TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower has agreed to check out a check on the activities of a staff of order and check on any activities which might be in order for a Republican party, especially its leader representative in house and senate. It will be desired to see if there is anything in the line of Army-General Brownell's boisterous of the Harry Dexter White affair.

The special congressional election in the 24th California district was held last week. It was a close race that what the demagogues as "Whirligig" issues could lead easily to a Waterloo in this year's struggle for control of congress. A hostile legislative body also could wreck his administration as a result of a Democratic triumph in the 1956 Presidential contest.

POT SHOTS

TAKE TO THE HILLS, MEN!
Dear Pot Shots:
I hope your warning arrives in time. If you value your life, don't venture out on the streets come Wednesday. It may be a good idea. And if you do find yourself on the sidewalks of the business district when the hazards may be less. Above all, don't try to go north when everybody else is headed south and vice versa.

It's Turkey day, man!

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—If congress will just quietly ignore President Eisenhower and keep driving it can reveal all about the whole truth about the mysterious Sam Carp, Bridgeport, Conn. brother-in-law of the Soviet foreign minister.

Carp made a trip to Russia and came back loaded with money plus authority to spend 150 or 200 million dollars for industrial materials.

Carp was examined by the Senate Finance Committee three times during congressional session but the whole truth has not been told.

Last spring an occasion or pretext was found for a news story under a Bridgeport date-line wherein Carp was gratuitously given an opportunity to express his devotion to his country.

His loyalty has not been impugned. In fact, it has been praised. Mr. Carp suggested he ever was a member of the Communist party. But in another speech he admitted to being a classical greenhorn speaking an amusing dialect and possibly playing for laughs.

In one such passage he said: "To tell you the truth, I am subject to a quaking fit of giggles. I am Senator this was a house committee hearing I want to tell everybody in executive session. I am sorry I can't forget a thing, you know."

By contrast with this diarming presence, Carp has been a very successful trader among the Communist Yankees and is a rich man.

He was examined first in September, 1953. He was called back in September, 1954, but was examined in executive session. Carp was shown a few witnesses. This examination was stopped abruptly by a request telephoned from the office of Dean Acheson, then acting secretary of state.

John B. Wood, Georgia, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on affairs relations with Soviet Russia might be jeopardized.

Carp's wife, Molotov's wife, she visited his home in Bridgeport on a state visit to this country but was escorted by Soviet guards throughout the trip. Robert Stimpert, formerly chief investigator for the committee, stated that Acheson later demanded that the committee excuse Carp altogether.

This was when Blackbeard Wald, Harry Hopkins and Averell Harriman were in the billions of dollars worth of American machinery into the ill-disputed empire with the plain intention of building up Russia's industrial "potential" for her postwar development.

The third examination occurred a few weeks ago. This time Carp was called before the Senate committee in executive session. The examination was brief and not very searching. Here, again, the hearing was private.

The text of the second examination is not yet available. I received a copy from a member of congress fighting the Brian McMahon case, by Soviet agents.

Sight Alone Some

Sight Advantage

To see an egret cruise lifting above a sun-dappled river, rising and swooping capably with the air currents, and then suddenly spitting into a half-mile stream, crashing into the water with tremendous force, and lifting a foot-long spray of water from the spray securely hooked between its talons is nothing short of wonderful.

It can be equally exciting to see a small bluebird, with the color of deep turquoise, flash the length of a city block and pick up a tiny insect in front of you—and then, in a flash, give a fast wink with its third eyelid.

Both birds, of course, require perfect control and vision—a sharp telescopic vision humans do not have—along with that transparent, protective eyelid which protects their eyes in a dive.

Birds also have the edge on us in being able to change the size of their pupils at their own sweet will, controlling the amount of light admitted.

But birds have not lost the comical instinct, too. Take the comical looking of the robin's head as he studies the grass and a warbler, because the poor fellow's eyes are far around on the side of his head and he cannot bring both eyes to bear. At short range, he's one-eyed. Besides, he cannot move them around freely in his sockets.

As we can. For him, it's steep, long and squint.
Oh, if a bird wishes to walk, it moves its feet, it must keep its head. As a youngster, it must keep its head. In "circle an eye" in times, it's head wobble on its neck. Of the mammal, only primates.

Now a bird, too, sees colors. In very well in the red, green and yellow but in the blue, purple and in the violet not at all.
It's easy to test this. Cover your flashlight with blue paper and shine it on some scattered corn in a house. The glutins will pop to everything up to the very edge of the circle—the white inside, especially. But an owl would look at the very edge. Not so the blue paper, but like other birds, he sees the center better than we do.

OUR MORAL DISCIPLINE

Supreme Court Justice Jackson spoke out the other day against the force and the lawlessness that seem to loom so large in this present age.

He finds the phenomenon present both in the international and the domestic spheres of life. And what alarms him most is the prospect of that.

Our past, appalled by the magnitude and stubbornness of the manifestations of lawlessness, tend to sink into a suicidal fatalism that accepts violence, crime, injustice and misgovernment as part of the natural and changeless order of things.

On the international scene, Jackson is thinking of the great power struggle with the Soviet Union. He insists "no nation is more force-minded than our own."

He might well draw lively debate on that point, but he will get no on the proposition that this country is plagued by shocking crimes, including an unprecedented delinquency among young people.

The justice does not lay down an exhaustive list of the reasons for this situation. He dwells upon those he knows most about—that pertaining to the law.

"Shocking crimes are followed only by long-delayed punishment, or by none," he says. "The administration of our criminal law, from one cause or another, is a humiliation and a discredit to our profession and our country."

"And even civil justice is still delayed or denied, and often beyond the reach of deserving men and women."

Within this nation, as within others, Jackson sees a struggle for power between classes, creeds, races and ideologies that tends to "take on the same unbecoming character" found in the international struggle.

Justice Jackson is not exaggerating this unhappy condition. The crime files of the FBI and every police department in America support him. The headlines bear the story.

And so the nation has become, relatively, a great right-side of lawlessness, one cannot blame him for fearing the "tendency to skepticism as to whether a struggle for improvement—in the law—is worthwhile."

Jackson believes that a great responsibility rests upon the legal profession to improve the administration and enforcement of the criminal and civil law. There can be no question of this.

But, fundamentally, the responsibility falls upon all the agencies of our society if we are to re-establish sound moral and social disciplines. And that means the lawyers can do the job until they understand the many complex factors of modern living which account for the present breakdown.

FACTUAL INFORMATION—But it required presentation of factual evidence of an adverse life by two party experts, who had traversed the state in the past few days, from New Jersey, Wisconsin and in numerous municipal scraps. At first, "like" refused to credit the bad news.

It was only after the fact that the attorney general Brownell's unexpected bid against Harry Dexter White for the Wisconsin legislature, a warning of White's pro-communist affiliations and activities. Monday, 24 hours before the Nov. 9 voting, was a dramatic day around the White House.

MANY PERSONS QUESTIONED—The proposed reorganization and rejuvenation of the creating party machinery began when the attorney general, H. P. chairman of the party's congressional campaign committee, returned from a sentiment-sampling trip to the White House.

Although he talked with GOP state, county and local leaders, he did not confine his interviews to the White House. He questioned farmers, factory workers, service tradesmen.

Mrs. Carroll Keams, the politically keen wife of the attorney general, was seen at the White House in various income brackets. Simpson explained their joint days, and admitted it to Simpson's attorney, H. P. chairman of the party's congressional campaign committee, returned from a sentiment-sampling trip to the White House.

PATTERN OF GRIEVANCES—The Simpson-Keams report presented a pattern of grievances now well known because of the election setbacks, but they also have been in the White House in early October. The politics were sore over the mishandling of patronage. Farmers were kicking the government's feet. The women were pining over prevailing high retail prices. These were the highlights of the two pilgrims' finding.

But the list was not complete. They said their own checks contradicted Simpson and Keams. They would not believe "like" had slipped so easily as soon. Anybody who took "like's" own view that the program would command general approval, when and if it was enacted by the next congress.

And even civil justice is still delayed or denied, and often beyond the reach of deserving men and women."

QUESTIONS BROWNELL'S STRATEGY—"like" himself now questions the Brownell strategy. The assistant attorney general, the attorney general's long-time confidant, had been in the White House in early October. The politics were sore over the mishandling of patronage. Farmers were kicking the government's feet. The women were pining over prevailing high retail prices. These were the highlights of the two pilgrims' finding.

But the list was not complete. They said their own checks contradicted Simpson and Keams. They would not believe "like" had slipped so easily as soon. Anybody who took "like's" own view that the program would command general approval, when and if it was enacted by the next congress.

REACHING OUT THERE

Pol: Are you of colors in sickness? Or so it seems to me. Last spring, red had scarlet fever? That's red, bright as can be. Then two hours of red and scarlet fever? And the color of yellow, I think is just about as pretty as any shade of pig. When the doctor called, just sitting down to anyone having "red" as I said I have bronchitis; Oh, dear me!

Rupert Post

POOR THING

Someone ought to do something about the sale of the various stores to a person's current needs. When the battery in our cars dies, is anyone having "red" on same? No! And did you ever try to get along without a battery until it has to be replaced?

When we have to buy a month's supply of canned vegetables, is anyone having a sale on pin-stripe jeans? Jerish the thought!

And so it goes on everything. When we need it and have to buy it, no sale. But do you know what happens within about two days after we buy it? The price goes up. That's right! And at half price, too!

FATE OF TORTURE VICTIMS

What to do about the 36 American airmen who, under prolonged communist torture, were forced to make false confessions that the United States used germ warfare in Korea, poses one of the toughest problems in morale and human relations that ever confronted military authorities.

Decisions in these cases are complicated by the fact that another 40 airmen refused to make false affidavits even though at least five of them had been subjected to torture which would have been sufficient to force use out of the 36. There is little dispute over what should be done for those who did not give in to the inhuman communist treatment.

This included long imprisonment in holes in the ground, dirt and water, and hanging by hands and feet—and even the flogging of a firing squad. Any man who can withstand such barbarity is entitled to the country's highest decoration for bravery.

No one has proposed that medals be hung on the men who finally weakened and lied. These men may have suffered just as much as the men who did not give in. But they did not live up to the highest traditional standards of military honor.

Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia, ranking Democrat on the Senate army and navy committee, has written Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson that these men should be separated from the service with other than honorable discharge.

Retired Gen. George C. Kenney of the air force, taking a more charitable view, believes these men offer opportunity to resume normal military or civilian careers. Military authorities fear this course would set a bad precedent by pardoning disloyalty, providing a bad example for other military men who may be placed in similar circumstances in the future.

On the other side of the argument, the example is cited of the Civil war soldier who fell asleep at his post, but was wakened from a firing squad by President Lincoln's pardon.

"The records of the young aviators and marine officers were tortured into making false statements of germ warfare use makes judgment all the more difficult."

NEW YORK World-Telegram and Sun—Harry Truman last night delivered an analysis of a political speech. He lashed out at his critics, called names, made accusations, stayed firm to the end. But he left a lot of questions unanswered.

If Mr. Truman knew as early as February, 1946, that there was a danger why did he not write him a letter in April that year and another in 1947 decimating him, with notes for his "unfaltering efforts" which had led to a source of great pride to "Mr. Truman" didn't say.

How was it that, keeping persons identified with the communist apparatus in key government positions, and the fact that the Russian method in our country it has come to be known as McCarthyism. When Brownell accused Truman... he was in effect announcing that this desperate and fabled administration had succumbed to the despot.

Phoenix, Ariz., Chronicle—Harry Truman called Brownell a lot of names last night, but his own President didn't shed much light on the Harry Dexter White case. Mr. Truman lashed his TV and radio attacks with such phrases as "cheap political trickery," "lies," "shameful demagoguery," "false accusations," etc. He "poured it on" in the inimitable style of the White House. He left a lot of blanks in his account of the White case.

Since Mr. Truman's TV address was not an examination of the communist, we prepare to believe that the most recent explanation of why he promoted White; i.e. to keep him under surveillance. It would be interesting to know whether or not the communists or spies were given similar treatment under the fair deal...

TOPICA, Kans., State Journal—In his next speech he will like to hear Mr. Truman discuss (White) the squib by President Lincoln's pardon. Meanwhile, the reader gets hold of a copy of "White" turn to the index under Harry Dexter White. We see for himself. We guarantee an absorbing evening.

TOPICA, Kans., Daily Capital—The Truman explanation that any unusual action with regard to White appointment would have alerted all the other spies Mr. Truman's crypt denials, and his cries of patriotism are untenable as evidence in the court of public opinion.

Motel Parley Refuses High Dam Backing

Salt canyon project. Noting that Washington has offered no opposition to federal projects in Washington, he said the state opposed the Idaho canyon dam only because it would be built in Idaho instead of at another site farther down stream in Washington.

It was the consensus of the more than 40 members at the convention, however, that the issue was too controversial for an organization holding its first formal convention, leading its first formal convention, which only Monday adopted a con- sultation only Monday adopted a con- sultation.

As other officers for next year, the association chose, by approval of the recommendations of the nominating committee, H. S. Hale, Pocatello, executive vice president, and Dr. Hoyt Woolley, Idaho Falls, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Lorenzo Davis, Ashlton; Wally Powers and V. M. Patrick, both Twin Falls; J. C. Hammond, Rupert; Charles Oden, Parris Clark and Bill Sullivan, all Idaho Falls, and Joe Davis, Blackfoot, were named directors.

The group chose six other vice presidents to direct association busi- nesses in separate areas of the state. They include J. H. Probe Opened in Deaths of 15 Men as Plane Hits Paratroops

PT. BRAGG, N. C., Nov. 18 (AP)—An air force board today investigated the crash of a C-119 "Flying Boxcar" which slammed through a mass drop of hundreds of paratroopers, killing 15 men and injuring 11. All but one of the planes "nick- ed" 40 paratroopers leaped to safety yesterday as the big craft whipped in a tight turn to avoid billowing parachutes and then plunged to earth.

The pilot heroically stayed with his plane to guide it away from the jump. He, three crew members and one paratrooper died as the C-119 plowed into a pine forest and burned. Ten paratroopers were killed by the huge plane as it plunged to earth.

The air force ordered a board of inquiry from Lawton air force base, Calif., here to investigate the cause of the crash.

The sudden tragedy came as 20 "Flying Boxcars" began mass drop maneuvers over a drop zone in a remote area of this huge military base. Each plane carried 40 members of the famed 82nd airborne division and the XVIII corps.

Witnesses said the ill-fated plane seemed to lose speed and drop out of the formation, cutting through the paratroopers as they spilled from the planes ahead.

The greatest Gasoline Development in 31 years

TCP

- A gasoline additive discovered by Shell (patent applied for).
- Developed by Shell to meet a critical military need.
- Proved by 5 years of Shell research.
- Gives gasoline remarkable new properties—stops pre-ignition and spark plug misfiring due to engine deposits.
- The only additive, thoroughly proved, which stops the major cause of power and fuel waste in your car.
- Gives up to 15% more power, 150% increase in spark plug life, plus extra mileage.

YOUR GUARANTEE

Shell's discovery of TCP additive has given Shell Premium Gasoline the greatest competitive advantage that any gasoline ever had in the history of the petroleum industry.

Shell scientists worked over 5 years to perfect the 'know how' essential to the proper use of TCP additive in automotive gasoline. (Originally Shell developed TCP for military aviation.) Only Shell, and its authorized licensee—the Continental Oil Company—have the full knowledge on the proper use of TCP additive. Only Shell Premium Gasoline and Conoco Super Gasoline have TCP.

The trademark TCP is your guarantee that you will get the full benefits of the greatest gasoline development in 31 years.

THE MAJOR CAUSE of power loss, affecting the majority of cars on the road today, is now known. And Shell Research has overcome it.

Certain chemical deposits constantly accumulate in the combustion chambers and on the spark plugs. In the combustion chambers these deposits become red hot and ignite the fuel-air mixture prematurely. This results in what engineers refer to as "wild ping"—a most severe form of knock.

Similar deposits also build up on spark plugs and cause them to short-circuit.

TCP* additive, blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, fireproofs these deposits to stop pre-ignition. It changes the character of the deposits to eliminate the short-circuiting of spark plugs.

Recognized as the most important gasoline advance since tetraethyl lead, Shell Premium with TCP additive begins its work with the first tankful. By the time you've finished your second, you'll feel your engine has had a tune-up. Since the deposits are constantly accumulating, continued use of Shell Premium with TCP is the only way to maintain these benefits.

TCP additive, blended into Shell Premium, accomplishes what no other gasoline additive has been able to do.

Revision on Water Laws Called Vital

PULLMAN, Wash. Nov. 18 (AP)—An important problem of the next congress will be to rewrite reclamation and water laws to develop a comprehensive water policy for the nation, the Washington State Farm Bureau was told Tuesday.

The speaker was Charles C. Butler, research assistant to the American Farm Bureau. He recommended that steps toward a water policy be taken by the next congress.

Compacts authorizing interstate compact for development of water resources, such as the Columbia river and its tributaries.

Establishment by each state of a commission to handle interstate reclamation, power and other water problems.

Establishment of a national review board to receive recommendations of compact groups and make recommendations to congress.

U. S. Cash Aid

Legislation to allow the federal government to transfer federal funds to the states in payment for "non-reimbursable benefits" growing out of power, reclamation and other projects.

Butler also urged that all federal projects be transferred as rapidly as possible to regional, state or local agencies.

Traders Urge Tariff Repeal, Wool Support

BOSTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Repeal of duties on wool and substitution of direct government support payments to the American growers based on the value of wool was proposed Tuesday by the president of the Boston Wool Trade Association at the annual meeting of the sick American wool industry back to sound health.

President Ernest Bentley told the annual meeting of the Boston dealers, who handle the bulk of the nation's wool trade, that lamb tariffs intended to protect American wool growers now are pyramidical in processing and retail sales until they cost the American wooling public at least 240 million dollars.

—He estimated this price of almost a quarter of a billion dollars to the ultimate consumer actually yields only 30 million dollars in protection to the American growers.

Furthermore, he said, the tariff price added to the cost of imported raw wool, which is 66 to 75 per cent of the wool used in this country, make it harder for American wool-textile manufacturers to meet foreign competition.

He pointed out that 123 American mill employing some 45,000 workers have closed since Jan. 1.

Bonus Payments For A-Ors High

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. Nov. 18 (AP)—Bonus payments totaling more than 2 1/2 million dollars have been paid uranium miners for ore produced from eligible properties since the bonus program was effected March 1, 1951.

Manager Sheldon P. Wimpson of the Grand Junction operations office of the Atomic Energy Commission said Tuesday the bonus payments are being made at the approximate rate of $125,000 a month. Provisions of the program recently were extended through Feb. 28, 1953.

The bonus program was established to stimulate private industry to locate new deposits of uranium ore and to defray part of the initial cost of putting a mine into production.

The estimated value of minerals in the waters of the West was more than a trillion dollars.

Backing Gain On Dam Seen

PORTLAND, Nov. 18 (AP)—Clyde T. Pitt, executive manager of the National Rural Electrification Cooperative association, said Tuesday prospects for a big multi-purpose dam in Hells canyon were improving.

Here to speak at the annual meeting of the Pacific Supply cooperative, Pitt told reporters he believed sentiment in favor of a federal dam on the Snake river was improving.

"We are helping a little bit by telling the true story of Idaho Power company all over America," Pitt said.

Idaho Power has applied for a permit to build a series of three for dam on the Snake.

Jerry Voorhies, Chicago, manager of the Cooperative League of America, told the meeting farmers need a federal dam at Hells canyon so phosphate fertilizer could be manufactured at lower rates.

Not Always

BOISE, Nov. 18 (UP)—Hubbands don't always mean what they say, a frightened wife discovered with the help of the Ada county sheriff's office.

The woman came to the office Monday night and told Deputy Ed Young of a quarrel with her husband as a result of her discovery that he had threatened to "shoot the first one who came in the door" if she brought the law back.

The law—in the person of Young—went behind the door, the husband was reading a paper. Young asked where the gun was. The husband calmly told him and Young took the gun with him.

Veterans Advised About New Rules

Veterans seeking hospitalization for 100-percent connected ailments are now required to file financial statements with the application.

According to Arnold Helweg, veterans administration representative here, the new plan is designed to protect applicants and reduce hospitalization expenses.

The financial information will not be used to determine eligibility for hospitalization. The law provides the statement of the applicant must be signed by a sufficient evidence of inability to pay.

However, it is intended to focus the applicant's attention on his financial status and thereby give him a clearer understanding of the provision of signing the bath of inability to pay.

Papers Filed for Landau's Estate

World's Most Powerful Radio Transmitter Starts Navy Task

JIM CREEK, Wash., Nov. 18 (UP)—"Radio Jim Creek," the most powerful radio transmitter ever built, goes into service for the United States navy today.

It is the largest, except by an equally powerful energy transmitter, the 120,000-watt transmitter can transmit operational messages in Morse code or teletypewriter signals to all navy ships, even submerged submarines, in the seven seas.

The keys of the world's most powerful transmitter were turned over to Adm. Robert B. Carney, chief of naval operations, by Brig.-Gen. David Barnoff.

Barnoff is chairman of the board of directors of Radio Corporation of America, designers and builders of the 14 million dollar transmitter.

In a speech before keying the first worldwide message, Barnoff pointed out that Marconi's first wireless message transmitted 55 years ago carried only across his garden in Italy. Signals from "Big Jim" span the whole world at the speed of light in approximately one-seventh of a second.

It took the navy and RCA six years to design, build and install the new transmitter, which is still in the horse and buggy era of electronic development.

He predicted television would be made worldwide in scope and "it is not too difficult to visualize the day when the electron will carry light as well as sound to our straggled forces around the world."

Nine Heirs Gain Shares of Estate

Nine heirs of Jesse A. Griffith, who died Feb. 6, filed their claims to the estate, according to a decree of distribution filed in district court Tuesday.

The estate includes $5,013 in cash in a Filer bank.

The heirs and the amounts they receive are two brothers, John A. Griffith and J. Griffith, and two sisters, Alice G. Davis and Irene M. Smith, each $335; a niece, Genevieve Pulson, $417.25; and a nephew, J. Dwight Griffith, $417.25.

Rayborn, Rayborn and Kramer represented the executor of the estate, George McGregor.

The new citizens are Mrs. Luther Glenn (Hazel) Claiborne, route 2, Jendusa, Ark.; John William (Norma) Wellman, 121 Van Buren street, formerly Canada; and Spanish-born Victor Miranda, 401 Second avenue east.

The applicants were examined by C. J. Bellantone and instructed on their rights as American citizens by Judge Beckwith. Gerald Winkler, chairman of the American committee of Twin Falls post No. 7, American Legion, welcomed the new citizens on behalf of the Legion and presented an American flag to each of them.

May Have to Bother You From Time to Time

Officials of Chiang Kai-shek's regime have made no public demands for assurances and have asked no embarrassing questions. They are not likely to do so in the near future.

The one great hope and dream of the Chinese nationalists is that the United States will support and finance their fight back to the China mainland.

Three big fears are increasingly besetting that hope:

1. That red China will be granted a United Nations seat.
2. That the United States has no hidden intention of aiding Chiang Kai-shek's armies in a mainland push.
3. That the United States may drastically cut economic aid to this regime, although continuing military assistance.

Foremost of those fears is that red China will win recognition as the government of all China through acceptance as a U. N. member.

To nationalists China's mind recognition of the communists as the rightful owners of the Chinese mainland would finish the cause of Chiang Kai-shek.

Nationalist leaders refuse to believe the U. S. would agree to handing the reds such a victory. They feel the U. S. probably would be restrained by reports of increasing internal troubles inside red

Nationalist Chinese Concern Over U. S. Policy Is Growing

Design for Atomic Power

A simplified explanation of how the atomic power plant for the nation's first atom-powered sub will operate is offered by this model "mock-up" designed by Westinghouse, and placed on display in New York. When installed in the USS Nautilus, heat generated by splitting of the atom will be transmitted by fluid in a sealed, coiled pipe, to a "heat exchanger," or boiler. Steam will be formed in the water-filled boiler, pass through piping to the steam turbine, which will drive an electric generator to power the sub's electric motors. Spent steam will be condensed, pumped back to the heat exchanger. Demonstrating the power plant is Robert Dollison.

As Idaho produce supper was Saturday night preceding the meeting, Tom Curtis reported on the same of luminous tape and Mrs. Gabriel reported that 58 samples of water have been tested by the committee in connection with the Grange. Results of the tests have not been returned from the state, she said.

The resolution committee, P. C. Wentworth, Earl Vinson and Ward White, reported on a resolution on the subject of paying Pomona dues. The resolution will be presented to the state Grange.

Budge Blasts Truman Role In White Case

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 18 (Special)—Rep. Hiram Budge, Idaho Republican, has hurled a charge of dereliction of duty at former President Truman on the communitarianism.

"Truman, for policy or other reasons which I know nothing of, has been guilty of a dereliction of duty in not moving the people like Harry Dexter White from government duty when his attention was called to it so forcefully by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover," he asserted.

"I listened to the speech of Truman Monday night. The crucial thing that had not been answered was whether or not the FBI was consulted with or did consent to President Truman's statement that when his attention was called to it so forcefully by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, he asserted."

"I am very happy that Hoover has been heard from. He is one man who has a responsibility that is not shared by anyone else. Over the years, too, he has kept himself above politics."

U-N Panel Votes For Private Talk
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 18.—The United Nations main political committee voted 8-0 with five abstentions today for private big power talks on disarmament.

The Soviet bloc abstained and Burma did not participate in the vote.

Refusal of Russia and its satellites to go along with a resolution sponsored by 14 western-aligned powers was a rare united front charge of hypocrisy for such a record. U.N. diplomats had delayed the vote since last Saturday.

New Plan on Peace Posed By Churchill

LONDON, Nov. 18 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill may present to President Roosevelt at Bermuda a bold new plan to keep the peace by agreeing to an "armed truce" with the Soviet Union, authoritative sources said today.

Churchill considers the idea a first step toward reducing international tension gradually, since his wish to ease the pressure with bolder diplomatic strokes obviously has failed, the sources said.

Non-Aggression Pledge

The "armed truce" would be backed by broad mutual non-aggression agreements between east and west, according to the informants.

"The truce would leave open all disputed problems and frontier issues until it is indicated they may be settled amicably."

That a truce with the Soviets would leave some unsettled issues but would guard against their heating up enough to kindle war.

Gifts "Breacher"

The west would remain armed for defense but gain a "breacher" in the form of concrete arrangements for settlements with the Russians.

Churchill's new plan would replace earlier ideas for a quick all-out settlement of the cold war. The informants said he is sharing that plan with reluctance because of insurmountable obstacles.

Dedication for Building Held

HANSEN, Nov. 18—Alton B. Jones, state superintendent of public instruction, spoke Sunday afternoon at the dedication of the new school. He left of the progress in education in the state since 1918 when he came to Idaho.

The Rev. M. J. Morchous, pastor of the Assembly of God church, gave the invocation. The school band, under the direction of Ronald Kotocid, played several numbers.

W. D. Wiseman, member of the school board of trustees, introduced board members serving at the time of the consolidation of the Hansen and Kestler districts until the present time.

They were W. O. Blanger, A. J. Prior, Blake Froehlich, Albert Frann, Charles Collier, Clarence Hollifield, Lester Naylor, Lauren McFarland, W. R. Munnich, Quincy Wash, Howard Hill, Shoshone, S. A. Walton, George Crockett, Lyle Jones and Ted Crockett.

The present school board includes Von Nebeker, Lena Bohm, Clarence Blanger, Ferris Larsen and Wiseman.

The girls' chorus also under the direction of Kotocid, sang several selections.

Clarence Blanger, board member, presented the school. Sup. Jones and Hopwood accepted it on behalf of the school faculty and Clark Bedow accepted it as representing of the student body. The Rev. R. L. Wisdom, pastor of the Calvinist Baptist church, gave the benediction.

82 Entertained at White House Fete

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhauer entertained nine justices of the supreme court and 73 other prominent members of Washington society at a state dinner last night.

The guest list for the second formal dinner of the White House social season included three of the principals in the Harry Dexter White controversy: Attorney-General Brownell, FBI Director Hoover and Supreme Court Justice Clark. Shortly before the dinner, White House Press Secretary James O. Hagerly, in a several of former political announcements that reporters attending the function would not be allowed to write eyewitness stories about it.

Hagerly told newsmen the President and first lady would welcome news personnel as guests but not as reporters.

Service Planned

SHOESHONE, Nov. 18—Community Thanksgiving services will be held at 10:30 a. m. Nov. 20 at the Shoeshone Methodist church and the Rev. Frank Troy, Jerome and Shoeshone Episcopal rectors, will speak.

Passive Resistance of Workers In Satellite Nations Is Favored

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 18 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the free world should encourage workers behind the iron curtain to use passive resistance rather than violence against their communist bosses.

"It is not necessary, nor is it desirable, that we should try to foment violent revolution," Dulles said. "That would mean only exposure and massacre of those who most cherish freedom. Non-violent methods can be more efficacious."

In a speech at the CIO constitutional convention, Dulles also declared Russia rejected western bids for European peace talks because of fear.

"They dare not admit of a prospect of greater liberty anywhere behind the iron curtain," he said. "So they slammed the door on a European conference and started diversionary talk about our being buddies with aggressor China."

Dulles spoke at the convention prepared to adopt a resolution condemning an "almost complete demoralization" of labor influence in the foreign operations administration and other programs. The resolution, offered by top CIO leaders charged that "the labor division in the foreign operations administration has been all but scuttled."

Dewey's political leadership was handed an apparent smashing blow yesterday when the Republican senate majority defied the governor's order to remove Wicks because of his visits to labor extortionist Joseph S. (Joe) Fay at Sing Sing prison.

At a closed conference late yesterday, the 31 GOP senators merely appointed a committee to work out a compromise with Wicks for some future date.

20-Year-Old Put On "Wanted" List

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 (AP)—The FBI today placed a 20-year-old escaped convict on its list of 10 most wanted fugitives.

He is Thomas J. Massingale, a native of Washita county, Okla. He has been sought since last May when he and two confederates broke out of the Kansas state industrial reformatory at Hutchinson, Kans., kidnaping a guard as hostage.

The two confederates were captured later in New Mexico, but Massingale has evaded arrest. The FBI said the shift sentences handed out to Massingale's two cohorts, ranging up to 60 years on kidnapping charges, "may heighten his desperation to avoid capture at all cost."
