WORLD SUICIDE

When the first atom bombs were dropped near the close of World War II, mankind was stunned. But amid the shock and clamor, a few voices were heard pointing out that this was not, in the technical sense, really a new weapon. It was just a big bomb, albeit a staggering one.

Guided missiles, said these voices, were something else. Rocket or jet propelled missiles hurtling at supersonic speeds between continents were a genuinely new invention. They promised, in theory at least, a striking arm no conceivable piloted air force could match.

Neither we nor the Soviet union have been idle on either the A and H bomb fronts or in the guided missile field. The recent series of U. S. tests in mid-Pacific brought American development of the H-bomb to frightening pitch. We know, too, that the Russians have exploded an H-bomb device.

Yet, horrifying as the prospect is that these developments offer, the real possibility of intercontinental warfare featuring guided missiles with atomic or hydrogen warheads is even worse. And, according to a recent report by the columnist Joseph and Stewart Alsop, that possibility has been greatly enhanced.

They contend that the advance in H-bomb techniques, involving a much wider area of central target destruction, brings closer the day of effective devastation by intercontinental-rockets. The principal difficulty up to now has been their probable inaccuracy, since with only atomic warheads the total destruction area would be much smaller and the likelihood of missing targets far greater.

Whether or not it is true, as contended, that the Russians have made substantial progress in guided missiles, we can all understand the intense necessity for keeping up this field ourselves. There can be no comfort in an H-bomb stockpile if the Soviet union should one day gain the capacity to destroy our cities without sending a plane aloft.

The meaning of intercontinental war with H-bomb rockets is almost beyond comprehension. We are told by our experts we could not stop more than 30 per cent of the enemy's giant bombers in raids delivering the nuclear bombs. Our chances of intercepting missiles traveling at supersonic speed are believed far smaller.

Since such missiles might be launched from relatively small sites, we might find it exceedingly difficult to attack the rocket-launchers at their source and thus snuff out the enemy assault. If an enemy had marked superiority in rocket weapons, the devastation visited upon us might be so tremendous we could never get our plan of "massive retaliation" founded on bomb-delivering conventional aircraft into operation.

Our course is clear. We must have equality or superiority in guided missiles. We must let the Soviet union know, in a general way, what we have. For we do not want them blundering into a campaign of mutual annihilation through ignorance of our power to strike back.

The power of hydrogen explosives combined with the ability to lift that force across the oceans to unseen targets represents just about the ultimate in warfare. We and all our friends must do all we can to make the whole world understand—including the communists—the insane futility of the global suicide this portends.

HUMPHREY FOR PRESIDENT

The first Republican presidential boom for 1956—for a candidate other than Dwight D. Eisenhower—has been started in Michigan and it's for Secretary of the Treasury George Magoffin Humphrey.

Almost needless to say, this move has been made without the knowledge or consent of Secretary Humphrey.

The secretary was born in Cheboygan, Mich., in 1890, was graduated from University of Michigan and got his start in law and business in that state. So this is a native-son suggestion.

The man who started it was Frank O. McKay, former GOP national committeeman from Michigan for many years.

He now operates a chain of hotels, food stores, a construction company and other enterprises. As a sideline he puts out a private weekly political newspaper, the Times, which is mailed to RFD boxholders all over the state, from the McKay headquarters in Grand Rapids.

He uses about four columns of space in the current issue of his paper to launch the Humphrey candidacy.

Editor McKay leads off with charges that the Republican party can't stand prosperity and "The Republican opportunity that came with its national election victory in 1952 has obviously been mishandled and sabotaged by petty jealousies and overweening ambition."

Our foreign policy has completely and shamefully collapsed and our prestige abroad is zero. Yet while all this is going on, our government is tied up in putting on the ridiculous burlesque show that is the squabble between the Pentagon set and Senator McCarthy.

After about a column of this, Mr. McKay reports that "There are many people around Washington who feel that Mr. Humphrey should be the next Republican candidate for President. And Washington isn't the only town where you hear people say, 'Humphrey could win.'"

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Secretary Ezra Taft Benson's valiant effort to solve the problem of almost 7 billion dollars worth of agriculture surpluses has won enemies for the administration in normally Republican states without lightening or ameliorating the burden.

His failure explains why the house agriculture committee voted 21 to 18 against the Eisenhower-Benson program for 75 per cent rather than rigid 90 per cent parity prices for unsold commodities—an action which will undoubtedly be ratified by both the house and senate in defiance of Ike and Ezra.

The Benson experiment has had almost a three-months' trial, for his reduction of price supports on dairy products from 90 to 75 per cent went into effect on April 1. It was supposed to provide a preview of what would happen, if congress should ratify the administration's farm program.

ANTICIPATED BENEFICIAL EFFECTS—Benson had argued that his plan, both the experiment begun on April 1 and the long-range program, would have three beneficial effects. According to his theory, they would result in the following economic developments:

1. The reduction in the government's loan or purchase prices would cut production of surplus crops and result in more diversified farming.

2. The lower retail prices on dairy products, especially butter, cheese and milk, would result in greater urban consumption.

3. The reduced prices would enable him to dispose of large blocks of surpluses overseas or in the domestic markets.

Therefore, so he calculated, the surpluses would slowly but gradually disappear. American agriculture would be enabled to stand on its own earth again, with gains for both the producers on the farms and consumers in the cities.

None of the economic miracles envisaged by Benson has come to pass. While a three-months' trial may seem insufficient for a real test, the Republican farmers condemn his well-intentioned reforms almost unanimously.

REDUCTION'S NEW HIGHS—Instead of dropping, production of dairy products has reached new highs since April 1. Even the nonparisian hens have not responded to Benson's call: They laid 183,000,000 more eggs last April than they did in April of 1953. Milk production hit a record figure last April. The output over the same month a year ago was up by 435,000,000 pounds. As a result, there will be more dried milk, butter and cheese for Benson to buy at the 75 per cent figure than he had to buy at 90 per cent. He may pay less a pound for it, but his total outlay will be greater than ever before.

The explanation lies in the fact that a controlled economy has not worked. If the government reduces the farmers' return (subsidy) per unit of production, he simply builds up his herds and flocks and preserves his income through mass output. So do Henry Ford and General Motors.

NONE OF EXPORTED SALES INCREASED—Nor has the Benson reduction of parity prices stimulated retail and urban consumption. After the first flurry over special sales of butter, when the price fell from 80 to 70 cents or less, there has been no important increase in sales of this product. Consumption of the far cheaper margarine continues to grow. Nor has there been a perceptible jump in the buying of eggs and milk.

Benson's hope of selling surpluses overseas has vanished. He has offered to sell $25,000,000 pounds of cheese at 25 cents a pound on the world market, or 15 cents less than Uncle Sam paid for it. But there are no takers. He cannot dispose of butter and dried milk at bargain prices abroad. There are no bidders.

For one thing, thanks to American economic aid, dairy-producing countries overseas are now supplying their own needs. Secondly, the state department frowns on this kind of dumping lest it antagonize friendly nations like Denmark, the Netherlands, Australia, New Zealand and South America.

Benson, in view of his earlier optimism, must feel like a fellow who can't win, even though he holds four aces.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

SWEET OBLIVION

It may have something to do with her prowess as baby-sitter or with her modern vogue of arriving laden with gifts, but it has suddenly come to us that the mother-in-law joke is not what it used to be—assuming, of course, that it ever was. The example which underlined this conclusion was a normally humorous, run of the mill attempt, but what impressed us was not its point but its rarity. Even the hammiest comedians have discarded it. The mother-in-law joke, indeed, can be written off as a practically vanished species.

This inspires the hope that the same soothing oblivion may overtake the absent-minded professor—not in compassion, but on merit alone. For that which cannot compete with the commonplace deserves to be forgotten; and around and about us is a constant and inexhaustible Eldorado of absent-mindedness.

Our railroads and our own TCO maintain veritable warehouses for things left on trains, street cars, buses and on the subway, ranging from folded baby carriages to shoes for the left foot. Four out of five of our traffic signs are merely repetitions of reminders of what every motorist already knows (often from similar signs fifty feet away): "You would hardly forget it if it was not staring him in the face. Departure stores count their lost-and-found among their larger activities.

Can these and other phenomena be attributed solely to the upper echelons of pedagogy? The fact is that in such competition even the professor who was telephoned for error at three a.m. and told the man it was all right as he had to get up to answer the phone would be obviously a type of the first and second water. He richly earns the same benign fate which has come upon the mother-in-law.—The Globe and Mail, Toronto.

FOR STIFFER BACKBONES

As Secretary of Agriculture Benson said, the 21 to 8 vote in the house agriculture committee to continue high, rigid crop price supports for another year was "somewhat disappointing—but not surprising."

It was disappointing because, in spite of the established failure of such supports to solve the nation's farm problems, and in spite of much dissatisfaction with them, there was still nearly a two-to-one vote in committee for their continuance. Perhaps the fact this is an election year, and most of the congressmen on the committee are from farm districts, explains why the vote was not surprising.

But it isn't only committees which have been refusing to face up to the farm price support issue. A plan of flexible supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity depending on supply has been on the statute books since 1948—but twice congress in election years has postponed the effective date. Now, with November breathing down congressional necks, some of the weaker ones want yet another postponement.

We are glad to see that Secretary Benson still is sticking to his guns in behalf of flexible supports which can be used "very effectively as a floor under farm prices." We hope his courage will stiffen a few congressional backbones so that the extension approved by the house committee will be rejected either in that body or in the senate. If extension is not rejected there, then we hope the President will veto the measure.

High supports have not solved the farm problem. They have only served to pile up surpluses at great cost to the taxpayer, raise prices to the consumer, and lead to appalling waste. It's time to try something else.—Salt Lake Tribune.

THANKS FOR THIS MUCH, IKE

At his press conference yesterday (June 21, President Eisenhower made up in small part for his Monday night failure to give the nation his promised detailed discussion of the international situation. He did say yesterday that his administration has made no decision as to whether to ask congress for authority to intervene in Indochina.

That's something, and thanks. But it still isn't the itemized talk on the grim international situation which the nation still needs from the President himself.—New York Daily News.

POT SHOTS

SLOW IT DOWN!

Dear Pots: Somehow or other I think of the Fourth of July as around about the middle of summer. Everything afterward is approaching the opening of the new school year. I've always thought if I could get the kids through to the Fourth I'd manage for the rest of vacation.

So the other day I was reading something in the T-N about someone planning something for the Fourth of July. I thought to myself that the Fourth should still be quite a ways off.

Then Tuesday I happened to inspect a calendar and got a shock. The Fourth of July is just two weeks from next Sunday! Somebody has got to do something about slowing time down! It's going too fast now!

DISHEARTENING

The curse of the seventh child of the seventh child may be called down on our head for this one, but we just can't resist. This certain gal decided just a year ago (June 11) that she could spare a little weight. So she started dieting.

Now you can well imagine what a chore it must have been, considering that she'd started acquiring her, er, shape while working the candy counter in her folks' store years and years and years ago. But she got real determined and stuck to her diet with only a little backsliding. Now, a year later, what are the results?

Well, she weighs 112 pounds less and Mrs. Pot Shots is quite disheartened over the whole business, even though she isn't involved. You see, the gal lost more than Mrs. Pot Shots weighs!

KITTENS FOR KIDS DEPT.

Dear Pots: We have five lively kittens anxious for homes where they can play with children or do light housework. Please call 0218-B1, Filer, or come to the house four miles north and a half mile east of Filer. Best wishes for the continued success of your placement bureau.

NEARLY AN EXPERT

Remember the periodic reports we promised regarding the Novice Gardener? He's coming along fine now, but he still hesitates to pull up anything.

It all started when he was pulling up those "weeds" real early, discovered they were strawberries. But he missed enough to bring plenty of strawberry shortcake, strawberry jam, and what have you in the strawberry line.

The garden "looks fine" now and there's plenty of asparagus, proving that that girl grow someplace besides along ditches and borrow pits. There's only one rub on this latter item: He doesn't like asparagus.

But the Novice Gardener is irrigating his garden like an expert and his wife (remember?) He refused to pull anything! He does all the weeding.

'WASHINGTON CALLING' BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—Behind a curtain of secrecy carefully guarded a prolonged dispute has been going on among the top policy-makers in the Eisenhower administration over intervention in Indochina.

The opposition to direct action by American forces has been led by Gen. Matthew Ridgway, chief of staff of the army, who as a member of the joint chiefs of staff has taken a line directly contrary to that of the JCS chairman, Adm. Arthur W. Radford.

What is more, it has been learned from a source close to the national security council that Ridgway was recently given an opportunity to present his own views directly to President Eisenhower and the council. This occurred when the President in an NSC meeting called on Radford to discuss reported differences of opinion among the joint chiefs.

Mr. Eisenhower then asked Ridgway for a memorandum presenting his views. A little later he had the army chief appear before a session of the security council. The top policy-making group, in the last analysis, can swing the balance for war or peace. Ridgway made such a formidable case against intervention that, according to sources close to the White House, this is the reason the President and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have been taking a far more cautious line on Indochina.

Some familiar with the fierce dispute over the critical Indochina situation believe that the reputation of Radford's interventionist policy has so weakened his authority that a pretext may be found for his resignation as chairman of the JCS.

But, according to these same reports, Ridgway himself feels the issue is still in the balance, with the likelihood that the United States is being inevitably drawn into an Asian war, a prospect which he considers little less than disastrous.

In presenting his arguments to the security council Ridgway used a large-scale wall map to explain what he considers the virtually unsolvable problems of transportation and supply that would arise if America intervened directly.

To begin with, of course, he sought to refute the thesis advanced on several occasions by Radford and others that sea and air power would be sufficient to enable French and Vietnamese forces to halt communist guerrilla expansion.

He developed at considerable length his view that the problem of transport and supply would be at least five or six times more difficult than it was in Korea. In Korea there were ample port facilities, with the American navy patrolling three sides of the peninsula. Air bases and a supply base were only 150 miles away in Japan. In Indochina the nearest base of operations would be in the Philippines, more than 1,000 miles distant, with Japan, as a principal supply source, separated by at least 2,000 miles of ocean.

Thus, in the Ridgway case against intervention, it would be extremely difficult to maintain an air cover. In this connection Ridgway developed, with impressive cogency for at least some of his listeners, as they reported it later, the peril of involving any considerable proportion of America's armed strength in the jungle war on the Asian mainland.

From across the Chinese border along supply routes already well developed, as was proved in the communist victory at Dien Bien Phu, China could send in not only supplies but troops. This would lead to American atomic attacks on China and, in the Ridgway view, to a full-scale Asian war. China would be next door and the U. S. would be compelled to operate across and protect sea lanes extending thousands of miles.

Here a basic point of difference between the Ridgway and Radford views was brought out. On the question of participation of Russia alongside China in such a war, the Radford school simply replies that this would not happen.

Ridgway, according to reports of his appearance before the NSC, agreed that Russia might not intervene in the first stages of such a war. But after America had committed up to seven or eight divisions, the Soviet union would seize a moment when American strength was badly out of balance to enter the conflict and perhaps at the same time extend the war to western Europe.

With forces already limited in a program to cut back to peacetime levels, Ridgway argued that available strength would be thrown dangerously out of balance. At his last press conference President Eisenhower said he had no plans to ask congress to increase the military budget.

Some Plants Devour Meat

In our woodland live murderous meat-eating plants with pretty blossoms which lure fast-moving animals with sweet-tasting odors, snare them with efficient traps, kill them by drowning or by acid and consume them with digestive juices quite similar to those found in the human stomach.

The traps to capture these animals are four-fold — old-fashioned tanglefoot, pitfalls lined with downward-slanting spikes, cages with brick doors that open only from the outside, and steel-jawed traps.

The killing is Eugene Burns not wanton: To remain alive, these plants must eat animals. Because they grow mostly in swampy areas they get insufficient nitrogen through the soil. To make up for this deficiency they consume insects whose bodies are rich in this substance.

In the tanglefoot group are the small sundew flowers—called that because in bright sunlight the leaves shimmer with dew. Actually, the "dew" is a sticky compound, tasty to insects, secreted by the leaf's 200 or more tiny gland bearing tentacles or hairs.

Once the insect alights to partake of the nectar or even brushes past, the sticky hairs hold it tight and immediately begin to curve inward. The nearby tentacles do the same and in the process the insect is handed along, unceremoniously hustled from one set of hairs to the next toward the center of the leaf. Meanwhile, the leaf itself curls up, making like a fist, and pressing the hapless victim flat against the surface of the blade. This done, the glands change their sweet-tasting fluid to a protein-splitting acid one which liquefies the nitrogenous parts of the insect and the animal is consumed on the spot, sometimes within a half hour.

Insect digested, the tentacles recurve, the acid juices are replaced with pleasant aromatic nectars, the leaf trap is reset. Next customer, please.

Come the cage-like trap, with the trick hinge as exemplified by the bladderwort which is found in most parts of the world. This plant which lives in the water, has pouches or bladders on its roots which serve many purposes. For one, they raise or lower the plant in the water in this manner: The plant lives below the surface until blossoming time.

New Support Plan Would Drop Butter Retail Cost to 40 Cents, Officials Claim

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—Agriculture department officials predict that retail prices of butter might drop to around 40 cents a pound under a new price support plan approved by the house agriculture committee. This would be 25 to 30 cents under present prices.

The committee approved Monday a proposal to require the government to raise the support level for butterfat and milk used for manufacturing purposes from the current 75 per cent to 80 per cent of parity, effective Sept. 1 and continuing until April 1, 1955.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay.

But the house plan would permit use of direct government subsidies as a method of supporting returns to dairymen. The taxpayers, in the final analysis, would pay the subsidies. The subsidies would permit a drop in retail prices of butter, cheese, dried milk, evaporated milk and other manufactured dairy products.

Under the present support program, the agriculture department offers to buy butter, cheese and dried milk from manufacturers at prices designed to enable the latter to pay dairymen the designated support prices for milk and butterfat. This offer has the effect of setting minimum wholesale and retail prices for these products.

Under the subsidy proposal, wholesale and retail prices of manufactured dairy products would be free to move up and down under the influence of supply and demand.

If the prices failed to give manufacturers enough to pay the designated support levels for milk and butterfat, the government would make up the difference to dairymen.

Under the present program, the government offers to buy butter at prices averaging about 57 cents a pound. This price is designed to enable processors to pay dairymen 75 per cent of parity for milk and butterfat. The committee would boost the support level to the equivalent of about 60 cents a pound for butter.

But the department would no longer offer to buy butter or any other dairy products at any price. Manufacturers would have to find a market for all the dairy products in the commercial market.

Since production of butter and most other dairy products is running more than 30 per cent greater than current consumption, manufacturers could be expected to cut prices to get new customers.

Department officials said they would expect the wholesale price of butter to drop to perhaps 35 cents a pound. The retail price, they said, would be about 5 cents higher.

Under such a price decline, the manufacturers would be able, they said, to pay dairymen the equivalent of perhaps 30 cents a pound for butter, or 30 cents less than the dairy price support rate.

The government would make up this 30-cent difference to dairymen in the form of payments. This 30-cent payment would be paid, of course, by the taxpayers.

Hope Is Held For Initiative About Power

A state supreme court fight over its "right to work" title has virtually killed a proposal which would outlaw the closed and union shops.

The power proposal would establish a state commission with authority to generate and distribute electric power and to "acquire by purchase, donation, exchange or otherwise" private power and communications facilities.

Backers of the measure have indicated the "communications" part of the title refers to telephone systems, but the State Chamber of Commerce has argued that it could mean radio and television stations and news agencies also.

The dredge control measure has the backing of the Idaho Public Health association, and is being fought by the newlyformed Idaho Dredge Operators association.

Frances Goodwin, secretary of the public health group, has called the proposal "the opening wedge to force selfish interests to keep our streams clean."

Fred Baumhoff, president of the dredge operators, has accused the federation leaders of "misleading public opinion" in their arguments for the measure. The spokesman says they aren't trying to stop dredging—merely require the operators to leave the streams in as good a condition as they found them.

The 1953 legislature enacted the state's first law regulating dredge mining, but federation officials and others claim it lacks teeth. Dredge interests argue that it hasn't been given sufficient time to show what it will do.

The presidential primary measure was filed by Greg Potvin, Power county prosecuting attorney, now running for the Democratic nomination for congress.

It calls for a presidential primary election in Idaho the fourth Tuesday in May of each presidential election year. Results would determine what candidates Idaho's delegates would vote for at the national conventions.

The proposal drew the opposition of Secretary of State Ira H. Masters, principally because it would provide that all other state primaries would also be held in May in those years. Masters said this would not provide enough time for a campaign.

In nonpresidential years, the primary would be held the second Tuesday in August, as it is now.

The proposal which would make it against the law to require a worker to join a union, either before or after being hired, was filed by a Blackfoot organization.

Union officials asked the supreme court to intervene after Atty Gen. Robert E. Smylie designated it "the right to work initiative proposal." They claimed that would prejudice voters in its favor.

The court has the matter under advisement. Circulation of petitions for it has been delayed pending a decision on the title, and backers say it is unlikely they will have time to get enough signatures.

Body Found

CHALLIS, June 16 (AP)—Custer county Sheriff Lee Clark reported today that the body of William Stephens, 67, a Challis creek rancher, was found in a borrow pit near his home. The sheriff said Stephens died of a rifle wound which apparently was self-inflicted.

Dumps

CLIFTON, N. J., June 16 (AP)—Mrs. Kathleen Spohr was down in the dumps yesterday—the garbage dumps that are looking for $200.

Mrs. Spohr, who operates a confectionery store, put $100 in bills and $70 in wrapped coins in a cigar box for safe keeping. The box was tossed out with garbage by accident Monday.

She and her husband searched the East Rutherford garbage dumps unsuccessfully Monday and yesterday.

Leader Plans U. S. Foreign Office Revise

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has ordered an overhaul of the state department's diplomatic machinery, seeking to improve morale and triple the strength of the foreign service corps.

The first step in the program was President Eisenhower's nomination of Charles E. Saltzman, New York banker and businessman, to be under-secretary of state for administration.

Saltzman, a West Point graduate who served as an assistant secretary of state in the Truman administration, will direct the reorganization. He will work toward these goals:

1. Merger of the domestic and foreign diplomatic corps, increasing the number of foreign service officers from 1,300 to about 4,000.

2. Development of a "bold and imaginative recruitment and scholarship program." This would provide 470 training scholarships to juniors and seniors in United States universities. The program, costing approximately 2 million dollars a year, would have to be approved by congress.

Dulles acted on the recommendations of a committee appointed last March and headed by Henry M. Wriston, president of Brown university.

The committee's report said one of the requirements of a vigorous foreign service is a high state of morale—and added "the morale of the service today stands in need of repair."

Dulles told his news conference today the foreign service formed the nation's first line for peace and security.

Suit for Divorce Claims Desertion

Clifford Stary charged willful desertion in a district court divorce suit filed Tuesday against Mrs. Evan Stary.

The Starys were married in Elko, Nev., June 15, 1948, and have no children.

Stary, represented by Guy L. Kinney, seeks their 1947 Frazier and 1937 Ford automobiles. Mrs. Stary would be awarded the household furnishings.

USAF Chief Sees Defense Boost to Meet Red Threat

LEXINGTON, Va., June 16 (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining says the United States may be forced to step up its military preparedness effort because of the Soviet drive to overcome American superiority in atomic weapons.

Chief of staff, said it seemed "futile to maintain that the most powerful weapons would not be used in an ultimate test of strength between the nations that possess them."

In remarks at commencement exercises of the Virginia Military Institute, Twining indicated clearly that he was referring to aircraft, particularly long range jet bombers, when he said he foresaw the possibility of increased military preparedness by the United States.

He noted that the Russians have now begun to build bombers capable of delivering the most powerful weapons over the greatest distances at the highest altitudes and speeds.

"We may be forced to step up our own progress through heavier investments and increased effort," Twining said.

Term Limits Set For Farm Boards

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson has announced that farmer members of community and county agricultural stabilization and conservation committees will be limited to three consecutive one-year terms.

These committees help administer federal crop control, farm price control, soil conservation and similar farm aid programs.

Heretofore, there was no limit on the number of terms. Officials said there are instances where farmers have served as long as 16 consecutive terms.

Benson said this limitation is expected to encourage broader participation by many more farmers than has been true in the past. Other new regulations issued by the secretary also prohibit officials of general farm organizations from serving as members of these committees. They also prohibit committeemen from acting in other capacities under federal farm programs.

U. S. Bureau Holds Atomic "Road Show"

ROME, June 16 (AP)—The United States has opened its first atomic road show.

The world premier featured some fairly restrained pichmen, a variety of gadgets that whirled and blinked lights, and even a few pretty girls.

Out of one of the show's five big trucks came a magnified voice speaking in Italian.

Atom International
It was the voice of Prof. Enrico Fermi, the Nobel prize-winning physicist who helped create the atomic bomb, telling Italians "the atom is international."

That set the tone for the show. For this extravaganza, sponsored by the U. S. information agency, is a serious attempt to tell the people of western Europe and the free world about the peaceful use of atomic energy.

Reds Answered
Implied in the message is America's answer to communist charges that she is aiming her nuclear research only at war.

For the next several months this and a similar show will be on the road throughout Europe. Eventually smaller exhibits may go to South America and the middle east.

The Canadian National railway, with 24,100 miles of main track and 9,000 miles of secondary track, is rated as the largest in North America.

Ketchum Home Is Swept by Flames

KETCHUM, June 16—A fire Tuesday evening gutted the living room of Mrs. Elsie Hoffman's home in the residential area about one-fourth of a mile south of Ketchum.

Dick Ransom, fire chief of the Ketchum fire department, said it appeared faulty wiring caused the fire because the worst burning was beside a Chesterfield sofa near an electric outlet. Ransom estimated the damage at about $4,000. The home was covered partially by insurance.

Damage to the kitchen was caused by the intense heat and the water used by firemen. The two bedrooms were extensively damaged.

Mrs. Hoffman and her children had been away from the house since morning but neighbors saw smoke coming from the house about 6 p. m. and called the fire department. They broke some windows and tried to put out the fire with garden hoses before the arrival of firemen who brought the flames under control.

Jury Rejects Damages Bid

A district court jury deliberated four hours Tuesday afternoon and evening to return a verdict against Richard Brackett for $3,800, payment for damages from an automobile accident.

Arriving at the verdict by a nine-member majority, the panel recommended that neither Brackett or Bingham was entitled to any recovery from the accident. Brackett's auto collided last Nov. 8 with Bingham's Studebaker, which was parked on highway 30 three-fourths of a mile west of the Rock creek bridge.

Ban on Sales of Surplus Refused

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—The house has refused to ban the sale of surplus U. S. farm commodities to "friendly nations" which ship their own farm surpluses to Russia or her satellites.

The action was taken by standing vote 14-37 on a proposed amendment to a bill that would authorize the President to sell or give away, under limitations, surplus farm commodities.

The amendment, offered by Representative Dies, D., Tex., was turned down after opponents argued it might defeat the purposes of the bill—to dispose of surpluses—because many "friendly nations" now sell their own surpluses to the main nation.

U.S., Russians Clash Today Tense Chess Tournaments

MOSCOW, June 16 (AP)—Eight U.S. chess players will sit down tonight on a deadly match their skill in the best chess players to offer. They must play to the Soviet motto: "No surrender."

U.S.-Soviet chess tournament is the first occasion since the war when Russians have met in a competitive encounter—aside from frustrating experiments in the Kremlin.

Everyone in the Kremlin will be on the shoulders of the players tonight in a hall at the Roosevelt hotel. Their game will be the fun of it. The chessboard is a prop for the communists, says one chess player, and the best ones are supported. They are idol-

American looked forward to a chance to get back.

But late last month the Russians sent word that Botvinnik would not play in the U. S. tournament. They said, with some mystery, that he was "too tired" from a recent match.

Since then Reshevsky has switched his "boning up" to the technique of Vasily Smyslov, a big affable man who now ranks as the man to beat on the Soviet side.

Reshevsky, who has been a whiz at chess since the age of 6, is a soft-spoken music lover at home with his wife and two children in Brooklyn. But he is a tough, cigarette-smoking chess player who pursues his game with cold scientific zeal.

Officials of the chess tournament expect little of the bickering that went on among judges at the Helsinki Olympic games, when bitter arguments flared over who had won boxing, wrestling and weightlifting.

In the chess tournament a single referee—an American—will decide any disputes over interpretation of the world-recognized rules. He is Hans Kmoch, a veteran New York player who is known to the Russians personally from previous matches.

It has been agreed that each player in a match will have two and a half hours to complete 40 moves. If the game is not over after the total five hours, it will be resumed the next day. The tournament will be scored on a simple point system, with one point awarded for each victory in the 32 games that will be played.

Leave Given
MOSCOW, June 16 (AP)—Dr. J. F. Weltzin, dean of education and director of the summer school at the University of Idaho, has been given a leave for the 1954-55 school year to study schools in Scandinavian countries.

President J. E. Buchanan said Dr. Ray E. Barry, head of the department of education, would be acting dean in Weltzin's absence.

Astronomers Will Photograph Rays From Sun in June Eclipse

DENVER, June 16 (AP)—Teams of astronomers, professional and amateur, plan to photograph light rays of the sun and try to measure their intensity during the solar eclipse June 30.

The rays are what are known as the zodiacal light—the light visible in the east before dawn.

Astronomers from Yerkes observatory in Wisconsin and Chamberlain observatory at the University of Denver will take part in the operation from vantage points in Colorado.

They will be aided by members of the Denver Astronomical society and other interested in studying the eclipse. At least one earnest amateur may go to the summit of 14,250-foot Mt. Evans west of Denver to make his observations.

Prof. Thomas J. Bartlett of Denver university explained today that the sun is surrounded by an envelope of gas known as the corona.

"Astronomers believe that tiny particles of material extend out from the corona for millions of miles," he said.

The pre-sunrise eclipse affords an excellent opportunity to measure the intensity of the zodiacal light, because it will be possible to work much closer to the sun than at ordinary times.

MILLWAUKEE, June 16 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman is "ashamed" of the senate because of the present army-McCarthy hearings.

Chamber Aide Hits Business Lack of Push

BOISE, June 16—H. J. Dollinger, Salt Lake City, manager of the Intermountain district, United States Chamber of Commerce, met with members of the local Chamber of Commerce at a noon meeting Tuesday at the R and R cafe.

Dollinger was optimistic in his talk, explaining that much of the decline in business reported by some merchants "is due to their own pessimistic attitude and the fact that they are not trying to meet their customers' needs and demands."

Stressing the "high degree of optimism" maintained by the National Chamber of Commerce, Dollinger pointed out that more than 60 million people are gainfully employed in the United States, five million more than were employed during the massive production of World War II. The average family take-home pay has been rising at the rate of almost three per cent a year for 14 years.

"The growth in population—more customers for goods and services," he said, "is beneficial to a nation with large resources and an expanding economy. Our population has increased at the rate of 2,658,000 a year for the past four years, with total national output of goods and services increasing at the rate of six per cent a year."

Dollinger said the last few years has seen the mushrooming growth of the "do-it-yourself" industry, and amateurs will spend in excess of nine billion dollars this year as American homes by the millions "have their faces lifted." He added that 500 billion dollars would be needed for peaceful purposes simply to maintain our present living standard. Much of this spending cannot be delayed, and the impact on the national economy will be evident in the not distant future," he believes.

"The National Chamber has anticipated the prevailing buyers' market as a normal, natural sequel to the expansion of production facilities necessitated by the Korean war and because it has made an exhaustive study of forces now at work in the national economy," Dollinger said.

Following the meeting Dollinger met with members of the merchants committee to discuss plans for special promotion activities and events.

Gossett Opposes Clinic Proposals

BOISE, June 16—Charles C. Gossett, Democratic candidate for governor, today criticized an Idaho Young Republican resolution on juvenile delinquency and said he had faith in the youth of the state.

The resolution, he said, urged creation of mental health clinics and detention homes for delinquents, all supervised on a state level.

Gossett said he was "not belittling the juvenile delinquency problem," but added he did not think the youth of the state "are so bad they need mental clinics and a department of state to curb their delinquency."

"I am of the belief that work is the greatest deterrent in juvenile delinquency... the responsibility of a job will keep them out of trouble," Gossett said.

Shooter Falls Ill at Contest

McCALL, June 16 (AP)—The annual pistol shoot of the Idaho Police Officers association gave spectators a frightening moment yesterday: One of the contestants collapsed on the firing line with a loaded weapon in his hand.

Bob H. Lewis, officer in charge of the Idaho state police roving station at Idaho Falls, was taken to the Cascade hospital where his condition was reported fair.

H. L. Jones of the Nampa police department shot 371 in a driving rainstorm—12 points better than the others—to take the championship.

He was followed by Joe Lippert, Lewiston; M. J. Bays, Jr., Twin Falls; Harry Taylor, Jefferson county deputy sheriff; Roger Tucker, Boise, and Dave Davidson, Nampa.

Top woman shooter was Mrs. M. J. Bays, Jr., Twin Falls, with 179. She was followed by Veva Tucker, Boise, and Lynn Pollock, Idaho Falls.

Judge Sets For Wallace

POCATELLO, June 16 (AP)—Judge Chase A. Clark today set a spring term of court for Wallace, pending his appeal from a tax evasion conviction.

McRae, a former White House operator, received a five-month prison term at reformatory in Springfield.

The U. S. supreme court once refusing to hear the case, agreed to replace the docket.

Attaches have explained action does not mean that he will get a rehearing, but his case will be considered with several other cases.

Judge Clark said he had officially informed of the court action, but said would be effective if it had notice is received.

The bid was submitted by Olaf Nelson Construction company, Logan.

The project will incorporate part of the Washo road test strip near Malad with the highway. Part of the test section will have to be rebuilt because of damage from test trucks.

Plugged

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy remarked today that he could not hear Sen. Stuart Symington in the army-McCarthy hearings.

Symington retorted: "... If you'd get the deputy junior senator of Wisconsin, Mr. (Roy M.) Cohn, out of your ear, you'd be able to hear better."

McCarthy replied that if Wisconsin were to have a deputy junior senator "I couldn't think of anyone I'd rather have."

Bliss Grange Has Program For Meeting

GOODING, June 16 — Eleven members of the Bliss Grange visited Gooding-Grange Friday and provided the program with Mrs. V. W. Carson, Bliss lecturer, in charge. Music was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Vance Butler.

Mrs. Carson used material from the National Grange for a panel discussion on whether Grange dues were high enough to take care of expenses for legislative and other forward-looking movements sponsored by the State and National Granges.

Among the questions were "What has the Grange accomplished over the period of 90 years since its beginning?" Some of the answers from the Grangers present were that it had been active in promoting woman suffrage, being one of the first organizations which gave women equal voting privileges in its meetings; promoted rural free delivery of mail; has been active in furthering agricultural extension service, and at present has a number of national Grange workers on agricultural committees in Washington, D. C.

National Master Herschel D. Newsome is in Africa now attending the seventh conference of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers. It also was pointed out that he is attempting to improve the United States' position in its search for added global outlets as the alternative to more drastic crop production controls in this country.

The group was not asked to vote as to whether they thought there should be a larger contribution to the state than the $1.80 per person per year from each member, 24 cents of which is sent on to National Grange. However, considering the accomplishments for its members' benefit, the Grangers expressed belief they were "fortunate not to be taxed at the same rate as members of labor unions."

A skit, "The Lighthouse Keepers' Daughter," was presented with Vern Carson, Mrs. Bob Butler, Mrs. Vance Butler, Doran Butler and Vance Butler taking parts. John Ayres was the reader for the pantomime.

Mrs. Ira Klutner, lecturer, announced that Gooding Grange will have a program at Bliss July 15.

During the business meeting the members voted to send $10 to the Grange Youth Fund.

Mrs. William Pyle, home economics chairman, asked members' opinion of providing prizes for top entries in the sewing contests again this year and they voted to allow the committee to purchase prizes.

Doran Butler, Bliss and William Pyle, Gooding, presented Dredge mining initiative proposal papers to be signed.

Resignations of Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson as assistant stewards was accepted and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Quiggle were elected to take the positions.

Hosts for refreshments were Mr. and Mrs. Fred N. Locke, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Loucks, Mr. and Mrs. Earl France, Mr. and Mrs. Don Loper and Mrs. Laura Leavell.

The meetings are to familiarize land owners and water users in the district with the terms and conditions of the proposed amendatory contract between the United States and the district.

Water users will have opportunity at these meetings to ask questions concerning the provisions of the proposed contract. It is expected that this will be the final contract.

Close!

MARIETTA, Ga., June 16 (AP)—A flight line mechanic of the Lockheed Aircraft corporation here was sucked head and arms into the air inlet section of a huge and powerful jet engine and survived.

The power of the engine, one of six on a giant B-47 bomber, was cut and a fellow workman yanked F. L. Morgan, 39, to safety by his leg.

The mechanic and an engineer were checking the engine for vibration. Morgan had signaled the engineer to cut the engine, but as he turned there was enough suction left to drag him in.

Dworshak Wants Purifying Project

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—Senate bills introduced yesterday include measures to:

1. Authorize $570,000 worth of flood control channel work on Weber river between Morgan, Utah, and its confluence with the Ogden River. Local sources would put up $100,000 of the cost for benefits estimated at $242,000 annually—by Senator Bennett, R., Utah.

2. Authorize construction of a filtration plant at Bonners Ferry, to alleviate pollution of Myrtle creek. The federal government would appropriate $210,000 for the project—by Senator Dworshak, R., Ida.

Germans' Uprising Last Year Gave Russians Biggest Fright

(Editor's note: One year ago tomorrow, the communists got the biggest fright they had since they started taking over European countries after World War II. It was the uprising of East German workers. The following dispatch by the UP bureau manager for Berlin reviews the revolt and tells of the changes it has caused.)

By JOSEPH FLEMING

BERLIN, June 16 (AP)—The black, red and gold flag of the Bonn republic will fly tomorrow, in West Berlin and throughout western Germany, in memory of the East German workers uprising.

It was only a short-lived revolt, unplanned and leaderless. But it rocked the communist world. It was a reminder that some day the tens of millions of European people who are under the heel of the communists may rise in mass—and win.

The East German government is still, one year later, trying German men and women for their part in the great uprising.

One year ago today some workers on the grandiose building project in the Stalin Allee, the new boulevard in East Berlin, put down their tools and marched on the huge government building in the Leipzigerstrasse.

They were protesting against increased work quotas. The grind of life under the communists was becoming intolerable.

This comparatively small demonstration against the reds was a spark. It exploded the most serious revolt against red rule since the end of World War II.

At 6 o'clock next morning, June 17, East Berlin workers began assembling. Thousands, tens of thousands, hundreds of thousands of them, went on the march.

Loud-speaker trucks called for a general strike. Soviet army troops started moving on the city to reinforce the communist "people's police." It did no good. Women joined the men.

The workers tore down red flags from buildings, and the red flag on top of the towering Brandenburg gate where it flew as a symbol of Russia's capture of Berlin in the war.

They set fire to communist buildings. They fought hand to hand with German police, beat up communist officials and stoned Soviet tanks.

The revolt spread swiftly to cities throughout East Germany. There were uprisings in Leipzig, Dresden, Magdeburg, Brandenburg, Dessau, Halle, Chemnitz, Jena and other cities.

The Russians had to declare martial law in East Berlin and in other cities in their occupation zone.

How many people including red police died in the uprising never has been determined. Sixteen was a minimum in Berlin alone. Nor is it known how many Germans were executed for taking part in the

Breakup of Talks Cheered by Rhee

CHINHAIE, Korea, June 16 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee says the breakup of Korean peace talks at Geneva clearly demonstrates that "the free nations no longer are begging the communists to come to some agreement so as to avoid at any cost the possibility of war III."

"I do not wish to see anything but the complete withdrawal of the communists from the Korean peninsula," Rhee said. "I feel that it is a Panmunjom that has led the other side to drawing from a conference."

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

There is, to my mind, a great deal of nonsense talked about the public schools.

Maybe it is on the principle that, to appear better than others, pull down the others. Whatever the reason, the agitation concerning the state of our schools continues. No institution is ever, or can ever hope to be perfect, so the school will have weaknesses. They will also have strengths.

Whenever I hear the quality of our schools belittled I think of the army of our youth sent off to a bleak foreign land to risk their lives against the challenge of a dangerous and wicked enemy of all they had been taught to cherish, against all their hopes of growth. Any lack of courage, generosity, endurance, power, physical, mental, spiritual? They have stood up under all tests to add to the pride and the honor of their country. Most of them are the product of the public schools of the United States. So much for that.

We could do better, of course. We could make our courses more effective by making it possible for the pupils to carry their lessons out into the world of practice and so illuminate their learning and strengthen their intelligence. Here we need the help and cooperation of the labor unions.

We could lengthen the school day, not by adding more work to the already overworked teachers, but by adding more teachers. This is sadly needed. We insist that children and young people attend school through adolescence, the height of their learning years, but we do not offer them facilities for worth-while learning, nor practical application of their learning, both of which are pressing necessities.

But one point I want to make clear to all parents of school children from grade-school through college. Schools of America are not godless, nor do they neglect character training. People who make this charge do some queer reasoning—or do they reason?

These are quick to say that any red-tinted teacher must not teach because—now mark this—because even though they do not teach their doctrine, it emanates from their personalities, and influences the pupils. I'll accept that.

Then—when men and women of fine character, teachers whose lives are a daily expression of right living, right thinking, born of religious attitude, of faith in God, teach, do not these qualities reach the pupils? Is not God in the classroom along with them?

It is not necessary to teach a creed to teach about God and His way. It is necessary that the teacher be one whom God loves. And that, in my experience over a lifetime, holds in the public schools as elsewhere.

When a child lies, there must be a reason, but lying must be stopped before it becomes a habit. Dr. Patri says, first you must find the cause in his leaflet P-1, "Lying." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

The bride wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace and tulle. The lace bodice was fashioned with a scalloped, off-shoulder neckline and lily-point sleeves. The full, hooped skirt, was of pleated tulle with an overlaid peplum of lace caught at intervals with white rosebuds. A coronet of seed pearls held the double-veil of illusion net. Her bridal bouquet was of tallies roses in a cascade arrangement of lilies of the valley. She wore a single strand of pearls with her wedding costume.

Mrs. Henry J. Topping, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Joyce Jordan, Roosevelt, Utah, and Lynn Rowan, Palo Alto, Calif.

James DiSanto, Salt Lake City, was best man and Robert Doelle and Roger Quilley, Salt Lake City, were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Moedl chose an afternoon dress of lavender net with an interwoven floral design, white accessories and a gardenia corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a two-piece frock of pink paper silk taffeta with matching accessories and a gardenia corsage.

A wedding reception followed at Trail creek cabin.

Mrs. A. W. Reimers, Hailey, Mrs. Oscar E. Thamm, Wilder, Mrs. Cliff Bentley, Ketchum, Mrs. J. R. Swettzer, Salt Lake City, and Mrs. George Venable, Ketchum, assisted with the reception and guest book.

Indian Muddle In Hands of Minors' Boss

SPOKANE, June 16 (AP)—George Trautman, boss of baseball's minor leagues, will be asked to state the conditions under which a Spokane civic group can take over the Spokane franchise in the Western International league.

Robert Abel, president of the WIL, said he is asking Trautman to authorize the league to set down the terms under which the franchise can be taken over.

"So far as I know, that should not go beyond payroll, travel expenses and any outstanding hotel bills for the club's recent trips," Abel said.

Roy Hotchkiss, who has owned the Spokane Indians since 1949, pulled out this week, and the league agreed to keep the team going for a week.

A non-profit corporation to be known as "Save Spokane Indians, Inc.," was set up Tuesday by Mayor Arthur Meehan as president, and the group said articles of incorporation will be filed immediately.

Meehan said there is some question as to the obligations and encumbrances any new franchise holder might have to assume before being able to operate the team at Ferris field, owned by Hotchkiss.

Tuesday the group talked of moving the team's operations to the Memorial stadium football field, where, spokesmen said, a baseball diamond could be set up.

Buhl Defeats Rupert Club In Loop Play

RUPERT, June 16 — The Buhl town team defeated Rupert 5-4 in the first Frontier league softball game of the season here Sunday.

The Buhl club scored one run in the first, one in the second and three in the third.

Rupert nearly tied the score in the seventh on a homer by second baseman Bill Wall. Wall drove in pitcher Ken Bell with the fourth Rupert run but the rally fell one marker short.

Buhl's Elden Beers pitched the first four innings and was relieved by Jay White. Bell went all the way for Rupert.

The next home game is set for June 20 at Rupert. Game time is 8:15 p. m.

Marciano Remains Solid Favorite As Battle Begins to "Catch on"

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—Rocky Marciano remained a solid 3-1 favorite to beat ex-champ Ezzard Charles' bid for his heavyweight boxing title Thursday night as the big fight began to "catch on." Promoter Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing club, said Tuesday $300,000 worth of tickets already had been sold.

Beginners Get Chance In Women's Tourney

Because of the large number of beginning golfers who tour golf tournament, a special division has been established. Tour golf tournament, a special division has been established, Cliff Whittle, golf pro, said Tuesday.

The beginners will play in a nine-hole flight and will play nine holes each day instead of the regular 18. Beginning golfers who shoot 80 or above are qualified to enter.

The tourney gets under way Thursday with 18 holes qualifying set for that day. The final 18 holes will be played Friday.

Some of the better women golfers in Magic Valley are expected to enter the tourney and Whittle said indications are for a record turnout.

Women desiring to enter the tournament may contact Whittle at the municipal course before Thursday.

The new women's golf association in Burley is expected to enter one of the largest contingents in the tourney.

Some of the favorites for the tourney include Mrs. Dorothy Pierce, last year's champion; Mrs. Irene Fox and Mrs. Grace Kimes, all from the municipal links; Mrs. Ann Harper, Mrs. Jane Purvis and Mrs. Fern Ashworth, Blue Lakes country club, and Mrs. Ann Robinson and Mrs. Beas Ellis, Jerome.

Boucher Leads in Fircrest Tourney

TACOMA, June 16 (AP)—Tom Boucher, Seattle professional, celebrated his 28th birthday Tuesday in the Washington State open tournament at Tacoma's Fircrest golf club.

Boucher, one stroke behind Bud Hofmeister, Hayden Lake professional, at the end of 54 holes, because he had called a penalty shot on himself—shot an over-par 71 for a 73 total while Hofmeister was taking a 75 for a 285 aggregate.

Chuck Congdon, Tacoma pro, also shot a 75 and finished third at 287.

Ty Cobb led the American league in batting 12 times.

Low Burdette, Porterfield Pacing Loops

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—Low Burdette, Milwaukee, and Bob Porterfield, Washington, a couple of righthanders the New York Yankees traded in 1951, are making a lot of headway in the major league earned run averages as the 1954 campaign streaks into its third month.

The 27-year-old Burdette, obtained from the Yankees in a transaction that sent Johnny Sain to New York, paces the National league with a 2.25 earned run mark. He has given up 21 earned runs in 84 innings while posting a 6-5 won-lost record.

Porterfield's figures are even more impressive. Although he is runnerup to Detroit's Ned Garver in the American league competition, Porterfield has permitted only 24 earned runs in 106 frames for a 2.06 average.

Garver, in 12 games, has yielded 22 runs in 95 innings, but seven of the runs were unearned. His earned run rate is a sizzling 1.42. Ned has four victories against two setbacks.

The records compiled by the Associated Press include Monday's games.

Giants Take Over First Place in National League

From AP and UP Reports
Hank Thompson hit a homerun with two on and two out in the last of the ninth inning Tuesday to give the New York Giants a 5-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs and sole possession of first place in the National league. The Giants' last-gasp triumph came after the Brooklyn Dodgers had tied to Milwaukee and it put the New Yorkers a full game ahead of the Dodgers.

Thompson's homer, his 11th, came against lefthander Jackie Collum who had been rushed in to face the lefthanded batter.

The two runners had been walked earlier in the inning, one by Harry Perkowiak and one by Howie Judson as Birdie Tebbetts switched from left to righthanders to conform with the hitters.

Al Rosen, playing in his first game since June 4 hit a three-run pinch double for the Cleveland Indians during a six-run rally in the eighth inning as the Pirates thumped the Washington Nationals 9-3 in Cleveland.

Rosen, batting for Vic Wertz, came up with the bases filled and socked a pitch by lefty Chuck Stobbs, second Washington relief pitcher, into right center. His right index finger fractured by a ground ball in Chicago May 25, Rosen dropped out of the lineup in Philadelphia June 4.

The Milwaukee Braves pounded out 14 hits but had to come from behind twice to edge the Brooklyn Dodgers 7-6 in Brooklyn. Four singles in the eighth produced the two runs that put the Braves ahead to stay.

Del Crandall, who led the assault with three singles, drove in the tying run in the eighth after Andy Patko had singled and moved to second on a sacrifice.

After a force play and a single by Bill Bruton, Johnny Logan singled home the winning run.

The victory was the Braves' third straight in Ebbets field this season. Vic Raschi hit a third inning single and Rip Repulski followed with a homer as the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Philadelphia Phillies 3-1 in Philadelphia.

Johnny Sain came in to strike out Bob Kennedy with the tying runs on base to save the game for Alie Reynolds, and the New York Yankees won by a 4-4 score over the Baltimore Orioles in Baltimore.

Detroit's Steve Gromek, who failed six straight times trying for his eighth victory, finally made it tonight, spacing seven hits for a 4-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox before 32,380 in Detroit.

Chances are the PCO squad, which numbered 14 stars from NCAA champion Southern California, actually lost the meet before it started, over-confidence perhaps being a factor.

The PCO coaches elected to withdraw NCAA champion Jim Lea from the 440-yard dash in favor of the 220 and 4 position as anchor man on the mile-relay team.

This move proved disastrous. The Big Ten swept the 440. Lea then was able only to salvage a third in the 220 and the Big Ten won the mile relay despite Lea's presence.

Illini Boost Big Ten to Track Victory

EVANSTON, Ill., June 16 (AP)—The University of Illinois shouldered major responsibility by producing four winners Tuesday night and led the Big Ten to a surprising victory over the Pacific Coast in the annual track meet between the two conferences.

The final score was 74-58. A Big Ten athlete, breaking a string of three straight victories by the powerful coast aggregation, fought the westerners to a stand-off throughout the early events and wrapped it up in the next-to-last race, the 220-yard low hurdles.

Joe Corley, Illinois, took the race, and Ken Toye, Northwestern, and Willard Thomson, Illinois, placed second and third for a nine-point sweep.

This gave the Big Ten a total of 69 points and it added some insurance tallies in the final night, the mile relay, when Kevan Gosper, Michigan State; Len Robinson, Indiana; Ben Yousey, Purdue, and Ralph Fessenden, Michigan, beat the best quarter-milers the coast could offer in 3:10.8.

Other Illini individual winners were Thomson, who scored in the 120-yard high hurdles with a time of :14.4—again with Toye the runner-up; Willie Williams, whose 5.6-second effort in the 100 was good enough for a three-stride victory over Joe Gaffio, Southern California, and Gene Maynard, who won the 880-yard run in 1:51.2.

French Party Chief to Ask For Support

PARIS, June 16 (AP)—Premier-designate Pierre Mendes-France worked today on a speech expected to urge immediate peace in Indo-China.

The 47-year-old Radical Socialist will go before the national assembly to ask for approval of his efforts to form a government tomorrow.

Failure Seen
Political observers believed he will miss the necessary 314 votes by between five and 20. During the 36-day crisis that preceded the formation of a government by Premier Joseph Laniel, Mendes-France tried to become premier and failed by 13 votes.

Along with working on his speech the premier-designate saw French foreign office officials who were worried about the scheduled meeting of President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

The meeting in Washington June 23 will mark the first time in many months that France had missed attending high Allied councils.

Give Pledge
Mendes-France pledged yesterday before a meeting of his Radical-Socialist party's parliamentary group that there will be "no reversal" of France's ties to the United States and the North Atlantic Treaty organization if he wins approval as premier.

Delegates attending the meeting said he also declared he will not accept the support of communist deputies in the vote on his candidacy.

One of Founders Of CAP Is Killed

HOOD RIVER, Ore., June 16 (AP)—Harry K. Coffey, 69, one of the founders of the civil air patrol, crashed to his death in a light plane yesterday. His 10-year-old grandson and Coffey's gardener, Sam Camp, also were killed.

A downdraft in the Columbia gorge apparently caught the plane about 60 miles east of Portland. A witness said the pilot turned on full throttle in an attempt to pull out of the strong downdraft, but the plane crashed into a hill on the Oregon side of the Columbia river. A moment later the wreckage burst into flames.

Coffey, a colonel in the civil air patrol and a former president of the National Aeronautics association, had taken off minutes before from his home in Portland for his ranch near Prescott, Ariz. His grandson, Lance, and the gardener were accompanying him.

Test Youngster Contracts Polio

SEATTLE, June 16 (AP)—The state health department reports that one of the 11,774 Washington school children who took part in polio-vaccine tests has contracted the disease.

Dr. W. R. Gledt, epidemiologist for the department, said the youngster had a mild case of bulbar polio and is not in serious condition. He did not release the name of the child, whose home is Kitsap county.

Dr. Gledt said it was not known whether the youngster was actually given the vaccine, or was one of those who received an injection of a harmless but similar-appearing substance. He said that in any case the vaccine could not be the cause of the boy's illness.

Alleged Red Is Irate at Order To Testify Despite His Illness

SEATTLE, June 16 (AP)—Thomas C. Rabbitt, former Washington state senator, said he was being compelled to appear in an executive session of the house un-American activities committee hearing today despite doctors' statements it "will endanger my life."

Rabbitt, secretary of the Progressive party, was identified as a member of the communist party yesterday by Mrs. Barbara Hartle, first person ever to renounce communism after being convicted of communist conspiracy under the Smith act.

William Wheeler, committee investigator, said Rabbitt has a certificate from physicians stating that to testify at a public hearing might endanger his life.

Wheeler said a subcommittee will hear Rabbitt in private while other committee members continue their public hearings on communist infiltration in the Pacific northwest.

Rabbitt said he would not cooperate "in the slightest degree."

Mrs. Hartle was to testify again today at the public hearing and was expected to give the committee the names of additional persons she had known as members of the communist party.

Mrs. Hartle dropped a bombshell into yesterday's hearings when she testified that Earl Larsen, former labor leader from East Stanwood, Wash., was a member of the communist party "at least until 1950."

Larsen is the only person ever acquitted of charges brought under the Smith act. He was a defendant in the same trial in which Mrs. Hartle was convicted and sentenced to five years in prison.

At the trial Larsen, through his attorney, maintained he left the party in 1946.

Nine persons named by Mrs. Hartle invoked the fifth amendment yesterday and refused to tell the committee anything relating to communist activities in the Pacific northwest.

Running at Postwar Low Conditions May Change Suddenly

Some of the steam is gone out of the drive that saw workers getting higher wages year after year during World War II and in the postwar period.

Pay increases are still coming but are harder to get, and smaller. On the average, pay raises are running 5 to 8 cents an hour.

Now caution, stiffer bargaining on the part of both employer and union, is the watchword in management-union dealings.

A veteran conciliator in the federal mediation and conciliation service told this reporter that labor disputes appear harder to settle now than at any time in the past dozen years.

The situation is spotty. Some types of business are better off than others. Some unions are getting considerably more than others.

During the first three months of this year a great many contracts were settled without any pay raise at all, merely extending former agreements. Yet some employers shelled out heavily, wanting no labor troubles while business was good.

Many union and management men closely following the situation say that, next to the business lag, the reason for so few big strikes these days is that President Eisenhower is keeping aloof from labor disputes.

Under some former administrations, employers charged that unions often fomented strikes, or strikes threats, to give the government an excuse to step in and help get them more than they'd normally expect in collective bargaining.

Many students of the labor situation sincerely feel that labor-management relations are constantly maturing and that this, too, is an important reason for fewer labor troubles. Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said recently:

"Every year about 100,000 collective bargaining agreements are peacefully negotiated or renewed in the United States. The few strikes make headlines, but the numerous peaceful settlements are not news. Hundreds of thousands of individual grievances are settled without a work stoppage every year. There is a great deal of industrial

Rights Group Enters Death Case in Utah

DENVER, June 16 (AP)—American Civil Liberties union said yesterday it is entering the case of Don Jesse Neal, who faces execution Saturday in Salt Lake City for the killing of a policeman in 1951.

The ACLU said it would appeal Neal's case on the grounds his civil liberties were infringed when his right to counsel was denied. Two ACLU attorneys will fly from New York to Denver and Salt Lake City to press Neal's appeal.

The ACLU staff counsel, Herbert Monte Levy, said he would appear Wednesday morning at Denver before Judge Orle L. Phillips of the 10th circuit court of appeals. Levy said he would argue that Neal's right to counsel was interfered with because his attorney was not present in 1951 at the time the verdict was announced, at the sentencing and when Neal's motion for a new trial was turned down.

ACLU said another of its attorneys, David L. Shapiro, will be in Salt Lake City Thursday to investigate what ACLU says are questions concerning alleged suppression of evidence by police and the denial of the right to counsel at the trial.

Levy said the union was intervening at the request of Neal and his new attorney, Miss Billy Hulse, Salt Lake City.

Hank's Bald Head Rules Out Fiji as Scene for Retirement

By HENRY McLEMORE
KORO LEVU, FIJI—Like almost everyone else, I often have dreamed of finally having tucked away enough money under the mattress to say goodbye to the work-a-day world and retire to a South sea island.

Now that I'm in Fiji, I know that when and if that blessed day of independence arrives it won't be to these tropic islands—that I'll come.

Fiji is South sea, all right, and has all the trappings of the tropic. There are more than enough lagoons to go around. You can have a second helping of lagoons if you care to. Native drums thrum day and night, the surf sings a never-ending lullaby and there are red sails in the sunset.

But it's not for me. I don't have enough hair.

Fiji is no place for a bald-headed man, or for a man who can't comb his hair free-style, but who has to resort to trick combing to cover isolated areas. I have been here only a day or so, and already I have an inferiority complex as big as a dug-out canoe.

Fiji's greatest product is hair, you know. Fijians are not called fuzzy-wuzzies for nothing. Fiji produces great amounts of sugar, gold, copra, fish and pineapples, but human hair is what the island is richest in.

No American farmer cultivates his crops more carefully than the Fijian does his hair. It grows straight up like a television aerial, and reaches amazing heights. From a distance a Fijian's head resembles a stand of virgin pine, and up close one gets the impression that the Fijian is wearing a hedge for a hat.

While I am not bald yet, I have reached the point where a phenologist could easily read my bumps without the laying on of hands, and from 10 paces, too.

Among the Fijian heads, my own stands out as prominently as a blackberry in a bowl of cream. This has given me a definite inferiority complex—and I wish I had brought along a football helmet to wear when I am not in the privacy of my "bure" or thatched hut.

The Fijian women outdo the men when it comes to luxurious stands of hair. Some of the belles have hair that stands a good two feet high, and is as dense as a $10 hair brush. They comb it with a wooden comb about three times the size of a butter paddle.

Not knowing much Fijian (I foolishly took domestic science instead of languages when I was in college) I have been unable to ask any of the natives what they use on their hair to make it sprout with such magnificent abandon. They must use some ancient concoction, the ingredients of which have been handed down through the centuries.

What I couldn't make in the way of money if I could take the recipe back home and start bottling the stuff! Everyone from the President down would mob the drugstores where Dr. McLemore's Fijian Hair Fertilizer, to give it a catchy name, was on sale. In a couple of months I'd be able to buy and sell Texas, even.

And what happiness it would bring me! What a joy it would be for me to stand in front of the medicine cabinet mirror again and just comb with an abandoned motion, instead of having to bring a few strands from the right, a few strands from the left, a tuft or two from somewhere else and arrange them in a neat little pile that fools no one.

To close on a note of irony: To judge by the phonograph music one hears down here, Bing is far and away the Fijian's most popular singer.

NEW CONOCO Super MOTOR OIL

America's First Double-Duty Oil!

Protection 1

OIL-PLATING

conquers friction wear . . . . because this exclusive discovery actually fastens a thin film of lubricant to moving engine parts for full-time protection.

Protection 2

ACID-PROOFING

conquers corrosive wear . . . . because this exclusive new discovery gives Conoco Super up to twice the cleansing power of other premium oils!

Scientists and automotive engineers have long known that friction and corrosion are the two major causes of engine wear. Some heavy-duty oils offer protection against friction . . . others against acid. But now, from the laboratories of Continental Oil, comes America's first Double-Duty motor oil. It combines two exclusive discoveries (Oil-Plating and Acid-Proofing)* to conquer both major causes of engine wear.

Oil-Plating conquers friction wear. When a car's engine is stopped, ordinary oil tends to drain down into the crankcase. Many times, when the engine is started again, pistons and cylinder walls are not adequately protected—and failure of lubrication can cause friction wear. But here's what happens with Conoco Super Motor Oil with Oil-Plating. The unique Oil-Plating additive gives Conoco Super a molecular attraction for metals. Actually, it plates a thin film of protective oil to the metal parts of your engine... a film that won't drain down even overnight. Thus you get full-time protection against damaging wear due to friction.

Acid-Proofing conquers corrosive wear. This new petrochemical additive was developed and is produced exclusively by Continental Oil Company. It works three ways to protect your engine against corrosive wear:

First, it actually rustproofs your engine. It gobbles up moisture and keeps it harmlessly in suspension, surrounded by tiny spheres of oil, until it is drained out.

Second, it keeps your engine almost "showroom clean" for the life of your car. That's because it acts as a scavenger in your engine. It collects dust and dirt and holds it in suspension until the oil is drained. It gives Conoco Super twice the cleansing power of other premium oils.

Third, it conquers acid. Acids are formed in your engine by the combustion of gasoline, particularly in stop-and-go driving. ACID-PROOFING actually neutralizes these acids the instant they are formed—thus stopping acid wear before it starts.

Now Conoco Super Motor Oil is on sale at Conoco dealers everywhere. Drive in and ask for it today!

Hike Proposal For Postoffice Men Opposed

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—The chairman and two key members of the house postoffice and civil service committee have denounced a committee-approved 7 per cent pay raise for postal workers as unwise, unworkable and discriminatory.

They said it would cost almost $200,000,000 yearly and would further distort a pay scale under which incentive already is stifled by lack of differential between pay for routine jobs and for responsible supervisory positions.

The bill overturns an administration recommendation for pay raises coupled with a reclassification of jobs. High administration sources have indicated it may be vetoed if it passes in its present form.

"It is virtually impossible to achieve anywhere near the desired efficiency in the postal service without establishing at the earliest possible moment a pay system based upon equal pay for equal work and increased pay for increased responsibility," said the three members in a minority report.

Bill Approved

The bill was approved by the committee May 27 by a vote of 14 to 10. It carries a 7 per cent general increase with a maximum of $480 and a minimum of $240 yearly, except that hourly workers would get a 10 cent increase.

The minority view, filed with the house yesterday, was signed by Committee Chairman Edward H. Rees, R., Kans.; Rep. Tom Murray, D., Tenn., ranking Democratic member and former chairman, and Rep. Katherine St. George, R., N. Y., chairman of a subcommittee on postal operations.

They said the bill as approved would "ignore completely the basic principle of equal pay for equal work." They said it not only would not advance necessary reclassification of postal jobs but would "delay indefinitely" any such reclassification as well as make it far more costly.

"Bill Is Unwise"

"This bill... is unwise in its policy, virtually impossible to administer, and discriminatory among various classes of postal employees," the minority group reported.

(1) does not solve a single one of the salary problems confronting the post office department."

"The law under which the post-office's 800,000 workers are paid has been amended more than 180 times, the group said, with resulting distortions and inequities. "The relationship between individuals, the jobs they hold and what they are paid for doing these jobs is completely out of line," they said.

"They said under the present system 'doctors are paid as assistant superintendents of mail, nurses as clerks in charge and engineers and draftsmen as assistant superintendents and clerks in charge."

Report Given

The group reported that Mrs. St. George's subcommittee recently had a test given to 95 stenographers and typists in six major post offices. The test was that given applicants for grade 2 civil service jobs with starting salary in other agencies of $4,780. For postal workers the starting salary is $3,270, the group said, and all those tested were above the minimum, with all but 20 making more than $4,000 yearly.

"Of the number taking the test, 48 (more than half) were declared ineligible in one or both of the tests, or refused to take the exam, or abandoned the exam during the test," the group said.

"One stenographer earning in excess of $5,000 a year was declared ineligible in both the stenographic and typing tests necessary to qualify for a grade 2 job, paying $2,780 a year entrance salary in other departments of the government."
