WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (AP)—Senator Aiken, R., Vt., said today it will be necessary to appoint President Eisenhower's new farm-program into three legislative packages to get it through congress.

"And we may have to battle on each part," said Aiken, chairman of the senate agriculture committee.

With controversy already boiling, Secretary of Agriculture Benson will go on the firing line Monday with public testimony before Aiken's committee.

"The secretary will be here to give us his estimate of the general outlook for agriculture in 1954," Aiken said.

Chief of BPA Asks Laws on Partnership

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 16 (AP)—The annual Bonneville administration report was issued today and Chief of Bonneville Paul J. Raver said congress should move swiftly in enacting the new "partnership principle" of river development.

The Bonneville administration's position on power, as outlined by the interior department, is that local private and public agencies should work together, with the federal government stepping in only when necessary.

Method cited
Raver, who becomes head of Seattle City Light next week after 14 years at Bonneville administration, said he would use a new method of making the partnership work. Permit purchase by the department of the interior of excess power developed by local agencies.

He said this would give aid to local agencies in financing their projects, would guard against the kind of monopolies that tend to keep the cost of wholesale power equitable between the several classes of purchasers.

Warning sounded
Raver sounded an indirect warning against recently announced plans to build a dam on the mouth of the Columbia river, to power. There have been other protests against the high, and Raver said that "allocation of the cost of new multiple purpose projects" should be determined by the federal government. It is essential to keep "the whole sale rate for power at sufficiently low level to offset the disadvantages of high retail rates and the consequent high cost of importing raw materials and exporting manufactured products."

And Raver said, as he has in past annual reports, and in public speeches, that more dams are needed.

He said, it is "imperative if economic development of the northwest region is to be maintained in sound dynamic conditions that the state be made soon on projects with large, upstream storage capacity. He said this in his letter accompanying the report.

Say Criticism of Baseball Club Directors 'Unwarranted'

Time-News: To express my non-committal opinion on the unwarranted criticism of the baseball franchise board of directors, I am writing this column. I am writing this column as much as to let the board of directors know that I am not alone in my opinion. I am writing this column as much as to let the board of directors know that I am not alone in my opinion. I am writing this column as much as to let the board of directors know that I am not alone in my opinion.

Thanks Related By Auxiliary for Help on Project

Editor, Times-News: In December the auxiliary of YWCA post 218 voted to send warm clothing to the 14th Old Soldiers home in Boise. It is with grateful appreciation that I wish to thank those who helped make this project so successful. The Times-News and radio station KILIX for their advertising. The Twin Falls police department who put up a bulletin on their bulletin board and brought us many armfuls of clothing: the Kimberly Cleaners, Troy National Laundry and cleaners and Roy Habel, who cleaned all of the articles for us. Garret Freightlines and Martin Foss, who delivered the clothing to Boise, and all individuals who donated so generously to help our Idaho old soldiers.

Voters Urged to Give Scrutiny To Changes in 'Point 4' Setup

Editor, Times-News: As you have doubtless noted from newspaper and radio reports, the technical assistance situation has been changing rapidly. On Oct. 1 the technical cooperation administration, formerly in the department of state, was merged with the mutual security agency to become the foreign operations administration. Headed by Harold Stassen, POA is separate from the department of state, but subject to its policy guidance. To advise Stassen with respect to the technical assistance work of the POA, the former international development advisory board headed by Eric Johnston has been reactivated, seven of the 11 members newly appointed. Since the announcement of the plan for POA, considerable concern about its future work has been expressed in Washington and the national press.

Farm Program Is Called 'Gannan Plan Under Disguise'

Time-News: The Republicans are in a on the other foot. It is the program described in the "New Yorker" which I sent Mr. Stassen and Secretary Benson, who are trying socialism this time. The issue of the Times-Tribune, Idaho, January 10th, both shocked and surprised me. Mr. Stassen is supposed to give to the wool of the nation to alleviate the problem. I would like to hear from said news-

They did was to pass resolutions against the socialistic welfare state. And one member said to his mate, 'If this is socialism, let's have more of it.'

I have watched the opposition fight through every legislature since 1933--what they call the socialistic welfare state; and the first thing they did when in power they grabbed off more in one slice than welfare cost since George Washington. We cannot afford to give away a prospective 400 billion dollar oil shore oil reserve and then Uncle Sam be forced to buy back oil for his navy from what the congress gave away. "Teddy Roosevelt said: 'If we don't forget that our descendants from both parties will pay the price if we do not preserve this heritage for them.' Our retired secretary of the interior said: 'We have an estimate of over a trillion dollars of natural resources in the U. S. A. and over a half trillion in Alaska.' And I might add enough to pay off our national debt over five times over. Sentiment is expressed that there may be found some hope that political issues will be worked out. Achievements call for more of the quality and ideals of Abraham Lincoln, who said: 'Government is not for the people who take it; it is for the people who cannot do for themselves.' My fingers are crossed. Interest rates have gone up and farm prices down.

Driving Care, Publicity Given Credit For 1953 Drop in Utah's Highway Toll

By FRANK WETZEL

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 16 (UPI)—Why did fewer people lose lives in traffic accidents in Utah during 1953 than in the previous year?

There were 25,000 more cars on the road. Population of the state continued to climb. And the strength of the Utah highway patrol remained almost exactly at the 1940 level, 70 men in uniform.

Those factors logically would be expected to send the death toll higher. Why, then, were fewer lives snuffed out last year than in 1952 through highway mishaps?

That question was asked of the Utah highway patrol. The answer was that the highway patrol was a factor. Both agreed it was a combination of increased awareness by the public of the problem, of a stepped-up program of safety enforcement and fine cooperation from a number of civic groups.

Marion A. Snow, superintendent of the Utah highway patrol, provided the figures showing Utah's alarmingly improved safety record. For instance:

In 1952, there were 17,710 accidents of all types. Last year, only about 15,000. In 1952, there were 248 traffic fatalities. Last year, 208.

"If you look at the accident exposure in Utah steadily increased," Snow said. "There were 275,352 vehicles registered in the state in 1952, and 300,000. Cars went 128 million more miles in 1953 than the previous year."

One of the reasons for fewer fatalities, Snow said, was the increased number of officer-driver contacts by the highway patrol. He defines a "contact" as whenever a patrolman halts a motorist.

"There were more arrests, too," Snow said. "And I believe another reason is that our highways are in the best shape. The same thing in my 20 years with the patrol."

Snow called his patrolmen "traffic safety doctors."

"If my men see symptoms of a driver's 'illness,' they control him and try to cure him through persuading him to obey traffic regulations," the superintendent said.

G. Ernest Bourne, executive secretary of the Utah Safety Council said there were fewer traffic deaths in Utah last year because there were less accidents.

"The number of non-fatal accidents dropped 12 per cent last year as compared to 1952. That's a better index than the number of fatalities, I believe," he said.

He said a number of reasons were responsible for the improved safety record. He cited an improved enforcement program, with concentration on types of violations that cause most accidents. These he listed as failure to yield the right of way, following too closely, excessive speed and failure to signal for turning movements.

"Tied up with these violations is a disturbing lack of courtesy on the part of motorists generally which often is the immediate cause of accidents," Bourne said.

"I also like to believe the stepped-up program of information by newspapers, radio and TV, has had a part in stimulating public consciousness of its responsibility. Of course Utah's record is better. But it would be too pleasant to believe that it is.

Letters Being Sent Relatives

Survivors of more than 3,500 deceased servicemen are being contacted by the veterans administration regarding available benefits, says Arnold Helwege, veterans administration man here.

The letters are being sent survivors of servicemen carried by the armed forces as "missing in action" in Korea for a year or more and who are now presumed to be dead.

Appropriate notices and forms needed for applying for death compensation and insurance benefits are being mailed beneficiaries as rapidly as possible. Beneficiaries will save time if they await letters before writing to the VA concerning benefits, advises Helwege.

Dec. 31, 1953, will be accepted by the VA as the date of death for payment of compensation benefits. Pay and allowances were continued by the armed forces through Dec. 31.

The date the serviceman was listed as "missing in action" will be used in tabulating insurance settlements. Interest will be paid on unused insurance balances, Helwege stressed.

Gelling Up Nights

It's getting to be too pleasant to believe that it is. The number of non-fatal accidents dropped 12 per cent last year as compared to 1952. That's a better index than the number of fatalities, I believe," he said.

Total Eclipse Of Moon Due Here Monday

By J. HUGH FRUETT
Astronomer, Extension Division
Oregon Higher Education System
On the evening of Jan. 18 a total eclipse of the moon will occur. If the skies are clear it will be visible from most of the states of North and South America.

For the western part of the United States and Canada the partial phase begins about 8:30 p.m., which also is the time of moonrise. A total phase of a lunar eclipse sometimes lasts as long as 1 hour and 30 minutes, but the one Monday evening is not so lengthy, thus insuring a good recovery 30 minutes after it starts. But the partial phases are quite lengthy, thus insuring a good show. Many brave enough to risk the pre-dawn "dews and damps" will recall the splendid total lunar eclipse of the morning of the morning of July 26, 1935. For all parts of the country dawn came before the last of the partial phase was over. In that event the far west saw the best. Next Monday the east will have the advantage.

In Earth's Shadow
Both the earth and the moon get their light from the sun. The half turned toward will be lighted. The moon on an average is about 240,000 miles from the earth and circles it once in a little less than a month. The earth casts a long shadow averaging almost 200,000 miles out into space behind it. At the distance of the moon, this shadow is 3,700 miles wide. Since the moon has a diameter of only 2,160 miles, it can be swallowed in the earth's shadow if it gets directly back of the earth. A lunar eclipse can occur only at full moon. One may ask, "Why then is there not an eclipse of the moon every month at the time of full moon?" There would be if the moon moved in an orbit exactly in the plane of the earth's orbit.

Orbit Inclined
Since the lunar orbit is inclined about five degrees to the plane of the earth's orbit, the moon is not at full phase the moon is a little above or below the earth's shadow, so no eclipse. At times, however, it is behind the earth and a total eclipse, or almost behind with a partial eclipse showing.

Where the moon is well above the horizon before any phase of an eclipse starts, the first effect noticeable is the slight dimming of the moon's light without any distinct blackness. This, known as the penumbral effect, is confusing to most people. Finally the dark shadow (umbra) begins to bite into one side of the moon and spread over it. At last it is in shadow and the moon dimly reddish due to some sunlight refracting through the earth's atmosphere.

Monday night the umbra will start at 8:30 p.m. MST. Totality will run from 7:17 to 7:47 p.m. MST. The umbra will finally leave at 9:14 p.m. MST.

Hank Ponders Rank Boost for Washington, Finds It Is Good

By HENRY McKEON
Should George Washington be made a full general? Congress will have to decide soon whether the father of our country deserves this honor, because Representative John W. McCormack, Meas., has introduced a bill to empower the President to make the posthumous promotion.

Washington is now listed on the army rolls as a lieutenant—general, the commission he held when Cornwallis found him going a little too rough and called it quits at Yorktown.

Wondering how I would vote on the bill if I were a member of Congress, I got out an old history book and reread my Washington. Revolutionary war. Long before I got to Valley Forge or the crossing of the Delaware, I was perfectly satisfied that the But two—mercy Mount Vernon not only was worthy of four stars, but five, six, seven, eight and nine stars.

Indeed, if it were possible to vote Washington a milky way of stars for each shoulder, I'd gladly shoot a ringing "Aye." After all, Benedict Arnold is on the army rolls as a major-general, and few would dispute that Washington deserved two more stars than the man who sold out his country.

There is one man who is likely to be hopping mad, though. If I refer to Harry Vaughan, who earned the two stars of a major-general by his brilliant strategy, superb direction of troops in the World War II.

I just can't picture Major-General Vaughan being pleased with the prospect of Washington going two stars ahead of him. One star more, all right. But two—mercy! Vaughan is on the army rolls as a major-general, and few would dispute that Washington deserved two more stars than the man who sold out his country.

When you stop to think of it, McCormack's bill makes sense as it is. Arnold is on the army rolls as a major-general, and few would dispute that Washington deserved two more stars than the man who sold out his country.

USDA Collecting Corn Quota Data

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16—Agriculture department officials said today data is being collected in corn producing counties for use in the planting allotments for this grain in the event that allotments are set up.

Agriculture Secretary Benson has urged the states to make the allotments be used this year to limit production of corn. Because of a big reserve supply there has been speculation that allotments would be used.

His place would be just as secure if he were on the rolls of the army as Pfc. Washington.

Washington's birthday anniversary will be coming up in a month or so, and that reminds me of a column I wrote several years ago after my first visit to Mount Vernon. It wasn't much of an article, but I think I'm a pretty good idea. I said this country would be a lot better off, and we would be much better citizens, if all of us, and the sooner the better, could pay a visit to Mount Vernon. It wasn't many years ago that Washington lived there, and for a citizen to walk there and look at the place, the personal belongings of the great man, is to get a recharging of Americanism that makes him feel good all over. We are too prone to forget what Washington, and men like him, did for us all.

Washington's place in the hearts of Americans was earned by his ability, by fortitude, by strength of heart and mind, and by a love for his country that has yet to be surpassed. It wasn't earned by raised foot all over. We are too prone to forget what Washington, and men like him, did for us all.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"Falling Short of Principles"

By EDWIN CRIST

(Pastor, Church of the Brethren)

It has always been true that people of moderate sincerity and above years for the power to live as they understand they should, and at the same time deplore their inability to do so.

This human predicament generates perplexity, frustration, indifference, and countless other distressing personal feelings. Recognizing the social evils of our day, we are usually agreeable to the principles of advancing our personal and social standards of morality. This principle is not only championed unreservedly from our pulpits but by every honest citizen across our-land.

However, the problem remains. Each one of us experiences daily to one degree or another, a "falling short of the mark." "Falling short of the standard we have chosen for our lives." The deeper our sincerity—the louder is the hounding of our conscience.

God has an answer for this problem. It involves first of all the choosing of His plan for our personal standard of living. He promises no degree of victory without this use of His plan. It is outlined in His word—the Holy Bible, and particularly in the life and teachings of His only begotten Son, Jesus Christ.

Countless individuals the world over laud the principle of living portrayed by the life and teaching of Jesus Christ, and attempt to pattern their lives after His. The degree to which one can realize such a living experience himself depends finally not upon the recognition of the magnificent plan. Nor does it depend upon one's self-determination. Rather your degree of success depends upon whether or not you have received the God-given power to imitate Jesus Christ. This power is a gift from God, and in fact is God Himself, namely, the Holy Spirit. This gift of God's power is available to anyone who is honest with God, admits his sinfulness, repents and confesses his sin to God. We hate to admit that we have sinned, but we know it's true, and must repent and confess it to God sincerely if we desire His blessing.

Having recognized our weakness before God, He is then ready to supply our strength. "For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly," Romans 5:6.

God has already made provision for this need of ours by sending His Son—not only to be a standard for our lives but a sacrifice for our sin. When we accept Jesus Christ in both of these categories God forgives our sin, makes us His children and gives us His power, the Holy Spirit, to live to His glory. This power is as "mighty as a God." It is manifested in our lives in proportion to our daily prayer life and devotion to Him and His word. None will ever reach the perfection of Christ, who is the expression of the very substance of God. On the other hand, the world has yet to see what God could accomplish with a person—who is completely surrendered to Him.

GOP to Meet

HAGERMAN, Jan. 16.—A round-table discussion on subversives in the government will be led by Mrs. O. B. Smith, Ruler, at the meeting of the Snake River Republican Women's club at 2 p.m. Jan. 21 at the OWB club rooms.

A film will be shown on the 83rd congress at work.

Budge Starts Tax Cut Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 (Special).—The first bill introduced by Rep. Homer Budge, R. Va., in this session is one to repeal the 20 per cent tax on non-profit rodeos.

Budge's action followed an exchange of correspondence with Earl E. Garrity, official of the Snake River Stampede, Nampa, who wrote:

"Throughout the U.S. there are some six or seven hundred rodeos which are purely community affairs—strictly non-profit and clearly within the purview of agricultural fairs.

"On the other hand, there are a few commercial rodeos such as the Madison Square Garden and the Boston Gardens which are purely big-time show business. Undoubtedly the word rodeo was written into the revenue act because of these commercial rodeos.

Garrity wrote him at attending this week a meeting of the International Rodeo association and would discuss this problem there.

Budge says he is "unable to see any reason why the federal government should collect an excise tax on these non-profit rodeos in one of the great and historic entertainments of the west."

SON BORN

SPRINGDALE, Jan. 15.—Mr. and Mrs. Max Dayley are the parents of a son born this week at the Christensen nursing home in Rupert.

Potato Growers Laud New Plan

POCATELLO, Jan. 16 (AP).—Ray Hart, manager of the Idaho-eastern Oregon potato committee, says he thinks potato growers of this area will welcome the administration's farm program as it applied to potatoes.

Hart commented the plan gives assurance that "they are going to put potatoes back into the same category as fruits and vegetables on permissive price support." In his opinion, the recommendations as a whole will be generally approved by producers of the area.

Chow dogs of China have wholly blue or black tongues and lips.

Cheese and Output Stay

BOISE, Jan. 16.—The department of agriculture says that Idaho dairy plants made 1,349,000 pounds of cheese during the month of December, 1933, as compared with 1,349,000 pounds in the same month of the previous year.

Butter production, the department said, was 10 per cent over the same month of the previous year. Cheese production was down 10 per cent from the same month of the previous year.
