The BIG CHANGE you've been hoping for —

Exemplar of the 1954 Buick's years-from-now styling in this winning new Buick Wildcat

BUICK
the beautiful buy

THE instant you see these 1954 Buicks, you'll know that something sensational has happened in automobile styling. Here is vastly more than the usual model changeover. Here is vastly more than could be done just by warming over what Buick had before. Here is something accomplished by going far beyond artful face-lifting. Here is that rarity of rarities—a completely new line of automobiles.

But Buick didn't stop with the bolder, fresher, swifter-lined beauty you see in raised and lengthened fender sweep—in the huge and buck-swept expanse of windshield—in the lowered roofline—in the host more glum features of exterior modernity. They upped all horsepower to the highest in Buick history.

They engineered a new V8 for the SPECIAL—and in the process came up with new Power-Head Pistons that boost gasoline mileage in every engine.

They brought to market a sparkling new comer with a famous name, the Buick CENTURY—a car with phenomenal horsepower for its weight and price—a car with more pure thrill per dollar than any Buick ever built.

And they did all this without change of the price structure which, for years, has made Buick the most popular car at its price in the world.

We invite you to come in and inspect these great beauties, these great performers, these great buys. Then you'll see why the Detroit previewers are already saying, "Buick's the beautiful buy!"

When better automobiles are built Buick will build them.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—An extremely enterprising and imaginative editor, Laurence L. (Larry) Tucker, of the Washington Times-News, has been selected to head the state department of the Pentagon should have performed long ago in the worldwide propaganda battle with Russia-Chinese communists.

Winship had the initiative and the journalistic curiosity to make a survey and study of the domestic, international, social, economic and religious backgrounds and beginnings of the 22 American soldiers in Korea who refuse to be repatriated. He has a preference for communism to a democratic way of life.

Although only an extremely small percentage of American prisoners captured by the Reds, Mao Tse-tung and George Malenkov will capitalize on their decision to stay in the international combat between the east and the west.

Had it not been for Winship, it would not be known that the 22 deserters came from a background of poverty, ignorance, family life, and not representative Americans, no more than the college professors in the Harry Dexter White spy ring were typical of American educators.

Seven years ago when he was conducting his own investigation of these soldiers' unhappy and unfortunate lives, together with the Winship revelations, the documents made it clear that the 22 were not the "capitalist" United States.

POT SHOTS

TIME WILL TELL

Dear Pot: Seems to me everyone was supposed to have 1954 license plates on them by Dec. 1. Then the deadline was extended to Jan. 15 because some counties had not received complete supplies of licenses.

So what happens? Have you noticed the large number of cars still displaying 1953 plates? We were given 15 days of grace and still lots of cars weren't around worried about it. Maybe it's because they still remember all those years when the deadline was extended clear up to March or April.

Some of them will be howling long and loud when Jan. 15 (that's a week from today) rolls around and the line at the courthouse fills the hall. Come to think about it, I guess I'll go down now and get mine!

Yours truly,

WASHINGTON COLUMN

PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, (NRA)—While the big farm fight in congress will be over the as-yet-unrevealed Eisenhower-Democratic program, a dozen or more tidbits were coming up may be just as much fun.

Contrary to a rather general impression, the "guarantee" of the basic farm law of 1949 will automatically go back into full force.

This 1949 act provides for flexible support and for use of a parity formula, based on a moving average of farm prices over the last 10 years.

What expires at the end of next year is the 1950 amendment which guarantees 90 per cent of parity support prices on the principal non-perishable crops. In case of a congressional deadlock, congress might pass another temporary extension of the present high supports, and let it go at that till after the 1954 elections.

The new parity formula is allowed to go into effect, it will lower the present temporary parity prices. Cotton would drop from 34 cents a pound to 32 cents. Wheat would drop from $2.45 a bushel to $2.27 and corn would drop from $1.78 to $1.59. So another interesting skirmish is in store on this point.

Reorganization of the soil conservation service is sure to be brought up in debate. Two specific measures in this same field are holders of unfinished business from the last session of congress.

One is a bill by Rep. Clifford R. Hope, Kansas, chairman of the house agriculture committee, to extend the local watershed development program. A previous, initial appropriation of five million dollars for the development of 60 small watersheds has been allocated.

Under this program the projects are financed on a cost-sharing basis by local organizations, state and federal governments. Local sponsoring organizations, such as soil conservation districts, are responsible for arranging rights of way, service and materials by farmers whose lands are benefited. The federal government proved popular and it will probably be extended.

Another drive is on to increase the size of department of agriculture loans to soil conservation districts and other small groups that want to put in retaining dams and ponds. The present limit under the Flood-Prevention Act is $100,000 for each project. The program is further limited to the 17 western states.

Proposals before congress would extend this program to the entire United States and increase the maximum loan limit to $250,000. Some sponsors would like to have the congress set aside a fixed amount for carrying on this work, and a major-hurdle is expected in consideration of a bill sponsored by Hope in the house and by Sen. Olin Anderson, D., N. M., to

EUROPE IS ENVOIOUS

Our European allies understand pretty well that the Eastern factor in the United States is the inevitable leader of the free world. They are realistic enough to accept this situation, but they have not actually digested it.

So it is that they grasp at every straw which promises any renewal of their onetime dominance in world affairs. So it is, too, that they dwell so heavily upon their claims to world leadership in the arts of diplomacy.

In contrast they see America as a brash youngster fumbling in pitiful ignorance in the face of giant problems. Every error, every inconsistency of policy, is magnified with evident ill temper, or with the gloating pleasure of the older who wants to see the young man fall as proof of his elderly superiority.

Psychologically, this sort of performance is easy to appreciate. It is nature enough that men accustomed to the power and responsibility and glory of world leadership should look with some resentment upon those who have taken over their high seats. Picking flaws in the newcomer's performance is the most obvious way to demonstrate distaste for what has happened.

The Europeans, in other words, are being human in their response to a vastly changed world situation. Yet they are not being quite human enough.

If they were, they would understand better the origins of their own resentments, and not more sharply to curb them in the interests of improved relations.

And if they were, they would realize that the great wisdom they profess ought to include tolerance and encouragement of the young.

The Europeans have been running the affairs of the world for centuries. They liked doing it, believing it was rather a case of "to the victor belong the spoils."

The Americans, on the other hand, did not seek world leadership but had it forced upon them. They were largely isolationists until the war. And they have had a bare eight years in which to accustom themselves to the tremendously difficult responsibilities of their new role.

It would be a miracle if any nation were to assume global leadership even in quiet times without committing many mistakes in a trial-and-error learning period. To expect a country to master the role without error in an ordeal of crisis like the present age is fantastic.

Yet again and again the Europeans seem to be judging America's performance not as an eight-year wonder but as a centuries-old blunder—which it is not. They appear to be expecting that we should learn in this short span all the skills, all the seasoned responses that they have practiced with a will since the modern age dawned.

There is no compassion in this attitude. And we have always heard that compassion is the hardy offspring of great wisdom.

PEACE-PLAN REACTION

The fact that Russia reversed its earlier negative stand on President Eisenhower's atomic peace plan is evidence the Kremlin recognizes the power and breadth of its appeal.

One of the plan's unique aspects is the attraction it has for neutralists and others in Europe and Asia who are unenthusiastic about the western cause. Its basic humanism is no clearer than its woolly-headed apologists for Russia realized that Moscow would have to respond to stand self-convicted of fraud in its peace claims.

After an initial thoughtless attack on the plan, which perhaps was designed only to fill a vacuum with some kind of communist noise, the Soviet union now has given its considered reply.

Moscow says it is willing to undertake the proposed private and secret talks under U. N. auspices on Mr. Eisenhower's plan. Undoubtedly our diplomats will move as swiftly as possible to arrange these discussions.

But we will inevitably approach them with caution. For the Kremlin, as so often before in diplomatic dealing, has attached a condition. It wants to consider a program for destroying all existing atomic weapons and outlawing their use in war.

This, of course, is a very heart of the statements on atomic disarmament and control which the President sought to get around by his own plan. His suggestion was that nations producing atomic materials contribute a share of them to a world bank, whose nuclear resources then would be applied to problems of medicine, power, agriculture and other peacetime uses on a worldwide basis.

POPULAR IN MIDWEST

Contrary to the general opinion and polls, President Eisenhower is still popular in the middle west. Businessmen like his generally conservative viewpoint and the make-up of his cabinet.

They want a minimum of new legislation during this recession of progress. They want retention of the Taft-Hartley act, lower farm price subsidies, reduction of taxes and cuts in defense appropriations.

BAD LIVING CONDITIONS

The Globe research showed that the 22 spring from the very lowest economic strata, and that they suffered from miserable conditions. It is probable that they would have returned to the homes they left when they signed up with the armed forces.

They were easily lured by communist promises of big money, fine homes, political power and position—promises which may never be kept after their value as propaganda has disappeared.

One of the 22 was born out of wedlock according to the Globe survey. Another was raised in a foster home. One has parents who separated when he was only 8 years old. Two have stepfathers. Two were orphaned. One has no home. One has never worked in 14 years. They are on the relief rolls.

LOW MENTALITY

With another apology to the professors, who did not like my description of White, Hise, Glaser, etc., as "over-educated," none of the 22 had a college education. The Globe survey reveals that the majority are of extremely low mentality. None went to college.

Two served in World War II, were discharged and then re-enlisted. Several others quit school at 16, 17 and 18 to join the army. It is not improbable that they found military service as a haven from an "unhappy and unproductive civilian life." The Globe survey heroes sought this same escape from dismal realities.

ONLY ONE HAS RELIGIOUS BACKGROUND—Only one appears to have a deeply religious background. His father says he always had an "overwhelming desire for world peace." He may have succumbed to the communist agent who had a better formula for peace than President Eisenhower proposes. It also must be realized that they get only political, economic and military program.

Racially, three of the 22 are Negroes. This proportion corresponds almost precisely to the percentage of colored people in the United States. Some, possibly four, are sexual perverts. Two have been seen dressed in women's clothes, and the four have exhibited tendencies toward the Indian guards.

The apparent leader of the 22, the older who has talked for in registration negotiations, epitomizes the lot. He is 25 years old. His parents died when he was 12. He was raised in a foster home or order of happiness in his impressionable years. He told his guards he was "picked on as a boy and treated badly by his teachers."

With the other 21, the communists have worked on their sympathies and complexes. They have been promised fine jobs, social and political recognition and security of the communist brand according to the Globe survey and the Pentagon's belated study, we are well rid of them.

VIEW OF OTHERS

BUT WE CAN DO BETTER

The National Safety Council rates Utah as leading the nation in percentage reduction of traffic fatalities last year. The toll dropped from 1953's death-breaking 246 to 208 deaths in 1954.

But not too much satisfaction.

"To begin with, we had such a terrible toll in 1953 it was not too great a trick to make a substantial reduction in 1954. Our toll of 246 was 26 more than the previous record of 220 in 1948. As a matter of fact last year's death toll, despite the reduction which won national recognition for us, was still far too high. It was our fourth heaviest death toll and it compares with death totals as low as 178 in recent years."

Another reason why we cannot take too much satisfaction in the national recognition is that part of last year's fatality reduction was due more to good luck than to good driving. We killed 38 fewer persons but we ended the year with exactly the same number of fatal accidents, 184. The difference lay in the fact, largely a matter of chance, that there were fewer multiple-death accidents.

There are eight spots in the 1953 traffic picture. We had nearly 2,000 fewer accidents during the year despite a 7 per cent gain in car registrations. That is real progress. The death toll will go up and down to some extent according to chance, but if we can reduce accidents as a whole, the plan will eventually show up in a reduced fatality toll along with a reduction of economic loss and injury.

In Salt Lake City we killed 32 last year compared with only 19 in 1952. But 1952 was an all-time low record. Actually those 32 fatalities are the exact average for the last 10 years.

We cannot point with pride to the 1953 traffic death record either in Salt Lake City or Utah. But we might have done better. And now we have a bright new year, and a clean slate for the first day or so of it at least, in which to prove we can do better. Salt Lake Tribune.

TOO HARSH

It is possible the bureau of engraving was just a mile harsh in the way the people who stole the $100,000.

You know, it was possible for the government to get most of that money back without making an arrest. The government might have recovered more through my system than it got through arrest.

The system: Send them a bill for income taxes on $100,000. That would have accounted for their loss.

LET'S BE FAIR

A letter signed "Am Seeing It" is responsible for this little opus. Obviously, it refers to an ad appearing in the T-N recently. Without going into detail, let's agree on a few principles.

In the first place, everyone should agree that life is not exactly fair to a number of people. Something has happened that has appeared over a person's signature. If the original writer had sufficient fondness to write something over his signature, and critics should have at least as much fondness. That should be a basic rule. That should be a basic rule. Then writers could apply this rule: Something should be answered and/or criticized in the same place. By this we mean that an ad should be answered in an ad. A Public Forum letter should be answered in the Public Forum. A letter in Pot Shots should be answered by a letter in Pot Shots.

Does that sound reasonable?

Solon Urges Revision for Benefit Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—Rep. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., introduced today a bill to revise the Social Security act, and declared this is "our last good opportunity to change the program soundly."

Curtis is chairman of the Social Security subcommittee of the House Ways and Means committee.

Moving into the controversial social security field on the opening day of congress, he declared some critics of his far-reaching new plan are "reactionaries" who either are totally ignorant as to what congress has done in the past or they are deliberately attempting to mislead the public.

Large Extension

The Curtis plan would place virtually all retired persons under age 65 on the rolls for monthly payments from the old-age and survivors insurance program and extend the coverage to almost the entire working force under 65.

It would raise minimum monthly benefits from the present $22 to $40 and provide other more liberal benefits without changing the present maximum of $20 an individual or $100 a family.

Expands Tax

Tax income to the OASI trust fund would be increased by subjecting all types of income including dividends, rents and other investments to social security taxes. The tax applies not only to the earnings in the principal employment of self-employed persons.

The separate federal program of relief grants to the needy aged, called old age assistance, would be abolished as welfare recipients were transferred to OASI.

Senate Group Irons Out All Cotton Plans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—The senate agriculture committee met today to iron out the fine points in a bill to boost this year's cotton acreage, first major piece of farm legislation that will go before the new session of congress.

Southern senate cotton leaders in the senate, long at odds over how their sections would absorb drastic plans to cut forced on them by overproduction, agreed today on details of the new found agreement late yesterday.

Chairman George D. Aiken, R-Vt., was hopeful that the bill, which the Republican House passed last week, would be brought up for floor action next week. It would boost the national allotment by about 3,400,000 acres.

Committee sources disclosed that two of the principal "fine points" on which the committee tentatively agreed late yesterday would:

Permitting individual farmers 65 per cent of the average acreage for 1947-48 or 40 per cent of any one of these three years, whichever is higher.

Restricting individual farmers in the west from devoting more than 50 per cent of their total crop land to cotton. The limit in other states would be 40 per cent. Earl D. Loe, secretary of the department, said he agreed to give the committee a report today on the constitutionality of this plan's "discrimination" against sections.

Armless Vet of World War II Happy to Report on Activity

By ROBERT MURKEL

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—A lot of people kept asking what happened to the armless veteran who played the lead role in the film "The Best Years of Our Lives."

"And I'm happy to tell them," said Harold Russell today. "I pulled a pack of cigarettes expertly out of my pocket with the books he uses in place of hands and lit his own cigarette."

"I'm happy to tell them because rarely has so much happiness come out of what appeared to be tragedy."

One of the best known GIs of World War II came down from Boston on business connected with the World Veterans federation in which he is intensely interested. He is the only man to receive the rehabilitation for the WWP.

"It's possibilities for a better world are fantastic," he said.

He is a huge man with a happy-go-lucky mind, center of power days to Russell, the international figure as much at home in London, Paris, Brussels as he is in Natick, Mass.

"I can give you the sequence in perspective," he said. "I was training for the paratroopers when some dynamite went off in my hands. Bad luck, sure! But I was sitting on 50 pounds of TNT and that didn't hurt. It just cut off my arms. I was killed all right in the room, to that good luck."

"When I discovered I was without hands, I took a lot of adjusting. To that I was asked to make a short film showing how prehistoric appliances I prefer in all them books could be used. Sam Goldwyn saw the short and had me written into 'The Best Years of Our Lives.'"

"And here I am," he said, "spending most of my time pointing out the causes of the WWP. In a few short years we have 145 million members in 22 nations. Think of it—Pakistan and India are members and they are delegating representatives to the WWP. Israel, Egypt, Iran, Yugoslavia, what a force for peace we can be. Not the phony human kind of peace."

Fashions of 1934 Planned for Use For All Seasons

By DOROTHY ROE Associated Press Feature Editor

Husbands and fathers who have to foot the bills will applaud the new fashions of 1934.

Designers have come up with a real fashion line for the year-round costume.

Though its original investment may be no less than usual, the mileage of new dresses, suits and coats is going to cut the over-all cost of being well dressed.

The new idea as presented by New York designers for a tryout in the Easter parade is light-weight clothing that can go through spring, summer and fall and even do duty under a coat in winter.

Instead of heavy suits and coats, you'll be seeing featherweight fashions in wool, silk and cotton this spring. The silk suit and the silk coat are headlines for Easter. And sometimes are used in a costume which "peels" down to a low-necked, short-sleeved blouse or dress.

Easter will be late this year, which gives the new warm-weather fashions a head-start toward summer. And most of them are designed for wear in almost any season.

There is, for instance, the printed silk dress-and-jacket outfit with a fur collar—cheap enough for Fifth avenue at Easter, but adaptable to a number of occasions and climatic conditions. When the jacket is removed, the cool dress beneath is smart and comfortable for the weather war. Worn under a fur coat, the outfit can go into the cool days of fall. It can go traveling as a suit.

The dark silk coat, either fitted or boxy, is another highlight of the spring fashion lineup. This is seen in almost every collection, in navy or black fall, taffeta or baroque, sometimes with a removable starched white linen collar. It's simple enough for street wear, dressy enough to go over party dresses, and a joy to the owner—likes to be chic but comfortable.

Woolens have done obedience to the weather, and come out in the spring in chiffon textures, sheer enough for dance dresses. Some are blended with silk for added softness, some have satiny finish, others are textured but light as feathers.

Silk tweeds make big news for spring in handsome many textures that look like wool but are amazingly light and cool.

Woolenlines, the smartest is the hit of the season, often with high Empire waistline. Skirts are straight and narrow, midriffs are pulled in, belts often go just beneath the bust.

The new daytimes fashions have all their softness and drapery at the top, where curving lines, round necks, feather-light fabrics, round peck from pockets, scarfs slip through lapel slots, feminine details add interest to the tailored silhouettes.

This year's American fashions will be at home anywhere in the world, at any season.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

When children refuse to eat their meals, it is probably because they are not well. A hungry, healthy youngster does not hesitate to eat that which is set before him. However, many mothers, anxious about a boy's health, make the mistake of thinking he must consume everything given to him because the food and change set forth that the edibles are good for him.

A child, in the final analysis, knows which foods don't agree with him. Trust the child's well-attuned stomach of some dainties to which he is partial.

Eggs, milk and virtually all vegetables are essentials in the diet of youngsters—that is, for most of them. But there are exceptions, or peculiarities, in certain youngsters. One can be allergic to milk, another to eggs.

Among the guests were the couple's three children and their families, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Vanasudien and Delbert, Robert, Joy and Andrea, Twin Falls; Mr. and Mrs. W. Sanders, Sacramento, Calif.; and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Vanasudien, Filer.

Warned Demos on Red Charges

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—House Speaker Rayburn today warned that the Eisenhower administration is getting a "little more" of the kind of action that led to the 1948 election.

During his 72nd birthday speech at the Women's National Club annual conference in New York, Rayburn added that the Eisenhower administration would continue to fight for the rights of the people, but he also said that the administration was getting a "little more" of the kind of action that led to the 1948 election.

Support Asked

Rayburn spoke after House Republican Leader Hallett, Ind., called on Democrats to cooperate with what he said would be a constructive program to be presented to the President by the House.

Rayburn said that the administration would support the program, but he also said that the administration was getting a "little more" of the kind of action that led to the 1948 election.

Dewey Asks Curb On Use of Offices For Personal Gain

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 6 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, whose administration has been struck by scandal, today demanded drastic legislation to prevent public officials and party officers from using their positions for personal gain.

The governor in his annual message opening the 1954 legislative session called for a broad social program running into hundreds of millions of dollars and indicated he would balance the budget without increasing taxes.

In pressing for early implementation of anti-grass-roots legislation, the governor insisted that "the public is entitled to expect from its servants a set of standards far above the morals of the market place."

"The people," he said, expect not only "personal honesty but the absence of any reasonable suspicion of dishonesty or even impropriety."

He declared it was an issue that transcended partisan politics.

Snow Depth Is Under Normal

The present snow on the Jackson lake watershed is slightly greater than a year ago and is about 54 per cent of normal. It was stated by Lynn Crandall, Idaho Falls district engineer.

According to Crandall, elsewhere the snow at higher elevations averaged 47 per cent of normal, but is considerably less at low elevations. Under these conditions the 1954 runoff will depend principally on the amount of snowfall that occurs during the next three months.

The lowest percentage of water content is 47 per cent of normal at Valley View, Henry Fork drainage, and the highest is Colter creek, Snake river drainage, with 110 per cent of normal.

Teton pass had the greatest depth with 48 inches reported and Camp Creek, Mud lake drainage, had a snow depth of 18 inches for the least amount.

The snow survey was taken on the Teton-Snake, Henry's Fork, Mud lake, Snake river and Fall river drainages at the end of December by the forest and bureau of reclamation.
