TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Seven countries, including several strategically situated on Russia's southern border, are being urged to join the United States in a military alliance because they believe that the United States is hell-bent for eventual war. They refused to be drawn into the "cold war" by Uncle Sam and Joe Stalin.

These nations include Iran and Syria in the middle east, India, Burma and Indonesia. Since Moscow is known to be engaged in a conquest or infiltration in these shores of petroleum, rubber, tin, iron, and other minerals, American dollars create great gaps in the chain we seek to forge around Russia.

POT SHOTS

NOTHING TO IT!

Dear Pot Shots: You are a jargonist! Why all the mental caustics regarding the egg-laying problem? Does not the fact that the egg is laid in the pot, in spite of the seeming complexity of the situation? That is, one man, one egg, one pot.

The solution? Elementary, my dear Watson! Just a matter of utility simply multiplication, 6 x 7 equals 42!

If this is not correct, I'll be the first to say so.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

ROME—You may think I am assuming the subject of the adoption of the editorial, political and ethical principles of the New York Times as the "official" version of our American culture of German communism.

But this is a complex subject and we are dealing with an action being taken by a select group of people. It is not a matter of "red-white and blue."

Shepard Stone, the high commission's secretary, is a ferocious right-winger now but knew a day when he was assistant secretary of war when he thought an American officer could be a two-fifths red and three-fifths red-white-and-blue.

to a Harvard professor whose treatment, naturally, "glowed" in the pages of the Times. He said to Sulzberger that the Times had not been consistently anti-communist. I trust that this passage takes care of that.

The Times, daily as well as Sunday, presents a picture of a "democracy" which is a far cry from the "democracy" which we have known in our own country. It is a "democracy" which is a far cry from the "democracy" which we have known in our own country.

NEED AGGRESSIVE DEMOCRACY

Whittaker Chambers, in his story running in the Saturday Evening Post, tries to explain the mysterious quality of communism which has given it such driving force throughout the world.

Communist "true communists are people first of all immense conviction. But more important still, they have the will and the capacity to act upon their conviction. And in this they are almost alone.

Chambers here has hit upon one of the puzzling paradoxes which grip free men. They have the faith that rightly may be prized above all other faiths—the concept of freedom and individual human dignity.

Yet when they hold these rich prizes in hand they too often act as if they did not value them at all.

Men fight fiercely for freedom when they do not have it. They fight, too, when they do obtain it, or under immediate and grave threat.

But when the danger to their liberties recedes even slightly, they relax their guard and turn a deaf ear to all pleas for militant action.

It puts them at a definite disadvantage in any contest with communists, to whom militancy is a way of life. In the communist world, there is no room for relaxation. The Cause is an around-the-clock tyrant commanding the believer's energies every second.

Nevertheless, they have not yet passed the true test of their faith. They have not shown that they understand that the communist threat is always real and great, even when it appears to recede.

They have not shown realization of the fact that you cannot afford a four-a-day militancy when the militant is at home.

Whether or not it is the natural inclination of free men to do so, they must act upon their faith constantly and energetically in their world. Otherwise they may awake one day to find that the peril they saw and recognized the peril it was in.

IF WE BREAK WITH RUSSIA

The temptation for us to sever relations with the Soviet satellite countries is often great. But it is probably one that we ought to continue to resist, in our own selfish interest.

Admittedly, the standard argument about our needing a listening post in these nations is wearing a trifle thin. More and more restrictions are put upon our diplomatic representatives in these nations, and they now have little opportunity to do more than report first-hand the real condition of the satellites.

INFILTRATION

Two of the most influential nations in the western hemisphere are included in the growing roll of re-entrants—Mexico and Argentina. Neither will take our money or our goods because of the conditions created by acceptance. To the Latin, the congressional power, ranks as another Yankit infringement of the sovereignty.

For once, Secretary Dean Acheson is not responsible for this difficulty. It is congress which imposed the conditions by its unwillingness to use our money, war-making equipment and military aid.

It is not earlier Eisenhower-Groener reports that European countries were falling down on the rearmament job, as well as Herbert Hoover's admission that the nations which "most harm ourselves," congress amended the mutual security act with ill-intentioned but provocative language.

PROVISION—It provides that American assistance, both economic and military, shall go only to those nations which are willing to contribute to the defense of the free world.

Although this seemed like a sensible and logical measure, it is in fact a device to force the governments. For one thing, it places them in the role of mendicants who must take a sort of "handout."

Secondly, and more importantly, it requires several nations under Russian or Chinese communist guns to contribute to the defense of the free world. It is reflected in a recent rather naive comment by Eleanor Roosevelt, a United States delegate to the United Nations, that the most important expansion of the give-away philosophy prevailing at the capital.

NAVY—Truman-Acheson shock at not being allowed to have a say in the nature of freedom that it cannot be best used in an atmosphere of self-conscious militancy. In any event, men who have their liberty seem bent most upon enjoying it—not defending it.

The danger is that they will put off as almost an interference with their freedom.

In an ideal condition, it may be possible for free men thus to indulge themselves in the fruits of liberty without submitting to the limitations which follow from its active and constant defense. But a world containing an effective communist force obviously does not fit that description.

The defenses the free nations are now throwing up are a response to a threat they see as serious and relatively close. They must be credited with defining and meeting the menace with more speed and fuller energies than they have heretofore applied in critical moments.

Nevertheless, they have not yet passed the true test of their faith. They have not shown that they understand that the communist threat is always real and great, even when it appears to recede.

They have not shown realization of the fact that you cannot afford a four-a-day militancy when the militant is at home.

FOOD PRODUCTION

I don't know if that 28 eggs answer is correct or not. I'm mildly paying a puzzle.

But if it had six hens that were laying a total of only 28 eggs in seven days, we'd be having lots of steamed chicken around our house until we got rid of the loafers.

KEEPS FIGHTING MAD

Dear Pot Shots: Remember that list of OPS employees in Idaho and the pay they draw? Well, I saved it and it's coming in right handy these months. I suggest everyone get a copy of it and keep it right in front of them while figuring out their income tax returns.

That list sort of serves to keep you fighting mad. And when you get through figuring your tax, do a little more figuring and find out how many taxpayers of similar means will be required to pay for just one of the tax cutters.

Nope, no more questions about it. The law of demand and supply never allowed have been repeated.

Dear Pot: Went to western sag "Bend of the River" rather evening and my amazement saw our own Shoshone falls depicted as rapids on Columbia river.

BOILS IT DOWN

Sir: The Feb. 28 issue of the Times-News featured an AP report on the Lisbon conference under the heading "12 NATO Leaders Agree on European Forces for Europe."

12. The French will contribute 1 General lke. Uncle Billions will give France $370,000,000.

MARKET

Market is "chairman" of a queer new letterhead organization called the International Free Institute. This is supposed to embrace 24 nations. It is financed by grants from Post and Rockefeller foundations which are now big political propaganda grinds promoting their own aims.

Draw Middleton, a New York Times member of the ruling elite of our carpetbag government on the Rhine, wrote that "the biggest propaganda agency ever established by the United States in a foreign country will be set up in federal Germany once this country attains quasi-independence."

This agency will be known as the United States Information and Educational Exchange. It will spread American propaganda in 16 key cities in West Germany.

With the complete backing of Secretary of State Dean Acheson, it will seek to perpetuate in the federal republic the ideals that the United States had tried to instill in six and one-half years of occupation.

Acheson is an intimate friend of Felix Frankfurter and both are devoted defenders of Alger Hiss, whose conviction of perjury plainly implied treachery against the United States during the very time that he was an assistant to Acheson in the state department.

Midleton wrote that Stone's culture machine will be reduced from 1,600 employees, most of whom by the way are bureaucratic parasites of the federal Washington type, to 940 but that Acheson's state department and the United States high commission in Bonn "would make every effort" to continue a steady flow of information to the Germans.

When the high commission says "information" it means Roosevelt-Truman-Socialist propaganda and false representations. About 80 of Stone's regional culture-pluggers on the state department.

Why should I try another whiskey?

A good question with a good answer... that will add to your whiskey-wisdom and enjoyment.

We don't blame you one bit for not buying every new brand of whiskey that comes to town.

Chances are you're fairly well satisfied with what you're now drinking.

Why change?

But, honestly, can't there always be the possibility that you might do better? In the past, you've probably changed your brand—in coffee, or cigarettes, for example—because you tried something you were told was better... and it turned out that way.

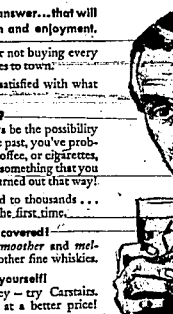

Well, that's just what happened to thousands when they tried Carstairs for the first time...

Here's what they discovered!

They found Carstairs a real smoother and mellow... that it cost less than other fine whiskeys.

Try it and convince yourself!

When you want fine whiskey—try Carstairs. You'll find it's a better drink at a better price!

Chinese Reds Fail to Extoll Airmen's Role

TOKYO, Feb. 28.—The lack of enthusiasm by the Chinese Communists about their air force in the Korean war may mean the only victories in the air will be won by Russian pilots.

Lieut.-Gen. O. P. Weyland, head of the far east air command, said this thought yesterday on the mysterious reference of "Chinese" propaganda broadcasts. They mention alleged exploits of Chinese pilots.

"The Soviets," he said in an interview, "cannot publicize their successes because they themselves maintained the position that only volunteers are participating in the Korean war."

Weyland would legally divorce Russia from "devised identification with the forces they are not."

Declared Neutral

"Russia on any of the red pilots as a Russian would definitely detract from the position of the Chinese, who have declared at the current armistice negotiations that Russia is the victor of the war."

Weyland emphasized, "We have no doubts, confirmation that any of the pilots are Russian" beyond pilot reports that "Russian voices" have been heard on the radio.

Air Heroes Ignored

However, the Flying Tiger boys in the front lines of Communist tankers, infantrymen and women factory workers. And Weyland finds it strange that they never invited any air heroes.

The tall, boyish-looking air general who once commanded the George S. Patton's air arm in Europe, gave the interview in his Tokyo office.

An assistant produced official figures up to Feb. 23 showing all six had shot down the radio and probably destroyed 27 in air combat. Allied air command reported 48—116 and 18—propeller-driven planes.

State-by-State Explanation of Presidential Primaries Issued

Editor's note: Over the next few months the primaries will be held in the states. NEA's chief editor, writer and editor, Edwin Wiebel, has prepared a series of articles explaining the various methods in two general categories: "How the states of the union."

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(NEA)—President Truman and others say we ought to junk our present hodge-podge primary system and pick presidential nominees by direct national primary. You can judge better the way the new voice of the people can be heard if you take a good look at the way we now vote our preferences.

Here are the detailed rules in each of the 16 states—arranged in chronological order—where presidential primaries will be held this year:

NEW HAMPSHIRE: The state's primary includes both election of national convention delegates and a popularly held caucus. Results of the caucus are purely advisory. Delegates may run pledged to a candidate if their choice (consent not required); or unpledged. Candidate consent is unnecessary for entry in the popularity poll. Results of the delegate vote are legally binding on those pledged, but only morally so on winners. Delegates are chosen at large and by district. MINNESOTA—Has both delegate and popularity contests. Candidate consent not needed for either. A few at-large delegates are chosen in state convention. Others at-large and all district delegates are elected. They run pledged to candidates, and winners are bound to vote in convention for man of their choice, but only morally so on winners. Delegates fail to get 10 per cent of the convention vote.

ILLINOIS—Popularity and delegate contests. No consent needed. Delegates-at-large named in state convention. Popular vote is only advisory. Delegates run unpledged, free to decide on candidate as choose. Rural states or individuals may be entered in district delegate elections.

NEW JERSEY—Under brand-new law, both delegate and popular tests. Consent needed in delegate race. Unnecessary in presidential candidate voting. Results of latter not binding. Delegates may have names grouped as slate, with candidate of choice on ballot alongside. But this pledge only morally binding. Unpledged slates common. Chosen by district and at-large.

NEW YORK—Delegate contest only. District and some at-large delegates elected. Other at-large delegates named by state committee or primary. Delegates at large unpledged, no statutory instructions of any kind. No presidential candidate names on ballot—County leaders usually frame slate, but rivaling can develop.

PENNSYLVANIA—Both delegate and popular balloting. No consent needed. Delegates may run pledged to specific candidate, but only to district or statewide popularity choice. Ballot question is to run unpledged, view preferential test is advisory. If bound, however, delegate must use "all honest means within his power to aid in securing the nomination" of his candidate (the popular winner). Voting by district and at-large.

MASSACHUSETTS—Delegate election only. Delegates may run pledged to specific candidate. If pledged, need candidate's consent. Preference goes on ballot. Results assumed to be morally binding only on pledged winners, since statute contains no legal instructions. Voting by districts and at-large.

MARYLAND—Both popular and delegate contests. Consent required. Odd-quick-here-is-that-popularity test is at county and district level. Delegates to state convention elected.

state-wide winner of the popular poll. Delegates are elected by district and at-large, but the popular vote in the state as a whole takes all. Delegates must use "best efforts to bring about the nomination" of the victorious candidate.

CALIFORNIA—Delegate election only. No entries are unpledged; all run as part of state endorsed by presidential candidate. Either he or his state campaign committee must consent. This is interpreted broadly and assumed to mean candidate's formal authorization of campaign committee action is not needed. Only the candidate's name appears on the ballot; a vote for him is a vote for all of delegates. They are selected at-large, with attention to fair geographic distribution. Winner takes all. Delegates are bound to support their man "to the best of their judgment and ability" in the convention.

SOUTH DAKOTA—Delegate contest only. Delegates run at-large. They may run unpledged or pledged to particular candidate. If pledged, they must have formal consent of candidate, or specific authority, for an agent to act for him. Delegates may be grouped on the ballot as a slate if they wish. Their pledge is presumed morally binding only.

Mrs. Wirsching said practical nurses and aides are to report on the same basis. Her committee also requests all active or retired nurses, public health nurses and sanitarians report to the hospital in event of emergency, until further plans are made.

Court Orders Man Freed in Contempt Suit

(From Page One)

M. Rayburn and Douglas Kramer, appealed to the supreme court for a writ, claiming Dodd was being held illegally. The appeal for the writ came shortly before Judge Baker ordered Dodd released.

In a unanimous decision Supreme Court Justice William D. Kremen said:

"We conclude that the petitioner (Dodd) was privileged and immune from such service while in this state by a process of extradition to answer a criminal charge—growing out of the same transaction on which the criminal contempt proceedings were based; that the motion to quash the service should have been sustained; that the court exceeded its jurisdiction for the reason that the court had no jurisdiction to issue a writ of habeas corpus, speedy or adequate remedy at law."

Dodd still must face trial on the kidnapping charge. He is now free on bond.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Play is a child's serious business. He plays himself into growth by using his muscles and nerves, expanding his fields of experience.

The best toys are those that let him add his mental force to the toy's potential. A shovel is in itself a bit of metal fastened to a handle.

A shovel implies honorable industrious effort and that means added power to the child's character and growth of bodily skills.

But somebody who loves him buys him a toy gun. Now if a toy teaches, and we believe it does, what does a gun teach a child? Destruction.

Toy Cars Teach Safe Driving to Pupils

Instructor of Driving Declares Course Is Cheaper Than Repairing Auto Grille

GOODING, Feb. 28.—It costs less to fix a grille than to educate a child to drive," Elmer Edgington, instructor of the driving training course at the Gooding high school, declared today. He is co-author of the course which is being used in many classes throughout Idaho. Edgington's interest in the course was aroused in 1948 when Supt. Leith Carroll, Gooding, asked him to go to the junior college in June for a committee to formulate a driver education for Idaho high schools. When school started that fall he started the first high school driving training class in Gooding, one of the first communities in Idaho to do so. Edgington has since that time. Edgington has had 30 students correct driving habits, how to drive, the history of an automobile and a working knowledge of the mechanics of the car. The students start on the grounds or the football field where they learn steering, braking, shifting in a special driver's car having dual controls. There can be only 18 students in a class which contains an average of eight hours of actual driving and 18 hours of observing.

In the classroom the text used is "Sportmanlike Driving," published by the AAA. The illustrations are eye catchers, often self-explanatory, and to the point. An unusual aid to the classes, Edgington uses a traffic board he has constructed. On it are painted road scenes to enable the students, with the aid of toy cars and trucks, to solve imaginary traffic problems.

Another interest creator is a scrapbook of news clippings on highway accidents and auto mishaps showing causes and results of such accidents.

Interest in the course has grown so much in the last few years that another class has been added with William Bernard as instructor. Students must be 14 years of age and have learner's permit. Edgington and Ingersoll hope the next legislature will amend the driver license law by exempting school driver training classes. As the law now reads students must buy a permit every 60 days or get a restricted driver's license after passing the driver's examination.

The men feel gratified that no student who has taken their course has been the cause of an automobile accident. The Gooding county Safety Council has given special recognition to the students awarding them honorary council membership cards.

Soaks up Water Supply in Utah Area

Utah, Feb. 28 (AP)—Over 100,000 gallons of water are being used daily by the state to supply its rapidly growing population. The water is being used for irrigation, domestic purposes, and in the electric power industry.

The Utah Water Conservation Commission, headed by Governor James H. Douglas, is studying the problem of water conservation. The commission has recommended that the state should conserve water by using more efficient irrigation methods and by conserving water in the home.

The commission also has recommended that the state should develop more water conservation programs in the schools and in the community. The commission has also recommended that the state should conserve water by using more efficient lighting fixtures and by conserving water in the office.

Zirconium, Cinderella Metal of Atomic Age, Being Used to Line Atom Furnace

By PAT MURRO (Washington Staff Correspondent) (Third of four articles)

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Feb. 28 (Special)—Meet the latest Cinderella metal of the atomic energy program—zirconium.

In a year or so the public will be as aware of its awfully name as that of its treasured sister—uranium—zirconium.

Zirconium is urgently needed for lining more efficient atomic furnaces. It is available in sufficient quantities to line the interior of the production reactors of the atomic energy program.

The zirconium reactors at Hanford, Wash., several times as large as the atomic energy program, also would insure proper functioning of engines for submarines and aircraft.

AEC currently is doing all it can to get several industries to begin producing the metal. It cleared representatives of 20 qualified firms for security checks and set them visit AEC installations last October and November. An announcement of which firms will enter the program is expected soon.

In the form of a black powder known as zircon, the metal was well known to old-time photographers, who used it in their flash powder. It slumbered along in moderate demand, however, until a method was found to change it from a brittle metal into a pliable, easily-worked form.

It's about the weight of iron but doesn't corrode. AEC has been told, however, that zirconium has been used in atomic engines, there's a tremendous field for it elsewhere. One is in surgery for patching broken bones or replacing them.

Pat Murro

DISTRICT COURT OF THE STATE OF IDAHO, IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF BOISE, ss: I, JESSE E. CARLSON, Clerk of the Court, do hereby certify that the following is a true and correct copy of the judgment and decree rendered in the above entitled cause, in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure of the State of Idaho, as amended, and that the same is true and correct as shown by the records of the Court.

At Boise, Idaho, this 28th day of February, 1952.

JESSE E. CARLSON, Clerk of the Court.

Feb. 28, 1952.

Slipper in hand, Prince AEO started doing the rounds of the town six or eight years ago trying to find a foot it would fit. He wasn't sure at first zirconium would be come his princess but noted in a report to congress:

"In 1946 scientists at Argonne, Ames, Oak Ridge, the radiation laboratory, the national bureau of standards, and others have 'discovered' new methods of purification and analysis in order to determine whether or not zirconium can be made into useful material for reactor construction."

"If this can be accomplished, we will have added one more to the growing list of substances of value in the reactor program."

By the time he reported to congress last month, he was sure the slipper fitted and declared that "the properties of zirconium make it a desirable reactor construction material and new methods of production and purification are being sought in order to improve its availability and utility." He added that research work to this end is now going on in several places, including Columbia University in New York City.

Zirconium now is being mined in only two parts of the U. S.—near Jacksonville, Fla., and Boise, Idaho. The Florida production eventually winds up in the bureau of mines plant in Albany, Ore., for final processing into the desired form.

However, the Idaho output is being stored until industries become equipped to handle it.

Black sands in Oregon and northern California had been looked upon with hope by the AEC but are no longer. They're too low-grade for immediate use.

The place where zirconium presumably has earned top honors is in the new "breeder" reactor at Arco, Ida. The problem there is to construct a small version of a more efficient furnace—the leisons to be incorporated into the new reactor. It's built at Arco, S. C., and it's change the construction of those already built.

Technically, plutonium, or "so boom" uranium for use in A-weapons, is produced in a reactor by exposing normal uranium to some of the heat which is its unstable form. This latter "fissions," shooting particles known as neutrons across into the quiet uranium, making some of that unstable, too.

It's like a jolt-break with only a few atoms around to capture the neutrons in the present reactor. Lead and concrete and other metals just can't confine the neutrons. Zirconium, which would line the reactor walls, would increase the guard force several times. Few neutrons would get outside the reactor and most remain inside to live up more and more of their "quiet" brother.

Ideally, all of the normal uranium in the world could be made into a form suitable for releasing energy. In nature only one part in 140 is so suitable.

Also in the picture, if breeding succeeds, is the metal thorium, just as plentiful as uranium in the earth's surface but even quieter in normal form. It requires intense contact with neutrons to "get happy."

Thus, zirconium comes to the palace to live, bringing with it a potential enrichment of the Prince's atomic domain by tenfold.

(In his concluding article tomorrow Murro discusses AEC's longrange plans).

The Dismal swamp is a lonely morass of almost unbroken wilderness standing in the center of the eastern seaboard of the United States.

Youths in Gooding Sing for Teachers

GOODING, Feb. 28—Gooding teachers association members were entertained recently by Willis Howard and James Boyd who sang original western songs.

The youths, students in Gooding high school, announced they had little for their song and hoped for suggestions. Howard played guitar accompaniment for their singing.

Mrs. Emma Backhouse presided for the meeting at which Bupt. Leigh Ingersoll lent a "discussion" on the teachers' certification law. Ingersoll handed out questionnaires for the teachers to fill out.

Following the business meeting Willis Howard directed games. Mrs. Hope Clemons was general chairman for arrangements.

Awards Made

IDAHO STATE COLLEGE, Pocatello, Feb. 28—Frank Blinn, Edna, has received the Muriel McKinney scholarship plaque at Idaho State college.

A pledge scholarship necklace was given to Lois Fran Averett, Twin Falls, and a graduation rose went to Beverly Ann Downs, also Twin Falls.

PERMISSION GRANTED
FILER, Feb. 28—Roger D. Vincent, Filer, has been granted permission by the Aynshire Breeders association to use the name "Arbuckle" as a herd name in registering his purebred Ayrshire cattle.

Some scholars say the old Arabic name for Madrid was derived from a root word meaning flowing or changing air.

Elected

COLLEGE OF IDAHO, Caldwell, Feb. 28—Seven Magis Valley students at the College of Idaho have been elected to office at Blomington women's dormitory at the college. They are Lila Boren, Gooding, president; Shirley Toler, Jerome, secretary; Loraine Muthila, Hansen, treasurer; Carol McCallister, Twin Falls, and Lynn Brown, Jerome, representatives; and Patsy Darnall, Jerome, freshman representative.

Caution Note Is Voiced on New TB Drug

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Eight doctors and experts have joined a go-slow flag on a new tuberculosis drug, the new "wonder" drug for tuberculosis, declaring:

No one should delay having operations already planned to treat their TB. Delay of surgery might kill or harm them.

The drug can't be had generally. It won't be available for months after and if the food and drug administration okay it.

No "Magic Bullet"

The drug "is no magic bullet" against TB.

It hasn't been proved whether it really kills all or enough of the TB germs in lungs or other parts of the body.

Doctors don't know what will happen to patients, who seem to have benefited, when they stop taking the drug. Their disease may flare up again.

Doctors don't know whether there may be long-term bad effects.

Won't Close Hospitals

It won't close up TB hospitals, not for many years anyhow, and not only if it lives up to its early brightest expectations.

Yet, with all this, the drug is as good as or better than streptomycin so far as doctors can tell now.

The new drug is isoniazotic acid, a relative of one of the B vitamins.

The cautions about the drug were sounded in a news conference held by the New York County Medical society.

Farmers Urged to Place Orders for Windbreak Trees

BURLEY, Feb. 23—Cassidy county agent Glenn L. Bodily reminds farmers that the deadline for ordering tree windbreaks is March 1. Orders postmarked after that date will not be processed, he said.

Bodily urges all farmers not to allow this week to slide by without taking definite steps towards providing their land with adequate tree windbreaks. He pointed out that tree windbreaks this winter build back in protection and comfort for all and their owners in expense, labor and time.

The county agent said farmers in this area who have taken the necessary steps toward preparing their land to insure satisfactory windbreak protection report reduced inconvenience coming from heavily drifting snow, shelter to buildings and livestock, savings in fuel, added gain on meat animals and added milk from dairy stock. The county agent said farmers report that part of the money and time spent in growing windbreaks comes back each year in the form of fuel savings. Leafy bills are as much as 30 per cent lower than they were for the same dwellings before the windbreaks came into use. Corn in the over-all feeling of greater security in time of storm, he said.

According to Bodily, the kinds of trees that grow best in this area are Russian olive, black locust, green ash and, for dryland planting, Siberian elm. The best type of evergreen to be used here, he said, are Norway spruce, blue spruce and Rocky Mountain juniper.
