

Police Chief Howard Callahan said the burglars entered the building at 10:30 p.m. and took the money from the room. They forced the door open by the main entrance.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—John L. Lewis' offer to throw several million dollars into the struggle for the nationalization of the New York waterfront highlights the fact that the nation's unions have become wealthy corporations as well as powerful political organizations.

The value of the bank deposits, securities and real estate is estimated to total at least $50 million.

The United Mine Workers' president, who backs the "wildcat" longshoremen's action against the American Federation of Labor's reform group, is as shrewd a businessman and investor as he is a labor politician.

Many AFL-CIO leaders show the same ambition, although they cannot match the Welshman who, as circumstances demand, can act the role of Hamlet, Polonius or Brutus, so P.D.R. thought.

A recent checkup indicates the 47 national and international unions with headquarters here rank next to the federal government in ownership of improved real estate.

They have taken long strides toward becoming capitalists since Sam Gompers rented three dingy rooms here in 1897. They now own banks, houses, hotels, buildings, hospitals, insurance companies and they deal heavily in real mortgages.

WEALTHY UNION—Lewis moved his command to Washington from Indianapolis in the early days of the new deal in order to be near his political pal, Franklin D. Roosevelt, a while he headquartered in a swanky hotel, renting a few rooms for his politico-economical speech-writing staff.

A decade ago, although he had broken with the labor puritans of the National University club after the graduates of the nation's leading houses of learning found that they could not afford the upkeep, Lewis still was a simple, unassuming man.

The coal hills got too big for him. Now, John L. owns this structure and four other revenue-producing buildings on tree-shaded McPherson street, a few blocks from the city hall.

LEWIS CONTROLS BANK—The miners' welfare fund, oddly enough, is one of his tenants, occupying two of his buildings. This agency handles the fund's income, which is paid by the coal companies.

A few years ago, Lewis became dissatisfied with the fund's management. He bought the fund, and it is now a part of his empire. It is supposed to be a joint activity of operators and miners, but it is a fact, however, that Lewis is in charge.

The fund's 10 million dollars of reserves has been banked with this institution. The UMW's assets of 48 million dollars also are on deposit there. Lewis is trying to get his 100,000 shares to go to the public.

OTHER LABOR HOLDINGS—But he is not the only labor union capitalist. Likewise discontented over bank interest, the letter carriers (AFL) built an eight-story building, and rented it to the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America.

The AFL, which will construct a new headquarters on Lafayette square, two blocks from the White House, and across the street from the city hall, is a powerful force in the city.

THE GTO occupies a five-story building facing the city hall, and one block nearer to President Eisenhower's dwelling. It adjoins the red-brick, colonial residence where Stephen Decatur died after his duel with Charles James Barron, both of whom were sailors.

Organized labor's political strategists, however, have not shifted their center of operations here merely because Washington is a beautiful and booming capital. They have decided here in order to exert greater pressure on an administration and congress which they regard as hostile. They mean to retain, if they can, the power and influence they won from Roosevelt and Truman.

VIEW OF OTHERS

Withholding TAX LEGALITY

The revolt of a group of Texas housewives against the social security tax has apparently come to naught, as the supreme court has refused to review a lower court order that they must pay the tax.

The really vital question—whether an employer can constitutionally be required to act as the government's agent in collecting social security and income taxes levied against employees—unfortunately was submerged in the Texas case, and the supreme court refused to take a ruling on this question.

The Texas housewives attempted to refuse not only to collect the tax owed by their domestic servants but also to pay the taxes owed by themselves as employers, and the lower point of course destroyed their case. There is no question of the government's authority to levy a tax and to require people to pay it.

A YEAR OF PROGRESS

All in all, 1947 was a year of progress and achievement. The young men are being trained and killed in Korea, our country is being governed by men of ability and integrity from both parties, and international tensions are not quite as alarming.

Despite the lack of McCarthyism, our civil liberties are in no great jeopardy so long as we have no alert and vigilant press.

It is gratifying to be reminded by the classes from a seller's to a buyer's market, actually a return to true competition, are trying to talk us into a deflation.

Other people of our allies, regard me as a traitor and even as something ominous about the weather.

There is much to be said for the view that we have the unlimited patience to maintain a position of about apathy and aimed at the maintenance of the status quo.

We were amazed to find in the Jerome Smith rule that this week that the city of Jerome has collected $100,000 in tax machine tax revenue during the 1947 year.

The machine tax is a new tax on the use of the machine. It is a tax on the use of the machine. It is a tax on the use of the machine.

The machine tax is a new tax on the use of the machine. It is a tax on the use of the machine. It is a tax on the use of the machine.

The machine tax is a new tax on the use of the machine. It is a tax on the use of the machine. It is a tax on the use of the machine.

The machine tax is a new tax on the use of the machine. It is a tax on the use of the machine. It is a tax on the use of the machine.

POT SHOTS

GOTTARE CAREFUL

Anytime you go fooling around with unions you can't be too careful. Ask one Charles Allen.

The whole thing started at the shindig known as the Kiwanis club "Ladies night." The afore-mentioned Charles Allen was former president of the Kiwanis club during the course of the event.

Later, club members and their wives danced to the music of Alton Bastian.

During the course of the festivities, President Allen favored the assembled dancers with a few bars of music, he called it, played on a clarinet borrowed from a member of the orchestra.

Now maybe you can understand why two tickets showed up in front of the Sterling jewelry store Wednesday night.

Of course, Chuck tried to pass it all off as a joke. Now even Chuck, some of the pickets. But the worst is yet to come.

Wait till Pettito hears about Allen.

Dear Pot Shots:

There's a "mixed" dog that's been at our house and the neighbor's dog for over three weeks. The dog is black, curly-haired, and fairly good.

Shaw added, "I am enclosing one of our information bulletins of Nov. 18 regarding a research project in which we are cooperating with the University of Idaho to determine how mechanical injury to potatoes can be reduced."

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

It would be wonderful if all children were easy to deal with, but how monotonous. For, of course, it is the difference in children that make them all the more interesting. Each child, in his own particular way, becomes a challenge to teachers and to parents.

There are some set rules that parents insist on imposing on youngsters for their good. That idea would be all very well if children obeyed, but suppose they don't?

"Make them mind," a bystander observes. It is always the bystander, the one who has the least to do with the upbringing of youngsters, who is apt to make such a remark.

"Now, Bunnies, be good and eat your cereal carefully, like a little gentleman," Bunnies' mother says. The child kicks the table, upsets the dish and howls. His mother, realizing that he does not like this particular cereal, clears away the mess and gives the youngster another sort of cereal, with a splash of fruit juice. That, Bunnies says with a relish.

"There you go," the bystander remarks, "apoplectic child. Why don't you make him eat what you gave him first?"

The knowledgeable mother pays no attention. She knows it would be useless to force the child to eat what he does not want to eat. She is dealing with her child.

One youngster needs more hours of sleep than another. One can be trusted to eat just enough for his needs while another has to be rationed. One pupil works at his school task without close supervision, while another must be admonished to stick to his lesson. One child likes eggs, another doesn't. One child enjoys his milk, while another has an aversion to it.

A teacher is confronted daily with some of these idiosyncrasies. She is patient with her pupils. She is patient with her pupils. She is patient with her pupils. She is patient with her pupils.

Guiding children according to their individuality, instead of driving them, helps many youngsters; it is not spoiling them. On the other hand, there are those who have to be prodded. The experienced teacher knows the characteristics of her pupils.

Some children are very sensitive and afraid. Fear is poison to the mind and children, who have fears, suffer. How to guard against fear is explained by Dr. Paul in his last book, "To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 89, station G, New York 19, N. Y."

Western Allies Holding Small Hopes for Big 4 Meet Results

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
BERLIN, Jan. 14.—The western allies will come to the big four conference table here Jan. 25 with no rose-tinted visions of leaving it with a cold war settlement in their pockets.

Any lingering hope of a Russian change of heart on the future of the foreign ministers are to discuss has been blown sky high by the bickering over the mere site of the meeting.

"If that's a tip-off on Molotov's tactics in the big four talks, what a hope of achieving anything!" a western diplomat said wearily.

But even before this preview, western authorities saw little prospect of either side making the major concessions that would be necessary to bridge the east-west gap.

Barring some unexpected Kremlin bombshell—a peace box—the allies expect the big four talks to drag on for four or five weeks and peter out without result.

In the last seven years, big four conferences have repeatedly been slowed, or even broken down, by inability to agree on an agenda. Nobody here expects this conference to be different.

The Russians, as western diplomats bluntly point out, set tremendous stock on the order in which issues are placed on a conference agenda or program.

They recall that the big four deputies sat through 74 sessions in Paris in 1951 trying to agree on an agenda. They failed.

The Russians have indicated pretty clearly the first issue they want to discuss—the holding of a big five conference including communist China and the admission of communist China to the United Nations.

The western allies are willing to have the question of a big five conference put on the agenda, but not at the top. They will be coming to Berlin to discuss a German peace treaty and a treaty to restore to Austria the sovereignty and independence it lost when the Nazis seized it.

Hope is dim for a reconciliation of these differences, and so is hope for an end of the cold war.

Here the lines are sharply drawn. Nothing indicates either side is ready to back down.

The Kremlin's minimum terms are believed to be the scrapping of the North Atlantic treaty organization, abandonment of the peace contract the allies concluded with western Germany, scrapping of the proposed European defense community and United States withdrawal from Germany. It is obvious that the west will not settle on these terms.

Just a little difference in ingredients makes a big difference in cooking results

Snowdrift gives just a little more safety than ordinary shortenings, because it freezes perfectly at high temperatures. That can make the difference in digestibility.

Snowdrift is just a little lighter than any other shortening. That can make the difference in giving your family lighter, more digestible foods, fried or baked.

Snowdrift's ingredients are just a little costlier than any other solid shortening (yet you pay no more). That can make the big difference in better tasting foods.

No other shortening at any price is so creamy, so digestible and so light!

Budge Prepares Bill to Okay 41,035-Acre Michaud Project

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (Special)—Rep. Hanner Budge, R., Ida., has prepared for early submission to congress a bill authorizing the irrigation of 41,035 acres of new land on Michaud flats near Pocatello.

Water would be diverted to the new acreage until 1967. It would come from Pocatello dam, which should be finished in 1966. The city of Pocatello also would be furnished a large volume of water for industrial and home use from the structure, which is going across the upper Snake near the Wyoming border.

Budge's bill provides for the irrigation of 11,035 acres which would be developed according to existing reclamation laws. An additional 30,000 acres would be in the Fort Hall Indian reservation.

After the initial period of years allowed for development of the new land, private owners on the 41,035 acres would begin to pay for costs of their water on a 50 year basis. Power revenues from the dam would be used to defray some costs. An exact formula regarding the Indian trust has not yet been determined by the secretary of the Interior.
