Patterson was cited by State Patrolman M. J. Bays, Jr., shortly after 10:15 p. m. Wednesday when the 1942 Chevrolet which Patterson was driving collided with a 1954 Ford driven by Paul R. Neuman, 35, 1945 Elizabeth boulevard.

Searcher Thinks Body Is Located

GOODING, April 22—A volunteer searcher thought she had located the body of Paul Van Hoesen, Twin Falls, in the rushing waters of Snake river near Niagara springs late Wednesday but by the time a boat could be launched the object she had spotted had disappeared.

Sheriff Keith Anderson said high water is preventing searchers from keeping boats on the river. The flow of water in the river was increased considerably Wednesday when Miller reservoir was filled.

The search will have to be continued from the shore, Anderson said. He asks fishermen and others in the vicinity of the river to watch for the body of the missing man. Volunteer crews have been watching day and night along the river in hopes the body would come to the surface.

General Says 'Pressure' Used to Get McCarthy's Aide Army Commission

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Miles Reber testified today that in 10 years as army liaison officer with congress he recalled no case where he was "put under greater pressure" than he was in demands for an officer's commission for G. David Schine, aide to Senator McCarthy, R., Wis.

Reber told senators investigating the McCarthy-army row that "unusual" methods were used to seek a commission for Schine.

"It wasn't normal action," Reber said in describing what he called appeals by McCarthy and Roy Cohn, chief counsel of McCarthy's senate investigating subcommittee. But Reber said he was never "intimidated" by the senator. Schine, with the draft pressing upon him, applied for an army commission last July 15.

A wealthy New Yorker, Schine was then an unpaid consultant to McCarthy's subcommittee. Turned down for a commission, Schine eventually was drafted and is now an army private.

Reber told of repeated telephone calls in Schine's behalf from Cohn, and said he received "two or three" from McCarthy.

Reber said Cohn was "persistently after me" to speed a commission for Schine. Ray Jenkins, committee counsel, asked Reber if he thought Cohn's action was "improper."

"I felt I was being put under definite pressure," Reber replied. McCarthy, exercising his right to question witnesses, asked about the number of requests Reber received from members of congress, and specifically from members of the subcommittee, dealing with military affairs.

Reber said that altogether there were "about 1,000 cases a week" during his 10 years in the liaison post, and "I know I received a lot of cases from members of this committee."

Figures Are Broad But he said his figures embraced all kinds of inquiries concerning army activities. Senator Potter, R., Mich., asked if Reber hadn't received many requests from members of congress for action on commission and Reber replied the number was "sizeable."

Potter: "These requests are not improper." Reber: "No." McCarthy: "I am not sure that these requests are not improper."

Reber said, "The army receives very few requests for favors. We get a great many requests for information—a very large volume."

Sen. McClellan, D., Ark., asked Reber whether he regarded an application for a commission, or a request for leave of absence because of family illness, as a request for a "favor."

Reber replied he did not. It was in response to questions from J. N. Walsh, special army counsel, that Reber said the Schine case brought the greatest pressure of any he recalled.

Reber said: "To the best of my recollection, I recall no instance in which I was put under greater pressure."

At that time, Reber was the army's liaison officer with congress. He is now commanding general of U. S. army forces in the western European area.

Reber was the lead-off witness as long-heralded hearings began on the stormy row between McCarthy and top army department officials. The dispute turns on the contention McCarthy and his assistants sought by "improper means" to win preferred treatment for Schine and suggested their own investigation of the army might be eased if this was done.

State's Treasurer To Seek GOP Bid

BOISE, April 22 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Gilbert, state treasurer, has announced her candidacy for the Republican nomination for the state office in the August primary.

Born in Payette, Mrs. Gilbert lived there until she completed her first year in high school, then moved to Boise where she has lived since.

In Boise, she married Earl Gilbert and after he became ill she took business school work, later beginning her career in the office of Ada county Treasurer Oora Owen for whom she worked four years. Janet Ketchum then was elected and Mrs. Gilbert worked for her for 10 years. In 1938 she became county treasurer and held that office until she was appointed by Gov. Len Jordan to fill the vacancy left by the death of State Treasurer Lela Painter. She took office March 17, 1952.

McCormack, Lewiston, declares the federal government must reverse policies which result in lower farm prices.

Gossett Enters Governor Race; McCormack Is Out for Senator

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—The Idaho Democratic Party today announced the state's top political race, Charles C. Gossett, Nampa livestock grower, farmer and former governor, announced his candidacy for the governor nomination in the August primary, and Alvin W. McCormack, Lewiston, entered the contest for the U. S. senatorial nomination.

Gossett stated, "If I am elected I shall serve the people of Idaho and not all the Pacific northwest states. I realize the historic and constitutional responsibilities of the office. The governor is the people's direct representative. I shall serve all segments of the state's economy and shall be available to the people."

"After I became governor in 1944, the legislature appropriated $16,000,000 to the general fund in contrast to the near 50 million dollars appropriated in 1953. Since 1945 the cost of living has almost doubled but the cost of the state government has more than tripled. With falling farm income and growing unemployment, some of the tax burden must be removed from the farmers and laborers. Federal taxes have been cut primarily with the insistence of the Democratic congressmen and I will propose a tax reduction for Idaho," he said.

"I favor the development of Idaho resources and believe a program to attract and keep tourists should be thought about. Tourists represent a resource Idaho has neglected. The crime of the Republican administration was its failure and refusal to appropriate funds for the normal schools at Lewiston and Albion. The United States congress in 1945 appropriated $1,000,000 for the Idaho school of agriculture and mechanics. The state and federal laws are still on the statute books. The crime must be rectified to provide proper teacher training for those seeking it and to provide teachers for our own children."

Gossett served two terms in the Idaho house of representatives and two terms as lieutenant governor. He was elected governor in 1944 and resigned in November, 1945, to accept appointment as United States senator.

McCormack entered the race for the U. S. senate. He was elected to the Idaho house of representatives in 1944 and served two terms. He was elected to the U. S. senate in 1948 and served two terms.

West Shipper Groups Split On Rate Plan

SAULT LAKE CITY, April 22 (AP)—Western shippers differed sharply yesterday on the railroad freight rate schedules they felt would apply best to their area.

Two Montana spokesmen told an interstate commerce commission hearing they favored rates proposed by the railroads. A Texas said those rates would be "excessive" and a Utah man said he was opposed to the westward extension of the lower class rates now prevailing east of the Rockies.

Commissioner A. P. Appala, who presided at the three-day hearing, refused a move by shippers to gain immediate action on their proposal to extend the lower eastern rates westward to the Pacific coast.

The Utah Citizens Rate association has filed with the ICC in Washington a motion aimed at applying to the mountain-Pacific territory immediately the lower eastern class rates. Calvin L. Rampion, attorney for the association, said (Continued on Page 11, Column 4)

Nixon Thinks Strength Best Rule on Peace

DES MOINES, April 22 (AP)—The President Richard M. Nixon said tonight that a show of strength in Asia was America's best bet to prevent World War III.

He said, however, that American material aid could be made to Asia as a substitute for American troops in Indochina.

Nixon, who spoke at a 425-plate republican dinner here, was scheduled to fly to Los Angeles at 11:30 a.m. EST.

Nixon spelled out administration policy here when he said, "American policy is to give maximum material aid to the forces of the French and associated states of Indochina."

He said the United States must give such aid to "avoid sending our boys into the battle in Indochina. Nixon told about 3,600 persons at the Iowa GOP centennial dinner that the communists are out to conquer the world, and if they should take Indochina, it would swing the balance of power to the communists."

Kremlin Might Act "The Kreamlin might think the time had come to start World War III," he said. Nixon expressed confidence in newsmen that the Indochina war can be won "by French and Indochinese troops with the aid the United States has given, and is giving."

Kiwanis Club Marks Event For T. F. Meet

Twin Falls Kiwanis observed United States-Canada "good will" week at their regular weekly meeting Thursday noon at the Legion hall.
Special messages from Ben Dean, past international president; Louis S. St. Laurent, Prime Minister of Canada, and President Dwight Eisenhower were read by Lloyd James and Charles Allen, club president.

The observance is designed to foster good relations between the United States and Canada and dates back to 1921 when the Kiwanis International convention held the first Canadian day celebration. The present good will week is observed April 25 to May 1.
After an explanation by O. P. Duval, members voted unanimously to assess themselves $1 per year for the next four years to contribute to an $850,000 fund to be used to construct a permanent Kiwanis office building in Chicago.

Members authorized Charles Allen, club president, to support the resolution at the Miami convention in May.
The program was concluded with the singing of "America," "God Save the Queen" and "Oh, Canada."
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen and Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Duval will leave May 5 to attend the Kiwanis International convention in Miami.
Members of the Magic Valley Cowboy baseball team will be guests of the Kiwanis club at the next meeting. Joe Clements will be program chairman.

Hearing Over Woman's Will Started Here

A hearing over the contested will for the $125,000 estate of Mrs. Louise Rouch was being held Thursday in the district courtroom before Probate Judge E. M. Sweeley.
Eleven nieces and nephews are contesting the will, which designated most of the estate for use as a home for boys. Judge Sweeley said it appeared unlikely the hearing would end Thursday.
Edward Babcock represents Guy Shearer, petitioner for the estate, while Rayburn, Rayborn and Kramer and S. T. Lowe represent the contestants: John Keenan and John Daly, of Farry, Keenan-Robertson, Daly and Larsen, represent the Snake River area council, Boy Scouts of America, named to receive the balance of the estate if the home for boys fails.
The heirs are Lela Selby, Mrs. Bee Wallace, Mrs. Robert Parks, Mrs. H. A. Belew, Mrs. Nellie M. Pay, Francis E. Dumaway, Inez Lukins, Mrs. Lella A. Daniels, Charles Simmons, Mrs. Audrey Ahone and Sidney Walker.
The heirs claim the estate is valued at not over $250,000. They allege that the document submitted by Guy Shearer as the last will of the deceased was not signed in the presence of the two alleged witnesses. Mrs. Rouch died here Jan. 15, 1935.
They claim Mrs. Rouch was 80, in poor health, physically incapacitated, had impaired mental faculties and was unable to understand the contents of the will. They charge that Shearer, president of Fidelity National bank, easily influenced Mrs. Rouch, advised her to sign the will and in actuality dictated the will.
The estate is listed in the petition as including about $70,000 in cash, savings accounts, stocks and bonds, plus $55,000 in real estate. The will gives $500 each to Mrs. Ahone, Mrs. Daniels, Simmons and Laurence Rouch. It gives $100 each to Nell Rouch, Ann-Novotny, Mrs. Millie Holder, Maud Adams, Gladence Rouch, Aaron Rouch, Clarence Rouch, Everett Rouch and Marion Rouch, plus $1,000 each to the heirs of Charles E. Dumaway, A. R. Pike and Mrs. Anna Robertson, and $100 each to all other heirs.
The main point of dispute is the provision which leaves the remainder of the estate in Shearer's trust for the "A. P. Rouch and Louise Rouch boys foundation fund," plus the request that the Rouch farm be used for a boy's home if possible. If the trust fails, the will provides that the remainder of the estate go to the Boy Scouts. Shearer is named executor.
Witnesses so far have been Shearer, Harold J. Stearley and William H. Miller, witnesses to the will; Mrs. Lucille Wolfe, bank teller, and Mrs. Emma Hughes.

Ranch of Texas, One of World's Biggest, Is Very Scientific Operation

well whether the weather is hot and humid or whether it is burning hot and dry—as it usually is in south Texas.

It is so big that its land in Texas alone is equal to a strip a half mile wide and 3,000 miles long, running from New England to California.

It is a multimillion-dollar corporation, built upon beef and oil.

It covers 940,000 acres in Texas, but has branched out into Pennsylvania and Kentucky and, through partnerships, into Cuba, Australia and Brazil. It encompasses entire villages complete with schools. Some of its 630 ranch employees spend almost their entire lives on the ranch, as did their fathers and grandfathers before them.

It is science seeking better beef, better grasses to endure the cruel drought gripping south Texas. It is a headquarters of a ceaseless battle against climate and nature.

King ranch began with a modest 15,500 acres bought 101 years ago by Capt. Richard King, steamboat operator and businessman. He expanded to 500,000 acres, some bought for as little as 15 cents to $1 an acre, and started a cattle empire with Mexican longhorn cattle.

By 1925 the ranch had burgeoned to 1 1/4 million acres under the guidance of Mrs. King (Capt. King died in 1885) and the late Robert Justus Kleberg, her son-in-law.

Mrs. King died in 1925, and 10 years later the ranch was divided among heirs. Members of the Kleberg family, the late Mrs. R. J. Kleberg, daughter of Capt. King, and her sons, Richard Mifflin Kleberg (for 13 years a congressman) and Robert J. Kleberg, Jr., bought the holdings of some other heirs to bring the ranch to its present near-million acres.

The ranch was incorporated for better operation of its myriad activities and to avoid such tremendous inheritance taxes as those which fell due (more than one million dollars) when Mrs. King died. Robert Kleberg, Jr., is president and general manager, Richard Kleberg, chairman of the board, and his son, Richard, Jr., secretary and assistant manager.

King ranch, incorporated, now is an agricultural-industrial empire. Oil and gas are flowing from wells explored, drilled and operated by Humble Oil and Refining company, which paid nearly one million dollars for oil lease rights in the 1930s. The ranch receives a portion of royalties from the oil and gas produced. The corporation or its members have interests in a lumber firm, bank, newspaper — the Kingsville Record-Creamery department store and milling company.

But it remains primarily a meat factory, its great herds dependent upon huge acreage in this sunburned country where it may take up to 15, or sometimes even 30, acres of sparse grassland to support one steer. By contrast, in Florida, a single acre can support one or even two animals.

More and more of our steaks and roasts of beef will come from Santa Gertrudis cattle, the first officially recognized new breed of beef cattle developed in the United States, and the first new breed anywhere in more than a century.

It is an animal that thrives in hot, dry areas where drought can lay its arid hand on land, people and cattle, but it fares equally well in humid and semitropical lands.

Santa Gertrudis cattle resist fever from high temperatures and seem to scorn insects and parasites. They can gain weight on grass alone, turning grass to meat with great efficiency. They grow fast. Range cows weigh 1,100 to 1,200 pounds and bulls 1,800 to 2,000 pounds at maturity. They usually average more than other breeds of cattle raised under the same conditions. And the carcass yields a higher percentage of actual meat.

They are good foragers and big as they are they can amble great distances to watering pools with little expenditure of energy.

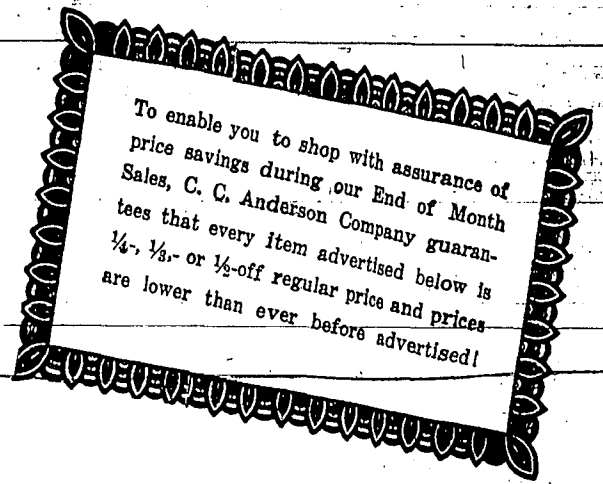

The new breed is deep in flesh, heavy, especially in the hindquarters which yield the best cuts of meat. The cattle are gentle in disposition, easy to handle.

The Santa Gertrudis was developed from crossing the English shorthorn and the humpbacked Brahman of India, combining desirable qualities of each breed.

The old longhorn was a tough baby able to take the rigors of difficult grazing, but his meat was tough too. King ranch shortly after the turn of the century switched to shorthorns and — Herefords, both British breeds, but these, suffered from heat, insects, and any spells of drought. Brahmans of India could take the south Texas climate, but had other shortcomings.

Hank Envyies All Newspaper Columnists Their D

By HENRY McEMORE

I envy all newspaper columnists in the United States except myself. Everything always goes right for them.

Hedda Hopper

as do some stars when I step on them to topple me like a cracked clavichord.

Take heed

When Marion Brando calls to tell her that she has bought a new sweatshirt—and two pair of canvas shoes—she is always at home.

Bob Ruark always hits the biggest tiger between the eyes, Pegler has James come along when he is down to the last

Roosevelt home.
Walter mentions a stock and it - sails like a kite, Mr. Linnemann - McLemore

detects a flaw in the Bonn government just when he needs a column in a hurry, Mrs. Delaplane's daughter says something chte when he is hard pressed for a paragraph and the Democrats always have

I repeat that I envy them; that my dark blue eyes turn green almost every time I read them. How I wish that would be.

Nothing goes right for me. I find myself all mixed up in situations that shouldn't happen to a man who always parks well away from fire-plugs, cleans up the lavatory in a Pullman car after shaving, and openly admits he doesn't know or care for anything about ballet. Those are all virtues, especially the last one, and when I add the fact that chamber music bores me within one inch of my life, you can readily see that I am on the side of law, decency and comfortable melodioracy.

Many people have asked me what

Many people have asked me why I don't devote my newspaper space to the serious happenings in the world. The truth is: I don't have time. Too many serious things are going on in the world to write about.

...and I was very serious things happened to me, which demand my immediate attention. I am kept so busy keeping my own self in line and in shape, that I just have to let the world slide by.

the A-bomb is frightful, or so I a little knoll of the high near, but it doesn't offer half as one was injured. Dep much a threat to me at the moment. Payette Peak, Nevada

Report Warns Aggressors on 'Rash Actions'

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said last night that "the mounting retaliatory capability of our air units gives full warning to any aggressor of the possible consequences of rash actions on his part."

In his semi-annual report, Wilson also said U. S. strategy is aimed at handling little aggressions as well as big ones.

In discussing the "long pull" concept of national defense, Wilson appeared to be countering criticism of the "massive retaliation" policy. Adlai E. Stevenson, for example, has expressed the view this policy is not fitted to meet local aggressions like the one in Korea. He has raised the question whether it wouldn't leave the U. S. only two choices: Touching off a "thermonuclear holocaust" or letting the reds get away with local aggressions.

Wilson, discussing the review of the whole military situation by the defense department and joint chiefs of staff, said:

"It sought a military strategy that would deter both a major war and local aggression and, at the same time, could be implemented and maintained without undermining the social and economic foundations of the nation."

He wrote that:

"The new long-range guidelines for the military security of the United States place increased emphasis on land- and carrier-based airpower and on the integration of new weapons into our strategy and tactics. At the same time they provide for the maintenance of strong, well-trained and well-equipped ground and naval forces. Military strength is becoming greater through the development of increased firepower on land, on sea and in the air and through the deployment of our forces in a way that will make them readily available whenever and wherever they are needed."

New Association Officers Selected

SUN VALLEY, April 22 (AP)—Motor vehicle administrators from the 11 western states Wednesday named Tony Luna, Jr., Santa Fe, N. M., president of their association. Luna is motor vehicle commissioner for New Mexico.

Other officers elected are Carol G. Bryan, assistant chief, division of motor vehicles, Denver, Colo., first vice president; Robert C. Gile, registrar of motor vehicles, Salem, Ore., second vice president; and John Hoffman, assistant registrar of motor vehicles, Deer Lodge, Mont., secretary.

Wayne Summers, commissioner of law enforcement, Boise, was nominated to the executive committee of the National Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators and Paul Mason, director of motor vehicles, Sacramento, Calif., was nominated as secretary of the national group.

Speaking on new trends in highway taxation, Bryan said he was convinced that a uniform set of interstate truck laws among all states is impossible to attain and predicted that the federal government will step in on the "inequity and confusion reigning in this field now."

Luna said the state for the region four 1955 conference will be set in New Mexico.

Glass Pittings Are Insurance Plague

HARTFORD, Conn., April 22 (AP)—This town, the insurance capital of the world, adopted a wait-and-see attitude today toward payment of claims for pockmarked windshields.

All except one firm want to know what is causing the damage before they pay off the claims.

T. A. Long, executive vice president of the National of Hartford group, said his firm would pay the claim even though the cause of the pockmarked windshield is unknown.

He said if the outbreak continues across the nation "it could be very bad for the auto insurance industry."

Montanan Named As Head of Clinic

SPOKANE, April 22 (AP)—A lumberman from Bonner, Mont., was named yesterday to head the Northwest Wood Products clinic for the coming year.

He is H. R. Dix, head of the lumber department for Anaconda Copper company.

Everett Ellis of the University of Idaho college of forestry was named secretary.

New directors include: H. W. Russell, Springfield, Idaho; M. E. Jones, Pocatello; and Dr. John Krier, Montana State university.

The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness estimates about 750,000 Americans now alive will become blind before they die.

Atmosphere of Insecurity Is Evident on Indochina Tour

By JOHN RODERICK

SAIGON, Indochina, April 22 (AP)—These are the weeks of decision in Indochina.

Throughout this vast country, which the French opened up to exploitation 100 years ago, the farmer, the businessman, the mercenary, the politician, the career officer, the priest and the priest are asking themselves one burning question: What of tomorrow?

The terrible battle of Dien Bien Phu, a plot of ground which nature with a giant hand has scooped out of the tangled jungle 170 miles northwest of Hanoi, has given their thoughts the urgency of immediate danger.

To find out what these worried millions are thinking this writer took a 3,000-mile, 10-day swing around Indochina.

There are two major cities in Indochina. They are Saigon in the south and Hanoi in the north. Each dominates the wide triangular delta of a great river. For Saigon it is the rich flat bottomland evolved over the centuries by the Mekong as it meanders to the China sea. For Hanoi it is the Red river.

Both cities are in the state of Viet Nam, which with Cambodia and Laos form the associated states of Indochina. Viet Nam, with its 20 million inhabitants, carries virtually the brunt of the battle against Ho Chi Minh's regular and guerrilla rebels.

Though Saigon is the political capital, Hanoi today is Viet Nam's war capital. There, two thirds of the 400,000 French and Vietnamese troops are waging a bitter war of jungles, mountains and rice paddies. The dominant motif of Hanoi is the uniform. The tables of the Tavernes Royal which fronts the beautiful Petit Lac of the city are dotted with foreign legionnaires in white kepi, Tirailleurs in red hat, black Senegalese, red-bereted paratroopers, and Vietnamese in jungle green fatigues.

The atmosphere of Hanoi is one of tenseness and watchful waiting. It is one of rumor and often fantastic invention of astonishing revelations whispered over a cognac and soda. Dien Bien Phu there is far more imminent than it is to Saigon, where the lights-blue, the tavernes do a full business, and the war is an annoyance which must be tolerated. The memory of 1954, when on a December night the nationalists slaughtered hundreds of Europeans, hangs like a pall over the city.

The uncertainties of war have left their mark on the city. It is as though the French colonists had packed their bags and were waiting for the signal to leave. The hot water system in the hotels does not work because no one wants to spend the money on such a long-range project. The result is: No heat and no hot baths unless one resorts to the numerous small Vietnamese bathhouses which have impressed them enormously. But they are waiting for the result of the battle before making their great decision.

Hardly a night passes at Hanoi without the booming of cannon in the distance, sometimes close to the city. Elaborate preparations are being made against possible commando raids.

This atmosphere of insecurity is reflected throughout the Tonkin delta. The highway between Hanoi and Saigon is being cut regularly by the Vietminh, despite heavy losses on manpower.

To Laos by military plane—one has to span the mountains which fringe the delta flying over impenetrable jungles. Hanoi is set down in an undulating valley, its airstrip protected by pillboxes, defenses which stretch brown streaks into the green earth. Fresh from France, fliers live in thatched houses, look optimistically toward the future. For them, not yet tired by the climate and the boredom, the war is far from lost.

Another who shared this optimistic view was a young Laotian lieutenant just decorated and en route to his wife and children for the first visit in two years.

"We can defeat the Viet," he said, "if we realize that life under their system cannot be the same as it is now. Our peace and happiness will be gone."

At Seno our plane took aboard three wounded French union troops and six sick rebel prisoners. Trail and thin they didn't look capable of killing a fly. Why had they fought?

"We had to," said one. "I'm glad it's over," said another.

North Carolina estimates it has about 9,250,000 laying hens.

Group Studies Plea for More Project Funds

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—A senate public-works subcommittee has taken under advisement a request that it add another million dollars to a house-passed bill increasing monetary authorizations for Columbia basin projects by 16 million dollars.

The house bill is designed to permit congress to appropriate enough money for the year beginning July 1 to keep construction of The Dalles dam on the Columbia river on schedule.

Reduces Request
Senator Morse, Ind., Ore., who originally proposed increasing the house figure by nine million dollars, subsequently scaled his request to one million. He accepted the latter figure after being told by Col. W. Whipple of army engineers that it would be sufficient to permit additional planning on John Day dam and other lesser projects sought by the senator.

Morse, who said he acted on behalf of himself and Democratic Senators Jackson and Magnuson, Wash., and Murray and Mansfield, Mont., said his original request had been designed to include additional authorization for Ice Harbor and Chief Joseph dams.

Drops Idea
He dropped this phase of the proposal, however, when it was determined that the two projects were authorized by congress without a monetary ceiling on their appropriations. Morse said there had been confusion on this point in the northwest and he desired to "nail it down once and for all."

Senator Gordon, R., Ore., who has introduced legislation similar to that approved by the house, endorsed the 16-million-dollar increase which he said was necessary to keep The Dalles on schedule to help meet the needs of a "power-starved area."

Western Firemen Meet in Portland
PORTLAND, April 22 (AP)—Fire fighting authorities from western states are holding a conference here today and tomorrow to plan wartime fire control.

Effects of atomic and hydrogen weapons will be discussed by city, state and provincial fire officials at the conference.

Lessons learned in World War II will be reviewed.

Henry E. Eaton, regional chief defense administrator, said that postwar studies show that nearly 80 per cent of war damage to German and British cities was caused by fires.

Toll of 659 From Cancer Reported

BOISE, April 22 (AP)—L. J. Peterson, director of the state public health department, said cancer killed 659 Idahoans last year and proved to be one of the leading causes of death among children between the ages of 3 and 14.

Sixty-three new cases of breast cancer were reported, and 32 cases of this type resulted in death, he added.

Peterson urged the full support of Idahoans of the current Cancer society fund-raising campaign and noted that money collected finances new research that may eventually conquer the disease.

China Delegates Arrive in Russia

TOKYO, April 22 (AP)—The Chinese delegation to the Geneva conference on Korea and Indochina has arrived in Moscow, Peiping radio reported today.

The delegation was welcomed at the airport by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and other Soviet officials.

At the same time, the communist radio said that Molotov and other Soviet delegates to the conference would depart "soon" for Switzerland.

Pastor for Boise Accepts Position

BOISE, April 22 (AP)—The Rev. Hartzell Cobb, Boise minister, says he has accepted the Idaho chairmanship of the Wooden Church Crusade, a drive to raise funds for the building of churches in countries bordering the iron curtain.

In Washington, Senator Welker, R., Ida., expressed gratification at Cobb's acceptance and urged the people of Idaho to "lend a helping hand" in the program.

Air Force Stops Airlifts to Japan

TOKYO, April 22 (AP)—The U. S. air force, for the second time in less than a month, today suspended airlifting of soldiers on rest leave from Korea to Japan.

An air force announcement said flights were canceled "due to higher priority requirements for aircraft." The only place in the far east of "higher priority" than Korea would be Indochina.

Paul Student Works on Spud Disease

A new piece of research equipment, given the University of Idaho by a mining company, proves of value in the study of an agricultural problem. Using the electron microscope, a thousand times more powerful than the best light microscope, in the study of the virus-causing calico disease in potatoes is Gene Easton, Paul, holder of the Union Pacific potato disease research fellowship the past two years. Watching the operation are, left to right, J. M. Raeder, associate plant pathologist in charge of this study, and E. E. Spiker, instructor in physics and supervisor of the electron microscope laboratory.

Research Fellow to Use U.P. Grant to Study Some Disease Problem of Spuds

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, April 22 (Special).—Some timely potato disease problems affecting Idaho's best known agricultural crop will be studied by a research fellow in the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station during the coming year under a $1,500 grant from the Union Pacific Railroad, announces Dr. C. W. Hungerford, head of the department of plant pathology.

Selecting the graduate student to carry on the research and the potato disease problem he will study will be a committee consisting of Dr. Hungerford, J. M. Raeder, associate plant pathologist at Moscow, and Dr. J. W. Guthrie, assistant plant pathologist on potato disease research at the Aberdeen branch station. The new fellowship, formally accepted by the university regents, is a continuation of railroad aid in potato disease research which began in 1940.

"Potato disease research by the four previous graduate students working under the Union Pacific fellowship has been of considerable value to the Idaho potato industry," declared Professor Raeder, adviser to the railroad fellows.

First Union Pacific research fellows were E. M. Graves, a graduate of the University of California, 1940-41, and H. C. Kirkpatrick, a Washington State college graduate, who followed him the next year. Both Graves and Kirkpatrick worked on potato rot, a bacterial disease then causing severe losses to the industry.

Research by these graduate fellows brought out basic information on dissemination of the bacterial organism that aided in development of methods to prevent its spread.

Graves is now teaching school in California while Kirkpatrick continued his studies at Cornell, received his Ph. D. degree and is now an associate plant pathologist with the U. S. department of agriculture at Wenatchee, Wash.

Because of a lack of qualified candidates, the research fellowship was inactive during World War II. Leaf-rolling of potatoes, a virus disease particularly serious in both eastern and western Idaho, was the problem tackled by the first postwar fellow, Richard E. Ghms, Payette, a University of Idaho agricultural graduate.

Out of his research, carried on in 1941-42, came recommendations by which losses from the disease were reduced materially.

Now completing two years of research on necrotic calico, another virus disease, is Gene D. Easton, Paul. His research has pointed out how growers could escape much of the loss from this disease.

Nazi Horror Camp of Dachau Found by Yanks 8 Years Ago

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY
DACHAU, Germany, April 22 (AP)—Eight years ago American troops uncovered the infamy of Dachau. They marbled through the gates of the Nazi horror camp under a brilliant April sun and liberated the miserable thousands who had managed to escape the gas chambers and the crematory.

The incredible story of the extermination camp, which the Nazis ran like a grisly factory shocked the conquering armies. It was hard to believe the narrow brick furnaces were stoked with human fuel; that the gas chambers stuffed out thousands of lives; that guards used inmates for target practice.

The list of Nazi concentration camps was long: Auschwitz . . . Bensen . . . Buchenwald . . . Mauthausen. But Dachau was different. Its prime purpose was murder.

U. S. military authorities decided to maintain Dachau as a shrine to the men and women who died there and as a reminder of nazism's dreadful practices.

In front of the crematory a monument was erected with the inscription: "In honor of the dead, as a warning to the living."

Inside the crematory, wreaths and flowers serve as solemn memorials to its victims.

In one of the torture chambers eschewens of countries whose nationals died in the ovens are attached to a brick wall. On the bottom row, second from the left, is the emblem of the United States.

Nearly a decade has passed since the first liberated inmate blinked in the sun, trying to realize fully the truth of freedom. During these years Dachau, now a settlement for refugees, has been high on the list of places to see in a countryside famed for its pastoral beauty.

Solon Fires Blast At Vice President

GREELEY, Colo., April 22 (AP)—Sen. Mike Mansfield, D., Mont., charged last night that Vice President Richard M. Nixon was hunting publicity when he said American troops might have to be sent to Indochina.

"It seems to me an off-the-record speech to the American Society of Newspaper Editors is made to get the widest publicity," Mansfield said at a Veterans of Foreign Wars Roosevelt memorial dinner.

"To the best of my knowledge," he said, "Mr. Nixon has not discussed sending troops to Indochina with any congressional committee."

Talk by Arctic Explorer Ends
Current Season for Town Hall

Col. Homer F. Kellems, well-known Arctic explorer and war-time air force photographer, took some 300 members of the Town Hall association on a movie trip through Greenland and Iceland at the organization's last spring meeting Wednesday night at the junior high school auditorium.

Colonel Kellems, who recently returned from that region sometimes called "the ice box of the world," showed colored films that spanned the rock-bound coast of Newfoundland to Greenland's ice floes.

Among the highlights of his film were the parade pictures of the coronation day celebrations at St. John's, Newfoundland, and the independence day festivities in Iceland.

As one of the world's newest nations, a part of Denmark until 1944, Iceland celebrates her June 17 independence day with pageantry and seriousness that continue until the midnight sun sets.

Kellems concluded his movie with breathtaking shots of Greenland's fjords and giant icebergs and censored views of the United States important strategic airbase at Thule.

One interesting feature of Reykjavik, this Arctic nation's capital, is that the 60,000 citizens all heat their homes by steam pumped from nearby hot springs. Colonel Kellems said the yearly cost for each family came to about $100.

Long thought to be the "jumping-off place" for North America's early Viking explorers, Iceland was settled in 874 by these Norwegian adventurers and their Irish slaves. As a result the present day Icelandic is 70 per cent Norwegian stock and 30 per cent Irish, the speaker said.

Whaling still provides jobs for many Icelanders, he said. One 70-ton whale shown in his film was worth $5,000 in blubber, oil and meat, which made 22 tons of steaks for the islanders. The remote map speck also raises 500,000 sheep, many dairy cows and large hay harvests.

Kellems concluded his movie with breathtaking shots of Greenland's fjords and giant icebergs and censored views of the United States important strategic airbase at Thule.

Papers Are Filed
In Glantz Estate

Petition for letters of administration in the estate of Jake J. Glantz, who died in Twin Falls county March 21, 1953, were filed in probate court Wednesday by his widow, Mrs. Ella C. Glantz.

Value of the estate was listed as not exceeding $10,000. It consists of a lot in the Twin Falls new school addition, bank account, 1941 Plymouth and household furnishings.

In addition to Mrs. Glantz, two daughters, Mrs. Arlene Glantz Brown and Mrs. Betty Jane Glantz Stephens, both Twin Falls, were listed as heirs. The petition was prepared by Rayborn, Rayborn, and Kramer.

Probate Judge Everett Sweetley set the hearing for 10 a. m. May 3.

Defendants Win
Case for $61,000

COEUR D'ALENE, April 22 (AP)—A federal court jury brought in a verdict for the defendants Wednesday night in the $61,000 damage suit of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jolin, Clarkston, Wash.

The Jolins asked for damages from Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Brown, Coeur d'Alene, for alleged injuries to Jolin while staying at Braden's motel in June of 1953.

It was the second trial of the case. A jury which heard it last fall failed to reach a verdict.

Judge Chase A. Clark recessed court after the verdict was returned yesterday and left immediately for Boise to attend the funeral of his father-in-law, Alex Burness, 91.

Rerouting for Road Seen if Project OK'd

OROFINO, April 22 (AP)—Col. F. B. Tandy of the army engineers says proposed construction of the Penny cliffs dam on the Clearwater river would require relocation of 46 miles of the Lewis-Clark highway.

But Tandy, in a letter to Mayor A. B. Curtis, said the new stretch of road east from Kootenai toward Lolo pass wouldn't have any undesirable features.

No Detours

He said curves on the relocated highway would not be "materially greater or less" than on the present partially constructed highway, that any change in length would be "of unimportant magnitude," and that extensive detours up side canyons would be unnecessary.

Tandy, district engineer for the army at Walla Walla, Wash., said the relocated road would "ascend from the river level in the vicinity of Kootenai to the required elevation above the pool in the vicinity of Penny cliffs dam."

Objections Cited

The water resources committee of the Orofino Chamber of Commerce asked Tandy's views because "certain wildlife interests have been making statements with regard to loss of the Lewis-Clark highway if Penny cliffs is built."

Tandy said it would cost $19,152,000 to relocate the highway, but that benefits from construction of the dam and reservoir would justify the cost.

Five northwest power companies have announced plans to build projects at Penny cliffs and Bruce eddy.

Dickenson Admits He Helped Reds in Korean Prison Camp

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—An army court martial has received an admission by Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson that he collaborated with communist captors in a Korean prison camp.

The statement, taken by army intelligence officers in Tokyo after Dickenson's belated repatriation, was admitted as evidence late yesterday over vigorous protests of defense counsel.

In it, Dickenson said he decided to go along with the communists after being caught in an escape attempt and being subjected to cruel and brutal treatment.

He admitted writing articles for communist newspapers, making recordings and signing and circulating peace petitions among fellow prisoners. It did not include anything about informing on fellow prisoners, also charged by the army.

He said some prisoners who accepted communism were sent home to form the nucleus of a revolutionary group. He said they were instructed to meet in Chicago, at a time to be set later, to lay plans for a revolution to be staged after a depression which the communists predicted would come in five years.

Dickenson, a Crackers Neck, Va., mountaineer, was one of two original non-repatriates who came home after the mass-exchange of prisoners. The other was Cpl. Claude J. Sakelohr, Kermitt, Tex., who also is slated for court martial. Twenty-one other Americans remained with the Reds.

Stuck

NAMPA, April 22 (AP)—Nampa firemen, called to the residence of Dr. Norman Bolker, found not a blaze but the Bolker's 2-year-old son with a cake pan stuck on his head.

"It sounds funny now," Mrs. Bolker said, "but it wasn't funny then. The angel food cake pan was stuck tight and his head was swelling both above and below the pan."

Fire Chief L. T. Lessinger said firemen were able to remove the pan "after a little prying."

Solon Pushes Plan to Form Judicial Area

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—Senator Morse, Ind. Ore., has urged a senate-judiciary subcommittee to approve legislation to create an 11th judicial circuit composed of Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington.

Legislation to carve the district out of the present ninth district has been introduced by Morse and senators Magnuson, D. Wash., and Jackson, D. Wash.

Morse said in a letter to Chairman McCarran, D. Nev., of the subcommittee:

Stresses Need

"The need for a new 11th circuit is attested to by the resolution of the judicial council of the ninth circuit judges."

"The population and case growth in the ninth circuit over the past decades make this new circuit proposed by Chief Judge Duman and his associate judges and the sponsors of these bills a matter of urgency. The prompt adjudication of cases at the least cost to the government and the parties would be enhanced by stationing judges in the northwest where they need not travel so far to reach the parties and their attorneys, who in turn will have easier and cheaper access to the court."

Support Claimed

"There is evidence that our bill has the support of the public press and bar of the northwest."

The ninth is now composed of Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington, Arizona, California, Nevada, Guam and Hawaii.

Franklin Resident Is Killed by Horse

The Canyon county sheriff's office said it appeared that Stokes died of a fractured skull.

Wyoming People Get Surplus Food

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., April 22 (AP)—An estimated 3,000 persons in 780 families will receive government surplus food today in the April distribution in the Rock Springs area.

Al Zeiler, secretary for the distribution program, said this is a drop from the number who received help in March.

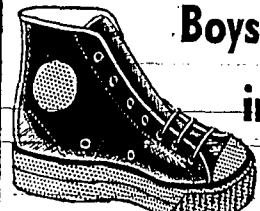

The decline is due, he said, to the fact that some unemployed miners have either moved away or found other jobs.

Mrs. AND MRS. ROGER M. JAMIESON, JR.

Double-Ring Ritual Marks Vows of Former Resident

Word of the marriage of Betty Jean Mulvihill, formerly Twin Falls, and Roger Mills Jamieson, Jr., Blackfoot, April 3 at Wenatchee, Wash., was received here Thursday.

The double-ring ceremony was performed in the Wenatchee Valley Church of the Brethren by the Rev. Loren Bowman, pastor. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Myrtle Aulv Mulvihill, Wenatchee, and Dan W. Mulvihill, Oroville, Wash. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mills Jamieson, Atlanta, Ga.

The new Mrs. Jamieson chose an ankle-length gown of white net over white tulle and carried a heart-shaped arrangement of deep pink roses and white narcissus. The handkerchief she carried had been made over 50 years ago by a grandmother of the bridegroom. Her veil was of illusion net, edged with lace and of fingertip length, cascaded from a coronet of pearls.

Mrs. Dean Porter, Richland, sister of the bride, wore blue net over tulle as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Roland Wheeler, Wenatchee, the bride's cousin, wearing pink net over pink tulle, and Florence Wormser, Seattle, wearing pale green. They carried old-fashioned nosegays of mixed flowers with tulle to match.

Susan Porter, in blue nylon, was flower girl for her aunt.

The bridegroom chose his father as best man. Ushers were the bride's brother, James Mulvihill, and the bridegroom's brother-in-law, who also served as candle lighters.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Mulvihill chose a two-piece gray dress. The bridegroom's mother wore a two-piece navy blue frock. Both wore rosebud corsages.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

There are many good reasons for keeping records of the school children's achievements and of their conduct. What troubles me about these, however, is the fact that when a child breaks a rule, does something flagrantly wide of the accepted way, it is recorded, often in red ink, on his card. That card will go with him through the schools. So will that wrong action.

Now I believe that, when day was divided from the night, a Divine Providence intended that the day's doings, especially the failures and the sins, should be dropped over the edge of time as the sun went down. If people must carry a burden of error, accumulating as the days and years pass, they cannot climb the heights, but forever must dwell in the valley of despond. I believe there is forgiveness for sin when repentance is expressed and good deeds are born to strengthen it.

But a record is a record or it is nothing? True. What I want to say is that there should be some way of erasing an error when a school child's growth toward goodness indicates that it was but a misstep on his way up. When the card tells about his mistake and each teacher, in progression reads it, there is immediately an idea that this child must be watched: He is expected to do wrong and that, as any trained teacher knows, is disastrous for the pupil.

This idea is an old one for me. It was set in my mind by one of the first teachers I had in this country. When one of us did wrong she gave us a minus. Then she told us that, of course, we did not want to go to bed that night with a black minus on our conscience, so we must work it off by earning three plus marks. We had our tongues out trying to earn those three plus marks. To leave the classroom that afternoon without clearing one's record was unthinkable.

It does seem to me that a pupil ought to be granted opportunity for clearing his record before he goes to the next class. If he were told that unless he worked hard to prove his good intentions, and his growth in goodness, he would have to carry this bad mark through school, he would, I believe, do his best.

Then, too, a child's reputation is a force for his growth or his undoing. That is why I believe that a teacher would better not tell the next teacher that So-and-So is a terror. Children change from day to day, from term to term. What a child does under the influence of one teacher he is not likely to do in association with another. He should be growing better, more intelligent, term after term, and passing along his errors will not help him at all. Give him a chance. Let him forget the past and look toward a better day.

Is your child afraid of the dark, or has he some other fear that makes his life miserable? Dr. Patri tells how to guard against fears in his leaflet "Fears." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N.Y.

The initial cost of installation would be about $600, he added.

New officers installed were Mrs. Robert Haddock, president; Mrs. J. M. Murphy, first vice president; Mrs. V. C. Ross, second vice president, and Sue Tovey, treasurer. Mrs. Arthur Hall, secretary, was not present. The PTA decided to send letters to all business establishments in the city asking them to check reading material on sale and if there is any that would not be desirable for young people to read to eliminate it. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Donald Sandy and Mrs. Joe Boyles gave the treasurer's report. Hostesses were Mrs. Don Schmidt, Mrs. Joseph McLeod, Mrs. W. R. Burkett, Mrs. Robert Parkhurst, Mrs. Clyde Hughes, Mrs. Elden Guthrie and Mrs. John Urrutia.

Panel Is Selected For Safety Work

WENDELL, April 22—A committee was appointed by the Gooding County Safety Council at a meeting here Tuesday night to work on the child safety crusade which is to open Sunday. The council also decided to become affiliated with the Idaho chapter of the National Safety Council.

Members of the Crusade committee are Mrs. R. M. Shaver, LeRoy Gobble, Earl Skidmore and Mrs. Omer Fricke, all Gooding. A paper on child safety, prepared by L. J. Peterson, director of the Idaho state health unit, was read at the meeting.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, April 22—Gary Westcott and Darrell Sweet, both Twin Falls; Dwaine Griffith, Gooding, and Bud Duffy, Buhl, have been pledged by the University of Idaho chapter of Intercollegiate Knights.

Mystery

CLIFTON, Ore., April 22 (AP)—This fishing community on the Columbia river added to the Pacific northwest's confusion over things falling from the skies. A coating of yellow dust fell here Tuesday at the river's mouth, had a powdering of shiny black pellets Saturday and they were back there again Tuesday.

But here, it was a dust rather than pellets. It was the color of sulphur and that led some to conjecture that it came from Longview or St. Helens paper mills farther upriver. The paper mills said, however, their plants are fixed to prevent such discharges.

School Funds Are Reported

Quarterly apportionment of money to Twin Falls county schools is announced by Mrs. Doris Stradley county superintendent of education.

Schools and their allotments are: Sylvania district No. 10, $3.88; Fairview district No. 24, $13.22; Lucerne district No. 25, $21.97; Deep Creek district No. 27, $40.09.

Roseworth district No. 51, $8.93; Superior district No. 54, $1.27; Three Creek joint district No. 418, 10 cents.

Class A school district allotments are: Twin Falls district No. 411, $2,559.73; Buhl joint district No. 412, $938.45; Filer district No. 413, $840.85; Kimberly district No. 414, $385.47; Hansen district No. 415 B, $201.50; Castleford joint independent district No. 8, $195.69; Murtaugh independent district No. 9, $262.29; and Burley joint district No. 151, $8.17.

Council to Install 5 Traffic Lights

RUPERT, April 22—Rupert city council Tuesday night decided to purchase five sets of traffic lights at a cost of approximately $1,200 to be installed at the five street intersections on the village square.

The council also decided to investigate the possibility of installing a sewer and pump in the Idaho Realty Housing district. The district originally voted to form an improvement district for the work but the bonds have not been sold. Installation of the sewer and a pump will cost approximately $10,000.

Enforcement of the ordinance requiring all residences to be hooked onto existing sewers also was decided upon by the council.

Negotiated Peace in Indochina Now Is Acceptable to America

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—The United States has made it plain to the world that it will welcome a negotiated peace in Indochina as long as it is "honorable" and is not a surrender to red China.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon declared this emphatically in a Cincinnati, O., speech Tuesday night. Secretary of State John A. Foster Dulles said about the same thing a few hours earlier.

It was learned the two statements were aimed at European fear-fanned by Soviet propaganda—that the United States is determined to block any kind of negotiated settlement in Indochina at next week's momentous Geneva conference.

Foreign diplomats here welcomed the conciliatory words. They were not unduly optimistic, however, about the chances of getting a settlement agreeable to both the United States and the communists.

Nixon declared that Dulles would "stand in opposition to any settlement which means surrender in Indochina" at Geneva. He warned that Indochina's loss could shift the world balance of power so that "the Kremlin would think it is time for a world war."

The administration's goal, said the vice president, is to try to hold Indochina without committing U. S. troops, "if we can." He said the policy now being developed offers the best chance for doing this.

As he left for Europe and the Geneva meeting, Dulles said this country would seek a peace in Indochina "on honorable terms" but he bluntly charged the communists with stepping up their "reckless" aggression.

Sen. Alexander Wiley, R., Wis., chairman of the foreign relations committee, said in an interview yesterday that he feels "there are good prospects for getting somewhere" at Geneva. He also was "optimistic" about the chances for allied unity.

Meanwhile:

1. Rep. Frederic R. Coudert, Jr., R., N. Y., said he has asked the house armed services committee to act on his bill to bar the President from committing U. S. troops any where in the world without specific prior approval of congress.

2. Sen. John F. Kennedy, D., Mass., declared in a Chicago speech Tuesday night that "the American people should be told the truth about the situation" since "the statements of administration officials are to be taken at face value, 'we are about to enter the jungle to do battle with the tiger.'"

3. Sen. William E. Jenner, R., Ind., said no Americans should be allowed to fight in Asia until nationalistic Chinese and South Korean forces are turned loose against red China.

4. Sen. Gay M. Gillette, D., Ia., introduced a resolution in which the senate would ask President Eisenhower to place the whole Indochina question before the United Nations.

Examination Set

HAGERMAN, April 22—An examination to fill the position of rural mail carrier at Hagerman has been announced by Arthur I. Dennis, postmaster.

Dennis said applications to take the examination must be on file with the U. S. civil service commission in Washington not later than May 13. Full information and application blanks can be obtained at the Hagerman postoffice.

Building Splurge Is Peril to Timber Supply; Lumbermen Fight to Save It

PORTLAND, April 22 (AP)—The nation's home-building splurge is ripping into its timber resources. And some are asking today: Are man, insects and fire slowly but surely destroying our forests?

The helicopter, some byproducts of the atom bomb, the latest in insect-killing even rat poison—are being used by lumbermen to fight this threat.

Federal and state laws act as watchdogs to see that the vast timberlands still left aren't squandered to meet the nation's big postwar demand for construction materials. More than two-thirds of the timberlands are government-owned.

Commercial lumbermen in the Pacific northwest—conscious of the public's memory of the old "stripping" days when timberlands were denuded for quick profits in lumber—instituted new forestry methods, forest farming and other types of conservation, assure the nation of a fairly constant supply of new timber.

There are enough trees standing in the 12-state western pine region—from the eastern slopes of the Cascade mountains to the western borders of Texas and the Dakotas—to build 50 million five-room houses, according to S. V. Fullaway, Jr., manager of the Western Pine association.

He adds that since 1933 the lumber companies and government agencies have developed a code of forest practices to insure the region's lasting future as a timber source.

In the pine regions the rules now call for the cutting only of ripe trees, leaving the young ones. They grow fast when the old ones are out of their way, and the area reseeds itself.

Different practices are followed in the Douglas fir region. This is a strip from the western slopes of the Cascade mountains to the Pacific coast having the heavy rainfall fir requires.

The West Coast Lumbermen's association, representing the majority of Douglas fir lumber companies in Washington, Oregon and northern California, say block cutting works fine there. Square chunks are felled from the forest, with standing trees left all around in a checkerboard pattern. These reseed the cut areas.

The young trees "grow up like wheat" seeking the sunlight they need, unlike the pine that can grow in the shade. But a good seedling year may come along only every six or seven years. So some companies have taken to seeding the cut areas from planes, or planting seedlings by hand. But nature throws a curve at the seedling process, too. Forest rodents grow fat on the airborne seeds. The association reports that some lumbermen now use helicopters to strewn poison grain first. After the rodents have feasted on that for a while, the seedling planes fly over. Before rodents from other parts of the forest find their way to the area, the seeds have a chance to sprout.

It takes years for the new trees to reach cutting stage—how many depends on the various species, the amount of sun and rainfall available and the uses for which they are being harvested.

And all the time they run the risk of death by disease or insects.

Scientist Says Cloud-Seeding Isn't Yet Proved Rain-Maker

SALT LAKE CITY, April 22 (AP)—A University of Utah meteorology professor says that research to date has failed to show whether or not cloud-seeding experiments in southern Utah have actually produced rain.

The statement was made by Dr. J. Vern Hales for the Western Snow conference and Colorado river basin water forecast committee.

The three-year rain-making experiment has been conducted in 11 southern Utah counties by Water Resources Development corporation, Denver, and Hales said residents paying for the experiments are not "dupes." Instead, he said, they are helping to advance one of the world's newest sciences—that of weather control.

The snow conference ended with a field trip to avalanche areas in the Alta ski resort region. In other discussions, the meeting was told that science has set up procedures which made valid forecasts of water supplies possible by measurement of snow packs.

Named chairman of the snow conference was A. E. Heilmann, Spokane. He succeeds William A. Lang, Los Angeles.

Sales for Stores Slipped in March

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22 (AP)—March was a bleak month for department stores in the seven far western states comprising the 12th federal reserve district. An important factor was the late Easter this year.

A report yesterday from the Federal Reserve bank of San Francisco shows that every reporting city experienced a decline in dollar sales during the month as compared with March, 1953.

The declines ranged from 4 per cent to 20 per cent, with the bulk of them from 10 per cent up.
