Indochino, April 16 (P)—The Vietminh shoved thousands of fresh troops into attack positions near Phu today. The third round of the savage French union stronghold appeared to be days away.

Sources said rebel Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap had at least 40,000 unbloated regulars to bolster his force in the low hills encircling the fortified camp.

Along its fringes, these reinforcements were placed for the defense of the city. In the past, the French had killed 5,000 or more rebels just out of the city.

Senators Try To Have Dam Money Early

WASHINGTON, April 16 (U.P.)—Five northwestern senators announced today a joint effort to bypass the administration's budget by seeking $25,000,000 for regional multi-purpose in fiscal 1955.

The bulk of the proposed fund, $16,000,000, would go for "continuation of construction on the Dalles dam in Oregon. Another $9,000,000 would be earmarked for continued construction on the Chief Joseph dam in Washington.

Provides New Starts

Additionally, the legislation would authorize and appropriate funds for two new starts—Ice Harbor dam in Washington, $3,500,000, and John Day dam, on the Washington-Oregon border, $700,000.

The remainder of the fund, $1,800,000, would be appropriated to several smaller projects in the region.

Senators Listed

Joint sponsors of the measure, which will be introduced Monday, are Sen. Warren Magnuson and Henry M. Jackson, Washington Democrats; Sen. Wayne Morse, Ind., and Sen. James Murray and Mike Mansfield, Montana Democrats.

They said in a statement that the Eisenhower administration budget would require a year's delay in the schedule on the Dalles and Chief Joseph dams, and the civil engineers' estimate of $25 million for the two dams would be cut to $10 million.

They said the French, who had infiltrated units with tanks and machine guns, had been Thursday from the trenches they had dug.

West's Water Picture Good, Official States

WASHINGTON, April 16 (U.P.)—Interior Secretary Douglas McKay said today the water outlook for the new crop year "is generally good" in all parts of the west except the Rio Grande basin and other parts of the southwest.

He said rains in the southwest during April may have improved the situation there somewhat. A month ago he described the outlook in the Rio Grande drainage area as "discouraging."

Situation Better

He said the situation has "improved considerably" in the Colorado basin in the Rio Grande drainage area.

Some spot areas in other basins have a poor outlook, McKay said, including the Unalakleet and Baker projects in Oregon, the North Platte project in Wyoming-Nebraska, and the Angostura reservoir in South Dakota.

Runoff Is Light

In some other areas, he said, the runoff from the winter snows will be light, but there is sufficient holdover in storage reservoirs to insure an adequate water supply for the summer.

He gave this breakdown for region I—(Washington, Oregon, western Montana, Jackson lake area of Wyoming and Idaho)—for region as a whole, outlook is very good to excellent; exceptions are Unalakleet projects, for which prospects for irrigation water are subnormal, and the Baker project, in which outlook for water is the poorest on record.

NO GI'S NEEDED

ers Find ch Data on om Worker

WASHINGTON, April 16 (U.P.)—The Republican and Democratic committees have joined in their group uncovered "voluntary" information in 1953 on Senator J. Robert Oppenheimer, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on Internal Security, and Senator McClellan, chairman of the subcommittee on Un-American Activities.

Oppenheimer, famed for his work in developing the first atomic bomb, was barred access to atomic secrets pending clearance of security charges by a Senate panel. He denies security risk.

McClellan statement today in the wake of two attributed to another high official, Dr. Edward Teller, who joined Oppenheimer.

Move to Skip FHA Frauds To Be Fought

WASHINGTON, April 16 (U.P.)—Three Democratic members said today they will fight any effort by the senate banking committee to focus on housing swindles which may have taken place in the Truman administration while glossing over more recent irregularities.

Chairman Capehart, R., Ind., said there was no such intent on the part of the committee, which plans to start public hearings Monday into reports of a multi-million-dollar scandal.

The three Democratic Senators Douglas, Ill., Lehman, N. Y., and Maybank, S. C.—said that so far they had noted a lack of emphasis on exorbitant fees to have been charged home owners for repairs financed with loans insured by the federal housing administration. Officials have said these irregularities have continued virtually up until the present.

The other principal aspect of the investigation—also being carried on by at least three agencies of the executive branch—involves FHA-insured loans to build big apartment houses. The section of the act which authorized these loans expired in 1950, although some projects are said to be still under construction.

The internal revenue service announced late yesterday that 1,140 corporations got loans to build apartment houses which cost less than the amount of the loans, with the corporations pocketing the difference.

Surplus Spud Buying Slated

BOISE, April 16 (U.P.)—A federal potato inspector stationed with the state department of agriculture said today some 100 cars of surplus Idaho potatoes will be purchased with section 33 funds for use in school lunch and other institutional feeding programs.

Karl Winsor, the inspector, said that 42 cars will be shipped into southwestern states by this Saturday, and that another 58 cars will be sent into the midwest at a later date.

Each car carries about 36,000 pounds of spuds, Winsor said, and will be purchased at $1.02 per hundred.

He added that the potatoes are to be bought only from growers and shippers, and he further emphasized that the spuds cannot be stored, but must be used in school lunches and institutional feeding.

Race for Seat In House Set For Druggist

ST. MARIES, April 16 (U.P.)—A 40-year-old St. Maries druggist became the fourth Republican candidate yesterday for the congressional seat held by Rep. Grace Pfof, D., Ida.

E. B. Knopp, who has operated a drug store in this northern Idaho community since 1946, declared in a campaign statement that Idaho needs "real honest-to-goodness service... I will give Idaho's people just that."

Others already in the race for the Republican nomination are Larry Mills, Potlatch, assistant to Representative Budge, R., Ida. Erwin H. Schwiebert, a College of Idaho instructor, and Tom Tuttle, Middleton superintendent of schools.

Mrs. Pfof is expected to run for re-election.

Knopp is a past president of the Idaho Pharmaceutical association and a member of the state board of pharmacy. He was named "pharmacist of the year" for 1953 by the association.

He is married, a member of the St. Maries Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Benewah county Republican central committee.

Railroad to Close Rogerson Agency

BOISE, April 16 (U.P.)—The Idaho public utilities commission gave the Union Pacific railroad permission today to close its agency at Rogerson the year around.

The station has been kept open for three months a year, primarily for sheep shippers, and the PUC said the substitute service proposed by the railroad was adequate. The railroad will maintain a telephone to the Twin Falls station so shippers can order cars and transact other business with the agent there.

Union Pacific officials at Twin Falls said the Rogerson agency usually has been open through June, July and August and that with permission to close the agency no officials will be on duty at Rogerson this year.

Draft Quota Set

Five county men will be inducted into the armed forces in May, Mrs. Pearl Aldrich, clerk of the local selective service board, announced Friday.

Volunteers are available to fill the May quota. They will be inducted May 20 in Boise.

Ike Renews Pledge U.S. Will Stand by If Europe Attacked

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 16 (U.P.)—President Eisenhower pledged anew today that the United States would stand behind western Europe in case of an enemy attack.

The President, in a long considered move, told the nations of western Europe that this country would regard an attack on any member of the European defense community as "a threat to the security of the United States." Mr. Eisenhower's statement obviously was designed to win French and Italian support for ratification of EDC. To still the fears of France and Italy that the United States might walk out on Europe if the north Atlantic treaty organization breaks down, the President pledged that the United States will continue to maintain its forces in western Germany "while a threat to that area exists."

Little Backing Seen For Leaflet Mailing

By The Associated Press

An Idaho political candidate yesterday predicted that Rep. Grace Pfof, D., Ida., would gain little public support for her decision to mail out propaganda for a public power initiative in Idaho, while in Washington, Rep. Harold D. Patten, D., Ariz., who became involved in the power controversy through the attempted use of his congressional frank, sought to wash his hands of the whole affair.

Mrs. Pfof announced Wednesday that she will mail a quantity of congressional record reprints of material in support of the initiative, which would set up a state commission empowered to seize electric power and communications facilities in Idaho.

Erwin H. Schwiebert, a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress from Idaho's first district, asserted in a statement at Caldwell that Mrs. Pfof's decision "reveals her real purpose," that of substituting the more socialistic system of public ownership for the more American system of private ownership.

"On this issue," Schwiebert declared, "Representative Pfof is not likely to find the popular support she expects."

Patten several weeks ago had the government printing office turn out 172,000 copies of material which he had inserted in the Congressional Record. Later he decided against mailing the matter—reprints of newspaper articles, including a description of the "American state power" commission.

"All I want is to be included out," Patten told a reporter Thursday. "I have been assured by Mrs. Pfof that nothing will be sent under my frank or with my name on it."

"I am sorry I got into this in the first place. It was a regrettable mistake. I had had information and advice on the original insert in the Record. When I discovered the situation in Arizona and Idaho are not comparable, I realized it would be a mistake to mail the material out and I asked that it be withdrawn."

Patten said a check Thursday showed none of the reprints went out under his name.

Patten was asked if he intended to ask that the material be expunged from the Congressional Record. He replied that he had no such plan.

Manslaughter Charge Action Due for May 4

Preliminary hearing for Francis Cleo Prince, Wendell, on a charge of involuntary manslaughter, was continued Thursday to May 4 by Probate Judge Theron Ward in Jerome although all evidence has been received.

Judge Ward said the continuance was granted on a motion made by the defendant's attorneys, Rayborn, Rayborn and Kramer, Twin Falls.

Prince is facing the charge as a result of the death of Fred O. Brenkman, Jerome, in an automobile accident between Wendell and Jerome last March.

Only three witnesses testified at the hearing Thursday. They were John H. Kering, Twin Falls, driver of the truck that was backing up Prince's truck at the time of the accident; a witness in Jerome, who saw the accident; and State Patrolman Eugene Hapley, who investigated the crash.

Paul W. Coburn, Boise, began giving a six months sentence in the Gooding county jail Wednesday for failure to report an accident. Probate Judge James P. Gossett, Gooding, who sentenced Coburn, also fined him $300 and ordered him to pay for damages to a 1952 Chevrolet belonging to W. O. Henry, Gooding. Damage to the Chevrolet is estimated at $200.

Henry's parked automobile was hit in Gooding last Friday night. Police investigated and when Coburn learned he was being sought he gave himself up to Sheriff Keith Anderson. He was driving a 1952 Plymouth at the time of the accident.

W. Ray Warr, Hayburn, paid a fine of $5 and $3 costs in Twin Falls police court Friday when he pleaded guilty of failure to yield the right-of-way to a pedestrian on a crosswalk at Third street south on Main avenue east.

John Chapman, 718 Fillmore street, Twin Falls, paid $10 and $3 costs in Twin Falls police court on a plea of guilty of running a stop sign at Fourth street and Ninth avenue east.

Lester J. McNell, 253 Monroe street, appearing Friday in Twin Falls police court, paid $10 and $3 costs when he pleaded guilty of a traffic violation.

Salmon Tract Farmers Hold Water Parley

Some 60 salmon tract farmers met in the Hollister Grange hall Thursday night to talk over area water problems for the coming year at an informal demonstration and discussion get-together sponsored by the Twin Falls soil conservation district.

Elmo Farrar, Hollister, Salmon river canal company manager, told the farmers the flow measurements indicated the water supply "70 percent of normal. But he stressed this figure should not be viewed with too much pessimism because the water picture could change radically in the next few weeks with additional rains."

A Thursday morning measurement showed the Salmon Falls reservoir held 26,770 acre-feet. Farrar said more water had entered the reservoir since Oct. 1, 1953, than during the corresponding period the previous winter. The reservoir supplies some $5,000,000 in the Salmon tract.

Morlan Nelson, state soil survey leader of the soil conservation service from Boise, presented a comparison of the inflow of water into the reservoir and the irrigation supply to the farmers. He also stressed the water supply for the coming year could not be forecast with certainty because the situation is still subject to change.

Zim Mills, soil conservation engineer for the Hollister area, presented similar views. W. A. Loughmiller, district chairman, presided over the meeting.

A colored film, "Snow Harvest," shown by Walter Hankins, Twin Falls district officer, was one of several demonstrations used by the soil conservation representatives to show the farmers the value of snow surveys in regard to their water supplies and farming plans.

Power Study OK'd by AEC

WASHINGTON, April 16 (U.P.)—The atomic energy commission announced approval yesterday of a $2,300,000 private industry research and development program looking toward the use of atomic energy for commercial power.

The investigations, involving actual experiments and preliminary engineering, will be carried out by the Dow Chemical company-Detroit Edison group which has been studying nuclear power possibilities since 1951.

The group includes 26 firms or groups of firms in the east, midwest and south.

AEC said the group will spend an estimated $2,300,000 on a detailed program of developing a breeder reactor for the generation of electric power and by-products, and on related equipment and processes.

Thursday afternoon, searchers checked deep holes in the river bed where the body might have lodged.

Atom Secrecy Is Denounced By Publisher

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—Secrecy in atomic weapons progress has caused confusion and hindered development of a continental defense system, the American Society of Newspaper Editors was told today.

Paul Block, Jr., co-publisher of the Toledo Blade, reported to about 400 editors at their annual meeting that despite recent hydrogen bomb revelations, atomic developments have outrun public information.

Public lacks information. "The public appears to be relatively better informed internationally than ever before," said Block, the society's one-man watchdog committee on atomic information.

The sensation created by Lewis L. Strauss, atomic energy commission chairman, with his recent description of a 17-month-old hydrogen bomb explosion, Block said, raises the question "whether the people must not be told much more more soon."

Bomb changed teaching. "Witness the confusion of the federal civil defense administration," Block said. "The potential of the H-bomb required a major change in emphasis in the teachings of this organization."

"Now the watchword is 'evacuation' and the training of rescue units is planned to the needs of rescuing other areas rather than one's own city."

Aid Asked in Drive to Hike

Postal Charge

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield asked newspaper editors today to support his drive for a $250,000,000-a-year hike in postal rates, including a $18,000,000 boost in rates on newspapers and magazines.

Summerfield addressed the American Society of Newspaper Editors. He said the proposed $18,000,000-a-year increase in rates on magazines and newspapers amounts to only seven per cent of the $244,000,000 loss the postoffice department now takes each year in handling such publications.

He said magazines account for 62 per cent of this loss and newspapers 38 per cent.

Summerfield said the total $250,000,000-a-year boost would be "modest" in comparison to the department's deficit, estimated at $225,000,000 in this fiscal year.

He accused some opponents of the postage boost of trying to delay it by requesting further study of postal operations.

New Submen To Take First 'Dip' on Land

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP)—The navy plans to let future submariners make their first patrol in an undersea craft that never gets wet.

It made this disclosure yesterday when it announced award of a contract to electric boat division of General Dynamics corporation for an electronically operated "dry land" submarine.

Trained to Be Built
The firm, which also built the first atomic powered submarine, the Nautilus, will construct a "simulator" submarine capable of giving navy men experiences they can expect at sea.

The device, first of its type to be used by the undersea service, will be anchored to a land-based cradle.

Device Is Realistic
From a control panel an instructor can reproduce almost any problem that an operating submarine would face. A one-way window will permit observers to watch students operating the simulator.

The trainer will simulate all characteristics of the new submarines, even to handling in turns and test of the various controls when the ship is in motion, the navy said. "When improperly ballasted or trimmed, the ersatz submarine will list or dive in a realistic fashion."

Car Windshields Still 'Catching It'

SEATTLE, Wash., April 16 (UP)—Mysterious pits and pockmarks scarred windshields in the Seattle area again today and the phenomenon spread southward to at least one more county.

Thousands of windshields in King and Snohomish counties were pitted yesterday. Damage continued in the same areas today and damage reports came in from Thurston county for the first time. Tacoma and Pierce county got the trouble for the first time yesterday afternoon.

TOSCANINI AN EXAMPLE

Since the coming of network radio a generation ago, millions of Americans have learned to know and love serious music.

But whether you count yourself among those millions or not, you can appreciate the sadness with which the world greets the news that Arturo Toscanini, the great symphonic conductor, has decided to lay aside his baton. For his eminence does not reside simply in his qualities as an unrivaled interpreter of great music. Toscanini is a great human being, the walking proof of what it means to be a free, individual man. Even now, at 87, he is animated by the fires of his spirit.

He has acted for freedom whenever the test was at hand. In Mussolini's time he refused to play the fascist anthem, and for this he was attacked in 1931 on the street of Bologna, Italy.

Later he boycotted the famed European festivals at Bayreuth, Germany, and Salzburg, Austria, in protest against Hitler. He went to Palestine in 1936 to help start the Palestine Symphony, thus voicing sympathy for persecuted Jewry.

We fight our great wars so men like Toscanini can be free. We believe in man's dignity in the aspirations of the human spirit, in each man's right to pursue those high goals so long as he does no harm to another.

All these Toscanini personalities in his own life.

It was 68 years from the day he first leaped to the podium to seize the baton in an emergency and conduct his first opera, to the day in New York's Carnegie hall when he finished his last concert and the baton—almost as if by grand design—slid quietly out of his fingers to the floor.

In all that vast span of time he dedicated himself with a fury of energy and concentration to the task he set as his own: Conveying the richness and meaning of great music to the world about him.

He punished himself mercilessly, as he punished the players he led, with his tongue and his driving will. His has been, always and ever, the quest for perfection. No man can seek a nobler goal in this world of imperfections.

All Americans, whether or not they heard him make music, can be thankful and proud that he chose to spend so many of his active years within the borders of this country. He is an example to us—and to the world.

REASON FOR OPTIMISM

These are days when there may perhaps be some virtue in stressing cheerful items in the news. Therefore we point happily to government figures showing that construction in the United States reached record heights in the first three months of 1954.

Totals ran slightly ahead of 1953. Most of the gains came from expansion in private housing, public utility construction and highway work. And the figures indicate the non-residential construction was the key to the advance-to-peak levels.

This is not just a minor straw in the wind. Construction always is accepted as providing a basic clue to the general state of the economy.

An economy in really serious trouble would not be running up record totals for construction, particularly in the field of non-residential building.

For this is the area of industrial and utility activity, where men are paid to guess right about the trend of affairs, and the cost of bad forecasting is painfully high.

Present unemployment totals of 3,725,000 or more are not to be minimized, nor are the other signs of business decline.

But to argue from these indications that the American economy is in a gravely unhealthy state would seem to be overly pessimistic.

A LEADER—AGAINST

Senator Knowland of California could take a lesson from Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana across on the other side of the capitol. Halleck could instruct the Californian in how to be a majority leader.

That's the job each holds in his respective house, but the two go about it quite differently.

Knowland seems to think it quite fitting to divest himself of his leadership garment in an important debate like the Bricker amendment affair, and vote against the President he is supposed to represent in the senate.

When Secretary of State Dulles returned from Berlin a few months back, Knowland questioned him as critically as if he were a member of Russian Premier Malenkov's cabinet instead of President Eisenhower's. Now he's busy handing ultimatums to our western allies, which is supposed to be Dulles' job.

Halleck, on the other hand, has suppressed his evident distaste for a number of Mr. Eisenhower's proposals and has fought like a Trojan for his whole program, as any lieutenant worth the name ought to do.

If it is freedom to express himself that he wants, Knowland can have all he wants. But not while serving as the President's lieutenant.

A department store owner in the south was elected judge and speeding fines now will likely be $4.08.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—In current planning for the critical congressional campaign next fall, Republican strategists have informed President Eisenhower that the greatest obstacle to control of house and senate for the rest of his term will be the votes of organized labor.

The GOP leaders are virtually reconciled to the loss of at least four of the six seats they now hold in Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee. They may also lose several Midwestern districts which they picked up on the basis of Eisenhower's popularity in 1952. If farm prices fall further, there may be defections in agricultural areas.

Thus, enjoying only a three-man majority in the lower chamber, and suffering from a minority of one in the senate, the Republicans figure that they must make their gains, if any, in the great industrial cities, and in mining sections where the so-called labor vote usually predominates.

EISENHOWER DEEPLY CONCERNED—In recent discussions of November prospects, Eisenhower has expressed deep and personal concern over the return of a Republican congress with increased margins at both ends of the capitol. He realizes that a Democratic victory will be a reflection on his record. It would also be an ill omen for the 1956 presidential outcome.

Despite contrary reports, it is fully expected that "Ike" will run again. He has begun to relish the game of government and politics. He would like to terminate or win the "cold war" without firing a shot. He regards his new responsibilities as a challenge—a new battlefield. Indeed, recently a close adviser said of him:

"He is learning and liking politics fast. I wish that certain other people in the White House and in the cabinet would catch up with him in this respect."

Although no names were mentioned, it is obvious that he referred to Sherman Adams, "Ike's" chief of staff, and to such nonpartisan-minded men as Secretaries Dulles, Humphrey, Wilson and Benson.

GOP TO ADOPT NEW APPROACH—Despite the need for regaining urban seats with workingmen and their families ballots, the GOP will adopt a new approach in striving for this support. There will be no calculated or class appeal in the form of legislative or administrative favors, such as both parties, especially the Roosevelt-Truman operators, made in the past.

Even more than ever before, the view prevails that labor's rank and file is not anti-Eisenhower, although all three recognized leaders—George L. Meany (AFL), Walter P. Reuther (CIO) and John L. Lewis (U.M.W.)—are hostile. If conditions are fairly good, with high wages and relatively full employment, the Republicans expect to get at least an even break from this element of the electorate.

Experience in recent years supports this theory. For the first time since "Old Bob" La Follette ran in 1924, the "big three" unions backed—diat E. Stevenson in 1952, but he lost almost every industrial center. The GOP elected numerous governors who did not have the union bosses' backing. The late Robert A. Taft routed them time and again.

REPUBLICANS' RALLYING CRY—Finally, in view of Eisenhower's record, background and personality, the President and his inner political circle do not believe that Meany, Reuther and Lewis can convince even their dues-paying members that this is an anti-labor administration.

"I don't hate anybody," "Ike's" personal proclamation in the 1952 contest, will again be the party's rallying cry to possibly dissident groups. In fact, although Eisenhower will not participate actively in the campaigns involving congressmen and governors, it is probable that he will make several speeches or fire-side chats, "Ike" style: At opportune moments and places when the political leaves begin to fall.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

WE'LL BE EATING ALGAE BY AND BY
The scientists—some of them, that is—are telling us, in one magazine article after another, that algae will be replacing porthouse steak as the place de resistance of the good dinner in a few generations. Already, in some parts of the orient, plankton, made of marine algae, is an important item of diet.

Up to now we have been able to develop no consuming enthusiasm for algae, either from salt or fresh water, but the scientists who are transforming this into a wonder world of synthetics, are taking this clammy attitude of ours in stride. Maybe, they concede grimly, you personally won't have the opportunity to enjoy algae as prepared by the world's best French chefs, but they're on the way, and your grandchildren or great-grandchildren will be looking upon them as standard.

Algae have never looked particularly appetizing when we've seen them crusting the surface of stagnant pools on whose banks the rank stink-cabbage was growing; but coming generations won't be bothered, any more than we are by the fact that a lot of good food springs from rather repellent fertilizer.

Anyhow, like it or not, that's the prospect, we're told. Probably everybody will be so happy to have survived in spite of super-colossal hell-bombs and other mass-extermiators, that the fact of being still around to eat anything at all will have much appeal.

Most of us, actually, are not very familiar with algae: we know very little about them. Looking them up, we find they range all the way from single-celled microscopic diatoms (on which fish feed wholesale) to pretty good-sized kelp, with millions and millions of tons available and the supply growing. Apparently the human race is in much less danger of starvation than of being liquidated wholesale by some advanced type of explosive.

It is promised us that the algae-type food will come in attractive natural colors—blue-green, green, brown and red. It can be treated with a wide range of flavors. . . . Maybe future generations will like it so well that they'll feel sorry for us benighted folk who subsist on such coarse things as meat and potatoes and an occasional fish. But right now we reciprocate the pity. We'd rather let the fish devour the algae and plankton; later on we feast on fine, fat salmon baked on a plank.—Albany Democrat-Herald.

ANOTHER ISLAND GONE
On Nov. 1, 1952, a "hydrogen device" was let loose in the Pacific. It obliterated an island. That blast has been estimated as "equal in naked force to 5,000,000 tons of TNT exploding at once."

From the standpoint of our own defense it is reassuring to know that advances in atomic developments of this character are being achieved. From the standpoint of future world safety the grim fact of the awful destructive power of atomic devices they are demonstrating should help to deter potential aggressors.

Besides the mighty and obvious reasons for such efforts, the almost limitless peaceful possibilities of the atom should beckon all nations and all statesmen to sane, enlightened steps to confine its future development in that direction.

We hope to see the day speeded when the atom will take first place as a constructive force instead of a frightful destructive power.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

TAXES IN CANADA
Envy is not listed among the emotions to be admired, but some of it is bound to be directed toward the neighbors to the north on the announcement of Canada's national budget for the coming fiscal year. The government's proposal calls for a tax cut of about 40 million dollars, which doesn't sound like much but is comparable to a cut of about three-quarters of a billion in the United States.

The significant thing, however, is that the proposal is for a balanced budget and that Canada has balanced its budget every year since the end of World War II. The United States is getting more substantial tax cuts this year, but so far they are unrealistic tax cuts because the budget has not been balanced; in fact the United States budget has been balanced only three times since 1930.

Maybe congress should send a committee to Ottawa to find out how the Canadians do it.—Bolshevik State.

POT SHOTS

DETERMINED, ANYHOW

If sweat and determination will do it, Our Novice Gardener is going to have vegetables by the bushel come late summer.

Yep, he takes a rather dim view of, or, natural fertilizer, and he isn't exactly an expert at telling the weeds from the vegetables, but he's determined.

We asked him about his garden. That was when he turned his hands palm up and exhibited as fine a set of blisters as you'll see anywhere.

So if he guesses right on which ones are the weeds and which are the vegetables, it'll be a bumper crop.

OUR BULLETIN BOARD

A. Fan, Burley—You can step forward and claim the fur-lined coat for a simple on cold nights. You're the first such request in many years! And is a leg score something like a line score?

BETTER BUNDLE UP!

Dear Pot:
Enjoy this fine weather while you can; it isn't going to last much longer regardless of what that old weatherman says! A week of it at the most is about all you can expect.

You can name your own odds if you think the weather is going to be nice a week from this Saturday. True, it'll probably be nice up to that date, though.

It seems that a week from Saturday, on April 24, to be exact, the Cowboys will play their first home game—weather permitting, naturally. And from that day on, you can tell what sort of weather is on the master plan just by inspecting the Cowboys' schedule. When they're home, the weather is lousy. While they're away, the weather is fine.

This is more dependable even than watching the car or planning a picnic.

SOME WISE GUY!

Mary McFarland, T-N social editor, received a small package which contained a little tin can, nothing more. There was no label on the can, nothing to indicate the contents, if any.

Curiosity being what it is, Pot Shots found himself working on the can with a screwdriver while Miss McFarland and the rest of the staff offered suggestions meant to be helpful. After quite a struggle, the can finally gave up.

While Miss McFarland was unwrapping the contents, we fished a slip of paper out of the can. Right at the top was, "This is a can opener." It was, too.

Can you imagine the fiendish glee of the wise guy who thought up that idea? He knew there wouldn't be any can opener in a newspaper office! He also has a fair knowledge of human curiosity.

The gimmick? National can opener week!

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—In July, 1943, the FBI made a report to Maj. Gen. George V. Strong, chief of army intelligence and assistant chief of staff to Gen. George Marshall, in which an American admiral was quoted as having said to an American army officer of high rank in Moscow:

"You are not worthy of wearing the uniform you have on."

In direct quotes, the FBI report related to Gen. Strong that the army officer replied:

"You mean that I am a traitor?" The admiral said: "That's just about what I mean."

The admiral was William H. Standley, who was sent to Russia as Roosevelt's personal ambassador and subjected to gross humiliations by Wendell Wilkie, Joseph E. Davies and others. Standley finally quit in disgust and came home.

However, for the sake of appearances, he said in his letter of resignation to Roosevelt that he was getting out because he thought he was too old and not otherwise qualified to protect the interests of the United States in peace negotiations with the Russians.

Admiral Standley hated the Russians but went no further in his manifestation of suspicion than to issue a statement to American reporters in Moscow charging the Soviet with cheating the American people of due credit for their vast gifts of war material and industrial equipment for the post-war Russian empire.

All this was thrust on Russia by the Roosevelt team of agents in Moscow. These agents included Averell Harriman, who later has had the gall to offer himself as a candidate for governor of New York; Edward Stettinius, who was secretary of state at the San Francisco United Nations conference; Harry Hopkins and an army officer named Philip R. Faymonville, who finally reached the rank of major-general with which he retired.

Faymonville was a favorite of the White House family and of the communist press in this country, which has found numerous occasions to praise him. Public expressions attributed to Faymonville some years ago indicate a good opinion of the Soviet government.

Alger Hiss was the secretary-general of the organizing conference of the United Nations at San Francisco. And the principal speech by Stettinius as foreign minister of the nation which was host to the great international meeting was written by a communist who later was sentenced to prison as such in the notorious Hollywood batch. He is Dalton Trumbo.

The FBI report to General Strong was slugged "personal and confidential, by special messenger."

It said: "There are transmitted herewith memoranda prepared by a representative of this bureau reporting the results of his investigation of conditions involving Soviet-American military relations, in Moscow, Russia. This project was undertaken pursuant to the written request of Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff. This letter with its two enclosures is being delivered by hand in view of its highly confidential nature."

The next document is a copy of a letter bearing the name of John T. McCloy, assistant secretary of war at the time. Later McCloy was high commissioner for the government of conquered Germany in collaboration with Shepard Stone, an employee of the New York Times, on leave. After the election of General Eisenhower, McCloy took the place of Winthrop Aldrich in the Chase National Bank. Aldrich went to London as ambassador where he apologized for our tardiness in going to Britain's rescue in two wars and promised that we would not be tardy again.

McCloy's memorandum addressed to General Marshall, dated July 26, 1943, said: "Subject: Conduct of military personnel in Moscow."

"The situation described in the attached papers is evidently known to American press representatives and cannot fail to bring discredit on the United States."

"I recommend that the war department immediately relieve Brig. Gen. Joseph A. Michela, and his assistant, Colonel Boswell, and as soon as this is done, the papers be transmitted to Mr. Hopkins." McCloy also suggested that Hopkins be asked to help bring about the withdrawal of the officer said to have been insulted by Admiral Standley.

General Michela was a precocious West Pointer from Minnesota. Neither he nor Colonel Boswell was the man named in the FBI report as the butt of Admiral Standley's accusation. General Michela later was sent to Prague as military attache. He died suddenly soon after the war under circumstances which members of his family regard with suspicion.

The FBI report said Marshall's request for the investigation had been made in writing after information reached Marshall that one American officer was refusing to co-operate with other U. S. missions in Soviet Russia. It said further that Marshall was told that this officer's personal and official conduct raised a question in the minds of some persons as to whether he was being blackmailed by the Soviet government.

The report continued that the following expressions were made by Americans in Moscow concerning the officer under investigation:

Col. Edward Gray: "He is a traitor to the interests of the United States" (in his interpretation of lend-lease policies).

Alexander Kirk (minister to Egypt): "You can't talk to about Soviet Russia any more than you can talk to a man about his mother."

Maj. Clinton Olson: "He has ceased to be a soldier of the United States."

Omdr. Frederick Lang (personal physician to Admiral Standley): "He is trying to run the old

Male Bird Signals Land Claim by Song

Among the most audacious claim stakers in the world are many small songbirds—and the chief weapon used in holding their clearly bounded property is a defiant, challenging song, delivered from a commanding perch.

And now that spring is here, the time is right to chart your favorite songbird's territory and see how evenly the birds have spaced themselves over the land or along the stream.

As you have perhaps noticed, the males of such birds as the red-winged blackbird, robin, and song sparrow come to the north well in advance of the females—perhaps six weeks ahead.

Upon arrival, each male stakes out his claim to a particular portion of the earth, then, climbing to a prominent perch where he can be seen and heard, he cries out his title in song—actually a warlike proclamation of territorial rights and a warning against invasion by other males.

After the territory has been apportioned and held for about six weeks, the female comes. To her, the male's defiant song is not one of warning—but rather a forthright statement of land ownership and an invitation to become a partner and build a nest.

I observed a wonderful demonstration of the cock's aggressiveness just this morning when a squirrel ventured near a small wren's nest. Between furious lunges at the squirrel's head the male wren perched on the tip-top of a tree and sang as if to burst his lungs. Finally, when the squirrel retreated, the feather-weight's cry was not to be contained—he sang tremendously for a half hour.

Curiously, the defending male alone (Admiral Standley) out and have himself made ambassador."

Brigadier-General Michela, military attache, is emotionally involved in the interests of the USSR and this operates against U. S. interests. I am not speaking to him any more. The failure of the Soviets to give us information of the enemy is not only inexcusable, it is a deliberately unfriendly act."

how to amortize a new electric range

What a word, "amortize." When all it means is to spread the cost over a period of time. Take that new electric range you've been wanting, for example. Divide its cost by the number of meals you'll prepare over the next five years—you'll come out with something less than a nickel a meal.

Now consider the advantages of cooking with a sparkling, new electric range. The ease of cooking with dependable, precision temperature controls, ovens with automatic timers, new quick-heating elements, broilers that are so easy to clean. With electric rates in Snake River valley 35 per cent below the national average, economical operation is assured.

Modern electric cooking is another example of low-cost electric service doing so much in the home to add to your comfort and enjoyment. Look around your home—see the many ways in which electricity serves you—and you'll agree, electric service is high in value, low in cost. Your electric appliance dealer can show you how to make the best use of this bargain!

Survey Indicates Pupils Views On Questions of Using Alcohol

SHOSHONE, April 16—A survey of 1,444 high school pupils in Idaho recently indicated that 1,042 disapproved of teenage drinking. Harrell Thorne, principal of the Shoshone high school, reports. Pupils of the Shoshone school were among those who answered the 12-point questionnaire.

Only 26 pupils approved of teenage drinking and 344 said it made no difference to them. The questionnaire indicated 874 pupils disapproved of a teenage who uses alcohol while 887 said it made no difference and 115 said they admired the person in spite of the drinking. Opinions as to drinking among teenagers varied. A small number—123—said most teenagers do not drink. 878 said teenagers drank occasionally, 276 said they drank frequently and 108 said they became intoxicated.

When the questionnaire became personal, 655 said they never had done any drinking, 611 said they drank occasionally, 43 said frequently and 77 admitted to having become intoxicated.

Under opinions as to why teenagers drink, 180 said because they enjoyed it; 64, defiance; 234, felt more adult; 63, new experience; 224, home environment; 745, think it smart; 1600, nothing to do; 344, belong to a crowd that drinks; 98, personal problems; 44, need it to have fun; four, no religion; 19, easy to get; 20, ignorance, and one, sex.

The survey showed that 769 did not think parents should be held responsible for the disorderly conduct of their children but 517 thought parents should be held responsible.

The youths were almost unanimous in their opinion teenagers should be held responsible. The vote was 1,100 yes and 256 no.

The vote was even stronger when the youths said they should be held responsible for an accident with the family car. The vote was 1,392 to 54. However, only 387 said they thought the car should be held by officials in case of accident.

When asked to express opinions on how teenage drinking could be controlled, 1,038 said by home training and parental example, 247 said by law, 284 said formal education at school and 147 listed various other means.

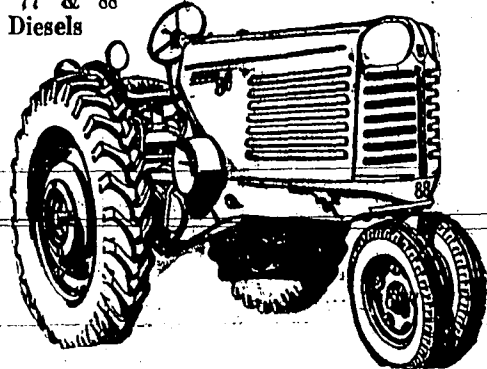

The survey went on to explore the recreational facilities in the cities where the survey was taken and 817 said there were recreational facilities in the cities where the survey was taken and 817 said there were recreational facilities in their communities where teenage drinking was permitted.

cent of the homes visited by pupils permitted social drinking and 360 pupils said they had been offered drinks in such homes.

Of the total number of pupils questioned, 1,209 said they had had scientific instruction on the effects of alcohol on the human system and 1,109 said active church affiliation is influential in preventing alcoholism.

Diesels

Just to PROVE how LITTLE it costs to run this tractor for 6 months . . .

WE'LL BUY
HALF YOUR FUEL OURSELVES

YES, You Read It Right! Trade in your old tractor on a New Oliver Diesel tractor, and we'll pay half your new tractor's fuel bill for 6 months straight. We mean ANY 6 months' work on your farm, even your six heaviest work months, for the longest hours you want to work. Just bring in your fuel bills to show what you spent, and we'll give you a check for half.

Why we're making you this offer

We figure if we offer to pay half your fuel, you'll keep track of your costs. That's all we want; for you to see how low they'll be. You'll find that you're burning only 6 gallons of fuel where your gasoline tractor burned 10—and buying your diesel for a whole lot less!

We're betting you'll say you'd NEVER go back to gasoline. Especially when you find that your upkeep is as low as your fuel cost. Your Oliver Diesel has the simplest engine ever put in a farm tractor—no carburetor, no plugs, fewer moving parts—very easy to keep in top working order.

no starting engine, no starting fuel

Oliver Diesels start and run on diesel fuel. They give you instant starts even in freezing weather. They withstand a longer lay-up than any spark ignition tractor. Best of all, Oliver makes a diesel in any size you want—two-plow, three-plow, four-plow—whatever size is best for your operations.

you're paying for a diesel, why not have one?

That's what users say: With the high fuel cost of a gasoline tractor, you're PAYING for a diesel whether you have one or not. That's why farmers by the thousands are going over to low-cost diesel power. You will yourself sooner or later. Why not buy your diesel NOW, start your savings NOW, while this special offer still holds!

WE'LL BUY HALF YOUR FUEL!

TCP Gives up to 15% Unexpected Power from Your Engine

Blended into Shell Premium Gasoline; TCP releases power "locked in"
by lead and carbon deposits

Greatest Gasoline Development in 31 Years engine may be 15% more powerful than you think.

The reason is this: Lead and carbon deposits are constantly building up in your engine. They steal power that you should be getting.

These deposits get red hot and the fuel charge ahead of the piston reaches the spark plug position. Power is wasted—lost to you.
This condition is called pre-ignition.
It's the biggest cause of engine wear.

Spark Plugs Short-Circuit
They also lose power when lead and carbon deposits build up on spark plug insulation. They short-circuit the spark.
At these power robbers,
ignition and short-circuited plugs are at their worst—you need power most—as climbing a hill or accel-

Captive Power Released

Now, however, you can change all this. TCP, a Shell-discovered additive, blended into Shell Premium Gasoline releases the captive power in your engine.

First, it "diesels" the deposits in your combustion chambers —to stop pre-ignition. Second, by making the deposits non-conduc-tive, TCP additive stops the short-circuiting of your spark plugs.

TCP Acts Quickly

Shell Premium with TCP acts quickly, too. In fact, before you've finished your second tank-ful, you'll feel your engine's had a tune-up. But, remember, because these deposits accumulate constantly, continued use of Shell Premium with TCP additive is essential to retain its full benefits. It is the greatest gasoline development since the discovery of tetraethyl lead. Shell Premium with TCP is available only at your Shell Dealer's.

Famous Trichologist Tells Truth About Saving And Improving Hair

This new method of home treatment of saving and growing thicker hair will be demonstrated in Twin Falls, Idaho, Monday only, April 19, 1954. These private individual demonstrations will be held at the Regency Hotel on Monday Only, April 19, from 12 Noon to 9 p.m.

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 5—In an interview here today William L. Keele, internationally famous trichologist and director of the Keele Hair and Scalp Specialists, said "There are 18 different scalp disorders that cause most men and women to lose hair. Using common sense, a person must realize no one tonic or so-called cure-all could correct all the disorders," he explained.

GUARANTEED

"The Keele firm, recognizing that most people are skeptical of claims that hair can be grown on balding heads, offer a guarantee," Keele said.

Once a person avails themselves to the Keele treatment his skepticism immediately disappears. To insure this, we offer this guarantee: "If you are not completely satisfied with your hair progress at the end of 30 days your money will be returned."

HOPELESS CASES DISCOURAGED

First—the Keele specialists are quick to tell hopeless cases that they cannot be helped. But the "hopeless" cases are few. Only if a man is completely, shiny bald is he in the lost category.

If there is fuzz, no matter how light, thin or colorless, the Keele firm can perform wonders.

Every one is given a complete private examination to determine the condition of his scalp, and cause for his hair trouble.

FREE EXAMINATIONS

This examination is very thorough.

CARE OF YOUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

"How is it that you people send out graduates who cannot spell the simplest words like 'receive,' 'interstices,' 'quadrilateral'?" Can't write a letter in good, clear English?

We do. Most of the graduates of the secondary schools spell well and know how to use a dictionary when confronted with such technical words as the businessman mentioned. We know, however, that there are some students who do not spell well, nor write good letters in clear English. They asked to enter the business classes choosing that course. We can advise but if they persist, we must allow them to take the course. By and by they pass the requirements and are graduated. The schools do not say they are qualified for secretarial work, however, unless they really are; so it happens that some office managers meet up with some square pegs in round holes.

This is not the fault of the schools. The idea that solid hands are the marks of the dull drudges, the rejected and oppressed, fades slowly from the minds of many people in this country. This is true especially of those who came here from across the sea. There, class and mass are marked. They want their children to have "Class" so they dedicate them to "white hands." For some of the children this means dedication to failure.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

"How is it that you people send out graduates who cannot spell the simplest words like 'receive,' 'interstices,' 'quadrilateral'?" Can't write a letter in good, clear English? We do. Most of the graduates of the secondary schools spell well and know how to use a dictionary when confronted with such technical words as the businessman mentioned. We know, however, that there are some students who do not spell well, nor write good letters in clear English. They asked to enter the business classes choosing that course. We can advise but if they persist, we must allow them to take the course. By and by they pass the requirements and are graduated. The schools do not say they are qualified for secretarial work, however, unless they really are; so it happens that some office managers meet up with some square pegs in round holes.

This is not the fault of the schools. The idea that solid hands are the marks of the dull drudges, the rejected and oppressed, fades slowly from the minds of many people in this country. This is true especially of those who came here from across the sea. There, class and mass are marked. They want their children to have "Class" so they dedicate them to "white hands." For some of the children this means dedication to failure.

Fathers and mothers are right in wanting to give their children an education that will fit them for the best possible places of usefulness in society. They are wrong when they leave the child's talents, fitness, hopes out of their plans. If the child takes to the plan laid for him happily, willingly, all goes well. He is likely to succeed in it. If, however, he has not the talent, knows he hasn't, for the work laid out, he cannot succeed however pressed.

This situation is the cause of the square pegs in the round holes. If parents and families could bring themselves to see their children as the teachers see them; if they were willing to accept their children as they are and not as they wish they were, everybody concerned would be happier. The work of the world would be done better, the workers would be more successful and the businessmen more satisfied.

But try to get a mother to agree that her son would make a better plumber than a dentist, once she has set her heart on that profession for her child! All the best papers in the office won't budge her. Until we are truly democratic I fear the square pegs will be with us.

All children develop annoying habits from one thing to another, and the best remedy is to give them a new habit. Dr. Patri explains how this is done in booklet No. 102, "Annoying Habits." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 90, Station C, New York 19, N. Y.

Well, this isn't as cozy as the apartment, nor as private.

But we don't have to jump when someone puts a key in the lock.

County Board Tables Plans; Holds Auction

SHOSHONE, April 16—The Lincoln county commissioners have taken under consideration proposals for providing financial assistance for grasshopper control in the county this summer. They also are considering recommendations for the transfer of the hospital construction and maintenance fund to a convalescent-hospital fund.

On Monday the commissioners also sold several county lots and received reports from county officers. Meeting with the commissioners to seek financial aid for grasshopper control were Keith Evans, bureau of entomology and plant quarantine representative, and John A. Keith, district manager for the bureau of land management.

The commissioners will act on both the grasshopper control and hospital proposals at their May meeting. A committee will be appointed to investigate the wishes of citizens of the county concerning a convalescent hospital.

At the public auction for the sale of approximately 80 county lots in Shoshone, 16 were sold in addition to the sale of five other city lots to M. J. Dille. Those sold at auction went to Charles Fromm, one lot; Clarence Sayer, eight lots; John Anderson, two lots; and Mrs. Edna B. Conner, five lots. There were no bids for others listed for sale.

Approval was given to the school district for a bond election on April 27.

Reports approved were $10 in fines from Justice of the Peace George Byard, Jr., $168 in fines received in January and February by Justice of the Peace Frank Dice, $179 in fines received by Dice in March; $700 in fees from Ruth K. Ghess, county auditor; $4 in fees from Sheriff Thomas Conner, and $179 in fees and fines from D. J. LaGrange, probate judge.

More beans come up—strong and vigorous—when bean seed has this low-cost protection

WHY is it sometimes necessary to replant—even when you've used the best seed you can buy?

Unprotected lima bean seed injured by both seed and soil-borne decay organisms. Inexpensive "I & D" seed treatment prevents this damage.

The answer is usually soil-borne diseases and soil insects. The illustration at the left shows what happens when both attack the seed at the same time, but either disease or insects can seriously damage your bean crop.

The new proved way to lick these problems is to treat all the seed you plant with Du Pont "I & D" seed protectant. This single product gives double protection. It contains "Ara-san," which prevents disease and lindane to guard against insects such as seed corn maggot (bean maggot), wire worms, and other insects present in the soil. "Ara-san" seed disinfectant guards against seed rot and seedling blights. The low cost of treating may save replanting.

Beans and Other Vegetables

Use dustless Du Pont "I & D" seed protectant on all beans including lima and soy, peas, sweet corn, other vegetables, and vine crops. Ask your dealer for treated seed or for the convenient 7-oz.-size can of dustless "I & D" seed protectant and treat the seed yourself. Either way assures a better crop. Du Pont Salesman Section, Wilmington, Delaware.

On all chemicals always follow directions for application. Where warning or caution statements on the use of the product are given, read them carefully.

Du Pont I & D SEED PROTECTANT

BETTER THINGS FOR BETTER LIVING... THROUGH CHEMISTRY

Boost Hay-Crop Yields with Dustless "Ara-san" SF-X

The new handy 8 1/2-oz. can of "Ara-san" SF-X treats 100 pounds of grass or small-seeded legumes. It's the proved seed disinfectant in the ideal new form for treating small lots of seed on the farm without dust. Nothing like it to give your new seedlings a strong start. "Ara-san" is compatible with inoculation. Treat first, inoculate before planting. See your dealer for handy "Ara-san" SF-X in the can, or ask him for seed already treated with "Ara-san."
