Wheat
Smut
Jan. 12 (AP)—Smut, a deadly wheat disease, was found in a wheat field near Washington and the Department of Agriculture said it is a wheat disease that in some cases has caused a loss of up to 100 percent of the wheat crop.
The disease is caused by a fungus which attacks the wheat plant at the time of flowering and produces a dark, fuzzy growth on the wheat heads.
The disease is most common in the Pacific Northwest and the Great Plains states.
The Department of Agriculture is now working to control the disease by using fungicides and by selecting resistant wheat varieties.

Agency Notes Large Outlay In Idaho Area

BOISE, Jan. 12 (AP)—The bureau of reclamation is spending $44,648,550 in the Pacific northwest in the current fiscal year, $19,692,958 of it in Idaho, regional Director H. T. Nelson said yesterday.

He reported that in spending $2,635,250 in Washington, $1,666,635 in Oregon and $333,809 in western Montana, in addition, the bureau does some operations and maintenance work in western Wyoming.

Breakdown Given
More than 18 million dollars of the Idaho expenditures are for construction, $12,000,000 for operations and maintenance, and about $40,000 for general investigation.

Nelson said the 15 million dollar construction program for the proposed Palisades dam in eastern Idaho was about 43 per cent finished on Nov. 20. The dam would supply supplemental water for 650,000 acres and its power plant will have an installed capacity of 114,000 kilowatts.

Progress Reported
More than six million cubic yards of embankment have been completed, of total 14 1/2 million. The concrete has been poured; structural steel framing for the powerhouse is in place, and road relocation in Idaho is nearly complete.

The first power from the project is scheduled to be put on the line in December, 1955, and initial operation in the reservoir will start in October, 1956.

Pump Project
Nelson said that 67 of the 115 wells which will be drilled on the North Side pumping division of the Missouri project are complete and drilling is under way on 32 others.

Eighty-five farms, comprising 6,000 acres of irrigated land, were in the first six months of the year, and all the 72 units awarded in 1953 were farmed in 1954.

The seven projects under investigation would ultimately irrigate 222,000 acres of dry land, supply additional water to about 20,000 acres, and have an installed power capacity of 1,207,500 kilowatts. In addition, pre-construction work is under way for the Michaud flood project.

Midwest Gets 139 People Escape in Rash of Strong Doses Of Cold Snow

By United Press
The midwest winter weather has been a little slow turning in some areas, braced today for snow cold wave.

The icy front of cold Canadian air moved into the Dakotas and Minnesota. There was no influx of snow at International Falls, Minn., an increase of one inch, and two inches of snow fell on Alexandria, Minn.

The snow, while not up to the usual northern midwest standards, was at least a return to normal for many areas.

While the southwest and Dixie states, "by now" storms usually chilly dips such as Chicago and Minneapolis, Minn., were recording their midwest winter in record.

Adds to Mix-up
The snow storm which cut out of the southwest into the southeast yesterday only added to the mixed-up midwest weather picture.

Kranville, which usually gets the least snow and the warmest temperatures in Indiana, was blanketed with five inches of snow, and snow and ice glazed highways in the region. Up north, however, there was hardly a trace of snow.

The snow storm, the second to roar out of the southwest in two weeks, swept off into the Atlantic ocean after dumping more than six inches of snow on North Carolina and Virginia.

Schools Close
Richmond, Va., was hit by eight inches of snow and grooved closed schools in the state's southern section.

Knoxville in the nation, showers and drizzles swept western Washington state, a thunderstorm cracked over Tatooch Island, Wash., and a ferry boat got lost in the fog of San Francisco bay.

It was chilly on the east coast, with New York City recording 27 degrees and Caribou, Me., shivering in six degrees above zero.

Italy Leaders Hear Plans of French Chief

ROME, Jan. 12 (AP)—French Premier Pierre Mendès-France spelled out "European armistice" project at a long conference last night with Italian government leaders. They reached agreement also on immigration problems and a joint economic policy in North Africa.

On Wednesday, French Minister of Foreign Affairs, Robert Schuman, said to the press that the three countries had developed most of the future of "discussion of the future of Western Europe, with particular emphasis on the armistice plan, and other supranational organization."

Minor Subjects
"We already have reached agreement on many minor subjects, such as immigration and joint policy in Africa. We will make final decisions during a plenary session tomorrow."

Replying to a newsmen's question, the foreign minister said the meeting had not concerned itself with any decision on the advisability of proposing that the Big Three western powers meet with Russia to discuss the future of Germany.

Italy Favours Plan
Government quarters reported that Italy's initial impression of Mendès-France's armistice project has been favorable, despite American reservations and criticism in some European quarters.

The project would coordinate armistice production and distribution within the seven-nation Western European union now in the process of ratification.

Italy's initial impression of Mendès-France's armistice project has been favorable, despite American reservations and criticism in some European quarters.

EMPIRE, Ore., Jan. 12 (AP)—Richard Duncan, working at the place where two six foot ten men were caught, saw a big fish and fished him out of the water.

The immediate splash and thrashing of water nearby convinced Duncan he had fished more than he could handle. But with the pole in the fish firmly he hung on, dancing about 100 feet as the fish thrashed.

When the fish thrashed, Duncan got a rope around the fish, and the log host pulled the fish up. When Duncan had was a 15-foot-long shark.

Official Asks Rehearing on Phone Ruling

BOISE, Jan. 12 (AP)—Gen. Omer W. Smith, asked the state supreme court yesterday to reconsider its decision which last month gave the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company a major victory in its battle for higher rates in Idaho.

Saying the state's public utilities commission, Smith filed a brief requesting a rehearing of the case.

He raised four legal points contending that the court had ventured too far in challenging the market value of the commission in turning down the company's request for higher rates to raise an additional $1,000,000 in annual revenue.

Agree on Action
In a unanimous decision Dec. 22, the court sent the case back to the commission for "further proceedings," saying it could not approve the method used by the PUC for separating the company's interstate and intrastate revenue and expenses for rate-making purposes.

Smith replied that the PUC has separated the company's interstate and intrastate revenue and expenses for rate-making purposes.

Smith also said that the PUC has separated the company's interstate and intrastate revenue and expenses for rate-making purposes.

Filed and Rejected
The company filed the rate increase request with the PUC in May, 1952. It was rejected, but the company's request for a rate increase was rejected.

The commission appealed the court order. Meanwhile the PUC has filed a request for a rate increase and denied it last month.

The company took the case to the supreme court, winning the case in a 4-3 vote last month.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12 (AP)—Television detective Jack Webb, 34, and actress Dorothy Towne, 33, exchanged marriage vows in the penthouse of a swank, north side hotel yesterday.

Europe Army Power Good Says General

WEIDENBERG, Germany, Jan. 12 (AP)—A similar superpower will enable the United States army to carry the fight to the Russians' front lines, General William M. Hoge, commander of 250,000 American troops in Europe, said today. He said the new 350-mile "atomic cannon," the "Hoge" rocket, and other modern weapons now in the hands of his forces would make it possible to defend Europe further eastward than earlier thought possible.

Gives Interview

In an exclusive United Press interview at U. S. army headquarters in Europe, Hoge added that the addition of 12 West German divisions under the Paris armistice would put the free nations in a much better position to defend Europe east of the Rhine than had seemed possible only a year or so ago.

Hoge warned, however, that the Soviet bloc with its estimated 225 front-line divisions still has the preponderance of force and the advantage of initiative.

"We will never be the aggressors," the gray-haired 44-year-old general said. "The enemy, therefore, would always have the jump on us, and we must assume he would make penetration at the outset. But the possession of these weapons and the tremendous psychological boost."

Look Forward Now

"For the first time in our people are taking a forward look instead of merely thinking in terms of withdrawal," Hoge said. "There was no such thing as a forward look before. Our ability to block aggression is greater. We have something now that will make aggression with impunity impossible in Europe. We can carry the fight to the enemy and without contemplating aggression."

Hoge, who is a native of Booneville, Mo., retired from the army at the end of the month. The general was born in Booneville, Mo., and served in the 1st Cavalry Division, 7th Army, during World War II.

Red Star Prints A-Plants Article

MOONSHINE, Jan. 12 (AP)—The Soviet army newspaper Red Star yesterday published photographs of American atomic plants at Hanford, Wash., and Oak Ridge, Tenn., and told its readers nearly 200,000 persons are employed in U. S. atomic weapons plants.

The photographs illustrated a long article which charged that the development of atomic industry in the United States has taken a one-sided, exclusively military character.

The article, signed by M. A. Komarov, gave no source for its pictures of American atomic installations but indicated they had been captured somewhere in the American press.

MEETING CALLED

SHOSHONE, Jan. 12—A special hearing meeting will be held at 2 p. m. Jan. 16 at the First Baptist church for members of the church.

Book Losers, Book Thieves Are Analyzed

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (AP)—A noted psychoanalyst, Dr. Edmund Bergler, explains why some of the mad hordes of people commit a form of larceny and why their victims do nothing about it beyond having secret tension.

Dr. Edmund Bergler, a psychiatrist who specializes in the emotional troubles of the literary, referred to people who borrow books and never return them. No form of thievery is more common than this, he said. "The thief gets away with it because the book borrower is made dishonest by his unconscious mind," Bergler said in the medical journal "Diagnosis of the Nervous System."

Behavior Is Irrational

This clearly is irrational behavior on the part of both, he continued, and the explanation is in the "irrationality" of the adult behavior. The very young child is aware by the ability of the adult to read and write, and the adult is aware of the behavior. The very young child is aware of the behavior. The very young child is aware of the behavior.

Clarifying of Contracts Is Demos Issue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Two Democratic members of the senate directed services committee demanded yesterday that Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson clarify his policy on awarding defense contracts.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D. Tenn., and Henry M. Jackson, D. Wash., asked whether Wilson is following a policy of spreading contracts among several contractors or concentrating them in a few large companies.

They said the question also should be explored by the armed services committee.

The two senators said they were both pained and puzzled by Wilson's latest statements about defense contracts. They said the question also should be explored by the armed services committee.

Ending of Red Trade Blocks Asked in Note

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (UP)—The end of trade restrictions with communist nations was urged today by a group of prominent citizens, excepting trade of those goods which could have a substantial adverse effect on our military position.

The Citizens Conference on International Economic Union, headed by Louis H. Pink, also proposed that the United States work through the United Nations to set up a new world trade agency to facilitate international trade and closer economic relationships throughout the world.

"Economic cooperation between east and west does not promise great material advantages in the near future, but it is in harmony with our philosophy and our principles and will materially strengthen our allies, whose economic welfare is closely tied up with our own security," the conference said in a statement.

Reds Distort Speech, Say U. S., Britain

LONDON, Jan. 12 (AP)—The United States and Britain accused Russia yesterday of distorting the remarks of a U. S. air force general when Moscow claimed he said atomic bombs were ready to be dropped large scale on Russia.

The foreign office said Britain firmly rejected the Russian charges of an aide in the Russian embassy in London today. The foreign office said the United States was forwarding a similar rejection to Moscow.

Russia protested to both the United States and Britain on Dec. 17 against statements made at a press conference a week earlier by Brig. Gen. John D. Stevenson, commander of the atomic bomb carrying 48th air division.

Stevenson told a press conference Dec. 10 his aircraft were capable of making an atomic counterattack on Soviet forces at a moment's notice and that the planes had been capable of doing so for the past 12 years.

The Soviet note of Dec. 17 did not make any mention of Stevenson's use of the word "counter-attack"—that the planes would be used only if the Soviets attacked first.

Red Cross Aides Air Fund Drive

Directors of the Twin Falls Red Cross chapter met here Monday night with Wilbur T. Stein, San Francisco, Red Cross southern Idaho field representative and Idaho relations officer, to map plans for the annual fund drive.

A budget of $15,585 to cover all phases of the local Red Cross program was approved. The Red Cross blood program also was discussed.

Early organization for the fund campaign was urged by Stein who also recommended additional solicitors be used this year to lighten the work load for drive chairman and workers.

Adequate coverage was the principal factor in the failure of last year's drive to meet its goal, Stein stated. Last year the campaign brought in $9,901.

Other suggestions to recruit workers and collect funds were discussed.

Resident Recalls Blizzard of 1888 on Its 66th Anniversary

The day dawned warm and misty 66 years ago Wednesday on the prairie of South Dakota.

Men gathering firewood along the river banks were in their shirtsleeves. Schoolchildren played without their heavy winter coats.

A 10-year-old youngster walked from his uncle's farm house to the barn in weather "that felt just like spring" to get fuel for a fire-burning stove.

Minutes later the youngster was almost hopelessly lost in a swirling fury of snow, his eyes "frozen shut."

In the sudden intense cold, the people along the riverbank perished. Thirteen of the schoolchildren were frozen to death.

It was the tragic "big blizzard" of '88 that cost the lives of countless human beings and thousands of cattle and horses and nearly wiped out the cattle industry on the great plains.

The youngster today is W. H. Gilman, 46-year-old Twin Falls resident, who now recalls the sudden death storm as vividly as he did when he strolled from his uncle's house to the barn.

Coming down from Canada, the blizzard gave no warning to the cattlemen and farmers who were outdoors Jan. 12, 1888, in the Dakotas and Nebraska.

"It was as if my way back to the house," recalls Gilman. "The storm struck suddenly and I couldn't find my way back to the house or the barn. The snow was blinding and my eyes were shut."

"The uncle guided the boy back to the house by yelling, 'We didn't stir out of the house for two days,' says Gilman.

When the uncle and Gilman finally did leave their home to join the rescue parties they found death and tragedy.

"Cattle were frozen on their feet or lying down," Gilman says. "Horses were jammed against fences, frozen stiff."

Thirteen children were in the schoolhouse and weathered the storm until fuel ran out. Their frozen bodies were found as the blizzard subsided. The people along the riverbank were unable to burn. The storm spelled ruin for hundreds of ranchers whose herds were destroyed.

Nowadays, Gilman admits, he "keeps a weather eye" open as he steps from his house at 248 Adams street during January—especially on the 12th day of the month.

"One blizzard like that was enough in a lifetime," he says. "I don't want to get caught in another."

Morse Takes Top Position From Demos

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse, Ind. Ore., who has been going steady with the Democrats, took title yesterday to a highly-prized seat on the senate foreign relations committee.

As a Republican, in years gone by, Morse had sought long and unsuccessfully for the committee position.

The assignment in it by the Democrats was viewed as another sign that their friendship soon will blossom into a political marriage.

Morse said, again, that he has not decided whether to run as a Democrat in 1956. He held out only the "strong probability."

But political leaders were interested in a little-noticed exchange of telegrams last week between Morse and Howard Morgan, who heads the Democratic party in Oregon.

The exchange followed Morse's statement that he would not hesitate to run for reelection as a Democrat. If the Democrats wanted him, and if it seemed to be the best way to advance a sound liberal program for the nation.

Elected as a Republican in 1950, Morse bolted the GOP during the presidential campaign in 1952 and supported Adlai B. Stevenson. In last fall's congressional campaign he made 11 speeches for Democratic candidates.

Despite that campaign help, Morse had said that he asked nothing of the Democratic leaders in the senate. He said, however, that he did not believe the Democrats would repeat the "mistake" made by the Republicans when they bumped him from two major committees after his resignation from the GOP in 1953.

His optimism was well founded. Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said he would be glad to have Morse on the committee.

Woman Optimist Seeks Tax Data

DENVER, Jan. 12 (AP)—"How much tax is due on $75,000 income?" the anonymous woman caller telephoned to ask a government tax expert at the New Custom Building yesterday.

About $41,800, not counting deductions, she was told.

"Well, what about $150,000?" she wanted to know.

The bill then jumped to $101,600, she asked.

Asked why she made the inquiry, the woman told him:

"I'm just deciding whether to buy one or two tickets on the Irish Sweepstakes. Thanks for your help."

Senate Considers 16 Fish and Game Proposals for '77

BOISE, Jan. 12—The Idaho fish and game committee today sent 16 proposed bills to the senate fish and game committee Tuesday. Included were measures to raise license and hunting license fees from 50 to 75 cents. One bill would allow out-of-state children to hunt.

adults. Another would increase the non-resident combination fee from $50 to $75, the non-resident season fishing license from $10 to $12 and the five-day

It was also proposed by the department that the combination resident hunting and fishing licenses be raised from $3 to $5.

Meanwhile the fish and game department is continuing with Idaho's portion of the 1955 North American winter inventory of ducks and geese and will continue until the work is completed.

The work is being done jointly with Nevada and Utah, along with the trapping and tagging of big game.

The feature boys of the State's Mike Mikes, Gordy Gladson and game, Hawley Hill, fourth district supervisor, said Monday.

—The result of the duck and geese inventory will indicate how much waterfowl brood stock remains on the flyways to produce next season's birds.

Every person who bought a license to hunt in Idaho during 1954 has one chance in 20 of being polled in the fish and game department's second annual hunting harvest survey. A separate poll to cover fishing is being prepared.

Each poll envelope contains a question map, a map of Idaho and a postage-paid envelope. The department also reminded sportsmen that 1955 hunting and fishing licenses are now required for these activities in any part of the state.

The season on cottontail rabbits will remain open until Jan. 31. Other er rabbits and several species of wildlife classified as predators may be hunted the year around.

In the Sand Creek wildlife management area in Fremont county 24 migrating elk are wearing new ear tags. This trapping and tagging program is designed to keep track of the migration route of new herds building up in the region.

Any information where tagged animals are taken by hunters helps in setting hunting seasons and boundaries to assure an even harvest of this developing resource. More than 250 animals have been tagged during the five years this program has been

Peress Case Truth Urged By Democrat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—Sen. Daniel D. Keefe, D-Ind., urged the Senate today to get to the bottom of the Irving Peress case, in which the senator was charged with "secrecy and censorship" for failing to disclose his activities in the U. S. Army.

Keefe said he was "not a member of the Peress case," but he was "a member of the Senate." He said he was "a member of the Senate" and he was "a member of the Senate."

Keefe said he was "a member of the Senate" and he was "a member of the Senate."

New Pastor Accepts Pulpit of T. F. Valley Christian Church

REV. FLOYD B. MCCARTHY

The Rev. Floyd B. McCarthy, former Wyoming and Missouri clergyman, has accepted the pulpit of the 3-year-old Valley Christian church here.

Delivering his first sermon Dec. 26, the Rev. Mr. McCarthy came to Twin Falls from Laramie, Wyo., where he was pastor of the First Christian church. Previously he was pastor of the First Christian church in Laramie, Mo.

The new Twin Falls clergyman was a student in ministerial school when World War II broke out. Rather than claim an exemption, he enlisted in the U. S. air force and flew 95 combat missions as a fighter pilot in the China-Burma-India theater of operations. He was separated after five years of service as a first lieutenant.

During his Wyoming stay, the Rev. Mr. McCarthy was wing chaplain of the Wyoming civil air patrol. Originally from Marshalltown, Ia., he was graduated from Drake university, Des Moines, Ia.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy have four children, James Allen, 3, Patricia Maureen, 5, Christine Kay, 7, and Judith Ann, 9. Temporarily they are living at 607 Blue Lakes boulevard north until they move into the home they purchased at 2026 Eleventh avenue east.

Idaho's Reclamation Projects to Hit 19 Million Dollars for Coming Year

BOISE, Jan. 12.—The bureau of reclamation will foot a $19,634,288 bill for 1955 state reclamation projects, including the 71,650-acre "Kamiah" north side pumping division, during 1955, H. T. Nelson, the bureau's regional director, said here Wednesday.

Of the total for the fiscal year—1955, over 18 million dollars is for construction, $1,200,000 for operation, and maintenance, and about $400,000 for general investigations.

Major construction includes work on the Avonvale and Dalton-Gardens projects in northern Idaho, the northside project and the Palisades dam project in southeastern Idaho.

Work on the Avonvale project includes replacement of the existing irrigation facilities of the Avonvale irrigation district with a new pumping plant, equalizing reservoir and distribution system which will deliver water to 10-acre blocks under sufficient pressure for sprinkler irrigation.

Dalton Gardens also will have a replacement irrigation system for sprinkler irrigation. Work is expected to be completed during the middle of this month.

The over-all expenditure program of $15,414,974 for the Palisades project during the fiscal year was about 43 per cent accomplished through Nov. 30, 1954, Nelson said. The dam, under construction, is the Snake river's largest earth-fill structure, 260 feet high with a crest length of 2,500 feet. The reservoir capacity totals 1,400,000 acre-feet. The power plant will have an installed capacity of 114,000 kilowatts.

When completed, the project will provide a supplemental water supply to some 650,000 acres of land in the upper Snake river basin. The first power is expected in December, 1955, with initial storage in the reservoir to start in October, 1955.

Ground pumping will furnish water for about 64,000 acres of the northside pumping division, with the balance of 15,650 acres from the Snake river, when the project is completed. Approximately 115 wells will tap the ground-water supply. About 100 miles of lateral are planned.

Sixty-seven of the wells are "essentially completed at the present time" and drilling is under way on 12 others, Nelson notes. During the past irrigation season water was available to 7,334 acres and another 6,784 acres are expected to be developed before the coming season.

Other dam state construction, including Arrowrock dam and Willow creek waterway on the Payette division at the Boise project also is nearing completion, Nelson reported.

While Nelson said detailed figures "are not available," he noted preliminary estimates indicate that the average gross crop value per acre on bureau projects in Idaho will be somewhat higher for the crop year of 1954 than the $79.99 per acre average for 1953.

The investigations program for the fiscal year includes the study of seven projects which ultimately could provide a full water supply to 221,000 acres of presently dry land and a supplemental supply to about 20,000 acres. The program has a capacity of over 1,000,000 acre-feet.

India Leader Facing Battle On Congress

MADRAS, India, Jan. 12 (AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru is facing a battle on the Congress party's support of prohibition, enough punch to beat the strongest electoral challenge yet by India's communists.

Key elections will be held next month in Andhra state. Nehru's success or failure on a two-day campaign against liquor next week may determine the success or failure of the congress in its first electoral showdown with the communists.

Situation Stalled

The situation in Andhra, a south Indian state with between 18 and 20 million people, stacks up something like this:

Congress assets—Nehru's popularity and congress prestige in the long battle to win India's independence from Britain, and an alliance with two small but important local parties.

Congress liabilities—Growing dissatisfaction among the peasants with what they consider the congress' failure to effect social and land reforms; unhappiness over the congress' support of prohibition; weakness in the congress party organization, including a small campaign fund.

Communist assets—A strong party organization, apparently with sufficient campaign funds; a program of social and land reforms, also opposed to prohibition.

Communist liabilities—No single leader of Nehru's stature; some peasant dissatisfaction over the red-inspired "Telengana" armed operations of 1948; the reds' inability to align themselves with any of the minority parties.

Spend Money

The communists have been reported spending large sums of money, bringing in a great number of campaign workers and supplying them with bicycles so they can move easily from village to village and house to house, to sell their program in intimate contact with villagers.

The reds always regarded Andhra as a most likely prize and have concentrated on building a strong machine there.

On the other hand, the congress has dealt with Andhra with a complacency that has marked its activities throughout India. This has resulted from confidence. There has been no real effort to build up a strong organization with village-level campaign workers.

T. F. Firm Is Low Road Job Bidder

BOISE, Jan. 12 (AP)—Duffy Reed Construction company, Twin Falls, was the apparent low bidder yesterday for the first highway department contract of the year—a Valley county construction project.

The firm bid $919,907 for widening a 53-foot concrete bridge and surfacing 14 miles of roadway on state highway 15 from Round Valley through Cascade.
