"Slanders" by GOP Blasted By Stevenson

(From Page One)
Stevenson said that if the president had cracked down on the Wisconsin senator he would have had the country's support.

Had the Eisenhower administration chosen to act in defense of itself and of the nation which it must govern, it would have had the largest and dedicated support of all but a tiny and deluded minority of the people," he declared.

"Why, you ask, have the demagogues triumphed so often? The answer is inescapable; because a group of political plunders has persuaded the President that McCarthyism is the best Republican formula for political success."

Stevenson said that "while the issue is, and is unmistakable as the support is, the administration appears to be impotent. Why? Because the party which craves the press threatened and "our servants of God impugned." The latter was a direct reference to McCarthy's employment of J. B. Matthews as an investigative agent.

Matthews resigned in the future over a magazine article he wrote supporting communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestant clergymen."

Declaring that there was in progress a "calculated campaign of deceit," Stevenson struck out not only at McCarthy but at Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, New York, Atty.-Gen. Brownell and other Eisenhower advisors he said had made demagogues "a natural national movement."

He said Republicans had violated the limits of partisanship by classing 20 years of Democratic rule as "years of treason," as McCarthy did.

Fantastic Formations Mark Vacationer Paradise Along Utah-Arizona Borders

CEDAR CITY, Utah, March 6—There is an area along the Utah-Arizona border where the vacationer can find a paradise of fantastic formations. The religious influence is still noticeable in names of many of these formations. An example is the Great White Throne, called by some the old's greatest monument, and by others the Pyramid of Egypt.

Zion is a beautiful, snow-capped, spire-shaped peak. Just the other side of the canyon, the Virgin river, the stream responsible for the canyon with its spire-shaped peaks, is still noticeable in names of many of these formations. An example is the Great White Throne, called by some the old's greatest monument, and by others the Pyramid of Egypt.

Nature has assembled one of its greatest concentrations of strange and beautiful formations in this area, where the earth's crust has been cut and broken into fantastic shapes and formations.

This area of natural beauty for sale and recreation is one of the most beautiful in the state. It is a land of red sandstone, and it is a land of great beauty and interest.

Nature has not only concentrated a vast and varied scenic wonderland here, she has also provided a way to it. The highway 89, which runs north-south, is a beautiful road.

The area is roughly bounded by Bryce Canyon national park, Cedar Breaks national monument, and the Virgin river. The area is a land of great beauty and interest.

For an hour and a half drive from the scenic area of Bryce Canyon, the road leads to the Virgin river. The road is a beautiful road, and it is a land of great beauty and interest.

On the highway 89, one can see the Virgin river, the stream responsible for the canyon with its spire-shaped peaks, is still noticeable in names of many of these formations. An example is the Great White Throne, called by some the old's greatest monument, and by others the Pyramid of Egypt.

Journal Chided Over Failure to Note Tax Drop

BOISE, March 6 (AP)—Atty.-Gen. Robert E. Smylie chided the Wall Street Journal today for failure to give Idaho's reversal of the trend toward increased state taxes appropriate publicity.

In a letter to the editor of the Journal's west coast edition, Smylie pointed out there was no mention of Idaho in a recent Journal article on the upward trend in most state taxes.

Smylie noted that the last Idaho legislature passed a 15 per cent income tax reduction plus a credit of $5 per dependent.

The attorney general said he thought the writer of the article "should have mentioned our accomplishment."

He Doubts if Cut in Support Price of Butter to Hike Use

Editor, Times-News: It is rather doubtful that the reduction of the support price of butter will increase the consumption of butter or to any great extent reduce the output.

It might help to pay the producer an incentive price of 70 cents per pound on all the butter that can be disposed of through the regular channels of trade.

There does not seem to be much effort on the part of the producer at present to push the consumption of butter.

I was surprised to read in an encyclopedia that most of the better grades of rice was made from coconut oil. I do not know where the coconut oil comes from, whether or not there is an import quota, or any tariff on the import of it; but it might be of interest to the producer of butter to inquire about it.

It is interesting to note that in your editorial of Feb. 23, you say there are 8,000,000 pounds of butter, cheese, and dried milk in storage; and in your editorial of Feb. 10, you say that we gave Christmas gift food packages to over four million needy foreign families. Each food package contained four pounds of vegetable oil shortening, three cans of evaporated milk, and in some cases a pound of cheese, among other items.

It seems that Mr. Blasen bought

He Lashes Note From Seattle on Solon and Reds

Editor, Times-News: In answer to Mrs. W. A. Masters, Seattle, Wash., and her letter in the Forum Sunday, Feb. 26, I think Mrs. Masters had better keep her shirt on and tongue from wagging about Senator McCarthy and his committee in the former President's administration. No one has seen anywhere where McCarthy proved any of his big talk or convicted any of these 2,000 or 7,000 in any court. They are convicted only in the eyes of the admirers.

I want to understand I am not a red sympathizer in any way. I hope the government deals with any red in the quickest manner I am an ex-serviceman myself and have two boys who are veterans of World War II, also one now in service. So, Mr. Masters, please hold off awhile.

As for your conviction of President Truman and Ex-General George C. Marshall, I think you are all out on information as to either. One thing sure, two other of our rather great generals were all out for fame and glory, one practiced on both sides. One saved equipment but forgot men as equipment was hard to transport and men were quick to replace at best advantage.

Where Marshall believed in saving the men, they at least like to live. Therefore, he was not famed in the eyes of most of the Republican people and gained no great

Design of Auto Is Blamed for Appalling Traffic Death Rate

Editor, Times-News: We hear a lot these days about aggression from without and the widespread deaths and injuries we will suffer if it comes. All the while we are victims of an aggression from within, in the form of automobile accidents, claiming victims at the appalling rate of 28,000 killed and approximately two million injured a year.

This drain on our very life has been going on and on, and increasing in gravity for 40 years. In spite of tremendous efforts and money expended for safety campaigns, highway, policing and traffic devices. The trouble is that the safety efforts are being thwarted by the wrong design of the machine itself.

Today's automobiles are mechanical marvels, but safetywise they must be improved. They are so designed that the driver is robbed of his view of the road close up ahead and at the side, although safe driving is obviously dependent on the driver's ability to see the road and all its hazards. He may, and all too often does, get into his car, start up and run over his own or his neighbor's 4-year-old child playing unseen and virtually unseeable in front of the radiator.

The heavy engine is installed over the front wheels, making the car front-end-heavy. When the car is decelerated sharply, momentum throws the weight forward and the rear wheels tend to lose effective traction on the road. That's why so many cars go off the road on curves, or add and overturn, when brakes are applied in anything but "straight-in-line stops."

To get to the heart of the automobile accident problem, automobile makers should design, build and make available passenger automobiles like the passenger bus, with the engine in the rear and the driver at the very front where his instinct for self preservation, rather than a mistaken belief that the engine will protect him, will keep him driving safely. There he will "watch his stop" and instinctively react against driving too fast for existing conditions.

Better Methods of Cattlemen Termined Low Price Answer

BOISE, March 6 (U. P.)—The answer to lower cattle prices is to "do things better," says Jerry Solon, associate director of the livestock bureau of Armour and company.

Solon told the Mores Creek Cattle Growers association at its annual meeting Friday that cattlemen are meeting the problem with better feeding methods and better bred cattle.

He declined to make any price prediction, but said: "There is a strong feeling that the worst is behind us." He said "some have predicted" that growers will get an average of about 17 cents a pound for cattle in 1954.

The association named a committee to try to get the highway department to fence highways which pass through rangeland. Speakers said that the department's policy of seeding the right-of-way will attract animals to the sides of highways and add to the danger of accidents.

"Give me a plan to build and I'll build it for you"

I had a friend once who told of his experience with a cat and rat ranch. He got a large number of cats and a lot of rats. The idea was that the cats would live on the rats, then he would kill and skin the cats and the rats would live on the carcasses of the cats. He said it worked out just fine only there was no market for the cat pelts.

The farmer gets a subsidy that he otherwise would not have and on which he pays back 23 per cent in income tax. He spends the other 70 per cent with the local merchants which the merchant would not get otherwise. The local merchant pays 23 per cent of what he has not from the farmer back in income tax. He spends the other 73 per cent with the wholesaler, who pays 23 per cent etc., etc. So the government eventually gets all the money it paid the farmer back in income tax and still has the surplus.

Like the cat, it can't be sold, because if it were (at a reduced price) it would depress the market for some of our friendly nations. I only got this way at times and I am not violent.

Note of Thanks Is Received for Red Cross Gift

Editor, Times-News: I have enclosed one of the many letters received by the Twin Falls chapter of the Red Cross in recognition of projects undertaken by the chapter. The project receiving recognition in this letter is the Christmas package project. The local chapter shipped 75 packages of food, clothing, and other necessities to needy families in the Twin Falls area. The contents of the packages were donated by Twin Falls merchants. The letter follows:

Dear Red Cross Members: A few days ago I received a letter from my son dated Dec. 26, 1953. He was on a troop transport which was to make one stop at Alaska to drop some men and then proceed to Japan. This was his first Christmas away from home!

On Christmas morning he was given the box sent by you Red Cross chapter. I don't need to tell you how pleased he was with the contents which he listed in detail in my letter.

May I take this opportunity to thank you in behalf of my son and for other mothers whose boys are in the service for the wonderful work you are doing to bolster the morale of our boys?

May God bless you for these efforts.

When were the police? How many times we hear it when something goes amiss!

We can tell you where they were on the job! In our last break-in, about four minutes from the time they were called, Twin Falls and Piler police had the burglars apprehended.

We are four miles from Twin Falls. Could anyone expect more? Our sincere thanks to the wonderful cooperation of the police force.

U. S. Population Gains 10 Million
WASHINGTON, March 8 (U. P.)—The nation had a population of about 161,100,000 at the beginning of 1954, a gain of nearly 10 million since the last census April 1, 1950, the census bureau estimated today.

During 1953 the population increased about 2,700,000 or 1.7 per cent. The bureau said the growth in population has been remarkably stable for several years, ranging between 2,500,000 and 2,700,000 a year, or at an average annual rate of about 1.7 per cent.

Of major significance, said the bureau, is the continued high level of the number of births in this decade, reaching almost four million in 1953 alone, the greatest number in any year to date. Mortality during 1953 continued at the record low 1952 level of 9.5 deaths per 1,000 persons.

U. S. Population Gains 10 Million
WASHINGTON, March 8 (U. P.)—The nation had a population of about 161,100,000 at the beginning of 1954, a gain of nearly 10 million since the last census April 1, 1950, the census bureau estimated today.

During 1953 the population increased about 2,700,000 or 1.7 per cent. The bureau said the growth in population has been remarkably stable for several years, ranging between 2,500,000 and 2,700,000 a year, or at an average annual rate of about 1.7 per cent.

Of major significance, said the bureau, is the continued high level of the number of births in this decade, reaching almost four million in 1953 alone, the greatest number in any year to date. Mortality during 1953 continued at the record low 1952 level of 9.5 deaths per 1,000 persons.

Many Hands Make Light Work at King Hill

As a community service project the King Hill Grange has completed painting the outside woodwork on the King Hill church. To solve the scaffolding problem, Wesley Fink and Kenneth Taylor donated the use of their tractors and farmhands. The Women's Missionary society served

Schools Use 3-D; Glasses and All, to Instruct Early Spellers

CHICAGO, March 6 (U.S.)—The schools are using 3-D, with special eye glasses and all, to teach the kids to spell C-A-T.

It's all a development from that little drawing of tabby that we used to see in the primer after the sentence, "C-A-T spells cat."

Prof. A. J. Foy Cross of New York university explained it yesterday at the convention of the department of audio-visual instruction of the National Education association.

Teachers have found they can do a better job of teaching if they pass on ideas to pupils with things they can see and hear, instead of always writing or reading, he said.

"Words in themselves don't mean anything," said Cross. "It's the experiences and images they recall which convey the ideas."

So the schools use all the movies, models, flat pictures, sound records, charts and cartoons they can afford. More than one per cent of the money spent on a pupil in most big city schools goes for visual aids.

Three-D is the newest and by all odds the most popular with the youngsters lucky enough to have it. The favorite 3-D subjects are geography and animals.

When the time comes to learn to spell cat, the illustration is terrific, compared to that old sketch of tabby. Putting on their three-dimensional glasses, the kids see a cat stroll across the screen, purring and meowing.

Behind her comes a parade of letters. Then other kinds of cats take a bow.

"After that the children don't just spell 'cat'," said Cross. "Many of them want to write more about what they have seen. Of course, there you achieve the hardest thing in the world—making anyone actually want to write."

Scouters End First Session For Planning

The first session of the annual planning conference of the Snake River Boy Scout council met Friday evening at the Lutheran school.

Approximately 70 men representing the seven districts of the council were present. Three different sessions were conducted according to Ralph Kalaher, Twin Falls Boy Scout executive.

The camping and activities committee, under the leadership of Andrew James, Gooding, and the health and safety committee, led by Dr. Morris Schell, Gooding, as chairman met together.

Mike Throckmorton, Boise, representing the fish and game department, Jack Keith, Shoshone, grazing service, and J. P. Tucker, Purley, forest service, met with the group to advise them in formulating plans for a conservation program for Boy Scouts during the summer.

The camping committee decided the council would concentrate on the camp at Lightfoot bar, north of Fairfield, and would not operate the camp at Porcupine springs in the south hills. They will have a six-week camping season.

The advancement committee met under the leadership of Tom Prescott, Jerome. Dr. George Scholler, Twin Falls, led the discussion during the meeting of the commissioners of the council. Both groups set up policies and made plans for the coming year.

Another session will be conducted Friday with three more committees meeting. The leadership and training group, organization and extension committee and the committee on finance will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Lutheran school, according to Kalaher.

South Hills Deer Herd Holds Up Despite Hunting Pressure

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, March 4.—Despite heavy hunting pressure, the multi-deer herd on the Cassia division of the Bawtooth national forest is holding up and is in good shape, reports Dr. Paul D. Dalke, leader of the cooperative wildlife research unit at the University of Idaho. Dr. Dalke bases his appraisal on the report of Burt R. McConell, who has been assigned to study the herd for the past year.

This study of the productivity of the Cassia herd has been conducted in cooperation with the U. S. Forest Service and the Idaho fish and game department. McConell has been located at Hansen. Indications of the hunting pressure on this herd, Dr. Dalke cites the 1953 season. Permits were issued to 5,000 individuals of these deer. Actually participated in the hunt. Nearly 4,000 deer were taken. "This is a case of having your cake and eating it too," comments the leader of the wildlife research unit.

McConell's studies show a productivity of 57 fawns per female in the 2-year-old group, 171 per female in the 3-to 6-year-old group, and 168 fawns per female in the older age.

"Without much hunting there would be a larger percentage of older does producing fawns," Dr. Dalke notes.

This study has been unusual in another way, explains Dr. Dalke. Here the hunters themselves have provided much of the research data needed. At the checking stations they have permitted the wildlife research men to take lower jaws from all samples and crates from the deer. Jack's tall age is a good indication of the productivity of the herd.

Jasper McLeary, a socialist, is serving his 11th consecutive term as mayor of Bridgeport, Conn.

OUT AHEAD with that bigger, lower leading higher-priced cars have body with that big, smooth, low-slung look. Chevrolet has it. And Chevrolet is the only low-priced car that does!

OUT AHEAD with the highest-compression overhead valve engines for more power and finer performance on less gas. Here's the highest compression ratio of any leading low-priced car—7.5 to 1.

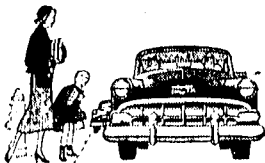

OUT AHEAD with that smooth and solid big-car ride. Chevrolet's the only low-priced car with Utilized Knee-Action—the entire front suspension assembled and balanced as a separate unit. That's one reason for its finer ride.

(Isn't this why more people want—and buy—Chevrolets than any other car?)

What you want most Chevrolet gives you first

See how Chevrolet stays ahead of other low-priced cars in all the things that mean the most to you. See how much less Chevrolet costs you—it's the lowest-priced line of them all. Come on in and let us show you how you can have the things you want and be a good many dollars ahead with a new Chevrolet. That's promising a lot, but we welcome the chance to prove it!

OUT AHEAD with zippy, thrifty Powerglide. It's the first automatic transmission in the low-price field and the most improved and smooth. Acceleration is instantly responsive and smooth as silk. Powerglide is optional on all models at extra cost.

OUT AHEAD with bigger brakes for greater safety. Chevrolet brakes are the largest in the low-price field! This additional size provides greater braking power for smoother, safer stops with less pedal pressure.

OUT AHEAD with automatic power controls. Chevrolet is the first low-priced car to bring you the extra-cost options of Power Steering, Power Brakes (available on Powerglide models) and Automatic Front Window and Seat Controls (available on Bel Air and "Two-Ten" models).

Expert Spots Bright Stars; Spring Nears

By J. HUGH PRUETT
Astronomer, Extension Division
Oregon Higher Education System
Spring will begin officially in about two weeks, March 20. High-sounding terms "spring" this as the time when it is "crossing the line," or is it that part of its path, the ecliptic, which crosses the celestial equator. But let's make it simpler. It is the day when the sun's position is just halfway between its lowest position in winter and its highest position in summer.

The brilliant planet Venus passed the sun and arrived in the western twilight sky five weeks ago, but it is still setting only about half an hour after sunset, so is difficult to see. It will soon get into a better position. Mercury is at about the same distance west from Old Sol the day after.

If the sky is clear tonight, notice the crescent moon in the western twilight. As always in March, it is a "dry moon," lying on its rounded side so as to "hold water."

As soon as the sky has darkened somewhat, look for the splendid planet Jupiter, a little southwest of overhead. It is somewhat dimmed from its brilliance at the first of the year, but is still the brightest "star-like" object in the heavens. Through even small telescopes, Jupiter's four larger moons present an interesting sight.

Yellow Saturn rises in the east-southeast at around 11 p.m. and red Mars in almost the same direction two hours later.

For the brighter stars—distant suns—let us observe at 8 p.m. The splendid constellation of Orion, the Hunter, is now glorious, well up in the south-southwest. The three stars of equal brightness which form a conspicuous short, straight line are the belt of Orion.

Higher, and slightly left of these, the red and more brilliant Betelgeuse shines in the hunter's shoulder; below and a little right, blue-white Rigel sparkles in the shoe buckle.

Considerably lower and about due south, brilliant Sirius in the Big Dog, scintillates beautifully. This star is excellent in brightness only by Jupiter and the moon. About east of Betelgeuse, we find Procyon in the Little Dog.

Slightly west of the Zenith and north of Jupiter, yellow Capella twinkles. Note that the planet Jupiter does not twinkle. Somewhat below Jupiter, we find orange Aldebaran in the V-shaped Hyades cluster. North of the Hyades, the tiny dipper of the Pleiades is fascinating.

High in the east-southeast, bright Regulus shines at the end of the handle of the Big Dipper. The curved blade of dimmer stars is northward from Regulus and opens toward the west. High in the northeast the familiar Big Dipper is standing on the end of its handle. In the north-west, the W of the Cassiopeia stars is easily traced.

Spring Is Coming Most Everywhere Else

Capitol Police Only Students

WASHINGTON, March 6 (AP)—All but about 30 of the 155 capitol policemen guarding congress against possible new violence are college students with little or no training. It was revealed today.

They are riding a patronage payroll to college degrees in such things as law or accounting or medicine. And although they may be good students, they are something less than expert policemen.

Congressmen were reminded of this fact with some force when four Puerto Ricans looted the house chamber into a shooting gallery. And now there is a move on to get professionals.

The students get their $4,000-a-year jobs from lawmakers belonging to the party in power. It is a matter of political patronage. They often study at their posts but this doesn't mean they aren't doing their work.

In fact, Capitol Police Capt. William J. Wroderick said they do a good job under the circumstances. But as an aftermath of the shooting, he has urged congress to establish a force of trained, career police officers.

Although congressional leaders were somewhat cool to proposed bullet-proof enclosures for senate and house galleries, the initial reaction to the professional police force idea was favorable.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

By CLAY H. STEPHENS

(Pastor, Assembly of God Church)
The Scriptures teach that Jesus was an emotional Religiousist or that His experience stirred His emotions, which is the kind of religion men need today to stem the tide of sin. Jesus loved, which is the picture of God's great plan, Jesus wept, was moved with compassion facing the realities of this life. He hated sin because He rebuked it at every turn. His emotions were stirred when He drove the money out of the temple. I wonder if we might not drive some things out of our churches today?

"The Emotional Christ"

The thought I want to impress upon our minds is that we need a religion of the heart, a salvation that we can feel, that will cause us to love God, have compassion for

Exciting

PAUL, March 6—When David Klausner's family moved here, plenty of excitement. Thursday afternoon, while they were moving to a farm four miles northeast of Paul, five to seven weeds spread to the garage, destroying it and a hot loader. Busy firemen, who extinguished the blaze, said a short time ago they were called to the Jackson district to extinguish a fire in a potato cellar on a farm Klausner was preparing to leave for the one near Paul.

Lodge Says U. N. Preventing War

CHICAGO, March 6—Henry Cabot Lodge, United States ambassador to the United Nations, says the U. N. "stands between us and World War III, or the extinction of human freedom, or both." Lodge said the U. N. "is not a tool of communist spies, because it is nothing to spy on in the United Nations—which is why the Russians haven't even filled their quota of members."

"Automation" Lowers Costs Of U. S. Cars

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor
DETROIT, March 6 (AP)—It took 14 hours to assemble an automobile. The following year the mechanized conveyor line was introduced and the time was cut to 10 minutes and less.

"Automation" has been a word for the last few years. It has been the production of a new type of automobile. It has been the production of a new type of automobile.

Paster production, close tolerances, more rigid inspection, and the use of automatic machinery have lowered the cost of a car by as much as 10 percent.

Coning line has not only the machine, but also the man. The man is the one who is responsible for the quality of the work.

Automation applied to new heat-treating furnaces brings the automatic process to the fore. Steel is heated through a continuous process in which they are automatically reheated, sheared, and then again, reduced, pressed to the desired shape, flanged, and tempered.

Painting Automatic
Yet another instance is seen in the paint shop. Electrically controlled paint guns are given an electrostatic charge. The paint is given a charge of the opposite polarity.

When the paint is released it is attracted to the parts like a magnet. Eliminated are the time-honored water curtains and spray booths.

Every discussion of the automatic manufacturing process brings immediately the suggestion that the pushbutton factory is here. The automatic operation is controlled by a series of pushbuttons.

As far as job certainty is concerned, industry officials say more workers in 1933 drew more money for work in automatic factories of the auto industry than in any previous year in history.

Japanese to Drop Citizenship Action

BOISE, March 6 (AP)—A suit by 30-year-old Tokukichi Nagaki, Payette, asking that the state department be ordered to declare him a U. S. citizen, has been dropped by Judge Chase A. Clark at Nagaki's request.

Nagaki told U. S. Atty. Sherman Payne Thursday that he had decided to return to Japan rather than press his claim. He had appeared a state department ruling declaring him ineligible for citizenship because of service in the Japanese army in World War II.

U.S. Could Launch Atomic Bombers on Moment's Notice From Bases in Africa

By ELTON C. FAY
SIDI SILMANE, French Morocco, March 5.—The United States could launch atomic bombers on a moment's notice from three of the four huge air fields it has constructed in North Africa since 1951.

They aren't all complete. In fact, one now has only runways and parking areas and a strip on the wing and other buildings. But if war came tomorrow they could be used as launching points for medium-range jet bombers and heavy bombers.

Work on the first of the bases started in the spring of 1951. It was a time of tension, but the Korean war and worry that it would spark a world conflict in which the United States would be forced to fight against Russia, back against Russian air attack, were imperative.

Congressional committee which investigated the project sharply criticized the construction time table, quality of the work, and the cost. A Senate subcommittee heard testimony last July by five base and headquarters their planned might run to 240 million dollars.

Army engineers, supervising construction of the bases for the air force, now estimate four bases and a headquarters will total about 381 million dollars, something more if additional runways and other installations are added. One of the originally contemplated fields, at El Djema Sahin, was dropped after $10,143,000 had been spent on it.

College Choir Program Set

Program for the College of Idaho's cappella choir appearing Tuesday evening at the Junior high school auditorium under the auspices of the Twin Falls Kiwanis club is announced by Charles Allen, club president.

The program will begin at 8:15 p.m. No admission will be charged. Arthur E. Huff is director of the 34-voice choir.

Seven soloists will perform, including Sandra Gill, Kimberly plant.

2 Psychiatrists Blame Parents in Delinquency

CHICAGO, March 6.—Two psychiatrists blame parents—rather than bad companions, divorce or heredity—for such delinquency in children as fire setting, stealing, truancy, criminal acts or sexual misbehavior.

The psychiatrists, from Mayo clinic and the University of California school of medicine, commended the parents generally give unwitting approval or indirect encouragement to such acts by their delinquent children.

The doctors base their conclusion on more than 10 years of research on delinquents in apparently normal families of good reputation.

They contend a parent, usually unconsciously, often induces a "scapegoat" offspring to "live out" the parent's anti-social impulse so that the parent can derive substitute satisfaction.

Writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association, the psychiatrists cite various instances designed to support their contention.

The studies were made by Dr. Adalberto M. Johnson of Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., and Dr. S. A. Saxe, San Francisco.

Almost completed is Sidi Silmane, now fully operational. A wing of strategic air command B-47 bombers, which arrived recently for a two or three months assignment, is based here. In practice strikes, dozens of jet bombers already have screamed off Sidi Silmane's runways and roamed far up over western Europe, their fuel replenished en route by tanker planes.

The engineers estimate $68,746,000 has been spent or is outstanding by contract at Sidi Silmane.

A hundred miles or more to the south is Nouasseur, more costly than any of the other North African bases because it is the depot headquarters for the North African air force. Nouasseur has cost $182,200,000 to date. The air force rates it as 80 per cent complete.

It is huge, even when measured against airfields in the States. Twenty-two miles of runway and its sprawling acres.

A hangar capable of housing four B-36 heavy bombers or six medium bombers is ready to be used for repairing aircraft when occasional winter rains or summer showers sweep in.

Fourteen warehouses, each of extra-size dimension, are finished. They already are crammed with millions of dollars worth of equipment, ranging from engines to wrenches.

A double track railroad connects Nouasseur with the big Moroccan port of Casablanca through which pass the supplies and fuel for planes. Later a network of pipeline which connects all the bases will be in operation. Fuel will then be pumped from Casablanca's tanker ship terminal direct to the air fields.

Like Sidi Silmane, Nouasseur has an 11,000-foot runway. Parallel runways for both fields make it possible to double the takeoff and landing strips in an emergency. Using that method, the fields could launch two wings of bombers or fighters simultaneously. Both fields base wings of F-84 jet fighters.

The number of military personnel the United States may have on permanent assignment in Morocco is limited under an agreement with the French. Americans at Nouasseur, for example, are held to 3,500. But the ceiling does not apply to air crews coming in from the States for unit rotational training for 60 or 90 days.

Customs and religion of the Islamic native population bring complications. Near Nouasseur was a Moslem cemetery, where a holy man was buried. Moslems could not be denied access to the cemetery, so a Nouasseur, with a passage leading to the cemetery.

No combat aircraft are permanently based there. They come in for repair or on rotational training visits. At present, tanker aircraft of the 301st medium jet bombardment wing operate from Nouasseur. They refuel bombers flying training missions out of Sidi Silmane.

Most of the petroleum, oil and lubricant reserves for the Moroccan bases are above ground, although some are buried to minimize danger from air attack.

Putting more than a few tanks underground and dispersing war-houses widely would be excessively expensive, air force officers say. One officer says the dispersal theory is ten off, explaining that a "calculated risk" must be taken.

Nouasseur, like Sidi Silmane, is located in green farmland country, but Ben Guirir, still further to the south, is in desert. It's flat and arid land with jagged snow-capped ranges beyond, looks like Nevada's atomic proving ground.

Ben Guirir is costing $62,262,000 to build and is expected to be ready for full use next October.

The fourth of the operating bases, Boulhaut, between Sidi Silmane and Rabat, is only about 321,000. The United States has this giant complex of bases in North Africa to be quick Sunday punch Russia, de-... this war
