S. Joy on POW Return Dulled by Fear of Losses

PEKING (UPI)—Aug. 7—South Korea's leaders promised to release all their "friendly" prisoners but the joy was dimmed by fear that thousands of Americans may have been captured by the Reds on thephony exchanging the lives of prisoners or "negotiating" today. Gen. Mark W. Clark, American commander-in-chief, said he had from 221 the total released to 221 the total released in the first three weeks—it may take three weeks more before enough are collected to make up a shipload of 400.

A summary of Thursday's prisoner exchange, issued by the United Nations, said the exchange operation is smooth, "out and speeding up." It said the "initial group of 100 ROKs were received, processed and sent on their way."

Roads heading into the communist prisoner exchange site were drawn with clothing issued to them by the Chinese Communists.

The same tattered roads leading to freedom village from the United Nations exchange site were littered with the blue cotton uniforms supplied by the Chinese Communists.

"We are still willing to give personal," the commission added.

A 12-man advance Indian party reached Tokyo Thursday enroute to Korea to study plans for India's role in the prison repatriation.

Returning Americans Thursday rejoiced on canes or crudely-fashioned crutches to the reception tents identical in design and preliminary medical examination. Some still command ambulances on stretchers.

Clark said the United States "had reason to believe from other sources" that the communists that the Reds had more prisoners than they had released in their return.

He said the evidence was not so strong that the U.S. could make flat charges, but the issue would be settled by the time the commission is settled there, it will be referred to the forthcoming political conference.

Drawn up an American warrant officials called the same distance of North Korea's "death valley" where more than 3,000 American soldiers starved or froze to death in 1950.

Bright E. Gove, 50, now awaiting shipment home at Inchon, said mass graves were dug by the Americans in their bubbles as they perished at the hands of the Reds "from starvation, dysentery and exposure."

A medical attendant, he said, was a

Dulles, Rhee Again Dodge Crucial Issue

SEUL, Korea, Aug. 6 (UPI)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and South Korean President Syngman Rhee again dodged the crucial issue of Korean peace conference today.

A full-scale meeting at Rhee's mansion lasting nearly two hours concentrated instead on economic cooperation.

Both sides will furnish for rebuilding the shattered South Korean economy.

Dulles said as he emerged from the meeting that the Korean underground plans key items before the conference.

Other topics were not discussed.

Economic Problems

Army Secretary Robert Stevens did most of the talking, the secretary of state added. Dulles explained the $300-million-dollar-aid earmarked for Korean reconstruction by the U.S. Congress in October for the end of the fighting.

Dulles told newsmen this morning's second meeting made "fine progress."

Conflicting Works

He said a working committee will continue negotiations this afternoon on the U.S.-South Korean defense pact. He was not discussed the meeting of the full delegations at the end of the conference.

Dulles and Rhee agreed yesterday the conference should be confined largely to unification of Korea but other related issues should not be excluded. The two foreign ministers' agreement on the main items wanted to see participate in the conference.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—The reported emergence of Russia's war heroes as the real power behind Dictator George Malenkov—Marshal Zhukov, Soviet Foreign Minister, and others—has been officially disclosed at Washington. Communists in name only, the first two have been close associates of President Eisenhower, and are regarded as warm friends of the White House.

Their return to prominence had not been unexpected. In liquidating Berlin, head of the secret police and anti-Soviet Moscovites, Malenkov and a powerful, sinister and well-armed faction. He controls the party, but he has no troops or weapons, etc., to fight them. The military leaders, who had been his chief supporters, have been purged without whom he could be toppled and communized with him.

Both the state department and the British foreign office are buzzing the information. Moscow called for this on changing of the guard in the Kremlin could be an historical coup d'etat of vital importance.

FRIENDS OF THE PAST—Marshal Zhukov was the Russian commander in Berlin when "Ike" served there as United States representative to the German delegation. Gen. James D. Doolittle, now retired, held the same post after Zhukov and General Eisenhower were transferred to other assignments.

Their personal relationship was excellent since they had both been members of the Comintern. Their political cooperation was marred only when Stalin, to the chagrin and irritation of his military deputies, interfered to disrupt agreements negotiated successfully by Zhukov.

Zhukov became so popular he was invited to visit the United States. The trip was vetoed by Stalin because he had become envious and fearful of the popularity of the hero of Stalingrad, the defender of Moscow and captor of Berlin held won by the Russian people.

STALIN FEARED RUSSIAN HEROES—Although he was too old to subdue the warlords during the war to revive the people's flagging patriotism at times, he virtually exiled them at the end of hostilities. Their names and faces disappeared from newspaper magazines, often unnoticed. He showed no respect for the popularly known as "the people's hero."

After Zhukov's defeat of Stalingrad, Stalin proclaimed himself generalissimo, and appeared in military uniform for the first time. He had to outshine the popular heroes of the Red Army, which included Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, a former political scientist, as his successor. Bulganin soon may disappear, for he is defeated by the army heads.

Zhukov was shunted to the unimportant post of minister of defense, while Bulganin became premier. When Stalin figured he had scored the military hierarchy, was Zhukov brought back as chief of staff?

REASON FOR DEDICATION—Principal reason behind the demotion of Zhukov and Sokolovsky was their friendliness with their American opposites, especially Eisenhower, McNamee, Gen. Lucius D. Clay, and Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, now underscored by the voters every two years. That means it.

When they hit the hustings the lawmakers just have a record to talk about—their own and their President's. The two may prove to be rather inseparable in voters' minds. That leaves a lot of heavy work to be achieved next year before fall campaigning.

Some astute observers have pointed out that an administration and its Congress need not be—indeed cannot be—simply by the volume of laws passed, as if there were some automatic trigger to the constant enactment of more legislation?

There is something to be said for just carrying out well-known laws already on the books, many of them growing out of the 1949 election. Many are trying to do it, if seldom that way.

NEW HOPE—Malenkov, of course, is aware of these developments. He has reported to the Kremlin of the Stalin army command and Soviet leadership. It is this factor, above all, which inspires new hope for permanently improved relations between Washington and Moscow.

He has also, through his other men within the Soviet empire, the two marshals know what a first-rate fighting machine the U. S. can build in a crisis.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

JAPANESE MILLS IN ALASKA

A group of 22 Japanese promoters decided to form an American corporation to establish a lumber mill and pulp plant in Alaska. On the capitalization, half would be supplied by Japanese investors, the Japanese and 20 per cent by Americans. The plant is expected to reach a capacity of 100,000 tons of pulp by its fourth year of operation. The pulp will supply paper and synthetic textile manufacturing companies in Japan and America. It is produced, estimated at three billion cubic feet annually, will be used in Japan.

The Japanese mill for Alaska has been the subject of a lot of discussion in the press opposite. At first it was reported the Japanese would import timber from the government, log it and ship logs or squared to Japan. The governor of Alaska, Frank Hartigan, who long was connected with the forest service, has now come out and reported to the legislature, even to the states, that such a processing plants should be established in Alaska. Evidently the Japanese are complying with this insistence.

The corporation, formed under American law, will be the operations conducted in Alaska. It is difficult to see how any legal objection can be interposed to the Japanese venture. American capital has gone abroad to the United States—seeking investment—and there are many corporations here whose foreign investment is far greater than ours.

Years ago our own lumbermen shipped millions of board feet of "Jap squares" to Japan—logs merely squared off with日本粗木 (Japanese) saws. These were cut up into boards in Japan, often with hand labor.

Japan has to go abroad for lumber now because its own forests are not adequate to meet the demand for wood growing population. Alaska probably is the closest place where large quantities of good timber. The pending venture is the culmination of many months of planning, and presumably is made with the understanding and approval of our own authorities—Orson Shattock (Salem).

IMPY KNOWS RULES

Three of the five Democratic county leaders in New York City pulled a bit of a surprise when they endorsed Mayor Vincent Impellitteri for reelection.

Impellitteri jolted all the regular leaders three years ago when he won as an independent candidate in rebellion against the organization. Nobody thought he had any friends any more.

But this sudden resurgence of interest in Impy doesn't mean the boys have discovered the makings of a great literary record in his three years of ribbon cutting.

It's just that they know what he will do nothing at all. His two strongest and most appealing rivals, on the Democratic side, might get out of hand. And there is nothing more threatening to a political leader than candidates who insist he will wield power according to his own lights.

With Impy there's no worry. He knows and accepts the age-old ground rules.

He controls the party, but he has no troops or weapons, etc., to fight them. His ride into the military leadership, however, has been a smooth one.

Senators Eye Ways to Halt Cattle Drops

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (UPI)—Senate from midwest and western states discussed with administration officials what might be done to halt a further drop in cattle numbers.

At a Capitol luncheon called by Senator Case, R., S. D., and Barren, R., Wyo., Wednesday, the senators were given a report.

Meat industry—agriculture department efforts to increase domestic consumption of meat.

Meat market run is on.

Possible use of more meat in diet and rehabilitation programs.

"We Entertained"

Homer Gruebler of the White House staff told the senators he had been asked to entertain in a situation and would do what was possible to help.

Harry Reed, in charge of the live cattle market, said the stock branders had sold millions of pounds of lean meat and hamburger would be bought for school lunch and similar programs. Most of the orders had been placed.

He said the first time beef was bought for school lunches.

Elmer Holmgren, in charge of the state's program for the mutual agency, told the senators, however, that he was not "optimistic" that much meat would be purchased under the 20-cent-a-pound plan.

Senators were asked to support South Korea.

Not Exported

The 21 million people in Korea are very illiterate, Holmgren said. "The extent to which meat might be used in Korea has not been determined," he said.

Case said the next 90 days would be critical as far as declining cattle prices are concerned and added:

"If the packers can cut prices, it'll be good."

He said the packers can cut prices to 10 cents a pound and sell it at day's market price, there will be selling.

Barratt said he has information from packers who are getting good fat cuts at from 4 to 6 cents a pound.

"I do not think the packers are operating at a loss—although it may be hard for us to make up," Barratt said.

Senator Dworshak, R., Ida., said price in retail stores "have not been able to hold up" and are down 10 percent this year.

Retail prices do not represent current prices in the field," Dworshak said.

Personal Income Hike Is Reported

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (UPI)—The nation's personal income reported today increased to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 284 billion dollars.

This made the annual rate of incomes for individuals $23 billion dollars in the first half of 1953, or even per cent higher than in the first half last year.

Personal income, however, declined in June to the April rate of $200,000,000, seasonally adjusted.

It was 3½ per cent, or nearly 17 million dollars, lower than the April farm income in June, 1952.

For the first six months of 1953, a department reported, farm income averaged an annual rate of $200,000,000, or $23 billion, 11 per cent, less than in the first six months of 1952.

S. to Report Gambling Chief

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (UPI)—The Justice department has ordered the portation to Italy of Joe Adams, a notorious gambling and vice chief case in the country.

The order was based on grounds Adams lacked a valid passport and had failed to appear before a grand jury in New York.

Adams made the announcement at news conference here.

He said he hoped his successor would take the time for an orderly turnover in command so he could return to the United States in September.

Witness Hits Lower Coast

Rate for Gas

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (UPI)—The president of Spokane Gas and Fuel company has voiced strong objections to the fact that eastern Washington should pay more for natural gas than the coast area.

The objection came from Frank A. Woodworth, during testimony before a committee hearing on application to deliver natural gas to the Pacific northwest.

Seeking commission approval are Westcoast Transmission company, Inc., Pacific Northwest Pipeline company and Northwest Natural Gas company. A fourth company, Trans-Northwest Gas company, would serve eastern Washington.

Notes Book

Alvin Kurtz, commission counsel, noted that Trans-Northwest proposed to sell natural gas for as little as 10 cents a thousand cu-feet in the inland areas—including

Spokane—which does Westcoast in western Washington and Oregon.

Both would get their gas from Westcoast's own pipeline firm,

Ltd., a Canadian pipeline firm.

When he asked Woodworth's position on this proposal, the Spokane executive replied:

"We don't like it. We think it should be a uniform rate over the entire area."

District Disadvantage

Woodworth said eastern Washington has been at a distinct disadvantage with respect to natural gas because of the difference in fuel costs and said the area "looks to gas to put us on an equal basis."

He said he understood the differential proposed would be about eight cents a thousand cubic feet.

Nation's Economy Generally Healthy; Experts See No Sign of Fade in 1953

Today's news: The business outlook is good in the following business firms.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (UPI)—The nation's economy generally healthy, government economists say, and no signs of belching this year by any serious extent—induced—by the Korean war.

In the all-outlook, they forecast that this year will be another record-breaker in production, employment, consumption, and investment.

The economic crystal ball is set for 1954. Business has been running at such high levels for so long the economists see a "readjustment"—that is, a downward trend.

They say, is likely to be the same soft spots have developed.

The automobile industry is inventories piling up although and is still high.

Businesses expect one big test—that businessmen and consumers might curtail spending in order to get themselves prepared for a big downturn and cheaper prices.

"It's too early to tell," they say,

but so far they have seen no signs of that psychological reaction.

One government adviser said:

"In examining the economy in detail, administrators are finding the signs of recovery are there."

Consumers now are used to the idea expounded by the administration that the trade is not going to hurt the economy.

of next year will be the fact that surplus in its national income tax cut ans for the annual "make-it-yourself-with-wool" contest sponsored by the Women's auxiliary of Idaho Wool Growers association were discussed by executive members at their semi-annual meeting Wednesday afternoon at home of Mrs. T. C. Bacon.

The contest was held in conjunction with the 32nd annual Idaho State Ram sale.

Entries for the contest must be made by Aug. 15, it was decided.

It was announced that a ram, sired by T. C. Baile, Muldoon, was auctioned at the sale with the proceeds going to the auxiliary-sponsored contest.

The business session was con-

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

In these days of accent on good looks, when it seems sometimes that every photograph is one broad smile, teeth are part of the smile. Parents don't have to be reminded that care of their children's teeth is of the utmost importance—teeth must be kept in good condition because they are a fine help and permanent ones that follow.

When babies are about 1 year old they usually have several teeth and mothers see that these are properly cleaned and cared for. When the first tooth is pulled out, however, it is important that these first teeth be kept in good condition because the dentist tell us, their health depends upon the permanence of those that follow.

A dentist should be asked to check the sixth-year molars. These will stay and they must be watched closely from the start. Our dental office which treated more than 4,000 children and the number of pupils we found with sound sixth-year molars were very few indeed. This ought to be a warning.

Summer vacation is a good time to check children's teeth. If it has not been done in the previous six months. If the teeth require straightening, braces should be applied and the orthodontist will tell why they need them. When they are shown pictures of people whose teeth are out of line, and told how the braces, the youngsters are likely to cooperate. If not, parents must be firm for the sake of their offspring.

Most children like sweets and they should have them in moderation. However, they would eat candy by the handful, so they need to be watched. Younsters should be admonished to clean their teeth thoroughly and frequently of any kind. It will do much to prevent the teeth from decay. Eating a crisp apple after eating something that is a little bit sour is a good idea.

Adults know how important good teeth are to our health and looks. Don't fail to instruct the children about the teeth and make sure the teeth are cleaned out. When you're a little older, they will appreciate the full value of their teeth.

Do you have a record of your child's development? A record book is valuable not only for the dentist but also for the physician.

We, the Women

By RUTH NELLETT

It's hard to believe a husband can get by with this kind of high-mindedness in 1952, but here's the story as the wife tells it: "When my husband first married, he did not understand what he was doing. He was the man of the house by doing all the banking, shopping and errands that were necessary. There weren't any bills to pay, so he didn't feel he had to have any responsibility other than cooking and doing the housework which I loved."

"A short time later he was in the bank trying to cash a check. He well on his own, not only with the banking, but I managed to save quite a sum which I banked jointly."

"Upon his return, he drew a new account which included what I had saved from working, also. Since then it has been a one-sided bank account in his name only. I get no allowance, no money for groceries or my personal use. I am not allowed to learn to drive the car, even though she drives it now. I am honored, she is spending her vacation with her grandparents."

Present were Mr. and Mrs. James H. Husted, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Tesse and children, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tyler, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Voss, Mr. and Mrs. William Marcs and Margaret Lewis. Lyn Carson and Margaret Kestrel, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Novak and daughter, Mrs. Pauline Renda, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Selby and son, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Travask and son, Mr. and Mrs. John Kohut and daughter, Livingston, Mont.

Lank Wonders if He Missed Bet in Allowing Dior to Live

BY HENRY McLEMORE

Wonder if I should have done that, and it probably would have been an un-Christian kick; there's no two ways about it.

But I have a few more years left, but I do say that you do say that sometimes the end justifies the means.

I've seen, in Paris
couple of years ago, I had a personal opinion of the brandishes of fashion Dior, or least to put it out of competition.

Measures
taken, good while.
A reason I never have been able to make clear, I ended myself in M. Dior's salon one noon watching him work on a gown. I think No. 114 was a two-toned hard-taffeta dirndl with mink galon was what drove my mind.
The coat was on the size of a fairly high flight of stairs, and I could have "accidentally" knocked him off balance and him fall into a chair in the middle of the Champs Elysees.

If the fall hadn't finished him good, it most certainly would have kept him idle, for a good while.

He has been thinking of M. Dior since, with his having come with a showing of dresses when he, if adopted, will but venture into the world again.

Now he's on their hangers ucked away in moth balls and paper.

Naturally, this will prove a drain on his coin purses, but it isn't solely the money that makes wonder if I want so tender-ized in not giving him a nudge that fool Dior has created a glory to which will attempt to glorify female knee.

The knee, though, you see, doesn't that skirts become shorter, so that girl's knees be as prominent as a bulldog's hind knees?

They're not even pretty in the liminary, let me quote, in part in a dictionary says about the idea of fat projecting into the uity of the joint below the patel-e posterior crucial ligaments.

Reserve
Gas Listed
Petitioner

TODAY, Aug. 6 (UPI)—A private gas company has filed an application with the Federal Power Commission to extend its authority to transport natural gas pipeline into the state of Idaho. It has an existing franchise in the state, six hundred billion cubic feet of gas.

more than three trillion cubic feet of this reserve is located in Colorado and New Mexico, according to company officials.

Over 20 exhibits by the company were made available to the San Juan River spokesman and, in particular, Skelly, Sinclair, and the Colorado Oil and Gas Association, member of the reserves, said, are from General Electric and Arthur B. Dill, York, and are in Colorado.

The pipeline was reviewed from 143 million dollars to 164 million dollars, increased cost of steel man-

Chief Explains Reasons for Failure to Halt Red Help

TODAY, Aug. 6 (UPI)—The general of the fifth army said today it was "impossible" for air force bombing and to stop "the flow" of red men from Manchuria to the front in Korea.

Samuel Anderson said he interviewed this way because the Chinese Communists had kind of a war fought their rules against an American enemy.

Anderson said Fifth air force planes cross the Yalu river from the United States to supply the front.

He used the backs of thousands of coolies, truckless mountains and their trucks-in-caves-by-day, he said, and moved by night.

"The Chinese have an immense gang of laborers," Anderson said.

Appeal Filed in Taxi License Bid

A notice of appeal to the state supreme court was filed in district court yesterday by J. Alfred O'Donnell concerning the taxi franchise of the city of Buhl, its mayor and council and the city clerk over the city's failure to issue O'Donnell a taxi license.

J. Alfred O'Donnell represents O'Donnell.

The appeal based on law and facts results from a decision by District Court Judge A. B. Johnson in which O'Donnell obtained a permanent writ of mandamus. The judge dismissed the action and granted the city $20 costs.

O'Donnell charged the city did not issue him a license last January. He asked that it be compelled to do so and that he be given damages and costs.

The application was not proper, but when it became proper on Feb. 4, a license was granted. Prior to that time O'Donnell came to his business with a written order pending the outcome of the case.

High Demand Gets Blame in Gains of Juice

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (UPI)—An agriculture department official said today the price of frozen orange juice concentrate this year at about 60,000,000 gallons.

The official said there is no immediate danger of an orange juice shortage because producers can draw on their cold storage stocks.

Built up in past years when the stocks totaled about 23,420,000 gallons at the end of June.

Introduced in 1948

Frozen orange juice was introduced in 1948. Department figures show it has increased steadily in popularity at a rate of about 85 million gallons a year, and that doesn't count the large volume used by hotels and restaurants.

Output Lower

The department estimates that total output of frozen orange juice concentrate this year at about 60,000,000 gallons.

The official said there is no immediate danger of an orange juice shortage because producers can draw on their cold storage stocks.

Built up in past years when the stocks totaled about 23,420,000 gallons at the end of June.

Introduced in 1948

Frozen orange juice was introduced in 1948. Department figures show it has increased steadily in popularity at a rate of about 85 million gallons a year, and that doesn't count it—and now is used more or less regularly by 30 per cent of the nation's families.

The average retail price in July was 18 cents per gallon compared with 15.5 cents a year earlier. Experts figure the price will continue inching up until supply catches up with demand.

Castleford Woman Awarded Auto for Dairy Month Contest

Castleford housewife who was the winner of the contest has been named winner of the Idaho State Dairy Month essay contest.

Mr. Frank H. Matthews, route 1, wife of Mr. Castleford retailer, who presented the award, said: "We are very pleased with the results of the contest."

Following is the winning essay:

"It is my opinion that everyone should support June Dairy month."

First, it forcibly calls our attention to the importance of all dairy products to our health. They are absolutely essential in our diet to maintain good health.

Second, by supporting Dairy month it encourages food manufacturers to produce better quality and a greater variety of products for distribution through our stores.

Third, if grocery stores are able to obtain good quality dairy products at reasonable prices, we are then in turn making jobs for people in our community.

Fourth, supporting Dairy month increases our farm income. We all know that a world of little business and few jobs in Idaho if it were not for our farming industry.

Since the production and marketing of dairy products is important to all of us, I believe every should support these products not only in June but every week of every month."
