TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday this column Washington newspaper opinion columns devotes its columns to interesting reports of general interest on national and international news from the Washington Post, the New York Times, the Chicago Tribune and the Los Angeles Times.

WASHINGTON—Fisher's Hoover broke up organized gangsters in the West writes the Washington Post. He has ordered the treasury agents to get Al Capone or anyone to meet. The Post says that the nationwide wide wave of kidnapping after the Fisher's Hoover gangster.

"Now why cannot the federal anti-crime police force be organized on a special police force basis?" asks the Post. "The Hoover force has done up the more insidious racketeering and illegal gambling—the numbers—which means an economic loss of many billions a year. Why not create an anti-crime body at Washington with sufficient authority to do a real job?"

DANGEROUS INNOVATION—Answer: Mr. B's suggestion and mood are understandable last year and the revelations of both murderous and economic crime on the New York-New Jersey waterfront.

How could it be under consideration on capital hill, with Senator Tobey, D., N. H., the biblical scourge of the Kefauver committee, as a principal sponsor.

However, as an old police expert and a close observer of federal detective activities, I question the need or wisdom of this idea. I think that too much enforcement authority was given by congress to the police and the agencies in the hysterical, Capone-Hauptmann era.

An all-powerful federal police force could be a disaster in too many respects to mention in this column. It would be a violation of our tradition that every man's home is his castle.

ENFORCEMENT OF EXISTING LAWS—It could become the worst kind of government interference with the rights of individuals and local communities. There is too much of this kind of thing as the Hoover force has discovered after one month in office. I doubt if he will go for this new scheme.

However, as an old police expert and a close observer of federal detective activities, I question the need or wisdom of this idea. I think that too much enforcement authority was given by congress to the police and the agencies in the hysterical, Capone-Hauptmann era.

All right, you sure you say they're boys and not poetry coaches—the line can farm at the left. Only you better fetch a bodyguard!

Lucile (Castelford)

"WASHINGTON-CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—If anyone still doubts that a severe change has taken place in Washington, President Eisenhower at his first press conference made it abundantly clear. What happened? How come I have been humiliated from the nature of the campaign I set off or from Mr. Eisenhower's reaction to it? The background and a discreditable record of discreditable conduct is the emphasis was largely on problems here at home.

More than half of the time was taken up with the domestic economy and much of it with falling farm prices and the situation of the cattle prices from Jan. 19, 1932, when beef brought $24, to Jan. 22 of this year when it was $23.50. Now, said the President, the price is going back up again. He said it hopefully, reassuringly.

He said it against the background of an intention to support Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Tamm Benson in his effort to free agriculture from the kind of controls considered too rigid and arbitrary. The President talked about the natural working of the economy. He said this could be counted on to keep prices in their proper relationship one to another. Some would go up, others would go down.

That was the major theme of the conference—the return to a free economy, it came out in the President's discussion of taxation when he spoke of the very necessary aim of restoring private incentives by selling out the burden of taxation once the budget has been brought in balance.

What the Eisenhower administration is undertaking will require the subordination of an army bill and the fighting spirit of a mountain lion. The army bill already directed at Benson is a sample of the reaction to a declining economy, and one of the more or less permanent inflation of the past 10 years.

The massive spending for war that began in 1941 put an end to the mass unemployment that started in 1930. A number of new deal tinkering pump-priming and so forth had more than a temporary and limited result in getting the economy back to normal.

Singer Draws Burley Crowd

BURLEY, Feb. 11—A large audience attended the performance of soprano Virginia Della Orlandi, presented by the Mini-Casas Community Concert association Thursday evening at the new LDS tabernacle.

Concert-goers were impressed with the Chicago born artist's full, rich voice, her gracious manner, speaking personality and beauty.

Her program consisted of a wide selection of music, ranging from the "Miserere" of Palestrina, through a Negro spiritual "Swanee" arranged by Clifford Shaw to "The Rose Tree" by Schubert.

Her appearance in Burley concluded a tour of concert.

Following the concert, association officers and directors held a hot buffet supper at the home of Judge and Mrs. Sales Lewis. The Mrs. Lewis had been arranged in honor of the artist, but they were forced to decline since their travel schedule forced them to leave for New York from Twin Falls early Friday morning.

A GOOD LEGISLATURE

The present session of the Idaho legislature may prove to be one of the most effective assemblies this state has had in a good many years.

If it is successful, for instance, in accomplishing two more highly desirable objectives before adjournment, there is little doubt that the current legislature would establish an outstanding record.

It's a great accomplishment in itself to bring a showdown on several issues that have been cluttering up our legislative processes during the last two or three sessions.

The people of Idaho long since have grown tired of hearing about slot machines, legalized pari-mutuel betting and all the arguments for reopening Northern and Southern Idaho Colleges of Education.

In a decisive action which came as a surprise to some of the members themselves, the legislature overruled a powerful and vicious lobby to outlaw slot machines altogether. That should bring to an end one of the most respectable chapters in Idaho's history, because slot machines have demoralized a number of cities, encouraged an underground of racketeering, divided communities against each other, and bogged down numerous sessions of our state legislature.

So powerful has been the lobby hunger for the fruits from slot machine revenues that other legislation, vital to the general welfare of the state, has been given secondary consideration in many instances.

Twin Falls was among those cities which had their fling with slot machines, and the people of this vicinity will not soon forget the mess we got into, and one of the things that ran through the land.

So it's a real achievement, to say the least, that the members of this legislature finally faced the issue squarely.

It's true that a bill to legalize pari-mutuel betting was introduced the other day, but that was to be expected. The gambling-horse racket here by all odds will carry on its fight to the bitter end. But judging from the attitude the present legislature has demonstrated up to now, there is little likelihood that the pari-mutuel betting bill will get very far or even take up much time in the deliberations.

The legislature's failure to appropriate funds for the reopening of NICE and SICE is a ticklish subject to be sure, but to our way of thinking, there is no logical reason to reactivate these institutions as colleges of education.

Those seeking to keep these schools alive have argued that their closure two years ago has been largely responsible for Idaho's shortage of teachers.

It's a well established fact which most teachers will admit themselves, that low wages are the prime cause of the staggering number of men and women who are taking up teaching as a profession.

This is not a problem limited to Idaho by any means because the shortage of teachers is general throughout the land. So even if our colleges of education were reopened there is no assurance that their graduates would remain in the state.

It's the going scale of salaries paid teachers that's more likely to affect their availability in Idaho, and it's to the legislature's credit that it appropriated sizable funds for this more effective approach to the problem.

As was pointed out repeatedly, the departments of education at our state university at Moscow and state college at Pocatello are fully prepared to do an equal or better job of training teachers than was our experience when NICE and SICE were still operating.

From the very outset, Idaho made the serious mistake of trying to spread out its state school system too elaborately and consequently too thin. Instead of concentrating on fewer highly standardized schools, the state succumbed to the old geographical demand that spread the educational set-up.

Now that NICE and SICE have failed to justify their continued existence in the minds of two sessions of the state legislature, it is unlikely that they ever will be reactivated as colleges of education.

And if the university and the state college do the job of teacher training they have indicated they will do, it should become apparent to all concerned that the state properties at Moscow and Albion could probably be put to better use. It would seem now that all effort in support of NICE and SICE should be directed at finding some practical use for these college buildings instead of allowing them to remain idle indefinitely.

With all this to its credit, if the state legislature does go several steps further, it can adjourn with a record of outstanding achievement.

Adoption of the proposed uniform traffic code, or some similar program to facilitate the campaign against death and destruction on our highways, is an action seriously needed.

Putting an end to the establishment of "strip" and "blaine" villages for the sole purpose of defeating the intent of the local option law governing the sale of liquor is another step the legislature should take this session. To its further credit, such action already is under consideration.

DEBT REDUCTION—In these any way to reduce the public debt? Mr. Abbot, N. H. has a numerous other readers, "without using dollars?"

Answer: Yes. There are two ways, both painful.

The first is for congress to raise the tax every year that it approves for spending. The difference, whether five or ten billion a year, could be applied to reduction of the national debt.

The second is to reduce the number of people who see it in that light.

The other way to get rid of the debt without using dollars, is to discontinue the use of it, and start with a clean slate. Such a solution, of course, is unthinkable. It would wipe out 250 billion dollars in our people's savings—individuals, banks, life insurance.

FEALOUY BETWEEN GENERALS—H. K. Lee

Andres, Calif., questions various suggestions here that General MacArthur is and always has been "jestful" of General Eisenhower.

The first I saw when I observed both men for almost 30 years. On this subject—that is, their relationship—I know what I am writing about.

SHORTAGE OF TEACHERS

Much debate has centered around the shortage of teachers in Idaho. With some persons expressing the belief that closure of SICE and NICE was primarily responsible for the problem of a shortage of teachers in schools in this state.

Data obtained through an annual survey of state commissioners of education as well as state educational agencies was released this week by the New York Times.

This report on what is happening in the nation's schools shows that almost every state reports a shortage of teachers. The shortage in elementary grades but the same situation beginning to show in high schools.

The teacher turnover rate is the highest since the end of the war. Competition with industry and defense related jobs has taken many of the best teachers from classrooms.

The first indication in enrollments in the elementary schools are phenomenal," observes Dr. Earl J. McGrath, "United States" commissioner of education. "The present indications are that enrollments in the lower grades will continue to rise perceptibly for some years.

This elementary school population is unprecedented. To provide teachers and classrooms for these children will require an unprecedented effort on the part of American people."

The state education commission estimated that one and a half million children will receive impaired schooling because of inadequate buildings; 100,000 because of shortage of teachers; one million because of poorly prepared teachers; 400,000 because of double sessions or part time instruction and one million for other reasons.

Not enough high school graduates are inclined to enter the field of education to meet the growing needs of public schools. In addition, a substantial number of teachers are taking better paying jobs in government, private industry or defense plants. The Times' study shows that schools needed 100,000 qualified elementary teachers this year and had only 30,000 to choose from.

Dr. McGrath observed: "The teacher shortage in the United States, especially on the elementary school level, continues to be grave. The present shortage will be intensified in the next several years. The situation has reached the point where a young person trying to decide upon a occupation may consider it his patriotic duty to enter teaching if he or she is inclined to perform the duties of the profession."—The Gooding Leader.

A SLUR ON FUTURE CANDIDATES

If there is any truth to the rumor that State Sen. William Pattee (R—Pres.) is to be named as the pro-tem governor of Idaho in 1934, he made the poorest campaign speech of his career yesterday.

Wasting an unnecessary campaign in the Idaho senate to strain to get the state's slot machines in Idaho, Deweller argued that gangsters would operate the one-armed bandit illegally in Idaho if they were banished. He said that the state's slot machine industry will be worth $100,000,000 a year. If the slots are outlawed, he said, the state's slot machine operators would pay the state $100,000,000 a year.

The machine would operate illegally in 1934, he declared, because Len B. Jordan is governor.

"He'll be back year after next, that a dishonest governor is to be elected next year to succeed Governor Jordan" can be determined at this early date that the Democratic party is not to be elected for governor in 1934 will be men who can be bought off by lawbreakers, or that, given a choice between an honest person and a dishonest one, the voters will choose a crook?

Deweller's statement is a slur upon every man of this party who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor. It is possibly regrettable that his statement as soon as he made it. It is not, he surely will come to regret it if one of the candidates for this year's election should turn out to be himself.—Leon T. Tibbets.

T. F. Charges For Burglary End in Court

First degree burglary charges against James Taylor, 16, and Daphne (Billy) Duffy were dismissed by Justice of the Peace J. O. Pumphrey Friday following a motion by Prosecuting Attorney Max G. Lloyd.

Lloyd asked dismissal in the interest of justice based on the court record in the case and on his affidavit. Bonds for the defendants were exonerated.

Lloyd pointed out that testimony in the preliminary hearing Jan. 14 indicated evidence against Duffy was insufficient. He said he felt the evidence against Taylor was sufficient to show a public offense, but the matter should be handled as a juvenile delinquency case in probate court.

However, Lloyd said Taylor's mother planned to leave Friday to make her home in Oregon and was taking the youth with her. Lloyd said in the interest of justice, the action against the boy should be dismissed so he could accompany his mother.

The youths had been charged with entering the home of E. L. Patrick Jan. 3. There was some evidence that Taylor may have gone onto the porch and taken a small amount of meat, but the evidence showed Duffy never entered the house. Justice Pumphrey reserved decision on the case until he could study a transcript of testimony. However, with the motion of the prosecutor, it was not necessary for the court to take action on binding the two youths over to district court for trial. L. B. Quinn represented the defendants.

Gains by Ike Are Noted in First Month

time for a few special shots with the golf club on the back yard every Saturday afternoon and Sundays are free. Eisenhower got to five hours of golf in Gen. Omar N. Bradley's back yard.

And the man who opened his administration with a "no secret" policy then formally joined the Presbyterian church, having missed services a single Sunday in four weeks.

Eisenhower's first news conference as President, held last Thursday, gave an insight into some of the problems of his mind:

Falling farm prices—These, he said, are an inheritance from the war. He said that since control on beef have been lifted, the price of beef has gone up. He said that the government is unable to stand by the present price support law, thus replace it with one which at the end of 1937 will be agreeable to farmers, consumers and everyone else.

There—He took a strong stand for holding off a reduction until a balanced budget is in sight.

Atom bomb—He said it is absolutely convinced Russia has exploded three atomic weapons and has a supply of them.

Price control—He said he is not in favor of a strictly edict to control the economy, but he will use Congress to ask if price control is warranted.

Secret agreements—He said he wanted to make it clear that the United States never favored entanglement of any people, although he doesn't understand why some people regard the secret agreements as such.

Solon Urges Cooperation of Stockmen

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (Special)—Sen. Henry Dwyer, R., Ind., has told the leaders of the livestock industry that their cooperation is needed in order to achieve the most advantageous use of the vast resources of the West.

The senator urged the appeal at a meeting of the national advisory board council for bureau of land management, ending districts. He attended the meeting as chairman of the senate interior subcommittee on public lands.

The senator stressed the need for understanding and full agreement on the part of the livestock leader. He recalled that in the 1820s, as a member of the committee on government operations, he did "everything possible to draft satisfactory legislation to merge the public domain."

"One of the big handicaps or difficulties was that livestock leaders were not uniform in supporting legislation."

"As we face operations under the new secretary of the interior, we need the cooperation of livestock leaders."

He urged them to let the interest groups know they are working so that "we can move forward toward taking constructive action in producing the most advantageous use of our resources in the west."

Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay, who attended the session, disagreed with many of the problems facing his department.

Kaiser-Frazer to Use Plastic Body For New Sporter

Kaiser-Frazer's corporation announced details Sunday of the forthcoming sporter car—the DFP-161—first automobile with a reinforced plastic body scheduled for volume production.

The low convertible combines European car styling with American automotive engineering. The sports model is 152 feet long and only 35 inches high from ground to cowl. Over-all height is 64 inches with the convertible top in place. Body width at the widest point is 69 inches.

The DFP-161 body shell is completely fabricated of lightweight Fiberglas-reinforced plastic and weighs only 100 pounds.

Its six-cylinder engine has a high compression head and compression ratio of 8 to 1 and develops over 100 horsepower. Three carburetors are mounted in line on the L-head power plant to provide more efficient air fuel mixture.

Seats, door panels and dash are finished in top grain leather in solid colors to harmonize with body paint. Each of the individual bucket type seats is nearly 24 inches in width.

The DFP-161 is scheduled for production in July. Prices will be announced later.

Bureau's Leaders Named at Hansen

HELENA, Feb. 21—D. R. Rosenbaum was elected chairman of the Hansen Farm Bureau federation at its meeting Thursday evening. Al-that the leaders of the Soviet Communist Party, who now control Russia, in violation of the clear intent of these agreements or understandings, have been elected to the position of domination of the totalitarian imperialism.

Thus the GOP appears to have swung from declarations for the population of secret understandings it said aided communist endeavors to lumping on Russia for breaking understandings that weren't really secret and calling for liberation of captive peoples.

Nothing to It With New Plant

New Facilities, Equipment Transform Operations at Local Packing Company

The business of slaughtering hogs and cattle is at its modern, scientific best at Independent Packing company, Twin Falls.

An addition has been made to the independent plant and new equipment installed, virtually transforming the operation. The addition features a new killing floor with capacity approaching that of any packing house in the Utah-Idaho area.

Klatsun-Pitman, Seattle packing house architects and engineers, designed the addition. It was built by Fred Reed Construction company, Twin Falls. Otto Fireman, Jr., general manager, noted construction began last April and finishing touches were made only recently.

New facilities also include an equipment washroom and viscera and offal room, holding pens, chutes and runways, and in the basement beneath the killing floor, a hide receiving room, maintenance shop and dry storage area, Florence reported. The old killing floor has been converted into a chill room. The addition is constructed of red brick and reinforced concrete and the interior finished in salt glazed tile.

New equipment, in addition to greatly increasing the plant's production capacity, has eliminated much of the manual labor once involved in the operation, and much of the distaste the process holds for the unaccustomed cook.

Overhead equipment in the new killing area looks like an elevated railroad system. It features a new bleeding rail and automatic hoist and drop.

After the animals have been slaughtered, they are washed with water sprayed from a new hose system under 375 pounds pressure. In the processing of hogs, the new features include a 20-foot high vertical shaking table, a 12-foot scalding vat, an hydraulically-operated deboning machine, which processes up to 120 animals per hour, and a new stainless-steel fat rendering kettle.

Farmer Commends Benson for 'Common Sense' Farm Policies

Editor, Times-News:—An open letter to Ezra T. Benson, secretary of agriculture:— I have noted with interest your recent statements on farm policy and in particular the statement to the effect that support commodities, uneconomic production and continuing heavy surpluses and subsidies should be avoided. I have also heard of the considerable consternation these statements have caused in some parts of the house and senate presuming to represent the farmer. I would like to go on record, as a farmer and taxpayer, as being completely in favor of your stand on these issues and would like to say that most of my acquaintances also feel it is time we used common sense in the department of agriculture as well as elsewhere in the government. JOHN R. LEMOYNE (Former chairman, Gooding county FMA, Hagerman)

Regulation of Car Speed Seen Answer to Highway Death Toll

Editor, Times-News:— Facts developed by National Safety council figures have apparently had no effect on state legislators for they have failed to protect the manufacture of high-speed motor vehicles. Figures for 1951 and 1952 show that 75,500 people met death and 2,650,000 people were injured as a result of automobile accidents. Speed was the greatest single factor for this unnecessary destruction of life, limb and property. If these figures are to diminish, control by popular demand, must in some way gain control of motor vehicle speeds. The following article, appearing in the Jan. 23 issue of the Chicago Eight Star, is my effort towards starting a movement in this direction.

"That something must be legislation and it's up to the American people to instruct their congressmen to start a movement towards a national 50 miles-per-hour speed limit. True, by necessity, would have to apply to all existing cars as well as to the cars manufactured after passage of such legislation. Some inexpensive type of sealed governor could be devised to cope with this problem. "This year certain automobile manufacturers are introducing models with speeds of over 100 miles an hour. Parents do you want your children driving or riding in cars capable of such tremendous speed? Unless congressional legislation is forthcoming in the very near future, the cars will commonly be capable of speeds of 150 miles per hour in five years or less.

"According to the National Safety council figures for 1951, 48 per cent of accidents and deaths were due to speeding. What percentage of all speeders throughout America stood trial for their acts? It is impossible to cite the figures but be sure you are not included in the 1953 count. "Five years from now this percentage will seem small unless something is started by the American people.

"What should be advocated for a speed limit? What may seem sensible to one person may seem absurd to another. Most authorities agree that up to 55 miles per hour an automobile can be considered under control, at least when being driven on open highways. If this figure bears their recommendation, why shouldn't a 50 miles-per-hour speed law be adopted by all states? "Every day many persons die in accidents which never would have occurred if either or both cars were being driven at lower speeds. What is done after an accident of this type occurs? Nothing, except to bury the dead, treat the injured and maybe assess a small fine or two. "Accidents caused by speed occur every day. Here the cause is known but nothing is done to prevent more accidents from the same cause—speed. The solid facts are that most roads in use today were constructed for low speeds. The vast majority of roads were designed when automobiles were incapable of high speeds and drivers were not in competition with the clock. "Our new super-highways, supposedly accident-proof and designed for new high-speed cars, contribute their share to fatal accidents. In these cases the driver is generally the cause, but again speed is involved. If drivers are not capable of handling cars at high speeds on super highways, then this is another reason for the passage of a national speed limit. The 53,000,000 vehicles now being driven on American highways are perhaps twice as many vehicles as these highways were designed for when they were built some 20 years ago. "Everybody will probably admit that speed limits are not the answer. Cars must be prevented from exceeding 50 miles per hour as this is the only way the speed limit could be enforced. At 50 miles per hour you need only to touch your brake to bring you car under control. (What chance have you or your loved ones when you are involved in an accident with a car

He noted that in January the efforts of the tax structure by the state tax commission and as a result, sheepmen can expect savings of about 10 per cent, or six to eight cents per head, in taxes this year. He said cattlemen could expect a comparable tax reduction.

Clear said if Americans should develop an appetite for the wool from New Zealand, this wool could threaten the stability of the sheep raising industry in the U. S. unless duties are invoked to protect the American cattlemen.

He compared the threat to the vicious effect Argentina wool has had upon the wool market in this country in recent years. The reason the U. S. failed to invoke protective duties, the woolens' manufacturers could buy Argentine wool at a price that was more than they could buy wool grown in this country, he said.

Vernon Ravencroft, general manager of Pentapac and Treating company, Tuttle, and former University of Idaho extension service forester, told 50 members attending Friday's session that the University of Idaho assumed a leading role in the development of pentachlorophenol, wool preservative, because of the affords years of protection for fence posts and other wood articles exposed to vegetative action, he noted.

The association members, wives and guests spent Friday evening dining and waiting.

At Saturday's session, Helle L. Cox, forest ranger recently assigned to the Jarbridge station, was introduced.

Walter H. Lemona, Boise, state land inspector, spoke briefly at sessions both days.

Mrs. Wilde Named as Carey's Choice for Idaho Mother Title

CAREY, Feb. 21—Mrs. Emanuel Wilde was nominated Thursday as Carey's candidate for Idaho mother of 1933. Papers have been forwarded to district office in members of a Progressive club committee. The nomination was made by Mrs. Joseph G. Diworth, Carey Idaho nominee for 1932, assisted by Mrs. Gail Parke and Mrs. Earl Frost.

In Edinburgh she was employed as a housemaid until her mother and the rest of the family arrived. For the next five years she worked at the tailoring trade. At this time the family again moved, this time to Edinburgh, Scotland, where they remained only seven months, then returned to Australia.

On the return trip to Australia, Betsy met Murdo Stewart, ship's carpenter. Two years later they were married in London, England. The young couple made their home in Glasgow, Scotland. Two children were born, a daughter, Rosina Stewart, who resides in Carey, and a son, Murdo Neil Stewart, who died in 1918.

Her husband died a few months before the son was born. Shortly after her son's birth she went once more to Australia, where her mother and family still were residing. It was her fifth voyage between England and Australia, each voyage requiring seven weeks. Eight years later she joined the LDS church and came to the U. S. She made the voyage with friends also coming to America. She arrived in Carey July 25, 1909.

The next year she married Emanuel Wilde, a farmer residing in Carey. He was a widower with five children and they had six children of their own. Three children were reared by this couple. Four of their sons served in the army forces. One son filled a mission for the LDS Church. Four—two sons and two daughters—graduated from Albion State Normal and have taught school. One daughter completed a course of training to become a nurse. They have 46 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren. Soon after joining the LDS

Big Ones That Didn't Get Away

This party of Twin Falls residents found the fishing off the west coast of Mexico good, to say the least. Standing back before the big blue marlin he or she landed, they are, from left, Robert Reese, Mrs. Reese, Kenneth Self, Mrs. Self, Mrs. Duffy Reed, J. and Reed. (Staff engraving)

Three Hours, Six Marlin; That's Coast Record of Twin Falls Fishing Party

Ever been in a fishing party that landed 1,000 pounds of fish and ten other fish worth more or less, get away, all in three hours' time?

Such was the fabulous luck of a group of Twin Falls residents who tried a hand recently at deep sea fishing off the west coast of Mexico.

Originally they had tried their luck fishing at La Paz, on the Lower California peninsula, and had none.

But after they left La Paz, they were to give up the idea of fishing when they met Mr. and Mrs. Denny Hogue and Mrs. E. W. McRoberts.

They met Mr. and Mrs. Denny Hogue and Mrs. E. W. McRoberts, all Twin Falls, who urged them to try their luck again.

On the previous day, the Hogue and McRoberts party had landed four marlin, Self recalled.

The Reeses, Reeses and Self had barely put their lines in the water when they got into a school of marlin, Self said.

And as a crowning touch to their Mexican excursion, they were invited by a television producer, Guy Reyses, to make the 20-mile run back to La Paz on his private yacht.

Self noted that Reyses is in the area making a series of TV movies on marine life.

The Twin Falls party all returned to their homes last week.

They met Mr. and Mrs. Denny Hogue and Mrs. E. W. McRoberts, all Twin Falls, who urged them to try their luck again.

Catcher Signed

The Maglo Valley Cowboys appear to be stocking up on backstops Saturday with the announcement that manager Dolph Camilli has signed a young California catcher.

Camilli wrote business manager Fred Montague that he had made a special trip to Los Angeles to look over William B. Coast, San Gabriel, Calif., and that he had his signature on a contract.

Coast is a right-handed, right-handed, Camilli said he has a good arm and can get the ball away fast.

That leaves only rookie catcher Dean Krumm, Hagerman, to be heard from in the backstopping department.

Montague said he will be at the ball park Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. to sell box seats.

Blind Girl Receives Aid

Blind Buhl Girl Is Graduated With German Shepherd Guide

SAN RAFAEL, Calif., Feb. 21 (Special)—Joyce Barnes, Buhl, Idaho, was graduated today from the local training school conducted by Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc., at San Rafael, Calif.

The seven were presented with their guide dogs after Adm. Charles Marshall Cook, Jr., U.S.N., had addressed the audience of some 200 persons.

Miss Barnes was graduated as a music major from the College of Idaho in Caldwell in 1948 and is a singing teacher in Buhl. She lives with her mother and brother who operate the Buhl movie court.

Blind all her life, Miss Barnes had a previous guide dog killed in an accident last December. Two and a half months ago she collected $1,750 to give to Guide Dogs for the Blind.

The money didn't "buy" Miss Barnes a guide dog, for these dogs together with the four weeks residence training are free. But it does ensure some other blind person will have the same opportunity. The average cost of producing a "kennel" unit is $1,600.

The funds also provided traveling expenses for Miss Barnes and a companion. The fund was initiated by the Buhl Kiwanis.

Saturday evening after her graduation, Miss Barnes appeared on a local radio station and sang a song.

Another Idaho recipient of a guide dog today was Donald Crawford, a rehabilitation council for the blind in Idaho's department of public assistance. He travels around the state for at least 10 days out of every month by bus and train. His new dog, Kikka, will give him the same assistance in this position.

Crawford grew up in Utah and is a graduate of the University of Utah where he also took a year's post graduate work in the school of social work. After several years of full-time employment, he became totally blind in 1941.

He is married and has a 2 1/2-year-old daughter, June. His hobbies are carpentry and chess and he has participated in state chess tournaments in Idaho, Utah and Nevada.

Miss Barnes and Crawford bring to eight the Idaho graduates of the training school in San Rafael. Two live in Boise, two in Lewiston, one in Cottonwood, and one in Council Bluffs.

Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc., is a non-profit corporation serving the civilian blind of the 11 western states, blinded veterans of both World wars, and now from the Korean battlefield of the 22 states west of the Mississippi. The school is now entering its 11th year of service. During that time, it has given guide dogs and the training in using them to 270 graduates, 88 women and 182 men, of whom 94 are veterans.

Graduates live in 18 states, the Hawaiian Islands and British Columbia. They follow, with few exceptions, the lead of the majority of the sighted, given mobility of movement.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

It doesn't seem to matter if it's a polo benefit party, a clean-up work day at the community hall or the raising of sugar beets, the little community of NORTHVIEW is there to help.

At the annual auction for the polo fund on Jan. 20 this area of not more than four square miles contributed $810. When it came to spring horse cleaning, the whole community turned out to make new curtains, scrubbing floors and sanding and varnishing tables. The community hall is the property of the Northview community, having been purchased from the school district.

Cost of the renovations have been borne by Griggs and a new building in the Grange building a new ceiling and the club buying the paint and curtains.

The Grange sponsors two 4-H livestock clubs with Ed Hart and Warren Hart as leader and a tractor club with Gayle Wright as leader. The Ladies club sponsors a 4-H horse economics division with Mrs. Robert Jaker and Mrs. Willard Beal as leaders.

Two of Northview's 7FA boys, Devick Carrell and Bove Akland, won state honors with their sugar beet prize and the Northview Club took second and third prizes for sugar beets at the Twin Falls county fair.

Northview is proud of its community buildings with its stoker and furnace, running water, rest rooms and completely equipped kitchen. All of the improvements have been added by the community since the purchase of the building in 1942. Members of the building committee are: Ralph Skiles, Ivan Bonar, Lew Morris, Mrs. Laura Shriver and Mrs. Harold Nelson. Newly elected Grange master is Eugene Buehler and Mrs. Harold Buehler was president of the club the past two years.

Commencing their fifth year of activities, NORTHVIEW JAY-C-ETTES are launching another major campaign which began with only 50 members and never has greatly exceeded that number. The group was organized in January, 1948, with the assistance of Mrs. Artill Kelly and Mary Jane Christensen, both TWIN FALLS.

Charter members include Mrs. A. E. Nafziger, Mrs. Clayton Phelan, Mrs. George Ballard, Mrs. John Brog, Mrs. D. G. Carver, Mrs. Ray Booth, Mrs. Max Symas, Mrs. Frank Spender, Mrs. Eric Robertson, Mrs. Dick Smith, Mrs. Leslie Oulahan, Mrs. Lee Knuss and Mrs. Kenneth Barry.

The principal state Jay-C-ETTES project is central park. This year's quota is $1,000. Already the Burley chapter has contributed $400 to the fund. The money has been earned by members serving banquets for various clubs and organizations.

This serving project was started in May, 1951, when a group of 12 women serving dinners for the Knille and Park club of BURLEY and RIVERVIEW. From this time the group has been called for their services.

In six months, from this service alone, members raised $200.

Continually aware of the state and national needs, the group contributes to UNESCO, CARE, March ritual mending parties to repair un-mended hospital linens. The Magic Valley-Invalid-home was not fore-gotten last Easter morning. Patients were surprised by a large box of gifts from a pack of two-legged bunnies. And a Christmas box was sent to a Jay-C-ETTES in the tuberculosis hospital at Gooding.

Jay-C-ETTES assisted in "The Crusade for Freedom" drive. They collected donations and procured signatures on the scroll. At the back of Mrs. J. G. DeW, the late of Cassia county juvenile officer, they were always Johnny-on-the-spot in response to her SOS calls. They have served miles and miles of stitches, preparing clothes for needy individuals.

Jay-C-ETTES assist Jaycoes in any and every project where their services are needed. During the Jaycoes-sponsored "Miss Burley" contest, Jay-C-ETTES may be seen running errands, unsetting or setting with back-to-back preparations. During the county fair, Jay-C-ETTES will be found patting out hamburgers, allocating onions, opening pop bottles, burning out bowls of chili and burning fingers on flat-top stoves at the Jaycoes food concession.

With a group of seriously crippled and service-minded, there would seem to be little time left for purely social functions. This is not the case. While the members claim their chief pleasure comes from putting happiness into the lives of other fellow-human beings, they do sandwich in joint parties with Jaycoes and too infrequently held family picnics to the delight of their offspring—the "Jaycoona."

Milk Production Goes Scientific

Hicks Askew, partner with his father, Harry Askew, in a dairy farm near Buhl, prepares to milk a cow in the milking parlor on his farm.

The milk is conveyed directly from the cow in the upper picture to the cans in the lower picture without being touched by hand or having contact with the air.

The modern method of milking reduces time consumed by approximately four times under the old-time hand method.

A cloth sock strainer in the pipe is removed daily for laundering.

The special can lids operate with the vacuum pump that automatically chugs off, diverging the flow to an empty can when one is filled.

As bossy enters the milking parlor from the 'kidding sheet' or holding pen outside, she steps into a narrow runway.

The milk goes directly into a clear hose and up to a dainties steel pipe that carries the milk directly to the cans in an ice water the centimeter. Grade B milk averages one million bacteria per cubic centimeter, so the advantage of the new system is obvious.

Asked if the new set-up would pay off, Hicks Askew said the milking operation is speeded up about 100 per cent.

Twenty-five to 30 cows can be handled in an hour. This is twice as many as could be milked in a conventional barn and nearly four times as fast as milking by hand.

Grade A milk brings an average of 25 cents a pound more than grade B, a rather astronomical figure in considering net profit results.

One housewife complained the new barn was nicer than the house. Then she added reflectively, 'But the house doesn't make us a living, the barn does!'

Another innovation at the Askew dairy is an auger grain bin. At the turn of a handle it fills the small bin for filling the feed boxes.

A reverse action washer cleans the hoses and pipes thoroughly with an acid solution after each milking.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"Tune in With God"

can hear him if we stop and listen. Moses heard the voice of God, but only after turning aside from the routine things of life. There are so many voices in the world that a person has to choose what he will hear as one would choose a radio program. There are many stations, but you can select your program and hear it and disregard all the other programs.

God has various ways of speaking to people. He can speak to you through your conscience, through His Spirit, through His ministers or through His word. Be sure you tune in to the voice of God when He speaks.

When Moses heard the voice of God his heart responded to the call of God. At first he tried to tell God that he was not capable of doing what God wanted him to do, but God won out because Moses was honest at heart. Moses had made his choice in the matter of living for God and had chosen to be with the people of God. Now God was calling him to deliver his people from Egyptian bondage. He decided that by the help of God and his brother, Aaron, he would attempt to do what God wanted him to do. He succeeded because he was led by the Lord.

Many people are in trouble today and are all out of sorts because they are out of tune with God. If you are out of tune with God, you will never be satisfied until you tune in with Him. You will have trouble and more trouble. Your life will have discords and flats and you will have no lasting peace because you are out of tune with God.

So, friend, if you are out of tune with God, tune in with Him now and you will have the music of God in your soul. You will never have peace and harmony while you are out of tune, but if you will tune in with God, your life will be filled with joy, unspeakable and full of glory.

A Tribute To Our Lawyers!

The astute lawyer is a philosopher as well as a humanitarian. Your troubles are his troubles. He knows people. He understands character. He is kindly and considerate. On occasion he can be a firebrand, but always in the defense of the right whom he believes in. Poring over huge legalistic tomes or slovenly defending you in court, he is truly your friend and counselor against the unjust and avaricious. In this community our excellent lawyers stand as a bulwark against inefficient government. Civic pride and betterment are their goals. We salute them today for their magnificent achievement!

Pruett Gives Way to Spot Small Planet

By J. HUGH PRUETT
Astronomy Education Division
Oregon Higher Education System
Mercury, the elusive little planet may have been spotted, they never have been sure of spotting, will be in a good position for observing during the next 10 days.

If the sky is clear and you have normal vision and follow these directions, you should have no trouble locating this little world.
You will recall five planets are visible to the unaided eye. The positions of Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn are more stable than the position of Mercury.

Mercury, going completely around the sun in only 88 days, and being nearer old sol than any other known planet, always appears not far from the sun and most of the time is lost in solar rays.
Best Position
When Mercury is farthest east of the sun in late winter or early spring, it is at its best position for evening observation.

Mercury is now setting between one and one-half hours after sunset and almost due west. At sunset, it will be somewhat south of west. As soon as the twilight is deepened sufficiently, Mercury will be seen easily low in the western sky, and will be below and a little to the right of brilliant Venus. The latter will be very much higher in the heavens.

Quite Bright

Our little planet is now quite bright and far outshines any other star-like object in the lower western sky. "minus one," but will decrease gradually in brightness.
However, after a week it will still be quite luminous. Mercury will set latest after sunset the evening of March 1. After that it seemingly will approach the sun and before many days will be lost in the solar

Report Given for Schools in Cassia

SPRINGDALE, Feb. 17.—The Cassia county citizens planning committee for schools and president of the Springdale P.T.A., reported to the P.T.A. Wednesday on the need for more and adequate school buildings in the county.
Elwood Allred spoke on communism and a discussion was held following his talk. Community singing was conducted by Mrs. George Johnson and Mrs. Roy McElroy. The P.T.A. Law was read by Laura Paik-John-Larson-played a piano solo.
Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ed Anderson, Mrs. John Koyle, Mrs. Everett Olby and Mrs. Alton Jensen. Second grade room mothers, and Miss Paik, second grade teacher.

brilliance again.
There are a few facts regarding this little world.
It is the smallest of the nine regular planets and has a diameter of around 3,100 miles. The next two in size are Pluto, 3,600 miles; and Mars, 4,200 miles. Our earth boasts almost 8,000 miles diameter.
Seen in Dawn
Mercury is sometimes seen in the eastern dawn. The ancient at one time did not know this was the same object seen in the evening twilight. They called it Mercury when an "evening star" and Apollo when a "morning star."

Mercury is so near the sun its sunward side is intensely hot. It even seems that one side is continuously kept sunward as this little planet endures old Sol. A given area receives about seven times the heat received by our earth. The temperature is hot enough to melt lead. Surely it is very little atmosphere.
In ancient mythology Mercury was pictured as a handsome, thin-skinned youth who flew on winged sandals from high Mt. Olympus to carry the orders of the higher gods to earth's sleeping children.
