War Blasting Of Monastery Is Questioned

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP)—Winston Churchill's questions in his memoirs the week before the allied bombing of Monte Casino monastery in Italy during World War II, are being questioned by a military officer declared in the memoirs, as printed in part in this week's Life magazine.

"The monastery did not contain German troops but the enemy formations were hardly separate from the building itself."

On Feb. 15 therefore, after the monks had been given full warnings over 40 tons of bombs were dropped and heavy damage was done. The result was not good.

The argument did not give every excuse for making whatever use they could of the rubble of the ruins and this gave them even better opportunities for defense than when the building was intact.

The controversial bombing came after an allied advance which halted before a hill on which the monastery stood.

Other Revelations Churchill also discloses: How he learned casually from President Roosevelt that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and not Gen. George C. Marshall would head the military invasion force.

How King George VI and the princess Elizabeth were discussing the D-day channel bombardment from a British cruiser.

How Roosevelt and Churchill had returned to Cairo from the Tehran conference when the prime minister heard about Eisenhower.

Members of the jury were Mrs. G. R. Halpin, foreman; D. S. Schinke, Floyd Bandy, E. Herbst, Kenneth Kinney and M. O. Gates. J. H. Barnes was the plaintiffs' attorney. Aldrich's attorneys were Stephen, Stephen and Heap.

Public Enlistment Ceremony Is Set For Air Enlistees

Public enlistment ceremonies for a flight of 25 Magic Valley youths on Nov. 28 were announced Wednesday night at Legion hall by air force recruiters from Idaho and Utah working with Jayce and Chamber of Commerce officials.

With a good part of the quota already filled by prospective enlistees, major portion of the work to be done consists of arranging for a public ceremony and entertainment to give the flight a gala send-off, according to M/Sgt. Paul Marshall, area air force recruiter.

The flight will leave Twin Falls for Ft. Douglas, Utah, immediately after the affair and the following day will entrain for Lackland air base, Tex., where the enlistees will be given basic training.

Working with the recruiters arranging details will be Howard Moffat, Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager, and Robert Willis, Jayce president.

Bureau Predicts More Meat in '52

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 (AP)—The bureau of agricultural economics has predicted there will be more meat in butcher shops next year. But consumers will have to wait probably until 1953, it added, to get the full benefits of a current upswing in cattle production.

The 1953 supply may average about 144 pounds for each civilian consumer compared with 141 indicated for this year.

In an outlook report for the year ahead, the bureau said it may take three more years for production of beef cattle to reach a point where meat supplies would approach the postwar peak of 155 pounds set in 1947.

Farmer Must Repay Cache; Court Orders

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 25 (AP)—A 26-year-old tenant farmer said today it was going to be "tough" repaying the $3,210 he found cached in a house he bought from a man who hid back.

Eugene Potter, Gillette, Wyo. World War II veteran, said he spent most of his unexpected find paying off bills during the two-year-old legal battle over the money. "I think I was robbed," he said. "If I ever find any more money like that I'm sure I'm going to tell."

The farmer said he was remodeling a basement of the house he bought from the estate of Tom Demos, sr., a Gillette restaurant owner. Clearing off the top of a partition in a dark corner, he found a tin box crammed with bills of $100, $50, $20 and $10 denominations.

"I've advertised that it was found and could be claimed by giving us the serial numbers on the bills," Potter said. "I thought it was the Christian thing to do."

Tom Demos, jr., appeared and claimed the money as part of the estate. When Potter refused to part with it, the courts took over and the Wyoming supreme court ordered him to pay the money.

"I'll try to rake up the money to pay them back," Potter said, "but it's going to be tough. I paid off a mortgage on a new tractor and got the title of a lot of other bills with it."

Members of the jury were Mrs. G. R. Halpin, foreman; D. S. Schinke, Floyd Bandy, E. Herbst, Kenneth Kinney and M. O. Gates. J. H. Barnes was the plaintiffs' attorney. Aldrich's attorneys were Stephen, Stephen and Heap.

Judgment Given Defendant in Suit

Fred Aldrich, Buhl, defendant, and cross-complainant in an auto accident suit heard in probate court Wednesday, won a $226.85 judgment from a six-man jury.

Losser in the court action was Charles-Luntz, route-1, Buhl—who began the action seeking $378.75 for damage to his car.

The crash occurred Jan. 12 on Main street in Buhl. Luntz claimed Aldrich backed out in front of him while the latter based his counterclaim on alleged reckless driving by Luntz.

Members of the jury were Mrs. G. R. Halpin, foreman; D. S. Schinke, Floyd Bandy, E. Herbst, Kenneth Kinney and M. O. Gates. J. H. Barnes was the plaintiffs' attorney. Aldrich's attorneys were Stephen, Stephen and Heap.

All three are in Bannock Memorial hospital, Pocatello, but none is hurt seriously, according to hospital attendants.

Phosphate Usage Guide Announced

MOSCOW, Oct. 25 (AP)—A yardstick for use of phosphate in fertilization of rotation crop has been made available by the University of Idaho extension service after tests on 254 Idaho fields.

Senator Calls for Free Gold Market

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 25 (AP)—A free gold market was advocated by Sen. Pat McCarran, D. Nev., in his address to the American Mining Congress meeting here.

The senator told mining delegates he would introduce a bill to end government monopoly of gold buying and permit an open market if it can be approved by the mining congress.

Mining delegates struck out at the new law. They said it raises the nation's tax burden above what can be carried if the U. S. is to maintain its system of free enterprise.

Resolutions demanding repeal of the excess profits tax and reduction of excessive income taxes were passed.

The employment security agency officer here was able to locate all potato pickers who were looking for work Thursday morning, but officials pointed out it wasn't because of any over-abundance of workers.

"Because of wet soil, not many farmers were digging potatoes. The remainder of the crop still is threatened by freezing weather."

New Idea on Road Paying Gains Notice

RALEIGH, Ore., Oct. 22 (AP)—Oregon, the author of two of the modern theories of financing highway costs, may be coming up with another: Make the general public and the property owners pay, too.

Oregon passed the first state gas tax in 1917. Four years ago it introduced the system of taxing trucks according to the weight and the miles they travel.

Now the state highway commission proposes that money for building highways and maintaining old ones be regarded as an obligation to be shared by the general public, by the adjacent property owners and by the motorist.

Careful

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 22 (AP)—A handout was holding Mrs. Zella Olsen, 35-year-old waitress and restaurant proprietor, at the points in the backroom of her establishment when a customer walked in.

The handout ordered Mrs. Olsen to wait on the customer—and she thought she saw her chance. As she placed coffee on the table in front of him she winked coyly and looked significantly towards the back room.

Brooks looked at her blankly, paid his check and walked out, leaving the waitress a clear field.

"I'm a married man," he explained afterward, "I was thinking about my wife."

Act Opening up Welfare Rolls To Public Is Lauded by Solon

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 22 (AP)—Indiana's junior U. S. senator calls his coup which makes possible the opening of welfare rolls to public inspection "the people's greatest victory over federal bureaucracy in 20 years."

Sen. William E. Jenner is a Republican with a sharp tongue when he starts on the subject of "federal bureaucracy." It was he who maneuvered into the big tax bill a rider giving states the right to let the public look at lists of persons on public welfare.

"This is the first time the new deal has been given a good swift kick in the teeth," Jenner said in an interview.

"The bureaucrats fought it until hell wouldn't have it but they were repulsed in what was primarily a battle of states' rights. It marked the first time in 20 years that the trend toward big government in Washington has been reversed."

"It was the first victory in bringing government back to the people from Washington, where a bureaucrat, not elected by the people, has been able to set himself up as a dictator and tell the people what to do."

The Jenner rider got Indiana out of a dilemma created when another native Hoosier, Oscar Ewing, federal security administrator, looped off the federal aid going to the state in meeting public welfare expenses—Ewing did so on the ground that a law passed by the 1951 Indiana legislature conflicted with the federal social security law banning publication of welfare rolls.

Although the relief rolls may now be opened, Indiana officials have been slow to let the public look at them.

The state welfare department has sent forms to all counties setting forth the conditions under which the rolls may be opened. There is a phrase in the Indiana law which requires a person seeking to examine the rolls to give assurance he

Germ Attacks Against U. S. Said Possible

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (U.S. News)—Gen. William M. Cressy, America's top biological warfare expert, says an enemy might possibly attack U. S. cities with giant, germ-spreading, aerosol bombs.

Cressy commands the army's secret chemical research center at Camp Detrick, Md. He addressed the local branch of the American Chemical Society here last night.

The United States, Cressy said, is more vulnerable to biological warfare than Russia. He outlined six methods of waging germ warfare, which he said offer "great" possibilities.

Not Absolute Weapon

But he also made it clear he does not believe "DW" is an absolute weapon or that an enemy could start epidemics that would sweep the nation.

U. S. scientists, Cressy said, are developing protective measures and even if a DW attack would be launched, there would be no cause for public panic. But enemy action and the work of saboteurs could do some damage, he conceded.

Methods Explained

Enemy planes, he said, could spread cities in germ-laden smog while saboteurs armed with atomizers or other "simple equipment" which could be carried in a suitcase could contaminate theaters, office buildings, churches and schools.

"Specifically designed bombs, shells or other types of disseminating devices discharged from aircraft or from warships offshore could create large clouds," Cressy said.

"Under not too uncommon weather conditions, such clouds will remain close to the ground and, like pollen, diffuse with the wind over wide areas and for many miles. Or, like smog, they would hang over a city for hours."

Ruckus Over Papal Envoy Has Long, Bitter Chapter in History of Nation

by ED CREIGHT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (U.S. News)—It is right and just, most Catholics say, they say why shouldn't there be diplomatic relations between two powers, the United States and the Vatican, which seek peace with justice.

"It is wrong and unconstitutional, many Protestants avow. They ask why should any one religious body be given special preference by a country which long has insisted on the separation of church and state?"

So the arguments are, in the wake of President Truman's nomination of Gen. Mark W. Clark to be this country's full-fledged ambassador to the Holy See.

And so the argument went more than 100 years ago, when U. S. diplomatic relations with the Vatican first were proposed.

"It is wrong," they say, "because, have changed. Great powers have come and gone. Wars have been fought. New inventions have altered the lives of millions. Western civilization has threatened to destroy itself and threaten to do so again."

But on that explosive question of a U. S. envoy to the Pope, the arguments heard today are unchanged essentially from those voiced in the 1840s.

It was the advent of a new Pope, Pius IX, that led to U. S. "recognition" of the Vatican in 1848.

Italy was in turmoil, civil liberties—dear to the hearts of Americans—were repressed generally in the warring Italian states.

Then came the new Pope Pius. In his own extensive domains, he freed political prisoners, relaxed press censorship, set an example for the rulers around him.

Many Americans of all faiths were impressed. The New York Herald was among the first to propose diplomatic relations with the head of the papal states. And only a few months later President Polk asked congress to set the wheels in motion.

A sharp political controversy followed. The charge was made—and denied—that the administration was only trying to get "the Catholic vote," swollen in those days by a tide of immigrants from Ireland.

It was argued, too, and likewise denied, that the Catholic church was hostile to democracy, to public schools, to freedom of worship.

Nonetheless, congress gave the necessary approval, and to Rome went Jacob L. Martin, North Carolina, a convert to Catholicism. He wasn't an ambassador, only a chargé d'affaires or temporary head of the U. S. mission.

A full-fledged minister was appointed in 1854, and the post remained at that level as long as it existed.

Ties between Rome and Washington weren't overly strong during the U. S. civil war. The Rome-Washington link snapped a few years later. In the aftermath of the anti-Catholic "Know nothing" movement, a story spread in the United States that American Protestants had been refused permission to hold worship services in Rome.

A denial from the U. S. ministry in Rome came too late. On the morning of Rep. Thomas Williams, R.-Pa., congress voted to cut off funds for the Roman mission, and in 1867 it went out of existence.

For a time there was semi-official contact through the American consul at Rome. But in 1870, with the taking over of the papal lands by the Italian government, on as his personal envoy, bring him home.

Taylor continued to hold the post until last January, however. When he resigned, the President was urged by various non-Catholic groups not to name a successor. He gave his answer last Saturday, by nominating a full-dress ambassador instead of a personal representative.

On Tuesday, the White House said Mr. Truman will not give Clark a recess appointment. So far as congressional approval goes, that delays the whole issue until January.

"The Vatican as it exists today, a 100-acre independent 'state within a state,' came into being as a result of the Lateran treaty between the church and Mussolini in 1929.

"This new sovereign power had no official contact with the U. S. government. But it had an apostolic delegate—the Pope's representative in dealing with the Catholic church in the U. S.—stationed in Washington.

Just before Christmas of the last year's first year, President Roosevelt announced that Myron C. Taylor, a millionaire industrialist and a Protestant, was going to the Vatican as his "personal representative" with the rank of ambassador.

Taylor's appointment was only for the duration of the war, and soon after the fighting stopped, some Protestant groups demanded that President Truman, who kept Taylor type of treatment is necessary and gives directions to the exact technicians and the physical therapists to carry out between the semi-annual clinics.

New to the crippled children's clinics this year are the services of a speech therapist, "who" deals generally with the articulation of young children. While serving the needs in this field, her services are being confined to children already undergoing treatment in other phases of the clinic.

Children with cleft palates and cerebral palsy victims are receiving help with their speech problems. The speech therapist gives them speaking lessons, special exercises and corrective games they can play with their parents as well as air control tests they can give themselves. Ear training and self-improvement attitudes also are part of this work.

Local personnel participating in the clinic included Dr. William H. Woodson, orthopedist; Dr. Luther C. Thompson, pediatrician; Mrs. Mary Ann Knight, health unit supervising nurse; Anne Knight, Elizabeth Smith and Ross Olson, public health nurses, and Mrs. Gordon Gray, volunteer assistant with registration.

Boise personnel included Dr. Graeber, Dr. James Coughlin, orthopedist; Lena Stinson, speech therapist; Anna Sweeney and Mrs. Frances Sturgill, physical therapists; Jean Sweeney, medical-social worker; Ruth Moger, orthopedic consultant nurse, and Bill Brownfield, artificial limb and brace specialist.

It's the combined efforts of all these people which is enabling the crippled children's service to progress toward its goal. And because of the new location of the clinic in Twin Falls last week there was even more cooperation.

School authorities authorized the absence of their "Boy Scouts" to work in half-day shifts as guides to direct parents and parents to where the clinic was being held in the new hospital.

Completion of the physiotherapy ward in the new hospital, use of x-ray, laboratory and other special hospital facilities here as well as having the services of a local orthopedist all will help promote the work and cut the cost of crippled children's services here, according to Mrs. Knight.

Time and expense will be saved in no longer needing to go out of town for special types of treatment and in cutting down the time of hospitalization thus freeing more time, more money, and more personnel for more help to Magic Valley crippled children.

The U. S. department of commerce estimates that foreign showings return $100,000,000 a year to U. S. movie studios.

of crippled children is depressing at times, but the goal of better health, normal lives and normal goals of being themselves later on remains.

The money goes to provide the services of such specialists as orthopedists, pediatricians, surgeons, physical therapists, speech therapists, brain therapists, and others for crippled persons in an age bracket from birth to 21 years. Where parents can pay for special treatments, they are charged for them; otherwise the service pays the cost.

Dr. Graeber stresses the "resulting rehabilitation cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Aim of the rehabilitation is self-support and the crippled children's service cooperates with other agencies concerned with vocational education.

A pediatrician at the local clinic phrases it another way: "We want to get these children back into circulation and to restore their self confidence, and we want to give their parents encouragement both at the clinics and through the follow-up visits from public health nurses."

Along with the cooperation between individuals and governmental units from county to federal level is a high degree of teamwork between the various doctors and technicians staffing the clinics, so that the program won't interfere with anything.

"You can't get a child well just by correcting his deformities," says one physician. "You have to watch his mental attitude and his motivation and you have to have the parents' understanding and cooperation."

The pediatricians are concerned with keeping the child's general health good so that it won't inter-

Cancer Society Maps More Activity

Special - The American Cancer Society has announced that the green light has been given for a series of activities during the next month.

In addition to the varied programs of the society, it is authorized to enter into cooperative arrangements with the medical profession so that cancer patients can be kept up-to-date on the latest cancer knowledge.

The Education Program of the society is also authorized to bring life insurance to the attention of the men and women who are potential cancer victims.

The society also reaffirmed their belief in the importance of fund-raising activities and has authorized the board to issue a recommendation to the district committees who had met the day before the board unanimously approved the recommendation.

Effective Method - In the field of fund-raising, the only effective method of saving lives from cancer is through an intensive program of public education and information to reach every individual with knowledge which may save his life.

Welker Blasts Demo Scandals In Plea for Republican Votes

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25 (Special) - Sen. Herman Welker, Republican, today urged his listeners to carry the banner of "Republicanism" in the city's mayoral election next month.

On the national scene we must wait until November, 1952, but your activity here in Philadelphia will be generating the spirit of morality in the American people, and by November, 1952, the President of the national scene will be forever disgraced and national government will be restored to a high plane from the lowest plane that it has ever sunk.

Continuing the theme of his recent speeches in Chicago, Detroit, Seattle and Orlando, Fla., the Idaho Republican blasted corruption and immorality in the Truman administration. He enumerated the following "case history":

Four White House staff members implicated in undercover deals; two White House "friends" convicted of fraud; a third indicted; 14 high federal officials exposed for improprieties in office; nine members of the society, to continue Idaho's traditional policy of non-federation, for the protection of all Idaho citizens who are potential cancer victims. A merger for purposes of raising money will inhibit our opportunity to reach every individual with knowledge which may save his life.

complete monopoly on honesty and decency in government. Honesty and decency in government can be had only when we carefully pick and choose honest men as leaders.

Endorsing Dr. Daniel Poling, Baptist minister, as the Republican candidate for mayor of Philadelphia, the senator said "I know of the mark that he made as a poor and struggling pioneer's son in the Pacific northwest. It took men to live and exist there then, and he did it so nobly and so well."

By nominating the Portland-born and raised Poling, Welker said, Philadelphia will lead "the spiral of moral upsurge—a terrific spiral which demands that America be cleaned up from top to bottom."

Entertainers Are Picked for Series

BURLEY, Oct. 25 - Three concert artists will appear in Burley this season under the auspices of the Mini-Cassia Community Concert association. Clifford Mullikin, president, announced.

At the close of the membership drive Saturday officers and directors met with a Community Concerts service representative to arrange this year's concert.

A young soprano, Chloe Owen, will appear here in November. After the first of the year members of the association will hear Yrath Neaman, violinist, who was soloist last year with the New York philharmonic-symphony orchestra.

and Canadian pianist John Knight. Concert dates will be confirmed at a later date, at which time season tickets will be mailed to members, Mulliken said.

Idahoans Rediscover Lava Hot Springs

More Valley Residents Going to Lava; Chairman Cites Advantage of Springs

More and more Magic Valley residents, seeking health, relaxation or vacation fun are going to Lava Hot Springs. Max D. Cohn, chairman of the Lava Hot Springs state foundation and the town's No. 1 booster, said while visiting in Twin Falls. As chairman of "the foundation and a resident of Lava Hot Springs, Cohn has been responsible for much of the recent development of the famous springs which are reputed to contain the highest amount of minerals of any known hot springs in the world.

Cohn served several years as president of the Idaho Cattlemen's association. Partially retired now, he's devoting most of his time to publicizing Lava Hot Springs. Improvements and publicity are bringing attention to the southeastern Idaho springs which they have deserved for many years, according to Cohn.

New picnic areas, paved parking lots, drinking fountains, a small golf course, a large trailer park, a pavilion with fireplaces and landscaping are among the resort's additions and improvements.

Although the therapeutic value of the springs has been advertised chiefly by word of mouth in the past, the foundation intends to advertise facilities so that thousands of people will find their way to Lava, Cohn declares.

In addition to operating an indoor and outdoor pool, the foundation operates a fully mineralized health bath, all on a non-profit basis for the benefit of taxpayers. "Crippled children" are admitted free to the bath.

Average mineral content of the springs is 923.3 parts of mineral content per million, according to the U. S. government analysis. Cohn boasts the water is free of all mineral odors and is crystal clear. Average temperature is 128 degrees. Arthritis, neuritis and muscular rheumatism victims are chief users of the state's health bath, with permanent cure resulting in numerous cases, he says. Medicinal power of the spring water, highly regarded by the Indians before the arrival of the white man, is noted in treatment of disorders of the stomach, intestinal tract, kid-
