Secret Signs Put Again on A-Workshops

LOS ALAMOS, N. M., July 18—A-Workshops were in place again today at the birthplace of the nation's atomic arsenal after 25,000 persons inspected the high-level nuclear workshops.

The sprawling Los Alamos scientific laboratory established in 1943, held the first open house in its history over the week-end on the 19th anniversary of its designation of the world's first atomic bomb.

It was anybody's guess where guests would be opened to the areas written more than 2,000 miles and more powerful atomic and hydrogen weapons and to put the atom to peacetime use.

Quipped director Norris E. Bradbury: "We'll invite you back for our centennial."

Some Things Hidden—All secret equipment and experimental laboratory A-bomb and H-bomb prototypes, were hidden during the two-day open house. But newscasters and technicians were permitted to see the 77 square-mile laboratory with its 150 buildings.

However, much that was left out of the open house was not seen by the public. That was the first time secretaries of the laboratory had been invited to the open house.

And more tests are being planned, despite many reports to the contrary. During the open house, Bradbury told a news conference that testing of Los Alamos products would continue at both the Nevada site and the Pacific proving grounds.

"Testing," Bradbury declared firmly, "is an integral part of our weapon development program."

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—While the federal government may deliberate awhile and caution to implement the Supreme Court's school desegregation order, political opponents of Eisenhower have already begun to plan for the high school election.

It is not unexpected that the colored vote for the 1954 election.

In a recent meeting of a newly organized Negro Republican club in Chicago, this possibly effective battle was planned by W. H. Tucker, of Washington, who is director of the "minorities" division of the Republican party.

Mr. Tucker has done more for the advancement of the colored people than any other politician, and is now being backed by the Eisenhower and Harry B. Truman.

WHITNER PERON?

As time passes, the initial post-revolution judgment of Eugene Whitner Peron's ability seems confirmed. He has not been materially weakened for the short run, but his long-term prospects are more precarious.

For a while after the rebellion died down, rumors flew that he had become in fact a creature of the army whose loyalty had saved his skin.

Evidence indicated that Peron had indeed given Army Minister General Lucero responsibility for the security of the state. The general also became head of all the armed forces, a post normally held by Peron.

But Lucero did not keep these powers. What the outside world does not know is whether the army extracted any sort of price for returning the state to Peron's representative.

It is always possible, of course, that the appearances are illusory, and that Peron's status never was in serious jeopardy once the revolt had been crushed.

IMPROVED NEGRO STATUS—In addition to improve the Negro's status through "executive orders and resolutions." Mr. Washington said that the President has no intention of using the executive order. Now, there is no constitutional method for a President to "act" under executive order. It is not a matter of course, in fact, a court on how to handle such a case.

Chairman Leonard W. Hall's agent had a plan for such a case. He noted that President Eisenhower had named the Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren as Chief Justice of the United States.

Mr. Washington also noted that Attorney General Brownell had intervened on behalf of Negroes in the school and restaurant and business establishments.

FURTHER ASSISTANCE—In addition to this judicial assistance, Washington asked other Eisenhower assistance to Negroes on the economic and political front, most of which is generally unknown.

He has strengthened and improved the President's committee on government contracts, which the President had named to establish for FDR or Truman.

It is in this agency which enforces the provisions of the Civil Rights Act. The government shall discriminate in employment because of race or color.

It has also transferred another F. D. C. known as the Federal Civil Control Administration to the Civil Rights Commission to the House, where it will be the subject of a bill.

COLORED EMPLOYEES UPGRADED—Negroes have been upgraded in all departments, especially in the postoffice. Instead of performing only menial tasks, they are now doing work that requires skill and initiative.

In New Orleans, a Negro man has been named a special assistant in the veteran's administration's regional office.

More than 200 responsible appointments have been given to Negroes, ranging from appointees to sub-commissioners in the State Department to the United States Police Staff. Twelve of these posts are of a policymaking nature, to wit: Bevel Riddick, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; Ernest Wilkins, assistant secretary of labor.

DUSKY RULERS—Finally, Mr. Washington notes that the President has received rulers of "three great nations" to the White House. They are President William V. S. Stubman of Liberia; and President Paul E. Maguire of Haiti.

In addition to Val Washington, "Negro Negroes had access to the President through personal contact, in both his office and his home than in any other historical period. This is the first time that Negroes have been equally hospitable, according to the national committee's monthly director.

AMAX BAD MISTAKE

The house of delegates of the American Medical Association made a bad mistake when it decided recently that it is all right for physicians to "prescribe" their own medicine. It is all right for physicians as long as there is no exploitation of the patient.

This is described as a "change in medical ethics." We agree. It certainly is a change—and one which will do much to help the patient. It is all right for physicians to prescribe their own medicine as long as there is no exploitation of the patient.

KE'S PROPOSALS

The battling average of the Eisenhower administration on proposals to congress this year is now only around 200. This is an unofficial calculation made at the end of the five-week-in-July. It is based on a list of 180 separate legislative proposals, requests and recommendations in presidential messages sent to congress this session.

Out of this list only 42 of the President's proposals—including 10 treaties sent to the senate for ratification—have so far been approved by congress.

There are 10 of the President's proposals that have been passed by the other chamber. And there are 26 White House measures on which the senate has passed bills. The reported out by committees. It is possible that many of these will get floor action before congress adjourns.

What has killed the President's battling average is a lack of definite action on some 71 proposals. These are not important measures in this category, not included in the President's own list of 14 measures on which he has expressed a desire for action this year. Among them:

- Customs simplification and legal authorization for the general agreement on tariffs and trade (GATT) administration. Juvenile delinquency control act. Aid to low income farm families. Reduction of control over Indian affairs. Revision of financing methods for new TVA expansion. Reduction in postal rates as balance postoffice department expenses. Revision of immigration laws. Amendment of laws governing espionage, sabotage, perjury and wiretapping. The President's proposals for liberalizing security bonds and the program to liberalize old age insurance benefits.

CONSERVING YOUTH

Senator Watkins has advanced a most commendable proposal for lending a helping hand to youngsters who have gotten off to a bad start. His idea is to get them away from the city slums where their troubles begin—and put them to useful work in the country's parks and forests where they are much more likely to realize physical and spiritual health than in idle or training schools. The idea was originated by the Denver News of Salt Lake City and is now being given a trial on local scale in Utah.

The Watkins proposal calls for the creation of a National Youth Rehabilitation Corps, patterned after the Civilian Conservation Corps, which was set up in New Deal. It would give men between 16 and 25 who have been convicted of a crime and put on probation the opportunity to work in national parks and forests. The CCC was one of the New Deal's outstanding achievements. It was a great success in many ways. Some of the natural resources and outdoor assets of the United States. And it did an equally wonderful job of conserving an even more valuable national inheritance—a considerable number of young men who had otherwise been led into bad company and bad habits during the depths of the Depression. The country's national parks and forests, because of the vast increase in use, are once again in need of intelligent conservation work. And so, apparently, judging from the juvenile delinquency statistics, are many of its boys and young men. The Watkins bill would seem to offer an anomalous solution for both problems.—The Washington Post.

MOTTO FOR OUR BANNERS

"The motto, 'In God We Trust,' has been on United States coins since the term of Salmon Portland Chase as secretary of the treasury under President Abraham Lincoln. Now, it will also appear on paper currency by action of congress.

The motto is already appearing inconspicuously on the national trust in the form of money orders which the Good Book tells us is the root of all evil. It is also appearing on the bills and notes of large denominations, for which the lore of a fraternal human being might be even greater than that for a human being. The motto is already appearing on the bills and notes of large denominations, for which the lore of a fraternal human being might be even greater than that for a human being.

Views of Others

The house of delegates of the American Medical Association made a bad mistake when it decided recently that it is all right for physicians to "prescribe" their own medicine. It is all right for physicians as long as there is no exploitation of the patient.

This is described as a "change in medical ethics." We agree. It certainly is a change—and one which will do much to help the patient. It is all right for physicians to prescribe their own medicine as long as there is no exploitation of the patient.

Formal Evening Gowns Shown From New Collections

Formal evening gowns from the Paris and New York collections of top designers show the ensemble look, the very formal look, the sheath look. Ensemble itself by Pierre Balmain is in white orlon silk satin. Slim gown is worn with matching three-quarter length wrap coat lined in pale blue. Half-belt on coat is placed so low at back it's nearly at the hemline. Cell Chapman's formal ball gown (center) is white, is in same fabric. It takes its drama from an intricately draped neckline. Draping is continued through bustline. Slim and alinky formal gown by Balmain (right) is of silk satin is worn with enormous stole that's embroidered in gold roses and brilliant. This is in white, too. (NEA, photofeature)

Pair Is Honored By Reception in Heyburn Church

HEYBURN, July 18—A wedding reception and dance was held Friday evening at the LDS recreation hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Price who were married July 14 in the LDS temple, Idaho Falls. The new Mrs. Price is the former Betty King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben King. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Price, of Burley. The couple received their wedding gown from the parents. The bride wore her wedding gown of white Chantilly lace over satin designed with a fitted lace bodice, tulle yoke, Peter Pan collar and long pointed lace sleeves. The full tulle skirt over satin featured a fitted lace hem. Her short imported illusion net veil was held by a tulle of seed pearls. Her coronal bouquets were white roses and white carnations with white ribbon streamers. The bride's attendants all wore ballerina length gowns. Miss King wore yellow. Miss Whiting wore red and white. Miss Kertes wore black and silver, and Arlene Smith pink. They had wrappings of pink and white carnations. Mrs. King was attired in a rose crepe afternoon gown and Mrs. Price chose a floral print gown. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages. Carol Porey was in charge of the good book and the gift tables were arranged by LaJune Garner, Sharon Anderson, Marjorie Kertes and Joan Linsey. Clifford Harrington was master of ceremonies. The opening prayer was given by Roy Harrington, Edward John, Malin, sang, "I Love You Truly," while the bride couple danced the wedding waltz; Judy Wolf, Burley, presided on an accordion solo. Dea MacLaren, Burley, gave the comic reading; Mr. and Mrs. Jess Hymas gave the "Bride and Grooms Prayer" and Mr. John sang, "Blessed." Music for the dancing was furnished by the Paul Music Makers. Ivan Davis, Preston, gave the closing prayer.

Girls Asked to Sing at Meet

Sharon Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Miller, Twin Falls, and Esther McClain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McClain, Castleford, have been requested to sing for the supreme council of the International Order of Job's Daughters slated for August in Boise. The two girls also sang at the recent grand council of the organization. (Staff engraving)

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI. Here is a boy who does not get on well with his companions. They play the usual ball games and he dislikes them and won't play—but he wants them to play his game, digging for hidden treasure, just digging, no dramatics accompanying the digging, no pirates, no ships, just digging. So they go home and let him dig. In the house he is hard to deal with. He is rough with the baby, rude to his mother, and he is forever late for his meals. His mother wants to know if she should continue to be patient with him and disregard his misbehavior in the hope of his being better as he grows older. Bad behavior cannot be disregarded. It must be analyzed to find the reason for it and the child taught to mend his ways, helped to do so by wise discipline and sound training. Of course, if the mother knew how to do that she would not be asking me about it. So the best thing for the mother to do, and for those in the same position, is to consult a child-care specialist who can see the child, his mother and the home conditions. The specialist usually has a list of 7 to 9 play rugs made for the child to play great big digging, a pirate battle, hunt for treasure, dig for it, fight for it—most of the play being loud shouts, spreading, waving gestures, much pulling, pushing and hauling, and much, very much noise. The play is rarely a finished performance but the players, having the picture in mind, are quite animated with it. That is as it should be. When a boy drops out of this group, set off by himself and dies or burns the pages of a book, or lies on the floor or the couch—ridiculous—something is wrong. Either his home experience or his physical and mental organization is driving him in the wrong direction. Talking won't do any good but the right understanding of his condition, his right treatment, usually does much good. "I've had him to the doctor and he says he is perfectly all right." The doctor means that this child has all his legs and arms, his organs and sense in apparent health, no more. The parent knows the child is not all right. The children's specialist, given time and opportunity to study the child, can help him. Healthy children play hard, play with other children, disagree with them, shove them around and are shored around by them, but they don't go off by themselves and hide. This term "nervous" does not help this condition. It requires treatment, early and prolonged. A cowardly attitude is often due to abuse. Dr. Paul discusses this trait and offers advice to the mother. "The 'W' Child." To obtain a copy, send in cents in him, care Times-News, P. O. Box 95, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

How Has Your Standard of Living

Improved Through Increased Use Of Electricity?

DON'T THINK ABOUT electricity in terms of your ever-improving standard of living? It's one of the most important factors in the better, easier, more enjoyable homelife you live today. Just imagine your household without electric lighting, refrigeration, an electric range, and the appliances in your home laundry. How about the radio, the toaster, the vacuum cleaner, electric shaver and the electric blanket on your bed? Yes, electricity above everything else has simplified household chores, eliminated fatiguing labor, cut hours from your work week. And this is only the beginning. In years to come, electricity will be used in many new and exciting ways. Where does your household dollar buy so much for so little—as in the scores of important jobs electricity helps you do so well?

EVERYONE is using MORE ELECTRICITY. It's doing so much MORE for you!

OF PIONEER ALL-STAR GAME HINGES ON TILTS TONIGHT

Keeps Narrow Edge Race; Electrics Blank Boys 8-0 to Hold Pace

By Associated Press
Twin Falls both took victories Sunday to postpone until tonight the decisive game which will be the All-Star game. Boise, which was up 3-0 on Billings, continued three percentage points ahead of Great Falls, which was up 2-0. The club which is ahead at the end of play tonight will win the All-Star game July 24. In other games, Salt Lake City continued its winning streak under new manager Red Jensen and beat Idaho Falls 11-3, while Pocatello edged Ogden 5-4.

Boys Go to Top Padres Lose Two

By United Press
Seattle Padres rushed to the top of the league Sunday by collaring Oakland twice. The Padres went flat before the San Francisco Giants, but they were up on Oakland's hitters for power and went 4-2 and 5-1. Left Seaver pitched a half game.

Dr. Middlecoff Gets Big Win At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, July 18.—Dr. Middlecoff moved on toward the National PGA tournament this week after extracting enough first money from Milwaukee on Sunday to make him top money winner among golfing stars in the area.

The Memphis dentist set a touring record of some 5,000 to signing Sunday at the Blue Mound Country club layout when he went two over par on the 12th hole of his final round. He was up 11 holes on the 12th and a 68 that gave him a 15-under-par 265.

Four strokes behind the Masters and Western Open winner were Mike Boushka of Crestview, N. C., Julius Bovee of Mid Plains, N. C., and Ted-Kroll of Usting, N. Y.

Most of the big field turned Monday to a second round at the same course, where Chick Harbert is scheduled to defend his PGA title in the tournament opening Wednesday.

Middlecoff's Milwaukee open triumph was worth $6,000 in cash and a $10,000 automobile. It gave him $155,000 in earnings, of which $10,000 is a loan over Boushka, whose share of the prize money is $10,000. Middlecoff's current winnings now are $125,000.

Burek had moments on the closing nine came within the gallery had about figured Middlecoff would win. He was up 11 holes on the 14th, and again on the 15th. He was up 11 holes on the 15th, and again on the 16th. He was up 11 holes on the 16th, and again on the 17th.

Summit Meet Is Fourth for Its Kind Held

OSHEVA, Switzerland, July 18 (AP)—Today's "summit" conference is the fourth of its kind. In the first, three the United States, Great Britain and Russia met as "hot war" allies. Today they meet as, cold war adversaries with France also on the eastern side.

The previous meetings were: Tehran, Iran, Nov. 28 to Dec. 1, 1943.

The first get-together of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Premier Josef Stalin, called to plan allied strategy against Germany and to prepare a post-war peace policy. The United States and Britain promised to open a second front on the European continent. The three leaders pledged their countries "to work together in war and in the peace that will follow."

Yalta, Russian Crimea, Feb. 4 to 11, 1945.

One of the most controversial diplomatic conferences of modern times. The three allied leaders agreed to force Germany's unconditional surrender and to dismember Germany. Stalin agreed to enter the Pacific war. The groundwork for the organization of the United Nations was formed. Parts of the Yalta agreement were made public only two years after the meeting. The full documents were kept secret until last March. The agreement made it possible for Russia to grab eastern Europe, and to gain control of a large part of China. The treaty never has been concluded. Four power control of Germany broke down and led to the cold war.

Potsdam, Germany, July 25 to Aug. 22, 1945.

President Truman represented the United States, Churchill, defeated in an election during the conference, was replaced by Labor Prime Minister Clement A. Attlee. Detailed plans for disarming Germany and limiting its production. Set up four occupation zones. Poland and Russia were given control of a rich part of eastern Germany but only pending conclusion of a final peace treaty. This treaty never has been concluded. Four power control of Germany broke down and led to the cold war.

Church Members Plan Celebration

IDAHO FALLS, July 18 (AP)—Members of the LDS church in the upper Snake river valley will stage rodeos, parties and other celebrations next week-end in honor of Pioneer day the anniversary of the arrival of the Mormon pioneers in Salt Lake Valley in 1847.

The observance will be held this year on Saturday and Monday because Pioneer days falls on Sunday. One of the features will be a 70-foot parade in Idaho Falls.

"Voice of America" to Report Story of Hagerman's Hospital

Story of how Hagerman obtained his hospital through community effort will be broadcast to nations in a new radio series, "The Voice of America," produced by the Voice of America.

The U. S. information agency says the new radio series is designed to give people abroad a sense of the quality and variety of American life by producing a direct insight into the people and places of the United States.

Vardis Fisher, who lives in the Hagerman valley, is author of the script on Hagerman. Nineteen other outstanding American writers will present word-pictures of their own villages, towns and cities.

Beginning with the description of an accident victim who died because no hospital facilities were available in Hagerman, Fisher describes the community efforts responsible for bringing about the hospital there.

Robert Lawson, a pharmacist, sparked the hospital campaign, notes Fisher.

"With Americans," he notes in his script, "a number of things are contagious, including community effort. The people began to talk about it in their homes, at their work. One by one they said, 'Maybe we can do it.' And finally they said, 'Let's give it a try.'"

Fisher continues with a description of the community cooperation and the problems incident to construction of the hospital.

"It took us about a year to build our hospital," he concludes. "It has a real room, a laboratory and a room for surgery—it is modern and spacious and spark throughout."

Hagerman's "small hospital and our doctor are the finest assets we have ever added to this community," concludes Fisher. "We are proud of them. We are even more proud of having discovered, in our own way, that there is still no substitute for the free and united enterprise of a people."

The Mediterranean sea loses more water by evaporation than is replaced by rivers flowing into it and rain on its surface, the losses being replaced by inflows from the Atlantic Ocean and the Black sea.

Losers

DALLAS, Tex., July 18 (AP)—Theo Alexander's efforts to break up an argument between two women in a Dallas bar early yesterday cost him a cut scalp.

When efforts to calm the woman failed, Alexander drew a pistol and fired at the ceiling. A piece of the ceiling hit him on the head and it took two stitches to sew up the cut.

Man's Own Auto Bowls Him Over

COEUR D'ALENE, July 18 (AP)—Godie Kaufman was knocked down by his own car yesterday when he and his wife got out to change places.

He told police that the car started to roll backwards and he tried to stop it. It plunged into the Coeur d'Alene river and was carried downstream.

Kaufman was cut and bruised.

THE RIGHT WORD HERE IS PRESTIGE!

This may be his first Imperial, or it may be his fourth or fifth. In either case, he knows by now his judgment was correct—and not solely because he's in the habit of making right decisions!

In the world he lives in... of men and women at the highest level of achievement... Imperial is the one motorcar most closely associated with genuine stature and success.

The gentleman here knows this. Yet, being the kind of man he is, his choice of a 1935 Imperial was actually determined not so much by the impression it would create on others as by the immense superiority of the car itself.

He has found that the faultless performance of Imperial's great 250 hp V-8 engine and fully automatic transmission is unlike any thing he has ever experienced! Smoother. Quieter. Ready on instant to supply a tremendous surge of power when needed!

He has discovered in Imperial's fully powered steering and built a degree of driving control never before possible. He has discovered a relaxation in motoring that entices him to "take the road" more often... and more enjoyably... than he's done in years.

And he's re-discovered the wonderful feeling of being pleased with admiration wherever he drives!

It's the grandest experience a motorist can know, and one you can enjoy without a bit of trouble or delay. Just call on your Chrysler Dealer and ask for an Imperial demonstration. Then watch your head start turning your way!
