Panel discussions on general traffic code revisions concluded the Tuesday afternoon program. Panel participants were Russell Shawd, Jerome police judge; M. J. Bays, Jr., state patrolman; Howard Gilette, Twin Falls police chief and Bellwood.

Discussions centered on drunken-driving, reckless and negligent driving, negligent homicide and overtaking and passing school bus regulations of the Idaho traffic code.

Another dry year.

Officials of the Oakley firm said there had sufficient water this year only because there was no overflow of water from last year. Water in the reservoir is low now. If there is a short supply of water this winter in the watershed, they wouldn't be enough water for them said.

Big Spud Cellar at Gooding Destroyed

(See Wednesday News Sheet)

GODDING, Oct. 6—Sweeping flames reduced a block-long potato cellar to a crumbling mass of smoldering ruins here Tuesday afternoon. A blizzard that sent both Godding fire trucks on the job for more than seven hours. Owner of the cellar, W. B. Savage, of the Savage Produce company, said the cellar was partially insured, but that the cost of replacing it would be nearly $15,000. The 15-year-old cellar had served as a storage for potatoes for 10 years. It was well known for its quality and quantity.

Judge Denies Motion Over Senator Post

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 5 (AP)—District Judge W. Preston Battle today denied a motion for summary judgment filed by the U.S. attorney in a suit to force Sen. James O. Eastland to reveal the names of persons who had written him letters asking for help in getting potato-sorting machinery.

The farmer sued through the straw insulation lining the cellar, generating intense heat and pouring out thick clouds of smoke. The first flames to arrive upon the scene shortly after 11 a. m. were from the top of the building, which was the typical, old, yellow-painted wooden structure.

At the time of the fire, the building was being used as a storage area for straw insulation. The building was a two-story structure, with a gabled roof. The fire started in the attic, and spread rapidly to the main floor. The fire department arrived within minutes, but the fire was too large to control. The building was completely destroyed, and the fire spread to the adjacent building. The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Crippled Photographer Faces End of Life by Keeping Busy

WASHINGTON GROVE, Md., Oct. 6—Time may be running out for Walter Jacobus, but he's going to keep busy to the last minute.

He made up his mind about that when he was told in 1930 that he had from two to five years to live.

Now 39, he's keeping busy—the job placement bureau of the National Press Photographers association, operates a little watch shop in his home here, his wife, Alberta, commutes as a bookkeeper in a Washington, D.C., printing shop.

Photography has been a consuming interest since he started in 1929 as a "darkroom assistant" with the FBI. He had advanced to photographing evidence by the time he joined the bureau in World War II.

In 1944 he fell sick and after a medical discharge went back to his job at FBI headquarters in Washington. Nobody could find out what was wrong with him.

He switched to press photography, later opened his own studio and in cooperation administration in Paris his ailments caught up with him again. He was rushed back to the Naval hospital at Bethesda, Md. An intern stumbled on a diagnosis—a type of upset metabolism.

That's when he was told he had two to five years to live.

"This was a great shock," Jacobus tells you with a grin that still looks healthy. "But my work in press photography—carry as it may sound—had made me very interested in living. I'd met kings, queens, presidents. All kinds of people and I wanted to keep busy. I'm still going strong and intend to keep on that way."

One morning he woke up and found he couldn't walk. He was told that the onset of his disease had paralyzed him for life.

After Moody left Twin Falls, he served as superintendent of the Wisconsin state sanatorium, a 240-bed tuberculosis institution. He left that position to move to Arkansas.

I-Mule Farms Called Cause For Research

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Secretary of Agriculture Benson told Americans' rural educators today there still is plenty of farmers with no 40-acre and a mule. He said this is one reason the agriculture department is stressing research and agricultural education.

However, Benson said in a speech prepared for the National Conference on Rural Education, "the time has come when the discovery, or the development, of research results and their application to the needs of the nation has been, and is, too small."

He said schools could help work out a better system of two-day communication between research and farmers.

Benson was one of a panel of three, representing government, labor and industry, which arranged to discuss rural education at closing sessions of the conference, sponsored by the National Education Association and the U. S. Office of Education. The other panel members were Dr. Luther C. Smith, president of the NEA, and Walter P. Reuther, board chairman of Curriculum Associates.

"Agriculture was prosperous when the war ended," Benson said. "Since then, it has been a struggle for improvement. It probably seemed that all farmers were sharing in the prosperity."

"They weren't," more than a million farmers in this great land of ours make less than $1,000 a year.

"The connection between education and successful farming is not clear," Benson said.

"In general, farmers who are high school graduates produce more than those with less schooling. They speak, therefore, education adds up to income."

Builder Says Cash Paid to Head of FHA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—A Washington architect testified yesterday that Clyde L. Powell demanded and was paid $10,000 in cash to approve a $700,000 increase in the FHA loan commitment on a Negro apartment project here.

The testimony by Albert E. Cassel, who said he made the payment, was the first in six months of hearings before the senate housing committee to include mention of direct demands for money by any government housing official for approving housing irregularities have been charged.

Refused to Talk
Powell, who was ousted last April as director of rental housing for the federal house administration, took the stand a short time later and refused for the third day to answer questions. He again claimed his constitutional right under the fifth amendment to avoid giving testimony which might incriminate him.

Chairman Caphart, R. Ind., asked if Powell would refuse to answer questions of how simple the question might be.

"My answer will remain the same," Powell answered.

Demanding Money
Cassel, 40, said he demanded the $10,000 payment when he went to Powell's office seeking an increased loan commitment on Mayfield Meadows. He said Powell told him that unless the money was paid, the increased loan would not be approved.

Cassel said he later made the payment in cash in three installments.

Bat Botherer Likes Nosing About Caves

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 2 (AP)—Beatty spent his time nosing around in bat-infested caves—and likes it.

But the bats Beatty studies are not the blood-sucking, vampire variety. Matter of fact, "they're probably the most gentle of all bats," according to the young University of Arizona graduate student—no gentle they eat right out of his hand.

These are rare fruit-eating bats and their discovery has made something of a stir in biological circles because of their habit of flying north from the tropics every year to summer in caves and caverns of southern Arizona.

On the trip up, the females, heavy with young, separate from the males and fly to Colossal cave, about 25 miles from Tucson. The males set up bachelor quarters 75 miles away in the Chiricahua mountains, not far from the Mexican border.

Now and when they get back together again is not known, but Beatty is working on that one. With help from his wife, Joan, and Julian Technor, supervisor of Arizona's Pima county park, which includes Colossal cave, Beatty has banded a number of the females by catching them in the nets and then releasing them.

When the female begins to leave Colossal cave for the journey back south, he plans to move to the Chiricahua.

"If we can find some of the females and young we banded at Colossal," he says, "we'll know the journey takes place in the Chiricahua."

Scientists regard the bat migration to southern Arizona as one of nature's strangest. These fruit-eating bats often have a wingspan of a foot or more and make up one of two non-insect-eating varieties in the world. The other is found in Africa, India, Malaysia and Australia.

The meeting was opened by R. B. Modsen, president of the club. Dick Wase conducted a business meeting which voted to hold a workshop to improve Sunday school classrooms and continue sponsorship of Cub Scouts. Benediction was by George Brower.

GOP Solon Target Of Tomato Tossers

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 2 (AP)—Four overripe tomatoes were hurled at Sen. Irving M. Ives as he addressed an outdoor party rally last night in his campaign for governor of New York.

The missiles missed Ives but the Republican nominee's wife and state Rep. Orin B. Wilcox were splattered when one struck the railing stop the speaker's platform.

The angered senator immediately launched a tirade against Tammany hall and the Democratic opposition.

"We're not going to have any more of this," he said. "We're not going to have any more of this."

"Little Red Schoolhouse" Due For Extinction, Meeting Told

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2 (AP)—The little red schoolhouse is on the way out, and regardless of what school writers may think, educators are glad of it.

The National Conference on Rural Education was in full swing yesterday, and this statistic was happily tossed about:

In 1948 there were 75,000 one-room schools in this country. Now there are only 4,000.

Going going, gone, in the yellow bus to the big, new consolidated schoolhouse.

"For the first time in the history of our country," Willard K. Gustin of George Peabody college, Nashville, Tenn., told the reporters, "we have said the farm boy has as much right to go to school as the city boy has."

"Oh, we've always said that. In theory. The kid who lives 20 miles out was free to attend school—if he could find a way to get there."

At first, any talk of education meant rural education since that's about all there was. Then the cities grew and education went urban and the ideal school was the big city or suburban school.

"Only recently have we understood that a good school is one that serves its community best," Gustin said. "It would be silly, don't you see, for a school in the cotton delta country to be doing exactly the same thing as a city school."

"Taking them all into consideration," Gustin says, "I don't think country schools have caught up with city schools completely."

"Too many teachers with only a couple of years of college, and too many tiny high schools with 100 pupils or less, where students don't have much of a choice in what they can take."

"But you can say this," Gustin said. "Rural schools are as good as city schools and I see no reason why a potential young scientist can't come from a country school as well as from a city system."

There's something about living in the country that gives you a certain understanding, a better preparation for the business of living. You can tell the city boy about the birds and the bees, don't you see, and it still remains a library. To the country boy, it's a reality."

The First!

Phillips 66 brings you the first All-Weather Motor Oil which has proved it meets the most exacting standard ever established for automobile lubrication...
Mil-0-2104, Supplement 1 level.

The toughest standard ever set up for automobile lubrication is the Mil-0-2104 Supplement 1 test. New Trop-Artic is the first all-weather motor oil to meet the requirements of this test. It is an oil which will serve you winter and summer... an oil so good it can double the life of an automobile engine!

Compared to ordinary motor oils, new Trop-Artic reduces ring wear 40% or more. It cuts oil consumption 15% to 45%. It keeps pistons and bearings cleaner... longer-lasting. It saves you money by increasing gasoline mileage. This has been demonstrated in tests representing more than 150,000 miles of driving.

Trop-Artic is truly an all-weather oil... S.A.E. 10W through S.A.E. 30. Therefore it flows instantly for easy starting at sub-zero temperatures, and yet it retains the film strength necessary to prevent engine wear under high temperature driving conditions. It isn't just heavy duty. It's double duty.

Any car, in any climate, at any time of the year will perform better with Phillips 66 Trop-Artic. It is a worthy companion product to Phillips 66 FLITE-FUEL, the new high performance gasoline recently introduced by Phillips. This year of all years it pays to have your car serviced at the station where you see the Phillips 66 Shield.

① "What I've liked about Conoco Super with TCP during the past year has been the ease of starting. I'm a builder and I use it in all my trucks because it's important to be on the job on time. I use it in my '62 Cadillac, and get better mileage, too."

Mr. Robert M. Rhinland, Builder
1185 Augusta Street, Aurora, Colorado

④ "Being involved in the oil industry, I know about petroleum quality. For one year, we've used Conoco Super with TCP in 12 trucks and 5 other cars, besides this '63 Oldsmobile. It boasts up engine power and gets more miles out of each gallon."

Mr. T. P. McAdams, Jr.,
Vice-President, McAdams Oil Equipment International,
308 East 6th Street, Brantford, Oklahoma

⑤ "Driving so much with my children is a lot of fun. It's important to have our 1960 Pontiac start promptly and run smoothly. An engine that starts right is a real nuisance. Since we use Conoco Super with TCP, we're assured of top performance."

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

"Please give me a bunch of carrots and a head of lettuce," Mr. Purlo said.

"Here you are, Bub, and call me Joe. That's good enough for me. Where're you kidding?"

"I can't see you, Mr. Purlo, Joe, and Charlie took his paper bag full of vegetables and hurried home, his eyes wide with wonder.

"Mother, I called the vegetable man. Mr. Purlo and he made fun of me. You always make me, Mister or Master Joe, now. I get laughed at."

"I bet Jerry you feel so bad about it. I bet you want your mother to tell him to stop."

"Mother, I don't want him around. He looked at it he hated the sight of me."

"Now, nobody likes the sight of you. What Mr. Purlo says does not matter to you. Does it? Do you really care? For a minute he made you feel you'd said the wrong thing. But you knew you hadn't. Why should you call him that? That isn't his name anyway. His name is Benito, and it ought to make him believe named at that."

"Now listen, children, young people, with good manners, never call their fathers by their first names. It is not done. They say Mister or Joe, or Father, Mother, Auntie, and the like. If you want to be a good boy and play with pleasant people, you have to cultivate good manners. Benito, once of Times-Sun, Dept. P. O. Box 6740, Twin Falls, Idaho. Write your name, Benito, in this space number."

Time for Reds To Fear U. S., Senator Says

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 6.—(AP) Sen. Charles McNary, R. N. H., last night said he is "tired of being afraid of the Russians." It is about time the Russians started to be afraid of us, he said.

"I truly believe that the only hope at peace is for us to return to the principles which made this nation great—to cease 'appeasement'—to give recognition on fundamental principles."

The senator called for a return to the days of the ratification of the constitution, which he said was "the only way to insure that the community will be afraid to take any action which may finally call for strong measures on our part."

Noting that the first flag of the republic was a "cold refrigerator" with a motto, "Don't Tread on Me," McNary's senatorial address was a warning to the nation to "take the time to better adopt in the world today."

Asserting that his statement "is going to be misinterpreted by the press," McNary said he did not "completely subscribe to the 'isolation' theory," but that he did not want to see the nation "supposed to allow our enemy to attack."

"The business of after you my dear Alfonso, if it is going to cost 20 million American lives, you are going to do it," McNary said. "This country not only has the weapons, but it has the men to deliver them. I sincerely hope, he continued, that the next time we fight it is not going to be with one hand tied behind our back as it was in Korea."

Draft Aids Quits Over POW Term
BIG SPRING, Tex., Oct. 6.—(AP) St. W. Wright said today he quit as chairman of Big Spring's draft board because he thinks Col. Claude A. Batchelor got too severe a sentence for collaborating with the Germans.

"My conscience wouldn't let me be a part of drafting young men who might later be subjected to the severe punishment Batchelor got," said Wright.

PAUL, Oct. 6.—(AP) William E. Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Elliott, has been hospitalized with a spinal injury since July 21 at Osaka, Japan.

Private Elliott's injury, received in a truck accident, probably will be operated on in the near future in the United States.

Paraders Cheer Return for Port
ROME, Oct. 6.—Thousands of happy Italians passed through the flag-decked city today, celebrating the long-awaited return of the Adriatic port of Trieste to "the motherland."

Contingents representing each of Italy's moderate political parties marched to Venice square to place wreaths on the tomb of the unknown soldier in memory of Italian soldiers who died for Trieste in two wars.

Police were alert for trouble as the crowds streamed through the streets in "perfect riot weather," but no disorders were reported.

Diplomat's Son to Celebrate Fifty Years as Catholic Priest

WALLACE, Oct. 6.—A man who gave up an easy life as son of an Italian diplomat to enter the ministry and become pastor in a rough western mining town celebrated his 50th anniversary as a Catholic priest today.

He is the Rt. Rev. Mgr. Francis Bonora and more than 40 fellow priests from Washington and Idaho were here to honor him and assist at his solemn high mass.

The Most Rev. Edward J. Kelly, bishop of Boise, presided at the service.

Father Bonora has had a long, colorful career in his 75 years. He started in the Italian embassy in Vienna and stretched halfway across the world to the raw, bustling town of Butte.

Born in Vienna, he spent his early childhood in various capitals of Europe, going from embassy to embassy with his family.

It was a comparatively easy life, but Father Bonora said he "never entered the preparatory seminary for the priesthood in Maria Theresia, Bohemia."

After ordination in 1904, he said his first mass at St. Peter's cathedral in Rome, then spent four years in various assignments among the coal miners in Stuttgart, Germany.

Father Bonora was scheduled to begin postgraduate work in theology at Innsbruck, Germany but he had heard about other miners' strikes in the United States. He felt there was a need here and he asked to come.

On New Year's day, 1909, he arrived in Wallace and was assigned to the church at Butte. He spent more than 20 years in the district and also served at Bonanza Ferry, Mountain Home, Genesee, Oroville, Spirit Lake and St. Maries.

A big, powerfully built man, he had to walk seven miles to Butte every Sunday to say mass. He walked along the railroad tracks and friends recall "look three times at a time," often in the dark.

Walking is still his favorite recreation, but illness has slowed him down.

And he is still in charge of the Butte church as well as chaplain of Providence hospital here.

Father Bonora, elevated to the rank of monsignor in 1930, is going back to Italy about Nov. 1 to visit his mother and his wife.

But Father Bonora expects him to return to the United States.

Assembly Seeks 'Statesmanship'

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., Oct. 6.—The 10th general assembly of the International Brotherhood of Fishermen and Fishermen's Unions, which ended yesterday, drew 1,029 representatives from 29 countries and amassed testimony from five continents supporting the theme, "Statesmanship for a new world."

Dr. Buchanan said the objective of the 10-day assembly was that "we may under God create a focal point of action here that will save the world from a third world war."

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 6.—(AP) Chester Brownell, 37, found inside a walk-in refrigerator at the Boulevard Beef company with two cows of meat tucked under his arm told police he was borrowing the meat and planned to return it next week. He was given six months in the cooler.
