Cadillac

Beyond the Realm of Argument!

This is the season when conversations turn easily and often to motor cars.

And, in almost any gathering, you're likely to find a wide difference of opinion about the relative merits of the year's automotive offerings.

Until the talk turns to Cadillac!

Here is one car concerning which most motorists have a meeting of minds. And never before has Cadillac left so little room for argument as in 1956!

Certainly no one could behold the new Cadillac without recognizing it as the "car of cars," its beautiful, graceful, flowing lines . . . its regal bearing on the highway . . . and its long, low silhouette are simply too significant to misunderstand.

Surely no one could ride in a new Cadillac and not agree that it is the Standard of the World. Its new fabrics and leathers are rich and luxurious . . . and its interior appointments have been crafted with a jeweler's skill.

And we doubt if anyone could drive a new Cadillac and not understand that it is the finest-performing motor car of all time. Its great engine is a revelation in power and performance . . . and its new Hydra-Matic Drive is incredibly smooth and responsive.

Truly, the evidence on the side of Cadillac has never been more apparent than it is today.

Why not come in soon—and see for yourself?

We'll be delighted to introduce you to Cadillac's great new styling . . . and to arrange a demonstration at the wheel . . . and to acquaint you with the new Sedan de Ville and Eldorado Seville.

You'll agree, we're certain, that Cadillac for 1956 is beyond the realm of argument!

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation today announced it would not probe the causes of the Los Angeles plane crash.

The bureau said it would not attempt to determine whether the crash was caused by a mechanical failure or by human error.

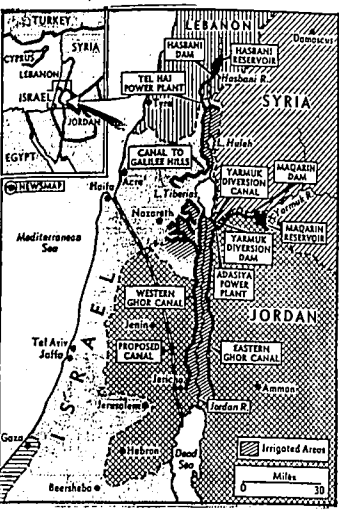

The plane, a Douglas C-47, crashed into the Pacific Ocean off the coast of Los Angeles on Oct. 31, killing all 28 people on board.

The crash was the deadliest in the history of the airline industry.

Arabs Block 'Little TVA'

Arab countries have given what seems the final thumbs-down to the U.S.-backed Jordan river development plan—a TVA-type river valley power and irrigation project. Special Ambassador Eric Johnston was here promoting it for nearly two years. In his "selling" trip just ended, he failed to persuade the Arabs to accept the plan.

Arabs on practically all technical questions had been reached, but politicians feared the Arab public would accuse them of indirectly recognizing the state of Israel. The $21-million-dollar project would have linked Israel, Lebanon, Syria and Jordan in common use of River Jordan waters. Its main features are shown on map above. Israel would receive 14 billion cubic feet of water annually, Jordan 27 billions and Syria 1.5 billions. This would irrigate 104,000 acres of land in Israel, 123,000 in Jordan and 1,500 in Syria. What is feared now is that Israel will resume the Jordan river project if full, under U.S. pressure, two years ago. This would add new tensions to a region already in an explosive state. (NEA)

Slayings Still Rock French African Area

CABABLANCA, French Morocco, Nov. 15 (AP)—Despite a broadcast appeal from Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef to be permitted to return to Morocco in peace, terrorists continued yesterday to kill off his subjects at a steadily increasing rate.

Approximately a dozen were killed in and around Casablanca over the week-end, and two more were shot down yesterday morning when terrorists attacked a police patrol. They killed two of the Moroccan police and wounded two French non-commissioned officers in charge. One of the terrorists was killed.

The attack occurred in broad daylight in the Moroccan port city, only an hour or so after Ben Youssef addressed to his subjects the "larchin" his return later this week with bloody demonstrations.

In all, there were 29 terrorist attacks in Casablanca over the week-end, one of the worst periods in months except for the bloodletting on Aug. 20 when thousands took to the streets on the second anniversary of the sultan's exile.

New Combat Life Washed for Vessels

EVANSTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The navy dropped a broad hint today that it is planning to give new combat life to its World War II battleships by converting them into guided missile vessels.

A directive issued by the secretary of navy on classifications of ships contained the new category of "guided missile capital ship." The new classification bears the abbreviation of "BBG"—battleship-guided missile ship.

Inclusion of the new category in a list of ship designations is a tip-off the navy may request money in next year's budget for converting a World War II battleship into a guided missile ship.

General Jam

HONG KONG, Nov. 15 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan charged at Geneva yesterday that the Russians even jammed a British broadcasting corporation program airing an interview with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin but monitors here said the British shouldn't feel too hurt.

The Russians also jam communist broadcasts from radio Peking, the monitors said.

Big 4 Envoys Show Quirks During Meet

GENEVA, Nov. 13 (AP)—Molotov stammers. Dulles doodles. "Pinky" may be ready to blow his top. The big four foreign ministers, with all their formality and weighty problems, are only human. How they behave at the conference table is and out of the spotlight, helps show what kind of men they are.

Observers say Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov stammers nervously at critical moments during the four conference. He takes off his glasses, shuffles papers in front of him, puts on his glasses again and points a pencil at his western colleagues. Then he takes off his glasses again.

Molotov shows no sign of emotion when accusations are fired at him. He looks like a school teacher listening to a pupil recite. He jots down notes afterwards.

Recalling Dulles

The most striking figure of the big four meetings is America's John Foster Dulles, the inside secretary. He is an ebullient speaker, full of pep and quick to react. When Molotov makes a mistake, Dulles is first to point it out.

While listening to one of Molotov's lengthy speeches, Dulles and his sister in front of him and jots down notes every now and then.

Acta Bored

Britain's Harold Macmillan acts as a representative of the British foreign office in the conference. He leans back in his chair, listens to the speeches politely, and then hands his pipe to his secretary. He looks bored stiff; "one would expect that."

Looks Shy

Antoine Pinay, the former French prime minister, is nervous and shy. He is the only one who does not speak. He is the only one who does not speak.

Parolee Prowls Into Police Car

POCAHELLO, Nov. 13 (AP)—Raymond Howarter, 29-year-old Alameda, Idaho, parolee from the state penitentiary, was arrested by police officers today when he drove a parolee car parked in front of the Pocahellico police station.

Officers were trying to locate the parolee car's microphone. He also had in his possession a clip board from the police station in nearby Alameda, officers said.

Pocahellico police charged him with injury to city property. He was booked on a charge of petty larceny by the Alameda police.

Young Attorneys Get Chance To Work for Top Law Offices

WASHINGTON (NRA)—Young attorneys, green from law school but at the top of their classes, are going to get a big way at the U. S. department of justice.

Important federal cases are being prepared and personally handled by these bright men and women who were students just a short while ago. All are being given red carpet treatment in the way of training and experience.

It's part of Attorney General Hiram Brownell's determined effort to draw outstanding law school graduates to his department. As incentive, he's giving them maximum responsibility and prestige.

Latest evidence of this is the naming of Thomas Hays Brownell, the deputy attorney general, William Rogers. He is one of 20 persons who were the first to participate in the recruitment program for honor law graduates which was started by Brownell in December, 1935.

Four other attorneys held the same job title as 20-year-old Hogan, but he is the youngest man in the department to be given such an important position since the Republicans have been in office.

Hogan's main job will be to direct the recruitment program which he is familiar with, as one of its original members. In addition, he will handle some legislative liaison duties.

Fresh out of Cornell law school, Hogan came to Washington at the end of July, 1934. Just a week after arriving he was sent to the U. S. court of claims in New York to help other U. S. attorneys defend the government against a 15-million dollar suit.

Since then he has cross-examined witnesses in a number of hearings in Washington's court of claims. Before assuming his new job he was in the tax division.

The department feels that the best person to carry out the commitments of the attorney general's program is someone who came under it himself. Hogan "will be in charge of recruiting top flight law graduates all over the country, and making all the necessary arrangements for them."

Other young men at justice are carrying big loads. Take, for example, 26-year-old Rollins Koppel, a graduate of the University of Texas law school.

He recently handled one of the biggest cases given to a man his age in the history of the department. It concerned the constitutional right of the government to seize German-owned property in October, 1941 after the formal end of World War II.

Koppel argued the case in the appellate court in Chicago last February. He won—thus upholding the

Japan Builds New Army From Defeat; Could Be Strong Ally for U. S. in East

TOKYO, Nov. 13 (AP)—Japan, America's key Far Eastern ally, has raised a tough little army from the wreckage of defeat.

Ten years after the surrender, the six-division self-defense force (army) is being molded into a modern fighting machine with fire power five times greater than the old imperial legions.

As some observers have put it: "The Japanese can march, they can shoot and they learn fast."

The gradual buildup has encountered many problems: Strong opposition to Japanese antipathy to their military; difficulties of creating a new professional officer corps; acute financial troubles in old style "banzai" tactics and the American concept of waging war.

"They have some customs we are trying to overcome," admits Brig. Gen. Theodore Troer Kinn, G-3, chief of staff of the U. S. military school near Mt. Fuji.

He has banzai attacks, failure of mass artillery, lack of a standard operating procedure to eliminate inferiorly detailed orders to subordinate units, and a supply and communications system not completely geared to today's mobile, technical warfare.

Younger officers seem to like American use of tremendous firepower and flexible tactics to overcome strong enemy positions, but express doubt Japan's old school officers can make the grade. They have more entertainment, better post exchanges. And they are all volunteers.

But public support is still lacking.

although the first strong postwar objections seem to be passing.

"Defense of the home islands is becoming more and more important to the Japanese and troop morale is improving," King states.

Japan's forces also lack another intangible, but extremely powerful kind of support—close association with the imperial family. An American officer once said:

"When the crown prince puts on a uniform, I'll know Japan is really going to rearm."

The shortage of professional officers is being remedied slowly at Japan's "West Point"—the national defense academy for all three services near Yokosuka, opened two years ago.

The future size of the new army is indefinite, but a steady increase for many years seems inevitable in a world of communist tensions.

The present strength is 139,222 and a new budget allocation provides for a boost of 161,538.

Details of a tentative six-year plan now being worked over have not been released but top manpower would be 300,000 men, organized in ten or more divisions and several combat teams. There would be 100,000 men, organized to adequately defend the home islands. But perhaps it is enough, if coupled with a 700-ship air force and 100-ship navy, to permit pulling out of U. S. troops by 1961.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Young people in the threes of growing into maturity rarely understand what is meant by discipline. They think that it means being forced to obey rules and orders and being punished for not doing so. This is not a bad interpretation, but if it does not extend beyond the demands of school, which it often does not it is too limited an idea to be useful.

Discipline from outside authority must be replaced by self-control if it is to serve the individual. And it must extend into every activity of life to have any worth-while influence on character and ability, its main purposes.

Every time a young person does what he feels he should do, although he would rather not, he is exercising self-discipline and adding to his strength of character and ability. Everything he does as well as he knows how is discipline of the best kind. This means getting a lesson done as perfectly as possible. Study that results in learning is self-discipline. So is sweeping the garage, washing the car, dusting with Mrs. L. W. Voothers, 104 Lincoln street. Group No. 2 will meet with Mrs. Paul Beck, Murtauch. Members may call Mrs. Ed Tigue for transportation. Group No. 3 will meet at the home of Mrs. A. B. Caldwell, 149 Ninth avenue north. Group No. 4 will meet at the home of Mrs. Ed Tolbert, west of the city.

ing a room, cooking a dinner. So is thinking a matter through to the end, something very difficult for most of us today.

Often a suggestion is offered by a friend, a situation, even an impulse, and it is then that self-discipline is essential. It is then that thinking a thing through is necessary. Is this right? Am I willing to have everybody know that I did it? What will happen as a consequence? If the matter is decided wisely, a step toward self-control and a healthy maturity has been well taken.

It is well that young people in secondary schools consider this. They have lived long enough and they have achieved a degree of maturity that implies that they can be expected to make wise decisions on the basis of self-discipline. When school authorities or any outside influence and power has to be called into action, the young person feels himself. He has not achieved the maturity of a secondary school student.

What do you expect of these young people? Only that they behave like ladies and gentlemen of culture and refinement; that they consider the rights and feelings of others; that their speech be free of slang or the worse forms of speech; that they listen to what their elders have to say and give it respectful consideration. When they come close to this

Pacific Coast Teams Have 'Big Games' to Finish '55 Football Season Saturday

It's a "big game" day all over the Pacific Coast conference next Saturday as 1955 football reaches the traditional windup. The conference title and the Rose bowl bid will be decided, just as the experts said two months ago, in the Los Angeles coliseum. That's the site of the battle between defending champion UCLA and Southern California. But up at Eugene, the chips will be down just as firmly, Oregon State, entrenched in second place, faces Ore-

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

BY KEBBY KERSCHULG
It's time to put the football legs into motion to get the season rolling. The coaches will have a chance to put up the skins and the cheerleaders will be out in force. Before the football season bows out there are a few loose ends to pick up. At the time of year, there always are some loose ends to pick up. Some trends and some coaches sent out to find new jobs for themselves.

One of the trends, getting more of a little notice in the apparent "catching up" of defense this year. College football statistics seem to show that defense is taking the place away from offense this season. The same trend is apparent in high school football and perhaps even in high school basketball.

When the T formation and its variants came into the foreground a few years ago, the defense was caught without a way to stop it. Now it seems, the pendulum is swinging the other way.

Coaches have figured out ways to halt the T-type attacks and already many teams are going back to the old line and a lot more are using several offenses to use as the occasion demands.

Defense is getting its share of attention in high school football. For instance, a pair of fine Dixie Valley teams sharing the Cross-State league crown were tops defensively. Both the Burley Bruins and the Burley Bulldogs had good scoring water boys but coach Jerry Dellinger at Jerome and coach Ribon Duggan at Jerome shared defense, and it paid off. Both teams were undefeated and the rock-solid defense displayed by both came through when the chips were down—when the two teams met.

You'll remember that neither was able to cross the other's goal line and the resulting 0-0 tie was the only one on two otherwise perfect records.

Twin Falls' coach Bob Hilliard, another believer in a stout defense, says he noted increasing emphasis on that phase of the game in the Big Six this season. Hilliard says most of the teams in the conference, including the Bruins, used a greater variety of defenses than has been usual for high school football.

Now it's time for someone to invent a new offensive formation that will push the pendulum back again. That's the way it always has happened before.

SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED
NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—The New York Coliseum will play 21 night games at the Polo grounds next season including five with the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

Hoople, Fellow Forecasters Miss Few Choices, Are Confident Again

BY MAJ. AMOS R. HOOPLE
Bravo, fellow football forecasters! After being stuck in the gridiron doldrums for the past few weeks, we really picked the winners in last week's gridiron contest. did we? You can face the fact that several weeks of the season with renewed confidence.

The three "money" winners missed only one game apiece and no one in the top 10 missed more than three games. Even your old friend Hoople, along with a host of other forecasters in the contest, missed but four. It warns the cockles of our hearts on a Friday day, likely to realize that we possess such a penetrating insight into the complex science of pickin' prognosticators.

With three wrong guesses apiece are Jimmy Answorth, Twin Falls; Bobby Singleton, Twin Falls, and Arnold R. Wilson, Burley. All of the cash prize winners and three receiving honorable mention join the list of qualifiers for New Year's day bowl games.

On the honorable mention list are two incorrect choices each were Mrs. Shirley Glenn, Burley; Arlene Crutch, Jerome; John A. Glenn, Burley, and Mike Conroy, Burley. Also receiving honorable mention

Identification File Is Asked On Population

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—A scientist said today that a national identification file covering all Americans.

Dr. Marshall T. Newman, physical anthropologist of the Smithsonian Institution, said in an interview that such a file would simplify identification problems like those which plagued authorities after the Nov. 3 air crash near Longmont, Colo.

And in the event of an atomic disaster, Newman said, a "national identification repository" would be invaluable.

Could Be Useful It also would be useful in less dramatic circumstances, for example, it might make it easier for the agent to provide proofs of eligibility for social security benefits.

Newman is a Smithsonian associate of Dr. T. D. Stewart, one of the country's leading authorities on identification by anthropological methods.

Their department does bone identification work for the FBI. It rests on the average "one lot of bones" a week for which some law enforcement agency wants identification.

A national identification file, as Newman sees it, should include not merely fingerprints but also dental records, blood group designations, scars and wounds, and other identifying marks such as a beglar, surgical scars, or bone fractures.

The civil defense administration also has proposed that everyone be supplied with identification "tags" to wear about the neck.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover also has a national file on criminals, and that the FBI now has.

It also has a tremendous non-criminal fingerprint file, bigger by far than the criminal, and this record was a godsend for authorities at Longmont.

Reasons Cited 1. Such a program would require congressional action to provide the necessary authority, machinery, and money. Hoover does not take stands on legislative issues.

2. The subject is highly controversial. Fingerprinting for half a century has been significant as an association with criminal detection. Every time someone recommends universal fingerprinting, someone else cries "police state."

Stiffer Penalties Eyed for Crime ARCADIA, Calif., Nov. 15 (AP)—Pat Hillman, R., chief member of the house judiciary committee, planned today to introduce a bill in congress calling for stiffer penalties for the killing of anyone aboard interstate aircraft.

Hillman disclosed his planned action yesterday. He said it was prompted by the Denver announcement that John Gilbert Green had been sentenced to a maximum of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine under federal statute, although he can be charged with murder under state law.

The California congressman said stiffer penalties are needed for exploding time-bombs aboard airplanes to keep others from thinking they can get away with anything like this.

Boise Rejects 2 Gas Firms Bids

BOISE, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Boise city council last night rejected bids of the rival intermountain and Idaho Natural Gas companies for a distribution franchise in the capital city.

Citing a recent decision of the state supreme court, it said "The two are no responsible bidders" for a franchise at the present time.

The court last month reversed the state public utilities commission in awarding a statewide distribution permit to Idaho Natural. It said the permit should have been given instead to Intermountain.

Idaho Natural is expected to ask the court to reconsider its decision and the PUC is debating whether to hold a second hearing.

3 Hunters Found In Wild Regions

IDAHO FALLS, Nov. 15 (AP)—Sheriff's officers reported three missing hunters were found safe yesterday afternoon.

The hunters were Ronnie Jensen, Larry Anderson and Norman Nelbor, all Elgin. They were missing in a mountainous area east of here.

Bonneville County Sheriff Dean P. Wilkins said a search continued for a party of hunters from Blackfoot. Six were believed to be in the party. They were reported lost in the McCoy creek area of Blaine county.

Mishap Reported

RUPERT, Nov. 15—The sheriff's office reports a minor accident at 6:45 p. m. Saturday at the intersection of highways 37 and 25 near Paul.

Shella Daley, 31, Burley, was driving west in a 1955 Ford and was making a turn onto Highway 37.

Allister McKennie, 49, Rupert, in a 1940 Kaiser, was going east on highway 37 and was unable to stop in time to avoid hitting Mrs. Daley's car.

Senate Demo Leader Rules Himself Out

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson is telling friends that he has no intention of becoming a serious candidate for the 1956 presidential nomination. It was disclosed today.

This report circulated here while Democrats awaited today's announcement at Chicago that Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 nominee, is going to be a candidate.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D. Minn., told a Jefferson City, Mo., audience yesterday that Stevenson definitely would run. Humphrey also said Stevenson would enter the Minnesota presidential primary.

A number of conservative and middle-of-the-road Democrats, particularly in the south, have been wondering if Johnson might be available to run. Johnson, however, though he suffered a heart attack last July 2.

Friends of Johnson here said, however, that he is telling fellow Democrats, including backers of the presidential contender, that he will not be a serious candidate. His position presumably would not rule out his being a "favorite son" candidate of Texas Democrats and receiving first ballot votes of other delegates at the Chicago convention next August.
