John Is Selected for State's Game Department Chief

July 29 (P)—Ross Leonard, Salt Lake City, representative of the Wildlife Management Institute, appointed director of the Idaho fish and game department.

fish and game commission named James Simpson, a fish culturist with the department, to serve as acting until Leonard can take up his duties.

After a former Utah fish and game director, conferred with commission earlier in the day, he succeeds T. B.

The new director was succeeded by a commission, created by legislature and made more to the members of the Agricultural college. He had been a graduate of the Emory and Henry College district and served a as mayor of Bluff.

After a short time in the border patrol and then to head the state game commission in 1943, he left the post in 1945 to become director of the Wildlife Institute.

General Shelf Control Plans

WICHITA, July 29—An amendment to give the federal government full control over the shelf control plan, but they are provision to use the aid to education.

Rep. P. Anderson, D., N. Y., who first proposed the action, said it would cause the administration's "most" delay over until the next Congress.

Other supporters of educational aid proposed a "general shelf control" bill which would have included the same provisions as the original, known as "the shelf bill," for its sponsor, Rep. H. C. Staggers.

The companion to the Staggers legislation passed this session, and was introduced by President Eisenhower. It would extend the coastal states their lands immediately to their coastline for varying from 3 to 10½ miles off shore.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Gen. Omar N. Bradley, recently relieved head of the chief of staff, has been brought along to preside over the military commission convened to hear the story of the men now charged with the defense of the United States at home and abroad. His strange legacy has precipitated a political crisis in the Senate, where he was to be seated in the capitol hill with President Eisenhower occupying a "no-man's land" position.

The question is: Was Pointe du Hoc and the World War II commandos passed on in vainglorious interviews? Should the ex-parte in charge of national security be held accountable to what they know to be dangerous weakening of our military strength through presidential hubris? Or should they present openly and angularly to Congress the implications of its entails an enforced resignation or demotion?

In other words, do our military leaders owe a greater duty to the commander-in-chief in the White House than they do to the American people, who must pay the penalty of their silence and inaction in blood and treasure?

CUT IN DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS—Although Bradley's discussion of the North Korean invasion formed the subject of his 1950 speech, which cut defense appropriations to a mere 1 billion dollars in the very year the North Koreans attacked, it applies also to Mr. Eisenhower's 5-billion-dollar reduction of air force funds.

Bradley accepted the defense budget reduction, although it will leave us unprepared in the air in the event of a clash with Russia. Previously, Bradley had supported Truman in the conversion over Gen. Douglas MacArthur's proposal in the direction of scrap plans for building a super-aircraft carrier.

BRADLEY DEFENDS STAND—When Bradley was asked why he did not protest more aggressively and publicly against the pre-Korea, 1950 economy, which until then all three selected a military shell, he replied:

"My philosophy is that when you are a member of a team, you should speak out frankly, and argue if you think you are blue in the face. But when the decision is final, and you have to take a stand, you can't argue or argue and preach against it; which doesn't do any good."

"Also, you must recognize that the military side is only one phase of the picture that the President and Congress have to make a judgment on. There are economic and financial sides, and then decide what is best. We were given to understand that the economic and financial considerations were overriding."

CITIERS DISPROVE CONCLUSION—The critics' conclusions are not necessarily correct. Most acceptably, they admit that it doesn't do any good to resign or to take public issue with the White House in this kind of controversy. Critics cite several instances which appear to disprove his contention.

When the late Adm. William Sowden Sims charged that naval warfare was wholly inadequate early in this century, Theodore Roosevelt staged a large-scale test. When he discovered Sims to be correct, he made inspector of tanks and gunnery, and, in fact, no navy matched our performance in World War I.

HISTORY DOESN'T SUPPORT BRADLEY—The late "Billy" Mitchell was court-martialed and forced out of the service because he had the temerity to expose his sensational protests led to two presidential investigations—the Baker and Moro boards.

"Without this study and preparation, both the American and British forces would have been beaten in World War II than they were. Britain profited from the Mitchell affair, and her small but efficient units smashed the Hitler hordes in 1940."

Adm. C. D. Beale was severely demoted and driven from the navy because of his public battle against elimination of a super-carrier from the building program. Now, we are constructing one at far higher cost, and two more may be built. History does not support Bradley.

The opposition to the Idaho Power application is pitifully weak. A National Hells Canyon association, headed by J. T. Marr of Portland, Ore., has been formed in the Northwest to support public power development on the Hells Canyon.

The association is short on cash. It has the backing of Northwestern Grange, Farmers' Union, AFL, CIO, some public utilities districts and local co-ops.

In Congress almost the only supporters are independent Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon and Rep. John W. McCormack, Democrat of Mass., whose influence in Congress can't be described as being at peak.

What the Hells Canyon association wants is a single, high dam built by the federal government in place of the three dams built by Idaho Power. This is in support of plant site by department of interior with Truman administration approval.

The new secretary of interior, former Gov. Douglas McKay of Oregon, walked out on plans in May by withdrawing his department's opposition to the Idaho application. Secretary McKay's main argument was that there was no use asking congress for money to build the high dam under present federal budget and tax conditions, while Idaho Power was willing to spend its own money for similar though smaller projects.

The Hells Canyon association—attack-on-the Idaho Power application is that the press hearings before Examiner Costello are being railroaded through in violation of federal power commission and administrative procedures act regulations. Principal basis for these charges is that the Idaho power application is not complete as to authorization, financial and engineering data, required.

Opponents—counsel John Mason—replied to this that the regulations were burdensome and could be bypassed. Examiner Costello then moved that the complaint motion on the grounds that the regulations were unrealistic, and that long proceedings would have to be avoided.

This is taken as an indication of full-speed-ahead ordered to get the matter settled quickly. Earlier the Hells Canyon association had asked for a 90-day postponement to prepare its case against the Idaho Power application. Though the matter has been under discussion and subject to numerous debates over the past six years, Examiner Costello ruled against any further postponements.

No other obstacle is now in sight to prevent granting of the Idaho Power application.

NEW PESTS IN U.S.A.

Smithsonian Institution scientists have discovered three new kinds of cockroaches invading the United States. Most threatening is the Madagascan cockroach. It is believed to have stowed away on ships to the West Indies and eventually came to the U.S.

The other invaders are the spotted Mediterranean roach, which has been found on Cape Cod, and the East African roach, which made its appearance in Florida.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

Sen. Mike Monroney, Oklahoma, an inveterate and politically astute state senator, has come up with a plan to assist the central intelligence agency as a means of abusing Sen. Joe McCarthy when he comes to town.

Monroney's idea is to establish a secret operation of central intelligence agencies. No details are provided in the bill, which Congress passes so secret is the nature of this operation.

"The act establishing its policy reads: 'In the interest of the security of the United States and to implement the provisions that the director of CIA shall be responsible for protecting intelligence sources and methods, it is hereby directed that the agency shall be exempted from the provisions which require publication of the organization, functions, name, size, personnel, and methods of personnel employed; provided that the agency shall make no reports to Congress in connection with the agency.'

Monroney said that McCarthy's influence as a means of revealing information to "our enemies" informed him of the need to provide for in the bill.

Monroney's bill provides a fast idea of the organization, functions, name, size, personnel, and methods of personnel employed; provided that the director of the budget shall make no reports to Congress in connection with the agency.

Monroney said "not even cabinet members are generally informed as to the full text or origin" of the CIA.

"The bill which goes across the desk of the president," he said.

"It could hardly be called a new intelligence agency and thus subjected to the general suspicion so assiduously built up to create doubt about the accuracy of its information.

At this point it is pertinent to note that Gen. Bedell Smith, "the father of the CIA," was promoted to general from congressional committee to admiral, then to general again,

BURLEY, July 29—C. W. Northwest Gas Co. Inc. today said natural gas service to 13 additional southwestern Washington communities will be available with completion of the northwestern part of Canadian Natural's Northwest.

Canadian's attorney, J. W. Johnson, told a federal power commission hearing a new company plans to reach all Washington state market areas that are now served by Canadian. Northwest received assurances from Western Transmission company, Ltd., its proposed enlarged market to be supplied from Canadian.

Enough said Trans-Northwest Cascade Natural Gas company contracted to use the new system of the new Canadian's, he explained, is consolidated corporation consisting of the Northwest Cities Gas Company, Canadian City Gas Company, Northwest Gas company, Brigham City company and the Oregon City company.

Orange Votes Down Phone Removal Plan

HIGHORNE, July 23—The Wood Center Orange voted against "Orange resolutions seeking removal of telephones unless rates are reduced." The resolution was introduced on the subject by members of the Orange who said that although they "not approve of the rates," they "do not believe that the telephone company is making such a hardship." They decided, they will vote to the attorney general to amend him on his stand on the subject.

The group voted to submit a bid to the county fair and decided to sponsor a produce booth. A letter of application for a permit of Agriculture Bureau was considered and will be filled after further study.

The furnace committee was given authority to make adjustments in heating system at the Orange building and a new kitchen committee was appointed. It consists of Mr. and Mrs. F. O. White, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gabriel, Mr. Wentworth and Mrs. White. Mr. Wentworth and Mrs. White were appointed to a gift purchasing committee. A literary program was on the agenda.

Wentworth gave statistics on losses and Earl Cheney gave a

Wounded Red Is "Captured"

SEoul, Korea, July 23—South Korean troops withdrawing from demilitarized former battlefield found a wounded Chinese soldier, but did not know what to do with him.

The ROKs found the soldier while mining fields in front of their line of defense. He had been hit in his left shoulder and was in his final position on the battle front. The Chinese had been hiding under a bush for five

It presented quite a problem. "We have no cover under the truce agreement," an American military officer said. "Can you take prisoner during an armistice? If we do, we'll be held responsible. Finally officers decided to send the Chinese to a prisoner hospital—eventually he will be returned to the community.

Ada Assessments

Protest Is Slated

SOMERSET, N.Y., July 23—Members of the local small merchants committee and representatives of the chamber of commerce will meet to plan their action against what they call discriminatory tax assessments against retailers and wholesalers in Ada county.

J. L. Wright, chairman of the chamber's wholesale distribution committee, said no one in the area's small merchants agreed yesterday on a definite need for some type of action in adjusting the present evaluation figures.

He said, the committee also decided to hire an expert to collect upholding their claim the assessment rate is too high in Ada county.

State Road Needs Related by Miller

BELLEVUE, July 23—Earl V. Miller, state highway engineer, told the Boise Kiwanis club yesterday it would take 10 million dollars and least 10 years to put Idaho's highway system in shape. He was showing his facts from the department's highway sufficiency report, released earlier this summer. Miller said many of Idaho's roads are built to standards 30 years old. The traffic—old 15 to 20 years ago—today was less than one-half today's volume.

"Today you are obsolete," Miller said.

Office for Roads

Bureau to Close

PORTLAND, July 23—The bureau of public roads plans to close its Portland office next Jan. 1 in an economy move, Commissioner F. V. Spauld said here Tuesday.

Dupont, now to head the bureau's administrative section, will move to the Portland division office which would be transferred to San Francisco. District offices at Salem, Olympia, Missoula and Spokane will remain open. The closing would coincide with the scheduled retirement of W. H. French, division engineer at Portland.

The federal bureau supervises highway work financed in whole or part by the federal government.

Legion to Honor 1953 Miss Idaho

BOISE, July 23—Verna Jane Bostic, Miss Idaho of 1953, will be guest of honor at the state legion convention Friday in Moscow.

Chief Moulton, Miss Idaho pageant chairman, said Miss Bostic will present a vocal solo just prior to the start of the meeting. K. Gough, manager, the Legion's national commander.

ing Increases n Northwest Industry Seen

YMPHIA, July 29 (UPI)—The state government, it is predicted—Tuesday—the northwest will be the most industrialized area west of Mississippi by 1970.

The prediction, the bright side of the area's economic future, is an effort to counter forecasts of an economic bust. It was said the gloomiest predictions for the Pacific Northwest were made by pseudonomists.

Fall to Remove Shrouds
So many prognosticators have gotten to take the black shrouds off their crystal balls before taking us into the future, that naturally, it's black, Gates declared.

He accused the "pseudo-economists" of "padding" their data to conjure up economically rosy statements which unevenly consumer, causing havoc in all trades, businessmen and merchants."

Explains Study

Gates said fall's study showed despite a much-welcome truce Korea, despite the severe unemployment here this winter, and despite the forecasts of economic doom, Washington state will continue to develop industrially at a rapid pace.

There are 183 industrial plants in Washington employing more than 400 million people have been announced since January 1. All are or soon to be built.

He said the state no longer depends on one industry—mining—for the bulk of its employment.

Group Meets

ROCKFORD, July 29—Priesthood meeting for the LDS church was held at the Rockford Tabernacle during the correlation meeting.

The opening assembly Allen C. Larson, acted accompanist for the up-to-date lessons were led by George H. Johnson, and H. A. Larson.

Offices announced by the newspaper in the ward of YMMIA: Mrs. Reed Hansen, Hive leader; Clyde Harper, MATA superintendent; Carl Benner, assistant superintendent of the MTA, and Marion Blaylock, minister of the YMMIA.

French Union Drive Gaining Publicity in Indo-China

WASHINGTON, July 29 (UPI)—Dairy leaders said they believe if they "got out and about the merits" of their products, the government soon could stop having to buy dairy surpluses under its price support program.

Such an effort, they said Tuesday, would result in increased consumption of milk and other dairy products.

More than 1,000 dairy farmers are making a last-ditch stand.

Troops moved behind a screen of artillery fire in successfully storming the steeply defiled commanding heights in northern Indochina.

The attacking forces of French and Vietnamese troops

Miss Carmichael Exchanges Vows With N. Morrison

Beth Carmichael, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. and Neal Morrison, were united in marriage Sunday evening at the home of Mrs. Blanche Woodman. Miss Carmichael performed ceremony before an altar decorated with pink and white gladiolus, carnations and flanked by red taper candles.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Sherman W. Hudson, wore a lavender length gown of white silk, styled with a lace-trimmed bodice. Her necklace was made with a love medallion.

Miss Carmichael's accessories included seed pearls and silver beads held her lace-edged finger tip of imported lace. Her shoes and a diamond Archibald Turner.

The former Miss Carmichael carried red buds with a white Bible. Her bouquet included rhinestone earrings and a necklace belonging to her mother.

A watch, a gift from the groom.

Martha Morrison, the bride's sister, was the maid of honor. The train was lighted by Mrs. Lovell and flower girls were Dorothy and Judy Mann.

Neal Morrison served as best man.

Mr. Morrison's wedding suit and roses were associated. The bridegroom's suit was a navy blue nylon dress with pink rosebud accessories. His flowers pink rosebuds.

Reception followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Turner was in charge of the guest book and the gifts were signed by Mrs. Woodman.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison.

Tea punch was served by Leon Martin and Mrs. Nora Jensen. Mrs. Woodman presided at coffee service.

At the reception the bride chose a white and white nylon dress and accessories. After a wedding Mr. and Mrs. Morrison will be at home at 107 Addison Avenue.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

One lovely morning a family of four—father, mother and two small children—drove out to the country in search of a summer cottage where the children could have a happy vacation. They asked many questions: they heard of a place owned by an elderly couple that might be for rent and accordingly called there.

When the car stopped the two children, their arms filled with toys, dashed to the porch dumped their burdens and began running about. The father, too, took off his coat and, shouting with the enthusiasm of their lungs.

The elderly couple opened the door. They were evidently disappointed.

"We heard you had a place for rent for August and we have come to see it," said the young father.

The old man, the owner did not say, emphasized, "The house is not for rent."

"I heard it was," the father said. "It is a fine place," and the son, facing his dad, added, "Dad, we can't afford to pay rent."

"Oh, I see," the father said, "you are among those people who don't like children."

"Yes, we like children—when they have been taught manners." That ended the conversation, the angry father said, and his front door closed.

Now, began a struggle with the children. They wanted to stay. They wanted to rock. They wanted to see the garden and those chickens—in the back yard. Father spoke firmly, mother added her word—but the rocking and the yelling continued.

Finally, the father picked up one screaming child and the mother took the other. Then they gathered up the scattered toys and went to the car.

If it hasn't been taught at home, it requires you to exert to get it. If it has been taught, then it is pointed out to him, it isn't likely that he will have much respect for the flowers other people work to grow.

But what can you expect from a child who isn't taught to take care of things at home? If he jumps up and down, if he runs around, if he makes a disturbance, noise. Freedom does not mean the enforcement of rules, for the pleasure of others.

For no child is a welcome guest in other's homes or yards who hasn't been taught to take care of things at home.

Even though a mother may not care if Willie stands on her coffee table, because she is waiting until the children are old enough to get him off, she is bound to say, "No, nobody else is going to appreciate having WILLY trash their possessions so carelessly."

You know yourself that whether or not you grow up to be a good person depends on whether or not you expect the house to look like a castle had struck upon it.

Washington Rite Unites Buhl Pair

BUHL, July 29—Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Savelberg announced the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Ann, and Carl Leckie, son of Mrs. Lydia Leckie, Buhl.

The ceremony was performed July 6 in the First Nazarene church of Walls Walla, Wash., by the Rev. W. R. Johnson, pastor.

Attending the wedding from Sunn were Mr. and Mrs. C. Rosenkrantz, grandparents of the bride; Mrs. Lydia Leckie and Paul Pennington.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Leckie are 1924 graduates of Buhl high school.

They are making their home at Walsenburg, Wash., where he is employed by the Green Giant Cannery.

The former Miss Savelberg was honored at showers given by Mrs. Loren Rosenkrantz, Joann Shriver and Barbara Way.

Mr. and Mrs. Savelberg were given in marriage by Sherman W. Hudson, wore a lavender length gown of white silk, styled with a lace-trimmed bodice. Her necklace was made with a love medallion.

Miss Carmichael's accessories included seed pearls and silver beads held her lace-edged finger tip of imported lace.

Her bouquet included rhinestone earrings and a necklace belonging to her mother.

A watch, a gift from the groom.

Martha Morrison, the bride's sister, was the maid of honor.

The flowers were signed by Dorothy and Judy Mann.

Neal Morrison served as best man.

Mr. Morrison's wedding suit and roses were associated.

The bridegroom's suit was a navy blue nylon dress with pink rosebud accessories. His flowers pink rosebuds.

Spring Seasons and Regulations Reported

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Interior Secretary McKay announced 1953-64 season hunting regulations for bald pigeons, rails and gallinules and for taking deer and opossums.

With the regulations only a few changes were compared with last year's regulation, which was cut in half.

As a result, deer and opossums have been eliminated, and has been eliminated, as well as some state and federal seasons.

The others are still in effect.

With certain areas the same as last year, the new states, the seasons and social regulations limit the number of western states.

For example, only about 25 acres and the "others" in the aggregate of those acres, and gallinules have been eliminated.

In the previous season they limited one hour of hunting.

There is no limit on the number of deer taken.

For example, the number of deer taken is limited to 100 per

Inness of Senator Taft Could Force Big Change in Politics

WASHINGTON. July 22 (UPI)—Far-reaching changes in the national political scene could result from the death of Senator George W. Rauch, who has been a power for so many years. He would open the way for Ohio's Democratic governor, Frank J. Lausche, to appear as the Senate's new leader until the next general election in November, 1954.

If Taft's seat should become vacant, the Senate would be reduced to 89 members, 47 Democratic and 42 Republican seats, 47 Democratic and the other seat is held by Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Independent. The 48 Republican seats include 10 who are Democrats, 47 Republicans and Senator Tobey, N. H., who is Morse would become a key man because he is a Republican.

to be succeeded by a Republican.

The departure of Taft would give the Senate what it has not had a power for so many years—control over the way for Ohio's Democratic governor, Frank J. Lausche, to appear as the Senate's new leader until the next general election in November, 1954.

If Taft's seat should become vacant, the Senate would be reduced to 89 members, 47 Democratic and the other seat is held by Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Independent. The 48 Republican seats include 10 who are Democrats, 47 Republicans and Senator Tobey, N. H., who is Morse would become a key man because he is a Republican.

Democrats say they are in a position to tell the country that what happens is a Republican responsibility. They have been preparing their campaign for 1954 on that basis.

But despite all the increased power of the Senate, the power and hence the responsibility would be divided.

Terrible! Terrible!

Boyle Sees Little Enthusiasm On Start of "Twilight Truce"

By PAUL BOYLE

NEW YORK, July 29.—The twilight war in Korea has come to a twilight truce.

The guns grumbled into silence, the planes flew home, the soldiers lay down in a darkening sky. After 27 months of sound and fury, the "land of the fire-eating" "fire-and-thunder-with-the-atom-bomb" was quiet.

The worn soldiers, on both sides, have found a kind of the Korean problem—over-to-diplomatic something, something they wanted to do for more than two years. For to the fighting of the actual Korean war was than an endless game of checkers played with bomb and bullet.

And now the world stands down a lonely road, winding through a dusky forest, wondering where the road will lead him. He knows the terrain behind him, but he survived it. Does more peril or peace lie ahead?

Peace? What is it? They don't even dare use that word, cringing from the thought because nobody any longer is sure just what it is. Like the word war, it is hard to define today.

Nowhere is black or white as used to be. We live in a gray time, where one thing emerges inconclusively into another thing. You don't know when war ends, because you don't know when peace begins.

And that is the point upon which the world teeters-totters today. Both sides insist they went to war to prevent Korea—and that is to say how gray even language has become, was known as the "cold war."

Now we are in another shade of gray—that could be termed "the not true." The human race is like Alice in Wonderland, but traveling along with an armload of balloons instead of pausing to pick daisies.

America will pick no daisies in Korea. It probably will pick up a number of balloons, too, and eventually—that is the weather of warfare. First you blow up a country. Then if you end up si nately solvent, you repair it.

New battle-painted here at the armistice, the Korean war is well confined. The feelings seemed to range from quiet thankfulness in the homes of soldiers to the fires of the fire-eating "fire-and-thunder-with-the-atom-bomb," a yow-calce.

The armistice of 1953 stirred none of the jubilation of the armistice of 1918 or the surrenders of 1945. But the world is not the same as it should. In the first and second World Wars our men fought in harm's way, and they won.

But Korea marks the abandonment of the symbols of that hatred—the Kaiser, Hitler and Tojo.

But we went to war in Korea respectfully. That fought for a principle rather than against a symbol.

They haven't broken the back of communism, but they have made it run like a dog.

No one can tell today whether the truce is only a breathing spell or marks the slow withdrawal of the tidal-wave of communism. It is the turning of a tide in human affairs.

But Korea marks the abandonment of the young men of this generation. There are no less results and damage in defense of a principle than in defense of a nation which found itself in America.

And as a nation perhaps we have learned something more. In the days of the Kellys, the old-time firemen's club—well, it isn't
