Legal Ruling Is Sought for Surplus Plan

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The nation's top law officer has been asked to rule on the legality of a proposal to stop the buildup of the government's huge dairy surpluses.

He added that no matter what Brownell's decision is, and the decision is expected next week, it may not be until after June that a butter disposal plan is put into operation.

Snags have held up a decision on the matter since the start of this year. Now officials feel that the flush milk production season, now getting into full swing, would be the worst possible time for the government to try to unload some of its 360,000,000 pound butter surplus.

The official said Brownell was asked to rule on the subsidy proposal after Secretary Ezra T. Benson last week outlined to the house agriculture committee difficulties encountered in plans now under study which are clearly allowed by existing law.

The department's solicitor has ruled that the subsidy plan is not allowed under existing law. Benson said there is "grave doubt" that a disposal plan could be developed "within the framework of present law." He asked the committee to "consider whether the law should be changed" to permit the subsidy plan.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday the veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' letters of general interest on national and international politics and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker, 6008 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"I am disgusted," exclaims T. K. Bridgeport, Conn., "with the consideration which Army Secretary Stevens gave to Buck Private Schine. So are all my friends, whose drafted sons never enjoyed such treatment. Dining with Schine's wealthy parents and inviting Schine to lunch! Giving him money and week-end passes!

"What do you think the effect of this sort of favoritism has on the rest of us 'dogfaces' and ex-O's, who on the parents of youngsters who fought under President Eisenhower in Europe and Korea?"

Answer: This is a tough question, but I have been asking it myself, and so have the mothers and fathers of youngsters who did not enjoy such treatment.

There is no apology for Stevens' behavior. No matter what the Mundt committee decides, and I predict that they will arrive at a compromising and a plague-on-both-your-houses conclusion, it is obvious that Stevens sought to curry favor and friendship with Senator McCarthy by being nice to Schine. A stronger character would have treated Schine as just another guy in uniform.

BUT NO COMMISSION GRANTED—However, and recognizing that McCarthy and Cohn's main effort was to obtain a commission for the pampered millionaire's son, Stevens deserves credit for finally withholding this honor. It must also be recalled that during this period even President Eisenhower was trying to effect a workable agreement with the man from Wisconsin.

Finally, as I know from my newspaper experience, and a short stretch as an administrative assistant to former Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau, every executive agency has orders to cooperate with congress, congressional committees and individual members. After all, congress controls the public purse.

"Why," inquires M. K. Houston, Tex., "did the senate send the Tait-Hartley amendment bill back to committee, which means, I suppose that there will be no revision of the national labor law at this session?"

Answer: The recommission action was a triumph for Minority Leader Lyndon Johnson, Tex. He marshaled all 48 Democrats against the revisionary measure, with 46 on the floor and two paired in the negative. Three Republicans and the lone Independent, Senator Wayne Morse, Ore., also lined up against the Eisenhower-sponsored legislation.

EXISTING STATUTE PREFERABLE—Most of the northern Democrats figured that their vote would maintain their party's 20-year alliance with the labor vote. However, southern members of a conservative philosophy also voted against passage. They did so despite the fact that the bill restored considerable power over labor problems to the states, which would have permitted the south to enact lenient laws stimulating emigration of industries to their areas. They felt that the existing statute was preferable to the White House substitute. They did not like the requirement of a pre-strike vote.

The fact is that even many who voted for the amended bill are not unhappy over its rejection. Numerous Republicans facing reelection felt that changing the law might hurt their ballot-box chances, in view of organized labor's opposition. It was largely a question of "let well enough alone."

"In my opinion," writes G. L. Springfield, Mass., "Secretary Dulles' television address after his return from Geneva was a confession of diplomatic failure. What do you think?"

Answer: I think I answered this question in columns published before the Dulles address. In a sense, it was a confession of failure, but it was a magnificent apology.

DULLES EXPLAINED FAILURE—For once, an American secretary of state has taken the people into his confidence. He told them of what he tried to do and why he failed. He also offered the hope that his projected and more carefully planned experiment in collective security in the Orient and southeast Asia may succeed in checking communist expansion in this vital area.

POT SHOTS

RESULTS

Dear Pots:

Guess you got results again. That little note about the scarcity of baseball tickets was published on Wednesday and right the very next day someone showed up at my favorite joint, or, establishment, with a new supply of tickets. Picked up all that dough that's been lying around, too. Understand the same thing happened at all the other places.

If you can guarantee results like that, maybe we'd better start letting the Cowboys know what they can do to get a crowd in the ball park. There are any number of ways to draw a crowd to any event. Why don't they try giving away door prizes at the game? Or something. I'd like to see something done. After all, a guy gets awfully lonesome out there!

FAILURE!

Pot Shots has experienced a miserable failure. Not a single reader bothered to ask about that offer for a vacation in Arkansas. Of course, you can understand it. Who'd want to spend their vacation in Arkansas when they can stay in Idaho?

PUPS FOR KIDS DEPT.

The owners say this little pooch will be a fine pet for some little boy or girl. Full of life and loves to romp and play. They believe the dog may be a border collie. Anyway, the pooch is right at home among stock and could be trained for a stock dog, too. Six miles south and about half a mile west of Five Points east. Another case of too many dogs.

This female cocker spaniel will never have maternal problems. She's 5 years old, black and has had dumper shots. You can pick her up at the F. L. Dodson place on the north side of the street in the second block west of Dr. Knight's office in Kimberly.

Dear Pots:

We have a puppy we would like to see have a good home. He is small, brown and black, about 6 months old. He is a sheep dog and would make a fine pet for a baby.

NO MUSIC YET

Pot Shots:

Here's to thank all those who sent me the words to the song I requested recently (My Old Pal of Yesterday). However, I failed to get the music to the song!

Please, doesn't anyone have the music? The music stores can't get it. Or can anyone tell me where I can get the music?

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

GENEVA—The communists have once more put forward an all-or-nothing demand. The proposals by the Vietnamese delegation for ending the Indochinese war would leave the independent governments of Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia almost wholly at the mercy of the communist forces, both the regular battalions and irregulars so widely dispersed in most of Viet Nam.

The pattern is identical with the Molotov security pact for western Europe and the North Korean proposals for "unification" of Korea. All "foreign troops" are to withdraw, meaning, of course, French troops.

Red China, next door to Indochina, would backstop the communist take-over once French forces had been evacuated. In the same way Russia, on the doorstep of western Europe, would, under the Molotov security pact put forward at Berlin, facilitate the march of communism after American troops had been withdrawn.

It is hard to believe that the communists intend these proposals to be taken seriously even in an opening or bargaining phase. As propaganda, they will have a specious appeal in many parts of the world, including, perhaps, even in France where there is a deep weariness with the eight-year-old war and an upsurge of emotionalism stirred by the fall of Dien Bien Phu.

France must find a scapegoat, and little Bidault, who has put forward proposals for firm armistice zones, may be the victim along with other members of the Laniel cabinet responsible for the war's conduct.

The French must quickly find help in order to maintain the precarious hold they still have. General Navarre in Indochina has now said publicly what French cabinet ministers had begun to say privately a month ago—that the war must be internationalized since it is evident that the peace could not be internationalized. This seems to pass the decision at least momentarily back to America and specifically to the highest level in Washington.

The Bidault proposals call for disarming the irregular guerrilla forces infiltrated in great numbers particularly throughout the Red river delta. This goes to the heart of the French fear that as the military situation deteriorates reprisals may be taken against French civilians in a blood bath coming as a climax to years of hatred and savage warfare.

The Vietnamese proposals say nothing about these irregular forces, just as they ignore the intervention of China in providing increasingly substantial aid to the troops of Ho Chi Minh.

As to the future of this unhappy conference, the Americans aimed not at resolving outstanding conflicts but winning adherents among the wavering and among those who dread a World War with atomic and hydrogen weapons.

In the American delegation there is something like a sense of relief that the communist terms were so hard as to exclude any dubious compromise that might seem to allow a reasonable settlement but that, in fact, merely postpone the communist take-over. American officials continue to hope that the all-or-nothing demand of the communists may stiffen the French will to resist.

On this latter score there is no such optimism within the British delegation, where it has long been held that France had to find peace and quickly.

The British continue, therefore, to cling to the hope that with patient negotiation the communists will yield on some points so that at least a halfway respectable settlement can come out of Geneva. That obviously would mean weeks of effort, and here timing is of the essence.

Without a cease-fire that would end the shooting pending a settlement, the French position in Indochina is almost certain to deteriorate. Even with a cease-fire that left the irregulars armed, the French position is perilous. Consequently, a prolonged diplomatic chess game at Geneva would seem to be ruled out.

In Korea and in western Germany American and allied troops are holding a line of demarcation. No such line exists in Indochina. The French steadily resisted outside "interference" in their war until only a few weeks ago when they appealed for massive American air support for Dien Bien Phu.

The immediate task is to draw a line in southeast Asia that may halt the advance of communism beyond the borders of Indochina. In Singapore, Washington and London talks to this end are going forward. But as so often in the past the hour is very late.

Is That So!

by Eugene Burns
Angler Loves to Clutch This Skin

The fish's body covering, the skin, is remarkable in many ways. Unlike man's, the outermost part which meets the world is alive, it secretes a heavy lubricating fluid to speed its passage through water, and it houses the scales—remnants of a prehistoric coat of mail.

Like the skin of any other backboned animal, the fish's skin is composed of two layers—a thin outer one made up of simple cells which are being worn away constantly by wear and tear and then replaced; and an inner layer which contains muscle fibers, blood vessels and nerves.

The thin outer layer is composed of living cells and remains alive in the fish. With a mammal this is not true—the living skin is covered with several layers of hardened cells which are dead. The reason that the fish can wear his living skin on his sleeve is because he lives in a liquid—a basic requirement of all living cells whether plant or animal. Exposed to air a cell dies.

However, even the fish doesn't expose its living skin entirely. The skin constantly pours out a slippery coating. In some fish, like the pickerel and lamprey, this slimy secretion is quite heavy. Others like the carp exude comparatively little.

This slime does many things, all quite marvelous. First, it gives the fish better mileage—it cuts down friction and enables the fish to coast along more easily—thus stepping up its speed while reducing its fuel consumption. Next, the slime helps make the fish water-tight; otherwise it might dry out in salt water or take on too much fresh water and become water-logged. Finally, this mucous coating protects the fish from invading fungus, bacteria and other parasites with which the water abounds.

Beneath the living skin of many fish is dead material—the scales which are just as dead as our fingernails. These scales, which result from the activity of the skin, are similar in structure and in development to the fish's teeth. In fact, experts say that the fish's teeth developed from the scales.

In the great majority of fish, a layer of skin covers the body. In a few this skin is next to invisible. In others, as the eastern brook trout, it is fairly heavy, making the fish more flexible. In others, like the skin covering is so thick that scales cannot even be seen. In the earliest known scales are known to be serving as armor plates. Then as the fish became more flexible, these armor-plates became more flexible. The fact is obvious: It broke the plates into small sections.

When the tiny fish broke out of the egg, it was covered with a few scales. A few fish today retain that way throughout life for protection. The scales, tough and leathery, last a long time. The fish's majority clothes themselves early in life. The scales modestly gets the better of the fish is a half-inch salmon and trout with scales are an inch or two long. The number of scales does not vary. Hence to the part of the body assigned to scale keeps growing in size with the fish.

What one sees, of course, the whole scale—only the top and this is the much more and should the scale be removed and grow a new one.

In trout and salmon, the scales are always smooth to the touch so with the bass. It is rough because the exposed part of the scale is smooth, but covered with tiny teeth.

Naturally every good fisherman should be concerned with the handling of a fish should be handled to be released. With dry hands, for years experts have used wet hands—were better to them, dry hands remove and permitted fungus to get in. More recently, experts have shown that wet or dry makes no difference. The important thing to avoid removing any more than is necessary, handle carefully, don't squeeze, and turn it to the water gently.

OPEN HOUSE AT THE HOSPITAL

It will be a pleasant experience for everyone in this vicinity who has not inspected Magic Valley Memorial hospital to take advantage of its open house this afternoon and evening in local observance of National Hospital week.

Even those who attended the first open house when the hospital was dedicated in 1951 will gain some satisfaction from taking one of the tours of inspection today.

Those who never have gone through the hospital before probably will be amazed at its size and all its equipment and accommodations. Surely, they will have a better understanding of what the taxpayers of Twin Falls county received for their share of the $1,800,000 investment in hospital facilities.

All those making a return visit will be pleased to note the care the hospital has been given since it was first opened to the public. It shows every evidence of being in good hands.

Still having the appearance of being brand new, Magic Valley Memorial will be displayed to even better advantage today, with all its flower gardens and landscaping.

More important than all these things thus far mentioned, however, will be the knowledge the public will gain today from the standpoint of individual patient care at the hospital.

The entire hospital personnel, in preparing for the open house this week-end, has had patient care foremost in mind. All this will be explained and displayed in detail so the people may appreciate fully the exceptional care any patient may expect when he enters the institution.

It will be good for the hospital, its personnel and for the people themselves if there is a representative turnout for the open house today. When we talk about public relations, this is an exceptional opportunity for everyone to demonstrate his interest in Magic Valley Memorial.

This could well mark the beginning of a new manifestation of public support, which perhaps is the one thing our new hospital needs more than anything else.

SAME COCKY HARRY

As relaxed as an old shoe and as corny as a barrel of his native Missouri moonshine, ex-President Harry S. Truman went back to Washington to wow a capacity audience at a National Press club luncheon.

"I haven't seen as many people here," said Harry, himself a dues-paying member of the club, "since Lauren Bacall sat on the piano."

This was a flash-back to 1945, when Truman as vice president played an accompaniment for the sultry-eyed movie star who sat cross-legged on the upright piano. Pictures of that chesecake art got Truman into his first trouble after leaving the U. S. senate for higher office.

But he wasn't mad about that, or at anybody, during this return engagement to the scene of his earlier "crime."

He made a serious speech about "Unity and Bipartisanship in Foreign Policy."

Let it be recorded that he was feeling no pain and was as full of cracks as a buggy whip.

The first question which Press Club President Ernest P. Vaccaro relayed to Mr. Truman in a lively 25-round Q. and A. bout after the speech was, "Are you in favor of bringing the rascals back?"

Mr. Truman said he was heartily in favor of it, and was doing everything he could to bring it about. They were all there, by the way, at two head tables—ex-Secretary of State Dean Acheson in a loud vest, retired Maj.-Gen. Harry Vaughan, Don Dawson, Clark Clifford, former RFO Administrator Harry McDonald—and for good measure, John L. Lewis and a dozen others.

It was homecoming day all over the lot, and a cockier kind of Democrats you never saw.

Mr. Truman was asked if he still believed a majority of the newspapers of the U. S. were Republican. He said he still did, and added, "When they get the other way, then I'll know I'm wrong."

WHICH GOAL?

We see it's finally settled that the 1956 Olympic games will be held in Melbourne, Australia. It'll be interesting now to see whether the Soviet union decides to participate, as it did at Helsinki in 1952.

The Kremlin may be a little leery about sending a flock of prize athletes down under.

Not long ago Comrade Petrov, a top MVD agent, and his wife defected in Australia. The Russians got mad and pulled up diplomatic stakes. So who will be around in 1956 to keep an eye on the athletes?

Without the stern surveillance of the secret police, some of those Soviet running stars might decide to keep on running right out of the stadium.

Freedom might look like a better goal than breasting the winner's tape.

A judge says some wives are affectionate only when they want spending money. Isn't that often enough?

DEAN FOR COLLEGE Will Retire Soon

IDAHO STATE COLLEGE, Pocatello, May 15—Dean Emeritus Eugene O. Leonard, director of research and professor of pharmacy at the college of pharmacy, Idaho State college, will retire at the end of this academic year.

Under his leadership and guidance, said President Carl W. McIntosh, "pharmacy developed from a small department of less than baccalaureate level to the present college of pharmacy ranking high in the opinion of all."

Dean Leonard has been at ISC since 1918. In 1940 he turned over the direction of the college of pharmacy to a former student, Emmons E. Roscoe, and devoted his time to research and teaching.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, May 15—Jane Remsburg and Sandra Slavin, both Rupert; Elenor Henry, Gooding, and Sue McMahon, Jerome, have been tapped for membership in Spurs, sophomore women's service organization at the University of Idaho.

Views of Others

MR. TRUMAN ADVISES

The dignity that is supposed to be associated with former presidents of the United States brushed off Harry S. Truman rather quickly. Reverting to what has been termed as "give 'em hell" platform pose, he suggests how President Eisenhower should handle several important current matters. It seems the country is to have Mr. Truman's idea of the way things should be run even though the election made it rather plain his policies were not wanted.

Additionally, Mr. Truman proved that his skin is still as tender as the time he wrote the blistering letter to the critic who said daughter Margaret wasn't the best singer in the business. Now Joe McCarthy is under his hide, but good, with the Wisconsin senator's frank and honest appraisal of the communist activity through the years of the Democratic administration—Roosevelt's and Truman's.

It is good to see Mr. Truman squirm under the spotlight even though a lot of people who were blind under Democrat rule still do not have their eyes completely open. We like to believe the only reason Mr. Truman has reversed himself, and repudiated his plan for retirement, is that he is so vulnerable to criticism, and he never could stand criticism.

Mr. Eisenhower is doing fairly well when it comes to leaning in the direction of Truman's policies. In fact, he is doing this to a degree that is alarming to Republicans who remember his campaign promises. This, in itself, is sufficiently unpleasant without the "give 'em hell" rantings of perhaps one of the weaker presidents of all time.

It is regrettable that Mr. Truman's time is not fully occupied in Missouri—Boise Statesman.

PEOPLE HAVE RIGHT TO BE INFORMED

Dismissal of libel suits against two Idaho newspapers by Federal Judge Chase A. Clark is first of all vindication of the right to criticize fairly and constructively and the right of the public to be informed. Judge Clark was wise and reasonable in telling the jury that "we must be careful lest we stifle the press and speech, let us find ourselves as many other people find themselves today, fearful of speaking and having a press subservient to any group."

"Judges and all public officers are subject to criticism if the criticism is fair and honest," he said. "The interest of the public here outweighs the interest of the plaintiff or any other individual."

That is the essence of the code of reputable newspapers, and the danger of which Judge Clark spoke, were it not for that code, would be a very real one. The people of Argentina were deprived of a strong guarantee of liberty through suspension by the government of one of the world's great newspapers, La Prensa. Publication has been resumed, but with the paper, virtually a government mouthpiece.—Spokane Chronicle.

THE COLONEL'S PROMOTION

From Paris comes word that Col. Christian de Castries, commander of the beleaguered French Union forces holding Dien Bien Phu, has been recommended for promotion to brigadier general. However, it is said that the cabinet will delay decision in line with a French tradition that an officer should not be promoted while engaged in a battle yet to be won or lost. Certainly Colonel de Castries has been given a responsibility and a force substantially beyond his rank. He is said earlier to have remarked wryly to a visitor that he was the only colonel in the world in command of a division. His courage has evidently infused his troops with remarkable esprit de corps.

Tradition, of course, is tradition and the military would be in a bad way without it. But readers and listeners around the world who have followed the defense of Dien Bien Phu must be satisfied already that Colonel de Castries has earned his star, win or lose.—Christian Science Monitor.

Grade School Pupils Vie in Field Session

Several hundred Lutheran grade school children from Buhl and Clover traveled to Twin Falls Friday to compete with boys and girls of the Memorial Lutheran school in the annual field day, high point of their spring athletic program.

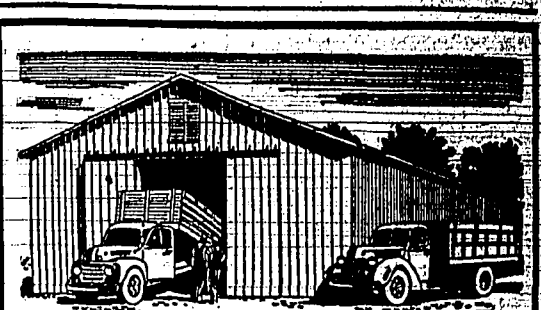

Boys and girls competed individually to win ribbons for the first five places in the track and field events. First, second and third places were awarded in relay races.

Competition was held in four divisions based on grade level, with the boys taking part in the broad and high jump, shot put, baseball throw and 60-yard dash. The girls competed in the broad jump, step-skip-and-jump, baseball throw and 60-yard dash.

The 350 children took time out for a picnic lunch with their parents after completing most of the individual events, followed by school competition in the 240-yard relays.

In the girls' relays, Memorial won the A division race and Clover took first in the B-division. Runners from Memorial were victors in both divisions of the boys' relays.

Colleges grew out of the voluntary association of students and teachers at universities.

Devastating Blow Dealt Plans to Pipe New Mexico Natural Gas to Northwest

By PAT MURPHY
WASHINGTON Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, May 15 (Special) — The legal staff of the federal power commission has dealt a devastating blow to plans to pipe natural gas from New Mexico to the Pacific Northwest.
At the same time the staff dealt a blow to the idea of bringing gas down from northern British Columbia. However, it recommended this week against certifying either route.
The applicants will file replies to the staff's findings on May 24, the full commission will hear all sides June 1 and a final verdict may be expected around Aug. 1. The commission follows staff views something like 60 per cent of the time.
The prospects for conducting a "salvage" operation on the Canadian project (Westcoast Transmission company, Ltd.) appear good in the next few months. The staff was particularly critical of the fact that the line "has not been finally located" and that weather conditions in a chosen pass through the Rockies may be extremely arduous. The Canadians contend, too, that huge new funds of gas (since August, 1959) greatly boost their reserve picture.
The staff says, too, that either proposal would be too expensive for serving the inland empire of eastern Washington and northern Idaho. This area likely will be served in time from southern Alberta, with northern British Columbia going to Seattle, Tacoma, Portland and San Francisco.
Look at these unkind points the staff made against Pacific Northwest Pipeline corporation (largely dominated by Phillips Petroleum):
1. "This line is designed to operate at peak capacity in the third year of operation. It is difficult to understand why such a lean design was presented... (the line was designed with a sharp pencil)."
Under this design the market requirements north of Portland cannot be met. The markets north of Portland which Pacific desires to serve represent a peak day demand in the third year of 78,888,000 cubic feet. The line design only permits delivery of 58,870,000.
"The pressure in the pipeline on the peak day in the third year would be zero immediately six miles south of Seattle. This situation would be aggravated to an even greater extent if service is contemplated for Vancouver, B. C."
2. "If a well spacing of 320 acres is used (practice insisted upon by New Mexico in the San Juan fields), the proposed withdrawal cannot be met beyond the second year. From the evidence in this record Pacific cannot meet its requirements beyond the second or third year."
In a separate report the staff was quite rough on the proposal of Colorado Interstate company to affiliate with Pacific. Colorado proposed to tap Pacific's line at Rock Springs, Wyo., then run a 21-inch line 365 miles to Denver.
The staff found:
1. Colorado doesn't have enough market for its present supply (this argument doesn't appear a very strong one).
2. "Although the contract with Pacific commits the latter to a maximum daily firm obligation of 100,000,000 cubic feet, Colorado Interstate assumes it will receive 138,000,000 cubic feet on the peak day in the third year of operation."
3. Once the gas is laid down in Denver (at $32 per thousand cubic feet) there'd be no market for it "because the cost of coal to large industrial users in the Denver area is in the range of 23 to 25 cents per million BTU. Coal is plentiful in Colorado. Two industrial customers have curtailed their estimated gas requirements because of the lower price on competitive fuels."
About one-fourth of Pacific's total load was to be sold to Colorado Interstate.
What this means is that El Paso Natural Gas company may be able to capture the Colorado market with the an intra-state line. An affiliate, Colorado Western Natural Gas company, has applied for a line running from Durango, Colo., to Denver. Hearings have been held before the Colorado public service commission. El Paso claims it can serve the market several cents cheaper than Colorado Interstate can (with Pacific gas).
If El Paso can get the Colorado market, this would kill off Pacific's line. It's unlikely, however, that any decision will be made on the state line until the federal matter is settled.
With Pacific permanently out of the way, El Paso will be free to ship increasing quantities of gas to California and the Midwest.
Just when southern Idaho and eastern Oregon ever will get gas in that event is not clear.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

At what age can a child be expected to select his life work and on that decision base his future education and training? Age is not the basis for such a grave decision. Children 10 years old have been known to make a wise decision on this question, while others, equally intelligent, have not had the power to make the decision until graduation from secondary school.

For this reason I look with a wary eye on the practice of asking pupils in their ninth year of elementary school what courses they intend to follow and, on their decision, grade them and send them to specific schools—professional, vocational, industrial and the like.

Guidance as practiced in the crowded city schools does not seem too sure a guide. The teachers have so many students to advise and therefore know little about the pupils' peculiar gifts and weaknesses. To be sure there are the records, but records are made by teachers and they, too busy and completely occupied with lesson routines, can be misled by surface indications.

Then, too, there is the state of development of the pupil to be studied. This is really the basis for any such decision—and who is to make it? A pupil who develops slowly, and there are many intelligent students who do, and who shows no marked talents, no special aptitudes for a long time, is likely to be shunted into the wrong place to his later disappointment and grief.

We should not be in a hurry to get pupils classified. Only when their strengths, aptitudes and characters seem clearly and unmistakably marked should they be classified permanently. Some such classification needs to be made in our larger school systems, but there should be no finality about it, so that when a student discovers that he is in the wrong school he has an open door to the right one for him.

Take, for example, a pupil who has shown ability in music, science and art while doing good work in the basic subjects. He is undecided where to go after graduation from junior high school. Music? He likes that. Science? He thrills to that. Art? Just wonderful but could he earn a living at it? He talks with the guidance teacher. She studies his record and says, "Wouldn't you like to be a scientist?" and pictures Einstein, Pasteur and Darwin. Science it is.

Two years afterward this boy, following a very unsettled period, enters medical school. Let's give them time, and a flexible program. There is no finality in youth else why youth?

At some time or another every child develops some habit which is annoying, but this habit can be broken by substituting a good habit in its place. Dr. Patri tells how this is done in his booklet No. 302. To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 95, Station U, New York 19, N. Y.

MAGIC VALLEY LOSES TIGHT 3-0 PITCHERS' DUEL TO IDAHO FALLS

Utley Limits Cowboys to Four Safeties; Bob Faust Goes Distance for Locals

IDAHO FALLS, May 15 (AP)—Magic Valley was blanked 3-0 by Idaho Falls Saturday night as Lanky Ewell Utley hurled a four-hit Pioneer league game for the Russetts.

Utley pitched two of his four hits off the left hander in the first inning. But Utley wiggled out of that jam. Single bingles in the seventh and ninth were the only other hits for the Cowboys. The Magic Valley club also got a fine pitching performance as Bob Faust held the Russetts to six hits.

The Russetts went into the lead in the first inning. Bill Shields slapped out a single, then moved to third on a hit-and-run play with manager Bobby Mavis moving around. Tom Barna brought Shields in with a long sacrifice fly. Faust then whipped Ben Mateosky and John Mack to end the inning.

In the second, Charlie Neal led off with a single for Idaho Falls. Jerry Streeter bunted for second. Bur's single and finally scored on Shields' single to center.

Mateosky ended the scoring with a tremendous line drive home over the left field wall in the eighth. Magic Valley got a new outfielder Saturday when Al Berger joined the club. He patrolled center field.

The Cowboys will play a single game with the same club at 2 p. m. Sunday. Manager Everett Robinson has named Jim Stoddard to hurl for the Cowboys. Stoddard won his opening game with the Cowboys against Great Falls.

Williams Fails to Help Bosox in First Attempt

The first two appearances at the plate of Ted Williams failed to avert a 2-1 defeat Saturday for the Boston Red Sox by the Baltimore Orioles in a pitching battle between winner Joe Coleman and Truman Clevenger. Williams, after missing the first 18 games with a shoulder he fractured March 1 on his first day of spring training, fled out and grounded out in two times at the plate in Baltimore. He also played left field in the eighth inning and had no chances after coming in as a pinch hitter in the seventh.

Powered by homers off the bats of Al Rosen and Bob Ayala, the Cleveland Indians defeated the Washington Nationals 5-4 sweeping a three-game series in Cleveland.

In Chicago Carl Sawatski smashed a single over the left field fence with two out in the ninth inning, scoring Bob Boyd with the winning run as the Chicago White Sox shaded the Philadelphia Athletics 7-5.

The victory kept the Hoos at the top of the standings. Virgil Trucks, third Chicago hurler, who pitched the ninth inning, was credited with three defeats. Rookie Leroy Wheat was charged with the loss in relief of Bob Trice for his initial major league decision.

The aroused New York Yankees swept to their fifth straight victory, hammering out a four-run lead in the first inning and defeating the Detroit Tigers 7-5 before 27,155 in Briggs stadium.

It was the Yanks' 10th victory in 12 games and kept them in a tie for second place with Cleveland, only one game behind the league-leading Chicago White Sox.

In Boston Carl Erskine shut out St. Louis with two hits 1-0 as Brooklyn scored the only run in the second inning on Ray Jablonski's two-base error and Billy Cox's single.

Erskine retired 17 Cardinals in succession from the third to the eighth.

Gran Manner's seventh inning single which scored Richie Ashburn from third base gave the Philadelphia Phillies the run they needed to beat the Cincinnati Reds 6-4 in Philadelphia.

Frankie Thomas clouted a double and a single as the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Milwaukee Braves 6-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Vernon Law in Pittsburgh.

In New York wild throws by Willie Mays and Jim Hearn in the sixth inning helped the Chicago Cubs snap the New York Giants' six-game winning streak 4-3 behind Johnny Klippstein's steady three-hit pitching.

Hiskey Leads Team To Golf Victory

COLORADO SPRINGS, May 15 (AP)—Marion (Sonny) Hiskey, former Twin Falls golfer, led his North Texas State college mates to the team championship in the eighth annual Colorado college invitational golf tournament Saturday.

Hiskey, a semifinalist in the National Collegiate tourney last year, won medalist honors with 218 for 54 holes at the mountain-hemmed Broadmoor course.

Three North Texas teammates tied for second place with identical totals of 221 to give the new champions a team mark of 881 for the top 4 players.

Snead Makes Mockery of Golf Tourney

WESTBURY, N. Y., May 15 (AP)—Sam Snead made a mockery of the Meadow Brook round robin golf tournament Saturday by shooting a 4-under-par 68—best round of the week—to stake himself to a virtually unbreakable 34-point lead.

Only a miracle can keep the 41-year-old Masters champion from clinching his third-round-robin title Sunday, and the miracles, it seems, are on Sam's side.

Snead's 32-34—68 over the 6,640-yard, par 35-37 course piled up 19 additional points in his favor for a grand total of 52 points.

This left the third round runner-up, Jimmy Demaret, and others in the field of 16 far in arrears.

Demaret, nine points back of the Slammar starting Saturday's fourth round, eked to a 75 and lost 11 points, throwing him back into fourth place in the standings.

Snead's closest challengers going into the fifth and final round were defending champion Cary Middlecoff, and young Jackie Burke, Jr., each with 18 plus points. Demaret followed with 13.

Teddy Burgess Hurls Four-Hitter As Valley Vikings Drop 10-0 Tilt

SHOSHONE, May 15—The Shoshone Indians won the fourth district class B baseball championship here Friday by blanking the Valley Vikings 10-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Teddy Burgess.

Burgess checked the Valley batsmen with four scattered singles, struck out 11 and walked only one going the route for the Indians.

Williams and Malavia both belted long doubles for Shoshone while Burgess accounted for two RBIs to help his own cause.

The Indians scored a single run in the opening frame and added another in the bottom of the fourth.

Royston, who started on the mound for the Vikings, found himself in constant hot water because of bases on balls.

In the fifth, the Indians really went to work and before the inning was over had tallied four runs to wrap up the game. They added another four in the bottom of the sixth and easily walked away with the Class B championship.

Feud Talk Starts After Mustang-Russet Episode

IDAHO FALLS, May 15 (AP)—Is a feud developing between the Billings and Idaho Falls entries in the Pioneer league?

So far in the fledgling 1954 season, there have been two rhubarbs which emptied both benches at Idaho Falls. And both melees involved the Russells and Billings.

The first action came April 25, when the 1954 season was less than a week old. It started when Mustang pitcher Jim Dunn collided with base runner Tom Sarna as Dunn was fielding Sarna's hit. It ended with all the players on the field, most of them just watching Dunn and Sarna slug it out. No one was ejected after that one.

But the principals in Thursday night's rhubarb were bouncier. They were Billings manager Cliff Dapper and Russet first baseman Charley Neal, who started with words as Dapper coached at first, and ended up with blows.

It took 20 minutes to restore order after both teams joined in a general free-for-all.

Later in the same inning, Russet catcher Ben Claridge collapsed while getting ready to bat, apparently from neck injuries suffered in the melee.

X-rays Friday showed no serious injury, but his doctor said he had severely strained neck muscles and would be out of action for several days.

Witnesses said it appeared that several men piled onto Claridge during the battle, and he was seen holding his neck as the fight ended.

Cougars Nip Vandals 2-1 On One-Hitter

PULLMAN, Wash., May 15 (AP)—Ron Webb allowed only one hit in eleven innings Friday as he pitched the Washington State Cougars to a 2-1 Northern division victory over Idaho.

He struck out nine men and walked only two in going the distance for WSC, and also scored the tying run in the fifth that sent the game into extra innings. Webb walked to first, moved to second on another walk off Idaho pitcher Dick Dodel and scored on Terry Sparks double.

The winning run came with two men down in the 11th. Jack Hardman doubled, Gordon Hersey walked and Webb hit a fly to left field which the Idaho fielder dropped, letting Hardman in with the winning run.

Idaho's lone run came in the third inning when Bob Helms walked, went to second on a passed ball and finished the route on two-infield outs. Frank Teversonbaugh got the lone hit off Webb in the fifth inning.

State Lands Sold In Elmore County

BOISE, May 15 (AP)—The state land commission yesterday announced the sale of 1,740,000 board feet of timber and 160 acres of grazing land in southwest Idaho for a total price of almost $30,000.

The Boise Logging company, Meridian, bought 1,400,000 board feet of ponderosa pine and douglas fir in Elmore county for the appraised price of $21,910. Another 250,000 board feet in Boise county went to W. O. Bedal, Crouch, for $2,935.

A 160-acre plot near Mountain Home went to Ralph Groefsema, Mountain Home, for $2,840.

Demos to Meet

GOODING, May 15—A Democratic rally will be held at 8 p. m. Monday at the Sorcha club rooms, John Newbrough, West Point, Democratic central committee chairman, announced.

Speakers expected at the meeting are Alvin McCormack, Lewiston, Democratic candidate for United States senator; Glen Taylor, Pocatello, also a candidate for the U. S. senate, and Charles Whitaker, Rupert, candidate for governor.

PROMOTED

KETCHUM, May 15—James C. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith, has been promoted to sergeant at the Miho air force base in Japan.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"Men of Wealth"

By RICHARD DEVILLERS, Pastor, First Christian Church

In 1933, a very important meeting was held at the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago. Attending the meeting were nine of the world's most successful financiers. Those present were:

1. The president of the world's largest independent company.
2. The president of the world's largest utility company.
3. The president of the world's largest gas company.
4. The world's greatest wheat speculator.
5. The president of the New York Stock Exchange.
6. A member of the cabinet of the President of the United States.
7. The greatest "bear" of Wall Street.
8. The head of the world's greatest monopoly.
9. The president of the bank of international settlements.

Here were gathered a group of the world's financial leaders, each with a personal fortune of tremendous proportions. Each had completely mastered the art of making money. Now, these few years later, these nine men appear as follows:

1. The president of the world's largest independent steel company, Charles Schwab, died a bankrupt after living on borrowed money for five years.
2. The president of the world's greatest utility company, Samuel Insull, died a penniless criminal in a foreign land.
3. The president of the world's largest gas company, Howard Hopson, is now insane.
4. The world's greatest wheat speculator, Arthur Cutten, died abroad, insolvent.
5. The President of the New York Stock Exchange, Richard Whitney, was recently released from Sing Sing penitentiary.
6. The member of the President's cabinet, Albert Fall, was pardoned from prison so that he could die at home.
7. The greatest "bear" of Wall Street, Jesse Livermore, died a suicide.
8. The head of the world's largest monopoly, Tyro Kruger, died a suicide.
9. The president of the Bank of International Settlements, Leon Fraser, died a suicide.

The above was printed in 1930 in "The Pilgrim's Progress" of Pomona. It is a strange tale. The obvious fact is that riches do not necessarily mean permanence of power or peace of mind.

The words of a truly great man question us all again. "What shall it profit a man if he gains the whole world and lose his soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

Car Strikes Boy Near Home Here

Jerry Neale, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Neale, 1221 Spruce street, was injured slightly Friday afternoon when he darted into the path of a car near his home.

Investigating officers said the youngster received a bump on the head and a bruised leg when brushed by the car, driven by Maurice J. Reid, Jerome, on Blue Lakes boulevard north. Reid's auto skidded into the opposite lane of traffic as he attempted to miss the boy, police said.

Yellowstone Park Entrance Is Open

IDAHO FALLS, May 15 (AP)—The West Yellowstone entrance to Yellowstone national park is now open to Old Faithful and the tourist cabins, store and repair shop at Old Faithful are open for business. Park Superintendent Edmund B. Rogers announced on a visit to Idaho Falls this week.

He said all roads inside the park are expected to be open to travel by May 30 with the exception of the northeast entrance road from Red Lodge to Cooke. This should be open by June 10.

The Yellowstone general fishing season opens May 30. However, Yellowstone lake will not open for fishing until June 15, and the Yellowstone river between Lake and Canyon won't open until July 1.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Elmo Farrar, HOLISTER, is a man of many roles. He probably is best known as manager of the Salmon River Canal company. That's his vocation, but his avocations are many, ranging from sportsman and gun crank to amateur archaeologist, geologist and naturalist. He's also a musician.

Living as he does on the edge of a lot of country south of Holister, Farrar has spent years ranging far and wide across deserts and over mountains, through creeks and up and down canyons. He has learned to jockey a pickup truck into and through places that would make a horse think twice and, when the pickup stops to think he goes on foot, notwithstanding a leg a horse worked on some years ago.

Recently he guided two truckloads of gem stone seekers on a quick "dart" around the mountains in northern Nevada just across the state line.

Farrar not only pointed out where the opal, agate and petrified wood could be found but filled his charges with facts and lore about Indians and wildlife. And to prove his eyes are sharp, he picked up a broken "Yuma" spear point after three or four others in the party had stepped over it. The "Yuma" point is one of the oldest type of points to be found in this region, dating back 12,000 to 15,000 years.

The swing around the mountains started just across the state line and passed the Salmon River Cattleman's association Canyon ranch behind Gollister and Tjuna John mountains. It circled past Opal springs and Texas springs and skirted Granite ridge and the Middle Stacks. Nearby are Ellen D. a mountain named in honor of a popular woman in contact many years ago, and China mountain, so named because a dead Chinaman was found near it.

As he sped across chuckholes and over ledges in the desert roads, Farrar pointed out sagehens, rabbits, mountain bluebirds and other forms of wildlife. Occasionally he stopped to empty a six shooter at a galloping jackrabbit, explaining between shots that his ambition is to get a deer with a musk-loading gun.

Farrar loves "his" country. He doesn't say so but you sense it. You sense it as he shows you the place where wild horses have gathered, when he shows you the valley where nod for the most attractive footwear. This best-looking shirt was worn by Ben White, who modeled a green number splashed with white paint.

Russell, man of the house, quietly called in all husbands so they could watch. Later the men served cake and ice cream. Serving were A. E. Martin, Jack Russell, Leighton Lines and Charles Burk.

Not many fishermen brag about the fish they catch out of season but Red, well-known RICHFIELD resident, didn't hesitate to tell about the four-pound trout he caught last Sunday in an irrigation ditch.

No special tricks, bait or fancy flies were used by Red. All he used was his nose and then yelled for help.

Red is a golden retriever and once belonged to the late Lon Woods. He often went fishing with his master and had been trained not to molest anything at home or in the yard.

His yelps brought Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stuber, Mrs. Woods and Mrs. Birk Albert who found the untouchable, 22 1/2-inch trout in the ditch. To get there the fish had to travel through six-inch pipes, laterals and around sharp turns for more than four blocks from the diversion ditch to Woods' property.

Installed

HEYBURN, May 15—New PFA officers were installed Tuesday at the PFA assembly.

New officers are Verral Taylor, president; John Nelwert, vice president; Thane Heiner, secretary; Gene Hymas, treasurer; Jerry Haxby, senior reporter, and Curtis Ravaten, junior reporter.

Broadcasters Ask Longer Day Time

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The Daytime Broadcasters' association has asked the Federal Communications commission to let daytime-only radio stations operate longer hours, particularly in winter.

The station now can operate only from sunrise to sunset. The association, representing a group of daytime stations, asked that they be permitted to go on the air at sunrise or 5 a.m., whichever is earlier, and sign off at sunset or 7 p.m., whichever is later.

Officers Picked

CASLEFORD, May 15—John Heide has been elected president of the Casleford PFA.

Other officers are Robert Conrad, vice president; Galena Skeen, second vice president; Bert Lierman, treasurer; Robert Fields, secretary; Ronald Bishop, reporter; Bonnie Conrad, assistant reporter; and Gary Ringert, sentinel.
