Court Denies Two Motions In Crash Suit

Motions for non-suit and a mistrial were denied by District Judge Hugh Baker Thursday morning after attorneys for Charles Reeder, plaintiff in a civil suit against Gilbert and Tom Callen, raised his case.

Both motions were in the absence of the jury. E. E. Hays, an attorney for Tom Callen, asked the non-suit so far as his client is concerned because there was no evidence before the jury. Gilbert Callen, pilot of the plane which crashed, was an agent for the Reeder family.

Attorney for Gilbert Callen, asked a mistrial because of remarks by the judge in ruling on the other motions.

Brief statements on behalf of the defendants were made by Hays and Robert Eley, attorney for Callen.

Testimony concerned mechanical condition of the plane, the wreck of the plane, the flight, and the plane on his father's ranch. The pilot, Callen's ability as a pilot. Testimony was given by Merrill Pickett, former employe of Reeder, who hauled in wreckage; Charles Callen, former employe of Reeder; and Tom Callen, who was at the time of the crash, reported the wreckage to be a salvage value of $250. Cause of the crash was given as attempting a climbing loop stroke and attempting a turn.

Members of the jury at Oliver P. Moore, John W. Packer, Mrs. Willard McMaster, C. L. Fisher, Frank Henry, Ed Tolbert, Clyde Edminister, Mrs. Virginia Patch, Mrs. A. G. Pierce, G. W. Ridgeway, Mrs. W. J. Norton and Henry W. Lutz.

Faruk Treasures Will Be Auctioned

The company said almost all of the more fabulous Faruk items are small enough to fit into a suitcase. Among them is a three-line Tuscany stamp issued in 1860 and said to be the only one in the world.

Bothby said the auction compares with the sale of contents of the Versailles palace in 1793.

Official Hints Ike May Miss Funds Target

Weeks, however, was represented as firmly convinced that the "soft spots"—housing, farm machinery and a few others—were exceptions in an otherwise healthy economic picture.

The year 1953 will be marked on the economic charts as a record breaker. Weeks holds, and the country will enter 1954 at a high level of business activity.

Nevertheless, the government group awaited with interest reports requested of 12 council members in its many key industries, as a guide to government planning on credit and tax policy and to the need, if any, for more intensive anti-inflationary planning.

The council has created 20 years ago to provide the secretary of commerce with continuous access to business advice and opinion on economic problems. Its meetings invariably are secret, on the theory that otherwise businessmen will not discuss their affairs freely.

Details Given On Ike's 1954 Election Plan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower will plan for election of a Republican congress next year but he won't harmonize the country endorsing individual candidates.

Political advisers said today that the White House will not be letting a new conference yesterday be absolutely not campaign in state or congressional elections. . . While House intimates said Mr. Eisenhower's decision was motivated by two thoughts: . . . the prestige of his office at stake in any single district or state. . . The Republicans make a good record they won't need to ride his coat-tails to victory in the 1954 elections. . . Mr. Eisenhower feels his only role in the mid-term campaign should be as a national spokesman probably on radio and television, for a Republican victory to carry forward programs started in the first year of the administration. . . He emphatically ruled out any harassment or "wide stop" campaign such as former President Truman conducted in 1950. . . He said the President has no place in local political races and he had no intention of getting into party struggle in any district or state.

Psychological Warfare Work Said More Vital Than H-Bomb
 FT. BRAGG, N. C., Oct. 22—Psychological warfare and not the H-bomb will be "the big thing" in any eventual future armistice conflict between the west and communism, believes Capt. John F. Graham, former information officer at the Hunt re-education camp during World War II.
 "I now teach a course in psychological warfare school at Ft. Bragg."
 Graham is married to the former Madge Little, Eden. Their two children, Sheryl and Karen, have been spending the summer in Eden with Mrs. Graham's mother, Mrs. E. W. Little.
 "History has shown us repeatedly," he said, "that the struggle for men's minds has always been of utmost importance. The result of this struggle, in the long run, will be very more significant than any immediate tactical success attained through the use of super-weapons capable of achieving mass destruction."

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Editor's note: Ray Tucker is on vacation during which new columns are being contributed by prominent newspaper editors. Today's column is by Gerard Tetley, editor of the Ocean City, N. J., News.

BY GERARD TETLEY

Industrialists in the south recently have been troubled face-to-face with an anomalous situation. It relates to the south's two staple industries, cotton and textiles. It seems a situation involving our foreign trade and the now frequently heard punch-line—"trade-not-aid."

Within the past two weeks the paradoxical extremes have been laid before the people through the normal development of news.

One of the largest textile groups went on record recently expressing the fear that unless the Eisenhower administration protects the American textile industry by reviving a high protectionist tariff, and by implementing the "Buy-American-first" motto, the cotton soon will be on short-fiber time that they are now and that some manufacturers will be forced to the wall.

Behind this viewing-with-alarm is the determination of Lancashire to find an outlet for British-made fabrics in this country and the rehabilitation of the Japanese textile industry. This has been accomplished at the expense of the American taxpayer by providing cash subsidies to the Japanese, or through the variety of alphabetical organizations.

It is a fact that the Japanese are pouring in under the guise of a different title.

I heard!

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

If President Eisenhower has the moral decency and the moral courage to attack the racketeers preying on "labor" ever so much, he should give them the signal, he can drive the rackets out of the great set reforms in our history.

Some freak of psychology has dramatized the wickedness and greed of the American laborer.

Under Thurman Arnold was messaged around as assistant attorney-general in the department of justice, having at least one or two political concessions granted by the Roosevelt administration, with a program of prosecutions that mostly came to nothing.

He got some convictions, but most of them were reversed. The reverse included the fantastic "teamsters' case" where the supreme court held that when a highway robber climbed onto a truck at the Jersey City mouth of the tunnel to New York, demanding $10 to let the truck proceed, he became an employee just by saying "I want to drive your truck through the tunnel."

—Even if he was drunk or didn't know how to drive, he became an employee in the eyes of the supreme court, entitled to his pay if he just said:

"I want the job."

Thurman's perperations took him to Albany where he got an indictment against Tom and John McGraw and two other bums under the anti-kick-back law. All four were convicted with local 100, Thomas F. McGraw was the big shot and John had a job as an "stationary engineer" in the bureau of streets.

These McGraws and the other two bums apparently got either bad advice or cold feet because they all pleaded "guilty" and paid $10,000 each. That was a dumb mistake because a few months later some kind of a similar case stood trial, got appealed and won out.

John now runs a saloon and steak-house in a rough section of Albany; the other two bums are back-home in the country. The list furnished the public includes his father or his brother, John, down to Sing Sing to call on the title.

The list furnished the public includes it was brother John. There is another son, Danny, a fine, clean boy like his father before him, who is now financial secretary and assistant business agent of local 100.

Old Tom never lost his pulse, still has power in local 100, but John seems to have lost it. He is now in the state department. He really could have a whole sheet of A's in his school however, because, on past performances, he is an ABE A.P. man.

The anti-kick-back law is the one that is humorously supposed to punish the likes of Tom and John for extorting so-much-a-day from a working stiff for the privilege of working on the national deficit.

These four bums were supposed to have swiped $50,000 so they were still $10,000 in front after they paid their fines. But from other sources they could have stolen 10 times $40,000 in the busy jurisdiction of local 100.

BUT THAT'S DIFFERENT

The day hardly passes without prominent Britain, usually a member of the Labor party, urging the early admission of red China to the United Nations. This is an old story now. The only reason for bringing it up is that a situation has developed that puts the argument in a peculiar light.

The principal contention of the British and some others is that red China merits this recognition because the communist regime is in fact the master of all mainland China. In other words, the argument runs, it is simple realism to deal with the authority now in successful control of 450 million Chinese.

In theory, at least, this reasoning has force. But the American position is that we are not dealing with mere theory, but actuality. And the actuality is that red China for more than two years fought an aggressive war against the U. N. in Korea and is still giving major assistance to red rebels in the Indo-China War.

We do not believe the communist Chinese deserve consideration for U. N. membership so long as they are pursuing aggressive designs.

Many in the pro-recognition group profess to see in our stand a perverse sort of stubbornness. They picture their own position as the very essence of compelling logic. But now see what has happened. America has concluded an agreement with Spain for the use of air and naval bases. And the British Laborites, principally, deplore the arrangement on the ground that Spain's dictator, Generalissimo Franco, heads a distasteful fascist regime that we should do nothing to encourage.

The United States has no love for Franco, that is plain. But we realize that he, more perhaps than Mao in red China, has control of his country. Realistically, by the very tests the Laborites would have us apply to Mao, we must accept the Franco government.

Here it should be noted, however, that we are not inviting Spain into the U. N. or even into NATO. We are making a hard-headed deal for military bases we consider vital to our own and the west's security.

Yet Attlee and Bevan and their echoes in Europe ignore the eminently practical aspects of the Spanish deal. They do worse. They fly in the face of their own logic, arguing that rules which should apply to Mao ought not to apply to Franco.

They seem to be saying, furthermore, that there are different kinds of totalitarianisms, some you should recognize and some you should not. Differences indeed exist, but it would be nice to see the Laborite defenses of the view that Franco is a greater menace than Mao. Most world observers who have had first-hand knowledge of both Franco and communist regimes consider Franco a penny-ante operator alongside the reds. Surely he is no military threat.

The British Laborites thus are caught in a revealing contradiction. They have trumpeted against Franco so long in their domestic politics that they cannot reverse position. Logic therefore becomes for them a thing of mere convenient application: It happens to fit neatly with Britain's commercial hopes in the China area.

TOBACCO MEN'S FLEA

With the tobacco men the plea is in the extreme opposition. In the Tobacco Association of the United States, probably the most influential organization within the industry, there is a little one-line head on the United Kingdom and to other former customer countries is headed for extinction unless the administration makes it easy for America to get the United Kingdom, dollars and cents, hands with which to purchase leaf tobacco in the southern states.

The leaf exporters want a revision in customs duty on leaf tobacco. It is a two-way, not a one-way street and, that unless the dollar exchange situation can be improved in Britain, the bright future of the leaf of our southern states is in jeopardy. There is a sharp decline in British orders and production figures show Britain is encouraging production of tobacco in southern Rhodesia, where it can be found in a more plentiful supply.

Southern exporters are concerned chiefly because the African tobacco is similar in both texture and aroma to the leaf of our southern states. If the British finances became involved seriously, one-third of the southern crop was exported. While it is true that some of the leaf lands are good growing areas, the fact is that they are selling American leaf, the diversion of the British trade is viewed as serious.

TRAGIC LESSON FOR SCHOOLS

It goes without saying that the whole country feels a deep sympathy for the family of kidnaped and murdered Bobby Greenleaf of Kansas City.

At the same time, it is stricken with horror at the incredible wickedness of the crime. All decent citizens must hope that the full measure of justice is meted out to the perpetrators of this senseless, callous adventure in human abnormality.

We may express satisfaction that the FBI and the local and state police performed so ably in the case, capturing early on the tips and moving in fast to apprehend the abductors. Only an ignorant, stupid criminal would ever commit this crime today, since a quick examination of the FBI's record of arrests would discourage any shrewd mind.

But the police work in the end is little consolation to Bobby's bereaved family. The six-year-old son is dead. The rest of his death holds for the nation is this: Schools everywhere in the land should know now and hereafter never to release a child to the care of a custody of an unknown person until his identity has been established beyond all doubt. Had Bobby's school simply telephoned his name to check, his life would have been saved.

EARNINGS OF DEPENDENTS

At hearings on basic changes in our federal tax system, it was pointed out that the present law which limits earnings of dependents to $500 a year should be repealed. If the earnings are less than half the cost of care, those earnings, regardless of amount, should not constitute dependency. So runs the argument.

The principal purpose of the change of course, would be to allow a student to earn up to a full half of their way without becoming a tax burden to their parents.

The thousands of parents who have to curtail the earnings of their college-going children, even summer, will naturally applaud such a change. Many others will consider it more realistic than the present law, but surely all will admit that there has to be a limit somewhere.

It would seem that some other top limit of earnings should be substituted for the $500. Inflation has made $500 a very different thing than it was some years ago.

We cannot know just any amount of income for dependents is it less than half of the amount it costs to support them) because some youngsters cost their parents very considerable sums in a year. Any increase in the exemption should also entail some constructive reasons, and we cannot afford to tempt the wealthy to create fictitious "dependents" for their children.

The chief reason for concern in this area is that under present law parents sometimes lose exemption for a dependent at the very time when that dependent is making the parents most dependent on him—that is, when the dependent is going to college. Any liberalization of the law would help to meet this problem.—Milwaukee Journal.

This is all very nice, Mr. Postmaster General. But when are we going to get to the heart of the matter? What are you going to do about those awful chicken-scratching pens that litter every postoffice counter from coast to coast?

HEY—HOW 'BOUT THAT?

Postmaster General Summerfield is running around the country making a glowing picture of the postoffice of the future.

Locations set off from congested areas, adequate parking facilities, even drive-in service like some banks have these days.

This is all very nice, Mr. Postmaster General. But when are we going to get to the heart of the matter? What are you going to do about those awful chicken-scratching pens that litter every postoffice counter from coast to coast?

Solon Attacks Planned Hike In Benefit Tax

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Representative Curtis R. Nebr, said today a scheduled 30 per cent increase in social security taxes seems necessary to carry on the vast program of death and retirement benefits.

Nebr is chairman of a special social security subcommittee of the house ways and means committee. He plans hearings next month as part of a broad investigation of the present social security system.

This comment puts him at odds with Rep. Richard M. Simpson, R., Pa., another influential member of the subcommittee.

Nebr said it would be wise to freeze social security taxes at their present level.

Office Pay Levy Cut

Simpson said that for many persons in low income groups the scheduled social security tax increase would more than offset a 10 per cent reduction in personal income taxes also set for next year.

Nebr, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, added that a Republican administration would wish to provide the reduction of taxes for low-income groups while at the same time increasing taxes on the lower income groups.

Cancellation Asked

President Eisenhower asked the 1953 session of congress to cancel the scheduled social security tax increase. The lawmakers took no action on this, however, and the administration did not press the request.

Under present laws, the social security tax jumps automatically to 4 per cent from 3 per cent to 4 per cent a year. Half the tax is paid by the employer and half by the employee, so the individual rate would go up from 1 1/2 to 2 per cent a year.

The total increase could amount to roughly one billion dollars next year.

U. S. Treasury and Taxpayers Stand to Lose in Tax Revises

Editorial says the biggest tax problem confronting congress is the current fiscal year would add up to just about $1 billion dollars annually. The tax reductions and expenditures are estimated to cost four months of 1954 would more than offset these savings.

Under such conditions the budget deficit would run out of balance unless the administration came up with large sums of new tax revenue from the federal treasury.

Large cuts in spending or combined both methods to bring treasury income within the limits of expenditures.

The administration has said it wants new revenue—new taxes—added to the federal treasury. It says that where the individual taxpayer stands to lose some or all of what he may gain by the scheduled tax reductions, the government will benefit.

In some of the lower income tax brackets the one-half of one per cent increase in the employer share of social security taxes would offset the 10 per cent reduction in income tax. For example: A married couple with two dependents and an income of $3,000 before exemptions, is estimated by the treasury to owe $100 in income tax. The new social security tax hike would cost $180.

Next State tax and manufacturers excise tax.

Bishop Is Denied Auditorium's Use

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 22 (AP)—Representative Philip H. Burton, California Democrat, said he was denied the use of Bishop C. Cronley Arena, national leader of the Methodist church, because he is "too controversial a figure."

The American Civil Liberties Union of Southern California, which had planned to sponsor the bishop in an address at a Dec. 31 public meeting, yesterday made the denial public in a letter of protest to auditorium directors.

C. H. Brundage, general manager of the Auditorium company, confirmed the denial.

Rains Moving Slowly Along Drought Zone

By United Press

Heavy rains moved slowly across drought-parched farmlands today as the government promised an air force may lift to critical areas if it becomes necessary.

A band of rain stretching from South Dakota to northern Texas brought sorely-needed relief to farmers struck by one of the nation's worst dry spells.

However, the cool, wet air was not expected to move into the eastern half of the nation until this week-end. Continuing above normal temperatures were predicted in the meantime.

Possible government relief was revealed in a telegram from President Eisenhower to Sen. Stuart Symington, D. Mo.

The telegram said Agriculture Secretary James D. Eastland, state governors he has alerted the air force to bring help into the worst-stricken areas if necessary.

Stock Threatened

Symington commented that "a few hundred tons of hay delivered promptly" to Missouri alfalfa could save farmers' breeding and dairy herds.

The prolonged dry spell has already caused crop and livestock losses in the nation mounting into many millions. Water reserves fell in many communities as new wells and other emergency measures were ordered.

10-Year Term Set for Thefts

BLACKFOOT, Oct. 22 (AP)—Former Blackfoot City Treasurer Leon J. Chapman was sentenced to no more than 10 years in the Idaho penitentiary Wednesday on a charge of embezzling public funds.

Blackfoot District Judge Preston Thatcher ordered a judge of execution until next Tuesday, at which time Chapman is to show a doctor's certificate supporting his request for a 30-day stay.

Chapman, 70, pleaded guilty when arraigned Sept. 22. A $40,000 shortage in Blackfoot city funds was discovered two months ago while Chapman was in a Pocatello hospital.

He told city officials he had known for four years he would never be able to replace the missing money.

A bond of $4,000 was continued until expiration of the stay of execution.

LONDON, Oct. 22 (AP)—James J. Gosw, a mounted policeman, won a divorce from Janet Gosw on a cruelty charge, alleging that he kicked him.

She threw a poker at him. Broke a pot over his head. Stuck a knife in his back. "Had her eyes on living with this woman," commented Judge Seymour Karmalnik, "I have not the slightest doubt that he would not have escaped so easily next time."

Experts Say U. S. Depends on East For 21 Key Items

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Bureau of mines experts testified Wednesday the United States is dependent on sources outside the western hemisphere for at least part of its needs in 21 key minerals.

They emphasized this estimate was based on present technology and economic conditions.

If processes could be developed to use low-grade resources and if it were economically feasible to do so, the list could be cut to seven minerals, the witnesses said.

They appeared before an interior subcommittee headed by Senator Malone, R., Nev., which is looking into the mineral resources of the country and its neighbors in North and South America.

Malone contends the western hemisphere could become practically self-sufficient as to minerals in a new war. He challenged some of the testimony on the ground the estimate of reserves were too conservative.

Temper Boil At Hearing of Plan for Dam

IDAHO, Oct. 22—The hearing on the Snake River dam project in the Snake river valley today was marked by a heated exchange of views between the Snake River Power Co. and the Snake River Valley Citizens' Committee.

The Snake River Power Co. is planning a dam on the Snake river which would create a reservoir 10 miles long and 100 feet deep. The dam would generate 100,000 horsepower and provide irrigation water for 100,000 acres.

The Citizens' Committee is opposed to the dam because it would flood 10,000 acres of land and displace 1,000 people. They also fear that the dam would destroy the natural beauty of the Snake river valley.

The hearing was held in the Snake River Valley Chamber of Commerce. The Snake River Power Co. was represented by its president, J. H. Stevens. The Citizens' Committee was represented by its chairman, W. C. Glavin.

Accord Is Sought On Planning Talk

MUNSEAN, Korea, Oct. 22—United Nations sources said today the military committee communit hopes to settle tomorrow the arguments over where to hold the planning session for the Korean peace conference.

Committees want the meeting between the U. S. North Korea and China to be in Panmunjom, which is located in communist territory.

The U. N. however, apparently will not back down from its stand that the conference, scheduled to open Monday, must take place jointly on the truce demarcation line.

Joint MAO secretaries failed to reach an agreement on the site today, but will try again at a meeting tomorrow, sources here said. The meeting is being held in Panmunjom, a former communist town.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Many children when taken to a doctor's office behave so nervously that it makes it very difficult for the physician to examine them. There are a number of reasons for this and chief among them is that the doctor as well as the little patient, is of course, helpful if the physician is known to the family, including the child, then he is not feared by the youngster. He will welcome the child to his office, even though she may not be accompanied by one of her parents.

A little boy or girl who has never seen the physician, never met the white-clad nurse, cannot be expected to take such an experience in stride. It is no easy experience for many adults, and all the more frightening to a youngster.

Children should be treated from the time they can talk to look upon the doctor or the dentist as kindly persons. Youngsters will then in time make no fuss when their mouths are swabbed or their teeth are examined, their noses cleared and ears attended to. When a child is bathed according to his usual custom him to such examinations and then he will be less nervous when he is taken to the doctor or the dentist.

The physician, the dentist and the nurse play important roles in the lives of children. They should be willing to spare a little time for the children in their community. Of course, they are busy, it is, however, a duty of such practitioners to make things as easy as possible for the youngsters. As surely the prevention of an hysterical outburst is worthwhile. It is very difficult for a doctor or dentist to treat a very nervous child, especially one who is given to violent tantrums.

It is heartening to hear that many dentists are doing their part as a matter of course. Besides showing the children how they can turn on the water in the paper cup, the working of the big chair, the dentists also have picture books handy and also something for the young patients to carry home as a souvenir.

Children's teeth—like those of adults for that matter—are so important to their health that these conscientious dentists deserve our highest praise for their personal interest in the youngsters.

It is the duty of every parent to teach his children the truth about their dentist. A "see instruction," includes a list of books and pamphlets to help your child to do a job, send to write to him. See Life, New York 19, N. Y.

4 to 5 tablespoons cream or evaporated milk
3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted

Blend confectioners' sugar, Snowdrift and salt. Stir in vanilla and cream, then melted chocolate. Except for large 4-layer cake.

We say "Taste Snowdrift icing by itself." See how all the rich chocolate flavor is yours to enjoy. The light, delicate magic you get in Snowdrift comes from the skill of its makers, the Wesson Oil people, who give you shortening as fine and delicate as Wesson Oil itself. So all foods you bake and fry with Snowdrift taste delicious.

What's more—Snowdrift's creaminess makes the icing ideal for decorating, because it keeps spreading for days.

Langlie Plans Opposition to High Dam Bid

OLYMPIA, Oct. 21 (AP)—Gov. Arthur B. Langlie said last night the state of Washington will oppose the plan to build a high dam in the current hearing before the federal power commission on the Hells canyon damsite.

The chief executive said the state is taking no sides as to who shall develop the site—the Power company or the bureau of reclamation—but will present facts as he feels have not been brought out at the hearing to date.

Langlie made it clear, however, that the state's position will be against construction of the high-level dam proposed by the bureau and in favor of the three low-level dams advocated by Idaho Power.

"We are not arguing who develops the dam site, but we are against the high dam," Langlie said. "We feel that the development of the three low-level dams will give us much needed power more quickly, at lower costs and in such a way that it can be integrated with the proper development of the entire area."

Nobody Prays for Rain in One Kentucky Town; Threat Noted

HORSE CAVE, Ky., Oct. 22 (AP)—Nobody prays for rain here. It could turn the community's biggest problem into a killer.

Both were indicted later on charges of maintaining a common nuisance, but that was no help since the case is yet to be tried.

"We don't know what to do," says Mayor L. H. Vensel. "We've been safe enough in this dry weather, but we don't know what will happen if it ever rains."

Officials have been seeking a solution for four years, but who wants 40,000 gallons of arsenic trichloride? The chemicals, stored in large tanks along the Louisville and Nashville railroad, were left behind after the Shaw Oil company closed its offices.

There were no complaints until last summer, when leakage from one tank killed vegetation in an area almost a mile wide. Nearby residents in this community of 1,543 were told that moisture reacts on the chemicals by producing hydrochloric acid fumes and a worse by-product, arsenic oxide.

"The city tried to get rid of it but was turned down, even by the U. S. defense department in Washington, which explained it could not handle it."

"OLD-TIME COOKS knew buttermilk makes better pancakes...but they didn't know why; that buttermilk tenderizes the gluten in flour. I advise adding an egg to the batter, for real perfection in either pancakes or waffles."

Idaho's Share Of U. S. Taxes Is 219 Million

PORTLAND, Oct. 22.—The 1953-54 budget recently approved by congress will mean a payment to the federal government of some 219 million dollars by Idaho taxpayers.

This was brought out in a study of tax liabilities of the northwest states made by Post and office of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Idaho's per capita tax payment for fiscal 1954 is estimated at $70.44, the NAM report shows, including direct and indirect taxes, this is 10.2 percent of the average for the entire forty-person family.

Bigger item in the 1954 appropriation is $1 billion for the defense department, which will cost Idaho taxpayers upwards of $100,000,000, or $164.2 per capita.

Next in line is interest on the national debt. This item (6.3 billion for the nation) will cost Idahoans an estimated $10,480,000, or $24.5 per capita.

Other major items in the budget, in order of their cost to the "average Idaho resident," are: second independent offices (primarily veterans administration) $28.2 million; security administration (foreign aid), $24.7; treasury and postoffice, $18.1; labor, housing, education and sanitation, $10.9; first independent offices (primarily public housing), $11.5; others, $24.2.

These figures represent actual appropriations voted by the last session of congress. Actual expenditures will be higher than the $11 billion; it is expected by the bureau of the budget to reach $12.1 billion.

Idaho's share in this 72.1 billion dollar expenditure will be some 231 million dollars or a per capita bite of $57.60.

In other words, the NAM study points out, Idaho taxpayers will be paying $10 million dollars for 231 million dollars worth of federal government. The difference, 12 million dollars, will be added to the state's share in the national debt.

Russia Counts Loss for Meat, Milk, Wool Despite Big Plans

LONDON, Oct. 22.—From Moscow's own figures, it is clear that less meat, milk and wool are available for every Russian than could be had 25 years ago before Russian farms were collectivized.

One reason is a horrendous tax structure leaving many Russian farmers more off than they were in the days of serfdom. It is no wonder that Soviet leaders recently have announced broad concessions to the "Soviet peasants."

The figure on livestock in the USSR, announced by the newly elected first secretary of the Communist Party's Central Committee, Nikita Khrushchev, showed 66,000,000 cattle in the country today against 60,000,000 in 1928. Doves also were shown for sheep and goats, while the pig population had only a slight increase.

This loss of livestock is the more significant because in the 25 years from 1928 to 1953 the Soviet Union added significantly to its territory and population. In the years 1928-

Taber to Present Two Showings of Movies of Africa

Wallace Taber, world-traveling sportsman, photographer and lecturer, will present his feature-length color motion pictures of Africa Saturday and Sunday nights in the junior high school auditorium.

The program will begin at 8 p.m. Tickets are being sold in advance of the program at the Sport Shop, Detweiler Brothers, Inc., and Burplus Sales and by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, with sponsoring of Taber's appearances.

Although his films deal with hunting and nature life in Africa, Taber's experiences as a sportsman have touched nearly every sportsman's pulse. He recently returned from a three-month trek into the Yukon and northern Alaska. Among the trophies he bagged in the arctic region was a bull moose whose antlers spanned 70 inches.

for their owner and three days for themselves.

Soviet collective farmers have no landlords but they now work more than half their time for the Soviet government.

The rural population always has been most of the government in its role as tax-collector and exactor of other obligations. This is no less true today than it was 80 years ago.
