4 Government Built Dams Proposed for Middle Snake River

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Federal construction of four dams in the middle Snake river and its tributaries was recommended yesterday by the reclamation bureau and the army engineers.

The army engineers would build dams and reservoirs in Idaho at Brucias eddy on the north fork of the Clearwater river and at Penny cliffs on the middle fork of the Clearwater east of Lewiston.

The developments would have 4,283,000 acre feet of usable storage for flood control and power production. Their installed capacity for power production would be 1,412,000 kilowatts.

A report of the recommendations has been sent to the Columbia river basin states and interested federal agencies for comment.

This is a necessary formality before submission to congress of a request for authorization of the projects and appropriations to carry them out.

"Sound Relationship" Cited

"All four multi-purpose structures have a sound relationship to the main control plan for the comprehensive development of the Columbia river basin," the announcement said.

The $620,815,000 cost is based on the assumption that a series of low dams will be constructed in development of the Snake. If a high dam is constructed at Hells canyon the total estimated cost of the four dams would go up to $848,998,000.

Construction of Mountain Sheep and Pleasant valley dams and reservoirs will in no way affect the development of the upstream Hells canyon section of the river," the statement said.

The federal power commission is now considering alternate plans for developing the Hells canyon section. The Idaho power company has applied for licenses for three dams which would provide one million acre-feet of storage.

The proposed Pleasant valley dam would cost $201,810,000 and have installed capacity of 630,000 kilowatts if built to operate in conjunction with a series of low dams in the Hells canyon area.

Jordan Delays Comment Over Dam Proposal

BOISE, May 25 (AP)—Gov. Len Jordan told reporters yesterday he would take action "in due course" on a request by federal officials for early comment on four major dams proposed for the Snake and Clearwater rivers in Idaho.

He said he planned to go over the report of the reclamation bureau and the army corps of engineers with State Reclamation Commissioner Mark Kulp to see what position the state would take.

Early Comment Asked

The two agencies, which submitted their report on the dams to congress yesterday, have asked for comment by the state "at the earliest practical date."

The governor declined to give reporters his views on the proposals before making a study of the report.

An exhibition drill, the only one of the evening, will be performed by the Twin Falls County Rangers. Judges for the jamboree will be Raymond Chug, Oden; L. B. Kelley, Buhl, and William Patterson, Gannett. Joe Roe, Twin Falls, will be announcer.

Food concessions will be handled by the Twin Falls Jaycees and Jay-Cettes. Between 25,000 and 40,000 persons are expected to view the Golden Jubilee parade Tuesday, according to an estimate by Warberg. He bases his estimate on the 25,000 persons who turned out for the Sagebrush parade in 1950.

Merchants plan to close their stores during the parade. Some businessmen indicated they will close at noon, others just before the parade scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. Merchants are being asked to remain closed until after ceremonies (Continued on Page 2, Column 6)

Critical Time Thought Past For Kootenai

BONNERS FERRY, May 25 (AP)—A light rain was falling here today, but the turbulent Kootenai river continued to recede and army engineers said the critical period probably was past.

The river dropped .22 of a foot to 33.35 feet from midnight to 7 a.m. today. Flood stage officially is 31 feet, but remaining dikes all are above the present level of the river.

Gilbert R. Bean, technical liaison officer for the army corps of engineers, said continued heavy rain probably would weaken the dikes protecting the town and countryside but that no damage from the rain had been reported by this morning. No dikes had broken since Friday morning.

Showers Hit

A few thunderstorms hit this area late yesterday and changed to a light steady rain last night. The 24-hour-a-day watch over the dikes continued today, and Bean said, "We're still on top of the situation."

Repair work began last night on a section of Great Northern railway track which the rampaging river had undercut. Great Northern discontinued service into here last week although the Spokane International railway, with tracks on higher ground, has continued to operate trains through the town.

Damage Unestimated

No one was able yet to estimate the damage today although crops in the 7,000 acres flooded when seven dikes broke last week were listed as a total loss. Flooded homes also were damaged, but most families had removed furniture and personal belongings before the dikes broke.

Meanwhile, further south the Clearwater and Snake rivers also were receding and there appeared to be no threat of floods at present.

Judge Hurls Out Charges For Hearing

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Some picturesque portions of the testimony of Michael W. Straus, former U. S. reclamation commissioner, were thrown out of the Hells canyon hearing today.

Straus testified yesterday at a federal power commission hearing on an Idaho Power company application to build three dams in Snake river between Idaho and Oregon.

He appeared for public power groups which oppose the application and favor construction of a federal Hells canyon dam in the same area.

Idaho Power lawyers objected particularly to Straus' assertions that the company once favored the proposed federal dam and "opposed fulfillment" of a contract.

Examiner William J. Costello today ordered these portions of Straus' testimony stricken from the record: That Thomas E. Roach, Idaho Power president, and R. F. Barry, attorney representing the company at the hearing, once supported plans for the federal Hells canyon dam.

A statement that Idaho Power in 1951 "had a change of life" and released "a barrage of denunciations" against the federal project "in a light from hell to breakfast on a political basis."

That Idaho Power officials "opposed fulfillment" of a contract under which the federal government, in 1923 paid the company one million dollars for power plants at the American Falls dam in Idaho.

Straus said Idaho Power officials opposed a congressional appropriation for power-generating facilities at American Falls after completing the million dollars.

Ethiopia's Haile Selassie Now Here for Tour, Visit With Ike

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—Haile Selassie I, emperor of Ethiopia, arrived today for a tour of America and a state visit with President Eisenhower.

In a shipboard interview as the "United States" passed the Statue of Liberty, the thin, 62-year-old "lion of Judah" said that "by far the most important" thing America could do for his African nation would be to invest private capital in Ethiopian railroads, mineral resources and agriculture. The emperor declined to comment on reports he is prepared to grant America military bases in Ethiopia. However, it was learned from a diplomatic source that it is expected a Washington announcement soon will disclose America will be given a long-term lease on a military base there.

Haile Selassie said he did not plan to discuss uranium supplies during his Washington visit, which will begin tomorrow when he flies to the capital in the President's private plane for three days of state ceremonies.

Report Given On LDS Meet Held in T. F.

About 1,000 persons attended final sessions of the two-day LDS quarterly conference here Sunday to hear Elder Spencer W. Kimball, Salt Lake City, member of the Council of Twelve Apostles, featured speaker.

Elder Kimball, third ranking apostle of the church in seniority, addressed all sessions. He outlined the needs for missionary work and missionary methods at a special meeting with high councilmen, bishops, missionaries and prospective priesthood leadership meetings Saturday evening.

About 300 church members participated in the Saturday program. Theme of Kimball's Sunday talk was the importance of clean living. He urged young people to find the proper life companions.

Special music was furnished by the Twin Falls third ward choir. The first ward choir sang at the afternoon gathering.

Mrs. Claude Brown, Jr., Twin Falls, was elected president of the stake relief society. She replaces Mrs. Ray Kirk, Twin Falls, society president the past three years.

Mrs. Garth Galloway, Twin Falls, was named first counselor and Mrs. LeRoy Arrington, Twin Falls, second counselor. A new secretary will be appointed within the next few weeks.

Sunday evening's program featured a music festival under the direction of Karl Freeman and Marlene Stewart, presidents of the young men's and young women's organizations.

Yank Officers May Give Aid To Train Men

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The United States and France are discussing the possibility of using American military officers and technicians to help train native forces for the war in Indochina, administration sources reported today.

Informants said the idea of increasing the native training program, perhaps with American help, was reviewed within the past week by Maj.-Gen. John W. (Iron Mike) O'Daniel and Gen. Paul Ely, French chief of staff, who made a French survey trip to the U. S. military assistance advisory group in Indochina.

France in the past has refused to accept large-scale American help in training native troops. But the French might agree to change their previous stand if the United States is successful in lining up support for a collective action program to defend southeast Asia against communist aggression.

Informants said the slow-moving project has been picking up steam since Britain has shown new signs of interest in view of the East-West deadlock at the Geneva conference.

Jury Fails to Get Decision

A district court jury was dismissed at 12:35 a.m. Tuesday after reporting to Judge Hugh A. Baker that it was unable to reach a verdict in the trial of Clay Parker, Kimbally, charged with lewd conduct with an 11-year-old girl.

Judge Baker declared a mistrial and a date for the retrial will be set. The jury went out at 5 p.m. Monday after arguments from the attorneys and instructions to the jury.

The 11-year-old Kimberly girl was first prosecution witness to testify, followed to the stand by another young girl, a neighborhood friend. The state rested its case following the testimony of the first state witness.

The defense then asked an advisory acquittal, which was denied by the court.

Attorney J. Alfred May called Mrs. Clay Parker, wife of the defendant, to the stand as first defense witness. She was followed by Parker and then offered a second testimony to conclude the defense's case. The state presented no rebuttal.

Trio Hunted; Clothes From Prison Found

Prison clothes believed discarded by three convicts who escaped from Washington state prison, Walla Walla, Wash., were found Monday afternoon in a ditch alongside the road a mile east and a mile south of Hansen, the sheriff's office and city police reported Tuesday.

Deputy F. C. Thompson said the number on one of the uniforms corresponded but the other numbers had not been checked completely. Chief Deputy Paul Ross said farmers in the area had not seen the men.

Officers believed the clothes may have been dumped alongside the highway Sunday night. A 1951 Pontiac four-door sedan owned by Clyde McFarland, Murtaugh, was taken from outside the Murtaugh LDS church, about six miles across the hill from where the clothes were found, Monday night. The car has a light, cream-colored body and a dark top. It carried Idaho license 27-12700. A stolen car found near the depot in Twin Falls Tuesday was not believed connected with the case.

The men, a robber and two burglars, escaped from prison Friday.

Thurman A. Green, 33, robber, is five feet, 11 inches tall and weighs about 185 pounds. He has brown hair, grey-green eyes, medium build and reddish complexion.

Wind Sweeps Damage Path In Wide Area

ed at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. John Lutz, one half mile east of Clover, to help clean up the debris from the demolished barn.

The "twister" moved toward the farm across the plains from the south, Mrs. Lutz said, and minutes before it hit the entire area was enveloped in a thick layer of dust. In an attempt to protect her three small children, Dennis, Yvonne and Bruce, Mrs. Lutz said she huddled them in a corner behind her.

The wind demolished the barn, 24 by 20 feet in size, and picked up the chicken house and moved it 10 feet away, setting it down intact. Parts of the roof of the barn were found across the road and in the field 30 yards away.

The farm's main house was untouched except for minor damage to the roof caused by falling branches and debris.

Twin Falls police reported branches broke power lines near 1808 Maple avenue and near 403 Second avenue west. Crews from the Idaho Power company repaired the breaks immediately. Telephone lines were reported down in the alley at Third street east, behind the Texaco service station and across the right-of-way between the Starch plant and the Southside Bean company. A window was blown out at Union motors, 302 Main avenue north.

The second range fire caused by the wind was reported around 7 p.m. three miles west of Shoshone in Lincoln county. The wind blew a high-way road repair flare into the grass by the side of the road and 40 acres of rangeland were blackened before a fire fighting crew from Shoshone could bring the flames under control. The fire was declared out at 8:30 p.m.

Trees were blown across power lines at Dietrich and service was disrupted temporarily but no material damage was reported in the area.

A tree caused an estimated $500 damage at Guy Hunter's ranch in the Barrymore district of Jerome county when it tumbled onto a tractor and well house around 7:30 p.m. George Langer also reported some damage from fallen trees at his farm in the Sugar Lost area of Jerome county.

Full Plans for Jubilee Fetes Are Reported by massed bands on the courthouse lawn following the parade.

Warberg appealed Tuesday to Magic Valley residents to assist him in finding two pairs of black-chaps for the Golden Jubilee color guard.

The response of valley residents to the parade has been tremendous, according to Warberg. He said many residents on the north side of the river plan to enter floats or displays in Tuesday's parade and others have volunteered horses and wagons for the event.

City police, state police and county sheriff officers were lauded by Warberg for their excellent cooperation.

Parade officials and law enforcement officers spent Tuesday morning familiarizing themselves with the parade route which will be announced later.

Spectators are being asked to refrain from parking their cars along the parade route, in the staging area near Five Points east and at the city park where floats will be displayed after the parade.

Parade officials have been swamped by letters from early tract pioneers requesting transportation to Twin Falls to participate in the event.

Letters have been received from as far away as Boise and Parma. Warberg reports only limited space available on the float honoring tract pioneers and not enough transportation available to bring all pioneers to Twin Falls for the event.

Another appeal has been made to parents to discourage youngsters from planning to participate in the parade. No children's division is planned. However, children are welcome to appear on floats under adult supervision.

Latest addition to parade entries include the steam roller used on some of the first Twin Falls streets. The vehicle, located in Buhl, will appear under its own power.

Twelve trophies donated by local jewelers will be presented winners of various divisions at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday at the band shell in the city park.

The reviewing stand is being provided by the Harry Barry Lumber company.

A Golden Jubilee "circus" will be presented Tuesday evening at Frontier field by Boy Scouts of the Snake River council. A street dance will be held in the vicinity of the city park following the circus.

Tickets for the western melodrama parade and pageant are available at a special reduced price at the Golden Jubilee ticket booth, reminds Warberg.

The homes of former Presidents George Washington, Woodrow Wilson, James Monroe and Thomas Jefferson are preserved in Virginia.

Accord Reached About Diversion

BOISE, May 25 (AP)—A Payette river channel diversion problem that had been threatening farmland near Emmet has been settled through an agreement with private land owners and officials of Emmet and Gem counties.

State Land Commissioner Arthur Wilson said a private dike on the river was diverting the stream's course and threatening the land and a nearby bridge.

The individual who built the dike already has removed a portion to allow the river to flow along its normal channel, Wilson said, and he has promised to replace the present 16-foot bridge with a 60-foot span which is to be provided by the county.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—A disturbing spirit of repression, censorship and tampering on individual and state rights has become increasingly evident at this session of congress. It resembles the "bluehouse" and puritanical urge to remake and reform society which led to enactment of prohibition and other arbitrary statutes during and after world war I.

Indeed, it seems that every great conflict promotes movements of this kind, whether they assume the form of tapping a private phone or the supreme court's abolition of a social and educational system such as that erected so laboriously and painfully by many southern states.

Although the Brownell demand for a wire-tapping authorization for the War and the Warrenton opinion on school segregation are not closely related in their effect, they spring from the same sympathy for federal regulation, reform and straitjacketing of human behavior.

IN ROOSEVELT, TRUMAN REGIMES—Under Roosevelt and Truman, this philosophy undertook to revise fundamental economic laws. The federal government tried to appropriate complete control of business, industry and finance, including an attempted seizure of the steel mills. It sought to redistribute wealth, to "yardstick" the charges which private industry might ask for its products, to fix prices and allocate quotas.

It guaranteed to bring the promised land to each individual. It offered minimum wages, pensions, old-age benefits and health insurance. It sponsored a "welfare state" which critics assailed as "socialism," and which the voters repudiated, in part at least, at the 1948 polls.

Now, in a continuing and offshoot effort, numerous new dealish members have introduced measures to regulate and restrict the individual's very appetites and conduct—what he may read and see and drink and smoke. It would transform his nonworking hours into a grim and colorless existence, if not worse.

TIME COULD BE USED TO BETTER EFFECT—House and senate interstate and foreign commerce committees, for instance, have scheduled hearings on the Langer-Bryson bills to prohibit beer, wine and liquor advertisements in newspapers, magazines and on broadcast media. Although congress is far behind in its serious work, especially the White House legislative program, each group will devote three days to these proposals.

Rep. John D. Dingell, Michigan, second-ranking Democrat on the ways and means committee, would extend this same ban to advertising of all kinds of tobacco—cigarettes, cigars, pipe mixtures, chewing and snuff. Other measures would curb distribution of certain comics and magazines. Extreme pacifists want to prohibit manufacture and sale of all toys, weapons, and children's books dealing with war.

It is doubtful if any of these things will become law, although the same comment was voiced about Carrie Nation's rampages. But they are supported by earnest and outspoken people and organizations. Members are filling the congressional record with favorable petitions, signed by thousands of voters. An anti-liquor advertising measure was defeated in the senate committee by only a 7-6 vote in 1952.

MONOPOLY IN COMMUNICATIONS?—Sen. Harley M. Kilgore, West Virginia Democrat and extreme new dealer, demands action against newspaper ownership of radio and television stations. He says that newspapers own almost one-third of the nation's TV stations. He has placed the matter before the senate judiciary subcommittee on monopoly.

Kilgore nowhere makes the charge that newspapers betray their trust, or that their TV operations are harmful. But he says he has "serious concern" over a possible "threat of monopoly in communications."

In short, whether their prejudices are directed toward education, law enforcement, smoking, drinking, reading, radio, television, toy guns, comics or advertising, the "bluehouse brigade" has re-formed ranks and is on the march again.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

FREE PRESS—FAIR TRIAL
 One of New York state's appellate courts this week, in a 9-2 ruling, said the much-publicized playboy, Minot F. Jelke, had been denied a public trial in a compulsory prostitution case because Judge Francis L. Valente had excluded reporters while the state's witnesses were being examined.

This decision, on the defendant's own appeal from conviction and sentence, did not reach to the heart of the issue of press freedom which was raised in a corollary action by United Press et al early in 1952. A 9-2 decision by the same court, but with different justices participating, was unfavorable to the newspapers' position as defenders of the people's right to know. The state's highest tribunal, the court of appeals, has under consideration now the specific question of whether the trial judge infringed upon freedom of the press and the related issue of whether the press has a right to intervene in behalf of a defendant's right to a public trial.

What the three justices of the appellate division in the majority opinion of the Jelke petition said, in essence, was that a fair trial is dependent upon a free press; in other words, a defendant is entitled to full public knowledge of the charges leveled against him. This would seem to dispose of the belief that there is conflict between fair trial and free press.

It is not the work of the judiciary to police the morals or ethics of the press, the higher court held. This goes to the root of the evil apparent in the current efforts of some members of the bar to ask the state legislature to amend the bill of rights in such degree as to endow lawyers with unique professional control over the information which should be given to the public in criminal cases.

This week three justices of the state's supreme court said the people themselves are empowered to correct abuses and it's no business of a judicial officer to "dictate what portion of court proceedings shall be made available for reading by the public."

We feel confident that the court of appeals at Albany will reiterate this doctrine in the final adjudication of the Jelke case and we only hope that the opinion of this distinguished body comes in time to snuff out the obnoxious bill of rights proposal which Louis Waldman intends to press again upon the bar association of the state of New York at its June convention.—Editor and Publisher.

IS THIS INVESTIGATION NECESSARY?
 A house subcommittee is now investigating alleged coddling of athletes in the armed services.

It is no great secret that star athletes have been given special privileges in the armed services so that their particular outfit could have a winning team. And some of the cases probably can be justified.

But is it necessary to have congressional hearings on everything? Wouldn't a demand from the armed services committee to the Pentagon end any such coddling in a hurry?

Congress is getting the reputation of chasing off in all directions in committee hearings to get personal publicity for members, and paying all too little attention to the major problems and difficult and unpopular decisions that face the nation.

It's about time that some of the sidishows were closed so that we can get a few of the performers back into the main tent.—Portland Journal.

FIVE IN ONE DAY FOR MUSIAL
 Some day in the future when the oldtimers have gathered on shaded verandas to talk about the weather and the past, the conversation will come around to baseball. Memories will probe deeply to recall all the names of winners, heroes and greats of days gone by. A few will be forgotten, but there shouldn't be any difficulty in remembering the St. Louis Cardinals' right fielder, Stan Musial.

The "Man" has provided some new entries in the record books as a result of Sludgy's games against the New York Giants. By stroking five home runs in his trips to the plate Musial established a new major-league record in a double-header and tied another record for homers in consecutive games. All this by a mild-mannered Cardinal whose position in the ranks of baseball's immortals was obviously already secure.—New York Times.

POT SHOTS

MATTER OF VIEWPOINT
 Dear Sir:
 There's about four years difference in the ages of this son and daughter, with the latter the younger of the two. Naturally, the son and heir (to a lot of debts) can be quite overbearing and knows a lot more, he thinks.

After spotting a deer on the hillside recently, Son proclaimed it was a doe. Daughter listened for awhile, declared the critter was a deer. This precipitated one of those "is it or is not" arguments with no decision. And it wasn't settled by explaining that a doe is a deer and vice versa.

Some time later, Daughter told about a bird being hit by a car. Son listened and said the car was driven by a cop. Daughter differed. She said the driver was a policeman. "Was too—was not?" etc.

 GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—E. V. Durling recently wondered whether the Mamie O'Rourke of "The Sidewalks of New York" ever existed.

The answer is yes and I may state that I danced with her at a ball, or racket, as such galas were called, at Tammany hall, about 1920. Mamie was Mrs. Diamond Dan O'Rourke, whose husband had been a manager of Jim Jeffries early in Jeff's career. Dan was an enormous man with the voice of a bull but altogether a kind soul with a quaint taste in humility, expressed in the peculiar character of the clientele of his saloon at Pearl and Park row. The neighborhood recently emerged into the sun as the old "L" down to the World building and Brooklyn bridge came down.

That clientele was largely composed of professional beggars with a quaint line of specialties. Some would soap their eyelids to affect a lachrymose appearance; some would bandage a foot and sprinkle the bandage with red ink. They were just low-down, dirty, ignorant devils. They would gather at Dan's before and after business hours and Dan used to let the pennies accumulate in a cigar box or cookie jar and then sell them to the bank by weight. Mrs. O'Rourke was a Tammany precinct captain, a loyal lieutenant of Al Smith and Tom Foley and a very likeable person.

Walter Davenport, of Colliers, then of the New York Sun, used to write wonderful Monday morning stories for page one about the feats of one Ludwig Consumo, a champion eater, who would undertake to eat more than any challenger for a side bet of $100. He claimed to have eaten 5 dozen doughnuts without a cup of coffee. This idea was a survival of a craze which used to pack the old Madison Square garden.

There had been oyster-opening contests, oyster-eating contests, and go-as-you-please races, which were parent to the dance-marathon or walkathon of the 'twenties and 'thirties. Davenport would hoke up solemn interviews with Ludwig Consumo about his feats at a rather indistinct restaurant at Coney Island. Then one day he printed a picture of Ludwig and I recognized my friend, Joe O'Rourke, a son of Dan and Mamie.

There was a plaintive, harmless little man hanging around named Jeff Davis who called himself king of the hoboes. He had wangled a badge and took me with him on trips along the Bowers inspecting flops and Chinese lodging houses and even two lodging houses for old women employed cleaning spittoons in office buildings at night. One of these had been endowed by a sister of Stanford White.

With a little imagination one might have thought that these old women were broken down prostitutes collecting the wages of sin, but a matron told me they were just down and out old women without family connections, working to the end of their days.

The guests in the male flops did not take kindly to Jeff Davis's visits. He would swing through the alleys, between the rows of cubicles which had chicken-wire ceilings to guard against pilfering, and wake up the poor bums by singing out "It's all right boys; just good old Jeff Davis, king of the hoboes, inspecting for the health department." Voices would express violent dislike against his majesty, but this never embarrassed Jeff.

It was a bitter winter and Royal Copeland, later a U. S. senator, as health commissioner of the city, had given Jeff a mandate to report on these unsanitary conditions in these dumps. They were all absolutely lousy and, with a couple of hundred bums snoring away on a cold night with all ventilation shut off, there was much to report. The problem of the moment was a flu epidemic and those things were uncontrollable then and nothing could have been accomplished except a lot more woe by nailing up the flops and turning these people into the streets.

Irene O'Rourke, the daughter of Dan and Mamie, and a big girl, too, was very proud of her mother's immortality as the Mamie O'Rourke of the anthem of the city and of Tammany hall. One day during the long Democratic convention of 1924, Irene told me the author of the lyric was now, stone, blind, and doing a little act with his two daughters in a four-a-day vaudeville house in Brooklyn. His name was Charlie Lawlor. I went to Brooklyn, interviewed him and the girls, got him a ticket to the convention and guided him up to Tom Foley.

But Foley gave him the brush-off and the poor old guy was heartbroken. He murmured and wept all afternoon that he, whose song was resounding from the rafters in return calls of "Alabama casts 20 votes for Oscar Underwood" and "McAdoo! doo-doo-doo!" should not have been acknowledged by the reigning leader of the hall.

Charlie told me he had hit upon the lyric in a flash of sheer inspiration as he wobbled home from a steak party at Charlie Murphy's old Anawanda club. His heels were coming down hard on the sidewalks of New York and when he was undressing he called to Mrs. Lawlor, "Mama, I think I have got an idea for a great song." Mrs. Lawlor told him to shut up and get into bed. Nevertheless he jotted the idea down and that was the way of it.

Of course, Mamie O'Rourke had danced in Tammany hall, for she was a belle of the set, but it is unlikely that she ever danced on the sidewalks. I suspect that Charlie wrote her into the lyric only because, given a little license, her name rhymed with "New York."

The old saloon still stands with Diamond Dan's name over the front in tarnished gold letters. There is a religious mission with an illuminated glass cross next door. I don't see any trace of Mike Salter, where Irving Berlin played piano, or McGurk's Palm garden, known as Suicide hall because a number of unfortunate girls elected to end

Trade Brisk For Uranium

SALT LAKE CITY, May 25 (AP) - A uranium boom swamped Salt Lake City brokerage firms yesterday, with an estimated 5 million shares of uranium stocks changing hands in over-the-counter trade, which accounts for most of the uranium stock business.

Issues listed on the Salt Lake stock exchange also were active and made substantial price gains.

Lyman L. Cromer, president of the Cromer Brokerage company, said his firm did "a round million share business."

Another firm, Coombs and company, reported transaction of 750,000 shares, and several other firms reported similar handlings.

The press of business was so great that the public had to fight its way into brokerage offices in the forenoon.

Hogis and company office, attributed the brisk trade to demand that has been "building up for several days." He said "a lot of outside money," coming mostly from Texas, New York and California, boosted the volume and also the prices.

Lawmaker Tie Might Change Price Support

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Senator Knowland, R., Calif., says there is a "possibility" that congress will deal over farm legislation and thus let flexible price supports go into effect under existing law.

Knowland, the senate's Republican leader, said in an interview he doesn't know what is going to happen in the controversy which has found many Democrats and some Republicans lined up behind proposals to continue price props on major field crops at 90 per cent of parity.

But he said "it certainly is a possibility" that the two houses of congress will fail to agree on a farm bill and thus pass no legislation.

President Eisenhower has urged abandonment of the present system of mandatory price supports on basic field crops at 90 per cent of parity and its replacement by a system of flexible props ranging from 70 to 90 per cent of parity. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices said by law to give farmers a fair return in relation to prices they pay for things they buy.

Congress in 1948 and 1949 put on the books a flexible support system, although not in the form the Eisenhower administration has recommended. But it has postponed its effective date from year to year, continuing the rigid 90 per cent props first provided in wartime to stimulate production.

The 90 per cent supports now are slated to expire at the end of the 1954 crop year, and failure of congress to pass new legislation would permit the flexible plan now on the books to go into effect.

Eisenhower recommended that, to ease the impact of a change to flexible supports, up to 3 1/2 billion dollars worth of crops the government now holds be "frozen" and ignored in figuring support levels. This provision is not included in the 1948-49 legislation.

Chairman Aiken, R., Vt., of the senate agriculture committee said he agrees "there's a possibility we might not do anything." But Representative Hope, R., Kans., chairman of the companion house committee, said he "can't conceive that the congress won't do something."

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has said he would recommend a presidential veto if congress votes for rigid supports and Knowland said the possibility of such action must be considered.

"If there is a deadlock in congress or a bill passed that the President doesn't approve, the flexible supports will still go into effect," the Californian said.

Despite the uncertainty over the farm issue, Knowland said he believes congress will come up with a program of accomplishments that will convince the voters they ought to keep the GOP in control of congress.

10-Ton Core of Uranium Slated

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—A Westinghouse-Electric company official disclosed yesterday that more than 10 tons of uranium will be used to make the heat-generating reactor one of the world's first full-scale atomic power plants.

The plant will be built by Westinghouse and the Duquesne Light company near the village of Shippenport, Pa., some 25 miles from Pittsburgh.

It was reported the heart of the plant will be a steel cylinder containing slightly enriched uranium (uranium with a heavier-than-normal amount of the fissionable isotope U-235).

Francis K. McGuire, general manager of the O-G atomic products division, predicted the atomic power plants will compete successfully with conventional power plants "possibly within five, certainly within 10 years."

Brothers Drown In River Mishap

SNOQUALMIE, Wash., May 25 (AP)—Two small brothers drowned yesterday afternoon as they played with a rowboat in a Snoqualmie river slough near their home here.

The victims are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mulholland—David, 6, and Donald, 5.

A playmate, who ran to a nearby garage for help, said they had been playing beside the slough when they decided to untie a rowboat and "take a trip." He said the 5-year-old "fell over the front end," and "David jumped in and tried to save him."

"One of the boy's bodies was recovered from five feet of water about an hour later. The Mulhollands have two younger children."

Applicant Asking For Regency Post

BOISE, May 25 (AP)—Supt. of Public Instruction Alton B. Jones has received the first formal application to the board of regents in Boise for the impending vacancy of president of the University of Idaho.

He declined to say who had applied, and said board members also might have received other applications from educators interested in succeeding J. E. Buchanan, who has submitted his resignation.

The board will meet at Moscow June 8-9, and Jones expressed doubt that a successor would be selected in time to take the job. He said it probably would "still be in the period of receiving applications."

Gary Crosby OK After Car Crash

SAN JOSE, Calif., May 25 (AP)—Crosby's manager, Bing Crosby, said today his son, Gary, probably will be able to take over for him on the radio this summer, despite injuries received in an auto crash that killed one person and injured five.

Gary, 20, suffered a lacerated nose and knee yesterday when his car crashed with another auto on the Bayshore highway near here.

A passenger in the other car, Felix Oliveros, 24, was killed.

Attendees at O'Connor hospital said young Crosby might be released today if he continues to improve. They said his condition was "good."

Suit Is Filed

Libelous

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Have you looked over the medicine closet lately and have you thrown out all the old medicines that accumulated during the year? If so, good. If not, do go over the shelves and make away with any that are not going to be useful. That means any that were left over after illness. Don't throw pills and powders just in case "he should have another attack." That would be lies.

The next attack may not be what you think it is, and if it is serious enough to be called an attack the family physician should be called and no medicine given until he orders it. Too often the patient's recovery has been delayed because someone thought that "this pill the doctor gave Henry ought to work."

When throwing away the old medicines do be careful to make it impossible for any child, or anybody, or any animal, to get hold of them. Little children mistake pills for candy and with sad results. Surplus pills, tablets, powders, drugs of any sort should be destroyed beyond redemption.

There is nothing quite so unwise in the treatment of children as prescribing medicine for them without the authority of a reputable physician. Drugs can be dangerous if used carelessly or improperly. A physician has to study for years, and keep studying, learning, for years on end, to become wise enough to prescribe drugs.

More and more grudgingly does the experienced physician use them and he is careful to stop their use at the earliest possible moment. We have all learned that there are two sides to illness, one the body, the other the mind, and the experienced physician studies both before prescribing medicine. He may treat the patient's mental attitudes—he may even treat the mental attitudes of those who are in charge of the patient. In the face of this fact, anybody without the physician's knowledge and skill is daring indeed to use drugs or to prescribe them for others.

So, clean out the medicine cabinet. Throw away all the partly used boxes and bottles and be careful where they are put to insure they do not cause trouble to others. Then, lock the medicine cabinet if there are children in the house. One cannot be too careful about the whole business.

Pillering is characteristic of childhood, but children pass through this stage if they are guided properly. Dr. Patri's leaflet, "Pillering," tells what to do about it. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

"Fruit-of-the-Day" Shortcake...Thrifty!

What makes this shortcake so different? 1. The fluffy, light biscuit—that you get with lighter Snowdrift. 2. The luscious, thrifty topping you make with double-rich Carnation Milk. 3. You can serve it any time. Make any season shortcake season with fresh, canned or frozen fruits.

SNOWDRIFT'S OLD-FASHIONED SHORTCAKE (makes 6 three-inch shortcakes)
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup SNOWDRIFT 1/2 cup CARNATION EVAPORATED MILK (undiluted)
1/2 cup water

Sift dry ingredients together in bowl. Cut in Snowdrift until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Mix Carnation and water and add all at once. Mix with fork until dry ingredients are moistened. Turn out on lightly floured surface; knead 10 to 15 times. Roll or pat 1/2-inch thick; cut with floured biscuit cutter. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in very hot oven (450° F.) 10-12 minutes.

CARNATION WHIPPED TOPPING (makes about 3/4 cups topping)
1 1/2 cups  CARNATION EVAPORATED MILK (undiluted)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Chill Carnation in refrigerator tray until soft crystals form through the milk (about 15-20 minutes). Whip until stiff (about 1 minute). Add lemon juice and whip until very stiff (1-2 minutes longer). Fold or beat in sugar and vanilla. Split shortcakes in half. Cover bottom half with your favorite fruit-of-the-day — such as peaches, strawberries or raspberries, (fresh, frozen or canned). Spoon Carnation Whipped Topping over shortcake and fruit. Repeat with top half of shortcake, fruit and whipped Carnation. Serve at once.

Use remaining Carnation from 1 large can for whipping—after preparing shortcake dough with 1/2 cup undiluted Carnation.

No other shortening at any price is so creamy, so digestible and so light!

Ike's Counsel Blasts Demos As 'Blockers'

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—President Eisenhower's special counsel yesterday accused Democrats in congress of conducting "an overwhelming slowdown" and of throwing out "important road-blocks" against parts of the administration's legislative program.

The counsel, Bernard M. Shanley, also suggested that former Vice President Alben W. Barkley, a Democrat, is trying to ride the coattails of Eisenhower's popularity in a bid for election to the U. S. senate this fall.

Shanley expressed his views in a speech at a meeting of the Wine and Spirits Wholesalers association. So far as newsmen could recall, it was the first public criticism of Democrats in congress by a top White House official since Eisenhower took office.

Shanley reportedly cleared his remarks at the White House before he made the speech. He ranks third in the chain of command there, so any clearance presumably would have been with either or both—the President himself or Eisenhower's chief assistant, Sherman Adams.

Shanley told his audience: "Encouraged by the oracles of disaster who knowingly or otherwise are toying with the futures of America, we hear dire predictions regarding the future of our country. Let me assure you there is no foundation for such 'predictions'."

Major Flooding by Columbia Unlikely

PORTLAND, May 25 (AP)—Col. Louis H. Foote, north Pacific division engineer for the corps of engineers, told a press conference yesterday that he does not expect a major Columbia river flood this year but the region can expect "high water troubles" for several weeks.

"We are more optimistic than the other agencies concerned with river forecasts," Foote said following his return from a survey of flood conditions in the Kootenai area.

He added, however, that he was concerned about the possibility of flooding of the powerhouse substructure at the Dalles dam which now is under construction. The top of the cofferdam protecting the area is only 6 1/2 feet above the present water level, he said.

Army to Summon Corps Graduates

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The army announced yesterday it will commission and call to active duty practically all of this year's 16,000 reserve officers training corps graduates.

A spokesman said ROTC graduates not called to active duty—yet—crans, for example, will number only "a handful" out of the 16,000.

The graduates will be sent to army schools between July 1, 1964, and June 30, 1965. To the extent possible, the army said, graduates will be permitted to name the month in which they desire to go on active duty. Physicians, dentists and veterinarians from the graduating classes will be assigned to reserve units and called to active duty under priorities fixed in the doctor draft law.

Patrol Planned

COEUR D'ALENE, May 25 (AP)—Lake Coeur d'Alene will be patrolled by a coast guard vessel this summer, Cmdr. Roger W. Wolbert of the coast guard auxiliary said today.

He said the 28-foot launch and three-man crew was expected to arrive here June 2 and serve on the lake during the summer months.

Rugged

TORONTO, May 25 (AP)—A 63-year-old Toronto woman finished her annual birthday hike on schedule last night—a mile for every year.

Mrs. Brandt Johnston started her walk to Toronto from near Brantford, Ont., Sunday morning, at a four-mile-an-hour clip. She offered $25 to anyone who saw her show signs of quitting and challenged Toronto's entire female population to accompany her. There were no takers.

Airman Faces Death Charge

RENO, Nev., May 25 (AP)—A 24-year-old air force sergeant will be tried in Nevada courts on a manslaughter charge.

Sgt. Robert Tackett is accused in the deaths of three women in a Saturday highway collision on U. S. highway 40 near Reno.

One of the women killed was the wife of Associated Press Correspondent Ed Olson, Reno, Olson, formerly of Boise, also suffered major injuries.

Sheriff C. W. Young said a blood test showed Sgt. Tackett was still intoxicated two hours after the wreck. Sheriff Young said he made the decision to try Tackett in Nevada civil courts on the manslaughter charge after conferring with officials at Stead air force base and District Attorney Jack Streeter.

If convicted, Tackett would face from one to 10 years in prison.

PLANS TO BE EYED

MOSCOW, May 25 (AP)—The Moscow public school board of trustees' plans for a new west side grade school will be discussed at a public meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters here June 1.

Murder Trial for Indian Postponed

BLACKFOOT, May 25 (AP)—The trial of Tom Billie, 26, Navaho Indian charged with the murder of Franklin Moon Baker, scheduled yesterday, has been postponed until the transcript of testimony taken at Billie's May 14 preliminary hearing can be made.

Much of the testimony of the day-long preliminary was through an interpreter.

Billie was charged in connection with the fatal shooting of Baker May 4 on the Ft. Hall Indian reservation.
