DULLES, Sunday, July 5 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee today he does not know whether his continuing talks with President Eisenhower's special envoy will be successful, the aged South Korean leader's first direct contact with the efforts by Assistant Secretary of State Walter Robertson to persuade Rhee to accept a truce with the communists on present terms. Rhee, emerging from the city service at the Chugun Methodist church in downtown Seoul, told AP correspondents that he was trying to clear up misunderstandings specifically if he felt that the Robertson man says he would not be successful. "I don't know," Rhee said, "but I am sure that the situation is not so serious as it is being made to appear. An American said a meeting Sunday or Monday was certain, however."

HAGERMAN, July 4 (AP)—Armed thugs robbed a Hagerman man of $50 Friday night in the yard of the victim's home. They sped away in a late model Buick sedan, which they gave pursuit in the family car, from which he had alighted only moments earlier upon returning from the movies. Shelby, owner of the Buick, told officers the men easily outdistanced his older car and he abandoned the chase when the radiator began to boil. He drove into the yard upon returning from the show about 9:30 p.m. he drove several cars parked across the street, but thought nothing of it because a pond located across the street normally draws a throng of fishermen. Three young men approached him. One held a gun on him and they looted the contents of his wallet, which contained money from a paycheck cashed earlier in the evening, he reported. The district judge is impossible to obtain a description of the robbers, he said. He said the license number of the car began "27," but he could make out no more. The car appeared to be maroon in color and a 1951 model.

Probe of Gas Prices Urged

BOISE, July 4 (AP)—Ada County Assessor Roy D. Leonardson called today for a probe of gas prices. He said that the cost of gasoline delivered in Boise is 11 cents a gallon. "To this there is to be added a six-cent tax levied by Idaho and five cents by the federal government," he said. "The total cost to the consumer then is 22 cents per gallon. However, one cent of the five cents is charged back to the operator as rent for the station. So in the final analysis gasoline to the wholesaler, who in many cases is the manufacturer, costs per gallon 11 cents, plus eight cents, plus four cents, making a total of 23 cents per gallon."

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday this veteran Washington newspaper, long-responders devote his column to answering readers' letters of general interest. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker, 800 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Do you think that President Eisenhower will accept and act on Governor Wiley's suggestion that he discipline the trouble-makers in the Republican party, especially McCarran, Jenner, and others who oppose the foreign and domestic program?" asks P. C. of Richmond, Va.

"I hope that 'Ike' will crack down on such a group."

Answer: Although I think that Senator Wiley, an amiable but not too effective individual, meant well in his one of the silliest and most dangerous proposals a member of congress could make. That goes, even though many people seem to agree with him.

RIGHTS OF GOVERNMENT BRANCHES—They seem to forget that our government consists of three equal branches, and that none has a right to crack down on the other. Forgetting the constitutional provisions, however, and approaching the question from the standpoint of practical politics, why should "Ike" try to become a dictator?

If he does, he will destroy party and congressional government as we know it.

AN UNWITTING DEMAND—The people who are asking Mr. Eisenhower for not wanting a "big presidential" but for a "big" presidential are actually asking for a dictatorship, although they do not realize it. JFK and Truman, unlike "Ike," sponsored a "big" presidential. JFK sponsored a "big" presidential. JFK sponsored a "big" presidential. JFK sponsored a "big" presidential.

WILEY'S TROUBLE—The real reason for Senator Wiley's provocative talk is that he faces political trouble. He is in a hot spot because he is a Republican who is not a member of the Eisenhower administration. He is a Republican who is not a member of the Eisenhower administration. He is a Republican who is not a member of the Eisenhower administration.

CHURCHILL HAS CHANGED—Is Churchill still falling for the Russian "peace offensive" in contrast to President Eisenhower's hard-headed skepticism? I think so. Churchill is still falling for the Russian "peace offensive" in contrast to President Eisenhower's hard-headed skepticism. I think so. Churchill is still falling for the Russian "peace offensive" in contrast to President Eisenhower's hard-headed skepticism. I think so.

"IKE" RELUCTANT, BUT—Unfortunately, because of their close association during World War II, I see a reluctant opposition or overt hostility to Ike. But I imagine that they will have a knockdown-drag-out-quarrel, if and when they do meet in Berlin.

Churchill demands a smoke talk with the Russians. Eisenhower prefers to wait six months or a year before making peace with Moscow. He is a different man from the courageous and outspoken "Biron," who denounced the Munich agreement as "an appeasement" that would lead to war.

POT SHOTS

DISGRACEFUL!

After that disgraceful exhibition on the part of "sportmen" last week at the Silver Creek, I think everyone who participated should lose his and/or her license to fish in Idaho for all time.

Here were his fish and game boys estimated 3,000 "fishermen" took part in the fiasco. I'll bet they all agreed that the "sportmen" part of the whole business is that most of them figured they were really fishing.

No fisherman who is worthy of the name would ever be caught in such a net. If that sort of thing is going to be allowed to continue, I intend to take up black-smithing for entertainment and as a hobby.

Chuckle, fellow, if you want to haul 'em out of the water as fast as you can take them off a hook, you'll not make some of the arrangements with a hatchery owner. You wouldn't have to go so far and probably the hatchery would be glad to sell you the fish. Instead of Silver Creek, you'd know.

ANOTHER CONVERT

The other day I was in a particular rush to get someplace. I was hurrying along as fast as I could when I saw a sign that said "Highway South of Zimmerman Hill. There was a little traffic headed in the opposite direction, so I slowed down to find out who those sloppos moping along ahead of me.

There wasn't enough room to pass, so I hit the brakes and came right up behind the car. I looked first thing I noticed was that those Traffic Safety Volunteer "sloppos" were "highway south of Zimmerman Hill. There was a little traffic headed in the opposite direction, so I slowed down to find out who those sloppos moping along ahead of me.

Herman Welker of Idaho will explain the reasons for his resignation as member of the Grand Old Party because of the wrongheadedness, the futility of men who call themselves Republicans, there are— at least three separate parties where once a beautiful unity reigns.

Church Board Holds Meeting

HAGERMAN, July 1.—The official board of the Methodist Church in Hagerman held its regular meeting Tuesday evening. Don Somers, Twin Falls, a representative of the Idaho Power company, explained plans for the church for the fiscal year.

V. W. Carson reported he has completed and dated up 70 men who will be re-elected next year. They have large urban populations in their states where sensitivity to the immigration issue is acute. He has been challenged by the M. P. for cream socials and pointing out the records would show that repeatedly in recent years when no election was imminent, he sought to liberalize immigration quotas so they would be less discriminatory.

But Welker was in no mood to listen to explanations. In the course of his oratory he paid a glowing tribute to Pat McCarran, saying that the committee not repudiate the man who ruled over it so long. When the vote was taken, Welker was the only Republican voting with three Democrats, McCarran and Senator Eastland of Mississippi and Johnston of South Carolina. As Welker remarked later, this left him alone in a third Republican party—the German-American party—his first in 1946, to complete the term.

Also reported by the committee is composed of Mrs. John W. Jones, Mrs. W. G. Tupper, Mrs. Gerald Martin, Mrs. Don Reed and Mrs. V. W. Carson.

Speaking on plans to revive the youth center, Mr. A. Karloff reported that the youth center funds of $20,000 were given to the Hagerman schools on Jan. 3, 1946, to complete the term.

The church board granted the use of the church kitchen to the advanced cooking class of H. H. girls, led by Mrs. Ralph Miller.

Visits Reported

ALBION, July 4.—Mrs. Evelyn Ramme has returned from Albion after spending the winter at Chico, Calif. She was accompanied by her son, David Ramme, who left for the east.

Bobby Price, Nephi, Utah, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Price.

Everly Redman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Redman, is visiting relatives in Klamath Falls, Ore.

REPUBLICANS OPTIMISTIC

Republican national committee headquarters in Washington has now moved into fancy air-conditioned office space, just a mile of blocks from the White House.

The entire headquarters staff is now all together on one floor, one flight up. There's an auto-ramp in the building core which permits a few of the hot shots to park their cars in a few of the hot spots in the fire door and own the hall-front, their desks.

Incidentally, a part of the now-contracting international information administration of the state department was moved out of this place to make room for the Republican national committee.

Formerly the GOP organization in Washington was scattered in a hotel and a couple of other buildings. One of the hot spots was a narrow hallway practically half a mile from each other's lips.

Now, under the new national chairman, Leonard Hall of New York, a lot of files have been put in storage, the staff has been cut some 50 people to a little over 100, and it has been cut, the committee is sitting in the black and the good things high in the air.

The election in 1954 is going to be a breeze for the Republicans, what Republican spokesmen say about it now.

Taxes are going to be reduced next year and there will be peace in Korea this year. Those are the two things said to count most with the voters.

The fact that taxes are not being reduced this year is considered of minor importance. Individual income tax rates will decline automatically. That would do to allow the reduced-profit tax to expire before individual income taxes are cut. So the E.P.T. as it's now called for short, will be continued till the end of the year, in fairness to the little taxpayers.

Then, with the casualty lists from Korea ended, everything will be rosy from the Republican point of view.

The drop in farm prices is not considered a serious handicap. They're of course the eastern thinking. It may represent a serious blind spot for Republican strategists, but that's the way they talk now.

Nor is the labor vote situation taken too seriously. The unions are getting their wage increases in free negotiations, without government interference and without strikes. Legislation for Taft-Hartley law reform is regarded as principally the work of union officials and organizers. It is not considered representative of rank-and-file opinion.

Ike is everything and everything is Ike. He's the man who's going to win in today's world. He's the man who's going to win in today's world. He's the man who's going to win in today's world.

Voluntary and "Voluntary"

At Lewiston, Ida., and at Moscow, Russia, announcements were made with great pride within the last few days.

At Lewiston it was announced that the Lions club will receive a plaque from the U. S. treasury department—believed to be the first presented in the nation. The plaque is for one of the 40 winners of a month to each of its forty-six members.

At Moscow it was announced that this year's 10-million ruble loan has been oversubscribed in the four days since it began.

The state loan, it seems, has the same function in the Russian economy as the state loan in the United States. It is to combat inflation and help produce government revenue. Workers in Russian factories and farms dip their pockets and subscribe to the state loan, much as American citizens purchase U. S. savings bonds.

There is one big difference in the procedure, however. The U. S. savings bond plan is voluntary. The Russian state loan plan is voluntary.

The state loan is the difference. It seems Russian workers "volunteer" generous sums out of their earnings for the state loan. For anyone who is not a member of the Communist party, it is a little difficult to see how this can be so effective. We may be sure.

Americans are subjected to no pressure beyond that of a publicity campaign. They're told that bond buying is not only patriotic but makes sense economically. No one breathes down their necks to watch whether they buy a bond or not.

So the announcement at Lewiston, which has made with justified pride, and the forty-six members of the Lions club are to be commended—Lewiston Tribune.

More Than Raise Needed

The postoffice department, having already raised rates on domestic and international parcel post a total of 100 million dollars a year, is prepared to ask congress for an across-the-board boost in all rates. The target, obviously, is the department's annual 600 million dollar deficit.

The postoffice ought to be put on a self-sustaining basis, but whether that should be done at the expense of the customers is something else again. A good example is the 10-cent increase in parcel-post rates in recent years private transport companies and other competitors. Other postal services, however, are quite different. First class mail, for example, is not a commodity but a service. It's a service, although some mail users dispute this, pointing out that if other types of mail stopped, the cost of handling a parcel would go to 6 or 8 cents.

What the mail department is doing is to remain the same, the postal deficit is not caused entirely by insufficient rates. Poor organization and lack of efficiency are the main reasons. The House committee also recommended a sweeping series of reforms.

If the postal deficit is to be solved, it will be necessary to do more than raise rates. A thoroughgoing organizational reorganization, it indicated—Salt Lake Tribune.

Price of Treason

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, convicted of wartime espionage, were sentenced to 30 years in prison yesterday evening in the electric chair at Sing Sing. The price was no more than fair, we think, for a crime which President Eisenhower called worse than murder.

The Rosenbergs were convicted traitors were charged the same price.

As for Associate Justice W. O. Douglas, we hope and believe his publicity-mad act if it was nothing more than a publicity-mad act, he had better in this case catch up with him in due time.—New York Daily News.

Flight to Silver Creek

Pot Shots:
Mr. Two-Gun Pete is absolutely right but he is wrong. Those fellows are not ground pilots but pilots of the air. It's the flight to Silver Creek July 1.

As they flew over Lincoln county, some of them touched in a few spots. If you don't believe it, go out there and look at the holes. I think the ground pilots are more reacting than the air pilots. The ground pilot flip-right under you.

Of course, you can't much blame them. Someone may have got over there and caught those five-fish out of the water. It's a pity they're all gone by the time I get there. Then I can write that mosquito-infested swamp off my list.

First class mail, for example, is not a commodity but a service. It's a service, although some mail users dispute this, pointing out that if other types of mail stopped, the cost of handling a parcel would go to 6 or 8 cents.

What the mail department is doing is to remain the same, the postal deficit is not caused entirely by insufficient rates. Poor organization and lack of efficiency are the main reasons. The House committee also recommended a sweeping series of reforms.

If the postal deficit is to be solved, it will be necessary to do more than raise rates. A thoroughgoing organizational reorganization, it indicated—Salt Lake Tribune.

Price of Treason

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, convicted of wartime espionage, were sentenced to 30 years in prison yesterday evening in the electric chair at Sing Sing. The price was no more than fair, we think, for a crime which President Eisenhower called worse than murder.

The Rosenbergs were convicted traitors were charged the same price.

As for Associate Justice W. O. Douglas, we hope and believe his publicity-mad act if it was nothing more than a publicity-mad act, he had better in this case catch up with him in due time.—New York Daily News.

Views of Others

Voluntary and "Voluntary"

At Lewiston, Ida., and at Moscow, Russia, announcements were made with great pride within the last few days.

At Lewiston it was announced that the Lions club will receive a plaque from the U. S. treasury department—believed to be the first presented in the nation. The plaque is for one of the 40 winners of a month to each of its forty-six members.

At Moscow it was announced that this year's 10-million ruble loan has been oversubscribed in the four days since it began.

The state loan, it seems, has the same function in the Russian economy as the state loan in the United States. It is to combat inflation and help produce government revenue. Workers in Russian factories and farms dip their pockets and subscribe to the state loan, much as American citizens purchase U. S. savings bonds.

There is one big difference in the procedure, however. The U. S. savings bond plan is voluntary. The Russian state loan plan is voluntary.

The state loan is the difference. It seems Russian workers "volunteer" generous sums out of their earnings for the state loan. For anyone who is not a member of the Communist party, it is a little difficult to see how this can be so effective. We may be sure.

Americans are subjected to no pressure beyond that of a publicity campaign. They're told that bond buying is not only patriotic but makes sense economically. No one breathes down their necks to watch whether they buy a bond or not.

So the announcement at Lewiston, which has made with justified pride, and the forty-six members of the Lions club are to be commended—Lewiston Tribune.

More Than Raise Needed

The postoffice department, having already raised rates on domestic and international parcel post a total of 100 million dollars a year, is prepared to ask congress for an across-the-board boost in all rates. The target, obviously, is the department's annual 600 million dollar deficit.

The postoffice ought to be put on a self-sustaining basis, but whether that should be done at the expense of the customers is something else again. A good example is the 10-cent increase in parcel-post rates in recent years private transport companies and other competitors. Other postal services, however, are quite different. First class mail, for example, is not a commodity but a service. It's a service, although some mail users dispute this, pointing out that if other types of mail stopped, the cost of handling a parcel would go to 6 or 8 cents.

What the mail department is doing is to remain the same, the postal deficit is not caused entirely by insufficient rates. Poor organization and lack of efficiency are the main reasons. The House committee also recommended a sweeping series of reforms.

If the postal deficit is to be solved, it will be necessary to do more than raise rates. A thoroughgoing organizational reorganization, it indicated—Salt Lake Tribune.

ermans Are Viewing U.S. Defense Plan

WASHINGTON, July 4 (AP)—West German defense officials are viewing a one-time chief of military operations as getting a first-hand look at how the U.S. Army runs the show.

The first time an official in the top staff has come to this country to learn about soldiering in the United States was in 1945, when he was given a tour of the Army's system.

System Blamed

German officials are convinced that a lot of their troubles with history came from the way the American system worked in the field of operations.

The German delegation is headed by General G. von Helldorf, chief of the German Army's staff. He is accompanied by a number of other officers.

General Helldorf entered the Army in 1914 and served in World War I. He was a lieutenant in the Army when it was disbanded.

Leaders

General Helldorf is accompanied by a number of other officers, including a colonel and a lieutenant colonel from Germany. They are all general staff officers.

The delegation has had two intensive sessions with the officials of the Department of Defense.

The Germans will attend their first conference at the Pentagon. Then they will visit the Army's training centers to see how the U.S. Army operates.

The delegation will also visit the Army's research and development centers, and the Army's medical and dental centers.

The delegation will be in the United States for about two weeks.

This new combine comes on display at Ernst Brothers, Heyburn, Idaho. The smaller combine can harvest 15 acres daily and the larger combine 20 acres. (Staff engraving)

Savings in Time, Costs Noted For Latest Potato 'Combines'

Substantial savings in time and harvest costs are claimed for the new "Dahlman" single and double row potato combines now on display at Ernst Brothers, Heyburn.

The new equipment is designed to reduce "labor requirements" greatly, eliminate bagging and extra handling operations, protect against bruising and chipping of potatoes and cut harvesting time by one-half.

Described as "one of the most modern developments in mechanized potato harvesting," the combines are said to reduce harvesting costs as much as 40 per cent, and more.

The "Dahlman" was developed for potato growers with less than 50 acres of potatoes under cultivation. It harvests up to 12 acres daily with only one-third to one-half as many workers required.

Up to 20 acres of potatoes can be harvested daily with the two-row combine unit which outperforms as many as 40 hand-pickers. Easy operation is assured by self-contained power units which provide control of apron speeds, hydraulic power for adjustment of digger blades, side delivery apron and rear wheel steering.

The potato combine is propelled easily with any two or three-row tractor. Self-contained power units operate all cleaning, elevating and loading mechanisms. Constant running hydraulic pumps permit the use of the hydraulic system whenever the engine is operating.

Platforms are provided for working crews operating the combine. Side delivery aprons can be lowered to allow the combine to be driven up and down hills. Carry-up junk on elevator sections are rubberized.

An automatic loading box completes the team. A full 100 bushels are unloaded from the combine into a bin in less than 10 minutes.

Advantages of the loading box include less handling of potatoes, loads and unloads without jolts, guards potatoes against damage and has no sharp corners to damage potatoes.

Study Shows Potatoes Need to Be Irrigated Often in Summer

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, July 4—Potatoes, like a cold drink in the summertime, need to be irrigated often in summer.

O. L. Corey, irrigation specialist at the Aberdeen branch experiment station of the University of Idaho, said it is a good idea for farmers to cool the soil with water during hot weather. Cool earth produces better potatoes.

Recent tests have proved that the soil is a good idea for farmers to cool the soil with water during hot weather. Cool earth produces better potatoes.

The only feasible means was irrigation. Therefore, during hot weather we should irrigate potatoes often.

The irrigation need not be heavy. A light treatment will have about the same cooling effect as a heavy one.

During the hot days of late July it would not be unreasonable to irrigate every five or six days. Experimental work has shown that pointed-end potatoes are formed in late July and early August. That's why frequent watering is recommended at that time. Once the potatoes have started to become pointed, there is no way of correcting the condition.

It has also been found that potatoes need not be irrigated so often after Aug. 15. Results last year showed that specific gravity could be raised by halting irrigation at that time. There was no reduction in yield or quality. On this basis it is recommended that the crop not be irrigated more than once after Aug. 15. This should result in less water not as well as increased specific gravity.

Six Hawaiian Reds Receive 5-Year Terms

HONOLULU, July 4 (AP)—Federal Judge Jon Wigg Friday sentenced longshore leader Jack Hall and five co-defendants to five years in prison and fined each $5,000 in the Hawaii communist conspiracy case.

A seventh defendant, Mrs. Ellen Jullino, the only woman in the case, was given a lesser sentence of three years imprisonment and a fine of $2,000. Judge Wigg doubled the bail of each defendant from $7,500 to $15,000.

They were convicted of conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the United States government.

The prosecution had demanded maximum sentences—five years imprisonment and $10,000 fines—before the sentences were imposed. Each defendant denied any guilt. Hall regional director of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's union, told the court.

"I have no sense of guilt. I know that I am not guilty of this charge. The prosecution well knows that I was a member of the Communist party when they got their indictment and they know that I am not now."

Banning Street and Tent Religious Services Is Deplored

In the United States have been tolerated in this respect as I have said repeatedly, my need and the need of all men is more of God than of any other thing. Some religious services in the open will help greatly to supply that need.

I am not doubting the motive of our council in Twin Falls in passing this law, for boldness and fanaticism are people's assets. Indeed, unwise, both in street and tent meetings here. However, why not be consistent and ban loud and nerve-racking music in some of our eating places? Also the loudspeakers who have free play as well as the circus within Twin Falls.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

The Fourth of July child who can talk knows the meaning of the Fourth of July, but to many it is for the first time. Devotion, perhaps a day in the country, a picnic, to some it may mean a day with chicken and ice cream for the first time.

The minds of most youngsters need refreshing on their country's history. For many a child, the Fourth of July is a struggle for the same ideals that brought about this anniversary—the idea of freedom.

Children are apt to look upon the Fourth of July as a holiday, taking freedom for granted. It is high time that youngsters were impressed with what freedom means.

It is well to enjoy a holiday on the Fourth of July, but youngsters must be reminded what the anniversary means. They should be told of all the historic incidents again and again, also of the suffering and selfless service of those first citizens.

Wouldn't it be a good idea to attend a church service on the Fourth of July and offer a prayer for the future strength of this great land and thanks for the pattern of freedom this country has contributed to the world?

Some adults are prone to take the Fourth of July as a matter-of-fact fashion. However, all of us realize that we now have sons, brothers, sisters and fathers fighting for freedom, and fathers fighting for freedom in a country that knows no freedom. This is a sad American tragedy.

If for some reason your child has developed undesirable habits, you can correct them by simply changing these habits for good ones. This is the only way to change habits in the least possible time. "Change Habits" is a booklet of 100 pages in color to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 97, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

He sped back to Irvine theater but too late. The management had canceled the performance and given the audience tickets for another night.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

It's not difficult—a matter of only a few hours. You can spend the day there and be back in your own bed the next morning. The Magic Valley is located only 34 miles northeast of Boise, Idaho. How many of you have been there—not just by the national monument, but actually visited the volcanoes, caves, geysers, tree molds and the natural bridges.

Many times when the hot lava hills—a tree-like hardened effluence—were active in the area as recent as 10,000 years ago, the lava flows were so hot that the lava was consumed by heat. The result are the tree molds found chiefly in the southern part of the monument.

The area was made into a national monument in 1924 but it was only during recent years that it was developed. Much of the progress was made possible through the efforts of "Sam" Houston, superintendent until only a few weeks ago.

Houston helped pave the roads in the area, set up complete and excellent buildings. When he was transferred to Mammoth Cave, Ky., last month the administration of the monument was turned over to Robert C. Zink, ranger, as acting superintendent. Zink says a "new" administration probably will be named by fall.

For those who don't want to camp out in the shadow of a cold building, there are cabins at the monument. There also is a restaurant and a shop near the entrance of the area.

When Mrs. Oren Boone, TWIN FALLS, decks herself out in her jewelry the effect may look like a necklace of diamonds. But the stones are not diamonds. They are pieces of lava that she has collected in the Magic Valley. Boone wants an extra brace or set of earrings, and she has found them in the lava. The stones are not diamonds, but they are as beautiful as diamonds. Boone has a collection of these stones, and she is showing them to her friends. Boone says she has found many of these stones in the lava. She says she has found them in the lava. Boone says she has found many of these stones in the lava. She says she has found them in the lava.

The wire, which is obtained in pieces about six inches long, can be made into chains, bracelets and matching earrings. The only aid needed, in addition to a nimbler finger, is a pair of jeweler's pliers, which will cut the wire into small pieces at a time, into the designed form and then hooked together.

Pruett Notes Summer Sky Full of Stars

By J. HUGH PRUETT
(Oregon extension station, Astoria, Oregon, higher education system)

Although the longest day of the year was June 21, the hours of sunlight are still about the same as they were a few days ago. In fact, the sun is still about the same as it was on June 21, the hours of sunlight are still about the same as they were a few days ago. In fact, the sun is still about the same as it was on June 21.

Very high in the southwest, the star Arcturus is conspicuous at the lower end of the kite. The dimmer stars forming this figure can be taken toward the south. Don't fail to note the Big Dipper sliding down the northwestern sky.

Rather low in the southern sky the bright star Antares is twinkling with its characteristic reddish hue. It is the pulsating heart of the sky figure known as the Scorpion. We are in the east-southeast Altair is easily spotted with two dimmer guard stars, one above and one below it.

High in the east-northeast Deneb marks the head of the Northern Cross, a starry figure now on its side and extending southwest from Deneb.

Very high in the east and well up toward the overhead point is brilliant Vega, the principal star in Lyra, the Harp of Orpheus.
