Senator Gives Some 'Advice'

WASHINGTON, June 8 (AP)—Senator Symington told Senator McCarthy today he "better go to a psychiatrist."

Symington, D. Mo., tossed out that advice as he and McCarthy, R. Wis., hooked up in another angry exchange at the McCarthy-army hearings.

It was touched off when McCarthy insisted that Symington ought to take the witness stand.

Symington demanded, in turn, that McCarthy testify under oath in connection with 1952 charges involving McCarthy which were investigated by a senate subcommittee.

As McCarthy referred to Symington as "sanctimonious stu," Symington broke in to say heatedly, "Senator McCarthy, I resent that reference to my first name."

Symington then said McCarthy ought to consult a psychiatrist.

100 Drawn to Cave Opening
GOODING, June 8—Some 100 Idaho and out-of-state visitors braved a cold, windy week-end to tour the Shoshone Ice Caves as Magic Valley's newest attraction formally opened for the season Saturday.

Inclement weather, however, forced cancellation of some tours Sunday and trouble with the electric light circuit hampered cave tours early this week. Russell Robinson, manager, reports Idaho visitors, many of them from Boise and Burley area, out-numbered the out-of-staters about three to one. Many of the Idaho visitors, he said, had visited the caves in previous years.

The tours this year include portions of the area which has been inaccessible during the past. The attraction is being renamed the Ice Cave Recreational area, Robinson said.

Pilgrimage to Birthplaces of Presidents Has Its Hazards

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—Now that summer is nearly here a lot of people are preparing for the rigors of touring by auto. Mosquito bites, sun burn, flat tires, dyspepsia—the hazards are familiar.
But let's not forget one. That is the pilgrimage to the historic shrine, especially the birthplace of this and that president of the United States.
Many a father bent on fishing and many a mother determined to sun herself on a warm beach will drive many miles out of the way so the kids can see the birthplace of a president—just any president. And scarcely any of these presidents was born beside a four-lane highway.
I know. I've visited the birthplace of more presidents than I can remember. That is because my father was an ardent fisherman. Every summer he'd want to go fishing in a different part of the northeast. To justify this frivolity he'd always hunt up a birthplace or two on the way. "It's educational," he'd say as we pulled up before another presidential birthplace. Perhaps it was, though it never had any noticeable effect on my history grades.
Have you ever visited the birthplace of James Monroe? Well, neither have I. Monroe was born in Westmoreland county, Va., and there may be signs all over the place now telling you how to find the house. But in the Model T days there weren't any, or at least we couldn't find them. We drove all over the county and had a flat and the radiator boiled over, but we never found the birthplace of James Monroe.
We made up for it that summer in Virginia, however, by taking in Wakefield (Washington), Shadwell (Jefferson), Port Conway (Madison) and Staunton (Wilson). Then there was the summer we joyfully killed two birds with one stone by visiting Quincy, Mass., where two presidents have obliged the weary young pilgrim by being born in the same town. Thank you, John Adams and John Quincy Adams.
If you're determined to take the kids to a presidential birthplace and you're around New York this summer may I recommend that of Grover Cleveland in Caldwell, N. J. This home lies on a main-traveled road and the last time I heard of anybody knocking at the door there was no response. But it's well marked and the kids can go back to school in the fall and write a neat composition on "my pilgrimage to President Cleveland's birthplace."
The point of all this nostalgic thinking is simply this: What is going to happen about the birthplaces of the presidents of the future?
Everybody is born in a hospital these days. Are we going to have plaques placed in hospital delivery rooms, marking the birthplaces of presidents? Impossible. You can't let droves of kids go trooping through hospital corridors disturbing the patients just so they can see the birthplace of President Melvin McIntyre (1984-1992).
There's another possibility. An expectant mother who is certain her son will become president could have her little future president at home—if the doctor consents.
But this, too, raises difficulties. Houses just aren't as permanent as they used to be. They're constantly being knocked down to make way for super-highways. Or suppose the future president's parents live in an apartment? How will future occupants feel about all those tourists coming up in the elevator to gawk at the rooms?
It definitely appears from here that the birthplaces of future presidents just don't have any future. That may be sad. Or it could be a great relief to generations of summer tourists yet unborn.

Red Chess Player Won't Come Here

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—The Russians have canceled—without explanation—a trip to the United States by their best chess player, World Champion Mikhail Botvinnik.
Botvinnik had been expected to lead a Russian team against an American team in a tournament that starts here June 16.
Harold M. Phillips, president of the United States Chess federation which arranged the unusual international match, says the Russians informed him that Botvinnik would not make the trip, but gave no reason.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Chief Justice Earl Warren's outlawing of segregation in public schools and federal housing projects may be a Republican ill wind that will blow good for the Democrats of north and south, now sharply divided on this issue. It eventually should remove the racial problem from the realm of partisan politics.
At the moment, many southern communities and politicians are indignant over the ruling and are threatening to escape its implications one way or another. But the fact is that this unanimous opinion has been accepted in Dixie with amazing moderation and hard common sense, save for a few political hotheads like Gov. Herman Talmadge, Georgia. He will probably use the issue to try to win himself a senate seat.

RACIAL RELATIONS IN SOUTH—The south, however, which has managed to make so many social and economic readjustments since 1865, will meet this new challenge in its own way. It will, sooner or later, comply with the supreme court decision in accord with local needs and customs.
The South has made greater progress in the field of racial relations than many other sections of the country, where the question is raised only at election time by so-called "liberals" seeking the vote of the colored people.
The Negro is better treated, better housed, better fed and more respected below the Mason and Dixon line than he is in Democratic Harlem, supposedly the new dealer's heaven.

QUESTION OF YEARS—It may take years for the south to answer the supreme court's question of how it intends to implement the ruling on segregation. That will also apply to many northern communities. It is doubtful if the surrounding difficulties can be solved before the 1958 election.
But solved it will be eventually, and all the bitter disagreements between northern and southern Democrats will disappear.
There will then be no reason why such brilliant statesmen as Byrd of Virginia, Russell of Georgia and McClellan of Arkansas, or successors of their stamp, should not become President of the United States!

COMMON WORLD LANGUAGE—Now that the United States has assumed the burden of supporting so many foreign peoples with strange customs in a military and financial way, it appears that there is need for a common world language. Otherwise, our efforts at international salvation will become subject to suspicion and criticism fostered by Moscow's agents.
A current issue of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway magazine highlights this problem, as follows: "What is known to American railroads as a tie is called a 'sleeper' in Great Britain and in her former colonies, and that difference in nomenclature recently caused trouble for two Asian editors."
"A Pakistani newspaper recently retailed a story attacking the United States for sending loud neckties to their country, when the ties were found to be destined for new railroad tracks, not Pakistani neckties."

TIES, NOT PERSONS—Conversely, the editor of a South Indian daily apologized to his readers for printing a story about 200,000 persons being swept down the flooded Chenab river in Kashmir. He explained that the "sleepers" had turned out to be cross-ties, not sleeping persons.
This problem of language may seem trivial. But many American diplomats and military men testify that speech differences and difficulties with their overseas opposites, especially the Russians, frequently have caused unnecessary minor crises. Molotov is an excellent linguist, but he insists on using an interpreter at world parleys. The delay in translation affords him time to devise a Machiavellian retort.

CHURCHILL'S CHANGED IDEAS—Prime Minister Churchill's recent suggestions that he may retire soon, have been welcomed at Washington, although it would be indiscreet for any high public official to admit it. Both President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles believe that they could get along better with Anthony Eden as British boss.
Like FDR at Yalta, Churchill is showing signs of strain. In his ambition to close his illustrious and fabled career as world peacemaker, he counsels agreements with Russia which he condemned as "appeasement" in pre-1939 days. He is making it hard for Ike.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

BEST ALLIES AREN'T BOUGHT
American concern and vexation over the failure of France and Italy to ratify the European Defense Community treaty is understandable. Our whole present policy for resisting communist pressure in Europe is based on this pact which will make possible rearmament of Western Germany, deemed essential to any effective European defense.
Yet we seriously doubt whether the practical ultimatum delivered to France and Italy relative to EDC by Secretary of State Dulles in testimony before the senate foreign relations committee Friday was wise.
Mr. Dulles declared that France and Italy might lose all further military aid from the United States if they did not join the European Defense Community.
Now it may well be necessary for the United States to make the "agonizing reappraisal" of our European policy, which Mr. Dulles spoke about some time ago, if the proposed EDC project is not carried out. We might have to rearm Western Germany without the safeguards against a revival of German militarism which the EDC seeks to establish. We might have to withdraw or sharply reduce aid to France and Italy. We might have to shift our policy, and our military and financial commitments, otherwise.

But to say flatly now that we will withdraw further military aid from France and Italy unless they ratify EDC seems to us questionable strategy.
For one thing, isn't the threat to cut off further aid if France and Italy do not ratify EDC an implied commitment that, if the treaty is ratified, we will continue such aid ad infinitum?
Even more important is the doubtful value in the European Defense Community of two countries who enter it reluctantly, and only to be sure of continued financial aid. Just what would such bought-and-paid-for support be worth in a showdown?
We might be better off not placing our reliance on such unwilling allies.
The best allies, as the best friends, are not bought.—Salt Lake Tribune.

THE PARENTAL PROBLEM
Oh wad some power the giffle gie us to see ourselves as our children see us!
—NOT Robert Burns.
Some power has done it, namely the Youth Research Institute. Most children think their mothers are good cooks, "work hard around the house," are pretty, and like their children very much. The majority of the children also regard both parents as "generous and kind," well-thought-of by others, and possessed of lots of friends. Parents, the kids said generally, are very nice people, but—
A sizeable minority ranging from 33 to 46 per cent felt their parents became angry a lot and their mothers were always telling them what to do and did not understand them. "When I ask my mother for help she sometimes does not help me because she is too busy going out every night," reported one. "I don't get enough money for the work I do. And my father's always teasing me about my girl friend. My mother calls my cat fleabag," said another. "I would like for my mother to let me sleep on Saturday mornings," wrote a third.
Parents who want to grow up into fine, sturdy mothers and fathers then have their course cut out for them. They will hold their tempers, taper off on the orders, stay home a few nights and help their children, and let the little ones sleep on Saturday mornings. And furthermore they will take care to refer to the fleabag at all times as nice kitty.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

POT SHOTS

WHO SAYS WE AREN'T?
Dear Gent:
Contemplating the history of this nation the other day left me shaking my head. Just roll back time for, say 100 years. That puts you back in 1854 before the Big Tiff between the states. The real adventurers of our continent were rolling westward in oxcarts and wagons. Some of the more lucky ones rode horses. But they still moved at a virtual snail's pace through dangerous wilderness.

Those pioneers, many times, did not travel more than 5 or 10 miles a day. Now compare that to what happens nowadays. Most of us zip across more landscape in a single day than many people covered in their entire lives a century ago.
If travel is broadening, we should certainly be a nation of broad people today!

PUPS FOR KIDS DEPT.
This pup is about 5 months old and all black. His ancestry includes cocker spaniel and Australian shepherd. He's a good dog for kids. You can get him at 223 Bell street.

These three pooches dumped in Eden are in the market for new homes where they'll get better treatment. Children in the neighborhood are taking care of them right now.
One is gold and white with long hair; medium size. Another is a large, black and white, pooch with long hair. The third dog is small and has lots of different colors, but also is long-haired. They're good dogs for youngsters. You can phone Eden 2712 or 2921.

With today's prices, it's no wonder the liquor buyer gets soaked. Our Boozer claims.

REVIEW FORTHCOMING?
Dear Pots:
I'm disappointed. Here Haystack Hattie or Mirandy Peabody or whatever she calls herself and wrote a letter to Pot Shots telling how she and Zeke aimed to be in town for the big parade. Were they?
"I'm still waiting for her review of the parade. Didn't get to see it myself and I figured Hattie or Mirandy or whatever she calls herself would up and write her impressions for the benefit of us stay-at-homes."
How about it, Mirandy? Or is it Hattie?

ATTENTION: MRS. P. S.
It isn't often Pot Shots finds a little story worth repeating. (In print) but we ran across one that keeps coming back to mind and somehow or other reminds us of the way Mrs. P. S. tells a story. Or nearly any woman, for that matter. Here 'tis:
Husband: "I'd tell you the story about the drive window, but you can't see through it."
Friend wife carries this around for awhile and tells it thusly: "Did you ever hear the story about the window you can't see through? It's too dirty to tell!"

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK — In all the chorus of contrition for sins against the good and gentle mores of this republic, there is none who can flounce his sackcloth with better grace nor pluck his wail in more melodious tones than Donald Randall Richberg, one of the worst of the ideological wantons who came whooping in with Roosevelt in 1933.
Mr. Richberg confirmed his vices. He was accomplice in the National Industrial Recovery act of 1933 and, later, was general counsel and chairman of the national recovery administration. These were sheer, leering fascism and it is no excuse for Mr. Richberg to say that most of us were more or less crazy at the time because, in the first place, most of us weren't, and, furthermore, he had been raised up to know that this wild fling was indecent according to his own lights.

However, there is joy in heaven and in the hearts of those who morosely cherish the memory of the U. S. Constitution, over the meagerness of backlist bolos of all degrees. So I take spiritual delight in the running repentance of a man who not only regrets with ecstacy but, after a dozen years of it, has never run out of gas.
There is something of the style of Bob Moses in Richberg's writing but, if I may be pardoned an elbow in Mr. Moses' slats on a far turn, I should like to note that Don turns more and more Republican while Bob, in his obsession over public housing, gets more and more stuck on Marx. My essay treats of a particular act of contrition which Mr. Richberg declared on May 14 at a feeding of the South O'Leary bar at Charleston. After Gov. Jimmy Byrnes had sweetened him up to the barristers in that honeysuckle brogue which wrought so many miracles of compromise in Washington but won nothing but nyet in Moscow and Potsdam, Mr. Richberg said:
"Having been accused of being a renegade from the New Deal and from organized labor, I welcome the opportunity to explain why I glory in my sinning. When a Sunday school teacher asked 'What must you do before you can obtain forgiveness of sin?' a young pupil answered, 'You must first sin.' If I had never sinned, how could I ask forgiveness?"
You will note that Mr. Richberg outlevered himself in that passage for he then had the difficult task of indicating that the sin consisted of forsaking, not adoring, false gods. But let him talk himself out of that one. Sometimes a fellow lets rhetorical flourishes foul him up and I am too far lost in delight at the grand effect to quibble over gristle in a good burgeo.

Rotary Speaker Talks on Scouts

HAILEY, June 8 — A "selling" program for the Boy Scout program here was conducted by Dr. Arthur Richards, program chairman, at a meeting of the Hailey Rotary club Thursday.
Dr. Richards stressed the need for a "positive attitude" by local residents so that Scouting "might be more than a device to keep boys off the streets and out of trouble."
Correspondence on the Idaho Ranch for Youth was received and discussed. The matter was tabled until a policy for appeals can be formulated.
Dinner was served by Mrs. Garth Sims, Mrs. Mary Bonin, Mrs. Jim Rarr and Mrs. L. A. Stevens.

Friday's speaker will be Sen. Henry C. Dworshak, R., Ida. The three-day convention will close Saturday. Some 1,000 Elks are expected to attend.
Sales of dog food in the United States topped 200 million dollars in 1953, twice the amount spent in 1947.

By HENRY McLEMORE
SYDNEY, Australia—These Australian notes were scribbled while I was sitting in the chair at Government house that was the favorite chair of Queen Elizabeth when she resided there during her recent visit to this country. I only mention this to show you how far along a Georgia cracker can come if he keeps his head in the clouds and his nose to the grindstone. After sitting where the Queen sat, I'll probably keep my nose in the clouds and my head to the grindstone.
Lieut. Gen. Sir John Northcott, governor of New South Wales, endeared himself to me when, in showing us about the gardens, he apologized for their appearance. "If you could only have been here a bit earlier, and seen them when they were perfect," he said. Have you ever seen any garden at the right time? You are always a bit too early, or a bit too late.
Baseball is catching on pretty well in Australia, although it isn't a serious rival to cricket, soccer or football. I am told by Americans that the Aussies are "good field, no hit" players. It isn't played exactly according to American rules, however. Whereas we take only a seventh-inning stretch, the Aussies, players and spectators, take a half-hour tea break. What a grand sight it would have been to see Babe Ruth sipping tea at a table in deep night, or Dixie Dean giving a crumpet to the works on the pitching mound!

Australian men are very partial to mustaches. You see more of them in one day in Sydney than you do in a year in New York. Beards have their devotees, too, especially in the winter. With the heating what it is, I am sure I'd have a beard if I lived here. Also muttonchops, whiskers.
Steak and eggs is the national Australian dish. A slab of steak with two, three or four fried eggs for garnish.
You can buy this for the equivalent of 50 cents. Speaking of food, Australian seafood must be as fine as anywhere in the world. I think the best oyster I have ever eaten is the small one gathered from the Hawkesbury river here in Sydney. The lobster—and shrimp—are the equal of ours, and I have never eaten such scallops as those from Tasmania's waters.
Beer is supposed to be the national drink of the country, but I am inclined to believe that milk is. You can't walk more than half a block in Sydney without passing a milk bar, and in many of them the specialty of the house is hot malted milk. Aussies don't drink enough water to keep a petunia plant alive. The only drinking water I have seen is that which is placed on a table by the lift every night. A pitcher and six or seven glasses. No one but Americans ever touches the stuff.
Australians are the world's most daring Jaywalkers. New Yorkers are supposed to be good at threading

Two Dairy Herds Gain Recognition

JEROME, June 8 — Two herds of Ruth and Edna Jerome, have received recognition from the Aryshire Association for outstanding production.
The association said the herd was credited with 1,194 pounds of 34 per cent 45 pounds of butterfat in recent months. Meyer's aged 878 pounds of 4 per cent and 35 pounds of butterfat.
The records place the herd in the nation's top Aryshire the junior division of the herd test.

Much Wanted Killer Nabbed In Mine Zone

ELKO, Nev., June 8 (AP) — John Alfred Hopkins, a limping escaped convict and one of the FBI's "10 most wanted" criminals, was captured last night in a mining area near Elko.

He was brought to the Elko county jail, where FBI agents planned to question him today.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, who announced the capture in Washington, said Hopkins had three knives on him when arrested.

Hopkins, 39, escaped last November from the Arizona State prison, where he was serving a life term for the slaying of a policeman. FBI agents described him as "vicious and vindictive."

Hopkins had been working in the Gold Acre mine in the Beowawe area for the past several weeks.

In Salt Lake City, FBI agents declined to disclose immediately the information on which Hopkins was captured. Charles Fletcher, acting agent in charge of the Salt Lake field office, said agents had been working on a tip that originated "some time" ago.

Hopkins was placed on the FBI's "10 most wanted" list May 18, 1954. Beginning his criminal career as a juvenile burglar in his home town of Spokane in 1932, Hopkins continued in and out of jails both in Washington and California on burglary, forgery and car theft charges until 1945.

Rites Conducted For John H. Hill

BURLEY, June 8—Funeral services for John Henry Hill were held at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Burley LDS third ward chapel with Bishop Robert Ramsey officiating. The prayer at home was given by Carl Heiner.

Prelude and postlude music was given by Fern McBride. The male quartet consisted of Sidney Larsen, Max Kidd, Alvin Kelly, Carl Heiner, accompanied by Darlene Larsen. The invocation was given by Albert Harper and the obituary and tribute by Bishop Ramsey. The speaker was Bishop Sidney Larsen. A solo was given by Al Hanks, accompanied by Fern McBride. Concluding speaker was Bishop Lewis Drake. A duet was sung by June Hutchinson and Darlene Drussell. Benediction was given by Ralph Hataway.

Pallbearers were Jack and Don Hill, Bill and Kenneth Benson, Jack Funk and Jerry Bailey. The Relief society had charge of the flowers which were carried by Billy Jean Smith, Estella Mae Benson, Georgia Lee Hill, Vicki Kerbe, Lanny King, Mrs. Arthur Tilley, Alta Larsen, Lucina Ramsey, Lierine Reiner and Mrs. Leonard King.

Final services were conducted at Pleasant View cemetery. The grave was dedicated by Jack Hill.

Services Held

BURLEY, June 8—Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Monday in the Joseph Payne Memorial chapel for Craig Bell, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bell. The Rev. A. M. Thomas officiated.

Soloist was Mrs. A. A. Arnold, accompanied by Mrs. Helen Henderson. Honorary pallbearers were Ted Arbogast, Ace Parsh, Bill Core, Floyd Head, and the flower bearers were Esther Arbogast, Rozella Toner, Hazel Schwagler, Ethel Becker, and Dorothy Blankenship. Concluding services were conducted at Pleasant View cemetery by the Rev. A. M. Thomas.

Surprise Cake Pleases Visitor

Michigan Woman Says Cake For Birthday Pleasant Event

"You've made me feel like one of you," states Mrs. Ruby Hebron, Cassopolis, Mich., sister of C. E. Bisbee, pioneer Twin Falls photographer, who is visiting in Twin Falls.

Prompting the remark was presentation of a birthday cake to her Monday evening by Howard Moffat in behalf of the city. The cake was presented at a dinner attended by Mrs. Hebron, her son, George Hebron, and Moffat.

Although observing her 86th birthday anniversary, Mrs. Hebron was surprised and a bit overwhelmed that strangers should remember her birthday.

"It is always unpleasant to travel many miles to arrange funeral services for a relative," she explained, "but the people of Twin Falls have made me feel as if I am one of them."

The cake came as a complete surprise to Mrs. Hebron.

Just prior to dinner, she had com-

commented it was her birthday and if she were home her friends would be in to visit her and there most certainly would be a birthday cake.

Dismissing the thought, Mrs. Hebron, her son and Moffat went to dinner. Following the meal, the cake was brought in. Mrs. Hebron reports she was at a loss for words.

For complete strangers to be so kind makes me realize I am among friends, she declared. "You've certainly set an example for others."

Mrs. Hebron flew here from her home in Cassopolis to arrange services for her brother.

Since arriving here, she has been contacted by a multitude of people extending courtesies and volunteering to show her around Twin Falls and the surrounding community.

Clarence E. Bisbee made a major contribution to the growth of the Twin Falls tract through his many pictures, states Moffat, and most

Utah Group Begins Action for Possible Uranium Rights 'War'

SALT LAKE CITY, June 8 (AP)—In what may be the beginnings of a major war over uranium rights, a group of Salt Lake City businessmen has filed for potash prospecting permits on more than one million acres of land in southeastern Utah's uranium-rich San Juan and Grand counties.

Ostensibly acting as individuals, the Salt Laker filed their claims yesterday with the federal land and survey office in Salt Lake City. Their 400 permits each cover 2,500 acres.

Much of the land already is covered by uranium claims, but a spokesman said it was "in no sense an effort to jump any claims in the area."

The spokesman, N. G. Morgan, Jr., an oil and gas figure, said he thought the filings would do much to "clarify title" to the minerals there.

"It is our belief," he said, "that many invalid locations have been made by persons with no intention of mining uranium or anything else," he added.

The theory behind the filings, as explained by another spokesman, is belief that no valid mining location basis for this theory. It offers to buy uranium from persons or companies which are prospecting the public domain for other minerals, under permits issued under the Mineral Leasing act. Potash is covered by this act.

No corporate or firm names were listed among yesterday's applications for the two-year prospecting permits, and the roster of individuals reads like a blue book of Utah business.

The names include David Freed, financier and sports enthusiast; Leonard B. Flint, a director of Kennecott Copper corporation and president of Flint Distributing company; W. K. Mallicoate, manager of Desert Livestock company; and auto dealer and real estate agent Dr. H. W. ...

The proof is in! Actual N.A.D.A. used car statistics show that last year's Mercury depreciated far less than the 10 other cars in its price field! This brings up to date a long-standing record: For several years authoritative surveys have consistently named Mercury the top resale value in its class. And it's a record brilliantly upheld by 91% of all Mercurys ever built for America: They're still going strong today!

But you'll immediately recognize this matchless value when you inspect the trim 1954 Mercury; you'll sense its lasting quality from your first exciting moments behind the wheel... hills, highways, or heavy traffic, you'll feel the same ready response to your lightest touch. And as the years go by, its low-cost, trouble-free operation will make you a Mercury fan forever!

Here are three reasons why we predict the 1954 Mercury has the greatest future of them all:

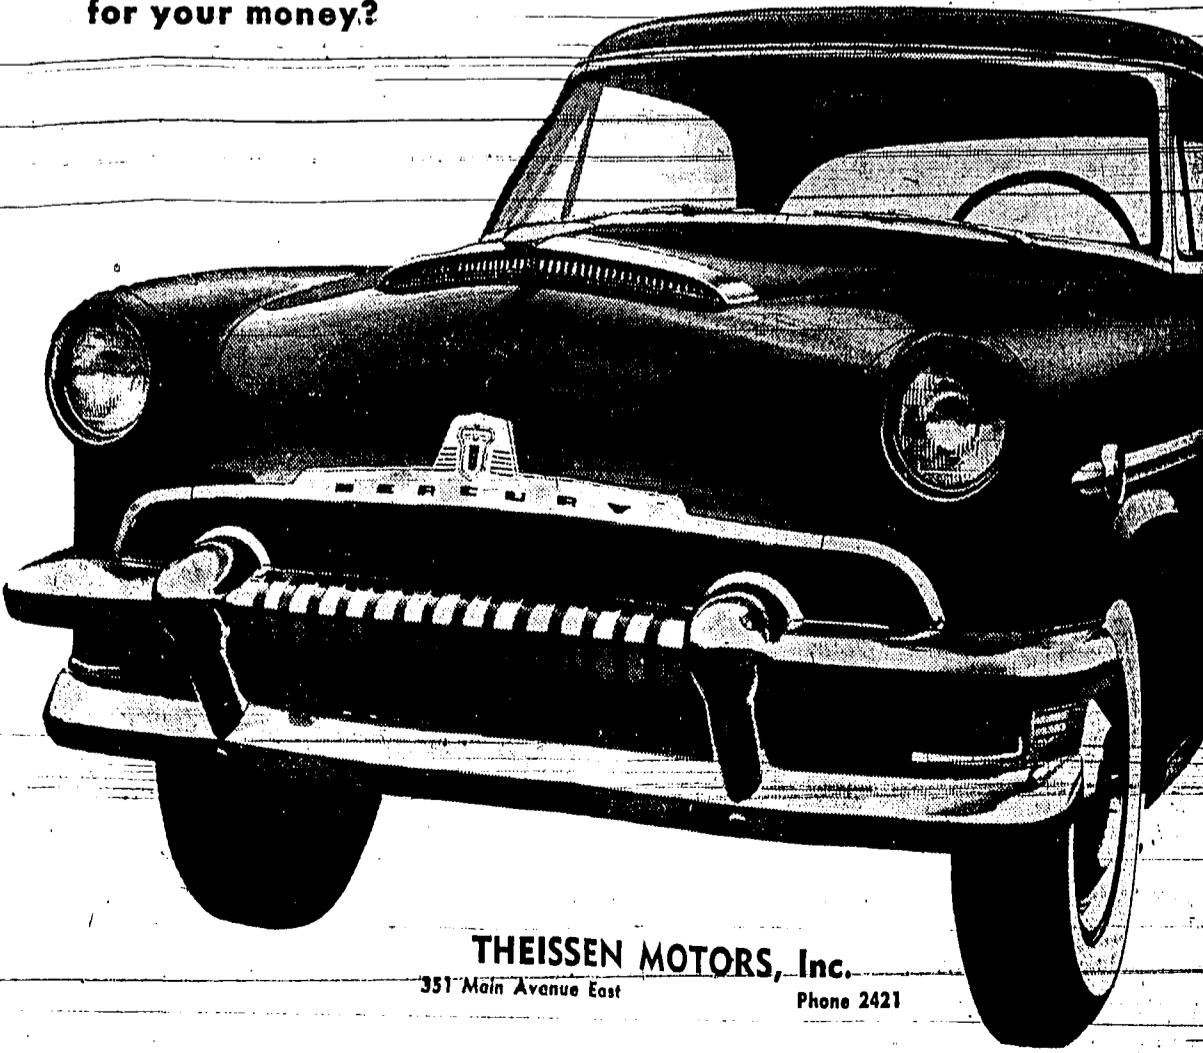

1. V-161 ENGINE—The new power plant called by insiders the most efficient type of engine in the world.
2. BALL JOINT FRONT SUSPENSION—The greatest riding improvement in 20 years, and a feature exclusive with Mercury in the price field.
3. FIVE POWER OPTIONS—Another first in the field—and another reason why Mercury is easier to drive, and more fun to own!

Come in for a talk and a test drive; we've got the car, the color, and the deal for you! Why take a chance on another car when you can be sure of the best in Mercury!
