

Panel Asks Tariff Cuts, Raps Rigid Support of Crops

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—A commission advising the government on world economic policy turned in today a disheartening report recommending authority for President Truman to negotiate a gradual 15 per cent cut in U. S. tariffs.

In a limited field, it proposed power to cut rates far more, and called for elimination of much of the present government farm program as a first step toward building long-range foreign markets for agricultural products.

The commission's field of inquiry was sharply critical of the tariff support, export subsidy, and export credit programs. It said that the tariff support of price supports which hold world market levels above domestic levels is a major barrier to the elimination of much of the present government farm program as a first step toward building long-range foreign markets for agricultural products.

Judge Studies Demurrer and Assesses Levy

A demurrer to the information in an involuntary manslaughter case was taken under advisement Saturday and a Twin Falls motorist fined $100 and costs Friday for drunken driving by the district court here.

Dwight G. Thomas, who had appealed his conviction by Twin Falls police court on the charges of drunken driving, changed his plea to guilty at Thursday.

Judge Hugh A. Baker suspended a 10-day jail sentence imposed by the lower court. Thomas surrendered his driver's license. It will be revoked for a one-year period.

The judge listened to arguments for two hours on the demurrer filed on the information charging Robert J. Hawes, Jr., with involuntary manslaughter in the death of Thomas Berrie.

Hawes appeared with three attorneys, Eugene Anderson, John Daly and T. M. Robertson. Prosecutor Max Lebold represented the state.

Anderson declared the information charged Hawes with no specific act of negligence and with no specific act of recklessness.

The defense attorney claimed that while the information accuses Hawes of speeding, the mishap in question was a mere accident.

He urged that the state extend the law to include manslaughter in the case of a negligent driver.

The court agreed to a continuance of the case to the next session.

Demerit System for Drivers in Maine Caps Organized Effort to Reduce Toll

Editor's note: This is another in a series of articles from the states that have adopted the traffic safety program to reduce the toll of traffic deaths and injuries.

Under the system, certain drivers are given a demerit point for each violation. When a driver accumulates a certain number of demerit points, his license is suspended for a period of time.

Hot Rod Club Boosts Highway Safety, Punishes Its Members for Violations

Some of the most enthusiastic supporters of traffic safety are hot rod drivers.

There are motorists who'll take exception to the fact that the club is not a law enforcement agency.

But there's a group of young drivers, known as the MTR Winders Ave. club, that has taken the law into its own hands.

Pro-Red' GIs Face U.S. Probes; Snarl on Policy Develops

Amid signs of a major snarl on high levels in Washington, the army and marine corps Saturday opened probes of the actions of a corporal and a colonel while they were prisoners of the Chinese communists in Korea. And on the other side of the world, the U.N. command's attitude toward the 21 Americans, one Briton and 825 South Koreans remaining in a virtually unguarded pro-Red camp stiffened.

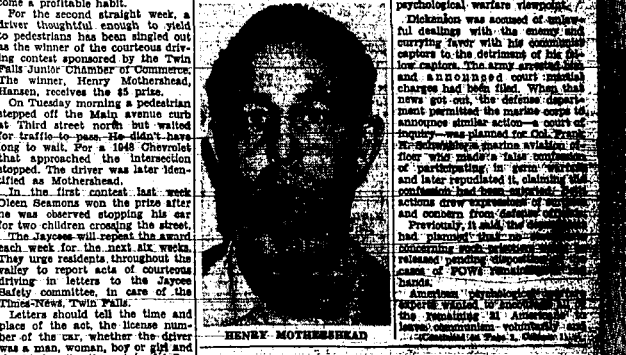

High defense department strategists, taken aback by the army's action Friday, shook their heads over the arrest of 23-year-old Cpl. Edward Dickenson, Cracker's Neck, Va., GI who at first decided to remain with the Reds and then returned to the allied side.

LEGISLATIVE BLUNDERS
How many other states in the country, we wonder, can equal Idaho when it comes to legislative blundering?

In addition to enacting more than an average of bonehead laws, our legislature during the more recent sessions have left enough legal loopholes in the laws themselves to make the state look silly.

We're all aware of the legal gobbledygook that went on in Idaho for years as the result of faulty legislation enacted to establish and define controls over such things as liquor, night clubs, slot machines and what not.

The "strip-towns" that sprang up over the state as an artificial means of extending village and corporate limits for the obvious purpose of circumventing the liquor and slot machine laws made laughing stock of our legislature.

The legislature's repeated attempts—if you can call them serious attempts—to define a "private club" has been a standing joke in Idaho for a good many years.

The little coupe, fences and the like, placed around slot machines to "protect" minors from the evils of the mechanical bandits, as intended by the legislature, also brought snickers from those who expected more from our law makers.

It was but several years ago, we'll recall, that a special session of the legislature was necessary to correct another blunder in connection with the reciprocal agreements between states covering interstate truck traffic.

More recently we are hearing how the last legislature muffed its enactment of the so-called uniform traffic code. Now the state law enforcement department is complaining that the state patrolmen are handicapped under the new code. Only on the more serious charges, such as negligent homicide and leaving the scene of an accident can a traffic law violator be taken into custody immediately.

For misdemeanors such as speeding, running stop signs, reckless driving and the like, the one alternative is to demand a citation giving him five days in which to appear in court. Obviously, many out of state drivers will take advantage of this provision by ignoring the citation altogether.

Then there is another loophole in this same connection. Under the new uniform traffic code, defense attorneys are contending, the legislature provided no "saving clause" making it possible to prosecute defendants arrested under the old involuntary manslaughter law which the new code repealed.

All of this sort of thing raises several logical questions. Why, for instance, doesn't our law enforcement department and the attorney general's office scrutinize all such proposed legislation which is bound to be highly controversial, before it is enacted?

Why are all such things protested and called to the people's attention after the legislature has gone home? In view of our many previous experiences with legal loopholes and legislative blunders, why don't we finally come to the conclusion that extra precautions should be taken to avoid any such recurrence?

In times past, there has been one good reason for all this legislative oversight and negligence—the legislature has been too preoccupied with liquor, slot machines, horse racing and the like to give sufficient consideration to far more important matters. The legislators have allowed themselves to become bogged down with these so-called moral issues in time consuming stalemates. Then, almost at the last moment, they attempt to force through those important legislative proposals which they have neglected during most of the session.

Is it any wonder that a lot of faulty legislation has resulted from such procedures? Now that the state supreme court has outlawed slot machines and all other gambling devices in Idaho, our legislature hereafter may find more time for legislation which should command their chief attention.

Let's hope that from the start, they will be on their guard against making any more of these legislative blunders which are not only costly but result in no end of animosity, confusion and legal red tape.

IT GROWS ON THEM
Reports are filtering in that President Eisenhower now likes his job better than he did last year. If this is so, then he is following a pattern set by many of his predecessors.

Not uncommonly, a new occupant of the White House finds his burden, his responsibilities, the lack of privacy, a purely material thing. Just as an uncomprehending, however, the passage of time leads to mounting interest in doing a successful job, in winning a good verdict from history.

In many cases, by the time one of two terms are up, a chief executive has come honestly to believe that no one of the proper stature for a replacement can be seen anywhere on the horizon.

We hope the President has grown to like his job, enthusiasm for only a work is one of the prerequisites for success. And we count on his genuine humility to keep him from concluding at some future date that he has become indispensible.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to analyzing the news of the day on national and international politics and personalities. Questions you may want directed to Ray Tucker, Editor, 1111 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON—Do you think that congress will withhold or reduce the money which Senator McCarthy will need to continue his investigation of communists in the government? Inquires Mrs. F. K.

Answer: Senator McCarthy will be given all the money he requires. Of course, the small hand of the charge—McCarthy probably would voice it—that they were "sympathetic" getting any reasonable red out of Washington.

WHY THREE GRIPS?—The same communication contained a slight criticism of Sen. Pat McCarran, Nev., because he indicated the red's presence was a problem outside the jurisdiction of the McCarthy committee. The title is the committee on government operations.

McCarran was not criticizing the purpose or methods of the McCarthy investigation. However, in his list of order, economy and effectiveness, he sees no reason why three different congressional groups should be hunting down communists and fellow-travelers. They are the Jenner, the Velde and the McCarthy groups.

And, as I have noted frequently, the Jenner committee has done a most excellent job. It avoids headlines and confuses the public by holding open hearings. Nevertheless, few members will dare to deny Joe his money.

CAN DEMOS TAKE IT?—What indications are there, asks G. R. of Altoona, Pa., that the Democrats will be able to take over the government? The cause of the Brownell and Dewey blazes against the Truman administration? In view of their years of mudslinging against Herbert Hoover and Truman's failure of anybody who would support them, it seems to me the Democrats ought to be able to take it.

Answer: A few of the more credible members of the opposition, especially senators up for reelection next year, may let their personal feelings guide them on legislative matters. But I doubt if a majority will do that far. In fact, enough Democrats to provide passage of many presidential proposals sympathetic toward the Brownell-Dewey indictment. They would prefer, however, that Republican critics single out Truman for their attacks.

There are honest differences which may cause disagreement. Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Va., and Walter P. Reuther, Mich., will oppose any increase in the debt limit. Sen. Richard B. Russell, Ga., an expert on farm and military matters, is disturbed. He fears that defense will be cut and the military force will be weakened. He wants price supports cut at a relatively high figure.

FINSTER BACKGROUND—What is Dr. Albert Einstein's background? asks M. L., Los Angeles, Calif., "Why should he tell witnesses not to answer questions in the communist investigation?" Answer: Einstein is a Jew and cannot understand them. His first German in the year Hitler became chancellor. Although many foreign universities sought his services, he preferred refuge in this country. He is a member of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton.

Hitler confiscated his property and deprived him of German citizenship. He was forced to leave Germany in 1933. He should give every indirect aid to a regime with which he was in an undeclared war, says beyond me. He shows poor manners, to say the least.

VIEW OF OTHERS

"TO RELIEVE CONCERN"
Pending the announcement of the specific provisions of the constitutional amendment proposed by Sen. William Knowland, R., Calif., as a substitute for the popular sovereignty amendment, it is possible that only that seldom, if ever, has a constitutional amendment been offered to the public for either or more than a few reasons.

First, the Senate majority leader, said his proposed compromise amendment was designed to "relieve the concern of a good many people that there might be a change in the constitution. It is possible that the proposed amendment would amend the constitution. This formula does not state that it is adopted, there no longer could be any doubt that the constitution is supreme over any treaty or executive agreement.

Thus, the citizens of these enlightened United States are asked to amend the U. S. constitution, not to correct a real and apparent fault in that historic document, but to relieve the concern of a good many people that there might be a "loophole."

There is no doubt, of course, that the concern is genuine. It has been created deliberately and carefully by a propaganda campaign which has resorted to misrepresentation and outright lies. This campaign, which has been spearheaded by Sen. John W. Bricker, II, O., has aimed to convince the public that "everybody" takes precedence over the U. S. constitution. It does not, as the constitution plainly states and as the courts have ruled consistently. The real objective of the amendment, as the columns have pointed out in detail in the past, is to make treaties subordinate to congressional laws and state laws, which would be a clear violation of the expressed purpose of the framers of the U. S. constitution.

The distressing aspect of the Knowland proposal is that it should feel that it is necessary to point to the superstitious and uneducated masses of the country for support of the amendment which has been victimized by propaganda in this campaign and to offer an unnecessary, perhaps damaging amendment to the constitution, under the name of "relieve the concern of citizens who had no factual grounds for concern in the first place."—Levittown Tribune.

ADDING HEALTH INSURANCE
President Eisenhower's proposal for government support to private health insurance plans is more notable for what it does not say than for what it does say. He proposes a $20,000,000 federal fund to "create" such plans and make it possible for them to take "the health insurance" of the individual.

Perhaps someone in congress has had sufficient advance briefing to know what the proposal implies. If so, we hope he will enlighten the public as soon as possible. Meanwhile we can only conclude that the administration is going at the matter backwards. It proposes the establishment of a fund for a health insurance plan, and seems to leave it to the insurance industry to find something to do with the money. Somehow this remains one of the new deal, if it is not the old deal, which it believes should be completed by the government in the field of health insurance. It should state that objective clearly and then at least a tentative method of achieving it can be done. Then it might be possible to estimate what it would cost to do it and to consider intelligently the merits of the project in practical, desirable and with the cost.

A price of $20,000,000 is pretty high, even in these times, for a pig in a poke. —Helen H. H. H.

POT SHOTS

WE'RE WAITING
Someone phoned Saturday to inquire why Pot Shots didn't sponsor a contest to see who could build the most impressive snowman. We were waiting for the idea that the anonymous youngster who phoned had already completed a real whaling, dingy of a snowman. Being rather cautious at those, we told the youngster we'd have to think that one over.

So we're going to take the matter under advisement. In the meantime, the snow should happen to melt, that's too bad. If there is more snow, that's too good, too.

The Pot Shots decided in the matter will be announced right after the Fourth of July. If there is a snowman contest, we sure it can be arranged for sometime the latter part of July or the first of August.

BUCKS FOR BASEBALL
We thought just a word of explanation might be in order about something we noted the other day about the sports page. We know the Old Sports Editor will be more than happy to have an explanation from Pot Shots.

Bucks for Baseball they're calling it. There is no conservation problem involved. Although the kind of bucks they're after can be kind of "dead" at times.

Furthermore, you don't need a hunting license to get in on this deal. We'll tell you all you have to do is mail the dollar bill to the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce. We'll pass the money to the club. Of course, you can't claim any stock certificate for your buck, but it's all being donated anyway, isn't it?

It's just like paying for a game that you don't want and you never use the rain check.

NOT RESPONSIBLE
Dear Pot:
Don't know if you had anything to do with it or not, personally I didn't. I did not see any of the boys in the Banana Hotel are still stuck with the name of Franklin or Harry.

ASKING TOO MUCH
The other morning when we opened the garage door, the first thing we noticed was the parking lights still burning on the family jalopy. And the did get the lights anything about it? It seems Mrs. Pot Shots had the car the night before.

And after all, she did BACK the car into the garage, permitting a lot get-away for us the next morning. And she did get the lights MOSTLY turned off. We figure she did pretty good.

The surprise, I think about the whole incident was that the battery functioned perfectly! This was the factor that undoubtedly prevented an explosion in the Pot Shots household.

TA WANNA KNOW?
Pot Shots:
I think a great many people would like to know their paper boy. Every complaint called into the office takes points away from their show check.

When people move across or out of town the paper boy has to pay for their paper as most people do not pay in advance. If you have a complaint, call your paper boy. Most of them try their best.

WASHINGTON COLUMN PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Before Dwight D. Eisenhower ever assumed the presidency of the United States, he made a speech at Cleveland, Ohio, in which he said, in effect, that if anyone wanted perfect social conservatism, the place to get it was in jail.

Eisenhower was jumped by that statement. His critics declared that no man who thought that way could ever be elected President.

In his campaign, he took considerable pains to express an opposite point of view. In his speeches at Columbus, R. C. W. Wilson, Boise, Denver and Los Angeles, he told the crowds how much he believed in social conservatism and what he would do to strengthen the system if he was elected. Every utterance was an attempt to live down that unfortunate Cleveland speech.

The social-security message President Eisenhower sent to congress carried out his campaign promise. The new social-security laws were for more, better and bigger social-welfare plans.

What congress does with the President's speech recommendations will increase both payroll deductions and benefits for old-age retirement insurance for more people up to 65 years of age. It will add just one more plan to add to the more than 170 bills introduced in congress last year to extend the social-security system.

What this points up is that almost every congressional recommendation will be carried out. Politically, few, if any, congressmen today can afford to oppose social security. Speeches which are hostile to the social-security system are now heart and soul for it. The President's recommendations are largely an expression of Gov. Truman's policy.

Mr. Truman's earlier campaign promises for social security, but that the GOP conservative used to make about the dangers of the "welfare state" just don't go any more. In the less than 20 years since the first social-security laws were passed, the country has come that far.

When the Republican party, which criticized the Democrats' first moves for greater social security and took a prominent part in holding back the social-security system, is now heart and soul for it. The President's recommendations are largely an expression of Gov. Truman's policy.

Is That So! Snow Helpful And Troublesome

Snow is a helpful force in the woodland, covering the earth with a soft blanket in which mice, cottontails and other little creatures seek shelter. It is a bed, too, for ruffed grouse which plunge into it from on high, fluff out their feathers and root in the snow. It is a natural ladder for rabbits to reach trees and woody stems.

For ground-cooling birds, snow is a help. It keeps the ground cool and the birds warm. It is a help to the birds in the winter. It is a help to the birds in the winter. It is a help to the birds in the winter.

Cured Cancer Patients Have Role for Meet

BOISE, Jan. 11.—For the first time, doctors at the annual training school sponsored by the Idaho division of the American Cancer society, present cancer patients to the group and discuss the diagnosis and treatment in specific cases. President Leo J. Falk, said today.

The second in a series of three training schools will open at Hotel Boise at 9 a.m. Friday. The first was held Friday and Saturday in Pocatello and the third will be held Feb. 12 and 13 in Lewiston. The school staff members will include the national president, Dr. A. M. Pappas, Leo J. Falk, Idaho president; Dr. Raymond L. White, chairman of the executive committee; Mrs. Grant Hess, state commander; Mrs. Ann Angell, associate state commander; Mrs. L. B. Anderson, field representative; Dr. J. Peterson, director of public health; and W. Benson, director of vital statistics, all Boise.

Key cancer workers who plan to attend the two-day session will be welcomed by Dr. R. P. Rawlinson, Emmett, president of the Northwest Idaho District Medical Society. The morning will be devoted to "Living Examples of Living Insurance." For physicians, Dr. Harold H. Hollander, Dr. Wendell, Dr. A. B. Halliday, Nampa; Dr. Leon W. Nowerski, Boise; and Dr. O. A. Terhune, Burley, will present patients who have been cured of cancer by early detection and treatment. This will be followed by a quiz and an answer period and an address, "Health to Meet Your Mountains," by Robert E. Smylie, Idaho's attorney general.

ever, dropped from 727 to 711 while property damage collisions dipped from 616 to 528.

The statewide campaign also brought a sharp increase in arrests for speeding, 1,044 against 738 for the summer of 1935.

State Police Chief Francis J. McCabe noted that "many persons who were speeding were stopped to the extent that they were involved in serious accidents."

Allen termed the project a "move right-a-way" drive campaign but added that "the average motorist was definitely not aware of the drive at all."

He said Maine still favors "multi-state compacts, campaigns and uniform motor vehicle regulations." He anticipates better results this year.

Concerted safety efforts also have been made on the local level. Portland, the state's largest city, has adopted an observant system through which anonymous citizens report traffic infractions to the police. The police in turn send the offender a warning but no legal action is taken. The plan has provoked a good deal of criticism against "snitch" spying and "secret police."

Also in Portland, the Junior Chamber of Commerce pressed a "right-a-way" drive during which members attached strips of luminous tape to automobiles at special stations set up throughout the city.

At Brunswick, 24 miles from Portland, American Legionnaires furnish safety cards cautioning drivers' license applicants against reckless driving. State and local police and tax collectors help distribute them.

Maine also has an extensive system of driver education courses in its public schools.

As of Jan. 19, the 1934 Maine death toll was six, compared with eight in 1933 and 1932.

"Blue Pencil" for Speech Awarded

Mrs. Reese Williams won the blue pencil for her speech on "Famous Women in Sports" at the meeting of the Toastmasters club Friday at a breakfast at Wray's cafe.

The subject for the day was "The World of Sports." Mrs. Otto Fowler spoke on "We Got Our Deer" and Mrs. Clarence Mitchell talked on "Medicine in Sports." Mrs. Granville Allen gave a report on a safety council meeting. Mrs. John Graham told about the regional meeting of the three Toastmasters clubs of Idaho Falls, Blackfoot and Pocatello that she attended in Pocatello.

Mrs. J. Woodson Greed was chief evaluator and Mrs. Allen was toastmistress.

City's Recreation Dance Scheduled Tuesday Evening

All interested square dancers and spectators are invited to attend a square dance which will be sponsored by the city recreation department at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Twin Falls Junior high school gymnasium.

The event is the second of a series of dances planned for the winter season. The purpose is to acquaint beginners with square dancing. They will be placed in squares with more experienced dancers. No admission fee is charged.

Leon Fenwick will act as master of ceremonies and visiting callers will include Max Morris, Kimberly, Ralph Asensup, Piler, Dorel Anderson, Hazelton, Myron Bliss, Gooding, Hewitt, Kirkpatrick, Twin Falls, and Bill Cleveland. Each caller will attend the dance accompanied by members of his club.

Dances which will be called by Fenwick will include "Red Wing," "Wash Cannonball," "Adam and Eve," "Gentle Grab Two," "Bilwath Those Ladies Bland," "Goodbye My Lover," "Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," "Mamam," and "Star and Wheel."

Round dances tentatively planned for the program include "Finches Two-Step," "Circle Schottische," "Varouienne," "Old Softshoe," "Glowworm," and "Suga Suga."

Music will be by recordings. Ernest Graner, superintendent of parks and recreation, is in charge of arrangements, assisted by Nick Motzner.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Now and again silence is very welcome to most adults. Actually we do not have enough of it in our homes. There are those persons who have their radios turned on for hours on end, though they pay little attention to the programs. Apparently they must have the noise themselves. They cry to be louder and louder music or soap operas.

It is therefore no wonder that some of our children are brought up to feel that the radio noise is necessary. It also causes them to like noise when they play. They may say that the action and hubbub mean to them that "something is doing."

But there are those adults who feel they need quiet occasionally—a period when they can be alone with their thoughts. It is a good thing to have silence, for we have quite enough noise in the streets. Fortunately, the work in offices calls for concentration and, therefore, the workers enjoy quiet.

We should set aside at least 15

Junior Gleaners Receive Awards

Seven LDS MIA Junior Gleaners were presented service awards Friday night at the Gold and Green ball held in the second ward recreation hall by the second and fourth wards' MIA.

Honored were Edith Alger, Georganna Ward and Marjorie Anderson of the second ward and Dion Bean, Phyllis Bean, Shirley Hammond and Rae Larson, all fourth ward.

The presentations were made by Richard Stone, second ward, and Ted Larson, fourth ward.

The awards are based on 75 per cent attendance at MIA meetings and 50 per cent attendance at sacrament meetings and Sunday school. Other requirements include presenting a five-minute talk at a sacrament meeting and fulfillment of tithing and word of wisdom and welfare assignments.

Presentations of the awards followed a program which included a folk dance by a Junior group and three vocal numbers by a sextet.

Dancing began after the awards were presented.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Now and again silence is very welcome to most adults. Actually we do not have enough of it in our homes. There are those persons who have their radios turned on for hours on end, though they pay little attention to the programs. Apparently they must have the noise themselves. They cry to be louder and louder music or soap operas.

It is therefore no wonder that some of our children are brought up to feel that the radio noise is necessary. It also causes them to like noise when they play. They may say that the action and hubbub mean to them that "something is doing."

But there are those adults who feel they need quiet occasionally—a period when they can be alone with their thoughts. It is a good thing to have silence, for we have quite enough noise in the streets. Fortunately, the work in offices calls for concentration and, therefore, the workers enjoy quiet.

We should set aside at least 15

HEART TO HEART FROM J. WHO SAID YOUR PAPER MADE PEN WAS NOT UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED? It most certainly is, and we mean business about that guarantee. The ink tube, the cap, the barrel are guaranteed to be mechanically perfect or they will be replaced.

Now, that doesn't mean you can tinker with your pen and get a new one. If tinkering is in order, let me do it. Do not try to get good ink from a tube by using a straight pin. There's a better way. If you use your pen correctly, you can't miss getting good service from it.

If you don't understand about your pen, call us or bring it in. We'll be glad to help you—BUT DON'T TINKER WITH IT! OTHERWISE, YOUR GUARANTEE IS NO GOOD. FINE! NAMES CAN TAKE A GOOD URN. They're made to use, to enjoy, to serve you. They are now if you don't own one. If you own one, give one as a gift. ALWAYS: NAMES ENGRAVED FREE. Soft Elegance Highlights Styles

This spring, clothes for evening are soft but elegant. While there are full skirts for after-five, there are also many straight ones like these above. Shining silk satin evening gown, left, by Jacques Fath for Joseph Halpert is in ice blue. From front, it gives effect of double-breasted coat. Back skirt has deep fold pleat. Black silk linen sheath, right, by Mollie Parnis has white cotton lace bodice and short lace jacket.

One-Piece Look

Now for Evening By GAIL DUGAS NEA Women's Editor NEW YORK (AP)—During the seasons past, women have lived in separates for after-five. Now we have the one-piece look or the costume look interpreted in the dress with its own jacket.

Length isn't much of a discussion anymore in evening clothes. It's generally accepted that the short length fits in best with the American way of life and that American women do not want evening gowns that are too bulky or cumbersome or tricky to manage. This is the development of the gown that really has a very formal look (almost a ball gown slip) except for its length.

Shape is everything in all clothes this spring. With evening gowns, this means that the full-skirted, tiny waisted look has given way to the Empire line with more coverage, more sophistication. Prints are lovely for evening, handled in delicate floral motifs or monochrome abstracts.

The low neckline silhouette, also present in daytime fashions, appears effectively in after-five fashions. This neckline is sometimes emphasized by bands or crisscross drapes.

Just as spring's daytime clothes are soft and ladylike, so do spring's evening clothes show restraint.

Impossible?

No, extensive sewing is not impossible. See it done as the Natchez Sewing Machine with the famous wicker wheel.

Writer Assails Pruett Column About Gravity

By J. HUGH PRUETT
Astronomer, Education Division
Oregon Higher Education System

After my recent article on the law of gravitation as propounded almost 300 years ago by the great Sir Isaac Newton, I received a letter from a reader who believes this brilliant English scientist and all present day scientists are absolutely wrong on the subject. He writes in part:

"The law of gravitation is just a 'fuzzy' duck theory, and it is not enough to play with but not to take seriously. Now if you want to settle it once and for all, I'll tell you how."

"On the north side of Pike's peak there is an almost perpendicular drop of 4,000 feet. Five 3,000 feet of rope and a 25- or 50-pound weight. Pike's peak is no baby. Run a horizontal shaft far enough out to clear the cliff. Get the shaft perfectly level and then sight down with a square which has not been used to make it a level. Have your bone-headed scientists who think they know go down to the bottom and see how far the weight is pulled off from perpendicular. I am sure this will prove your gravitation theory to be false." (Mr. D. D.)

"But Mr. D. D., the writer states still 'provides the key for the interpretation of the physical universe as an orderly system.' I never have known of a high school pupil who has studied elementary physics having the least doubt as to the existence and operation of this universal law. The proofs are too overwhelming. Every physical scientist depends upon it to explain practically all the motions of the universe."

"The method our correspondent suggests for proving there is no such thing as gravitation would prove just the opposite. The hanging weight over the cliff of Pike's peak would be attracted toward the huge mass of the mountain so carefully measured that would not be quite perpendicular."

Well-Known Fact
A fact well known by surveyors is that when near large masses of matter, such as mountains, the plumb line does not point quite true. Corrections known as station errors have to be applied. As long ago as 1740, Bouguer detected deviations of the plumb line by the attraction of Mount Chimborazo in South America."

In 1774 Maskelyne, fourth English astronomer royal, made measurements on the attraction of Mount Schiehallion in Scotland from which he deduced the mass of the earth. In northern India the enormous mass of the Himalayas deflects the plumb line strongly."

But it is not necessary to work with mountains and planets to determine the gravitational attraction between masses of matter. Accurate measurements can be made in the laboratory with such instruments as the torsion pendulum and the beam balance."

Noted Psychiatrist Speaks on Town Hall Event Wednesday

Dr. Douglas M. Kelley, noted psychiatrist, will speak at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday at the junior high school auditorium for a Town Hall association program.

He is a professor of criminology in the school of criminology at the University of California, Berkeley. He teaches the psychological and psychiatric aspects of criminology and is engaged in research in the application of psychiatric method to the problems of police interrogation and lie detection.

During the war, Dr. Kelley was a lieutenant-colonel in the army medical corps. He was chief consulting psychologist and chief consulting psychiatrist of the European theater of operations before being appointed psychiatrist to the Nuremberg jail.

At Nuremberg, he examined the minds of the leading German war criminals and wrote a book, "22 Cells in Nuremberg," on his findings.

Dr. Kelley was born in California and received his BA degree from the University of California. Four years later, he earned his medical degree there. In 1929 he was assistant in psychiatry at the University of California hospital. He was resident in psychiatry at Rockefeller foundation, fellow in psychiatry at the New York state psychiatric institute and hospital and the New York Neurological Institute. He also was research fellow in neurology at Columbia university's college of physicians and surgeons.

He received his doctorate in medical science from Columbia in 1941 and was appointed instructor in psychiatry at the University of California medical school as well as director of the San Francisco city and county psychopathic hospital.

After he returned from Germany, Dr. Kelley became associate professor of psychiatry at the Bowman Gray school of medicine at Wake Forest college and director of its psychiatric hospital. He established for the first time in America, treatment techniques taken directly from experiences with combat neurosis cases.

Dr. Kelley is a fellow of the American Psychiatric association and a fellow and past president of the Rorschach Institute and the Institute of General Semantics. He is president of this society for the advancement of Criminology. He is a member of the American Psychological association, American Orthopsychiatric association, American

Filer to Host 11th Annual Swine Sale on Feb. 15; Record Consignment Is Assured

FILER, Jan. 23—Twin Falls county fairgrounds will be host on Feb. 15 to a swine sale that is expected to be the largest in the state this year. Some 50 head of swine have been consigned to the 11th annual sale sponsored by the Southcentral Idaho Swine Breeders association. Clark Mills, chairman of the sale, said 200 to 300 FFA students and 4-H members will participate in the judging contest. The contest also will include an open division for buyers and consignors. Prizes of $15 will go to the 4-H member, the FFA student and the entrant in the open division who prove the top judges. The money is to be apportioned to the purchase of animals consigned to the sale. The swine will be ranked and the participants judging sheets scored by Wade Wells, University of Idaho swine specialist. Lyle Barton, Rupert, will be the auctioneer. He is also vice chairman of the sale. Barton reported consignments will include 39 bred gilts, eight fall boars and 12 fall gilts, the largest entry list in the history of the sale. A total of 48 animals was sold in last year's event. Consignments will include Hampshire, Duroc, Spotted Poland, Chester Whites, Yorkshires and Berkshires, Barton reported. The consignments include Wayne Lewis, Declo; Harland Monroe, Clark Mills and son and Harry Mills, Twin Falls; Aubrey Foiden, Boise; Fred Griffith, Gooding; Roy Shuttell, Boise; Robert Day, Carey; Paul Bollinger and W. J. Wagoner and sons, all Meridian; Henry Weimera, Caldwell; Alvin Ritchie, Ucon; Owen Semmons, Idaho Falls; K. L. Wamsland and sons, Parma; Thomas Clifton, Copeland; W. G. Stewart, Rexburg; Dale Gardwell, Roy, Utah, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zipser, Palouse, Wash. Estimates indicate 27,000 cubic miles of water fall as precipitation each year on the world's area.

Well Studies Show Level Unchanged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Irrigation pumping in the Goose Creek basin of Cassia county, Idaho, has caused "no appreciable change in water levels in observation wells," the geological survey said today. A report on the 519 wells showed, however, that "there appears to have been temporary local lowering of water levels during each pumping season," the agency added. It said pumping had increased from "a negligible amount" in 1942 to about 31,700 acre-feet in 1943. It said about 135 cubic feet per second are pumped in the basin each summer.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

People who have trouble playing chess should think of Gail Conrad, a pupil at the state school for the deaf and blind. He plays a remarkable game by the sense of touch. Only Conrad is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jenkins, Orofino. He is a member of the GOODING Chess club and is considered one of the top players.

Conrad, who has been playing chess for about eight years, learned to play while attending the California school for the blind. The school had a chess club of about 50 members and each member would try to work up to the top seven players while forming a team.

Conrad plays by touch and is a better than average player. He was born in Santa Cruz, Calif., on Jan. 12, 1927. At the age of 8 he had a tonsillitis which caused an infection in the mastoid. An operation on the mastoid caused a blood clot on the spinal nerve resulting in blindness. He can see only light and dark.

He entered the Idaho school in 1946 after moving to Idaho from California and is now a junior.

Besides chess, Conrad has radio as a hobby. He says he likes to tinker with old radios and plans to attend a radio school in Omaha, Neb., upon completion of school in Gooding. He plans to go into the field of radio and television in the future.

Mrs. Henry Dahlquist, KIMBERLY, is thankful she has nice neighbors. And at a time she discovered they were nice she didn't even know them.

Last Dec. 8 will go down in her memory as a "black Tuesday." She was driving her new 1946 Dodge, a 9, to school in TWIN FALLS when her automobile hit a slick spot on the road. The car skidded into another car and both she and her son were injured.

That by itself would have been bad enough but the day also was picked to have her accident was the same day she picked to move from Twin Falls to Kimberly.

Dec. 8 is "black Tuesday," then Dec. 13 is "white Tuesday." Moving from one farm to another entails more than loading a van with furniture. Not only do the household effects have to be packed, loaded, moved, unloaded and unpacked but the farm machinery, livestock and hay and feed also have to be moved.

Dahlquist moved his own farm machinery and livestock but on Dec. 13 he received a surprise. A convoy of trucks pulled up at the Twin Falls farm and 15 new neighbors from Kimberly loaded 35 tons of hay onto the trucks and hauled it away.

Those who did the work were members of the Kimberly Grange. They are Leslie Lewis, Don Kilborn, Harold Best, Dan Wiley, Tim Benson, Fred Smith, in person, Roy Latta, Roy Durr, Don Gibbs, Jim Meersmith, Fred Trimble, Sam Stradley and Robert Kaundt. At noon, women members of the

T. F. Northwest Record Gains in Building Volume

Building activity in Twin Falls rose 33 per cent in 1953 over the previous year.

Twin Falls was one of five major Idaho cities to show a gain in building volume last year, according to statistics compiled by the Equitable Savings and Loan association showing an eight per cent gain in building activity for the northwest as a whole.

Topped only by Coeur d'Alene in percentage increase, Twin Falls building activity increased from $220,708 in 1952 to $1,235,275 last year, according to the report.

Idaho showed a one per cent increase for 1953. Costs of building over the state hit $16,618,886 last year, compared to $15,201,892 in 1952. Last year in the northwest ranked behind 1950, the peak year, in building volume. The 47 principal cities of the northwest, taking British Columbia, showed a four per cent increase last year over 1948, which formerly had ranked second in volume in postwar years.

department at the LDS hospital. The author of two medical books, Dr. Moench is the father of seven children and member of four PTAs. Interested persons are invited to attend the Monday evening meeting.

Sale Opposed

SPRINGDALE, Kan. — Opposition to selling the school land next to the fairgrounds in Borley was voiced at a meeting of the Farmers Union here Tuesday.

W. B. Robbins, Salt Lake City, spoke on cooperation and said farmers need help by legislation to get full parity. Mahlon Hansen, Boise, spoke on the state Farmers Union organization.
