foot of air is not constant and that, furthermore, by "seeding" a thunderstorm to an average density of between 10,000 and 100,000 particles per cubic meter a rain can be guaranteed.

The number "seeds" per cubic meter needed to produce rain depends upon many variables such as the moisture of the cloud, the degree of latitude and perhaps most important the altitude.

ERATED DEFENSE PROGRAM

Civilian Life Won't Be so Lush in '51. As U. S. Builds, but Few Pains Seen

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business Columnist
NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The life of the civilian isn't going to be as lush next year as this. But there are few signs—yet—that his life, during the state of half-war, is going to be really painful.

Government actions—already taken in starting the defense program to meet the present national emergency, and orders which the nation has been warned are being drafted, foretell an increasingly controlled economy. That means restraints, but not necessarily hardships.

His Clothing—No over-all shortages soon, but prices will be higher, and the supply of raw materials will tighten. To heat climbing prices of natural fibers, fine wool and cotton, more man-made fibers will appear in the stores. Some, like rayon, will go increasingly to war. Makers of synthetics will find it harder to get some raw materials.

His Job—Some unemployment in some areas, while industries shift to defense production. At the same time, there will be over-time work in other plants needing no change-over, as war orders pour in. By next summer perhaps 2,000,000 more persons—women, the aged, the handicapped—will be drawn into the total labor force for defense work. Some unessential types of work will disappear for the duration.

His Pay—The gallop to higher wages, padded with more overtime, may be checked by a wage-

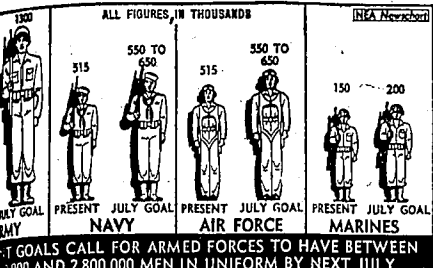

Mussolini's Africa Projects Finished

TRIPOLI, Tripolitania, Dec. 21 (AP)—A forest belt of 5,000,000 trees—began during Italian occupation of Libya—has been completed around Tripoli under British administration. The belt is intended to protect Tripoli from hot summer winds and the full effect of the Ghibli sand storms which last for days at a time. Trees also are used throughout the territory to control drifting sand dunes.

His Children—College attendance will drop as more young men learn to handle guns. Grade schools will be even more crowded with the bumper crop of babies from the last war.

His Dollar—Will continue to shrink in purchasing power. The cost of living will go higher, in spite of controls. More people at work will have more money to spend but will find fewer things to buy. Those who have goods to sell can, therefore, get more for them.

His Credit—Monthly payments on cars, home mortgages, furnishings and appliances will continue to require a large part of cash. Civilians will be urged to put more of their pay into government bonds.

He Planted Part of Christmas Present Last Year, Date Tree Is Growing Now

H. S. Post didn't just enjoy a Christmas gift received last year—he planted it and expects to be enjoying it for a good many Christmases to come.

Liking to putter with plants and trees, Post planted a pit from one of a package of Christmas dates received last year, growing in about two or three weeks, looking for all the world like a blade of grass.

During the summer he kept it outside in the yard of his home at 217 Pleasure street. It didn't grow much—Post figures the cool nights kept it more or less standing still.

Later he took it to his office at the south central Idaho district health unit, of which he is acting director. This month he put it on 217 Pleasure street, to duplicate the growing conditions of the warmer climate in which date trees are found.

That's when it started to grow. One week after the date tree and its leg were placed on the radiator, the tree's longest leaf was 1 1/2 inches long.

The date tree isn't the only subtropical tree Post is growing. He has three lemon trees, inches tall, planted from seeds last spring. He plans to transplant one into a keg matching that holding the date tree.

In the next few months—when ever the new Magic Valley Memorial hospital is finished—his plans to move the date tree and the lemon tree into the foyer of the present hospital's maternity home, which then will house the district health unit.

He hopes the date tree will be three feet high by that time, and he has a few ideas in mind for other plants and trees already at the site. The matching dark green leaved originally held Japanese soya beans and were accurate to 10 years ago from the Queen cafe at Butler.

Post started puttering with plants and trees between 10 and 15 years ago. He says he "just got jollying about them" as an avocation and has experimented with all kinds of plants.

He likes his hobby because it takes him outside. He attributes his freedom from colds in the winter to being exposed to the summer sun every free hour.

When Post lived at 250 Blue Lakes boulevard, north, he grafted buds from various kinds of fruit trees onto others. When he first started, less than one-half his grafts were successful.

Now, since he has developed his own new technique in grafting, his grafts are more than 70 per cent successful. The paraffin excludes air while the cut is healing. He finds a cut on a tree heals similarly to a cut on the human body—a scab forms, falls off and "heals" the graft.

At his former home, Post grafted six varieties of fruit onto one fruit tree. The Rev. Myri E. Nennich, to whom Post sold his former home, now enjoys picking seven kinds of fruit from one tree—French prunes, Daxson plums, Santa Clara plums, apricots, Hungarian pears, and a couple of others Post can't remember.

Post learns as he goes along, he has had no formal training in horticulture. Much of his college training was in business administration. He's a strong believer in common sense as opposed to too much scientific theorizing and an equally strong believer in economy as opposed to waste in government.

It isn't from any treatise on growing date trees that Post got the idea of keeping his young date tree on a radiator. "Just figured it was common sense," he explains.

Auto Industry Chalks Record Marks During Busy 1950 Run

By DAVID J. WELKE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, Dec. 22—The auto industry's 1950 achievements hit high levels certain to stand for many years to come.

When final figures are entered into its record books they will show production of close to 6,000,000 cars and trucks, retail deliveries of about 7,500,000 vehicles.

For most companies the figures also will show the largest dollar profits in industry history.

If the difference between production and retail deliveries suggests also the heaviest volume of unsold stocks in industry annals might be well to remember the retail delivery probably will need them. Ahead for the auto manufacturers is an assured sharp production cutback, due to the diversion of critical materials for armament output.

Most automakers believe they can maintain a fairly high output volume through January. They are generally agreed at present, however, that they do not know how many civilian cars and trucks they can schedule for assembly more than a month away.

The third stock of unsold vehicles looks much more like an asset than a liability.

The 1950 records in production and sales compare with the 1949 marks of 6,293,088 assemblies and 6,800,390 retail deliveries. The 1950 production record was achieved despite a more than three month's shutdown of all Chrysler plants by a labor dispute early in the year. Chrysler represents about 20 per cent of the industry's capacity.

But there was more to the industry's 1950 achievements than huge production, sales and profit and high level wages. The year brought a number of new models, more improved engines, increasing use of automatic transmissions, a complete new body styles and two smaller, lighter cars.

Dual Taxation Biting Puerto Rico Workers

SAN JUAN, P. R., Dec. 23 (UP)—Ten thousand U. S. government employees here face "exceptionally heavy" 1950 income tax payments unless Uncle Sam comes to their aid before the end of the year, the federal personnel council for Puerto Rico reports.

Their problem was created, indirectly, by the U. S. retroactive act of 1950, according to the council, which represents federal employees in the island.

The solution apparently will have cars will be needed before 1951 if very well advanced.

Toward the year's end some 600,000 of the industry's hourly rated workers got a three-cent an hour wage increase under contracts with cost-of-living clauses. This brought the auto worker's wage to an estimated $17.8 an hour.

But it also precipitated price increases by General Motors and Ford on their 1951 model cars. Roughly the increases amounted to an average of about five per cent.

to come from the U. S. bureau of internal revenues of the 51st congress which is about to expire.

Otherwise, federal employees must pay full income taxes to both the U. S. and Puerto Rican governments.

In a letter to council headquarters in Washington, Joseph H. Boyd, chairman of the local council, explained:

"If the two taxes fall with full weight on government workers, the burden will be exceptionally heavy. There will be nothing in any of the 48 states or in any of the other territories or possessions which is comparable.

Until this year, U. S. employees here and in the other American possessions—the Virgin Islands, Hawaii, Alaska, Guam, and Panama canal zone—have been exempt from federal income taxes on salaries received from the U. S. government.

The U. S. revenue act of 1950 removed that exemption. However, in making the change, congress overlooked the fact that U. S. employees here must also pay local income taxes at rates which are not far below those of the federal government.

On the other hand, "Boyd noted, in other states, territories and possessions, income taxes are either non-existent or nominal as compared with federal taxation."

Age for Smoking Proves Problem

DONN, Germany, Dec. 23 (AP)—At what age should youngsters be allowed to smoke? Grow-ups in this country are just as widely split on the issue as anywhere else.

Now the lawmakers of this young republic have made an energetic dash at it. What the lawmakers wanted to decide was this:

At what age may youngsters be allowed to smoke "in public"? After 10 months of deliberation they emerged with a draft of a new youth protection law to reduce age limit from 18 to 16 years.

Armada Gold Located, Say English Men

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Duke of Argyll and his company of adventurers believe they may be panning their hands through mountains of golden dusts next spring. They are cautiously certain they really located a sunken treasure ship of the Spanish Armada last summer.

Other reports are not as certain as the Duke of Argyll and his staff. A leading Scottish architect has noted a letter written by the master mariner of the Armada which indicates the ship in Torbenness Bay was only a merchant vessel and not the treasure galleon Almirante (see page 1) of Florence.

The plunk is of African teak, a wood far too valuable for use on ordinary ships. In the opinion of the treasure hunters. Also, one of the cannon salvaged by an earlier expedition was an exquisite weapon forged by the great Benvenuto Cellini.

"These are the people who betrayed Europe in 1625," he said. "They will betray it again in 1931!"

Stumper

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 22 (AP)—Like brain teasers? Here's one. Accountant Earl Wilson says high noon of Jan. 1, 1931, will mark the mid-century, not midnight of Dec. 31, 1930, as generally conceded. The phenomenon, according to Wilson, happens every 100 years on the Georgian calendar—first in 33, then in 731, once more in 1151, again in 1551 and now in 1931.

The first 50 years of the 20th century, Wilson explains, will include 12 leap years—of 10,296 days, from Jan. 1, 1901, up to and including Dec. 31, 1950. Since 1900 was not a leap year, the last half of the century, to end on a leap year (2000) for the first time in 400 years, will have 13 leap years of 12,263 days—one day longer than the first half.

Australian Sheep Set Postwar High

CANBERRA, Dec. 21 (AP)—Australia had 112,201,000 sheep last March 31, Commonwealth Statistician Roland Wilson reported. This is the latest date for which figures are available. Australia's sheep population fell from 121,000,000 in 1927 to 95,000,000 in 1929, but since then has been rising steadily.

The stallion also announced that as of March 31 Australia had 1,440,000 cattle, the highest number on record. This total included 4,600 dairy cattle. At the same date there were 1,125,000 pigs and 1,257,000 horses, Wilson reported.

St. Helena Crime Rate at Low Ebb

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP)—St. Helena, Napoleon's place of exile, has just about reduced crime to the absolute minimum. A report from the South Atlantic Island said the average daily prison population in 1929 was one as compared with two the previous year.

The island has a population of 4,654. Its main agricultural industry is the production of phormium tannin. A shortage of labor exists, the report said. Cases in the small courts court rose from five in 1929 to 137 last year.

Fire Loss Cut by Labors of Priest

TELL CITY, Ind., Dec. 21 (AP)—A volunteer fire department was organized for the hamlet of St. Mark's 10 miles north of here, by the Rev. Eugene Weidman, Catholic priest. Farmers in Anderson township shipped in and bought a $10,000 fire truck, 18 of the younger men volunteered as firemen, and the department was ready to go. The first call came after the house had burned down.

"Wasn't much we could do," said the priest. But he then located the telephone system and wound up by organizing the St. Mark's Telephone company, a cooperative with 23 subscribers.

The siren on the firehouse was hooked up to one of the dial numbers, so anybody in the township could dial the number and start the siren wailing.

Complexity of Operating City Shown In Number of Job Titles of Workers

Some idea of the complexity of operating a city is shown in the list of 507 job titles upon which the new municipal salary ordinance is based. The job titles, which include detailed specific duties and qualifications, were prepared by City Manager William B. Smith at part of a six-month job and wage study.

Further job titles are being prepared when a reporter called for a report. Smith said the number is 63 different of 50, or 63 if you count different grades in the same job title.

Approximately 130 persons are employed seasonally or year-around, full-time or part-time, by the hour into a hotel and broke out again with 4200 cigarettes, 140 bottles of liquor, a radio and the hotel watch-dog. A Newark, N. J., pawnshop was robbed for $15,000 in cash and the proprietor's pants.

VIENNA, Dec. 22 (AP)—How many of the U. S. elections were so close last month? Well, street wanted the two major parties to have almost equal forces so they could be handled easily. That's the story being told behind the iron curtain.

Communist newspapers in Hungary and Romania are explaining to their readers that the election results don't really matter anyway, since "it is well known that there were no essential differences between the two parties, both being as the service of Wall Street."

Crooks Turn to Bigger Items During 1950 Looney Larceny

By M. G. PATTINGTON
MEA Special Correspondent

A policeman's lot may be an unhappy one, but the lot of a crook can be positively pitiful. At least it was for a collection of looney larcenies in 1950.

One robber filched some hamming pigeons from a San Bernardino, Calif., loft. So they promptly flew back home. A would-be stick-up artist in Detroit whipped out his gun to impress a store cashier. But all he succeeded in doing was to shoot himself in the foot.

A London thief was making his getaway. He jumped into a taxi and only it wasn't a taxi at all. It was a police car. Three young robbers in Chicago made off with $27 from a grocery store. One of them forgot his bicycle in his rush to get away. The bike was worth more than $27.

Some burglars out in Spokane, Wash., were anxious to enter a laundry, for nefarious purposes. They broke through a window and were apparently so badly cut that all they swiped was some bandages from a first aid kit.

In Texas, a burglar tried some large-scale larceny in Houston and this is what happened: He tried to open a cash register, but couldn't; he tried to open a cigarette machine, but couldn't; he tried to open a soft drink machine, but couldn't; he tried to drive away in a trailer truck, which jammed; he gave it up as a bad night.

Thieves this year had some looney ideas about what constitutes legitimate loot for a light-fingered larcenist. Among stolen goods were a fire-ton street-sweeping machine, a locomotive and a brick wall.

The street sweeper vanished in Alabama. Galit-Buy, a track of sweepings left a trail for police to follow. The Galit locomotive was taken in Louisville, Ky., where the man arrested for the crime said, "I needed it to carry a message from General MacArthur to President Truman." And, in Kansas Mo., a man told police some crooks had carted away the entire back brick wall of his garage. They left his car.

This has been a tough year for police, too. Cops in Amarillo, Tex., arrested twins, but in court the two men refused to tell which was which on charges of robbery. They even footed their own lawyer.

A San Antonio, Tex., policeman was investigating a burglary at a home. The watching his him three times. In St. Joseph, Mo., the sheriff's office was broken into and the cornetone to the old jail taken.

There's no accounting for tastes, and some of 1950's criminals had odd cravings in loot. A St. Louis, Mo., man stole a stocking off a pretty blond's leg, while she was in it. In Long Beach, Calif., a "friendship" club reported to police that a file was stolen, which contained the names, addresses, telephone numbers and physical specifications of several hundred looney women.

A Buffalo, N. Y., salesman bought two burglar alarms for his home. Before he could get them installed, they were stolen. Angry burglars were arrested for stealing a 100-pound sack of flour. "Somebody must have put it on my back," he said.

It is truly a pleasure to greet you with our very best wishes for a joyous Christmas and a prosperous New Year

The true joy that descends upon each of us during the Yuletide season, comes not alone from the gifts that we give, but in the spirit of giving.

The feeling of complete happiness that fills us when we know we've brought a touch of joy to a loved one is the secret that has kept alive the true meaning of Christmas.

It is in this unselfish spirit that we extend to our friends and neighbors the Season's Greetings.

U. S. Economy Is Zooming at
All-Time Pace as Year Wanes

By HARRY T. MONTGOMERY
AP General Business Editor
NEW YORK, Dec. 22—Americans enter 1951 with their economy zooming at an all-time record rate, statisticians related in good measure by preparations for a threatened third World war.
Most of the country's previous economic high-water marks of 1948 were broken in 1950, the majority being "red" as the country embarked on a gigantic defense program following the communist invasion of South Korea in June.
The outlook at year-end is gravely uncertain. If a big war comes, it will find us better prepared than in 1941, but nevertheless probably will mean greater sacrifices all around than we made in the last one.
Even though we avoid a new World war, we are committed to live in a semi-mobilized state, with heavy production of armaments, widening economic controls, less civilian goods than we recently have been accustomed to, higher taxes and mounting debt.
Every bullet and every atom bomb made must be paid for by all of us.
It means a spending of our resources and labor in a way tending to lower, rather than raise, our standard of living.
As a nation we will be better than usual, but as individuals we will have a less-than-usual material gain share for our work and will have to spend much of our money, through taxes, for the new arms,
and we will not have enough time and materials and productive capacity to add to our comforts at home.

Professors have been struggling on the subject in a symposium.
Their conclusion is that the "continental drift" theory is not valid.

That theory, now favored by European scientists, holds that the continents of earth were once together in one great land mass, broke up and then drifted into their present positions.
Strong Argument
Bryan Patterson, visiting
California scientists from the Chicago National History museum and the University of Chicago, had one of the strongest arguments against the theory.
Patterson pointed to the difference in living and fossil animals of the various continents. He said there should be a marked similarity if the "continental drift" theory were true.
Evidence Seamy
The disimilarity, Patterson declared, have existed since the continents were supposed to have started drifting apart some 75,000,000 years ago. In fact, the professor said, evidence which might favor the theory becomes scarcer the farther back in geological time one goes.
Fossils Changed?
Dr. J. Watt Durham, associate professor of paleontology at the University, said the theory would make it necessary for the fossils to have been shifted around during geological time.
On the basis of studies of marine fossils from Mexico to the Arctic circle, Dr. Durham concluded the fossils always have been in approximately their present positions.

Forest Road Takes Route Of Explorers

BOISE, Dec. 22 (AP)—Twentieth century road builders in Idaho's primitive area are following a trail blazed nearly 150 years ago by Lewis and Clark.

The modern highway, when completed, will give the nation its shortest route between Detroit and the West coast.

Work has been going on since 1916 on the road, which winds its way through majestic canyons and vast timberlands of central Idaho. It will connect with U. S. highway 23 at Lolo, Mont., south of Missoula.

Follows Indian Trail
The road, financed mainly by federal forest highway funds, follows the old Lolo Indian trail used by Lewis and Clark in 1805. It crosses the Idaho-Montana border at Lolo pass, some 6,100 feet up the Lolo River. At the same place where Lewis and Clark's party entered the virgin country of northern Idaho.

L. M. Higgins, Boise, district engineer for the federal bureau of public roads, says the firm now has contracts for work on the project. McNitt brothers, Eugene, Ore., has a $2,150 contract to grade 2.6 miles of the project along the lumbering Lochsa river, which has its source high in the Rockies near the Montana-Idaho border. The job is a joint federal-state venture and presents a terrific problem to engineers.

Work on Opposite Side
Millard Blum, Boise, is working on the opposite end of the road—the east end—and is about 95 per cent completed with its task. It has a $232,732 contract, solely under federal highway funds, for work on 1.87 miles of grading and about 4.5 miles of clearing. The job is about 18 miles west of the Montana line in Idaho. It, too, is in deep canyons.

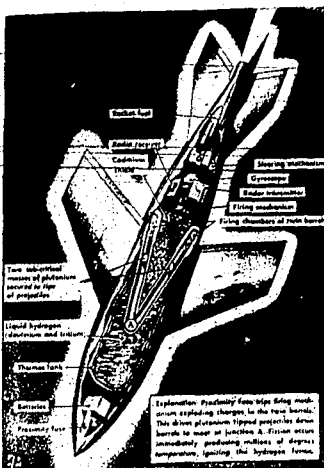

H-Bomb Plans Listed as Top Science Story

By PAUL F. ELLIS
UP Science Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (AP)—President Truman's announcement that the United States would attempt to make a hydrogen bomb was by far the most important science story of the year, a survey of scientists showed today.

- 1. Other big science stories for 1950 and the order of their importance were:
- 2. The development of the drug terramycin. Made from a ground mold, the drug is effective against a wide range of infectious diseases.
- 3. First Postwar Pile
- 4. Start of the operation of the nation's first postwar atomic energy pile at the Brookhaven national laboratory on Long Island.
- 5. Discovery that drugs, such as terramycin and aureomycin, when added to swine and poultry feed can make animals grow faster and attain more weight.
- 6. The continued progress of television.
- 7. The use of silver iodide and dry ice to seed clouds and cause rainfall for New York City's water reservoirs.
- 8. Alcoholism Aid
- 9. Discovery that hormonal substances from the adrenal glands may be cure for alcoholism.
- 10. A cure for the common hangover.
- 11. Development of a blood test for cancer. Known as the Papanicolaou test, it appears to be the best and most accurate of all.
- 12. Discovery that tritium, or heavy hydrogen—the same material that will be used in the hydrogen bomb—can be found in ordinary water.
- 13. Development of a new type mechanical heart-lung device that is ready for use on a human being for the first time in medical history.

Critical World Situation Opens Throttle for 1951 Farm Output

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Editor

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22—The critical international situation has given American agricultural the signal to open the throttle on production in 1951.

This is in sharp contrast to a year ago. At that time, the government had signaled for a production slowdown. Officials were concerned then about mounting surpluses of farm products and declining farm income.

But the Korean war and the threat of a worldwide conflict have inflated the demand and need for more food and fiber products. Government production goals for the new year envision a possible record volume of farm products.

The need for a greater volume of agricultural products grows out of the fact that (1) a stellar buying power is increasing sharply under government spending for national defense and (2) the government itself will need more food for the nation's growing military forces.

Particular emphasis will be placed on production of cotton, meat animals and livestock feeds. Supplies of cotton are dangerously low, due to a disappointing low crop last year.

With best wishes

The good will and patronage accorded us by our friends these many years are worthy indeed of our sincerest wishes for a Joyous Christmas and a Happy New Year.

SURPLUS SALES

Major interest will center on cotton and corn in 1951. The government had called for at least 50 per cent more cotton—a mighty big job in the face of threats of smaller supplies of farm labor and production materials. A big corn crop will be sought because this grain is the major raw material for production of meat, milk and poultry products.

The lack of supports for meat animals and poultry may lead to revisions in farm laws. The Truman administration takes the position that it has no effective method of supporting prices. All it could do, leaders say, would be to buy up and store surplus quantities of these products—an action which might wind up with spoilages and heavy financial losses.

The need for production incentives might well lead to government subsidies to producers similar to those paid during the last war.

Florida Hunts Way to Block Great Storms

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Dec. 22 (AP)—Florida is in the market for a hurricane cure.

Gov. Fuller Warren has challenged scientists to find a method of harnessing the big blow which annually inflict millions of dollars in property and crop damage on the sunshine state.

Warren said he will ask the next legislature to provide funds for experiments at Florida universities if physicists make sufficient progress between now and then to justify a belief that ultimately storms can be stopped.

8 Persons Killed—Hurricanes in Florida this year killed six persons, injured 256, and caused $21,500,000 in damage.

Weather experts confirmed that no way is known to divert the rampaging storms. Cecil Gentry, weather bureau forecaster in Miami, said hundreds of suggestions are on file, but none is practicable.

Ideas such as dropping dry ice or an atom bomb, Gentry said, would simply add to the energy content of the storm.

Cites Atomic Gains.—But Governor Warren maintained that if the aroused and mobilized might of our nation could release the energy of the atom, it seems reasonable to believe that hurricanes could be harnessed and storms throttled if not completely eliminated.

As a stop-gap until some revolutionary discovery, Florida's chief executive is behind a move for a radar network to track hurricanes and give Floridians more time to brace for the big blow. A set in operation at Gainesville last September, located the Cedar Keys storm after the Miami weather bureau had "lost it" for hours.

Armed Forces May Help.—A second radar set will be installed soon at Tampa, the Governor said, and there is a possibility that two additional instruments will be obtained from a Federal surplus property agency and installed at Miami and Pensacola.

The state cabinet has requested Florida's congressional delegation to investigate the possibility of the U. S. air force and navy donating or lending radar equipment to the state.

He doesn't really care when he reaches his destination since he's just traveling as he likes, and he admits bad weather might delay him several months.

His cabin on wheels is comfortable, he has a fold-down bunk and he can make good coffee on his portable stove.

His only problem in traveling is to keep his destination since he's out of a set of shoes about every two weeks. Another problem which may arise is that Leggs might end in a traffic accident, Wilson isn't sure yet, but hopes that might be his last. A car might be a nice companion, he thinks.

Bob Wilson, making his way by horse and converted buckboard from Canada to Mexico, poses with his horse, "Lady," as they stopped in Twin Falls. A slow trip to give him a glimpse of the country and material for a book is the reason for his mode of travel. (Staff photo-enzaving)

Western Wanderer Stops Here Briefly During Journey From Canada to Mexico

Bob Wilson, who calls the west his home, arrived in Twin Falls Wednesday on his way from Canada to Mexico. He unhitched his horse from his converted buckboard home and got set to rest for one or two days near the Rock creek bridge on Shoshone street.

He started his trip at Kevin, Mont., about Aug. 1 and headed north into Canada for the old Wilson homestead which now is the site of the town of Donalda, B. C. From Donalda, near Calgary, he started for Mexico and entered the United States near Coalinga, Cal.

Thousands of people make the same trip each year, but few of them travel in a six-foot by eight-foot cabin built on a 100-foot buckboard as does Wilson. Power for the conveyance comes from a Benzolin and quarter horse called Lady, age 6 years.

The traveler is a writer, ex-actor and western wanderer. The purpose of his trip is to see the west at close-hand in his slowmoving conveyance and to get material for a book.

His destination is Nogales, Sonora, Mexico, where he has "winter headquarters." He followed highway 1 through Helena, Great Falls, Butte and Dillon, Mont., and turned off on Idaho highway 22 at Dubois. From Dubois he came through Arco, Carey and Richfield to Shoshone.

He has been on highway 22 since he got to Shoshone, and expects to follow that route into Nevada. Where he goes from there will depend on the weather across the desert, he explains. He plans to go to Reno to visit relatives.

The entire trip should be completed by the first part of March, he says. His official schedule called for reaching his goal in February, but he was delayed for a month at Jefferson, Mont., while Leggs was covered from cuts received from a barbed wire fence.

He started the trip without a source of income, but stumbled into a way to make "hay money" while Lady was recovering from her cuts.

Sid Willis, Great Falls, is an old-time U. S. marshal and had been friends with C. M. Russell, the famous old western artist, and Wilson, Willis and Wilson both served as pallbearers at Russell's funeral in 1928, so the traveler stopped in to see the old marshal.

Willis owns a valuable collection of Russell pictures and thought Wilson might sell reprints of the famous paintings on his travels.

So far his trip has been uneventful, he reports, except for two incidents. At Butte someone drove into his traveling home and stole several items and at Richfield he says he got a parking ticket.

The parking ticket had him worried for awhile, but after the citizens of the town entered a petition for his release, the judge dismissed the case, he reports.

The story of Wilson's life, as told by Wilson, has been "dramatized but not colored."

He grew up in the western ranch country and led a ranch life. He met Russell in 1913 when his artist was painting at Lost Cabin, Wyo.

May your Christmas BE MERRY And the New Year BRING YOU HAPPINESS and CONTENTMENT.
