

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—With the arrival of the New Year and the imminent departure of a Democratic administration, Washington's historians, economists and social historians are making analyses and estimates of the decades of the Roosevelt-Truman régime. It is a period which has covered the world's worst depression and war, and left as unfinished business a cruel conflict in Korea.

Specifically, what they are trying to determine is what "half-contribution" the Democrats have made to the nation's well-being, or to more decent living conditions for the average family.

What Roosevelt knew remains only names—in history, and texts books—instead of contemporary and contemporary figures, what of their accomplishments will survive? For what will they be remembered in the way that their distinguished predecessors are cherished?

PROVOCATIVE PERSONALITIES—A unanimous verdict, of course, impossible because we are too near to the scene, and the provocative personalities in the drama of the last year clearly reflect either the policies of the new deal reformers or those of their successors will make.

Finally, different groups of Americans will have different viewpoints and reactions, depending on their economic or social status.

A Wall street financier complaining about high taxes cannot be expected to agree with a farm supervisor, union leader, or a labor spokesman from agricultural payments and gainful collective bargaining.

Allowing for these natural disagreements, however, there is a lot of what most reviewers regard as permanent and worthwhile accomplishments at Washington. Incidentally, they happen to be the achievements of Harry S. Truman, who, like his predecessor, and his successors, will make.

At present it is estimated that only about 5 per cent of the approximately 160,000 super-visors in federal service who have authority to spend money have their own budgets.

For the rest, there is practically no incentive to cut costs. In many cases there are even rewards for extravagance.

One of those keenly interested in the idea is Sen. Frank Carlson (R., Kans.), one of Ike's closest advisers during the campaign, who will be chairman of the important Senate postwar and civil service committee.

He says:

"This could be the answer—the real answer—to government economy. It could be the thing which will give government a workable substitute for the profit motive which has made U. S. industry so efficient."

Others who show similar enthusiasm for the idea include members of the former Hoover commission, a former federal budget director and present U. S. civil service commission officials.

Father of the idea is John Crammer, columnist on federal-employee affairs for the Washington Daily News and other papers. He says:

In the last analysis, we'll get true economy in government only if we make saving the business of every employee who has the power to spend—and that means every supervisor. A budget for the supervisor would put him on notice that saving is an important major part of his job just like it is for every boss, foreman or supervisor in private industry.

"Such a government economy as exists, handed down from above, or from congress, will not do something for every supervisor to resist. In asking for more money he goes on the theory: 'Maybe I can get it. Maybe I can't. But there's nothing to lose by trying.'

The government has given him the power to spend, but no incentive to save."

There are other advantages of the plan.

It is pointed out that its adoption would have an excellent psychological effect on both the taxpayers and federal employees. It would serve notice that the new administration is sincerely bent on economy.

In addition it would provide the government with something it has never had before.

That is a yardstick for the measuring of all government operations.

All the experts who have studied the plan claim that there is nothing in it which could backfire. They say that the No. 1 goal for supervisors would continue to be the accomplishment of their basic assignment. The plan would merely add an incentive to do that basic job in the most economical manner.

The plan would require no new legislation, according to Crammer. It could be accomplished by a simple administrative order.

Further, contrary to most big government economy plans, this one will not involve costly studies or programs to get it under way. It is believed that administrative funds already available to the agencies could finance it start. Congress would not have to appropriate any funds to launch it.

STRANGE, GULLIBLE BREED.

A few days ago V. K. Krishna Menon, Indian representative to the U. N., declared on a TV program that the United States earlier this year had "sabotaged" peace efforts in Korea by its bombing raids on red power plants near the Yalu river.

Menon suggested these raids came at a critical time when we were on the point of reaching an agreement. Isn't this assuming a great deal? Even the British are said to commit privately now that the Communists never had any intention of concluding a truce but merely used the talk-to-cover-a-buildup of their weakening armies.

The Indians are a strange breed. One of their great conceits is that they are more interested in peace than other people, including people whose sons are dying. Another is that they understand the Chinese and their communist relatives better than we do.

It is true that India is one of the few free nations with contact in Peiping. But presence in the capital does not automatically make for understanding. Isn't it entirely possible that the reds simply use the Indians to bait us over? Through Nehru and his official the communists channel talk of peace.

POT SHOTS

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

In principle, a "labor" union is simply a club or society of individuals acting in concert to obtain financial benefits for themselves. This recent faint roar of righteous journalistic fury, against Joe Ryan and some of the petty bosses of organized labor, is not to be regarded as a threat to the right to strike was sacred.

The people, depending mainly upon ignorance, but also upon their own laziness, led to believe that the right to strike was sacred.

The people are ignorant and vain, and only a few of them came to a mob—hoping better that's a mob of wild men and women, brandishing clubs with razor blades in them, throwing bricks and swinging stones.

They are weaklings, and the unions are the intended victims of the acknowledged greed of the bosses.

All the rest of us who labor, at least as much in this respect as those "laborers" who join unions, are not to be caught off guard and may be haggled with brave impunity, although the militiamen "attired" in the uniform of organized labor, joined a "labor" union and thus became victims of the acknowledged greed of the bosses.

The strikers are the ones who are the most responsible for the human rights of others nor for any law but the law of the game of the jungle. Both had been quavering cowardly in the bowing presence of their early father, John L. Lewis.

They never dared challenge him on any ground, moral or personal, and the result was that this man, a much more man in the real, material situations that arose in the mine workers and the CIO were such that they convicted themselves of great guilt by their cringing submission.

The subversives of these enemies of labor and of morals were a disgrace to all those who voiced them, and the public, who were willing to stand by Murray and Green, but the time was when they could expect no fault of theirs to come to a mob.

The proposition that a strike is a violation of the law, multiplied by one or two thousand is a fraud which has weakened the position of government.

The people, depending mainly upon ignorance, but also upon their own laziness, led to believe that the right to strike was sacred.

The people are ignorant and vain, and only a few of them came to a mob—hoping better that's a mob of wild men and women, brandishing clubs with razor blades in them, throwing bricks and swinging stones.

They are weaklings, and the unions are the intended victims of the acknowledged greed of the bosses.

As a club, a union obviously deserves no special privilege over the rest of society. But the people, through their leaders, added to our judgment long ago and the political organizations saw the value of mass endorsements, by union in congress assembled.

Unions exerted pressure from the top down, and the result was that the bosses, who had been quavering cowardly in the bowing presence of their early father, John L. Lewis.

At the same time, mayors, such as the late James J. Murray, who were afraid to stand up to the equal falacy that the bosses were not to be criminals, but that the workers were.

In this process, the workers became the brutes, the bosses the weaklings, the bondsmen and individual power, and became members of a criminal mass preying on their fellow men. The idea was hammered into the public consciousness that the predatory Taft-Hartley act was not only legal but

For Project Jobs

BOISE, Jan. 1 (UPI)—Regional Director H. T. Nelson announced Wednesday that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers had awarded four contracts for work on the Kennewick project in Washington immediately following approval of a repayment contract by the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity. The contracts are: J. A. Terrell and Sons, Boise, $14,278, for an eight-mile power-irrigation canal; James Leffel and company, Springfield, O., $11,000 for four wells; W. H. Haskins, N.Y., $20,455 for two pumps, and Electro-Mechanical Manufacturing company, Minneapolis, $26,100 for two generators.

Nelson said work on the canal began in February and that the first section of a 44-mile main irrigation canal would be called next March. Bids for construction of a pumping and power plant will be called next May.

Beverly Jean Alger Weds Boisean in Nuptial Mass

Nuptial mass will be at St. Edward's Catholic church Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. The bridegroom is Robert Marvin Call, a newspaperman and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Hutchinson and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Maguire. The family of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Carlson Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Wright, Hobart, Idaho, and the marriage service before the altar, decorated with potted heliotropes, lighted tapers in floor candleabra and the barked stems of dried flowers, formed the gateway to the altar. Heather and holly lined the aisle. The bride's white-length gown of Chantilly lace over eggshell white satin was fastened with a rose brooch. The Chantilly lace jacket was worn over pointed sleeves. She wore a lace tiara. Seed pearls held her elbow-length veil of illusion net. She carried a red and off-white mink-lined fur coat on a white prayer book with a shower of streamers.

Beverly Jo Wright, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Miss Odell Hulse was bridesmaid. Guests included the organist, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Lawrence, McCall; Horace Neely, Aberdeen; Bruce Whipple, more, Idaho Falls; Orval Johnson, Washington; and Herman McDowell, Potocatello.

Chapter Plans to Honor Pair With Jewel Ceremony

PIERCE, Jan. 1—Pai chapter Beta Sigma Phi made preliminary plans to hold the ritual of jewels in late January, during the annual conference of the Western Intercollegiate Makers Monday night at the country home of Mrs. Ray Fyke. The jewel ceremony will honor Mrs. Kenneth Black and Mrs. Zelma Davidson.

RAY PAUL Hurler, president of the local chapter, said the March of Dimes was explained and Mrs. Dale Burkhalter volunteered to captain the sorority's participation in the campaign.

The group sang Christmas carols with Mrs. Fyke at the piano. A vocal solo was given by Mrs. Kenneth Brothers, Hollister, a guest of Mrs. Fyke.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 1—Mrs. Adrian Van Hook, Santa Clara, Calif., was honored with a special gift.

Gifts were played and refreshments were served by the hostess. Mrs. Van Hook was in charge of the entertainment.

HOSTESS TO CLUB

EDEN, Jan. 1—Mrs. Dorothy Gardner Entler, a sturdy, 5-foot-3 woman with a ponytail, will entertain at a pony dinner.

Gifts were exchanged and Christmas carols sung. Mrs. Mae Vinyard received the white elephant.

The next event will be held Jan. 15 at the home of Mrs. Vada Van Hook with Mrs. Edna Ringold as host.

INTRIGUING to look at the thick bunches of hair on the head and wonder what each will bring. Will one of them bring the wish we cherish? Which one will be the day of a dream come true? What shiny locks in the tufts of hair stretched out from that unknown mysterious realm where Time dwells? We must wait, and, while we wait, we live and work and till those days will pass with faith and color them with the spiritual qualities that defy life's trials.

The dearest wish of each heart is to reach peace of mind, to find rest in the here and now.

Begin the New Year with this—

There is drama in the ending of a year and the beginning of another. The quality of the year's end is something that makes us think where we stand and think about what time means to us. It measures our lives, warning us minute by minute of what is to come.

RUPERT, Jan. 1.—President George Dairy Herd Association, which has the largest sum-of-any Idaho cattle herd in history.

The 266 cows from 21 herds in the association produced an average of 266 pounds of butterfat and 660 pounds of milk in December.

Of the 266 cows in the association, 190 were in production and 35 were dry.

The high herd was owned by Philip Daenzer, who had five cows.

Gov. Len Jordan, at a conference of state business, farm and labor leaders here, gave his "best wishes" to the dairymen.

The high individual cow was "Julie," a Holstein owned by Keith F. Chadwick, Burley, which produced 231 pounds of butterfat.

High Jersey, owned by Leonard McElroy, Heyburn, produced 1,110 pounds of milk and 61.7 pounds of butterfat.

Richardson, Burley, produced 1,150 pounds of milk with 67.5 pounds of butterfat.

Mr. and Mrs. James Abbott and their children moved Tuesday to Caldwell.

Record Appropriations Seen
For State's 1953 Legislature

BURLEY, Jan. 1.—The 1953 Idaho legislature probably will be one of the largest sum-of-any Idaho legislatures in history.

The 1951 session appropriated $41,924,180 for the general fund, including transfers of one million dollars from the defense fund and two million to the permanent building fund.

Gov. Len Jordan, at a conference of state business, farm and labor leaders here, gave his "best wishes" to the legislature to give "adequate" future business to the state.

The high individual cow was "Julie," a Holstein owned by Keith F. Chadwick, Burley, which produced 231 pounds of milk and 72 pounds of butterfat.

High Jersey, owned by Leonard McElroy, Heyburn, produced 1,110 pounds of milk and 61.7 pounds of butterfat.

Richardson, Burley, produced 1,150 pounds of milk with 67.5 pounds of butterfat.

The budget has not been completed, but the governor said it will be submitted within a few days after the lawmakers convene State Day.

Leonard Wood said the budget request of the various state governments and institutions have been "the highest on record."

The governors' advisory committee on education has recommended an additional two million dollars for the schools.

Another major financial problem confronting the 1953 session will be the project adequate state highway funding.

It is estimated that "T" funds for state roads would be located to improve Idaho highways.

The state currently is debt free.

A revision of the state income tax law, which has failed to get through the last two sessions, probably will be considered again.

Proponents of the withholding system for state taxes are pushing for its adoption next year.

If approved, these recommendations themselves would amount to an increase of six million—over 1951—appropriations for revenue from transient workers who fall to file state tax returns.

Returns of 25 per cent of the population have been estimated at 45 million dollars.

State Auditor N. P. Nelson estimates that the state's tax collection, for the end of the biennium, June 30, it probably will be increased to 6 or 8 million dollars, as the bulk of the increase will go to incorporated cities.

The Idaho Municipal League has gone on record in favor of a bill that would divide the 10 per cent equally among the counties.

It is estimated that local governments would receive about 40 per cent of all highway user revenues to local governmental units.

There is a minimum of 25 per cent and a maximum of one million dollars.

If this 25 per cent would go to incorporated cities

The remainder would be divided 10 per cent equally among the counties.

Tests on Rats Shows Ability For Learning

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 1.—Most rats are born from a bank and run to a store to buy cheese. Given a choice of a quarter dime or nickel, he chooses the quarters which buy the most cheese. This is the finding here, one. The second, this in the laboratory of Dr. Leopold Seag, professor of psychology at Tulane university.

The tests show that rats have a sense of value, Dr. Teal told the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The rats also learn to use tools as well as coins, all indicating a high rate of intelligence.

Find Such Use
It's the first time, he says, rats have been shown to be able to use tools and tokens. It's been done with spades and chisels, hammers and other tools used by trained chimps to use cut machines.

Now rats, which are cheaper and can be bred to be all alike, can be used for studies of learning and memory in animals, which in turn can help toward a better understanding of the ways and works of the human mind.

Easy Method

The animal research works it this way: The rat pulls a chain, to split-coins from a can hanging overhead. The rat picks up a coin in his mouth, runs over to put it in a slot machine, which gives him a piece of cheese for his trouble.

One rat learned the value of the coins from getting the bigger reward by choosing the more valuable coin.

Other rats have learned to move a miniature car to reach food, use flying traps, or pull a chain to raise a ladder to climb to a high shelf.

Earlier, Dr. Teal showed that rats and mice can be trained to cooperate and live in peace.

Cal. Nat. Cooperative

He reported that a confirmed rat-killing cat had learned to be a peaceable animal.

The cat would run out of its cage, then both-pawed, treadles simultaneously to lower windows, reach their common food.

This cooperation between so-called enemies, Dr. Teal believes, proves there is to such thing as an instinct for fighting, Dr. Teal declared.

This means that biologically, there is a basis for war, but he said, the experts "ought to get into the biology of life, namely, 'survival through cooperation,' to take the place of Charles Darwin's 'struggle for existence' theory," Dr. Teal said.

Yule Tree Fire, Wiener Roast Scheduled Here for Saturday

Twin Falls youngsters will have their annual Christmas tree bonfire started in Twin Falls several hours before the annual Jaycee who subsequently moved away.

Visits Related

TYLER, Jan. 1—Mr. and Mrs. Earl V. Johnson have returned from visiting their daughter, Mrs. R. W. Haun, and family at Wienkens, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brown and son have returned to McNary, Ore., after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McCandless, Eugene, Brown, who also recently returned from a trip to the Orient.

They will start picking up discarded Christmas trees Friday morning. This phase of the annual project is being handled by Ernest Cramer, city recreation and parks department. All trees will be given to the Christmas trees on the parking strip in front of their houses.

Christmas tree dealers were asked to dump surplus trees on the playground rather than hauling them to the city dump.

Income Slide Despite High Production Poses Big Question on Farm Prospects

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1—It is to be expected that the record production of farm crops in 1947 will raise many questions about the economic future of farmers.

Declining farm product prices, a lower level of agricultural income, and the resulting financial difficulties led to speculation in some circles that a new agricultural recession might be in the making.

The year opened with the level of farm prices at 103 per cent of the parity price—and set a new record for the highest standard for measuring farm prices, declared by law to be equally fair to farmers and those who buy their products.

But by the end of the year, the parity level had dropped, but the price level in the first time in nearly two years.

Farm production costs—machinery, fertilizer, insecticides, other materials and labor rates—went up. As a consequence, the amount farmers received for their work was less than in the previous year—despite the fact that the volume of production was larger.

The new income for the year has been officially estimated at $14,500,000,000, up from $14,200,000,000 in 1951 and a record of $16,774,000,000 in 1947.

Government experts expect a further drop-in—farm income in 1952, largely because of prospect of a world market for meat and a likelihood that total production will drop below this year's peak.

The year was marked by a sizeable increase in marketing of food grain—cotton, livestock-feed, eggs, beef cattle and poultry. Hog production declined, the hog herd was off some because of less favorable prices and higher feed costs.

Farm price declines were sharp for beef cattle. They closed the year at 100 per cent of parity, less than two years ago.

Rail Workers Win Round in Boost for Pay

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1—A million and a quarter rail workers have won the first round in their fight for a pay boost based on increased productivity.

The increases, it is finally, are—on-the-job returns and the carriers will gain $60 and 100 million dollars a year.

Informed sources who may not be named said Paul N. Guthrie, referee, wired the unions and all national railroads that the arbitration panel does have a policy stabilization rule which allows improvement—pay-booster—higher output per man. Guthrie's next step is to decide when the new rates will go into effect.

He said there would be little need for federal farm aid programs and farmers would be better customers for manufactured products.

Meanwhile, the declining level of farm prosperity led Gov. W. L. Dugan of the federal government to make farm "tenders" to follow-up in making new farm debts.

Dugan predicted that tapering off in defense spending and an inevitable downturn in the construction cycle would bring about a general decline in general business conditions and in all likelihood a further drop in farm prices. Lower farm income, he said, would make it difficult for farmers to meet debt obligations.

West Europeans Optimistic on 53 Prospects Despite Threat

By LEON DENTON
Special Correspondent

WORLD, Jan. 1 (NEA)—Despite the continued threat of Soviet aggression, West Europeans take a more optimistic view of their prospects in 1953.

Not even the bitter debate raging in France over Germany's re-admission to the European community—known as "Europe-Plus"—was born at the end of 1952.

"It is a premature child—and will need careful nurturing," said Jean-Pierre Masson, Minister of State for Economic Affairs in France.

Spain said, "But it is definitely alive," he added.

There is also growing realization that the Schuman plan—the new six-nation coal and steel pool—will be the instrument for future European collaboration.

It may become the cornerstone of European unity.

With "Ike" in the White House and the comforting thought that the U.S.—not Russia—was responsible for the Korean bomb, the overwhelming fear of an immediate red invasion of the west has lessened.

Western experts on communism also feel that the danger of a world war by red aggression is not as threatening now as it was even a year ago.

The dramatic purge of the top reds in Prague, Andorra, Italy and France, while the west perishes, is being accounted by the question of the European army and German integration into the democratic alliance.

There are signs of new and hopeful developments in 1953.

Farsighted western leaders are increasingly aware that, in the face of the Russian threat, Europe must stand alone. This concept was consistently urged by President Dwight D. Eisenhower as the year 1952 started with grave economic crises in Britain, France and Italy.

The stalemate in Korea and a wave of unrest in Iran, Egypt, Tunisia and Morocco followed. The Arab world seemed on the verge of a great political explosion.

Russia was gaining the hot-cold war while western diplomacy was handed a series of setbacks.

None of these changes affected the West, while the rest perished. It is accounted by the recent blood-purge in Czechoslovakia and the forthcoming "spy trials" in East Germany.

Even the situation in France indicates clearly that the Soviet empire is subject to very heavy internal strains.

As the little Swiss night porter at my hotel in Paris, after 100 coats (the committee) fight among themselves and exterminate each other, decent men get a break."

Services

NAMPA, Jan. 1 (NEA)—You may be able to buy your potatoe from the grocer frozen as "bacon brown, mashed, baked or in patties before too long.

Henry W. Nampa, president of the Potatoe Growers Association, Idaho Falls, has received three orders from his patients for preparing and freezing ready-cut potatoe, and contracted with an Ontario, Ore., firm to use his method.

He said his patients were based in the United States and his wife explained to make it possible for housewives to buy potatoe prepared in the various ways and merely heat them before serving. "This is a good idea which will revolutionize the potato industry," Chase said.

Discharged

GOODING, Jan. 1—Discharge papers for six more Gooding county servicemen have been received at the selective service office in Gooding.

HAGERMAN VISITOR

HAGERMAN, Jan. 1—Belle Justice, music teacher in the Seattle, Wash., schools, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Justice.

Until 1854, such beasts as lions and leopards were kept in a royal menging in the tower of London.

Council Stops

I. F. Slot Split

IDAHOT FALLS, Jan. 1 (NEA)—The Idaho Falls city council halted Thursday evening its system of licensing slot machines.

Under the new law, the city set up a schedule of fees ranging from $500 to $1,500 for each machine in operation.

The system giving the city hall

the earnings of slot machines between December 1, 1951, and midnight Wednesday will be the flat-top system becoming effective today.

Under the new law, passed by the city council Tuesday night, operators will pay $500 for each of the first two machines and $1,500 for each additional machine in operation.
