Weakening of West Nations Worries U. S.

his patience on this long-frustrated project, about which he has repeatedly warned the French government and people.

Dulles returned from a flying tour of the west coast after midnight Saturday. By 10 a. m. EDT, he was at his state department desk conferring with Counselor Douglas MacArthur II, Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy, Assistant Secretary Livingston Merchant, who deals with European affairs; Acting Assistant Secretary Everett Drumwright, policy planning Chief Robert Bowie and others.

There was no prospect that the United States government will intervene in the Indochina war prior to the battle for Hanoi, it is joined by July 1 as officials now expect. There is a belief, however, that if the allies could begin to take the political steps toward military intervention it would overcome some of the bad morale among native forces in Indochina and strengthen the French resolve.

But there is no certainty that these political steps can be taken in time and the uncertainty has been greatly increased by the French national assembly's rebuff today to Premier Joseph Laniel's government, resulting in Laniel's offer to resign. These events may be dealt with quickly next week, but there is a big chance that France will be paralyzed for days or weeks, insofar as great new policy decisions are concerned.

Benson Raps Lack of Push For Products

HOT SPRINGS, Va., June 12 (AP)—Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson said today it is "high time" agriculture fought for consumer attention and dollars with eye and taste appeal gimmicks used by other industries.

"I'm a little tired of watching other segments in the economy out-promote agriculture," he said. "It's time we started out-promoting some of our competitors."

Americans know about the "pause that refreshes," he said. Television viewers can tell you the beverage that "made Milwaukee famous."

Television "light fans" know the answer to the query, "what'll you have?"

"... they don't think about a delightfully refreshing cool glass of milk when they hear it," Benson said.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the American plant food council, Benson also complained that women "spend more for beauty aids" than they do for milk.

"Now please understand, I'm all for beauty," Benson said. "I just happen to believe that a pint of milk is a lot better than a mighty fund."

He said it is "high time that agriculture used more of the legitimate want-creating techniques employed so successfully by other segments of the economy."

Emphasizing the importance of marketing techniques, Benson said his democratic predecessors "neglected" market—"sold it short"—by placing primary reliance on rigid price supports.

East Buying State Spuds, Confab Told

SUN VALLEY, June 12 (Special)—Idaho potatoes are finding a ready market on the east coast, members of the Idaho Shippers' association were told here Friday.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the association, C. C. Pearce, Jr., Greenville, S. C., president of the United Fresh-Fruit and Vegetable association, said Idaho spuds are able to compete in eastern markets because "your brand and the word 'Idaho' is on every 10-pound bag you ship, and the housewife is not easy to fool."

Another speaker told the association "proper planning" can enable the American businessman to avail himself of maximum profit savings and provide for transfer of his estate to his family at minimum tax expense.

E. E. Ranta, Minneapolis tax and estate consultant, told the group the average businessman overlooks important aspects of financial planning that can save money when settling with the tax collector. In addition, he declared, family corporations and issuance of debenture bonds are useful in effecting tax savings and for economically passing on estates.

Women are doing more of the food buying and are demanding more service, smaller packages and more ready-to-cook items, M. S. Christensen, manager of Safeway's Rexford Pre-Pak company, Oakland, declared earlier.

Seven, eight and nine ounce potatoes are preferred by housewives for general cooking, he declared. The smallest spuds they will accept are the five-ounce size and the largest 10-ounce, he added.

"Quarantine" For Reds Gets

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration's investigation of reported government housing scandals has come up with its first list of alleged "windfall" profiteers—and more may follow.

Housing Chief Albert M. Cole announced late yesterday that a two-month inquiry has discovered 200 apartment promoters who he said pocketed nearly 40 million dollars in profits from inflated government-backed loans on 70 projects in 18 states and the District of Columbia.

William F. McKenna, Cole's deputy in charge of the investigation, said it already has been shown "beyond question that certain promoters were aided and guided by former top federal housing administration (FHA) officials in the windfall practices."

Cole sent the list of 200 corporations to the justice department for "such civil or criminal proceedings" as may be indicated.

In making the list public, Cole said it covers only a tiny percentage of the several thousands of cases under study. He promised that McKenna's staff will forward to the justice department any more windfall cases unearthed in a continuing probe of irregularities under a post World War II apartment building program.

Tot Strangles in 'Freak' Accident

SPOKANE, June 12 (AP)—A 2-year-old boy who apparently tried to crawl through the partially closed window of an automobile, was strangled in a freak accident today.

The child, Timothy Froese, lost his footing after sticking his head through the opening. A doctor and firemen worked in vain in an effort to revive him.

Mrs. Froese said the boy got into the car in front of the house, rolled the window down a bit, then tried to crawl out. His body was found by his little 7-year-old aunt, Linda Carrell, Gresham, Ore., who is visiting here.

LDS People Told To Choose Right

SALT LAKE CITY, June 12 (AP)—Young people of the Latter-day Saints church were told today that they face today "more vicious and destructive philosophies" than ever before.

They were urged by Elroy L. Christensen, an assistant to the church's council of twelve apostles, "to choose the right and shun evil."

Elder Christensen spoke at one of a number of departmental sessions that made up today's program of the annual conference of the church's Mutual Improvement society. An estimated 25,000 attended the departmental meetings, held in various buildings over the city.

The annual conference winds up Sunday with a morning general session and an afternoon speech conference.

"Red" Planes To Blast U. S. Cities in Test

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Fifty-four American and Canadian cities theoretically will be blown into blazing ruin Monday and Tuesday under a simulated mass attack by 426 "Soviet" planes.

This will be a make-believe on an utterly serious basis, to test civil defenses on a nation-wide scale against a hypothetical onslaught of atom and hydrogen bombs, guided atomic missiles, high explosive and incendiary bombs, sabotage and psychological and germ warfare.

"Operation alert," the federal civil defense administration calls it, FODA will mastermind it from two headquarters, one a secret hideaway, the other in nearby Maryland.

The idea is to try out communications, find out what civil defense organizations in the states and cities are capable of doing, and give civil defense workers some realistic training.

In the continental United States, 41 major cities, from Los Angeles to Boston, from Seattle to Tampa, will be attack targets. So will eight cities stretching across Canada from coast to coast, and two in Alaska and one each in Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Another 85 cities theoretically will come under attack from weapons other than nuclear ones or will get in on the drill with theoretical help for "stricken" neighbors, caring for casualties and taking in the homeless.

OUR LIVING STANDARD

Every now and then it pays to take stock of the kind of life we are living materially in the United States. A lot of comfort can be found in the current economic statistics.

Indeed, we could afford to be a fairly care-free people if they were the only measure of how things are going for us in this world.

The magazine U. S. News has just done another of its competent surveys on our living standards, and it finds the picture astonishingly bright. It draws parallels throughout the survey between 1940 and now.

In 1940 America had somewhat less than 40 million families, while today the total exceeds 48 million.

Then, when the nation was just emerging from a long depression into the prosperity of the prewar "defense era," only 15,200,000 families—well below half—owned their own homes. Today 28,500,000, considerably more than half the country's families, possess their homes.

The automobile long has been a symbol of U. S. living standards and in 1940 a bit more than half our families had one. Yet in 1954 the figure has soared far beyond the 1940 total of 21,200,000 to a present 37,000,000 families—three fourths—who own cars.

Take a look at such indexes of material well-being as home electricity, running water, inside toilets, tub or shower baths, the telephone.

In 1940, 79 per cent of U. S. homes had electricity, in 1954, 98 per cent; the comparable figures on running water are 70 per cent and 98 per cent; on toilets, 65 per cent and 80 per cent; on tubs or showers, 61 per cent and 78 per cent; on telephones, a mere 36 per cent and 69 per cent.

For all the jokes of our European friends about our "bathtub culture," these are not trivial figures. They are the kind the sociologists pay close heed to in measuring the quality of our housing. When the experts talk of "substandard" housing, they mean, among other things, houses deficient in some of the items noted above.

Americans, of course, have not been content with these minimum essentials of good housing. They have gone to outfitting their households with all manner of devices and appliances, some of which are obviously labor-saving and others of which fall into the "luxury" category.

Some 42 per cent of U. S. homes had washing machines in 1940, and today the percentage is 72. Use of vacuum cleaners is up from 34 per cent to 66. On electric irons, the increase is from 67 per cent to 83 per cent of all families; on toasters, from 39 per cent to 66.

Radio was well established in 1940, with 83 per cent of all families owning one or more. In the years since—and the period covers the great impact of TV—usage of radio has gone up to 98 per cent.

Meantime, TV, starting from scratch in 1940, has zoomed to a point where already 61 per cent of all U. S. families own a set.

Figures like these don't say anything about our spiritual condition, or our moral standards, or our troubled relations with friends and potential enemies beyond our shores.

But they do make it strikingly plain that in the business of gaining the hard necessities and many of the shiny appurtenances of material life, we are well ahead of where we used to be. That's something to be thankful for.

SAME OLD "YES, BUT"

President Eisenhower got Dr. Arthur F. Burns, chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers, to hold a press conference the other day on the subject of general business conditions. It was his first such press conference since Dr. Burns went to Washington 15 months ago. It probably will be his last. But it was fun while it lasted.

Midway in the hour-long conference, when the questions were flying thick and fast and the answers weren't getting any easier, Dr. Burns' his curved-stem, black pipe in his mouth and speaking through his teeth—observed unhappily: "I used to be able to conduct a class in economics, but I'm not doing so well."

The conference did produce one flat, final, unassailable and uncontroversial economic prediction on which any businessman can easily chart his course for the coming months. It was:

"What the future has in store, no one can say."

Dr. Burns admitted at the outset that he couldn't answer fully and loquaciously all questions that came his way. Because of his confidential relationship with the President, he had to be reticent on some things. But in general he felt the situation was pretty good.

"My optimism is chronic," he confessed at one point in the interview. Later on he said, "We always have to be on guard against over-optimism."

In other words, economics under a Republican administration would still seem to be the same old inexact yes-but-on-the-other-hand science that it was in Democratic days, and you can take your pick of whatever prediction seems to suit your own private hunch.

People with a wishbone where the backbone ought to be constantly complain about not getting ahead.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions on national and international politics and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker, 4008 Hillcrest Circle, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—Why doesn't President Eisenhower take the hunt for reds out of Senator McCarthy's hands, asks L. P. Auburn, N. Y., "by setting up a small compact cabinet group to eliminate them from government more promptly than has been done in the past? I see that this plan would saddle McCarthy."

Answer: As I wrote some time ago, President Eisenhower has ordered an acceleration and more active work against suspected communists and sympathizers in the government. He also called for more publicity on the effort.

At a recent press conference, when this field, he reported on the administration's success in convicting, deporting and tracking down reds. Attorney General Brown has been making the same kind of reports in his speeches throughout the country.

SHERMAN ADAMS TASK—Eisenhower has handed the job of coordinating and publishing anti-red operations to Sherman Adams. White House chief-of-staff, Adams, you will recall, sat in on the conference at which it was decided to make public McCarthy-Cohn pressure on behalf of Pvt. G. David Schine. That was Adams' doing, nobody else's. He also advised on the proceedings against Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer.

Four weeks ago, before Eisenhower or Brownell tried to exalt their own and minimize McCarthy's interest and activity in this subject Adams delivered the White House defense in an address before the National Association of Manufacturers of New England. He had obviously assembled the data for the anti-McCarthy campaign.

It may also be significant in this connection that Sen. Ralph E. Flanders, Vermont, has been McCarthy's severest critic. He and Adams are close friends, personally and politically.

"In this new plan of Ike's to share our atomic war secrets and weapons with our allies," writes R. H. D. Sunnyside, Wash., "what protection will we have to keep them from falling into the hands of communist spies? Aren't we committing suicide by giving away vital defense secrets, which cost so much money and on which our security depends?"

Answer: The proposed revision of the Atomic Energy act does not provide that we share secret processes or weapons with anybody, including the allies. It would simply permit our experts to apprise their opposites of the contributions which atomic bombs and artillery would make in the fields of strategy and tactics.

INFORMATION FOR OUR ALLIES—That is, we would tell them the area and extent of damage against cities, ports, dumps and against troops in the field. We would tell them how quickly they could be employed against the enemy, and what the expected result would be. We would not teach them how to make atomic weapons.

In a World War III, of course, we would have to pool our atomic arsenals. But by that time, I imagine, there will remain very few secrets concerning the application of nuclear energy to warfare.

I have never thought that Ike's proposal for a world atomic pool for peacetime use was realistic. We could not trust the Russians, and, as it has turned out, they will not trust us. It was made, in the general belief, simply for its effect on world opinions, and to place Moscow in the position of refusing to develop this great source for international peace and progress.

"Is Ray Jenkins, committee counsel in the McCarthy-army brawl, as tough a customer as he looks and acts on television?" asks Mrs. T. F. Brooklyn. Answer: Quite the opposite. He is a gentle, good-natured and extremely likable gentleman. What you see on the screen is what he calls "my criminal jury pose." He tried to shed that behavior, but can't quite make it overnight.

He has three hobbies—his grandchildren, his farm and cattle, his politics and what he calls his "cracker barrel friends." Those are strange labels for a "tough guy."

VIEWS OF OTHERS

FISH CONSERVATION—IN REVERSE

The opening of the fishing season last Friday was welcomed with open arms, not only by Idaho fishermen, but by hordes of fishermen from Utah. The game warden in the Island Park area were wholly insufficient in number to check the hundreds of fishermen as to licenses and amount of fish taken, and the "fish hogs" are said to have had a field day as a result.

For days prior to the opening the Salt Lake Tribune carried columns of stories relative to the excellent fishing prospects at the reservoir at Island Park and the North Fork in general.

The result was literally hundreds of boats went north prior to the opening, ranging in everything as to size from the small outboards to mammoth inboards.

If the state game department has not enough men or finances to properly patrol this influx, the proper thing is to raise the ante as to license fees, so that available funds will be possible to care for this week spot in fish conservation. Among fishermen there are bound to be so many "game hogs," and one of our neighboring states seems to have more than their share of this variety, as demonstrated annually by past experiences, in fish as well as birds.

Another weak spot in game conservation in the Island Park country, is the question "just why fishermen are allowed to take fish from Henry lake and the Island Park reservoir after July 4th." At this period of the year the water is filled with algae, and the fish are so muddy and worthless as to eating, that it is impossible to stay in the room where they are being cooked. The fish taken are thus a total loss.

Of course, the shutdown of these waters would create a howl from the resort owners who secure patronage from fishermen, but who otherwise contribute not a dime to fish conservation, but "cash in" on the situation at the sole expense of the sportsmen of Idaho, who purchase licenses to pay for fish propagation.

The $64 dollar question which the Idaho sportsmen would like answered by the Idaho fish and game department, is just how come this fish propagation in reverse, so far as Island Park reservoir and Henry lake are concerned.

We would certainly like to hear the department's answer to this query—Rigby Star.

HIGHWAYS COMMISSION COMENDED

Last Saturday Idaho state highway commissioners and other highway officials met with city, county, highway districts and Chamber of Commerce representatives from over the county in Gooding. At this meeting commissioners explained proposed highway projects, funds available and in general answered all questions relative to highway problems which were asked them.

In the not too far distant past the commissioners have been asked over the coal for their arbitrary attitude with various groups. In fact, public relations as far as the highway department is concerned were at a low ebb.

During the past two weeks highway officials have traveled over 3,000 miles in the state visiting with various groups. In our book we venture to say that city and county leaders now have more respect for the commissioners and the job they're trying to do in building permanent highways in our state. We are sure our highway problems are better understood by many more of our residents since they have been brought to the local level.

The highway commission is to be commended for their program of public meetings. We dare say that when the people of Idaho are asked next year to contribute additional funds to match increased federal highway dollars the job will be fine program of playing their cards on the table before the citizens of the Gem state—Gooding Leader.

Other than that, we don't know for nuthin'. The report said Mirandy and Zeke were out pacing up and down Main all dressed up fit to kill. And we don't even know for sure it's the Mirandy and Zeke mentioned now and then in this corner.

If anyone has a firsthand report, we'll welcome it. Of course, Mirandy will probably send her report on the next stagecoach.

SOMEONE WOKE UP!

Dear Pot Shots:

There are a few Republican politicians in Washington that I would like to take a few pot shots at—and I don't mean with a television camera either.

If some of them would spend even half of their working time doing the job in congress they were elected to do instead of howling for publicity and burning the midnight oil thinking up how to pick quarrels and make trouble for other people this country wouldn't be going to pot.

Politicians who straddle the issue are apt to be taken for a ride. Our Voter points out.

TWO YEAR DILEMMA

Dear Pot Shots:

Now that primary elections are coming up in a month or two and we are being deluged by candidates' names, I find it a serious problem which side to take.

The Republicans seem to be just as bad as the Democrats and vice versa. I think they are aptly represented by the donkey and the elephant, for the donkey is so stubborn he won't go and he has a loud bray and the elephant is one of the fastest four-footed land animals on the run and in season is inclined to madness.

On second thought I believe both parties ought to be represented by the ostrich which puts its head in the sand to avoid trouble. Just what is the poor voter to do?

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK—A fascinating story of American journalism, published last December in the Editor and Publisher, was lost to the general public as though this saga of a classic come-uppance had been a private affair within the confidential circle of an old-school "cut."

This was a signed piece by T. Thackrey, late editor of the New York Compass, whose ills included an operative Westbrook Pegler pundit with a secretary, three staff members assigned to do his research, and a habit of going on trips to keep lecture dates, at the expense of the Compass.

"It was only after the first few weeks that the actual cost of maintaining this reporter in the style to which he had been accustomed developed into a genuine economic threat," Thackrey wrote. "His articles were first rate but they soon reverted to a production that would have required our entire editorial budget to maintain."

Mr. Thackrey then mentioned the Great Brain's habit of assigning himself to trips coinciding with certain lecture dates "with the cost of travel and of telegraphed copy borne by the newspaper." The first of these jaunts left the Compass poorer by more than an extra $1,000 for three articles in a paper of fewer than 50,000 circulation.

Henry Wallace bird-dogged a sucker, Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, Chicago, who had given freely to bubblehead's presidential campaign and still had money left for similar whimsies. Mrs. Blaine's attorney, a Taft Republican, was out of sympathy with bubblehead, but Thackrey and Wallace called on the old girl—who has since died—in Chicago, and after listening to their pitch she went into "private vigil" with herself.

Under divine guidance she then put up $300,000. In New York, another prospect wiggled away so Thackrey went back to Mrs. Blaine for a double-dip. After further spiritual consultation she came up with another chunk, amount unstated, but apparently almost $300,000 more.

There were those in the profession and among the laity who regarded the Compass as a "red" paper. Mr. Thackrey admits that they were entitled to their suspicions although he explicitly denied them. On this point he says that although the Compass had no actual connection with PM or the Star which preceded it, many of its employees were inherited from PM and the Star.

This "continuity of affiliation was among the problems which proved unsurmountable."

"There can be no doubt," he says, "that this reputation (for radical policies) did adversely affect our chances." And they didn't have time enough, with the capital they could raise, to establish their own character, whatever it might have been. Thackrey seems to imply that this character would have been different,

Seven Things Rival Fury of Tornado

In concentrated fury and destructiveness surely few things rival the titanic force unleashed by the tornado whose season is now approaching—and upwards of 100 will be wreaking destruction over the U. S. and Canada this year.

Within 60 seconds, one of these violent "twisters" can lay waste to a city—leaving in its wake ponderous steel bridges which have been lifted from their piers, straws driven into oaks, locomotives tumbled from their tracks, birds stripped naked, 10-ton boulders rolled up hillsides and trees, roofs, cattle and humans hurled aloft like matchsticks and strewn over the land perhaps a dozen miles away.

A tornado results from a violent updraft of warm air and the spiraling action is imparted by the earth's rotation on its axis—this rotation turns the wind to the left (counterclockwise) in the northern hemisphere and to the right (clockwise) in the southern.

The manifestations of an onrushing tornado, usually advancing from the westward, are sinister, awful and never to be erased from one's memory. The clouds themselves are hurled into wild turmoil with two cloud masses sometimes sucked in—one from the southwest the other from the northwest. On meeting, they dash over and into one another in every-which direction—now dashing toward the earth, now rushing upward, while in the midst on comes that twisting funnel, the engine of destruction, whose axis may be straight up and down, contorted or greatly inclined.

Occasionally around the top of the funnel one may see black objects whirling—these are branches, parts of houses, living beings or whatever happened to be in its violent path and swept up by the great suction cup.

Then as the tornado sweeps on there is an overpowering roar as of incessant explosions which drown out the noise of snapping trees, crashing buildings and all but the nearest cracks of the frequently accompanying thunder.

The actual advance of the tornado seldom exceeds an hour but within the hour which creates the twister the speed has not yet formed. Certainly the problem is when the twister forms, it is not less than 30 miles an hour and it is not less than 30 miles an hour. People living along the path of the twister are grateful to themselves for being located in the "safe" zone somewhere around the twister's path. As the twister approaches, it is not less than 30 miles an hour and it is not less than 30 miles an hour. People living along the path of the twister are grateful to themselves for being located in the "safe" zone somewhere around the twister's path.

When such a twister strikes, it is not less than 30 miles an hour and it is not less than 30 miles an hour. People living along the path of the twister are grateful to themselves for being located in the "safe" zone somewhere around the twister's path.

Long-Awaited Reaction Hits Stock Market

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—A long-awaited reaction hit the stock market this week with full force and sent prices down in the hardest fall in four years.

The rebound from the big break was substantial, but the over-all performance of the market left a lot of unanswered questions.

The background of the break and the subsequent rebound is easily documented. In the middle of last September, the stock market hit its low of the year and then started a rally that hardly paused for breath for nearly nine months.

Ordinarily, the market will hesitate from time to time and retrace some of its gain before starting forward again. This the market didn't do.

Traders Wait

Therefore many traders and others have been standing around waiting for the market to go into a substantial but normal reaction.

Tuesday it came. There was no warning. Shortly after the start of the second hour of trading, selling on a large scale started and mushroomed with such rapidity that the tape fell as much as four minutes behind in reporting the progress of buying and selling on the floor of the New York stock exchange.

Almost everything was dumped into the selling hopper—steels, motors, oils, railroads, aircrafts and others.

Everyone asked: "What caused it all?"

Prediction Is True

Brokers almost universally said it was a technical reaction of a type that usually follows a long rise. They expected that it would go further. It did the next day.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks Tuesday dropped $2.90. That was the greatest retreat for the average since the start of the Korean war four years ago.

There is one great unanswered question. Has the reaction run its course?

Thursday and Friday this week the market rebounded with quite a show of vigor. However, volume was unusually low while prices were rising. That is hardly reassuring to those who would like to see an end to the selling.

Four Unhurt as Auto Rolls Over

JEROME, June 12—A driver and her three daughters escaped injury but $700 damage resulted to her car when it overturned on highway 93 one and one-half miles north of the highway 25 junction at 12:45 p. m. Saturday.

The car hit the soft shoulder, swung across the road and back again into a borrow pit where it overturned.

Sheriff Burns said neither Mrs. Robinson nor her three daughters was injured.

Candidate Urges Tax Reappraisal

PRESTON, June 12 (AP)—Cantril Nielsen, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, said today a reappraisal of the state's corporation income tax schedule is needed to attract new industry to Idaho.

"It isn't a matter of reducing the taxes, but one of changing the assessment law," he said in a campaign statement. "This has frightened many a prospective industrialist away."

Attracting new industry and more tourists is a principal plan in Nielsen's platform. He maintains the tourist industry could bring another 50 to 100 million dollars a year into the state.

Nielsen said his duties as chairman of the Bannock county board of commissioners keep him tied up the early part of each week, but he hopes to arrange his business to spend another two weeks in north Idaho during the campaign.

Oppose Solon's Move to McCarthy-Army Hearing

Boise, June 12 (AP)—An open letter to the Senate today urged that the move to send Joseph P. McCarthy to a Senate hearing on charges of disloyalty be opposed. The letter, signed by a group of Idahoans, stated that the move to send McCarthy to a hearing was "a gross insult to the Senate and a gross insult to the American people." It urged that the Senate "refuse to waste its time and energy on a hearing which would do nothing to clear McCarthy's name and which would only serve to bring further dishonor to the Senate and to the American people."

The letter also stated that the move to send McCarthy to a hearing was "a gross insult to the American people" and that the Senate should "refuse to waste its time and energy on a hearing which would do nothing to clear McCarthy's name and which would only serve to bring further dishonor to the Senate and to the American people."

He has revealed publicly that he has accepted classified documents from an army officer who was breaking the law as clearly as did Alger Hiss or Judith Coplan; by insisting that Attorney Brownell testify he was implying that another of President Eisenhower's appointees was "coddling" communists; and last but not least, he constantly insulted all opposing him including a personal insult directed at the senator from Idaho.

Perhaps you wonder why we are concerned with the jelly-fish antics of the Republican leadership both in the executive and legislative branches. There are two very good reasons. First we feel that the McCarthy technique of judging either guilt or danger by wild and unsubstantiated charges from one man without a fair and open trial is a denial of due process of law which is guaranteed by the constitution. We realize that senate committees are not bound by judicial procedures, but the senate has taken upon itself to conduct hearings which are popularly accepted as trials and as such that group should bind itself by legal methods which have been arrived at over a thousand years of trial and error.

Secondly it is not necessary that we point up the fact that we are living in a dangerous period of history. Whether the United States desires it or not we are thrust forward as leaders of the western world. Such leadership cannot be disgraced and made suspect to our allies by a party which sacrifices its integrity for the sake of votes. The spectacle of the party in power helplessly entrapped in a mess brought about by its own fumbling certainly cannot inspire great confidence in our indispensable friends abroad.

We sincerely hope, Senator, that your actions on the subcommittee are not an indication that you too are willing to be driven to cover from fear of McCarthy's blitzkrieg to personal power. Certainly you must see the crying need for honest leadership and supporting any ignominious retreat will further weaken the chances of survival of the Republican party and with it our nation. We hope in the face of your lack of support of President Eisenhower you realize that you cannot campaign this summer and fall as a firm supporter of the President, and his concept of moral leadership.

No Clues for Idaho Man's Death Noted

BOISE, June 12 (AP)—A 64-year-old Eagle man was found dead in a downtown alley early today and the question of what killed him continued to elude investigators all day. Detective Lieut. Frank Boor said the man, Charles N. Keeler, "had a couple of very mysterious bumps on his head." He also said investigation had shown that Keeler had taken several falls in the past.

Not From Fall
Ada County Coroner Russell Relyea said the lacerations were on both sides of the head. He said his observations and an autopsy by Dr. Joseph Beaman, Boise pathologist, indicated they could not have been caused by an ordinary fall.

Relyea said early in the day that the man died of "massive blows to the head" with a strong possibility he was slain or struck by a hit-and-run driver.

Probe Continues
Boor said tonight that the investigation was continuing and the possibility of foul play was not being ruled out. He said the man had been seen on the streets about 1 a. m. He was found dead at 1:30 a. m.

Keller's daughter, Mrs. Georgia Shanks, Eagle, said he had been driving frequently between Boise and a mining claim he was working in northern Nevada.

Police "Academy" Will Open Monday

POCATELLO, June 12 (AP)—The first session of the Idaho law enforcement training academy has been scheduled for Monday. The instructors will be FBI agents who have been especially trained as instructors in the law enforcement field.

Attendance will be limited to 35 officers. Percy Wyly II, special agent in charge, federal bureau of investigation, at Butte, Mont., said first consideration will be given to applicants from small departments and to officers with little or no previous training.

The event is jointly sponsored by the Idaho Municipal League, Idaho Peace Officers' association, the FBI and Idaho State college. Certificates will be awarded officers graduating from the program.

Visits Planned

Visits to three Magic Valley towns are scheduled by representatives of the Twin Falls social security office. Lloyd Young, office manager, will be at the Burley employment office from 1 until 4 p. m. Tuesday and at the Rupert district courtroom from 9:30 a. m. until noon Wednesday.

Jay Hansen, office field representative, will be at the Jerome employment office from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. Thursday.

Old Fire Engine Back In Service To Help Jaycees

A venerable fire engine, retired after 20 years of active service with the Twin Falls fire department, was recalled to active duty Saturday—but not for the work for which it was intended originally.

The 1921 American LaFrance was purchased by the Boise Junior Chamber of Commerce and hauled to the state capital to be the "official greeter" of all celebrities. Price was reported at "about $150."

James Buck and Dick Adams, part of the Boise Jaycee contingent calling for their acquisition here Saturday, said the group will renovate and repair the veteran vehicle which first saw service at Twin Falls fires in 1921. The pump was retired in 1950.

The Jaycees also will use the machine for parades and conventions. Buck and Adams were accompanied by Robert Taylor and Lewis Waters, both Boise.

Leader Urges U. S. to Back Asian Causes

WHITTIER, Calif., June 12 (AP)—The United States must support Asian causes, including independence, to overcome the new communist techniques of aggression shown in Indochina, Vice President Richard Nixon declared today.

The United States as leader of the free world can win "only if we associate ourselves vigorously and unequivocally with the aspirations of the people for economic progress, independence, peace and equality," he said.

Independence, he told a graduating class of 270 and a crowd of about 5,000 at an outdoor commencement at his alma mater—Whittier college—"means independence from any foreign domination."

The new communist techniques, the vice president said, involve the use of foreign-controlled, directed and inspired revolutions. "The natives of the country they desire to dominate do the fighting for them."

Girls' State Meet At Caldwell Ends

CALDWELL, June 12 (AP)—Girls' state wound up today with the selection of Dorothy Bauer, Moscow, and Carolyn Edwards, Boise, as delegates to Girls' nation in Washington later this summer.

Joan Ramstedt, Moscow, and Elizabeth Cleveland, Caldwell, were picked as alternates.

The 200 girls at the camp sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary completed their mock legislative session with passage of a bill appropriating funds to build a state office building. Other bills failed to pass both houses.

Down to defeat went proposals that would have "reopened" Northern Idaho College of Education at Lewiston and forbidden the sale of beer to persons under 21.

And they accomplish this by winning the leaders over to the communist cause.

The vice president received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Whittier, where he graduated in 1934, and also a distinguished alumnus award.

Twin Falls Soldier Fears New Avoirdupois No Aid to Career

That "good army food" is "ruining" the career of Pvt. Glen Prescott, Twin Falls soldier now serving in Germany.

At least that's the way an army newspaper, sent Prescott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Prescott, Twin Falls, tells it. It seems that the soldier, once a slim civilian of 112 pounds has blossomed into a "tubby" GI of some 140 pounds. And that's not good, bemoans Prescott, who wants to continue being a jockey after discharge from the army.

Prescott, who attended school at Kimberly, "always did have trouble keeping his weight down," the army publication quotes him. At 13, he started his jockey career at the Twin Falls county fair. From that time on until the army beckoned him—not into the cavalry, either, but into the foot-slogging 18th infantry regiment's ranger company G—he had straddled thoroughbreds at tracks from Canada to Tucson, Ariz.

Prescott says the most thrilling moment of his racing career was when his mount ran through a track fence, threw him and kept him out of circulation for months with a broken wrist.

The 21-year-old jockey entered service in November, 1953, for a two-year "hitch." Planning to continue his track career after discharge, he comments:

"Racing gets in your blood, there's nothing like it."

Mrs. Brown Cuts Dessert

Mrs. Lynnville Brown cuts a piece of "anniversary pie" to serve her husband who claims it is on his diet. The pie is good for luncheons and dessert bridges. Mrs. Brown says. (Staff photo-engraving)

"Anniversary Pie" Served In Lynnville Brown Home

Mrs. Lynnville Brown says her family is "just crazy about" the anniversary pie, which she makes for small festive family dinners.

Her husband, jokingly adds, "It is on my diet."

Mrs. Brown says the pie is a little difficult to make and takes quite a while, but is well worth the time. It can be made early in the morning and kept in the refrigerator until time to serve.

The recipe for the filling can be varied by using a lemon filling, according to Mrs. Brown. She suggests serving small pieces after a meal because the pie is so rich. It is the perfect answer for luncheons and dessert bridges, she adds.

The filling requires 1 envelope unflavored gelatin, ¼ cup granulated sugar, 3 egg yolks, 1¼ cups milk, 3 egg whites, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup granulated sugar, 1 cup heavy cream whipped, 1 teaspoon vanilla and ¼ cup shredded coconut.

Combine the gelatin with ¼ cup sugar in the top of a double boiler. Beat the egg yolks and stir into the gelatin mixture with the milk. Cook over hot, not boiling water, and stir until the custard coats the spoon. Place the mixture in the refrigerator stirring occasionally until the custard mounds when dropped from a spoon then beat until smooth. Beat the egg whites with the salt until quite stiff, gradually adding ¼ cup sugar. Fold in the custard mixture, then add the whipping cream with the vanilla and the ¼ cup coconut and fill the pie shell. Just before ready to serve grate a little bitter chocolate over the top.

Crust
The crust is made with 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons hot milk, 2/3 cup sifted confectioners sugar and 1/4 cups snipped shredded coconut.

Combine the chocolate, butter and hot milk in the top of a double boiler until the chocolate has melted. Remove the mixture from the stove, add the sugar and coconut. Pat this mixture into a greased 8 inch pie plate. Then the pie is ready for the filling.

A reading was given by Hale Glauner and a skit was presented by Lyale Gilmore, Carol Ann Gilmore, Clifford Gilmore, Mrs. Verne Jones and Mrs. Silas Condit.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Condit, Mrs. Carlson, Mrs. McIntyre, Mrs. Frank Dickerson, Mrs. Verne Jones, Mrs. Bill Glorie, Mrs. Steve Winegar, Mrs. Howard Winegar, Laura Ann Glauner, Charlene Thompson and Dorothy Davis.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Suppose atomic energy is turned to use. Each one of us would then be provided with added power of material wealth. We would have more and better clothing, cleaner and simpler homes, easier and faster travel, food that is plentiful and wholesome. What then shall we do to survive?

With leisure in abundance will man destroy himself with indolence and vice, or will he turn to industry and virtue, not as a necessity of economic struggle but as a spiritual choice? For unless he turns upon himself and develops the resources of his mind and body and soul and uses them for his salvation he is lost—unless he turns to the culture of himself he will sink into utter uselessness.

He must turn to the development of his strength, his capacities. He must develop his creative power and approach thus the godliness in himself. He must turn to his play, his crafts, his arts, his conduct, his manners. He must turn to the best in himself, not because this is a way of commanding the respect and applause of his fellows, but because this is the way of self-respect.

We are living through an in-between stage. We have some leisure and some work. When it was all work and no play we stole time for rest, sleep, thought, play, entertainment. We have already reduced the amount of work and increased that for leisure. Even now our problem is to save ourselves from idleness. We are not doing it successfully. We overindulge, we have become creatures of excess. We want power over our fellows. We drink too much. We have too much. We say too much. There are not enough jails, not enough hospitals, not enough training schools for our weak ones.

Most of our present day difficulties come, not because we are hungry but because we are overfed; not because there is no leisure, but because there is more than we know how to use wisely; not because there aren't enough machines to produce what we use, but because there are too many machines to give us more time to waste than man ever had.

How shall we save ourselves from our own cleverness? Shall we add to our confusion, pile up our errors until they overwhelm us or shall we turn to ourselves and shift the whole emphasis, so that we consciously turn to self-understanding and to self-culture? Why not begin now? There is no time to lose. The future is here. Let us face its terrible responsibilities. Find yourself now, know yourself, be true to yourself and you will come into the new world, that lies just around the corner, a healthier and a happier man.

Have your children reached the "date" stage? How to meet this problem and help your children in the right direction is discussed by Dr. Patri in his booklet No. 304, "Your Children and Other People." To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 10, N. Y.

FROM ALL ANGLES

By BOB COUGHLAN

Ray Heyworth removed his horn-rimmed glasses and waved them in the direction of the kid-filled infield of Jaycee park.

"These clinics used to be great things. Used to be a lot of good prospects from them. That's all gone now in the day of the big bonus."

The Cubs' chief went on to explain why any kid that has talent at all finds his door-step swarming with scouts from every big league team. He doesn't have to find the team, the team finds him.

"The only kids that come out for clinics or schools are the ones that have the burning desire but haven't the natural ability."

The occasion was the annual baseball clinic sponsored by the city recreation department and conducted this season by manager Everett Robinson and the Cowboy players. Heyworth took time out from a busy schedule of cataloging players from every team he has seen this season to take in the clinic.

"You never know when somebody with a future might show up."

The big ex-major league catcher is here to look over the Magic Valley situation and try to find some method of helping the last-place Cowboys. After watching the club in action for several days and through several series, Heyworth will report directly to Wild Matthews, farm club director of the Chicago Cubs.

What's the solution to the bonus problem?

"I frankly don't know. What I think should be done is to allow the minor leagues to develop the players and then sell them to the major leagues. That sounds good, but the minute a good-looking prospect shows up, there's a path beaten to his door by the eager scouts."

Heyworth's job with the Cubs calls for more note-taking than a McGuffey vs. army stenographer.

"I was down in Florida for spring training and saw 12 teams and 343 players in action."

After watching the majors in action in the spring, the Cub official makes his annual swing through the minor leagues, carefully cataloging and making notes on each individual and team he sees in action.

Every once in a while his tour is interrupted by an emergency call to get to some Cub farm town in a hurry and try to straighten out a difficult situation.

The job calls for a complete, thorough knowledge of the game plus the tact to get along with disgruntled people whose team is losing.

Heyworth qualifies on both counts.

He played in organized baseball for 20 years, 16 of them in the majors.

Ten years were spent with the Detroit Tigers where he worked alongside the catcher many consider the game's greatest, Mickey Cochrane.

"In fact, I went in to relieve Mickey when he was bearded that time in New York."

He moved over to the National league and caught for Brooklyn, the Giants, Cardinals and back to Brooklyn.

"I went off the active list in 1945 and managed the Ft. Worth team in 1946. Moved over to Macon, Ga., in the Cub organization in 1947 and managed there. Began trouble shooting and scouting in 1948."

Heyworth set a major league record for catchers in 1939 when he accepted 438 chances without an error in 100 games.

"I got crossed up on signals in Philadelphia and the ball whistled right past my glove with a runner on third coming in to score. Funny part about the whole thing was that this very next season, after setting the record, I pulled three errors in the very first game."

In his opinion, the leagues all over the country have become a lot faster in recent years.

"A lot of the kids are returning from the service. They're a little older and wiser, and are becoming the key men on the clubs."

Every once in a while, Heyworth would cock his head and watch one of the kids on the field make a pretty good play.

They say in the trade that catches wear the "tools of ignorance."

Heyworth believes it.

Figures released by the office of league president Claude Engberg show the Pioneer league is showing an increase in attendance this season over 1953.

According to Engberg, each loop city showed an overall increase of five per cent over last season.

Totals for the league for the first 15 games show 139,250 for 1954 and 132,812 for the first 15 games in 1953.

Shelton Fails in High Jump Try As Trojans Win

ANN ARBOR, Mich., June 12 (U.P.)—Ernie Shelton failed in three attempts at the charmed seven foot high jump Saturday but won the event easily to help Southern California to its sixth straight NCAA track and field championship.

The Trojans piled up 66 17/20 points before a crowd of 10,500 at Michigan's Ferry field to take the crown for the 18th time in the 83-year history of the meet.

Illinois was second with 31 11/20 points, California third with 27 points.

Three defending champions, including Southern California's Jim Lea, retained their titles. But two others and a pair of co-champions were dethroned.

Lea was successful in defense of his 440 yard dash title while Willie Williams, Illinois, won the 100 yard dash for the second straight year and John Bennett, Marquette, repeated in the broad jump.

Shelton left Michigan's Mill Mead and Wayne's Mark Smith, two of last year's co-champions in the high jump, far behind. He actually was acclaimed the winner when he cleared 6 feet 8 1/4 inches, but kept going and easily was over at 6 feet, 10 1/4 inches.

He budged the bar loose with his chest on the first crack at the never-before attained seven foot mark and knocked it off with his left leg on the other tries.

Mark Booth, Michigan, Bennie Roy, Texas Southern, Doug Spaulnhauser, Brigham Young, and Robert Billings, Texas, shared second in the high jump with 6 feet 8 1/4 inches.

Idaho Names Gibb Director Of Athletics

MOSCOW, June 12 (U.P.)—The University of Idaho named Robert S. Gibb, director of athletics and recreation for the Boise school system, Friday to direct its new department of athletics in place of Gale L. Mix who resigned.

In making the announcement, the University explained it is putting athletics in a separate department, divorcing it from the Associated Students' organization.

Gibb coached football and track at Boise since 1942. Before that he coached at two Nebraska high schools. He was a 1933 graduate of the University of Nebraska.

University President J. E. Buchanan said all the details of the new athletic setup have not been worked out, but it will be under the supervision of an athletic board of control made up of faculty, student and alumni representatives.

Mix, who resigned for reasons of health, will stay on at the university as general manager of the associated students.

The appointment of Gibb was the third major one in the athletic field made by the school this year. It hired a new basketball coach, Harland Hodges, and a new football coach, J. Neil (Skip) Stahley, earlier in the year.

The school said Gibb and his wife and two daughters are expected to move to Moscow soon.

High Gun Wins 86th Running of Belmont Stakes

NEW YORK, June 12 (U.P.)—High Gun from the King ranch of Robert Kistner came off the fast pace and edged O. V. Whitney's Fisherman in the 86th running of the $125,000 Belmont stakes Saturday.

Ridden by Eric Guerin, who scored with Native Dancer last year, High Gun came from out of the pack and finished a half mile from Fisherman to pick up 600. The time for the one and a half miles was 2:30 4/5.

Third went to the Irish Lighthouse, owned by Mr. Holman, Jr., Yonkers. Lighthouse was five lengths behind Fisherman and three lengths from the front of the field in the 13 1/2 mile race.

High Gun, conqueror of a man in the shorter Pecos handicap last week, paid $420 and $330. Fisherman turned $5.50 and $4.20 and a ticket on Lighthouse was worth $1.00.

Times-News Tournney To Attract Big Field

A record field is expected when the eighth annual Times-News Magic Valley women's amateur golf tournament starts Thursday at the municipal golf course.

The tourney will be 36 holes, medal play. The first 18 holes on Thursday will determine the flights for the 18-hole play Friday.

Tee-off time Thursday is 8:30 a.m. A travelling trophy, donated by the Times-News will be awarded the winner and other flight winners also will receive trophies.

Mrs. Harvey Pierce, Twin Falls, won the travelling trophy in last year's tournament.

Bobby Woods Scores TKO In 14 Rounds

BOISE, June 12 (U.P.)—The first scheduled 20-round fight to be held in this country in 13 years was halted after 14 rounds Friday night when Spokane's Bobby Woods let loose a hard right that broke the jaw of Honolulu's Henry Davis.

Woods weighed 134, Davis 135. The Spokane lightweight sent the telling blow crashing against Davis' jaw in the final seconds of the 14th. At the bell, Davis returned to his corner, pointed to his jaw, and a doctor was called.

Examination showed the jaw was broken, and referee Al Hostak ruled Woods' hand in victory. It was rated a TKO.

There was some confusion in the early rounds when fans claimed the officials were cutting the rounds to two instead of the customary three minutes. A loud clamor from the crowd resulted in the later rounds running three minutes.

In those early rounds, the two boxers fought head-to-head with Davis getting the best of the initial fighting. Hostak warned the Hawaiian in the third about low blows.

Woods started a decisive attack on Davis in the 13th and staggered him in the 14th before unleashing the jaw-cracking right.

When Herb Odom of Michigan State won the NCAA welterweight boxing championship, it was the 11th national ring crown for the Spartans.

Planet's Spot in Sky Given To Observer

By J. HUGH PRUETT
The Education Division of the Idaho State Board of Education has announced that it will give a special award to the observer who first reports the appearance of the planet Neptune in the sky.

Neptune would have to be about 10 times its present brightness to be visible to the naked eye. But small telescopes easily reveal it. It is the only planet in the sky that is not visible to the naked eye.

Neptune is about 28 billion miles from the earth. It is the only planet in the solar system that is not visible to the naked eye.

The queen's real birthday was on April 21. However, the official observance takes place in June, when the English weather is more dependable. Boyle, Revisiting Berlin, Sees Air of Hopelessness Is Gone

By HAL BOYLE
BERLIN, June 12 (AP)—There are cigarette butts on the streets of Berlin, the city with the split personality.

There are thousands of window flower boxes blooming in bright color.

To me these are more significant testimonials to the postwar recovery of the German capital, still the fulcrum of the East-West tug-of-war.

In 1946 if a visitor flicked away a half-smoked cigarette he would have found five native hands.

Hal Boyle grabbed for it before it hit the pavement. The collection of cigarette butts was a leading industry, as tobacco, coffee and sugar often took the place of money as a medium of exchange and a measure of value.

Even bankers tilted backyard gardens because food was so scarce, and few found time or energy to raise flowers. The window boxes were barren of bloom.

The third most important sign of recovery is the disappearance of the look of fear and fawning from the faces of the people who live here.

In 1946 the typical Berlin look was that of a castaway animal, a homeless expression of cautious pleading that seeks friendship from a stranger. That look is gone altogether.

These signs of human recovery and a return to human dignity and self-confidence are far more impressive than Berlin's property recovery, the almost miraculous speed with the first four months of this year.

The sector remains as a redoubt island surrounded by a red tide of communism. But the air of hopelessness is gone, and nobody is busy pushing the panic button.

As one German told me: "Anything can still happen, of course, but at least we feel our allies won't just ride up to the airport one morning and fly away and leave us to the Russians."

Although the moon revolves about the earth, it is also part of the earth complex which revolves about the sun.

Independence Day Programs Set for Jerome

JEROME, June 12—Paul Hurless chairman of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July committee, outlined plans for the annual celebration at the Wednesday-noon meeting of the chamber.

Hurless said the celebration will take place July 4 with all the usual events planned for a "bigger and better" way for 1954. One of the highlights of the day will be the parade scheduled for approximately 11 a. m. All organizations and business houses are urged to plan to enter floats in the parade.

Four divisions will be stressed, Hurless explained, including business firms, equipment, auto and truck dealers and riding and civil defense units, and the youngsters' division which will feature a pet section, decorated vehicles, story book characters and other sections. Parade awards include first prize of $25, second, $15 and third, $10 in each division. Children's prizes will be $5, $3 and $1.50 for top winners in the various sections.

Hurless reported the "small fry" beauty contest will be held again. Each entry is sponsored by a business firm. Baseball, band concert, foot races and bicycle races and fireworks display and dance are also planned for the day's entertainment, he said.

Reporting at the meeting of the merchants' committee was Russell Paris, who expressed his appreciation to the Jerome county Granges for refusing to rent Grange halls for outside auction sales. William MacKnight reported on the plan to purchase signs for highway 30 at the east and west junctions which will advertise Idaho highway 25.

Robert Thorpe, executive secretary, reported that H. J. Dollinger, Intermountain representative for the United States Chamber of Commerce, will meet with interested groups of the Jerome chamber Monday. Thorpe also said the annual spring clean-up program of the chamber proved a success. He reported a board of directors' meeting at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday at Wood's cafe. A special meeting of the membership committee was scheduled for noon Friday at the Owl cafe. He also announced that Rice Chevrolet, Inc. is new members of the chamber.

Guests were Roy Hardy, new manager of the Varsity theater and Mike Alb and Ivan Russell, both Filers.

Lectures Planned For Filer Church

FILER, June 12—Milo Kauffman, former president of Hesston college and Bible school, Hesston, Kans., will deliver a series of three lectures on Christian stewardship at 8 p. m. Saturday, and at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday at the Filer Mennonite church.

J. D. Graber, field secretary of the Mennonite board of missions and charities, Goshen, Ind., will give the Sunday morning message at 11 o'clock. The public is invited.

Chairman for County Bond Sales Is Hove

Harold O. Hove, formerly Kimberley newspaper man and now connected with the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company, has been appointed chairman of the Twin Falls county bond sales committee by Harold W. Ellsworth, state director.

In commenting on the appointment, Ellsworth said, "Mr. Hove has all of the qualifications necessary to make an outstanding savings bonds chairman. His acquaintances and contacts throughout Twin Falls county place him in an enviable position to give a great deal on this important assignment."

The importance of the savings bonds program is stressed continuously by Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey and other government leaders as well as the Ameri-

Hove will appoint his committee to work with him on payroll savings installations, the school savings program and other phases of bond sales.

In commenting on his appointment, Hove said, "I am happy to join the treasury department volunteer savings bonds team which has helped the American people set aside some $7 billion dollars in savings bonds. This represents a tremendous backlog of savings which can be used by the owners for emergencies or the inevitable rainy day. I am particularly anxious that Twin Falls county make its quota of $1,115,400 for 1954."

Delays Explained in Selection Of Judge Approved for Idaho

By PAT MUNROE

(Washington Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 12 (Special)

On Feb. 10 congress passed a bill increasing the number of federal judges by 30. Included in the total was a district judgeship for Idaho.

But the Idaho vacancy hasn't been filled yet. Utah has hers. Nevada, too. Likewise New Mexico. Also

Colorado. In fact, the two circuit court of appeals vacancies in San Francisco (which circuit includes Idaho) have not been filled.

Why not Idaho?

Well, Sen. Henry C. Dworshak, R.,

Ida., has said he'll oppose filling the vacancy for the present because he isn't convinced there's enough work for two judges. The entire load

now is being carried by Judge Chase

A. Clark, native of Idaho Falls, who has passed the voluntary retirement age of 70.

Dworshak is up for reelection and it appears he'd just as soon not make one of the 10 or so hopefuls happy and the remainder mad by approving any single one. Among the leaders for the post are Fred M.

Taylor, Boise, close personal friend of Sen. Herman Welker, R., Ida.;

Harry Benoit, Twin Falls; Elbert

Stellman, Lewiston, and state District Judge Henry McQuade, Pocatello.

The only trouble with this is that

Welker apparently feels he should be allowed to name his own man. It was Welker's work as a member of the senate judiciary committee that led to creation of the vacancy. He's a lawyer. Dworshak isn't.

Welker would like to see his friend

Taylor nominated—and soon.

But Dworshak, being up for re-election and senior of the two, has blocked Taylor's nomination at the White House level. It's considered likely that Dworshak, once the election is out of the way, may very well go along with the Taylor name.

On the other hand, Dworshak may decide that this important piece of patronage (a federal judgeship comes along about once in every 16 years) may be too good a thing to pass along to Welker. This assumes, of course, Dworshak's reelection.

Then both senators might show up at the White House sponsoring separate names. Should this happen, neither would get his man named because the other could block senate approval indefinitely on a "point of personal privilege."

And that's the background on the current Idaho vacancy.

"How I learned I don't need a hearing aid"

*Free booklet tells all—sells nothing!

"I was afraid I needed a hearing aid because every once in a while I didn't hear very clearly. But thank goodness I sent for that booklet. Now, I know I don't need a hearing aid after all. Maybe it will help you as it helped me."

Yes, friends, this revealing 43-page booklet, Your Hearing and Your Health, puts the real facts on the line. It doesn't sell anything, not even a single word about Sonotone's amazing new transistor hearing aid. It does tell such facts as how to care for your ears; the effects of vitamins and drugs on hearing; whether deafness is inherited; the family problems of the deaf; and many other revealing facts.

And this booklet is free. Free of charge and free of salesmanship. It is published by Sonotone as a public service.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

A lot of high school diplomas have been passed out in Magic Valley during the last few weeks but none probably was appreciated more than the one received by A2/c Stanley Strunk, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Strunk, SHOSHONE.

In May, 1952, Strunk joined the United States air force, lacking about two credits required for a high school diploma. Realizing the value of further education and wishing to attend college after his four years of enlistment are up, he went to the education office on his base and signed up for the general education development tests.

The tests were on interpretation and expression of English, literature, general science, mathematics and social studies. He passed all of them and through them became eligible for a high school diploma. That diploma was awarded to him during commencement exercises at Shoshone last month.

Having passed the preliminary courses offered at the Nellie air force base in Nevada he plans to work on some of the college courses available to make his actual college work lighter when he is discharged from the air force.

The odor of orange blossoms usually is associated with romance but H. W. Riedeman, TWIN FALLS, recalls a romance that had anything but the odor of flowers about it.

Riedeman, who farms south of Twin Falls, was a small boy attending the Mountain Rock school during the brief period the mail carrier was courting the school teacher. The mail carrier always reached the school at noon so he and the teacher could eat their lunches together in Uncle Sam's mail rig.

It was spring and even the chickens were thinking in terms of love. Some of the more cagey birds in the vicinity of the school had stolen nests and some of the eggs stashed away therein had passed the normal utility stage.

Boys armed with eggs of questionable vintage in the vicinity of a school teacher and mail carrier eating lunch together doesn't spell orange blossoms.

Riedeman says he was only a small boy building a toy house with sticks when the mailman raced by in search of culprits so he doesn't know what happened but he's certain it wasn't orange blossoms he smelled.

"Buddy, can you spare a dime?" was a popular phrase during the depression days but today in JEROME the phrase has been changed to "Buddy, will you save me a quarter?"

On Wednesday afternoons if you're a member of the Jerome Toastmaster club, your telephone will ring and a fellow member of the club will ask, "Are you my buddy? Will you be at the meeting tonight?"

If there's hesitation on your end of the line, the fellow member will say, "Remember that two-bits. You don't want to cost me two-bits, do you?" With that you probably will reply, "Sure, I'll be there and be sure you are, too, to save me a quarter."

This unique "buddy" plan for improving attendance was originated recently with the Jerome Toastmasters club by the membership committee including David Summy, Dudley Stroud, Grant Reynolds, Marshall Fisher and Dr. E. Donovan Mattson. To date, attendance figures of the club show that the plan is working and members are attend-

Water Users' Group Seeks Talk on Rate

BURLEY, June 12—A meeting to discuss post-season "demand" pumping rate problems is expected to be held at Burley June 23 following an invitation by the Idaho Under-ground Water Users association to Idaho Power company officials to confer.

United Press quoted Dan B. Hoopes, Idaho Falls, association secretary as saying that post-season rates would be far more satisfactory if they were figured on a pro-rated basis, as are the present pre-season rates. Hoopes' statement was contained in a letter to T. E. Roach, Idaho Power president.

Hoopes noted that pumps are used sparingly after the growing season, yet farmers are required to pay a "100 per cent" demand rate, which means it costs as much to run a pump for the first week of the month as it does for the last three, the wire service said.

A change in the five-mile energy block rate from 200 to 100 hours also was asked by the association, as well as a request that the company allow farmers to make monthly irrigation payments instead of lump-sum payments at the start of the irrigation season.
