

Dan Explains Session Reason As Solons Meet

Jan. 16 (AP)—Gov. Len Jordan asked today for the date recipients of the Idaho truckers' annual fee, but said there can be none for the ton-mile tax.

Reader Pleased by Council's Decision

City of hiring a full-time reader at a starting salary of $100 per month, to be paid by the board of city trustees Monday night, has pleased the readers of the Bulletin. The position had been vacant for some time.

Both houses of the legislature met today for a special session of the legislature while other states might have enough patrolmen to force Idaho truckers to buy their plates, a similar enforcement by Idaho officers would be physically impossible with its present staff and equipment.

Essentials Omitted
The new law omitted "by intention" or "overriding the intention of the old law" giving state officials the right to make reciprocity agreements with other states.

House OKays 10 Per Cent Boost in Pay of Military

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The house today voted for a 10 per cent pay raise for all those in the military services, both active and retired.

The measure was considered in the house under procedure banning amendments, limiting debate and requiring a two-thirds vote for passage.

Other major developments in congress today included:
Taxes—An A. Willis Robertson, D. Va., predicted President Truman will ask for a new tax increase of $1,000,000,000 or more.

Chairman James W. Wadsworth of the national security intelligence committee said the House Armed Services committee's enactment of universal military training would save the country "billions of dollars" in defense costs.

Internal revenue—Rep. Clare E. Hoffman, R. Mich., introduced a bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code to provide for reorganization of the internal revenue bureau and the take-over of the Internal Revenue Service.

Foreign relations—The world situation has improved considerably since the end of the war, according to the State Department.

Science—The National Science Foundation announced today that it will increase its budget for 1952 by 10 per cent.

County Takes Over Hospital at Gooding

GOODING, Jan. 15.—Gooding county commissioners agreed today to take over the Gooding county hospital.

One of the main reasons for opposing the transfer and moving was the fact that the hospital was in a poor state of repair and that the county would have to pay for the repairs.

Previously, when the hospital was operated by the county, the commissioners called for an advisory committee to determine the feeling of the community on the transfer.

Stalin Orders Atomic Switch

PARIS, Jan. 15.—Russia's new proposals for world atomic control resulted in a report issued by the United Nations today.

Russia's new plan calls for a 100 per cent control system. It agrees to a continuous inspection program on condition that the United States does not interfere with internal domestic affairs of any country.

The Soviet union has not the technical resources to produce atomic energy, but it has the interest of the people in the world.

New Bids Called for T.F. School Building

New bids for the proposed Twin Falls high school will be opened Feb. 13, it was decided Monday night at the regular monthly meeting of the board of education for the district No. 411.

Approved by the board, the building was necessitated because bids opened Nov. 16 were considerably above money available for the structure. Plans have been revised for the new call for bids.

Deleted from original plans were the cafeteria, six classrooms with two more classrooms left on an alternate basis and 10 rest rooms each of 12 square feet.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG POT SHOTS

WASHINGTON—Prime Minister Churchill has replied to Truman-Acheson criticism of British European and far east policies in friendly but frank language during a radio broadcast here.

Churchill said he used more polite and parliamentary speech than some other members of the British cabinet. He said he had been in touch with the press at Washington.

He said he had no objection to the British government's attempt to list the British complaints against the United States in a small group of countries.

IMPROPERLY AGED

The Missus was complaining about some sub-steps that were improperly aged. We couldn't understand it.

We distinctly remember getting the package of sub-steps from the locker and the steak was frozen solid at the time. But about 10 days later started complaining about an odor.

The odor was particularly strong whenever she opened the door of the hall closet. We might explain right here that we wear a hunting cap whenever we go to the locker because the pockets of the coat hold just enough meat to fill the freezing compartment on the refrigerator.

Yep, that's right. We overtook the package of sub-steps when we transferred the stuff to the refrigerator. But it was only 10 days. Or maybe two weeks. But not much more.

How do you go about aging out a hunting coat?

WASHINGTON COLUMN PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (G.E.A.)—Wisconsin Sen. Alexander Wiley's surprise announcement for the department of justice that he is resigning his seat in the U. S. House of Representatives is aimed at the "big game" of the original target was to turn owned by I. C. Farben. The Swiss holding company is claimed, was set up to prevent German ownership and so prevent seizure of I. C. Farben properties in the U. S. under the alien property laws.

If Swiss ownership can be proved in court, then the American government would be entitled to the assets of the Swiss holding company. This would prevent the alien property laws from being applied to the Swiss holding company and its nearly 3,000 extremely valuable patents.

All this makes a fascinating study of international finance in the interests of world trust building. It should not doubt be thoroughly interesting to be good clay pigeon shooting for the Republicans, if it scores any.

But now Senator Wiley's field of fire is broadening into a complete analysis of the extent to which I. C. Farben, the German chemical trust, still is tied up with its former American subsidiaries.

They include General Aniline and Film, General Dye stuff and the Schering corporations.

Assets of these three companies are worth about $150,000,000. Their U. S. properties were seized by the federal property custodian in 1945 and the government still holds them.

Reports recently received by Senator Wiley's office indicate that General Aniline, through its sales agent, General Dye stuff, has been carrying on the sale of its products for a number of foreign distributors. Key figures in these foreign sales agencies have been identified as former officials of the I. C. Farben chemical trust.

This may be pure coincidence. But it has led Senator Wiley's staff to inquire into the extent to which the U. S. government has broken up the German trust's hold over its former subsidiaries.

Main reason why General Aniline properties in the U. S. have not been sold by the alien property office is that this has been blocked by a law suit. Plaintiff in the case is a Swiss holding company known as Interhandel corporation.

At the start of the war Interhandel owned I. C. Farben's majority stock control of General Aniline and the Interhandel corporation. General Aniline was organized as an American corporation—however—and its principal officers were Germans who had become naturalized American citizens.

It is the contention of the U. S. government that Interhandel was in reality a dummy corporation

Bulk of Estate Is Given to Widow

Major portion of the estate of the late Clarence Robinson was distributed to his widow, Mrs. Anne Robinson, Twin Falls, according to a decree recorded Monday.

Also sharing in the estate by will were two daughters, Mrs. Bernice Robinson, Burdette and Mrs. Mervine Robinson, Hazelton, and a son, M. C. Robinson, who assigned his interest to Mrs. Robinson.

Mr. Robinson died July 23, 1950. Property of the estate, including household furnishings, one and one-half acre tract of land in the Twin Falls area and a car, was appraised at $42,000.

The bulk of the estate was given to Mrs. Robinson, who is 60 years old. She is the widow of a well-known local businessman and was a member of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and Water company, equity in the C. A. Robinson agency, two and one-half acre diamond ring and a 20-acre farm.

Mrs. Hamlin received approximately $400,000 and her sister about $2,000. The Twin Falls Title and Trust company acted as administrator of the estate.

WORLD FOOD PROBLEM

The free world and the communist leaders are battling on many fronts. Listening to utterances from leaders on both sides, you would almost inevitably conclude that the issues between them are deep and basic. To a very substantial degree they are, but they are also times when a man forgets that the cold war struggle with full objective, could not help but feel that the two great adversaries were grappling on a superlatively level—dealing with symptoms rather than causes.

A review of the world's population statistics would be likely to put a celestial visitor in such a mood. Several European nations are groaning under the steadily greater weight of increased population. In some countries, particularly India, continue to add to their teeming millions. Even the United States looks ahead to a sharply higher human total in the next two or three decades.

If statesmen were complete realists, the cold war would and tomorrow and in its place would begin a gigantic joint effort of east and west to solve this problem of over-population. For the swelling statistics are a matter of grave import. They are a cause, not a symptom. They are in their train a thousand other difficulties.

A few years ago a controversial debate arose in the United States over this issue. William Vogt of the Pan-American union in Washington dramatized the problem in a book, "The Road to Survival." It painted a gloomy picture of rising populations set against dwindling food supplies and other resources.

Guardians of the great dream of a relentless progress to high economic levels were stung into bitter reply. The men of Vogt's view were denounced as crazy alarmists, who failed to understand the world's potentialities. The argument still rages. It may fairly be said that it is not only the world's scientists that the economic optimists, for all the vigor of their convictions, have not yet answered satisfactorily some of the critical questions involved.

They contend, for instance, that important scientific advances will enable man to replenish exhausted soils and thus actually increase his food potential. But they seldom bother to point out that many of these advances, if not all, are vastly more expensive to introduce and develop than the scientific task of drawing nourishment from originally rich top soils. Again and again, this cost problem tends to be ignored by the anti-gloom economic thinkers.

Even more crucially, they usually gloss over the fact that when technical advances are introduced, too often the gains are not translated into higher standards for the existing population. Most commonly, they are used to provide a broader base to support a people at absolute minimum levels. In other words, the population rises as the food supply permits. Obviously this affords no relief whatsoever.

Lately the United Nations and other world agencies have been giving considerable attention to population problems. But it would be heartening to see the issues lifted from the backwaters of obscure committees and thrust into the limelight where it belongs.

INDICTMENT—It must be excused when she opened the door of the hall closet. We might explain right here that we wear a hunting cap whenever we go to the locker because the pockets of the coat hold just enough meat to fill the freezing compartment on the refrigerator.

Yep, that's right. We overtook the package of sub-steps when we transferred the stuff to the refrigerator. But it was only 10 days. Or maybe two weeks. But not much more.

PUPS FOR KIDS DEPT.

The police is housebroken, the owner says. It's a light brown, part black. The age is about 4 months. You can phone 274-W or stop at the home residence, 622 Witt street, if you can't find Witt street, cross Third avenue west, cross Washington street and turn left at the first corner. That's it.

WHAT ABOUT PEDESTRIANS?

Dear Pat: Give the devil his due, son. I. Yep. The Safety Volunteers is going to work out. Got one of those stickers myself.

Anyway, they'll solve part of the problem. Or is it contemplated to put those stickers on the rear of pedestrians, too? You could print them with the glue on the back and then just go on to pedestrians. Naturally, it would be better if the stickers appeared on the rear.

Here's submit my application for the job of slapping those stickers on the rear of pedestrians. —Left

Exams Stated for Federal Openings

Federal civil service commission announces examinations for 252 positions in engineer, chemist and metallurgist positions, all at $6,000 to $10,000 per year, in various federal agencies in Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington.

The engineer position has options in architectural, civil construction, hydraulic, structural and general, electrical, electronics and radio, industrial, marine, mechanical, ordnance and safety engineering.

Options for the chemist position are analytical, biochemical, inorganic, organic, physical and general, and the metallurgist options are physical, process and general.

Further information and application forms are available from Application Form 28, U. S. Civil Service Commission, at the Twin Falls post-office.

BRITISHERS VIEWPOINT

Despite all their other complaints against American foreign policy, the Britishers' most serious gripe concerns Truman's midnight recognition of the New State of Israel several years ago.

Our prompt recognition of Israel, the Britishers pointed out, alienated all the Arab states. It set alarm bells ringing in Egypt and in French colonial protectorates along the coastal states of North Africa, where we must have bases in the event of a global war with Russia.

As an indication of Churchill's understanding of American politics, the British spokesmen understood and sympathized with President Truman's attitude and action on Israel's freedom. They recognized that he moved so quickly in order to win the votes of people favorable toward a Jewish homeland.

"We don't have to think of such political factors in England," they explained, "because we don't have what you might call a 'foreign vote.' When we vote or fight or embark on a certain policy which you Yanks don't understand or may misunderstand, we think only of England."

That was a sobering thought—"We think only of England."

STANDPOINT—With respect to Europe and a possible Russian invasion, they assured us that, even though Britain did not become part of the Truman-Eisenhower defense system, "our Tommies will fight alongside you Yanks when the time comes." They said they were sure, for he seemed to have pointed out that it was the British who "held the line" for several years in World wars I and II before the United States entered.

From a political standpoint, the Britishers' most important contribution was their belief that the United States is the "next President of the United States. They know him and like him because they stay in England during World Wars I and II. They think he understands England's domestic and world-wide problems better than any other possible candidate, including President Truman.

LAST STRONGHOLD

The lawmakers don't talk much about it when they're back home, but there's one front where they have done a bang-up job in halting inflation. That's in their own restaurants or capital hill.

Through all the fluff of rising prices in the hectic postwar years, the legislators have guarded their five-cent cup of coffee as if it were the Holy Grail. They have behaved as if any assault on it would be an attack on the sanctity of government itself. And, in only slightly less degree, they have felt the same about the rest of their capitol menu.

Well, whatever else congressional immunity means, it is no longer a protection for the lawmaker's cheap lunch. Starting now, the sacred cup of coffee costs a dime. And other staple items are up accordingly.

Yes, the congressman can mark it down at last on his calendar. Inflation began in 1951.

STANDPOINT—With respect to Europe and a possible Russian invasion, they assured us that, even though Britain did not become part of the Truman-Eisenhower defense system, "our Tommies will fight alongside you Yanks when the time comes." "TAXES—How far can a government go in taxing away property and still have the people invest the master of the people instead of their servant?" (Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 15, 1938)

"PROFITS—When shall critics denounce the profit motive inherent in our system of private enterprise, they ignore the fact that it is an economic support of every without it all this would soon disappear." (Inaugural address, Columbia university, Oct. 12, 1948)

"CAPITALISM—A capitalist, far from being someone to condemn, I am in perfect agreement with you. In this country is one who by his own efforts in the past has made it possible for this country to be what it is today." (Philadelphia, Oct. 6, 1948)

"PERSONAL SECURITY—I am quite certain that the human being cannot continue to exist if he had perfect security. There is certainly worth while only as it represents struggle for worthy causes, and there is no struggle in perfect security. I should think the best example of it would be a man serving a life term in a federal prison." (New York, 1948)

"WELFARE—As we strive to develop measures intended to lessen the old age, to sickness, to unemployment, to natural disaster, let us choose among the several proposals that which best protects our heritage of freedom." (New York Herald-Tribune Forum, New York, October, 1948)

"DUTY OF CITIZENSHIP—Stop shirking of politics as only the politicians' business; stop banking on American luck to get us good government and good policy—something it will run out. Stop using the alibi, 'one nose doesn't count.' It won't only if not used." (Also from Forum speech, 1948)

"CIVIL RIGHTS—Indubitably every citizen that acknowledges disparity of right based on class, race or color." (Speech to DAR, Washington, 1947)

"U. S. COMMUNISM AND LAYALTY—Respect that as democracy

as 'attack' against us. Moreover, I believe that any among us who embraces communism or its purposes thereby becomes an enemy of America. By no juggling of words or twisting of ideas can a citizen of this country justify an alliance with the forces of dictatorship and communistic enslavement . . .

"Because disloyalty is an offense of the most profound nature, we must be especially careful to avoid having the charge of communism against any who may merely disagree with us . . .

"Respect for our own free system requires that we speak and act against others with restraint until factual evidence establishes guilt. But in fighting disloyalty we must not let restraint degenerate into indifference to the offense." (Boy Scout meeting, Valley Forge, Pa. July 4, 1950)

"UMT—This service will be performed as an obligation . . . It will demand sacrifice. But can any sacrifice be considered too great, if it can guarantee a lifetime of freedom?"

"On the other side of the coin, the least we do in these young men in advance is a clear understanding of our problems and aims and plans, with the assurance their sacrifice will cease the instant the necessary peace." (Pittsburgh, October, 1948)

"SUBSIDIES—A paternalistic government can immediately delay, by anticipation in the immediate advantage of subsidy, the will of a people to maintain a high degree of individual responsibility." (Inaugural, Columbia, October, 1948)

"LABOR—Some among us seem to accept the subboleth of an unbridgeable gap between those who hire and those who are employed. Such distorted doctrine is false and foreign to the American scene . . .

"American workmen are principals in the three-member team of capital, management and labor. Never have they regarded themselves as a servile class that could attain freedom only through destruction of the industrial economy." (Speech to American Bar Association, St. Louis, Sept. 6, 1948)

"These are representative samples of the only civilian opinions Eisenhower has ever had a chance to express. They are the only raw material the American people will have between now and next July to decide where the general stands."

Some of the oldest checks in the United States are now in the Chase National bank collection.

DHIA Tester Gives Report On 29 Herds

WENDELL, Jan. 15.—Harold Herd, DHIA tester for the Lincoln-Verona DHIA, reports that during December 20 herds produced 14,182.1 pounds of milk and 14,182.1 pounds of butterfat.

Thompson Assures Cowboys To Field Hustling Squad

Rupert "Tommy" Thompson, new manager of the Magic Valley Cowboys, was introduced to stockholders and fans here Monday night at a banquet attended by nearly 200 persons who had a very stormy condition.

Thompson promised fans a baseball club they will be proud to support and said "there's no room on my team for a man who will not hustle." The veteran baseball leader, now 42, said "if my legs will hold out, I'll be in the lineup doing my part until the fans tell me to quit."

Thompson told the group he was happy to be in Twin Falls and back in the "hustling" game. He has friends in Twin Falls and he will be glad to come to Twin Falls eventually and make my home. I like the country, the hunting and fishing and the climate. I have a lot of close friends in this town.

The former Salt Lake City manager and major league outfielder said that the crowd he knows nothing of the team the Cowboys will field this season. Help is on its way from Cleveland, San Francisco, Thompson pointed out, along with the possibility of players from other major league clubs.

Thompson said he has worked with the Oakland A's, the Pacific Coast league and the major league seasons at Wenatchee, Wash., and "if we need help during the season I'll be glad to go to Oakland (and help)." The new manager emphasized he always "hustling" team that will give fans a "real" show. "If we can't beat them with balls and bats, we'll try to out-thrust them," Thompson said.

He said he was encouraged by the response he has received in his first day in Magic Valley. He spoke before a joint service club meeting and a meeting of the Magic Valley Citizens. He urged residents of the area to support the club in all ways possible. He said he has received more stock in the community-wide corporation and advanced season tickets. Montana Nips Idaho State Cagers 56-54

POCAHELLO, Jan. 15 (AP)—Furward-Chuck-Davis-sonnag—with a long shot from the side Monday night to give Montana a 56-54 basketball victory over the Idaho State college Hoopsters.

The score was tied five times in the second half. The last lead was 4-1 with one minute to go after guard Hale Sherbeck of Montana calmly scored two free throws. Then Davis, who topped all scoring with 24, added the clincher.

Idaho State had its opportunity to toss the game into overtime when Sherbeck fouled Bengal Sam Beckham before the end of the first half. But Beckham missed both his tries from the gift line.

Area Reeling Under Blasts Of Big Storm

day night to try to figure out some way to get rid of the snow. Most of the east and west roads are blocked by the blowing snow and dirt and Addison street east to the Hanan bridge is completely closed.

The Murtaugh school board planned its regular meeting Monday afternoon at 7:30 p. m. in the school building. Snow-plows preceded the buses in an effort to get the children to school.

Deer, driven down from the mountains because of the heavy snow are roaming the streets of Halley, beginning to wander from local residents who are caught stalling.

The highway between Halley and Ketchikan, which is the only way traffic is permitted, sometimes is blocked with deer. The game department is unable to handle them with all the animals are driving the deer from the deer-feeding grounds.

Eighteen inches of new snow fell at Sun Valley Monday and more falling today. The snow at Ketchikan the snow is even with the tops of one-story buildings.

When the road was opened evening after the buildings were closed, the men started on snow-shoes. They had to give that project the highest priority.

Worst in History
Oldtimers in the vicinity described the current storm the worst in the history of the area.

Because it is impossible to take snow removal equipment into the valley, the snowplow had to go to the top of the mountain to get rid of the snow.

ACP Hears of Unity Need in Fighting Evils

HOPE, Jan. 1 (AP)—The need of continuing cooperation among ideal churches in combating the slot machine evil and liquor traffic in this state was stressed at the annual conference of the Idaho Allied Good Purses here yesterday.

The Rev. Harold Nye, president of ACP, said, "Only in union can we hope to win this fight." He told of the progress made in the past year, especially in the number of Idaho cities which have banished slots.

The Rev. James C. Miller, Caldwell, suggested ways of improving the Idaho Challenge, ACP publication, and urged closer cooperation between the paper's policy and local churches and allied organizations.

Bigger Goal
ACP Executive Secretary Harry Kessler, Boise, called for a 20,000 circulation goal for the Challenge in 1934. He said the publication now has a total paid circulation of 10,500.

The Rev. Douglas B. Vance, Lewiston, told a dinner meeting there were several factors in the successful fight to get the slots out of Lewiston.

Deserves Attention
"State's rights advocates must remember that states too have responsibilities," he said. "When justification is there in states, why with one another in the last of their laws to attract dollars to their borders through offering tax and frequent divorces or entertainment at gambling devices?"

MEETING SLATED

Indians March on Washington to Guard Right, May Get Scalp of Commissioner

By DON SHANNON (WASHINGTON Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (Special)—Indians who marched on Washington this month in a united campaign against an Indian bureau effort to control their tribal affairs may get the scalp of Commissioner Dillon Myer.

Myer found not a single friend at a two-day hearing in which both Indian and white witnesses blamed a new regulation he had proposed to govern the licensing of lawyers.

The Indian spokesmen, representing more than half a million of their race, managed to get in plenty of criticism about the commissioner's new regulation.

Conducting the hearings was Myer's boss, Interior Secretary Clegg, Chapman, whose political animosity is as high as anyone's in Washington. Chapman was visibly displeased with the steady flow of complaints.

"An early result of the hearings will be the disapproval of the proposed new regulations," a department official predicted. He also hinted that the commissioner's removal might follow.

Ironically, Myer may have tripped in his own trap. The new rules for attorney contracts, which would have enabled the commissioner to require fees and terminate employment of lawyers, were designed to squeeze out certain Washington attorneys. One of these, James E. Curry, accused Myer of trying to "blow him out of business by delaying approval of 21 contracts with various tribes.

At the hearing, however, organizations from the American Bar association to the AFL Agricultural Workers union backed up the lawyer's contention that Indians are able to choose their own legal representation as much as any other citizens. Even the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the American Indian council called for an effort to give control of Indian affairs to the very agency with which the tribes have most trouble—the bureau.

Evidence of Myer's defeat was Chapman's approval of this week of three tribal contracts which had been delayed up to two years. These were agreements between Curry and the Mexicano Apaches of New Mexico, Pyramid Lake Paiutes of Nevada and the Ft. Price Indians of Montana.

Chapman has also promised early consideration of a contract between the Santa Clara Pueblos of New Mexico and Washington lawyer Peter Cohen, a strongly criticized witness at the hearing.

The outcome of the probe is expected to eliminate a long-impeded investigation of tribal contracts by the senate interior committee.

"While we are gratified at the action taken thus far," Curry said, "we would like to have some assurance that contracts don't bog down again."

It looks as if the Indians themselves plan to take care of a permanent policy change. Many of the 100 delegates were still here this week engaged in conferences with administrators such as New Mexico's Dennis Chavez and Clinton Anderson and Arizona's Sen. Emmet McCauley.

Another man receiving visitors was Phillip Nash, White House aide and one-time anthropologist with the Indian bureau. Nash is believed to be the most likely successor to a vacancy in the commissioner's office.

Claim on County Hospital Honored

Twin Falls county commissioners Monday honored the final claim of the Brennan and Cahoon construction company for work done on the new hospital and at the same time accepted the structure from the contractors.

The final claim by the company was $10,193.21. Yet to be paid are architects' fees amounting to approximately $20,000 and several smaller bills, the commissioners said.

One other project in connection with the hospital is the landscaping which is expected to be started this spring.

Do FALSE-TEETH Rock, Slide or Slip?

FALSETEETH, an improved powder to be put on top of lower plates, holds false teeth more firmly in place. It does not slip, slide or rock. No gummy, soapy, pasty taste of ordinary FALSETEETH is absent. It is pleasant. Does not sour. Check your dentist's breath. See FALSETEETH at any drug store.—Advertisement.

AEC Vacancies Are Announced

IDAHO FALLS, Jan. 10—The Idaho operations office, U. S. atomic energy commission, today announced openings for spectrograph, clerk-typists and personnel meeting clerks.

Vacancies for spectrographers and clerk-typists exist both at the Idaho Falls office and at the national reactor testing station. Minimum requirements call for high school graduates, although college or business training would prove helpful.
