Plans Reported to Utilize Hospital in Alcoholism Cures

WENDELL, Dec. 3—The old St. Valentine's hospital here, vacant since March 18, 1952, will become a rehabilitation center for alcoholics on Dec. 28 if negotiations between Dr. Carl O'Hollaren, Seattle, and the Sisters of St. Benedict, Jerome, are completed, Sister M. Martina, OSB, Jerome, reported Thursday.

Sister Martina said Dr. O'Hollaren has been negotiating with the Sisters of St. Benedict for about three weeks and that on Saturday he said he would purchase the building and take possession on Dec. 28.

Dr. O'Hollaren and other doctors in Seattle operate the Shadel rehabilitation center for alcoholics in Seattle and have found that their present facilities are too small and too distant for some of their patients.

Taylor Clark, Boise, rehabilitation counselor for Dr. O'Hollaren in Idaho, also has had a part in the selection of the old hospital here as a site for a rehabilitation center in Idaho.

The hospital at Wendell was occupied by the Sisters of St. Benedict for 28 years. They moved to Jerome when the new St. Benedict's hospital was finished.

Sister Martina said that when St. Valentine's was operated as a hospital it had a 34-bed capacity, but said rooms are 14 rooms on each of the three floors. The building also has an elevator in it, a laundry and a kitchen. She said that even though the building has been vacant, the property has been under the constant supervision of a caretaker.

Probate Judge James P. Gossett, Gooding, who worked with Dr. O'Hollaren and Clark in the negotiations for the building, said Dr. O'Hollaren plans to use the Wendell building as an evaluation center to determine if persons actually are alcoholics.

Judge Gossett also said that in the treatment of alcoholism, a number of return trips to the rehabilitation center are required. The center at Wendell will be centrally located for all of Idaho, eastern Oregon and Washington, western Wyoming and Montana, and northern Nevada and Utah, Judge Gossett said.

Farmer Goal Change Need Cited at Meet

BOISE, Dec. 3 (AP)—American farmers and other agencies must adjust marketing and consumption instead of production, Ray V. Denman, Pocatello, a director of the American Farm Bureau federation, said today.

Denman told the opening session of the annual meeting of the Idaho Farm Bureau federation "surpluses are trouble today and we have got something about it."

Panel Sessions

Denman spoke at a brief general session. Delegates then broke up into individual panels on organization, livestock, dairying, potatoes, feed crops and irrigation.

Discussing the surplus of butter, Karl Brandon of Hobson's "farm forecast," Spokesman, Wash., urged the dairy section to build their industry on whole milk instead of "the thing on which it is weakest—butter."

Water Code Slow

On the irrigation section, Idaho Reclamation Engineer Mark R. Kulp said administration of the new underground water code is proceeding at a slow pace. He said licensing of water drillers began last July 1 and that "we are getting a satisfactory number of well logs."

Discussion of potato diseases was led by Rex Blodgett of the Idaho Potato Growers association, Idaho Falls, in a panel meeting chairmanned by Lloyd Mickleson, also of Idaho Falls.

Feeder Talks

James Myers, Sugar City, explained to the livestock panel his experience in feeding 94 steers.

Dr. Warren Pope of the University of Idaho spoke on wheat varieties and control of smut at the section on field crops.

Among 150 resolutions submitted by local farm groups and boiled down to 38 or 45 by the federation were key proposals dealing with farm price supports, free trade and farm development in the north west. They will come up for a vote today.

Short Line Is Reported for License Sale

Only about 30 persons were in line at the start of Thursday morning as the sale of 1954 license plates continued in the county assessor's office Only more than 2,700 passenger license plates had been sold by noon. Deputies reported the line was long when the office opened, but no longer at midmorning and about 10 persons were in line at noon. A steady flow of customers were reported Wednesday.

The early rush for licenses seems to be heavier this year than at the same time last year, Assessor Cliff Thompson noted. However, about 15,000 passenger cars must be licensed by Dec. 31.

Sales of truck and trailer plates are up in comparison with this time a year ago, the assessor observed.

Soil Service's 'Father' Hits Benson Shift

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Hugh H. Bennett, 72-year-old "father of soil conservation," charged today that Agriculture Secretary Benson has "thrown a monkey wrench into the nation's conservation program."

He opposed Benson's Nov. 2 reorganization of the soil conservation service in testimony prepared for a house subcommittee on government operations.

Benson and Assistant Secretary J. Earl Coke testified in defense of the plan. They said it would provide better service to farm families.

Hearings Open

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. George H. Bender, R., O., opened hearings to air the dispute over the controversial reorganization. A major feature of the plan was the abolition of seven regional CSC offices and the transfer of their duties to state offices.

Bennett, headed the service from the time it was set up in 1935 until his retirement two years ago. He said Benson's reshuffling "could add up to the most serious blow to agricultural advancement of anything that has happened during my nearly 50 years of technical service with the government."

"Streamline" Move

Benson said in a brief opening statement his objective was to "streamline" the department to provide better overall services for farm families.

"We feel ready," he said, "to administer the farm programs which our current-day agriculture requires."

State Bag Limit on Fish, Restrictions On Bait Proposed at Conference Here

State fish and game department personnel of the valley district made recommendations Thursday morning to the department that a statewide bag limit of 15 fish or seven pounds and one fish be established for 1954 and that all types of fish, dead or alive, be prohibited as fishing bait in all waters of the state.

The 25 department employes of district No. 4 were meeting Thursday with Ross Leonard, the new state fish and game director, and other department chiefs at the Idaho Power company auditorium.

Drafting a series of recommendations for the 1954 fishing season program, the conservation officers also suggested the department open Dolman island on the Snake river in Hagerman valley to fishing.

The recommendation on the elimination of fish as bait is designed primarily to eliminate the use of minnows. It is regarded as a step toward curbing the trash fish problem. Although as a rule minnows used for bait are dead, they are often cast into streams alive and develop into trash fish.

Leonard and Hawley Hill, fourth district supervisor, were presiding at the meeting. Recommendations on fishing season were being received by James C. Simpson, state fish culturist.

Hill noted "These suggestions by personnel of this area will be incorporated with those from officers in the other four districts of the state and with recommendations from Idaho sportsmen organization for final consideration by the state fish and game commission at its January meeting."

Other recommendations to come out of the morning session were:

1. That the department ask the bureau of reclamation and the U. S. fish and wildlife service to change their regulations to provide access to the area along Snake river below Minidoka dam and permit year-around fishing of all species in this area.

2. Big Wood river and its diverted waters downstream from the Richfield first diversion dam (including the Richfield canal) to the state highway 25 bridge be opened for year-around fishing of all species.

3. Roseworth reservoir be closed to fishing next year. Reservoir waters were recently poisoned to eliminate trash fish.

4. All shipping permits on fish be valid only for a five or 10-day period. In the past there has been no expiration date on shipping permits.

5. Tourist five-day fishing per-

Resolution on War Charges OK'd by U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 3 (UP)—The United Nations general assembly approved over strong Soviet bloc objections today a resolution voicing "grave concern" over evidence that the communists in Korea committed atrocities against 38,000 persons, including 10,000 murdered GIs.

The vote was 43-to-5 (the Soviet bloc).

Ten nations, communist Yugoslavia and nine from the Asian-Arab bloc, abstained.

In addition to expressing concern over the voluminous evidence of Korean atrocities gathered by the United States, the approved resolution:

"Condemns the commission by any governments or authorities of murder, mutilation, torture and other atrocious acts against captured military personnel or civilian populations, as a violation of rules of international law and basic standards of conduct and morality and as affronting human rights and the dignity and worth of the human person."

The resolution was sponsored by the U. S. and four other nations that sent troops to resist red aggression in Korea—Britain, France, Australia and Turkey.

The sponsors offered to include a provision for an on-the-scene Red Cross inquiry if the Russians wished further proof of the charges and would support such a plan.

But Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vinshinsky spurned the offer yesterday as "an 11th hour proposal obviously demagogic in character and designed for public consumption."

The U. S. view was that, in any case, no inquiry was necessary because the reams of evidence make it devastating and irrefutable case."

Polio Vaccine Plans Backed

BOISE, Dec. 3 (UP)—The state department of public health has offered its full cooperation in a polio vaccine experiment proposed by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Director L. J. Peterson said today.

In his detailed report to Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, the foundation's medical director, Peterson also showed that Idaho has had less than one case per 100,000 population for the first 11 months of 1953.

Peterson's report went back to 1947, a record year in which 3.26 cases per 100,000 were reported.

The Idaho director pointed out that the state's local health departments are organized on a district or multi-county basis and he assured Van Riper that other programs have worked satisfactorily through this combination.

The foundation plans to vaccinate between 500,000 and 1,000,000 children by June. A new polio vaccine, developed since gamma globulin, will be used.

McCarthy Reply to Leaders Reaffirms Attacks on Policies

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Senator McCarthy, R., Wis., stuck by his criticism of administration foreign policy today and called on Americans who feel as he does about "blood trade" with red China to make their views known to President Eisenhower.

He said he thinks Mr. Eisenhower "is an honorable man" and "will follow the will of the American people if that will is known to him."

And, in further disagreement with the President, McCarthy declared that communists in government will be an issue in next year's elections and "the most important political issue for many years to come."

McCarthy urged too in a statement that Secretary of State Dulles, "repudiate our whole policy" toward allies dealing with communist China.

No Challenge

But he declared that any suggestion he was challenging Eisenhower's leadership of the Republican party "is both ridiculous and untrue." He attributed this idea to "our political enemies."

There was no immediate comment from the White House or state department on McCarthy's fresh pronouncements.

Leonard W. Hall, Republican national chairman, had breakfast with the President and, when leaving the White House, told reporters that GOP congressional and state leaders with whom he has talked are "completely in accord" with Mr. Eisenhower in the differences with McCarthy and "are very happy" with the President's statements on the matter.

Prepared Statement

In a prepared statement, McCarthy said, "I will continue to give my utmost support to the Republican party now and in the future" but he emphasized:

"This does not mean that I will refrain from criticizing my party when I think it is making mistakes."

He praised both Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles in the statement, but said he still thinks this country should refuse dollar aid to any allied nation "shipping any goods to communist China so long as a single American remained in a communist blood-stained dungeon."

"On this matter Secretary Dulles and I are in complete disagreement," McCarthy said.

"In a republic such as ours there must be room for honest differences of opinion. I respect the honesty and sincerity of purpose of Secretary Dulles."

"However, I have such deep convictions on this subject that I shall continue to discuss the matter at every opportunity and I urge Secretary Dulles to reappraise our whole policy in this regard."

Hopes for Change

"It is my hope that such a reappraisal may result in a change of policy in this respect."

McCarthy's statement was a reply to the one-two punch thrown at him by Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles as a result of McCarthy's radio-TV speech last week criticizing administration foreign policy.

Dulles hit at McCarthy's views Tuesday as striking at the very heart of United States foreign policy. Wednesday, President Eisenhower said he was in full accord with Dulles' statements.

Four-Acre Site for Stakehouse Chosen

Construction of a new LDS stakehouse is expected to start early next year on a four-acre site south of the new high school, it was reported Thursday by the stake building committee.

The new site is twice as large as the former site on Addison avenue east. The larger site was purchased when a survey indicated the former location would be too small. The committee surveyed new LDS churches in Idaho and Utah, reaching the conclusion that the Addison avenue site would be too small for all facilities planned in the new structure. In addition to serving as the center of stake activities the structure would serve as church for two wards.

The four-acre site is located on Maurice street just north of the Willow Lane subdivision. The former site on Addison avenue east, located just east of the Medical Arts building, will be sold. The new property was purchased from the Triangle Land corporation.

The stake committee is working on plans for the new structure. When completed, the plans will be submitted to the general building committee of the LDS church, which passes on all new structures.

Maurice street has not been opened all the way to Filer avenue yet. However, the distance of the new church site from Filer avenue east is about one city block.

Members of the stake committee are F. Lyman Schenck, Percy L. Lawrence, Roy E. Babbel, S. Leslie Crowley, Rex Hall and N. W. Arrington.

Man Hurt 'Critically'; Speeding Auto Skids

Robert A. Meacham, 27, Seattle, and Ann Arbor, Mich., was in critical condition at Magic Valley Memorial hospital Thursday afternoon as the result of injuries received when his speeding 1951 Plymouth skidded on ice and hurtled off highway 30 three and one-fourth miles east of Hansen.

Meacham's doctor said the man is under observation for head and chest injuries. He is unconscious. Further examination was planned Thursday afternoon. State Patrolman M. J. Bays, jr., said Meacham was thrown about 20 feet from the car.

Meachem was headed east about 2 a.m. Patrolman Bays said Meachem apparently was driving at high speed and the car skidded on the frost-covered highway. It went out of control and over an embankment, knocking over a highway post and rolling over a fence. The car traveled about 200 feet and rolled completely over before landing on its wheels. The car was a total wreck.

Kimberly Police Chief Silas Givens aided in the investigation.

Confab Called In Quarantine Enforcements

A meeting of Minidoka county's anti-rabies committee has been called for 9:30 a.m. Friday at the county courthouse by Chairman Chauncey Bellwood to determine what is to be done in the county to obtain better observance of the quarantine regulations.

Dr. Carl Keely, Rupert veterinarian, said that observation of the quarantine regulations in Rupert is good but that it could be better in the rural areas.

The Rupert veterinarian also said he has received a negative report on the head of the dog that bit a Heyburn boy early this week.

The new hyper-immune rabies serum is to be put to its first test in Idaho in the Shelley area. A 6-year-old Shelford girl was bitten on the lip by a neighbor's dog Tuesday and her physician sent to Boise

Driver Fined, Jailed Briefly For Speeding

Floyd A. Harral, 18, route 1, Buhl, spent a short time in the Twin Falls city jail Tuesday afternoon after he pleaded guilty in police court of speeding. He was unable to pay the $50 fine and $3 costs assessed by the court.

His fine and costs were paid a short time later and he was released. Harral was cited by city police for driving 40 miles per hour in a 25-mile zone in the city. In assessing the fine, Judge J. O. Pumphrey noted a previous driver's license suspension in Buhl for reckless driving.

Arlen R. Littlefield, Burley, was released from the county jail Wednesday after serving a two-day sentence and paying a $75 fine and $3 costs for driving on a revoked driver's license.

He pleaded guilty in Twin Falls justice court Monday. His driver's license was revoked last January on a drunken driving conviction.

Clyde McClain, jr., was fined $10 and $3 costs Wednesday by Buhl Police Judge Floyd Dales on a charge of speeding.

Negotiations Plea Rejected by Union

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (UP)—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers rejected a request from the nation's railroads Wednesday for a joint meeting with other railroad operating unions on a schedule for future negotiations.

Guy L. Brown, grand chief engineer of the union, said the railroads "have been fully informed" of "our unwillingness to enter any joint negotiations."

He said the union rejected the joint meeting because BLE is asking for a so-called "differential insurance," or a guaranteed pay sliding upward according to increased skill and responsibility. The union's overall wage demand, including the "differential insurance," asks 30 per cent more for engineers.

The other operating unions, the firemen, trainmen and conductors, want a straight cents-per-hour raise. Amount has not yet been made public.

for a supply of the new serum. The dog is being kept under observation to determine if it develops symptoms of rabies.

Dr. L. D. Thornburg, Burley, deputy state veterinarian, said Thursday there is no indication rabies is spreading in the Milner area even though a steer became ill with rabies this week and had to be destroyed.

The animal was one of several bitten by a rabid dog on the Stevenson ranch several weeks ago. Other steers were inoculated against the disease after being bitten by the dog but inoculation was not deemed necessary for the steer that eventually became sick. Dr. Thornburg said it showed no signs of having been attacked by the dog.

The score for definitely diagnosed rabies for the valley now stands at seven dogs and two cows.

In Burley Wednesday O. E. Parish, Burley, was fined $5 and ordered to obtain a license for his dog. He was arrested by Police Chief W. W. Williams on a charge of letting his dog run in violation of the quarantine in the area.

Report Writer Faces Inquiry On Dam Views

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (UP) — The author of controversial engineering report may testify at the Hells canyon hearing Friday.

John C. Mason, power commission attorney, said today Raymond A. Hill, consulting engineer from Los Angeles, plans to go abroad and may be called today at the commission hearing on Idaho Power company application to build three dams in the Snake river along the Idaho-Oregon border.

Hill made an investigation of potential water depletion in the Snake river last year for the interior department. His report has been quoted by proponents of a plan to build the federal Hells canyon dam near one of the sites sought by Idaho Power.

Hill's estimate of the amount of water required for future irrigation along the Snake river is much lower than estimates of Idaho Power engineers who contend a high dam in Hells canyon would take water needed for farming.

F. F. Emery, assistant to the general superintendent of Idaho Power company, testified briefly today on power transmission facilities planned by the company in connection with its three-dam proposal.

Idaho Power estimates 523 miles of transmission lines and six new switching stations would cost $21,323,300. The company proposes to construct three lines from the project line to Boise; several within the project area, and one each to Baker, Ore., Ontario, Ore., and La-Grande, Ore.

Emery's testimony was interrupted to permit attorneys to cross-examine A. M. Gordon, senior partner in the Kidder-Peabody investment banking firm of New York.

Gordon has testified Kidder-Peabody would be interested in handling stock sales called for in Idaho Power's project finance plan.

Lucien Himer, lawyer for groups favoring the federal dam, asked if Gordon was satisfied that Idaho Power's finance plan is feasible. Gordon said he considered the plan feasible, flexible, conservative and economical.

Other financial witnesses have testified Idaho Power would be able to sell mortgage bonds and borrow money.

Settlement of Iran Discord Rocked Anew

TEHRAN, Iran, Dec. 3 (UP)—Iran's powerful religious leader, the Mullah Atayollah Kashani, said today he will oppose strongly the resumption of diplomatic relations between Iran and Britain until after the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute has been settled.

Kashani's statement followed last night's report that Premier Fazlollah Zahedi's government had decided to resume relations with Britain. A spokesman for the majlis (lower house of parliament) said the legislators had indorsed the idea.

The parliamentary spokesman predicted last night a joint Anglo-Iranian announcement of the resumption could be expected this week.

U.S. PLAN DISCUSSED

LONDON, Dec. 3 (UP)—The Churchill government is studying a new American proposal for the sale of Iranian oil through a large combine of British and U.S. oil companies, informed sources said today.

The plan calls for a mixed group of American and British technicians to reopen the nationalized oil fields of the Anglo-Iranian Oil company and the huge Abadan refinery, once worth two billion dollars. The British-American oil combine then would try to fit Iranian oil into the already overloaded world market.

This plan was reportedly suggested to the British by Herbert Hoover, jr., Secretary of State Dulles' petroleum consultant, now in London for talks with British officials on the Iranian oil problem.

Solar Energy Use Is Called "Ace in Hole"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — A Massachusetts Institute of Technology scientist said today solar energy has been developed as America's "ace in the hole" to replace present power sources in an emergency.

Th scientist, Dr. H. C. Hottel, said the virtually unlimited energy of the sun could be harnessed "right away" if present power sources were cut off.

Hottel spoke at a three-day meeting here of the mid-century conference on resources for the future. He headed a discussion group on "unconventional" energy sources.

"We have enough knowledge to build a solar power plant," he said, pointing out that the sun's energy already has been tapped successfully to heat houses.

Hottel said scientists now are seeking to develop a "photo-cell" which could "generate power from the sun directly" without the necessity of a more elaborate power plant.

As a power source, he said, solar energy is not economically feasible except in an emergency because its production cost is about twice that of power from conventional fuels.

TARIFF BATTLES LIKELY

As the Randall commission pursues its important inquiry into U. S. foreign trade policy, thoughtful proposals are being tossed into the hopper for a balanced solution of the problem.

In the view of many observers, the crux of the matter is how to prevent congressional consideration from resolving itself into bitter debate along strict low tariff-high tariff lines. The belief is that if that happens, no very constructive legislation will be forthcoming.

Clarence Randall, commission chairman, evidently understands this danger. He hopes to bring forth a report with unanimous commission backing, but his prospects are not too bright. A minority report strongly favoring high tariff walls is predicted.

The latest business leader to contribute his thinking to this issue is Juan Tripp, president of Pan American World airways. In an address to the National Foreign Trade council, he proposed that congress in 1954 renew the reciprocal trade agreements act for two years. At the same time, he would have it instruct the tariff commission to review all existing tariffs to correct inequities. These changes would take effect within the two-year period unless congress specifically disapproved.

In this fashion, the head-on collision of low and high tariff advocates would be averted. More time would be purchased for a sane review of the subject. And foreign businessmen, continually in fear that reciprocal trade agreements are about to die and bring a reversion to the old, high-level Hawley-Smoot tariffs, could approach the American market on a more stable basis.

Trippe also indicated that a really forward-looking U. S. trade policy ought to deal with much more than merely tariffs. If advances can be made in a number of other fields, then the tariff question may tend to be placed in better perspective as just one element in improved trade relations.

As possible additional steps he mentioned: Repeal of the Buy American act which compels the government to buy all it wants at home, though businessmen suffer no such restriction.

Increase of duty exemption for returning travelers from the present $500 to $1,000, which would allow much more goods to flow in than now.

Further important customs simplifications to add to those approved this year by congress.

Tax law amendments to allow the President to make reciprocal treaties with other countries that would exempt income earned abroad from a nation's domestic taxes. Right now foreign investments are largely subjected to double taxation, at home and abroad.

Recommendations like these deserve the attention of the Randall commission and congress. For unless the problem is treated whole, battle lines will form over tariffs alone, with possibly great handicap to the national interest.

WORLD GOLD PRICE

The world price of gold on the free market in Europe has been taking something of a beating in recent weeks due to heavy sales by the Russian government. Apparent purpose of the Communists is to get more foreign exchange with which to buy consumers' goods to bolster morale on their home fronts. With their foreign trade cut off, the Soviets have no normal channels for earning foreign exchange.

A recent Hungarian refugee reported to National Committee for Free Europe that applicants for gold wedding rings must produce documents to prove marriage before buying in state stores. In Poland, no one can leave the country with gold jewelry and repatriates must obtain special permission to take out wedding rings.

"PRESIDENT" TITO!

Americans who have been in Yugoslavia recently bring back the word that Tito no longer likes to be called "Marshal Tito." Every time the Americans addressed a remark to "the Marshal" in English, they got back a reply from the interpreter that "President Tito" thought thus and so.

While Tito was allied with the Russian communists, the highest title that could be given him was, of course, "Marshal," the same title given to Stalin. Now that the head of the Yugoslav government has allied himself with the western democracies and has been proclaimed "President" of his country, he likes the more civilian and less military title.

EAST GERMAN AIR FORCE

East German intelligence reports now indicate that Soviet Russia is trying to build up a satellite air force in the Russian zone. Some 6,500 Germans are being recruited this year and the plan is to double the force in the next two years. Some 800 pilots are said to have completed basic training and graduated to jets.

With the European defense community treaty stalled by the French government, Western Germany has no counterpart of this new Communist air force in training.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Despite Adlai E. Stevenson's continued coyness with respect to his 1956 plans and prospects, Democratic leaders everywhere now believe he is an active candidate for a presidential renomination. His remarks during his recent sally through the south have removed any doubt on the question from their minds.

Ray Tucker

A key factor in their belief is that the 1952 nominee will not say flatly he would not like to try it again. His invariable response was, "I don't know my future political plans, and if I did, I wouldn't tell you." That is not the answer of a man who has decided irrevocably to withdraw from politics or public life.

His five-month tour of 30 countries was not the action of a man whose first experience in national politics had embittered or disillusioned him. He actually enjoyed the honors showered upon him, although the endless rounds of receptions, dinners, addresses and press conferences wore out the relatively young men who accompanied him. He accumulated a fund of data that would be invaluable to the head of a state.

STEVENSON'S POLITICAL GROWTH—It also is considered significant that he has rejected scores of lucrative offers to teach, to lecture, to engage in a weekly radio or television program, or to write a newspaper column.

Although willing to express his views on national problems in speeches and interviews, he, apparently, avoids commitments that require him to sound off regularly and hastily, just to meet a deadline. That way he could destroy his public value and usefulness.

Finally, he has grown in stature at the very moment when there is a dearth of available candidates in the party ranks. The New York faction, as a result of Robert F. Wagner's mayoralty triumph, probably will offer Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., or Averell Harriman as ultra-liberal entries.

But they would face southern opposition that a more experienced and mellowed Stevenson might not arouse. In fact, there is talk of Sen. Richard B. Russell, Georgia, as a possible vice presidential candidate on a Stevenson ticket.

CLARIFICATION IN WHITE CASE—Former President Truman's political and journalistic friends now have boiled down their defense of the Harry Dexter White promotion to the fact that evidence presented to a New York grand jury in 1947—more than a year after FBI warnings of the treasury official's disloyalty—was insufficient to obtain an indictment.

But FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, whose political detachment and independence are not questioned, clarified this point in a generally overlooked exchange with Jay Sourwine, assistant counsel to the senate internal security subcommittee.

"You say," asked Sourwine, "that you took a strong stand in favor of ousting subversives from government without waiting for a trial or sufficient evidence to convict in court."

• • •

HIGHLY CONFIDENTIAL MATERIAL — "I opposed," replied Hoover, "the production in court at that time, or the presentation to a grand jury, of some of the material because of its highly confidential nature.

"These sources could not be produced in court because of the nature of them (The information had been obtained by wiretapping—editor's note). That is the position I took on that.

"I never did at any time, and the records of the bureau will conclusively sustain this statement, ever recommend to any agency of the government, or ask any agency of the government, to retain in its service any employee to aid the FBI in the conduct of any investigation."

• • •

FBI DIRECTOR CLEARS BROWNELL—Hoover also cleared Atty.-Gen. Herbert Brownell, jr., of the charge that the latter had used the FBI's secret files illegally or politically. According to the director, he had no objection to his superior's action in making public a general summary of their content and making his own evaluation of them.

It is largely because of this support of the attorney general that certain Democrats now talk of firing the top G-man, when they return to power.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

HELLS CANYON INTEREST

Congresswoman Gracie Pfost of the first district has leveled her fire at Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio for making a speech in congress opposing the federal Hells canyon dam project, a speech which covered the subject so pertinently that it has been reprinted and distributed by the Idaho Power company, which wants to develop Hells canyon water power with its own private capital. Rep. Pfost said:

"I was somewhat amazed that Congressman Bow should concern himself so heatedly about a project located some 2,000 miles from his own congressional district and which would benefit an area which to my knowledge he has never visited. I think people in the Pacific Northwest and Idaho know what is best for them, just as Ohio people know what is best for them."

If Mrs. Pfost really believes that the Hells canyon issue is no concern of people 2,000 miles away, does she feel the same way about support of the project by a National Hells Canyon association, when the project would benefit parts of only three states?

However, there is a very good and sensible reason why Rep. Bow is concerned. That reason is the 386 million dollars (Rep. Bow said 560 million dollars and was probably nearer the truth) which it has been estimated the Hells canyon dam would cost as a federal project, and part of which would come from the pockets of the taxpayers in Mr. Bow's district. Why shouldn't he be concerned? If, as Mrs. Pfost suggests, the people of Ohio know what is best for them, one of the things they know would be best would be to save 380 million dollars.

Mrs. Pfost also belabored her Ohio colleague on his understanding of the irrigation benefits to be derived from a Hells canyon project. She said he incorrectly stated there were only 192,000 acres of land to be irrigated from the project, and went on:

"This is merely the first part of a great irrigation development for which financial support would be provided by the high dam. Neither Congressman Bow nor any other advocate of the Idaho Power company proposal has offered any plan for providing water to supply this additional acreage."

If Mrs. Pfost knows of any Hells canyon bill, which has been seriously considered in congress, embodying a plan to provide water to supply any acreage anywhere, she should make it more widely known. We haven't heard about it.—Idaho Statesman.

A 'TURKEY SHOOT' IS RAIDED

Down at Peck, Ida., Sunday afternoon the state law enforcement boys swooped down on a rifle club that was holding a "turkey shoot" to raise money for its community projects. The state cops brought in the village's mayor, the village constable and a prominent businessman of the community and charged them with gambling.

Now that may be all right. If the Peck turkey shoot was like the turkey shoots with which we are familiar, there probably was gambling going on, under a legal interpretation of what constitutes gambling.

Heretofore, however, enforcement of anti-gambling statutes has been a matter of local concern only. Turkey shoots sponsored by civic organizations are pretty common, at least in northern Idaho. So are bingo games at church bazaars. Last week the people of Connecticut voted three to one to legalize bingo and fish ponds operated by churches and kindred organizations to counteract efforts over the past few years to prevent this type of money-raising venture.

Are all the churches and civic associations of the state now to be put on notice that in the future they face raiding parties of state police if they have a bazaar corner for bingo, or raise a few hundred dollars spinning a wheel to give away turkeys? That's a question we think should be answered with a public statement from the state's law enforcement office. These associations are entitled to know in advance, for if they face state prosecution it will be a major change of policy in Idaho law enforcement.—Moscow Idahonian.

POT SHOTS

IT VANISHED

Dear Potsy:

What happened to the Missing Number? Noted in the story about the two fellows who waited in the license plate line all night that one of them got No. 1 and the other got No. 3.

Using the fingers of my left hand, I discover there's another figure between 1 and 3, namely 2. What happened to it? Quite obviously, someone got a real low number without waiting in line for a single minute.

But it's okay by me. In case my car happens to splash mud on someone's party dress some night, the victim will have to take more than a fleeting glance to determine the number. You HAVE to be careful when there's only one digit in your license plate number!

Maybe there's a thought here: Pass legislation reserving all the low, easily-recognized numbers for drivers whose, er, attitude leaves so much to be desired.

OUR BULLETIN BOARD

Sawit Too, Jerome—Aw, let's not be for making a great, big, fat, old issue out of something that doesn't make any difference in the first place. Betcha you won't remember a single thing about it in, say, 100 years. Probably the guy concerned feels bad about it already.

ELIMINATING LINES

Gentlemen:

It was quite interesting to note that two men stayed all night at the Twin Falls county courthouse to get low license numbers. It's sure a good thing for them that they didn't try that in Jerome. After waiting all night, they would have found the next morning that they couldn't get the numbers they wanted because the numbers were saved for the persons who had them last year.

Or someone had phoned in a week before and reserved the coveted number. Not quite as fair, but then I guess the object of it all is to eliminate long lines of people.

Disappointed
(Jerome)

P. S. note: Don't be too disappointed. We know of a county in eastern Idaho where danged near everyone has a license plate that jibes with a street address, phone number, age or number of cows in a dairy herd! It's all quite ordinary and strictly legal so far as we know.

FAMOUS LAST LINE

". . . You can tell they're friends because they're always exchanging insults!"

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—In a television show called "Meet the Press," Lawrence E. Spivak, the co-producer, expressed apprehension verging on fear lest innocent persons be "smeared" by congressional inquisitions.

Westbrook Pegler

The person under inspection was Robert Morris, a Republican just elected judge in the city of New York and now finishing a term as chief counsel to the Jenner committee of the senate, whose official status is subcommittee of the judiciary committee.

Its official report entitled, "Interlocking Subversion in Government Department," probably has been the most popular government document ever printed.

To date 250,000 copies have been distributed and the committee has received letters from 175,000 individuals asking for it.

Mr. Morris gave an excellent account of himself and thoroughly justified the conduct of the committee.

• • •

I found my temper rising as Mr. Spivak, in the sanctimonious manner of his political stripe, persistent*ly heckled Mr. Morris lest terrible* injustice and irreparable damage be inflicted on persons merely called on to give information to committees of congress, even though no charges be uttered against them.

• • •

He also dwelt on the point that in some instances indictments and convictions have not been had, although even he, with his limited experience in such affairs, as indicated by his biography, ought to know that the department of justice throughout the 20 years of the treason with the government was an arm of the guilty Roosevelt-Truman political administration and loaded with red traitors.

If the department of justice refuses to seek indictments and to prosecute traitors, no congressional committee can do a thing about it.

For his qualifications Spivak states that he is a Harvard AB, which means nothing, and that his career in journalism has consisted of a hitch as business manager of something called "Antiques," another hitch as assistant to the publisher of "Hunting and Fishing" and other similar jobs, including six years as "editor and publisher" of "American Mercury" in one of its spasms since Mencken and Nathan left it.

I do not mean to disparage "Mercury" as of now for its present revival is vigorously pro-American in spirit and the writing is good professional work.

In its issue of February, 1945, when Spivak's name was on the masthead with the title of "editor and publisher," "Mercury" honored me with a malicious caricature covering its front cover and an article inside entitled, "Pegler: Tough-Guy Columnist," by John McCarten, whom I have never laid eyes on to this day as far as I know.

I never have heard of McCarten in any other connection but the fact that he is described in "Mercury" as an "associate of Fortune and Time" who had "frequently contributed to the New Yorker's profile department" means quite a lot to me.

I have often caught the Chinaboy Luce publications in nasty flagrancies and Whittaker Chambers told us that there was a veritable communist cell in "Time," not that any informed journalist needed telling on that point.

I loathe the "Time-Life" axis and its proprietor for professional and political reasons and I would expect nothing but the worst of it from anyone in that zone.

As to the "New Yorker," I told Harold Ross he was a rotten procommunist sneak and when a mutual friend tried to patch it up because Ross was dying, I said he wasn't any less the red for that. He was a double-crosser who ratted on his friends and tried to swindle his loyal wife and I learned that it was childish to trust Ross or his magazine to deal fairly with any anti-communist.

• • •

In this article McCarten wrote and Spivak published the following malicious lie:

"Headed home in the subway from the United Press, which he rejoined in New York City after coming back from Europe, he (Pegler) would, an associate relates, 'Thrust his cane like a sword through the extended pages of the Jewish Daily Forward or the Staatz-Zeitung or Il Progresso, as they were being read by the polyglot passengers.' "'Why don't these dopes learn English?' he would ask. 'They're keeping down circulation.'"

The purpose and intent of this lie was to arouse hatred against me in the majority of the citizens of New York who are either of foreign birth or children of immigrants and to convince all Jews that I was a Jew-hater and Jew-baiter.

It would do me serious damage in many ways, and might make it impossible for me to get an impartial jury if I should ever have occasion to submit a cause to a jury, as both Spivak and McCarten undoubtedly knew.

It is absolutely false, no such thing ever happened and McCarten did not name the "associate" who is alleged to have told him not only that it happened but, as McCarten intended to imply, that it happened often. Nor did McCarten or Spivak ever phone me about it.

• • •

McCarten also wrote that I had got into trouble with Pershing in France in an effort to soften the censorship when the truth was that I tried to send home to Roy Howard a beef about the British spiral leggings which someone had sold Per*shing with terrible consequences* to the American troops who spent millions of man-hours winding and unwinding the dam things.

These spirals were invented for tropical service to resist snakefangs and they were no more appropriate in the uniform of the American soldier than a pith helmet.

McCarten's article was hateful from start to finish, and replete with malicious lies of which the example about my mythical walking stick and the foreign-language papers is the most wanton.

And Mr. Spivak of "Meet the Press" didn't give a dam that time what he published about an innocent victim just so it smeared him good.

Albert Greg, Hagerman, engineer for the Idaho Power company, was admitted as a member.

Gooding Firemen Working on Toys

GOODING, Dec. 3—Fire Chief Stanley Legg announces that the fire department is accepting toys for repair and distribution to underprivileged children at Christmas time.

The department also is packaging food parcels for distribution. Mrs. Leland Burress is assisting the firemen to get committees together for the project. No date has been set for the distribution of the items.

Legg asks every one who has toys to be repaired and given away to contact him and firemen will pick up the toys. The items also can be delivered to the fire department.

Ransom Cash Report Given Officer Panel

ST. At its meeting yesterday the police [bo]ard failed to act on resignation of [Pol]ice Lieut. Louis Shoulders, who [arr]ested kidnaper-killer Carl Austin [Ha]ll here Oct. 6. The officer re[sign]ed Oct. 25 in anger over an in[qui]ry by superiors into his handling [of] the case.

Withhold Decision

Board President I. A. Long said [the] resignation will not be accepted [un]til we get further into this in[ve]stigation."

No witnesses will be recalled for [fur]ther questioning and no state[me]nt will be made on the board's [fin]dings until the investigation pro[gre]sses further, he added.

Long explained O'Connell had re[por]ted verbally in the interviews be[cau]se copies of the transcript were [no]t yet available.

To Compare Testimony

But when they are, he said, the [boa]rd will study the transcript in [com]parison with testimony already [req]uired from key witnesses, includ[ing] Shoulders, patrolman Elmer Do[lan], his partner in the arrest, and [cab] driver John Hager, who tipped [Sho]ulders to Hall's whereabouts.

O'Connell and Circuit Atty. Ed[war]d L. Dowd questioned Hall and [his] accomplice, Mrs. Bonnie Heady, [in] their death row cells at the Mis[sou]ri penitentiary in Jefferson City.

Shoulders wife, Florence, has filed [sui]t for divorce, alleging general in[dig]nities. Shoulders has stated he [hop]es to marry his landlady, June [Ma]rie George, with whom he recent[ly] traveled to Hawaii.

Coal Industry Damage High, Miners Claim

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (UP)—The [Uni]ted Mine Workers accused the [Eise]nhower administration today of [doi]ng "irreparable damage" to the [Ame]rican coal industry by allowing [oil] companies to "dump" residual oil [in] this country.

John T. Jones, member of the [UM]W international executive board [and] president of district 16, made [the] charge in a statement prepared [for] delivery before a senate interior [sub]committee on strategic minerals.

Mines Closed

[He] said importation of more than [...] million barrels a day of waste [oil h]as closed down "thousands of [...] mines . . . that can never be [reop]ened."

[T]he claim has been made . . . [by t]he proponents of our foreign [polic]y that we must continue to sup[port] this ruinous policy because for[eign] countries need American dol[lars,"] Jones said. Actually, he said, ["the] much needed dollars . . . go [into] the pockets of the six big oil [impor]ting companies, five of which [are A]merican owned."

False Economy

[Th]e labor official asserted that [the] government's shutdown of ex[perim]ental plans to produce oil from [coal] is "penny-wise and pound-fool[ish." H]e said the administration [...]d of the inability of the United [State]s to produce sufficient oil with[in its] own borders in case of an all-[out] war, at the same time that it [close]d these plants.

Jerome to Install New City Lights

JEROME, Dec. 3—A contract was approved and executed by the Jerome city council Tuesday evening for the installation of more lighting facilities on Third street west in front of the new high school building.

Other business included the execution of a contract with the federal government for rental of the land where the present library stands and a performance bond for the removal of the building and clearance of the land when the government demands such action.

The appointment of Marvin Boyer as a member of the Jerome volunteer fire department was also confirmed by the group.

Four building permits were issued by the council. They include permits to Charles L'Herisson, $18,000 to construct a six-room residence in the Heiss addition; George Kissinger, $400 to remodel his present residence; Earl S. Wood, $800 to improve his home, and Cinder Products company, $1,500 for an addition to a lumber shed.

Hungarian Reds Lift Art Barrier

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 3 (UP) — It seems to be all right again for young artists to paint nudes in communist Hungary.

A copy of the Budapest newspaper Magyar Nemzet reaching Vienna Thursday contained an interview with Bertalan Por, dean of Hungarian painters, saying that "socialist realism" in art had led to a study decline in the quality of painting and sculpture.

It was a mistake, Por said, "that no artist had dared to portray the esthetic beauty of the human body." In the future, he added, he hoped young artists would paint nudes.

Persons here familiar with communist practices took the Por article to be a government okay for painters to turn away from their years of depicting miners, factories, farms and highways.

Arrested

JEROME, Dec. 3—Leo J. Udlinek, Hunt, appeared before Probate Judge Theron Ward Tuesday to answer to a complaint signed by Neil Coatley charging him with embezzlement of a check in the amount of $914.12.

Udlinek was granted a preliminary examination, date for which was set for Dec. 9. Udlinek was released without bond.

EMMETT, Dec. 3 (UP) — Idaho strawberry growers met here last night to outline a certified plant production program designed to eventually offer completely disease-free plants to producers.

A. W. Helton, plant pathologist at the University of Idaho, has reported that work on foundation planting of disease-free stock at the university already has progressed to the point where certified growers can obtain plants to launch private development and sell to producers.

N. Y. Papers Remain Tied In Pay Row

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Negotiators seeking to end an AFL photo-engravers strike closing the city's seven major daily newspapers were to meet again this afternoon after a fruitless session last night.

Today's meeting time precluded any possibility that afternoon newspapers would be able to publish today, the sixth day of the strike.

No Progress

Representatives of the New York Publishers' association and local 1 of the AFL Photo-Engravers union met for almost two hours last night. Frank H. Brown, regional director of the federal mediation and conciliation service, said the negotiators made "no progress."

Union negotiators brought to last night's session a new proposal scaling down their original demand for a $15 weekly "package" increase to $7.50. The publishers turned it down and William Mapel, association president, indicated his group still stood on its original offer of a $3.75 increase.

Reject Arbitration

The new union wage demand was agreed on by the 350 strikers at a meeting yesterday at which they turned down, 287 to 47, a proposal to submit the dispute to arbitration. In voting down the proposal, the strikers ignored their international president, Edward Volz, who strongly recommended they accept arbitration.

Whitley P. McCoy, director of the federal mediation and conciliation service, and New York's Mayor-Elect Robert F. Wagner, jr., both had sent telegrams to the strikers urging that they accept arbitration.

Order Sought To End Canal Water Blocks

One landowner seeks an injunction to stop another from placing tile in an irrigation lateral in a civil action filed in district court Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. LaCourse, who own 20 acres of land about three miles southeast of Twin Falls, ask the court for the injunction against Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Scott.

Source of Water

The plaintiffs allege in their complaint that domestic and irrigation water comes to their land through a lateral from the main irrigation canal 1,320 feet away.

The lateral, which they have used since 1905, crosses land owned by the Scotts, the plaintiffs state.

The LaCourses claim the defendants have dammed the lateral and are preparing to put an eight-inch tile in it.

See Loss of Rights

Such action will deprive them of water which is rightfully theirs, the plaintiffs contend.

The LaCourses ask the court to grant temporary and permanent injunctions restraining the defendants from installing the tile and also ask their attorney fees and costs of the action.

They are represented by May and May.

Group to Survey Work of Bureau

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay has appointed a seven-member survey team to study the operation of the bureau of mines.

The team, headed by Dr. Curtis L. Wilson, dean of the Missouri School of Mines, will start work Dec. 14. It will report to McKay by next Jan. 30.

Objectives of the survey, McKay said, are to determine what is being done; whether the work is being accomplished efficiently, and whether there are other means of doing the work more efficiently.

Jury Chosen for Trial of Idahoan

OROINO, Dec. 3 (AP)—The retrial of Elmer Spencer, 58-year-old Whiskey Creek farmer charged with second degree murder, is expected to get under way today with selection of two alternate jurors. A jury of 11 men and one woman was picked Wednesday.

Spencer is accused of slaying Robert Kinzer, Lewiston Oct. 14, 1952. His earlier conviction was set aside by the state supreme court on the grounds that the remarks of a special prosecutor were prejudicial to the jury.

Above are National Safety council facts, based on tests by its council on winter driving hazards. For comparison, normal braking distances of autos on dry and wet concrete are only about 21 and 26 feet respectively. Study of each chart may save your life, or at least prevent trouble. For each "braking distance" above you must add 22 feet, which is distance traveled during average "reaction time" to get your foot on brake.

You Can Shed Blood Learning to Drive On Ice; But Experts Have Easier Way

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 — Too many drivers learn the hard way about how to combat winter driving hazards, according to Prof. A. H. Easton of the University of Wisconsin. They learn by that sickening sensation of an uncontrolled skid, warm blood, cold sweat or hot tears. There's an easier way, he says.

Easton, director of the university's automotive safety research project and a test expert for the National Safety council's committee on winter driving hazards, declared that a little study and observation of six fundamental rules annually will prevent many thousands of traffic tragedies and troubles during winter weather.

These new rules are a summary of many important recommendations contained in a booklet, "Here Are the Facts," or "Basic Winter Driving Rules." It's free for the asking by writing to the National Safety council, Chicago 11, Ill. It can be read in about 15 minutes, according to Professor Easton, giving the reader the benefit of 11 years of test research by the council's committee.

The booklet is aimed at reducing the high death and accident rates resulting from inadequate traction and reduced visibility—the major winter driving problems from November through February.

The six basic rules for safe winter driving follow:

1. Get the feel of the road. Try your brakes occasionally, while driving slowly and away from other traffic, to find out just how slippery the road is.

2. Slow down. Adjust your speed to road and weather conditions so that you can stop or maneuver safely.

3. Keep the windshield clear. You must see danger to avoid it, so be sure your headlights, windshield wiper blades and defrosters are in topnotch condition.

4. Use tire chains on snow and ice. They cut stopping distances about in half, and increase starting and hill-climbing traction by four to seven times. Even with the help of chains, however, lower than normal speeds are a must on snow and ice.

5. Pump your brakes to slow down or stop. Jamming them on can lock the wheels and throw your car into a dangerous skid.

6. Follow at a safe distance. Keep well back of the car ahead so you have room to stop. Remember that, without tire chains, it takes three to 12 times as far to stop on snow and ice as on dry concrete.

Other important findings by the committee, composed of 33 experts in fields of automotive engineering, law enforcement and traffic safety education, include the following:

All tires, except big truck sizes, are now made largely of synthetic rubber. Synthetic tires wear better, perform normally on dry or wet pavements and have other advantages. But on snow and ice they skid about 8 per cent farther and have 14 to 35 per cent poorer forward traction ability than pre-war natural rubber tires.

Special winter tires of 25 different types were tested for traction. The tests showed that while some tires gave improved traction under certain conditions over conventional tires, their overall improvement is not great enough to warrant less caution when driving on slippery surfaces. The same tests also demonstrated that special winter tire treads do not approach the performance of reinforced tire chains, and the report concludes that "while some of these tires can be considered a palliative, they certainly are not the answer to severe snow and ice conditions."

Describing tire chains as the best self-help available to the driver, the committee said reinforced tire chains reduce braking distances on both snow and ice about half, increased forward traction on ice about seven times, and on packed snow out pull conventional tires nearly four times.

While most tests have been made on passenger cars, research, in the last two years has been concentrated on the jacknife hazard to tractor semi-trailer trucks on snow and ice. The report summarizes as follows:

"It has become evident from this research that the best means of preventing jackknifing is to keep all tires rolling, in order to maintain steering ability and at the same time get maximum grip for slowing or accelerating. Due to increased traction provided, it was found that *reinforced tire chains made jack*knifing virtually impossible with a tractor semi-trailer combination on level ice at 20 miles an hour. Similarly, it was found that recovery from jackknife angles of as much as 90 degrees was possible with front or all-wheel drive tractors."

The council's tests were conducted on frozen lakes and winter roads near Clintonville, Wis.

They were under the direction of Prof. Ralph A. Moyer, research engineer, institute of transportation and traffic engineering, University of California, who is chairman of the committee, and T. J. Carmichael, administrative engineer of the General Motors proving ground.

Weeks Optimistic On 1954 Business

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Commerce Secretary Sinclair Weeks believes business confidence in the Eisenhower administration has "helped to make this the most prosperous year on record, with the prospect of another good year in 1954."

In a speech before the opening session of the annual congress of industry, sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers, he said "a climate favorable to business has been substituted for the socialism of recent years" since the Republicans took over the government.

Abandoned Truck Yields Clues for Bank Robbery

HAILEY, Dec. 3—An abandoned pickup truck found at Craters of the Moon national monument supplied evidence leading to a complaint filed Wednesday in Butte, Mont., in the armed robbery of the Metals Bank and Trust company at Butte Nov. 20.

The complaint charges Jack M. Franklin, 29, with the holdup, in which $2,858 in currency was stolen from the bank.

Blaine County Sheriff Les Outzs reported Franklin's pickup truck was found by Roscoe Hewitt, Picabo, at a desolate spot on the national monument reservation. Hewitt reported the abandoned machine to Outzs' office Saturday.

Outzs, Blaine county Deputy J. W. Leichliter and Butte county Sheriff Jack Wilson, Arco, found newspaper accounts of the robbery in the truck. They also found a white cap and red and black lumber jacket.

Percy Wyly, special agent for the Idaho-Montana division of the FBI, said bank attendants have identified the coat and hat as clothing worn by the robber. Wyly signed the complaint before United States Commissioner David J. Holland at Butte.

Franklin, who has not been apprehended, came to Opportunity, Mont., near Anaconda, two weeks ago to visit relatives, Wyly said.

Crash Reported

Bob Morrison, 189 Carney street, reported to police Wednesday afternoon his car and a vehicle driven by Mrs. W. H. Bell collided at Fourth street and Seventh avenue east.

U. S. Officials Are Pessimistic On Hope for Return of POWs

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Dec. 3 (AP)—American authorities voiced fear today that months and years of communist indoctrination and discipline may close the ears of most of the 22 Americans still held by the reds to the United Nations invitation to come home to freedom.

Doubts of the effectiveness of the brief interviews permitted with the men who chose communism arose from the second U. N. defeat in its efforts to win back South Korean war prisoners choosing to stay behind the bamboo curtain.

Like the storybook soldiers of the French king, 30 South Koreans marched up the hill to the U. N. explanation tents today, then marched back down again.

In two days, not one of 60 South Koreans interviewed returned.

All came dutifully to the explanations, conducted by smartly uniformed and patient South Korean officers. They heard the explanations out with polite but bored attention. Then they returned, to a man, to red custody.

They, with the 30 who turned their backs on their anti-communist homeland yesterday, will be held in Indian custody until Jan. 22 when they will be released to the communists.

In addition to losing the 30, the United Nations today lost four additional men who once renounced communism while U. N. prisoners of war. Today the four told Indian custodial troops they wanted to be repatriated to their red homelands and were handed over to the communists.

American and South Korean officers taking part in the explanation sessions, or sitting in as observers, were frankly pessimistic after today's explanation session.

They said they had hoped that at least four out of every 30 South Koreans interviewed would choose to return to democracy.

They still were hopeful they might coax a maximum of 15 of the 22 Americans to return home. But they admitted the communist indoctrination and party discipline exercised over the South Koreans they have seen cast doubts on that estimate.

Federal Workers Urged to Adjust To Policy Shift

BOISE, Dec. 3 (AP)—Federal employes have nothing to fear from the Eisenhower administration, but must learn "to adjust to policy changes," a retiring civil service director said Wednesday.

Regional civil service commission director James P. Cooley, who has served under eight presidents in 42 years, told a meeting of the Federal Business association that "I am in full accord that an administration must be allowed to select all of its policy employes."

"As the administration changes, you federal employes must adjust yourself to policy changes," he added. "You don't set the policy. You do simply as you are told."

Presbyterians Planning New Buhl Building

BUHL, Dec. 3—Plans for a new Presbyterian church to be erected in the Westminster Heights subdivision at the corner of Sixth and Main streets were announced at a dinner meeting for the building committee and additional contact committee at the church Monday evening.

The Rev. Fred Hall acted as moderator and members of the committee who spoke about building plans included S. A. Webber, Mrs. Jane Harding, George Atkins, William Roberts and John Barker. The Rev. Donald Blackstone, Twin Falls, gave building plan suggestions as well as suggestions for contacting church members and friends.

A goal of $40,000 was announced of which $22,000 has been paid or pledged. Purpose of the meeting was to organize in groups, to contact all members and to acquaint them with the building program prior to beginning construction next spring. About 15 contact teams were organized during the meeting.

A scale model of the new church and preliminary sketches were shown the group. Final windup of the fund raising campaign is scheduled for Dec. 20.

Cooperation Cited In 'Slot' Conquest

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 3 (AP) — Mayor Quigg Newton, Denver, told the American Municipal association clearing up the slot machine problem through congressional legislation is an example of cooperation at all levels of government.

Newton addressed the national commission on intergovernmental relations Wednesday at the closing session of the three-day convention.

Newton said that even after his city had driven out the slot machines and other gambling devices, the rings still flourished. When an anti-slot machine law was passed and the state assisted in enforcement of the law, the slots disappeared, he said.

Meet Debates Atomic Impact On U. S. Tariff

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The mid-century conference on resources for the future drew opposing views today on the impact of the atomic age on America's decades-old high vs. low tariff controversy.

As on opening day Wednesday, the conference broke into eight sections to deliberate on plans for development and conservation of water, energy, minerals, land and forest resources.

Attending are 1,600 conservationists, industry spokesmen, officials and educators from throughout the country.

In a discussion of "U. S. concern with world resources," speakers dealt with such unprecedented problems as the vulnerability of munitions plants to atomic attack and the possibility that a war nowadays may be won or lost in a month.

Walter Levy, New York petroleum consultant, suggested the atomic age may have outmoded high tariff protection as a method of assuring domestic production of sufficient metals for national defense.

This view was challenged by Andrew Fletcher, president of the St. Joseph Lead company, who said:

"The best stockpile is a prosperous mining industry . . . Unless there is a change in attitude of this administration from that of the last two administrations, we're not going to have much of a lead and zinc industry in the United States in six months."

Dean Asserts Red Demands Block Parley

PANMUNJOM, Dec. 3 (AP)—U. S. Envoy Arthur H. Dean declared today communist insistence on Russian "neutrality" is likely to delay the proposed Korean peace conference "indefinitely and perhaps forever."

At the 32nd fruitless meeting of allied and communist negotiators working on details of the talks, Dean indicated he believes the reds are "dead set" against the conference ever taking place.

Parrot Broadcast

The communists countered by parroting the line broadcast by the red Peiping radio that Dean is delaying action by "filibustering . . . quibbling and ridiculous fault-finding."

The negotiators so far have been unable even to agree on a time and place for the peace conference, due in large part to communist insistence that Russia and other nations be admitted as neutrals to "guide" the talks.

Flat Rejection

Dean told the reds flatly the allies never will accept "your friend" Russia as a neutral because of the "known (Soviet) position . . . both geographically and realistically."

"The USSR was not a neutral, never would be a neutral, and we could never accept her as a neutral," he told newsmen later.

The United Nations general assembly decided some time ago that Russia could attend the conference only as an acknowledged communist aggressor. But that decision has been watered down to offer the Russians a seat as a "third party" bound by all conference decisions, an offer resolutely ignored by the communists.

200,000 Pounds Of Butter Given

BERLIN, Dec. 3 (AP)—The 200,000th pound of American-donated butter for aged Germans of the Soviet sector was given today to an 86-year-old East Berlin woman, who also received an extra pound.

In addition, she was given 50 deutschmarks ($11.90) donated by Mrs. Hanna Reuter, widow of West Berlin's lord mayor, who died Sept. 29.

Free butter is being distributed to East Berliners through the Ernst Reuter foundation and the International Rescue committee, an American welfare organization.

Elected

BELLEVUE, Dec. 3—Martin Jewell was named noble grand of the Bellevue IOOP lodge at an election Monday evening. L. T. Johnson was elected vice grand; E. F. Frederickson, secretary, and Everett Campbell, treasurer. Floyd Rivers, retiring noble grand, conducted the meeting.

PARTY HELD

Poles Claim U. S. Forms Spying Net

WARSAW, Poland, Dec. 3 (AP)—Polish prosecutors charged today that an American-backed West Berlin spy center is sending armed men into Poland to organize subversion against the communist government.

The accusation was contained in the indictment of three alleged spies, whose trial opened before a military court at Szczecin (formerly Stettin.) The indictment accused three Poles—Heins Landvoigt, Adolf Machura and Konrad Wruck—of being agents of a West Germany spy ring.

Speed Urged In Northwest Gas Decision

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Pacific Northwest Pipeline corporation asked the power commission Wednesday to waive an examiner's decision and speed the end of the northwest natural gas case.

The importance of the issues presented and the novel problems involved in the various applications as well as the complexity and volume of the evidence presented . . . clearly indicate the necessity of final action by the full commission," said a motion filed by Charles E. McGee, company attorney.

Earlier Decision

Should the commission accept Pacific's motion, observers estimated it would hasten by several months a final decision on applications to deliver natural gas into the Pacific northwest.

Pacific is competing with Westcoast Transmission company, Trans-Northwest Gas company and Northwest Natural Gas company for commission approval.

Speed Urged

Participants normally have 10 days in which to file answers to such motions. In the interests of speed, however, McGee suggested that such filings be made within five days.

Under the motion, the commission would waive a decision by the examiner presiding over the case and issue its own decision after oral arguments. McGee suggested such oral arguments be held not more than 30 days after the hearing is completed.

Opening of USDA Aid Lists Okayed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The agriculture department has agreed to let newspapers inspect hitherto secret lists of farmers and ranchers receiving federal drought relief.

The new policy was announced by R. L. Farrington, director of credit service, in a letter to J. R. Wiggins, chairman of the freedom of information committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

The ASNE group had been trying since last September to persuade the department to release the names. The department originally refused on grounds it was "not in the public interest to subject the beneficiaries of a relief program to unnecessary publicity and embarrassment."

India Leader Optimistic in War Outlook

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 3 (U.P.)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India said today in a rare, special interview that he sees "no near chance of war."

"War and aggression both can be avoided," Nehru said, because both sides in the current world struggle recognise "the terrible consequences."

Nehru said there "is not likely to be any marked aggression because aggression means war." Both sides, he said, know that to be fact.

Tour With Nixon

His comments were made in an interview granted the three American newsmen accompanying U. S. Vice President Richard M. Nixon on his round-the-world fact-finding and goodwill tour.

The Indian prime minister warned America, through the newsmen, that "any policy based on nonrecognition (of communist China) is likely to be defective."

"In considering any situation," he said, "you cannot ignore the facts."

Stresses Red Control

He underscored the Indian view that the "fact" of the present communist Chinese government's control over China is a major matter that cannot be overlooked.

He said there is no "ill will" among Indians toward America. But he admitted there are differences including the issue of communist China—in approaches and policies on many issues.

The prime minister also told the correspondents India is "not at all anxious" to be host in New Delhi to the proposed Korean peace conference.

"But we won't stand in the way if other parties choose the Indian capital as the conference site," he said.

Study Urges Pay Hikes to Halt Career Service Deterioration

By C. YATES McDANIEL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (U.P.)—A group of generals and admirals called Thursday for a military pay boost and other actions to halt what they termed an alarming deterioration of career military service.

"Military service has lost much of its attractiveness as a career," said a study committee named by Defense Secretary Wilson last spring at the direction of President Eisenhower.

"Unless the present trend of career personnel leaving the service can be reversed, most serious consequences to the national defense effort will result."

Assistant Defense Secretary John Hannah, releasing the report of the five-man committee, said it would receive careful attention from the military services, the defense department and the joint chief of staff. Hannah added that release of the report implied neither its approval nor acceptance in every respect.

An earlier report submitted by the group, headed by Rear Adm. J. P. Womble, jr., was turned back by Hannah for further study and rewriting. The report issued Thursday, moreover, omitted the committee's specific allocation of blame for many of the weaknesses the group found in the current military morale situation.

It is understood that the report as completed by the ground listed the public, the press, congress and the President's budget bureau as being among sources of the difficulties it concluded exist.

Among its conclusions and recommendations, the committee of two admirals and three generals said:

1. There is a "positive danger" that budget cutting considerations might be permitted to "transcend" the attainment of combat effectiveness which "must be achieved at whatever cost."

2. The defense department should press for a cost of living increase in military pay scales as a major means of holding good men in competition with private industry. A committee aide told reporters, in reply to questions, that the group had in mind an increase of about eight per cent.

3. Service leaders must accept blame for yielding to popular and "political pressure" in adopting policies after World war II which served to diminish the distinction between ranks and to force officers and enlisted men into a "common social pattern."

4. There should be prompt restoration of fringe benefits and an end to what the report called whittling away of extras which military men have traditionally considered to be part of their income. The report stated that "pressure groups of business interests have emasculated many of these benefits," and the benefits have been the "continuous targets of congressional economy attacks."

Among these benefits the committee listed incentive and hazardous duty pay, sea and foreign duty pay, medical and dental care for dependents, better and cheaper housing and more provisions for the education of service children.

The committee said recommended solutions concerned only the "hard core" of professional officers and non-commissioned officers. As for draftees, reservists and volunteers in time of emergency or war, the report had this to say:

"So long as the unstable international political situation requires some form of military service from virtually every eligible young man in this country, there will be no dearth of numbers who, for personal advantage, temporarily desire to affiliate themselves with this hard care."

ROK Police Slay 18 Red Guerrillas

SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 3 (U.P.)—Korean police shot and killed 18 communist guerrillas Sunday 65 miles west of Pusan, police headquarters announced today.

The insurgents were slain in a running gun battle against 81 rebels suspected of raiding Uiryong village, 50 miles west of Pusan, a week earlier.

ROK police opened a concentrated drive against red guerrillas three days ago near Chiri mountain in southeastern Korea but have revealed no results.

The defense ministry has estimated the insurgents' strength at 1,000 men and charged they have been reinforced from North Korea since the end of the war.

Fire on Russian Island Reported

KUSHIRO, Japan, Dec. 3 (U.P.)—A large fire burned for at least 40 minutes on a Russian-occupied island near Japan last night. National police said a Soviet military installation may have been damaged.

The fire was sighted on one of the Russian-held Kurile islands off the east coast of Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island. A Japanese watchman said he saw 10 signal rockets explode during the blaze, leading to conjecture that the fire may have been in a Soviet powder magazine.

Demo Claims Tamper Case Still Clouded

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — A Democratic leader said today the justice department failed to "clear up" questions raised by a federal judge' charge that the FBI was barred from a Denver jury-tampering investigation.

Deputy Democratic National Chairman Clayton Fritchey said the "explanation" of the case by Assistant Atty.-Gen. Warren Olney III was "difficult to follow" and failed to answer District Judge Willis W. Ritter's charges.

Olney said "there is no substance" to Ritter's assertion that Atty.-Gen. Herbert Brownell, Jr., "refused" to let the FBI investigate jury-tampering charges against two big time Denver gamblers. Olney said the FBI originated, investigated and aided in the successful prosecution of Clyde and Eugene Smaldone.

Ouster Charged

In Denver, former U. S. Atty. Charles Vigil agreed that FBI agents did aid in the investigation, but declared he didn't know "just where FBI help started and stopped." Ritter also charged that Vigil, a Democrat, was fired after prosecuting the Smaldone brothers.

Olney conceded that two requests by Vigil for FBI help in investigating the financial status of prospective jurors called for an income tax trial against Eugene Smaldone were rejected. He said this was a matter for the court and added that a juror should not be suspected of bribe-taking "simply because he was not well-to-do."

Meanwhile, Brownell announced that U. S. Atty. Frederick W. Kaess, Detroit, has been given a free hand to conduct grand jury inquiries into labor union graft or racketeering in the Detroit area.

Pressure Claimed

Detroit reports said Kaess was interested in charges of graft and racketeering uncovered by a house labor subcommittee headed by Rep. Wint Smith, R., Kans. Fritchey had asked for an explanation of published reports that pressure "from above" had tried to halt the investigation.

The jury-tampering convictions arose from the income tax charges against Eugene Smaldone after an earlier trial in June had ended in a hung jury. The brothers were sentenced to 60 years in prison each last month by Ritter on charges of bribery, conspiracy and jury-tampering.

Dempsey, Wealthy Widow May Marry

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Former heavyweight king Jack Dempsey says he is discussing marriage with a multi-millionairess, Mrs. Harmon Spencer Auguste, but as yet they aren't engaged.

Dempsey was reached by telephone Wednesday night in a suite at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

He said he and Mrs. Auguste had just finished dinner and "we're just talking."

Concerning the possibility of engagement and marriage the ex-champion said, "It may take weeks, it may take months."

There was no comment from Mrs. Auguste, whose late banker husband reportedly left her 35 million dollars.

SERVICES SET

VIEW, Dec. 3—Dedication services for the new View LDS church will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday. The public is invited.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3 (AP)—Alvin Anay, 39, was held for the grand jury Wednesday on charges of turning in false fire alarms.

"I don't like to see firemen sitting around," the arresting policeman testified Anay explained. "If they don't get exercise they get stale."

Anay is unemployed.

Little Girls Can Bake Cake; Boys Can Repair Auto

Everything but kitchen sink is in this toy cake-baking set, based on popular brand mixes and frostings. When batter for toy cake is ready, it's baked in toy oven with radiant heat.

Everything but out-of-gas is duplicated for mechanically-minded boy in this strip-down toy car, which can be put back together again with a complete set of life-like tools.

'Do-It-Yourself' Boom in Toys Spreads to Even More Items

By JAMES FLOWERS

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A large chunk of the toy industry's record 450-million-dollar output this year, about 10 per cent better than 1952, emphasizes the "do-it-yourself" idea.

Besides looking like the real thing, these "toys with a purpose" enable kids to actually use wrenches, wield paint brushes, bake cakes and sew just like mom and pop. They are designed for children of all ages and interests.

The trend toward this type of toy can probably be explained by the influence television, movies and comic books have on youngsters who in turn influence the toymakers," says Robert B. M. Barton, president of the Toy Manufacturers of the U. S. A. "Kids are naturally great imitators anyway."

Louis Marx, founder and president of Louis Marx and company, largest toy manufacturers in the world, says the "do-it-yourself" theme really caught on a couple of years ago. Success in this field was due, he says, to the new high impact plastic, which makes intricate detail and authenticity possible.

For the mechanically-minded boys the Marx people are producing scale model farm tractors, automobiles and wreckers that strip down completely and show exact engine detail. Each toy carries a complete assortment of tools to do the job.

Another industry king-pin, B. F. Michtom, head of the fast-growing Ideal Toy corporation, says his "fix-it" line has played a large part in the company's increased sales in recent years: "Our volume jumped from 10 million dollars in 1950 to 20 million dollars this year. It has quadrupled since 1947."

Toymaker Michtom and his workers are turning out such plastic marvels as a sports convertible equipped with electric lights, horn, battery, oil level gauge and a set of tools for assembling and making repairs; an 18th century stage coach that can be put together and taken apart and driven by a life-like figure holding reins attached to real harnesses; and a jiffy car wash station with a water attachment and a lever to tow the cars along the ramp.

For little girls Ideal has created a crop of dolls with miniature kits for hair and cosmetic care and a sewing outfit to keep them up-to-date on clothes fashions. To delight the kitchen dabblers there's a new cake-baking set, based on popular brand mixes and frostings. The cakes are baked with radiant heat and can be eaten by the kids, or parents—if the cooks are any good.

New York retailers are braced for the Christmas rush. They've laid in heavy supplies of "do-it-yourself" items. Although a whopping business is forecast, most toy merchants say they will settle for a five per cent increase in sales.

R. H. Macy's "Toy City," a beehive of activity with about 25 per cent of the toy stock carrying out the "do-it-yourself" idea. Buyer-manager John H. Griffin predicts his sales will beat last year's volume easily.

"The cosmetic dolls and the strip-down cars will probably set the selling pace here," he says. "An interesting section of the 'city' is the self-service department — just like a super-market."

At Gimbels' bustling "Toyland" the carrer says are seen at every counter. Bill McDuffie, manager of the huge toy layout, gets as much kick out of showing his wares as the salesmen. "Just look at those scale model cars," he says. "Why, you can even spray them with paint—all colors. The fellows will really get a kick out of those.

"Right now we got a campaign going to make the little girls 'girlier' by plugging such things as baking and ironing sets, stoves and refrigerators, and all kinds of realistic household appliances."

John Wannamakers' buyer-manager Vincent Maggiore said, "Jewelry making kits and the fix-it cars have been very popular items here."

Other new toys with the carver angle are a miniature night location TV truck with revolving spotlight, a plumber's set with 35 tools and a selection of pipe lengths and connections, a highway shovel crane that operates just like a real one, and a complete community of wooden buildings ready for any color of paint to be applied.

When will the toy bonanza end? Toymen say it's just begun. They cite the rising birth rate—almost four million new babies yearly for the last four years. They point out that the "war babies" are just now reaching the toy age. Wages are higher now, they say, and people have been demanding better and more realistic toys.

A recent boost to the "do-it-yourself" toy movement was the debut of a new magazine called "Children's Playcraft." It's a bi-monthly publication and will feature things to make with easy-to-get materials, team projects with parents and a complete feature on some hobby.

Mark Michtom, sales and promotion man for Ideal, explains the growing trend toward realistic or "do-it-yourself" toys this way:

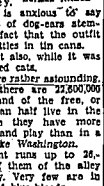
"Two or three years ago we came out with some science-fiction and space toys. The venture was a complete flop. Kids simply wouldn't buy the idea. They're fanatics on authenticity and detail."

Dog, Cat Population Increase Said Space Threat for People

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Before long we may have to do something about people to make room for a lot of dogs.

The plain facts are that the dog population in the United States is increasing at the rate of over 900,000 a year. Lady dogs have litters which run from four and five to sometimes up to 15 pups.



Herman Nichols

These facts are revealed in what a tin-can company likes to call the "tin-ezy" report, based on a recent survey. The company is anxious to say that the count of dog-cans stemmed from the fact that the outfit puts up dog vittles in tin cans.

The tin outfit also, while it was about it, counted cats.

The results are rather astounding.

As of now, there are 22,500,000 dogs in this land of the free, or which more than half live in the outlands where they have more room to romp and play than in a crowded city like Washington.

The cat count runs up to 26,700,000, most of them of the alley or barn variety. Very few are in the cat book of blue-bloods.

The survey shows that "even though cats outnumber dogs, they are concentrated in fewer households." The average family that has cats around has 2.21 of them. The average dog-owning family has only 1.34.

I'll have to take the word of the researchers that the dog and cat population of the country outnumbers families of human beings by about eight million.

It seems that any dog these days who would stoop to gnawing on anything but a dime-store rubber bone is a social outcast.

The modern dog looks down his snout at any four-legged critter that would settle for table scraps.

Let a dog off the leash or turn a cat loose and they follow native instincts. They knock off lids of garbage pails and get a load of leftovers. The owner then sits up half the night treating a belly-ache. Next day the master hies it to the store for a sack of expensive vitamins and chains up Towner or Tabby.

Ex-Movie Star Is Wed in Indonesia

DJAKARTA, Indonesia, Dec. 3 (AP) —Hospital records disclosed today that former film star Nancy Carroll is now the wife of C. H. J. Groen, a Dutch businessman in this far eastern outpost.

The Groens had made no public announcement here of their marriage Nov. 2. The first report of it came when the new Mrs. Groen entered a hospital for treatment of several ribs broken in a fall.

Groen said his bride hopes to leave the hospital Saturday.

3 British Papers Rap Eisenhower

LONDON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Daily Herald, a Labor party newspaper, told its readers today President Eisenhower is a sad and disillusioned man who has thrown away the leadership of the Republican party out of political ignorance.

Two other London newspapers, the Daily Mirror and the News Chronicle, expressed dim views of Mr. Eisenhower's leadership on the eve of the big three conference in Bermuda.

The Bermuda government did a highly efficient job in establishing an elaborate press headquarters and cable facilities at the Castle Harbour hotel, where the staffs of the three conference principals are quartered.

The correspondents and photographers are accommodated quite comfortably and are happy in their work except for two things:

Bermuda has a 20-mile-an-hour speed limit, which makes transportation around the island somewhat tedious even in open air taxis. Flocks of native birds known as longtails fly in and out of the Castle Harbour bar and dining room, and even hop quite tamely along the floor searching for canape tidbits dropped from the tables.

The people of Augusta, Ga., may refer to the new Eisenhower cottage on the edge of the Augusta national golf club as "Mamie's cabin" but in no sense is it a cabin. Even the term cottage is an understatement and, in practicality, means that the place is not a skyscraper building.

Some of the men who worked on the house, which has one and one-half stories plus a basement, and one of the officials of building supply companies who participated in the project sponsored by the club say the house cost about $75,000—and much of the material that went into it was priced at cost.

One builder estimates the cost of interior decorations and furnishings at $35,000.

• • •

Members of the exclusive Augusta club are quite secretive about what it costs to belong. One current version in Augusta—and this comes from people who should know—says the initiation fee and overall cost of joining is now $10,000, somewhat higher than when Mr. Eisenhower joined shortly after World war II. Annual dues plus other expenses involved in membership come to between $2,000 and $3,000 a year, according to current Augusta gossip.

Cure-Alls?

WESTERN FRONT, Korea, Dec. 3 (U.P.)—Communist Chinese soldiers carried pink pills for pale people during the war, the U. S. army said today.

Labels on pill boxes found on captured Chinese said the medicine would cure headaches, fever, chills, nausea, vomiting, toothaches, eye trouble, colds and sore feet.

"Rubbish," U. S. medics said. Analysis disclosed the pills contained only a few common drugs.

CAP Threatens Disbandment Over Conduct of Plane Search

BOISE, Dec. 3 (U.P.)—Col. Clifford Suhm, commander of Idaho's civil air patrol wing, said today his organization will take "drastic action"—including disbandment—unless it receives better cooperation from the state aeronautics department.

Suhm indicated his organization was angered with the way Aeronautics Director Chet Moulton directed a search this week for two missing fliers in southeastern Idaho.

The colonel said the matter was referred to CAP headquarters in Washington, which told the Idaho wing that nothing could be done at the headquarters level because it would be infringing on state's rights.

"The CAP, which is sponsored by the air force, is the only civilian group actually trained in search and rescue operations," Suhm said.

"We want Moulton to avail himself of that training," Suhm added.

He said the Idaho wing wants no part of any searches, "such as that conducted at Pocatello."

He contended that Moulton "knows nothing of search and rescue," and that the Pocatello search "was run in a slipshod manner."

"Moulton ignored the CAP," Suhm said, "and threatened to refuse food and lodging and gas and oil expenses if our group acted as a unit."

He said the CAP wanted the director to continue to administer and coordinate searches, but to take advantage of the CAP experience in operation and planning.

"A look at the past records will show that the CAP has been responsible, through its training, for finding the majority of lost planes in recent years," Suhm said.

A wing staff meeting will be held on or before Monday, he continued, to consider action, which will depend on Moulton's attitude toward cooperating with the wing.

Moulton had said he did not believe pilots on searches should be isolated by groups. All pilots should join together "as one family" in any search for a missing plane, Moulton had said.

Suhm, other CAP officers and Moulton met with Gov. Len Jordan yesterday. The governor expressed desire for a workable agreement, Suhm reported.

The two missing fliers are Sylvanus Benton, Salt Lake City, and Gerald Walker, Idaho Falls. They disappeared on a flight to Idaho Falls from Salt Lake City Thanksgiving day. Organized air and ground search was conducted from Pocatello.

Funds Contributed To Boise Society

BUHL, Dec. 3—A total of $330.34 was contributed by the Buhl schools to the Children's Home Finding and Aid society, Boise, in the Thanksgiving week offering of the pupils.

Although this amount is slightly under last year's contribution of $332.32, three of the four buildings exceeded last years' total. The high school led with $120, an increase of nearly $20 over last year. The F. H. Buhl building contributed $83.65 as compared to $70.88 last year. The contribution of the Junior high school increased from $34.77 to $43.61 this year, and the Lincoln school dropped from $124.72 to $83.08.

English Siamese Twins Separated

LONDON, Dec. 3 (U.P.)—An American-educated British surgeon successfully separated 6-month-old girl Siamese twins today in a three-hour and 35-minute operation.

The bridge of flesh joining the African Davies twins at the abdomen was severed by Dr. Ian Aird at 1:45 p.m. (6:45 a.m. MST).

"The babies are alive and well," a hospital announcement said.

The operation, the first successful one of its kind in Britain, was performed before technicolor cameras. Dr. Aird, who studied at Washington university, St. Louis, Mo., narrated a step-by-step description of the intricate surgery for the film sound track to permit the technique to be studied in the future.

Ike Calls for Sensible U. S. Power Policy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday problems involving the nation's power, water and other resources should be solved on the basis of "good sense" rather than on the arguments of "pressure groups or extremists."

Eisenhower made the statement in addressing 1,500 delegates to the mid-century conference on resources for the future, which opened a three-day meeting here.

Long View Needed

The nation must weigh conservation issues, the President said, "in terms of decades, rather than merely in terms of months, of the next election, or anything else that is temporary and passing."

Touching on the big dam versus the little dam type of controversy, Eisenhower suggested:

"Perhaps there is more froth and fury than good sense in all this argument."

Problems Complex

Mr. Eisenhower confessed he finds resource problems so complex that "I am forced back willy-nilly to the immediate problem of the day—that is, what do we do now in order that we may get to the next step."

The President lauded the aims of the conference, which was organized by the non-profit corporation, Resources for the Future, Inc., and financed by the Ford foundation.

The meeting is intended to lay a groundwork for continuing research on resources policy for economic growth and national security.

Boy, 3, Dies in Street Accident

SPIRIT LAKE, Dec. 3 (AP)—Frederick Hauck, 3, was injured fatally when struck by a car while crossing an icy Spirit Lake intersection Wednesday evening. He died about four hours later.

Deputy Sheriff John W. Razor said Grace Ellis, school teacher from Newport, Wash., was driver of the car.

The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hauck.

Finger Cut Off

Allen L. Phelps, 31, lost the little finger of his right hand when it was caught in a part of a milking machine at his farm near Buhl about 11:30 p. m. Wednesday, Deputy Sheriff F. C. Thompson reported.

Thompson brought Phelps to Magic Valley Memorial hospital for further treatment after receiving earlier treatment by a doctor at Buhl.

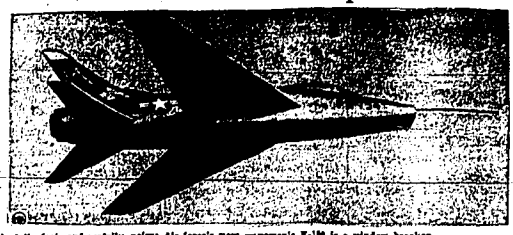
Cause and Effect of Speed



Awfully fast—and awfully noisy! Air force's new supersonic F-100 is a window breaker.

* * * * * * * * * * * *

Sound of Speed Is New Big Headache; Ear Plugs Are Only Answer at Present

* * * * * * * *

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Conquering the alarming problems of the sound of speed has suddenly taken the place of licking the speed of sound as aviation's major challenge.

"Aircraft noise," says Civil Aeronautics Administrator F. B. Lee, "today has become one of the industry's most crucial problems."

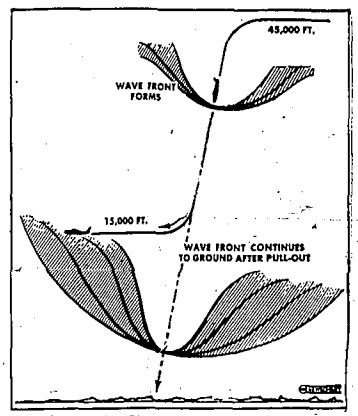
Another CAA official says flatly it's the most serious threat to U. S. public support of aviation that has ever existed.

The mysterious "supersonic boom," a blast phenomena which hits the ground like the sound of an exploding cannon when a plane dives through the sonic barrier, is the latest and most serious aspect of the problem.

Untold millions are hurriedly being spent by the industry, CAA, the air force, and the national advisory committee on aeronautics, top U. S. air research agency, to do something about noise abatement. Meantime troubles are mounting:

Petitions with close to 200,000 names on them are being circulated to demand closing of La Guardia field in New York and Los Angeles International airport. Signers are protesting the noise. Most fields in the U. S. which handle four-engine planes are having similar trouble.

Thousands of small claims have been lodged against the air force for broken windows, dishes knocked off shelves, chimneys cracked and plaster knocked down. The problem is especially acute near jet fields and strategic air command bases which have big bombers. Settlements are made locally and there are no total figures in the Pentagon. The sum is large, the air force admits.



Sound keeps coming: Diagram shows how supersonic plane pushes sound wave in front of it—and how sound wave keeps going after plane pulls out, hitting ground with big "boom."

Studies by air force doctors show increasing evidence of fatigue, dizziness, nervous strain, nausea and other physical ailments from long periods of close exposure to the scream of jet engines.

Several suits filed by cities against airlines for making a noise nuisance, which will be ruled on soon, could paralyze commercial flying.

Even though large jet engine plants bring great wealth to a community, there's growing resentment to the noise of engine testing. Moves are periodically being made to get the plants shifted. This would cost a fortune.

Efforts to combat these developments range from expensive research projects to elaborate public relations programs.

Piasecki Helicopter company, near Philadelphia, has its test pilots make a personal visit to the homes of persons complaining of noise. At some of its bases the strategic air command does the same thing.

CAA has gone as far as safety will permit in forcing airliners to use runways with approaches over the least populated areas, to climb steeply after take-off and to have minimum warm-up time on the ground.

The General Electric jet engine plant near Cincinnati has spent millions trying to soundproof engine test cells. Special cars equipped with sound-measuring equipment tour the community to make sure noise doesn't exceed a certain standard. It publishes a community paper to try to explain the noise problem and soothe nearby residents. There's no testing at night. All other jet engine makers have similar programs going.

Aircraft industry experts are holding numerous symposiums all over the country to exchange information on noise abatement progress.

The air force is spending more than one million dollars studying medical aspects of noise, plus other huge sums trying to find effective muffler systems for jets. NACA also has a major research program under way for the same purpose.

The air force also has had to start building and leasing new fields in isolated areas for testing new planes. It has issued rigid regulations for pilots who might fly faster than sound, prohibiting them from trying it anywhere near population centers for fear of the effect of the supersonic boom.

Unfortunately all of this effort is falling far behind growing public irritation with aircraft noise. About all the industry can do is try to educate the public to get used to it.

Research to date on jet noise piles up more evidence that there is very little that can be done about it. It's called "white noise"—from the term white light—because it embodies a full band of frequencies from highest to lowest pitch.

The noise of a jet engine only accounts for a few pounds of thrust, NACA scientists have discovered. But there's no way to separate it from the pure power. It is a simple equation, they admit: More power equals more noise.

One spokesman for a leading plane maker says frankly:

"Nothing can stop the trend toward more jet aircraft in the air with more power. It's going to produce more noise. And the best idea we have come up with yet as a solution is to distribute [illegible] and 'cotton. That's not [illegible] either."

'Nuisance' Strike Ended for Britain

LONDON, Dec. 3 (AP)—More than 1,500,000 workers trooped back to their jobs today, ending a communist-inspired 24-hour strike which had halted Britain's critical defense and export industries.

The walkout, Britain's biggest in 27 years, was called in an attempt to ram demands for a 15 per cent pay increase through the government's anti-inflationary "wage freeze." About 75 per cent of the sponsoring Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Workers heeded the strike call.

The leftist-led Amalgamated Engineering union, which initiated the "nuisance" strike, promptly called a national committee meeting to discuss further action. Industry circles expected that new demands soon would be added to the call for a wage increase.

Albion Stock Group Elects New Officers

ALBION, Dec. 3—The Albion Cattle association elected new officers and reviewed the season's activities in a meeting here Tuesday.

John Chatburn was elected president of the association. Others chosen were Clarence Albertson, vice president, and J. Vard Chatburn, secretary-treasurer. Dick Anderson and Arnold Hanson were named to the association's advisory board.

Chatburn also was elected as a member of the Sawtooth national forest cattle advisory board.

The association approved the management given the national forest grazing allotment by the advisory board and forest service.

Another matter under discussion was the time and number of livestock to be grazed and the management desired for the deer herd.

This was determined last year by an actual check of range conditions.

The association commended the action taken by the Idaho fish and game department in moving the deer archery hunt from the Albion mountain area this fall.

Looking to the future, the group heard a discussion of pending action on the exchange of use on privately held rangelands presented by William Mabbutt, assistant district grazier.

The association also heard a review of the progress made by the forest service in reseeding the Thompson flat area. Forest Ranger John Tucker, who presented the review, also thanked the association for its cooperation on the program for reducing the number of livestock in the area so the reseeding project could be carried out.

W. J. Lucas, Twin Falls, assistant forest supervisor, attended the meeting.

Officials Discuss School Transport

HAILEY, Dec. 3 — George Denman, business and finance officer for the state department of education, conferred with members of the Blaine county school board of trustees Tuesday night on the laws concerning the transportation of school children.

Denman told the trustees school buses can be used to transport pupils for extracurricular activities of the schools except for dances. Last year the Ketchum school bus carried pupils to Hailey and elsewhere for extracurricular activities but the practice was discontinued this year.

The board of trustees will meet again next Monday to discuss the matter further.

Family Eludes Red Guard in Daring Effort

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 3 (AP)—A Czech grandfather told today how he and four of his family shuttled back and forth three times across the iron curtain, hidden under a pile of lumber on a freight car, before they finally reached freedom.

At one time the piteous cries of his two grandchildren, suffering from hunger and thirst in an ordeal that stretched over eight days, drove Bedrich Cech, 52, to the point of surrender. All of them suffered, including his pregnant daughter-in-law.

Bluff Succeeds

But a monumental bluff by Cech and his son succeeded and the family finally reached a haven in the U. S. occupation zone of Austria.

Cech said he and his family feared arrest in the communist homeland because his daughter, Vlasta, is married to a former American soldier, Ronald K. Brown. She lives with him near Earlham, Ia.

Nearly Wrecked

Cech told a news conference in Linz that starvation, thirst and sickness nearly wrecked the escape of the party, which included his son, Marion, 30; his pregnant daughter-in-law, Drahomira, 24, and their two children, Ladislav, 4, and Vlasta, 2.

The Trieste-bound train on which they were huddled crossed and recrossed the iron curtain three times before they finally reached the safety of the American zone of Austria last Thursday. Customs inspectors overlooked the refugees hidden under the load of wood.

Dock Workers in S. F. Leave Posts To Protest Probe

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3 (AP)—Some 6,000 San Francisco dock workers left their jobs today as a "stop-work" meeting protesting hearings of the house un-American activities committee was held at the city hall.

At 9:30 a.m. (PST), time of the scheduled meeting, some 300 longshoremen had gathered, half in a picket line in front of the city hall and the rest crowded into corridors waiting for the doors to the hearing room to open.

Police Chief Michael Gaffey ordered 130 officers to guard the civic center. He gave the longshoremen permission to picket outside city hall, but not to demonstrate inside the building. He also allowed them a loudspeaker permit.

The protest meeting was called by local 10 of Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union. A committee witness, Louis Rosser, testified Tuesday that three top ILWU leaders were communists.

Roads Noted Key For Forest Usage

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — A west coast lumber industry spokesman said Thursday the development of adequate access roads is "the first and paramount need . . . if the national forests are to fulfill their purpose."

The need of access roads was one of four principal points emphasized by W. D. Hagenstein, Portland, Ore., forest engineer for the Industrial Forestry association, in a speech prepared for the section on utilization and development of land resources at the mid-century conference on resources for the future.

Other things Hagenstein said would help bring more timber from the national forests were simplification of timber sale procedure, speeded up timber inventories and more advanced engineering and timber management planning.

Auxiliary's Units Of Magic Valley Work on Project

Work on the annual project of contributing gifts to hospitalized veterans is being completed this week by American Legion auxiliary units in Magic Valley.

The gifts will be displayed at the veterans' hospital, Boise, Monday and Tuesday so that the patients there may select articles for their family.

Members of the Magic Valley units have contributed gifts which, in many towns, were displayed so that the public could add to the contributions.

The gifts are taken or mailed to the hospital, often with wrappings included. Gift wrapping is done by the patient himself or by an attendant at the hospital.

This year presents for boys between the ages of 10 and 14 years especially were requested.

Often members also contribute gifts for veterans themselves and the Twin Falls auxiliary sometimes includes several dollar bills with which the patient may purchase other articles for his family.

This week the members are packing the gifts and preparing them for mailing to the hospital.

The project has been sponsored by the national and state American Legion auxiliary for more than 15 years.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

I wrote an article recently expressing strong disapproval of the practice of young people studying while their radios were going full blast. Some of them have written to me, taking exception to my advice. They insist they do their best studying while radio programs are turned on.

One letter, signed by a group of boys, astonished me, hardened as I am through many years of hearing such opinions expressed by pupils. In this communication it was set forth: "You are wrong for the most part regarding the radio interfering with studying. Certainly, in some subjects that require steady concentration, you are right, but not when we are working on algebra or English."

In my experience as a student and as a teacher of algebra, this subject demanded all the concentrated attention I could give it. Problems in algebra are not done offhand. Even watching the signs and exponents and simple routines called for strict attention. Then you have the additional thinking required. Any noise in those days distracted attention and interfered with a clear understanding and the solving of the problems.

As for English—think of the broad field it covers. To say that literature, poetry, grammar, reports, spelling and writing compositions don't require concentration is unbelievable!

My earnest advice to students of algebra and English is for them to retire to a quiet corner where they can really concentrate on their work. They will probably finish their tasks satisfactorily. Afterward they can listen to the radio with more appreciation, for they have earned that relaxation.

I know that I could not give concentrated attention to study if there was a radio at my side blaring musical and voice programs. There may be some persons who are not distracted as much as others by noises or tunes, but even so they might discover that they could do far better work with the benefit of silence.

It is to be hoped that these boys and others who agree with them will give a second thought to our difference of opinion. Let them try studying without radio programs and they may be surprised at the results.

A record book for your child is a must. It provides a source of information that can be of great value in a child's future as well as sentimental value. Dr. Patri's leaflet, P-23, "Record Book," explains why. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Players Refuse to Meet Frick When Lawyer Is Barred

ATLANTA, Dec. 3 (AP)—Major league players refused to talk pension business with Ford Frick Wednesday after the baseball commissioner barred their lawyer from the proposed session and Frick promptly disclosed that the whole pension system may be junked.

In what appeared an obvious warning to the players to be good, or else, Frick told a press conference that at a Sept. 29 meeting the major league executive council considered dissolving the whole pension program.

No action to that end was taken but Frick said the council appointed one representative from each of the two major leagues to study the problem and recommend whether the pensions should be terminated.

"I am hopeful that something can be worked out to everybody's satisfaction," Frick said. "Personally, I would hate to see the pension plan terminated. The pension plan is one of the best things that could have happened. It is a wonderful thing for the players. I'm sure everybody, including the players and club owners, wants it.

"But no plan is worth constant bickering, constant doubt and constant suspicion."

Shortly after Frick had made his thinly veiled threat, Will Harridge, American league president, told reporters he was withdrawing his invitation to Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees, American league player representative, to attend next week's major league meeting in New York.

The 16 players, one from each big league club, formally elected J. Norman Lewis, New York attorney, as their legal counsel Wednesday and then sent Ralph Kiner of the Chicago National league club, and Allie Reynolds of the New York American league team to see Frick.

Although all 16 had been invited to attend, at baseball's expense, only the two league representatives were sent to ask permission for Lewis to sit in. When Frick refused to let the lawyer come to the meeting, the players returned to their associates with the news.

The 16 players then held a three-hour session and decided not to meet with Frick under his conditions.

Frick called a press conference late in the afternoon and explained his reason for not permitting the players' attorney to attend. He said he had called an informal session and that no legalities were involved, therefore no attorneys were needed.

Basketball Jamboree Opens Valley Season

RUPERT, Dec. 3—The Magic Valley basketball season got away to a fast start here Tuesday as four class B teams opened their seasons with a cage jamboree. Approximately 1,500 persons packed the Civic auditorium to see teams from Paul, Malta, Declo and Heyburn battle each other.

Declo emerged as winner of the jamboree by piling up a total of 37 points in competition with the three other clubs. Each team played one quarter with the other three teams.

Malta took second place with a total of 28 points while Paul was third with 35 points. Heyburn placed last with 24 points.

Scoring was based upon the number of wins each team scored against the other teams.

The results:

First round—Malta 12, Paul 6; Declo 8, Heyburn 4.

Second round—Declo 19, Paul 10; Heyburn 11; Malta 11.

Third round—Paul 19, Heyburn 9; Declo 9, Malta 5.

Bands from each of the four schools attended the jamboree.

Gary Boyce, Kay Powell, Gary Blake and Bob Behr, all co-captains of the winning Declo five, were presented the championship trophy by Don Blakely, Paul high school principal.

Lattner Wins Football's Two Top Trophies

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3 (AP)—Notre Dame's Johnny Lattner, triple-threat halfback, won college football's top two individual awards for 1953—the Heisman and Maxwell trophies.

In winning the Maxwell memorial award, Lattner became the first player in the club's 17-year history to be named twice. The Irish star copped the honor a year ago, and he'll be back for the annual dinner Jan. 12 to be feted again.

Lattner, on the Associated Press all-America last year and a cinch to repeat again, received 1,850 votes in the Heisman award voting to beat out Paul Giel, Minnesota.

The 6-foot, 1-inch, 190-pound backfield flash—a runner, kicker and linebacker on defense almost without peer—is the third Notre Dame player (counted twice himself) to win the Maxwell award.

In 1949 Leon Hart, now playing end for the National Football league's Detroit Lions, was the recipient.

The Maxwell award is presented in memory of the late Robert W. (Tiny) Maxwell, former Swarthmore college star, football referee and newspaperman.

Reverses Fail To Jar U. S. Davis Cuppers

MELBOURNE, Dec. 3 (AP)—A series of stunning reverses failed Wednesday to jar the confidence of the U. S. Davis cup team, which is still sure it can recapture the trophy from the Australians later this month.

"What happened at Sydney last week and here this week after all has no bearing on the Davis cup," Captain Bill Talbert said.

"I think its importance in relation to the Davis cup has been overexaggerated. We have some hard work to do, sure, but this thing of counting us out is ridiculous."

The Americans received another hard blow Wednesday when U. S. champion Tony Trabert and Wimbledon titlist Vic Seixas, their ace double team, fell in the semi-finals of the Victorian championships to Rex Hartwing and Mervyn Rose, Australia's second-string tandem 6-8, 6-4, 6-2, 5-7, 6-2.

Previously the crippled Seixas had lost a second round singles match to George Worthington and Trabert had been beaten in the quarterfinals by Hartwig.

These two dark horse Australians thus took the place of the Americans in what was to be a Davis cup preview.

Worthington plays Ken Rosewall and Hartwig meets Lew Head in tomorrow's all-Aussie round of four.

Cards Acquire Shortstop From Redlegs

ATLANTA Dec. 3 (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals added shortstop strength Wednesday by acquiring rookie Alex Grammas from Cincinnati for relief pitcher John Crimian and cash, amidst a flurry of news at the minor league baseball convention.

Grammas, a .307 hitter and brilliant fielder at Kansas City last season, where he played on option from Cincinnati, is expected to give Solly Hemus a battle for the regular job in the Cardinal infield. Hemus, in fact, might be shifted to third. Crimian was a 12-5 pitcher with Rochester, the Cards' International league farm where he appeared in more than 60 games.

The Cards also completed another deal when they sent veteran left-handed pitcher Cliff Chambers to San Diego as part payment for pitcher Willie Luna, a Mexican southpaw who won 17 games with his darting knuckler.

Golf pro Skip Alexander captained the Duke university team in 1939.

Commercial Fishermen, Indians Cut Into Snake River Salmon Run

BOISE, Dec. 3 (AP)—Extensive fishing by commercial fishermen and Indians cut sharply into the Snake river salmon run, the Idaho fish and game department said Wednesday.

Forrest R. Hauck, third district biologist, said the department's annual spawning survey between Swan falls and Homedale showed a run of approximately 700 chinook salmon. This is less than one-third of the 1952 run.

The department counted 10,000 spawning salmon in this area in 1947.

Boat and aerial surveys disclosed only 250 spawning nests this year, compared to about 900 in 1952 and 3,700 in 1947, first year of the survey.

Hauck said the large Columbia river commercial fishery and particularly heavy Indian fishing during the past two years, especially at Celilo falls, were chiefly responsible for the reduction.

Biologists failed to recover any salmon tagged at the mouth of the Columbia river and at Bonneville dam in an attempt to determine spawning habits of various types of salmon.

The Oregon fish commission has been tagging the fish for about 10 years, but none has ever been found in the Swan Falls-Homedale area.

Aim of the tagging program is to regulate downriver commercial fishing so as to allow portions of each race of salmon to escape to spawning streams. Hauck asked sportsmen finding tagged salmon to mail them to the Idaho fish and game department.

The survey was made under a contract between the department and the army corps of engineers, as part of the fisheries research program established by the army in 1951. Idaho's part of the job is to check destination and numbers of fish and time of appearance.

U. S. fish and wildlife representatives and Robert Rullfsen of the Oregon fish commission accompanied department personnel making the survey.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 3 (AP)—Three more Pioneer league players were named Wednesday in the baseball draft in progress in Atlanta.

The choices were made Wednesday by class B leagues. Peoria in the Three-I league drafted outfielder James Scott from the Magic Valley Cowboys.

Newport News of the Piedmont league picked first baseman Lawrence Nault from Ogden.

A pitcher who was on the roster of Salt Lake City but played last year for Spokane in the Western International league, Bob Nemes, was drafted by Durham in the Carolina league.

Clean Game

ROCKY FORD, Dec. 3 (AP)—A bar of soap, any size, is the admission charge for a volleyball and three basketball games at the field house in Rocky Ford Saturday night.

The school district does not provide soap for the athletic teams nor for high school physical education classes. Coaches decided to hold the soap benefit.

Faculty members will play volleyball. The basketball games match Rocky Ford high school players.

Lack of Gym Doesn't Hinder Musher Cagers

FAIRFIELD, Dec. 3—Trying to whip a basketball team into shape without a gym of your own in which to practice is pretty rough.

That's the problem faced this season by Fairfield coach John Beitia. Despite that problem, Beitia is still optimistic about the Musher's chances of improving on last season's record of seven wins and eight losses.

The Musher's new gym has not been completed yet and, as a result, the club has to use the facilities available at Gooding State. They have been able to use that gym three nights a week for their practice sessions.

Beitia reports he lost only one letterman from last year's club and has six veterans back battling for starting berths.

The six include Dean Jewett, Jay Lee, Art Turner, Clinton Krohn, Bill Simon and Gordon Schmidt.

Other outstanding prospects include Jerry Moon, Lee Barron, Rueben Miller, Dick Babington, Jim Armitage, Bob Turner, Bob Gill and Leo Cox.

The Mushers open their schedule on Dec. 11 against Dietrich at Dietrich.

The rest of the schedule includes:

Dec. 15, Bliss at Bliss; Dec. 17, Wendell at Wendell; Dec. 22, Glenns Ferry at Glenns Ferry; Jan. 8, Hagerman at Fairfield; Jan. 12, Richfield at Fairfield; Jan. 15, Bellevue at Bellevue; Jan. 19, Wendell at Fairfield; Jan. 22, Dietrich at Fairfield; Jan. 26, Gooding State at Fairfield; Jan. 29, Richfield at Richfield; Jan. 30, Bellevue at Fairfield; Feb. 2, Hagerman at Hagerman; Feb. 5, Glenns Ferry at Fairfield; Feb. 9, Gooding State at Gooding State; Feb. 12, Bliss at Fairfield; Feb. 19, Carey at Fairfield.

State Approves Fish Eggs Trade

BOISE, Dec. 3 (AP)—The board of examiners approved Wednesday an arrangement under which the state fish and game department will trade 7,500 kokanee eggs for 2,500 rainbow trout eggs.

The trade is to be made with the state of California. If the department cannot secure enough eggs of the kokanee, one of the state's most popular sport fish, it will pay the current market price for the rest of the rainbow eggs.

Grande's Fabulous Bevo Francis kes Madison Square Garden Debut

YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — Bevo will attempt to prove he's n a basketball freak and will seek to prove that the t dead in New York when season of college basket- adison Square garden opens

, who set a series of un- and almost unbelievable arks for little Rio Grande t year, will be the lure by h, the Garden basketball to bring back the fans. tomers stayed away from en in large numbers last ut they all heard about ring feats and the furore e when the College Bas- aches association and the College AA agreed that s weren't acceptable be- he quality of Rio Grande

Thus Bevo and Rio Grande will make their first metropolitan appearance against Adelphi college—not a high-powered team, but one of known ability and representing a four-year college. Last season, Rio Grande played a lot of junior colleges and other minor institutions. It opened the 1953-54 season in Buffalo last week by swamping Erie Tech, a two-year school, 120-59.

The second game of Thursday night's doubleheader, first of 19 on the Garden schedule, will bring together Lafayette and St. John's of Brooklyn.

As a gawky, six-foot-nine-inch freshman last year, Francis scored an average of 50.1 points a game and Rio Grande, winning 39 games, averaged 101 points. And if the Ohioans' schedule didn't amount to much, Newt Oliver, their talkative coach, says it was the fault of the big schools that wouldn't give him a game. He has lined up a somewhat better program for this season.

Francis' four teammates obviously did little more than feed him the ball but that still leaves a big problem for Adelphi coach George Faherty.

"They tell me the only way to stop Francis is to put four men on him, and that leaves only one to play the other four," Faherty says. "Maybe we can do that. He hit about 40 per cent of his shots in Buffalo the other night and scored 64 points. That means he must have taken 50 or 60 shots and a team normally takes only about 70 or 80, so the others could not have done much shooting."

Pets Reflect Neurotic Trends Of Modern Life, Doctor Avers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — Does your dog brood? Well, stop him. That way lies madness.

Civilized dogs and cats are getting more neurotic all the time. The main trouble? It's people. Modern people, not only drive each other batty. They do the same thing to their pets.

Hal Boyle

"People drive 50 per cent of their pets neurotic by lack of understanding," said William Hall, a former management engineer turned animal psychologist.

His conclusions of the mental relationship between pets and people are based on the study of thousands of animals in his laboratory at Coral Gables, Fla.

"Any pet reflects its home," he said. "We can take a dog in our laboratory and quickly tell, in part, simply by the way it wags its tail, the general mental health of its owners. We can even tell whether the husband or wife is dominant in the home—and how dominant."

A frustrated animal, Hall has found, usually is the product of frustrated people. He feels the frustration in both the pet and its owner stems from the same cause, an ego-deflating boredom that arises from a feeling of lack of accomplishment.

"We are all extroverts; we like to feel we are doing something worthwhile," he said. "A busy person rarely gets in trouble—and neither does a busy animal.

"A civilized pet has too much leisure, too much time to brood. It has surplus energy it must get rid of somehow. So, unless its owner understands this and gives it something to do that satisfies it, it becomes neurotic, bites people, chews up rugs or tears up the furniture."

"The right kind of toy will stimulate and satisfy him," Hall said. "But the big mistake pet owners make is to pick out a toy that pleases them more than it does their pet—an error parents also often make in selecting toys for their children."

"A toy should satisfy a pet's extrovert needs. A parakeet, for example, is very vain. A mirror makes a nice toy for him, because he is happy to perch before it and admire his own reflection for hours."

Hall found that dogs like toys that make a noise or have a taste.

"For some reason well-fed dogs, like women, prefer a chocolate flavor," Hall said. "On the other hand cats, unlike women, go wild, simply wild, over anything with catnip in it."

But his advice is—if you want to be a real Santa Claus to your pet—take it to the pet store and let it sniff out its own Christmas present.

"Let it pick out its own toys, as if it were a child," he said, "and it won't get bored, frustrated or neurotic."

Could even save you money. It costs real dough today to send your dog to a canine psychiatrist and have him listen to it bark out its mental problems.

Shortest tenure of the presidency of the U. S. was that of William Henry Harrison, who died a month after taking office in 1841.

Beef Declared To Be Bargain For Housewife

By The Associated Press

Beef looks like your best bet in meats this week-end, the men who run the nation's food stores agree. Leg of lamb also will be a special attraction in many markets.

A number of stores have picked pot roast as a week-end feature. There will be specials on sirloin and porterhouse steak, ground beef and other cuts in various sections of the country.

Lamb Trimmed

Stores featuring leg of lamb plan to trim a few cents a pound from prices. Elsewhere, price tags will be about the same as a week ago to a little higher.

Scattered stores will offer lower prices on pork loin, but in general pork will be higher. Rises of 2 to 4 cents a pound are planned for center cut pork chops.

Frying chickens will be selling at about the same price levels that prevailed a week ago. But eggs will be distinctly cheaper in most stores. According to the National Poultry and Egg board, egg prices have declined about 15 cents a dozen at wholesale since Nov. 23.

Prices Falling

As a result, prices are coming down at the retail level. Declines will range from 6 cents a dozen to as much as 12 cents.

Butter prices will be about the same in most stores.

The U. S. department of agriculture came up with a long list of worthwhile buys in vegetables. "Outstanding buys" include iceberg lettuce, beans, cabbage, potatoes, brussels sprouts and cauliflower. "Good buys" are cucumbers, eggplant, escarole, onions, sweet potatoes and squash.

Peas, celery and tomatoes moved higher in the wholesale markets. Supplies of tomatoes were especially light.

Pears and apples offer the best values in fruit, produce men said.

Ike Expresses Sympathy for Parents of Tot Lost in Canal

MARTINEZ, Calif., Dec. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower's answer to parents of a 3-year-old boy who drowned in Contra Costa canal was made public here today.

After Joey Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Anderson, formerly Clyde, Calif., fell into the irrigation canal Nov. 16, his father wrote the President, who answered, apparently, the day he got the letter.

Wrote the President:

"Rarely have I been so touched by any letter as by yours of the 20th. Mrs. Eisenhower and I lost our first—and then only son—when he was 3½-years-old. I am keenly aware of the sense of total loss that must engulf you.

"To provide some answer for you concerning the hazards presented by unfenced canals to the children of our country, I am sending your letter to the department of interior. I assume that the canal must be part of some project constructed under the reclamation bureau of that department, in response to needs and demands from your region.

"In any event, an appropriate official, either in that department or any other that may be responsible, will give you an explanation of the existing situation and any other information he believes you might find interesting.

"I know that no words of mine can diminish the pain you feel in the loss of your son, even though I assure you that you have my deep and sincere sympathy. Certainly I hope that through some proper way, steps can be taken to see that this kind of tragedy is not repeated in the future.

Sincerely,
Dwight D. Eisenhower."

The Andersons moved to Portland, Ore., shortly after the tragedy to "get away from all the memories."

Little Joey was the 33rd victim of the 57-mile irrigation canal since construction began in 1938.

No Change of Policies Seen In Big 3 Talks

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
AP News Analyst

There's something missing in the atmosphere surrounding the Bermuda conference.

For the first time since Potsdam the chiefs of three major nations are holding a full-dress conference.

Ordinarily, great decisions would be expected.

Ordinarily, there also would be an accompanying uneasiness.

This time there is merely a feeling that the meeting is designed to give the British and French premiers a look together for first hand discussions with President Eisenhower as one answer to charges in their home constituencies that they ride too much in the American cart without having much say where it is going.

Not that the matters to be discussed are of little import. They are extremely important. But they are matters customarily handled through ordinary diplomatic channels. All of the exchanges with Russia about plans for a German peace conference have been handled that way, but now the big shots are going to take a hand in planning the reply to Russia's latest note. Things like that.

There is of course the opportunity for clarification of general attitudes on certain points. Eisenhower can tell Lanie much better than he can write about how far the U. S. can go in assuring that Germany will not be permitted to dominate the proposed European defense community. He can explain much better than he can write to Churchill about the American attitude toward the trade embargo against red China or Harvard India. Informality brings out things that cannot be placed in the record.

But there is nothing in the air to indicate that there will be any great changes in the policies of either of the nations as a result of this meeting, or any development of essentially new or striking policy. There may be some compromise and coordination.

This very situation is responsible in the absence of any uneasiness—unless the Russians are uneasy over it and every allied attempt to solidify their front.

Uneasiness has developed over such conferences in the past because the leaders seem to sense their collective power when thrown together—feel capable or called upon for concrete decisions, and do things which cause regret later.

Hank Has Own Ideas on Good "Man of Year" Award Choices

By HENRY McLEMORE

The editors of a certain national magazine are now trying to decide on The Man of the Year to put on the cover of their weekly, and I would like to offer a few men for their consideration.

McLemore

None of my nominations is a world figure, and none is known much farther than his own neighborhood, but during 1953 each of them took a stand, that, to my way of thinking, at least, contributed to the advance of civilization.

Phineas P. Leghorn, Everett, Wash.: When asked by neighbors if he would like them to show him the movies they took on their vacation he said, "No, and I mean no. If there is anything I despise it is movies people take on their vacations. And if you persist in showing them, and I think you will, I am going to get up and go home."

John Cuthas Columbus, Ga.: This gentleman, on entering a movie theater, and finding himself in the dark and with no usher to light his way to a seat, bellowed for the manager until the house lights had to be turned on and he was able to get to a seat without endangering his neck.

Milton Teascaster, Bangor Me.: On reaching his 100th birthday anniversary, Mr. Teascaster refused to see the press on the grounds that he was so tired he could barely stand up, and, besides, he had no formula for living to 100.

Phipps Lufwig, New York City: He refused to stand out in the rain and whistle for a cab for his wife when he was suffering from a heavy chest cold and she was as healthy as Man o'War was when a 2-year-old. He insisted she get the cab for once, even is she got drenched to the skin.

Budge Dalton, Hollywood, Calif.: Produced a television variety show in which not one so-called modern ballet was danced by a troupe of capering cut-ups interpreting exactly nothing.

Curney Tellbone, Bloomington, Ill.: After warning his wife for the hundredth time not to leave her nylons soaking in the bathroom sink, or her slips, girdles, etc., draped over the shower curtain, gained revenge when she failed to heed his warning by cramming them into a double boiler and throwing them out the window.

Clayton Hemp, Norfolk, Va.: Offered $100,000 to the first manufacturer who would admit openly that the clocks he put in his cars don't keep time as well as a sun dial in a cellar.

Jessup Jones, Cheyenne, Wyo.: Invented a machine which removes the 10,001 pins shirt manufacturers put in new shirts and then sticks them in the manufacturers themselves.

Ole Guthrie, Montgomery, Ala.: Offered a $10,000 reward for the scalp of the man who invented those washroom faucets which have to be held to keep the water running.

Horace Bolster, Chattanooga, Tenn.: Founded an institution for the care and rehabilitation of men and women who can prove they have paid out money for a ticket to a wrestling match.

Custis Cornerstone, Butte, Mont.: Holed up in a cave for three weeks and came out with a plausible reason why people swim channels and why people like to read about channel swimmers. This put a lot of our minds at rest.

I hope the editors choose one of these men. They are all worthy of the distinction.

Talbott Says U. S. Goal Is Strength

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3 (AP)—Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott said Wednesday America is "trying to win a war without fighting" by becoming "so strong no one will dare attack us."

Talbott, in an address before the Pennsylvania Society of Sons of the Revolution, said he didn't know, however, "how long we will have to maintain that situation."

30,000 People Homeless in Pusan as Result of Recent Fire in Port City

PUSAN, Dec. 3 (AP)—I saw 30,000 homeless Koreans today, about half of them children.

These are the sad, human by-products of last Friday's fire disaster which cut the heart out of this major supply port and wrought 40 million dollars worth of damage.

About 10,000 of the Koreans are living in a huge U. S. army warehouse, all sleeping on the floor. They have spread mats on the floor and are dry and warm on this wet day.

The mothers sit on the floor holding the babies. The elder children chase all over the place.

The other 20,000 Koreans who lost their homes have moved in with relatives or are living in squad tents which U. S. soldiers put up for them.

It was raining when we walked through the burned section. Little brown faces kept poking out of the tents, staring inquisitively.

The fire began in the squatter section of this city of 1,000,000, swollen from a normal population of about 250,000 by war refugees.

It spread down a deep ravine like a prairie fire, ate into the heart of the city and destroyed one-sixth of it. Vital railway and military installations went up in smoke, including part of the headquarters for the U. S. army's Korean base section.

Today U. S. and South Korean army bulldozers and heavy cranes were clearing the rubble and leveling the land for new buildings.

Hundreds of Koreans, young and old, were out in the wet clearing the debris from their lots.

The Korean base section, which is responsible for supplying the eighth army in Korea, has begun erecting semi-permanent quonset buildings.

One group of quonsets is going up in Pusan's outskirts to house 100 Korean orphans whose orphanage was destroyed.

The U. S. army is distributing food, blankets and clothing to the victims.

Gen. John E. Hull, allied far east commander, toured the ruins with President Syngman Rhee and talked with some of the victims at the army warehouse.

Hull told Rhee that if the citizens of Pusan would get together and plan a new center of town with modern streets and buildings he would see that they got help to rebuild their city.

"I will do everything in my power to help you recover from this tragedy and return to normal life," Hull told the Koreans. "We are determined that no more will suffer."

Rhee in talking to the refugees made reference to police charges that a woman now in custody started the fire by leaving untended a fire in an earthen pot in her hut. This is against the unwritten law of the orient, where flimsy, tinderbox houses are close together.

"In the first place," Rhee told the people, "I would like to scold you for your carelessness which led to such disaster.

"We Koreans must do our utmost to rehabilitate the city in cooperation with all the outside help."

subcommittee to obtain the confessed Soviet spy courier, Igor Gouzenko, as a public witness. Gouzenko first alerted Canadian officials to the activities of an extensive spy ring at the end of World war II.

Canada acted with speed, efficiency and complete secrecy with the whole matter being presented before a royal commission. As a result the ring leaders were convicted and given jail sentences.

The commission met without benefit of television cameras and its two-volume report still is the most thorough and far-reaching analysis of Soviet espionage. This case history was so complete as detailed in thousands of pages of testimony of which part was used to document the public report, that little new has been added to the picture in the intervening years.

Obviously Gouzenko, who fled the Russian embassy in peril of his life to give the Canadian police secret spy documents, was from that moment a prime target of communist assassins. The relentlessness of communist revenge was shown in the instance of Leon Trotsky, pursued around the world after his break with Stalin and finally hacked to death with an alpine axe in Mexico City years later.

Canada gave Gouzenko citizenship and the protection of the mounties. He lives quietly under a pseudonym in a small town. The boo he wrote based on his experiences in the communist system is reported to have brought him upwards of $100,000.

The fact that the Jenner committee proposed to make Gouzenko a spectacular public witness was not in itself the cause of the angry reaction in Canada. This move was accompanied by what in the view of Canadian officials was the equivalent of blackmail aimed at Lester Pearson, Canada's minister of external affairs.

A speech was made—inspired, in the Canadian view, by the Jenner committee—suggesting that information was in the files to the effect that Pearson had at second hand supplied data to a Soviet spy ring in Washington. That was during the years Pearson served as Canadian minister here. Robert Morris, counsel for the Jenner committee, has denied that any such information is contained in the committee file.

To the first request that Gouzenko be allowed to testify publicly, Pearson replied that the former code clerk had said he had nothing new to add. In a second reply he said he apparently had been mistaken since in a newspaper interview Gouzenko expressed the belief he could give useful "advice" to the committee about unearthing spy rings in the United States. In this second reply Pearson laid down several conditions, one of them being that the interrogation of Gouzenko should be in secret and that the Canadian government should have the right to determine which parts of his testimony should be made public.

Jenner promptly rejected this condition and asked the state department to make another approach to the Canadian government. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has declined to do so in a letter to Jenner, stating his belief that the stipulations laid down by Canada are reasonable.

The fact is that Dulles had little choice in the matter since Canada had let it be known that a third attempt would be an affront with consequences for which the Canadian government could not answer. This is an extraordinary occurrence in the relationship between two friendly neighbors with what has been called the longest undefended border in the world.

But back of the stern intimation to the state department was a sense of outrage over still another aspect of the spy business. In one of the secret FBI documents Attorney-General Brownell gave out was a reference to a source of information high in the Canadian government.

The release was made without any prior consultation with Canada and the government in Ottawa considered it a direct breach of the common diplomatic courtesy requiring a previous exchange before confidential information involving another power is made public. What is more, Canada now says there was no such source in the Canadian government.

Some will ask what difference it makes; what Canada thinks. We are a rich and powerful nation dominating this hemisphere and Canada had better accommodate itself to that fact, some assert.

But this is a blindly shortsighted view. Putting aside all considerations of neighborliness and good will, the fact is that Canada is far and away America's best foreign customer. Whether it is politics, at a time when the export market is becoming increasingly important, to kick your best customer in the face seems to have occurred to almost no one.

Cheer up! Space Men Fear Us too, Says Man Who Claims "First-Hand" Word

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEW YORK, (NEA) — George Adamski is either an ace spinner of science fiction tales—or else he's the first earthman to talk to a visitor from out of space. He claims that he's the latter.

Adamski says that on Nov. 20, 1952, he talked to a man from Venus for about an hour. Then he watched him take off in his flying saucer, and, 23 days later, the Venusian came back and gave Adamski a message. The message has not yet been deciphered.

If it's science fiction, this is a humdinger, because Adamski has photographs, a plaster cast of the visitor's odd footprint, affidavits from six people who witnessed the rendezvous, and that strange message.

If it's science fact, it's a whopper, because none of the six witnesses was close enough to hear the "conversation," the photographs do not show the visitor, and nobody has been able to make head or tail out of the scrawly hieroglyphics on the message.

But Adamski's story, whether fact or fiction, makes highly entertaining reading. He tells it in a book called "Flying Saucers Have Landed," written in collaboration with Desmond Leslie. Leslie's half of the book is a lengthy attempt to prove that flying saucers date back to 1020, and possibly even before. But Adamski steals the show.

He tells how he grew interested in the subject of flying saucers, and spent many hours looking for them —and seeing them. Then, on that fateful Nov. 20, he was in the California desert, about 10 miles northeast of Desert Center. With him were Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bailey, Dr. and Mrs. George H. Williamson, Mrs. Alice K. Wells and Mrs. Lucy McGinnis, his secretary.

Suddenly, they all spotted "a gigantic cigar-shaped silvery ship," riding high and silently in the clear sky. (The Venusian later said this was the saucer's "mother" ship.) They followed this until it suddenly zoomed off, frightened away by air force planes. Five minutes later Adamski, who had wandered away from his companions, saw a flying saucer, drifting in between two mountain peaks.

* * * *

Dreamer?

George Adamski: The man from Venus said "Boom! Boom!"

This craft, too, was spotted by air force planes, and disappeared in a hurry. But a few minutes later, Adamski says, he saw a man about a quarter of a mile away. The man motioned to him, and he came.

This was the Venusian. He was about five feet, six inches tall, weighed about 135, and Adamski estimates his age at 28. He was quite good-looking, with long, wavy, shoulder-length sandy hair, a suntanned complexion, gray-green eyes slightly aslant at the corners and beautiful white teeth. He was wearing a chocolate brown outfit, which Adamski describes as like a ski suit, and ox-blood colored shoes with a side opening.

There was a friendly greeting—Venusians shake hands by simply placing palms together—and then they talked. Adamski doesn't speak Venusian and the visitor knew no English, so they talked by making gestures and "forming pictures in their minds."

Adamski learned, first, that the visitor was from Venus. (He made gestures of circles around the sun, and the visitor pointed to Venus' orbit.) Then the Venusian said he had come to warn earth that atomic explosions were dangerous. ("To express the explosions, he said 'Boom! Boom!'")

The man from Venus explained how saucers were powered—magnetism. And he said that many saucers had landed before. He even admitted that some earth people had been taken away in them. He said that other planets besides Venus—and planets in solar systems other than ours—send out craft that come to earth. Many use the moon as a stopping-off point.

Saucers, he continued, do not appear or land often in populated places, as the men from outer space fear earth people. But he said there were men from other worlds living on earth today, among us, and for that reason he wouldn't permit his picture to be taken. Adamski sympathizes, saying there are certain facial characteristics which would be easily spotted.

The visitor said almost every planet is inhabited, and the people look almost the same as we do. Then he made a point of impressing his footprints in the ground and, after a few more pleasantries, led the way to his saucer. He took a photographic plate from Adamski before leaving.

The footprints, which had a different set of hieroglyphics on each shoe, were quickly preserved in plaster of Paris.

It was on Dec. 13 that the saucer flew back, over Adamski's home at Palomar Gardens, and one of the portholes opened. A hand appeared, dropped the photographic plate, waved slightly, and then the saucer zoomed away.

On the plate was the message. Adamski was very pleased with the encounter, with one exception. The Venusian wouldn't take him for a ride in the saucer. But, he says, maybe next time.

Study Urged for River Basin Pact

TOPEKA, Kans., Dec. 3 (AP)—Gov. Norman Brunsdale, North Dakota, today proposed a go slow policy toward the proposed 10-state Missouri river basin compact.

The compact would set up a federal-state agency to operate the pick-sloan program of natural resources development now under construction by the federal government.

Governor Brunsdale said "exhaustive study should be made" of the revised version of the compact.

"In my judgment another year is needed before we take a definite step as to whether we shall enter into or propose a compact between the several states," he said.

The North Dakota governor spoke before an annual meeting of the Missouri river states committee.
