

Long Chance Mineral Hu Pays Off

Pick recently sold some uranium mines in south Utah for $9,000,000 cash to Atlas corporation. The sale was announced.

Pick became a uranium prospector after a fire destroyed his winding shop in Minneapolis. He bought a pickup truck and headed west with his wife, Ruth, for a long-distance location.

At Colorado Springs, he found a handbook on uranium and the prospecting fever.

"It started out as a lark," he said.

Using the book by Ernest Rastbach, Pick was down to prospecting in the mountains late in the summer.

"It was a million to one," he said.

He got back to civilization days later and filed his plan with the state.

He found 45 pounds in the wilderness.

Pick said he still has no idea how much uranium he has, but the other in Colorado is

Mon Raises Finances for Probe Effort

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—The U. S. House of Representatives today voted to increase the power of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to investigate the activities of the Communist Party in the United States.

The measure, which would allow the FBI to investigate the activities of the Communist Party in the United States, was passed by a vote of 317 to 107.

T. F. Aumen Aid in Search

Four aircraft from the Twin Falls civil air patrol rounded up a plane in a simulated air search and rescue operation Sunday with the 43rd air rescue squadron of the U. S. air force near Boise, reports Jack Parrier, local squadron public information officer.

Squadron members taking part in the operation included Lloyd Shewmaker, Keith Kinnison, Paul Thompson, Donald Hutchins, Edward McCarthy, Elmer Parrell, Elmer Sommer, John Choules, Paul and Dwight Shaw, squadron commander.

Twenty-three aircraft from nine CAP squadrons from throughout the state participated in the practice operation. Air search and rescue operations were judged by the practice "generally successful."

CAP members are judged on organization, liaison, search plan, control of aircraft, fueling, briefing, debriefing, communications and flying safety.

The Twin Falls squadron had the best representation of any CAP unit in the state, reported Parrier.

13 Charges Against Senator McCarthy Studied by Censure Group Are Listed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—The Senate committee handling the censure case against Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R., Wis., will hear evidence on 13 charges.

The charges were picked from among 48 filed during Senate debate a month ago against McCarthy by Sen. Charles McNichols, D., Wis., of the Public Works Committee.

While it did not formally rule on any of the other charges, the committee decided to limit the case, at the outset, to the 13 charges.

1. McCarthy "openly, in a public manner before nationwide television, defamed and libeled the President of the United States and the government of the United States and the law and their officers and employees." (By Fulbright.)

2. He invited federal employees to violate the law and their oath of office by resigning to make available confidential information, including classified information, which in the opinion of the Senate is of the highest character, to the junior senator from Wisconsin in conducting his investigations, even though supplying of such information by the employee would be illegal and in violation of presidential order and contrary to the constitutional rights of the chief executive under the separation-of-powers doctrine. (By Morse.)

3. McCarthy "incited government employees to violate their security oaths and serve as his personal informants, thus tending to break down the orderly chain of command in the civil service as well as violating the security provisions of the government." (By Flinders.)

4. He "incited the loyalty, patriotism and character of the United States military forces." (By Flinders.)

5. He "incited to subversive conduct in his interrogation of Gen. Ralph Zwickler, including a charge that General Zwickler was unfit to wear the uniform." (By Morse.)

6. McCarthy "received and made use of confidential information unlawfully obtained from a document in executive files upon which document the federal bureau of investigation had placed its highest classification and offered such information to a lawfully constituted Senate subcommittee in the form of a spurious document which he falsely asserted to be authentic." (By Morse.)

7. He received and held a valuable classified document in possible violation of the espionage act and permitted it to fall into the hands of a gossip columnist. Identified by Walter Winchell. (By Morse.)

8. "Incidents involving abuse of colleagues in the Senate."

9. "Incidents involving receipt or use of confidential or classified information from executive files."

Canadian Leader Favors Vigilance

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 31 (AP)—Advocate of defensive strength and eternal vigilance, Lester B. Pearson, Foreign Minister of Canada, said today that he was not a Communist.

"If we lack power and vigilance, if we become careless and disoriented in the free world, we could soon be replaced by a more powerful and vigilant world," he told a conference yesterday at the Canadian Parliament.

"We must not lose sight of the fact that we are not alone in this world," he said. "We must not lose sight of the fact that we are not alone in this world."

Ike Insists Upon Paying His Way

DES MOINES, Aug. 31 (AP)—President Eisenhower drew a laugh at the Iowa state fair when he insisted on paying the admission fee for himself and former President Herbert Hoover.

"I'm paying his admission before a crowd of some 25,000 last night, President Eisenhower said.

"I saw a sign in the paper that there was some anxiety, if not irritation, because it was said I wasn't going to pay my 50 cents to get into the fair."

"Now, on behalf of a former President of the United States and myself, I hereby tender to Governor Bradley one dollar and hope he will pass it on to the proper authorities."

Thereupon the President handed Governor Bradley a dollar bill. The governor attempted to return it to President Eisenhower, but he refused to accept it.

GERMAN DEFLECTIONS

German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and his key supporters are understandably upset at the second defection of an important member from the Bonn government to East Germany. A few of us ever heard of Konrad Schmidt, but he was not even a name to most of us. Adenauer's Christian Democratic party, it is not clear how much he may have known of German or Western security matters, or what documents he may have taken. The West German behind the scenes knew little and took little. Naturally enough they have labeled him a traitor. Added to the surprise defection of Dr. Otto John, former head of West German intelligence, Herr Schmidt's defection is a serious blow to the West German's work for British intelligence in wartime, and was for all practical purposes a complete end for some reason unknown to us. Schmidt-Wittmann could not be trusted. Furthermore, there still seems to be a good deal of mystery surrounding John's motives and activities. Indications are, however, that Schmidt was a Communist party spy from the beginning. Why, then, should he not remain in West Germany and continue espionage?

The answer is his usefulness there may have been ended for some reason unknown to us, and the Communists, in characteristic fashion, tried to make political hay out of this move by treating it as a "defection." So far the danger does not appear to lie in the political capital developed from the John and Schmidt-Wittmann defections. If there is any peril, it rests in what security secrets may have gone with them. Should defections grow in number, though, the impact would be much more severe politically. Up to now, the Communists could hardly dare match the West on the issue of defections. We have gained thousands of their disillusioned, while a mere trickle of Westerners has slipped under the curtain. Any marked change in communism's favor would not help us in the war for peace and freedom. Neither Germany nor the West as a whole should rest complacently on the numerical advantage we have today in this matter of defections. These two striking cases should be examined carefully by intelligence services for any signs of pattern or trend. For it is obviously vital both politically and security-wise that we nip in the bud any tendency toward steady loss of key figures to communism.

NOTHING ACCOMPLISHED

The American Airlines strike is now ended, and the issues will be reviewed by an arbitrator whose recommendations will not be binding either on the company or the pilots' union. The strike itself accomplished nothing, since a decision to seek arbitration could have been taken before a single plane was grounded. The principal issue in the 23-day walkout was American's operation of scheduled eight-hour and 35-minute nonstop flights from New York to Los Angeles. The pilots said these flights violated the old eight-hour limit, and that they were unsafe. But government authorities had relaxed the limit to 10 hours and had declared the flights safe. Furthermore, they allow international flights to carry 12-hour flights regularly with the identical crew American employs on the disputed flights.

During the walkout the pilots' union complained that press and public misunderstanding of the case. The fact is, the union never made out a case on the announced grounds of safety. If the pilots have any legitimate grievances, we must trust the arbitrator to weigh them carefully. Up to now they have been somewhat less than candid in their approach to the issues.

Thanks to the national mediation board for carrying through the discussions which ended this strike and restored full American Airlines service, including the disputed nonstop flights coast to coast.

BRILLIANT YOUNG MAN

The mix-up over senate confirmation of Trevor Gardner as assistant secretary of the air force for research and development had several unusual angles. Around Washington he is known as an outspoken believer in preventive war, a policy which President Eisenhower has repudiated. Mr. Gardner is an exceedingly brilliant young man, just turned 39, who was born in Cardiff, Wales. During the war he worked on the atomic bomb project. J. Edgar Hoover has repudiated. TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

(While Ray Tucker is on vacation there will be great selections by several prominent newspaper editors of the Gary Tribune, Gary, Ind.)
By DON F. DATENHAM
GARY, Ind.—Latter-day Whirligig affairs is surging upward in West Indiana, where steel and oil have combined to make a metropolitan population of nearly half a million. The district (Gary, Hammond, East Chicago and Whiting) sees early prospects for a double waterway connection with Lake Erie and the Great Lakes, and a bridge across the Atlantic and the Illinois and Mississippi rivers to the Gulf of Mexico.

The project has double importance, too. It would expand the market for the Calumet's production and it would insure ample iron ore supplies far into the future for the steel mills already in the district.

Calumet-Sag Channel Development—The St. Lawrence seaway is assured. And inland waterway leaders have strong hopes for an early start on the second project, the $182,000,000 Calumet-Sag channel development.

The latter involves widening and deepening the Calumet river, Sag and Lake Michigan. The project will connect the Indiana Harbor in East Chicago with the Illinois and the Mississippi rivers. Full plans call for extending it eastward for large traffic volume. It will be a customer and the industry looked askance at seaways. But railroad buying has dropped in importance. In low-cost water transportation of their bulky raw materials.

(SEAWAY OF PRIME IMPORTANCE—The Mesabi ore deposits of northern Minnesota, which long have been the main source of iron for the steel mills, but much of the high grade ore has been mined. All the major steel producers are working on ways to obtain the Mesabi ore. The process will be costly. So the possibility of getting quality ore from the West is a big thing. The Calumet-Sag project is prime importance for the future.

Gary has started to move from the newly developed Calumet-Sag Channel Development. The project will connect the Indiana Harbor in East Chicago with the Illinois and the Mississippi rivers. Full plans call for extending it eastward for large traffic volume. It will be a customer and the industry looked askance at seaways. But railroad buying has dropped in importance. In low-cost water transportation of their bulky raw materials.

GREAT LAKES SHIPPING CENTER—The Calumet-Sag project is a big thing. The Calumet-Sag project is prime importance for the future. It will be a customer and the industry looked askance at seaways. But railroad buying has dropped in importance. In low-cost water transportation of their bulky raw materials.

Whether the area will have a fourth harbor is a good question. For nearly a year Calumet-Sag groups have campaigned for a commercial port in the district, 10 miles east of Gary. House Majority Leader Charles McNichols, whose second Indiana district includes the proposed site, has assured that the activity of engineers will have funds next year for a formal survey of the project.

OPPOSITION TO HARBOR—But lovers of the unique Hoosier dunes are rallying to oppose the harbor. They say the site lies midway between two exclusive developments and only a short distance from the 2,200-acre Indiana-Dunes State Park. Conservationists would block industrial intrusion into the park. There is a precedent for the harbor talk, however. Back in the 1920s, the town of City West was started there. The park was not started until the 1930s. The town of City West was started there. The park was not started until the 1930s. The town of City West was started there. The park was not started until the 1930s.

VIEWS OF OBSERVERS

NO SIGNIFICANT CHANGE
The most significant point in the election experts attribute to the primary election earlier this month is that there is no marked shift in party affiliation in Idaho and that the Republican strongholds remain about the same. At least, that is the reflection of voting totals when compared with other years. For instance, in 1950 when Sen. Glen Taylor sought to retain his senate seat, the total vote cast for him was 161,000. This year the total vote cast for him was 172,000. The governor race total was 179,000 in 1950 compared to 177,000 this year.

There was a 64,247 Democrat vote cast compared to 62,824 Republican votes cast in 1950 in the gubernatorial race. Compare this with the 64,824 Democrat votes and 64,228 Republican votes in the primary vote this month and it reflects a virtual see-saw result. Between the two parties on primary election strength which has consistently resulted in Republican victories in the fall. The primary vote in 1952, however, reflected the keen interest of voters in the national election when the Democrats polled only 41,000 compared to 70,000 for the Republicans. The Republicans do not have that trend in their favor this year but at least they are not far from it.

KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL, INC.
We hope Idahoans join in great numbers in the growing national movement and that clubs spring up all over the state. We're talking about the non-profit "Keep America Beautiful" organization which recently started in the Eastern U. S.

We can't think of another need any more urgent than this one. Purpose of the group is three-fold: (1) to create public awareness of litter and of the individual's responsibility for it; (2) stimulate widespread public participation in cleaning up existing litter; and (3) to prevent future litter by means of education, public opinion pressure and law enforcement.

Idaho Jaycees have done a fine job of promoting the "Keep America Beautiful" program and have through public education, done a fine job of awakening motorists to the dangers of range and forest fires, both while on camping, and the fire started by flipping lighted cigarettes from an automobile.

Almost as important, in our opinion, is the anti-litter need. We have thousands of motorists on the highways—three days and if each one of them persists in tossing cans, bottles and assorted litter from their cars. Our public highways will soon look like a scenic excursion through a dump ground. It used to be that much of the cold drink containers, etc., had a refund value and people either didn't toss them out or someone with an eye for business took the time to patrol the highways and pick them up. Much of our new containers are of plastic that has no refund value but they merely pile up to layer after layer along the highways. It is, of course, against the law to throw material out of a car. But the public opinion reaches the point where litter-bugs think twice before they throw.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

Colonel House appeared around Hyde Park and the neighboring village of Garrison, N.Y., and he was the only one of his kind. But, considering her supercilious look. But I try not to read information and now new knowledge is filling in areas of puzzle which hitherto had no visible pattern.

Roosevelt's mother is supposed to have got him his job as assistant secretary of the navy under Joseph P. Daniels. But, considering the fact that he personally picked "Wilson" for president and personally invited those from whom the cabinet was picked, including Grandpa for attorney general, who landed on the Supreme Court, it is not surprising that House should be so close to the possibility that House also picked Roosevelt as a colt for his future.

A man who was then intimate with these people came forward with a statement that House also cultivated Averell Harriman's sister, Mary Harriman Rumsey. Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Willard Straight and Ruth Morgenthau, described as a spinster friend of old Sara but no relation to J. P. Morgan, Tom Lamont also war in the circles. So House apparently spotted one of our earliest millionaires red.

This malevolent old woman absolutely boomed her mushy husband, who also ran with her, however, even while he ruled the house of Morgan. Tom Lamont liked them. One of the highest American negotiators at the Versailles peace conference has said that Mrs. Lamont was the reddest American there. After Sen. Curtis, came by his politics honestly and yet he took up a little by surprise within the last decade, when we should have been warned 30 years ago.

When Roosevelt was nominated the first time, he flew to Chicago to accept. And one biographer, hitherto unchanged, wrote that after he had accepted, he made a pilgrimage to Colonel House in Massachusetts. Why weren't we told the significance of that? Why didn't someone say that Roosevelt wrote a political plan called "On Our Way" which had little value, even as a compass, in his commitments had little value. But "On Our Way" was a revealing meaning—now it reveals the audacious political plot which Colonel House put on paper.

POT SHOTS

WE MISSED THEM
Someone laid an egg on our desk. Furthermore, we know who did it. This time, Pot Shots had nothing to do with the incident. We returned from vacation and found the egg.

We understand there has been some speculation among the staff as to whether the egg was laid of hard-boiled. So far, no one's found out. But we missed something by not being on hand when the egg was laid. It's lettered "Compliments of Miranda & Zeta." But, we missed being on hand for M & Z. We understand they were handing out eggs all over town. Which seems to be the highlight of ATTWABGOO (the things we missed by going out).

Dear Pot Shots:
We have fish pups to tell you. We have fish pups to tell you. We have fish pups to tell you. We have fish pups to tell you. We have fish pups to tell you.

POLITICAL INTERPRETATION
Dear Sir:
All would-be politicians and any one looking for an easy out on a simple election system can claim, "All the best candidates were beaten in the primary election." Who knows, may be they were!

OUR BULLETIN BOARD
The M. P. Files—Sorry, we don't like to handle most letters signed "M. P. Files." meaning we have to have your name, at least. If your intentions are for God and throw us all into a gibbering, insensate brotherhood of many under the Kremlin.

ROOSEVELT certainly was implicated in this. Colonel House latched on to Roosevelt's mother, old Sara of the lantern-jaw who had learned the cold, brutal reality of life aboard her father's China clipper in the opium racket in China. She was a strong, hard character as Eleanor complained in her endless lucrative memoirs. I confess that it is news to me.

"Doll" in Stream Really Tragedy

INWOOD, N. Y., Aug. 31 (UP)—Twenty-year-old Robert Bort drowned the kitchen door yesterday morning and said, "Ma, I was just down by the river. There's a big doll floating in the water. Could you get it out for me?" Mrs. Louis Bort smiled and dried her hands. "All right," she said. "You stay here and mind Kenneth." But Robert said he didn't know where his 5-year-old brother was. And suddenly, Mrs. Bort knew. She screamed and ran toward the water, a part of Jamaica Bay known as "Coral East." The "doll" was Kenneth. Helped by her sister and her father, Mrs. Bort brought the dead boy to shore.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

A child develops a fault that everybody except himself knows is going to burden him for a lifetime unless he cures it, but he, apparently, makes no effort to do so. A teenage boy displays temper when his will is crossed, throws things about the room, strikes those who try to check him, aims out of the room and often out of the house, leaving his parents shocked and bewildered.

Maybe it is a girl who develops a critical faultfinding attitude toward all who are close to her concerning all they do and are. Her mother's way of dressing, of setting the table, of walking, talking, doing, meet with caustic remarks. All other homes, all other families, all other girls, are perfect. Only her own family is terrible, and she never ceases saying so.

When such conditions prevail, when every effort to change this attitude has been made and has failed, the young person should be examined by an approved psychologist and the family physician. The family physician first, of course. Any helpful suggestions made should be carefully followed. But there is one point that must never be overlooked: The young person must WANT to be helped. He or she must be willing to admit their error. When they do, they are ready for help, but until then nobody, neither their parents nor the specialists can do much for them until they agree that they need help.

Barbara Craner Is Wed to Garcia

KIMBERLY, Aug. 31—Barbara Ann Craner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ormus Craner, Mountain View, Calif., former Twin Falls and Kimberly residents, was united in marriage to Robert Joseph Garcia, Mountain View, Aug. 23-24, at a nuptial ceremony in St. Joseph's Catholic church by the Rev. Father James Doyle.

For her wedding the bride wore a gown made by her aunt, Mrs. Willis Garber, Sacramento, Calif. The bodice was of rosepoint lace with a round neckline, and long pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt was of nylon net over satin. Her chapel length train was appliqued with rosepoint lace and seed pearls. A Queen Anne headdress covered with matching lace and pearls held the double veil of French illusion net. She carried a prayer book with a bouquet of cascading tulip chrysanthemums.

She wore a pearl necklace, which was a gift from the bridegroom. Barbara-Craner and Joanna-Craner, sisters of the bride, acted as maids of honor. Bridesmaids were Pat Gentry, Mountain View, and Colleen Campbell, Kimberly. Diana Cruz was flower girl and Danny Garcia, brother of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Leonard Batista served as best man and ushers were Adrian Aguilar, Manuel Garcia, Jr., brother of the bridegroom, and Natcho Corral.

The bride's mother wore a smoke-gray dress of Chantilly lace over rose tulle with a matching clouche hat. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a blue lace dress over pale peach tulle and her hat was of peach satin. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The house was decorated with baskets of gladioli and chrysanthemums.

The couple took a trip to Yosemite national park.

What a Wonderful dinner!
... with so little effort ...

The family knows dinner's going to be delicious... only Mother knows how easy it was to cook!

But then, it was Mother who decided on a new electric range. She knew electric cooking would keep her pert and cool on hot summer days. She knew that meals cooked with electricity are ready right on time—time after time—and equally fine—day in, day out. She's found that Idaho Power's low rates keep operating costs to a minimum. (Her big decision was which to choose among the many superb electric ranges available at her local appliance dealers.)

Now, Mother's taking her bows... and smiling to herself: wonderful dinners are so easy with modern electric cooking!
