

Speaker Gives Viewpoints on Youth in Meet

Positive approach-by-school and church officials and the wholesome setting of the Twin Falls police department toward youth were lauded by Davin Silvester who spoke at the Washington school auditorium Monday night.

About 60 PTA members including School Supl. Ernest H. Ragland and Mrs. Vera O'Leary, junior high school principal, heard Silvester rate local juvenile crime as near the lowest in the nation.

Silvester was introduced by Earl Harbison, PTA president. He urged parents to look for some way to communicate to the youth of today respect for authority and instruct them in their rights and their obligations.

Parents must set the example they want their children to follow, he said. Citing various authoritative polls, Silvester said the foundation of a child's future behavior is formed during the first six years of life.

Easy access of children to intoxicating beverages, Silvester quoted from a new wire-release, seemed to be one of the major causes for juvenile delinquency.

White, Negroes Fight at Concert

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Jan. 31—Fighting between white and Negro teen-agers broke out among 5,000 concert spectators last night and six persons were hospitalized, police reported.

Police arrested 10 Negroes for refusing to disperse before the melting of bottles and chair throwing and fistfighting in the downtown Memorial auditorium was finally quelled shortly after midnight.

Police blamed white teen-agers for starting the bottle and chair throwing from their reserved sections in balconies into sections occupied by Negroes during last portions of a band concert by the Roy Hamilton show.

The performance was billed as a Negro affair with whites invited to attend. Balconies were reserved for the estimated 1,000 to 2,000 whites while some 3,000 to 4,000 Negroes occupied the orchestra section and dress circle.

Norway Navy Nabs Russian Fishing Boats

Russian crew covered with submarine guns. The 8,000-ton "factory" ship, Tambow, made a break for open water but had to alter a torpedo boat fired warning rounds across her bow.

The captured ships were part of a Russian fishing fleet of 70 to 80 ships spotted netting herring "well within" the four-mile limit of Norwegian waters.

The remainder of the Russian "invaders" fled, leaving behind herring-filled nets. Navy officers said some abandoned nets were found within two miles from shore.

T. F. County's Feedlot Tour Attracts Many

The third stop. Bandy favored beef silage, reporting tests showed it contained 13.44 per cent protein compared with 7 per cent protein in corn. He reported beta with "vigorous growth" will average between 14 to 15 tons of silage per acre. This contains 72 per cent moisture.

Lynn Hempleman, owner of the last feedlot visited, said he believed best top silage was "just another feed that did not live up to the propaganda" farmers had been given.

He pointed out it did not add weight to animals as rapidly as grain nor was the meat quality as good in the eyes of the buyers.

The group inspected two inventions which Hempleman has perfected. The first was a hay chopper that cuts the fodder into about half its original length. The other is a machine which mixes grain and molasses with a minimum of labor.

Hempleman called the visitors' attention to his water supply which has continuous flow. He reported the cost of operating the pump was more economical than using electric water heaters employed by most cattle feeders.

Tuesday afternoon the group held a session at the Turf club, beginning with a luncheon at 1 p. m. A panel of experts representing cattle-raising, feeding, veterinary profession and packers discussed all phases of the business.

Funds Raised. HAILEY, Jan. 31—Unofficial reports on three community projects to raise funds for the March of Dimes fund show that Ketchum netted approximately $523.30 from its carnival Saturday evening. Bellevue netted $300 at a Civic club sponsored banquet Sunday. In addition to this, $350 was taken in at a kangaroo court sponsored by the Wood River Chamber of Commerce.

McKay Views Are Sought in Claims Battle

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Sen. W. Kerr Scott, D., N. C., demanded today that Interior Secretary Douglas McKay testify in a congressional investigation of the controversial Al Sarena mining claim grants in an Oregon national forest.

Although Undersecretary Clarence A. Davis took full responsibility for the grants last week, Scott said he won't "feel the whole story has been told" unless McKay testifies before a joint subcommittee looking into the matter.

The subcommittee, headed by Scott, is investigating the granting of full title "patents" to 15 disputed claims in the Rogue River National Forest to the Al Sarena Mining Corporation. It called Davis for more questioning.

Democrats on the subcommittee have charged the patents had the effect of "letting the company do 'timber mining' on a stand of trees they estimate is worth $250,000."

Republicans call the hearing an attempt to "smear" McKay and the Eisenhower administration.

Davis testified last week that issuance of the patents was entirely within the law. He said the company's application was one of more than 200 the previous administration had failed to act on.

Scott noted that Davis had testified that McKay brought up the Al Sarena case at several staff conferences in the interior department. Scott said he wants to know why McKay was interested in this particular one out of the 200-odd cases in the departmental backlog.

Bad Weather Is Blamed for Drone Crash

PORTERVILLE, Calif., Jan. 31 (AP)—The navy said today bad weather conditions were responsible for severing a guided missile from its control plane in flight and sending it crashing into an orange grove near a farmhouse.

The missile, described by a navy spokesman as a remote-controlled "drone" aircraft, spun to earth yesterday on a mission from an unclassified base in southern California's Mojave desert, about 85 air line miles south of here.

The pilotless plane plowed a furrow 25 feet long and eight feet deep through the orange grove close to the ranch house of Robert E. Wolfgram. Its fragments were scattered over a 100-yard area. There were no reports of injuries or other damage. A navy missile team rushed to the scene to retrieve the wreckage.

Any explosion that occurred was from the craft's fuel, the spokesman said.

According to the spokesman, the "major cause" for the missile getting away from its control plane was bad weather "encountered during a routine training mission or a test." The pilotless control plane, probably a jet, was guiding the drone's flight from "close wing position" at the time of the crash.

The navy would not release detailed information on the drone, saying it was classified. However, the spokesman said it was considered a type of guided missile because it is remote controlled.

Stevenson Notes Campaign Center

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 31 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, aspirant for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination, says the basic issue of the coming campaign will be "the practices of this administration of misleading the people."

The former Illinois governor, who appeared at the Phoenix Press club forum yesterday after addressing a joint session of the Arizona legislature, criticized "special interests" in the administration and its "erratic foreign policy."

In answer to a question about the recent supreme court decision desegregating public schools, Stevenson said he supported the action and hoped the whole nation would do so "in the course of time."

Reward Offered In Bomb Tossing

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 31 (AP)—City commissioners posted a $500 reward today for information leading to convictions for bombing of the home of a Negro leading a race boycott of city buses.

The three commissioners, all members of a pro-segregation white citizens council, went to the scene to supervise investigation after the bomb was tossed against the house last night.

The explosion damaged the front porch and blew out windows of the home of the Rev. M. L. King, occupied at the time by his wife, his small daughter, and a visitor. No one was reported injured.

Airmen Killed

BRANDON, England, Jan. 31 (AP)—Three U. S. airmen were killed and a fourth seriously injured when their B-45 bomber crashed and burned on a hill near here last night.

The four-jet bomber had been directed by weather from its home base at Seattle to an attempted landing at Lakenheath.

Labor Is Fighting Slated Fund Ban

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The AFL-CIO political education committee has blasted as "iron curtain" legislation a bill that would ban political contributions by labor unions.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R., Nebr., introduced the bill yesterday. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R., Ariz., chairman of the senate GOP campaign committee and critic of union political activities, co-sponsored it.

Curtis said the bill would preserve "the political freedom of the workers of the United States" and protect them from having their money "forcibly taken away from them for political purposes."

Co-director James L. McDevitt of the political education committee attacked the bill as "another step in the long campaign of some Republicans to punish labor for asserting its constitutional rights" in political activity.

WASHINGTON—The Democrats' chances of winning presidential elections would be improved immediately if pending proposals for constitutional revision of electoral college procedure were adopted. In fact, the Republicans would become a subordinate party, definitely and almost permanently, save in abnormal years, or when they produce a hero candidate like Ike Eisenhower.

The Truman-Dewey contest in 1948 would have been a tossup, instead of a 303-189 electoral victory for the Democrats, if the proposed reform had been in effect that year. In fact, with Strom Thurmond given a count based on his percentage vote, the decision would have been thrown into the house. Although Eisenhower bested Adlai E. Stevenson by an electoral tally of 442-89, it would have been a far closer race under an amended system.

As offered by Sen. Price Daniel of Texas and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, both Democrats, the change would give electoral weight to each party's popular strength within a state. Thus, if the minority nominee polled 40 per cent of the vote in a state with 20 electoral ballots, he would be credited with eight votes from that state in the presidential count.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG POT SHOTS

INFERNAL DEVICE
Naturally, our experience in the way of thermostats is somewhat limited, but observations lead us to the conclusion that a thermostat is a necessarily complicated gadget that never works.

For instance, the house won't heat a bit faster even though Mrs. Pot Shots turns the thermostat up to 60 degrees. It just isn't logical. Common sense would indicate the house should heat up much faster than if the thermostat is set at, say, 70 degrees.

It not only doesn't work out the way it should, but when the furnace is sufficiently warm, the blinking fur-nace just keeps on running. First thing you know, you have to go turn the thermostat down. And here again, the gadget demonstrates its shortcomings.

With the house so warm, it's only natural to expect you'd have to turn the thermostat down somewhat more than usual, say to about 60. And do you suppose the blinking furnace will start up before the house gets too cold?

Nope, that thermostat thing is an invention of the devil!

PUPS FOR KIDS DEPT.
Pot Shots:
We have six puppies we would like to give away. They are 2 1/2 months old and their mother and father are good stock dogs.

BUT WHO ARE THEY?
Dear Pot Shots:
I have been asked to put this in your column many times. It was taught me by my mother when I was a little girl. Each letter or the first letter of each word is the first letter of a President's last name. It will sure help to name the Presidents.

W.A. Jefferson made me a jolly villain. He told Polk that Fillmore would be a great assistance. Cleveland had called McKinley Roosevelt. Taft wished what Coolidge handed Roosevelt turned Eisenhower.

After Roosevelt you may give your version as I have.

FAMOUS LAST LINE

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

DEMOCRATS WOULD BE ODDS-ON WINNERS—The Democrats' supremacy in southern and border states in normal years adds to their advantage. The capture of several congressional seats by the Democrats and Dixon line, due largely to its popularity and to bitterness toward Truman, is dimmed by the scientific polls in this preview of possibilities.

This group of states has 140 electoral votes. Even allowing for a percentage credit to the Republicans in an Eisenhower-less contest, it is probable that they would provide at least 10 electoral ballots to a satisfactory Democratic nominee, especially in view of the supreme court's anti-segregation decision.

With this solid nucleus, and with the bonus percentage which they would enjoy in non-southern sections, the Democrats would be odds-on winners. They can capitalize on farm district electorates in the great clubs, as Truman did in 1948, the GOP would not have a chance.

REPUBLICAN PROPOSAL LESS HARMFUL TO GOP—The only enthusiastic Republican sponsor of this kind of constitutional change has been ex-Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge. But he has apparently dropped his crusade because of his duties as United States ambassador to United Nations. Moreover, house-senate bosses always regarded him as a political theorist rather than a member of the get-out-the-vote club.

The amendment proposed by Sen. Karl E. Mundt, South Dakota, and Rep. Frederic R. Goudert, Jr., New York, would be less harmful to the GOP. It would give two electoral votes to the party carrying a state and the remainder would be allocated on the basis of the outcome in each congressional district. But even this arouses Republican fears and suspicions.

The political minority, it appears, will continue to be disenfranchised and disregarded, as sponsors of the reform movement charge, for many more years.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

SUBVERTING THE PRESS
"The power to investigate, broad as it may be, is also subject to recognized limitations." Chief Justice Warren said in Quinn vs. United States. "It cannot be used to inquire into private affairs unrelated to a valid legislative purpose. Nor does it extend to an area in which congress is forbidden to legislate." The hearings conducted by the Eastland subcommittee during the past three days need to be considered in the light of this authoritative injunction by the supreme court. Whichever Sen. Eastland may say on the subject notwithstanding, his inquiry has certainly extended into an area in which the constitution explicitly forbids congress to make any law. Sen. Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., described the hearings, and Sen. Eastland agreed with him—as an effort to show "such attempts as may be disclosed on the part of the Communist party in the United States or elsewhere, indeed, to influence or to subvert the American Press."

This is an approach to the press which opens up fascinating, though dangerous, possibilities. It might afford a justification for some other committee of the senate to investigate selected newspapers in an effort to show such attempt as may be disclosed to influence or subvert them on the part, say, of the China lobby or the public utilities or the National Association of Manufacturers. It is perfectly possible that a reporter here or there has been a member of the Ku Klux Klan or has accepted a subsidy from some special interest group or is secretly working in behalf of a political party or candidate. Perhaps such persons ought to be weeded out of newspaper staffs. But the responsibility for weeding them out belongs, not to congress, but to the American system, to publishers and editors, not to congress.

Quite apart from the admittedly difficult question whether the constitution of the United States is breached by an investigation which impinges, as Sen. Eastland's does, upon the independence of the press, there is a fundamental question as to the prudence of such an inquiry. Sen. Eastland may think that the New York Times was influenced or subverted by Communists. Sen. X and Sen. Y and Sen. Z may think that other papers have been influenced or subverted by other agents or propagandists. But if they all start investigating in an effort to show "such attempt as may be disclosed" to influence or to subvert the American press, they will end by subverting it themselves. There will be precious little freedom of the press if newspapermen fear that they may be summoned before congressional committees and required to confess all their past vagaries and illusions. Whatever the constitutional rule may be, the whole of the American heritage cries out against this kind of congressional intrusion into the affairs of a press which needs, above all, to be independent of the government if it is to fulfill its essential censorial function.—Washington (D. C.) Post.

THE SECRETARY IS SORRY

A clerk in the department of agriculture pulled an egregious blunder when he put out a letter over Secretary Benson's signature commending an article in Harper's magazine that called the American farmer "our pampered tyrant." And none perhaps runs that error more deeply now than does that hapless clerk.

There was understandable outcry in congress over the secretary's apparent commutation of the rough-sloped, wholesale arrangement of the nation's farmers. If the secretary had, in fact, put himself on record with any such ridiculous endorsement of the magazine article, there certainly there would have been ample justification for Senator Humphrey's incalculable demand that he resign or be fired forthwith.

When the facts came out, there was only one thing for Secretary Benson to do. And he did it. As head of the department, he accepted responsibility although he had never seen the letter and knew nothing about it before its explosive disclosure. And he said that he was sorry.

It's a tribute to Secretary Benson's inherent honesty that congressional critics accepted his explanation without question.

One of the most wholesome and refreshing characteristics of the administration and its responsible officials is their willingness to take the blame of a mistake, instead of trying to sweep it under the carpet.

None is infallible and none escapes making mistakes except one who doesn't even try to do something.

The inexcusable thing is to fail to profit by mistakes and to commit the same error a second time. There has been remarkably little of that sort of thing in this administration.—Boise Statesman.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

John T. Flynn is a hero who should be lauded by every convocation of American editors and publishers not as any conceivable honor to him, for he is above their power to add to or detract, but as a surrogate for the purpose of ennobling the press by association.

"This pugacious rebel personifies the penalty that Al Smith had in mind when he sounded his warning, seldom ignored by journalists, politicians or preacher these days, that it was all right to lead reforms but futile to get so far in front of the parade that you can't hear the band."

In five years, perhaps sooner, Flynn's commentaries on the abandonment of American liberties will be vindicated by dawning realization in that clumsy, dangerous jumble of primitive emotions known as the public mind. However, not Flynn but those who are now belatedly and with jubilant outcries, discovering communism in organizations with religious labels, will claim the credit and collect royalties and fees for warmed-over versions of knowledge which he wrote into snarling prose in the forties.

Mr. Flynn has a cocky white plume and the pink, as though slightly pickled, complexion of an agency model holding up a snort of booze in the whiskey ads. His information on contemporary politics and economy is the greatest store of such treasure now available in one person and his knowledge of American history in the industrial age is not only vast but artfully applied to his works.

Mr. Flynn is not extinct, to be sure, but a journalism which should have scuffled for the privilege of presenting to its clientele the most intelligent and vehement observer of his time has shunned him to exalt graceless bores lacking principle, knowledge and skill.

It is not accident that the literary incompetence of the most successful Washington savants is readily conceded in favor of imbecile bragging of their entree to the homes of bureaucrats and their social parity with racketeers of the job-monopoly under Meany and Reuther. By a strange development since Hoover's time, the press corps has grown into a horde and the standard of expression has declined below the minimum formerly required by all editors of all country correspondents.

Millions of Neckties Sold for Yuletide Period, Writer Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his morning mail.

That some 75 million neckties were sold during Christmas season—and 85 per cent were bought by women.

That neckties run from 47 to 54 inches long, but the average is 50 inches.

That a survey estimated U. S. men lose 48 million dollars from their pockets each year—including 5 million dollars in taxes. But no one knows the staggering amount that wives take out of those same pockets overnight.

That—here's a warning—78 per cent of all highway accidents occur in clear weather, and 20 per cent of the nation's drivers cause 80 per cent of the accidents.

That there are about 250,000 vice presidents in U. S. industry. Is that all? Why they don't even outnumber bird watchers! The Bank of America is the corporate leader with 146. That a million cigars are put off every business hour during the year in this country.

That much of the bad temper in business results from "visual-communitis," a term the National Association for the Prevention of Blindness has coined to describe the eye strain suffered by commuters who read on locomotives and buses.

That some 100,000 children will have suffered eye accidents by the end of 1955—and now is the time to get rid of any sharp-pointed toys your children got for Christmas.

That in New Guinea bachelors still purchase a bride with human heads. Other people's heads, that's all. Only in America does a man lose both his heart and his own head in marriage.

That only six per cent of men believe baldness is a sign of greater intelligence. All I can say about the other 94 per cent is either are more modest than I am or they don't know the facts.

That Andy Jackson was the first President to travel by train. Theodore Roosevelt was the first to take an airplane ride, and Dwight Eisenhower is the only President to own a pilot's license.

That today there are three women clerical workers in American business offices to every man. If you want to meet the other sex to company time, girls, get a job in a factory.

That now is a good time to put in a postal box those Christmas cards your wife gave you to mail weeks ago.

Club Observes Charter Event

BURLEY, Jan. 31—The Burley Lions club celebrated its 18th charter night at a dinner and dance Saturday night at the Elks club. Speaker was Jack Russell, Jerome, district governor.

Calvin Lowe was toastmaster. Tallisters were Truman Bradley and Tom Church. Several charter members were introduced including Les Anderson, Salt Lake City; Robert Dimera, Willard Patterson and Harvey Rogers, Burley, R. M. Serpa, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Edna Sinclair, honorary charter member.

Serpa, international counselor, commended the Burley club on its recent gift of a seven-foot grand piano for the new high school auditorium.

Mrs. Lloyd Walker, Twin Falls, accompanied by Mrs. Pat Hamilton sang. The committee in charge of the party included Dr. J. R. Kirchner, chairman, Harvey Rogers, Earl Carlson, L. V. Morgan, Erie Robertson, Kales Lowe, Lloyd Douglas, Jess Parsons, Clint Walker, Garth Payne and Austin Baker, all past presidents of the group.

Event Planned

HAILEY, Jan. 31—Plans have been started by the Upper Big Hole River Grange for the first anniversary play in observing Hailey's 75th anniversary this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Johnson, chairman of the community service committee, have requested a special meeting be held to plan the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wilson, Jr. and Mrs. William Werry, Mr. and Mrs. John Reeder and Mr. and Mrs. Steven Dorchak have been appointed as a committee in charge of planning the celebration.

FOREIGN AID FIGHT
President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have begun their public campaign for a marked enlargement of foreign aid.

That is the real meaning of their call to Americans to "wake up" and defeat the Communists in the economic struggle that has now supplanted military combat in the cold war.

They know very well it is not news that this economic warfare exists. It has been going on at an increasing pace for some time.

But they also know that it will not be easy to get congress to approve heavier aid expenditures in 1956. There is a normal reluctance to spend more money in an election year, especially money that will not rebound directly to the benefit of lawmakers' home districts. Likewise, congress has grown progressively cooler to continued foreign aid as the years have passed.

On top of this, some of the administration's staunchest foreign aid supporters have this season signified a new attitude of reserve toward these expenditures. Foremost among them, of course, is Democratic Senator George of Georgia.

In 1955 his notably statesmanlike performance contributed mightily to the successful collaboration of a Republican President and a Democratic congress. But this time George himself is running for reelection, and he has problems.

His prime opponent in the Sept. 12 Georgia primary, tantamount to election, is former Georgia governor, Herman Talmadge. The latter is going up and down this state hammering against spending for foreign peoples. George has a battle on his hands, and he is playing the foreign aid issue cautiously.

George's caution is reminiscent of the change that came over former Senator Connally of Texas, onetime chairman of the foreign relations committee, when his political fences began to crumble.

In any event, alterations in the pro-foreign aid line-up have put Mr. Eisenhower and Dulles on notice that, even though they have allowed for some election year difficulties, these many surpass their worst imaginings.

Their appeal, initiated by a statement by Dulles for the American U. N. delegation, is beyond doubt aimed directly at the people over the heads of the lawmakers. If this and similar declarations strike their targets, congress may find itself under heavy pressure to provide the financial weapons the President wants to use in the economic war with Russia.

But if the administration's popular campaign misses its mark, there would seem to be slim hope for expanded foreign assistance in 1956. Then we would find that, whatever the state of the cold war, the rules of domestic politics had worked their way.

KNOWLAND IS IN

The entry of Senator William Knowland's name in the April 10 Illinois Republican primary gives the GOP presidential campaign its first competitive look. President Eisenhower's name already is in this race, and evidently neither he nor Knowland intends to withdraw.

This is also the first development on the Republican side which has not come within the control of the party's Eisenhower forces. Up to now they have managed to keep a tight rein.

The effect has been to delay or dissuade some possible candidates from getting into action. Filling deadlines for several primaries have gone by. During this long period of indecision respecting the President's intentions toward a second term, friends of Knowland have indicated more than once that the senator was growing impatient.

Recently, however, Mr. Eisenhower himself invited others in his party to step in, at the very moment he was making it plain he had no objection to the entry of his name in certain primaries. Perhaps this was all the Knowland forces needed to justify their breaking the barrier.

Anyway, Knowland is in. He can still get out quickly if Mr. Eisenhower should say he will run again. But by getting in now he serves notice to his party and the voters that if the President retires his own candidacy is a serious one.

Whatever the plans of the Eisenhower leadership in the party, Knowland's entry must surely have the effect of taking their thinking out of the casual stage. If they have their minds set on a particular replacement for the President—if it comes to that—then they are now that specific maneuver in his behalf must be speedily shaped.

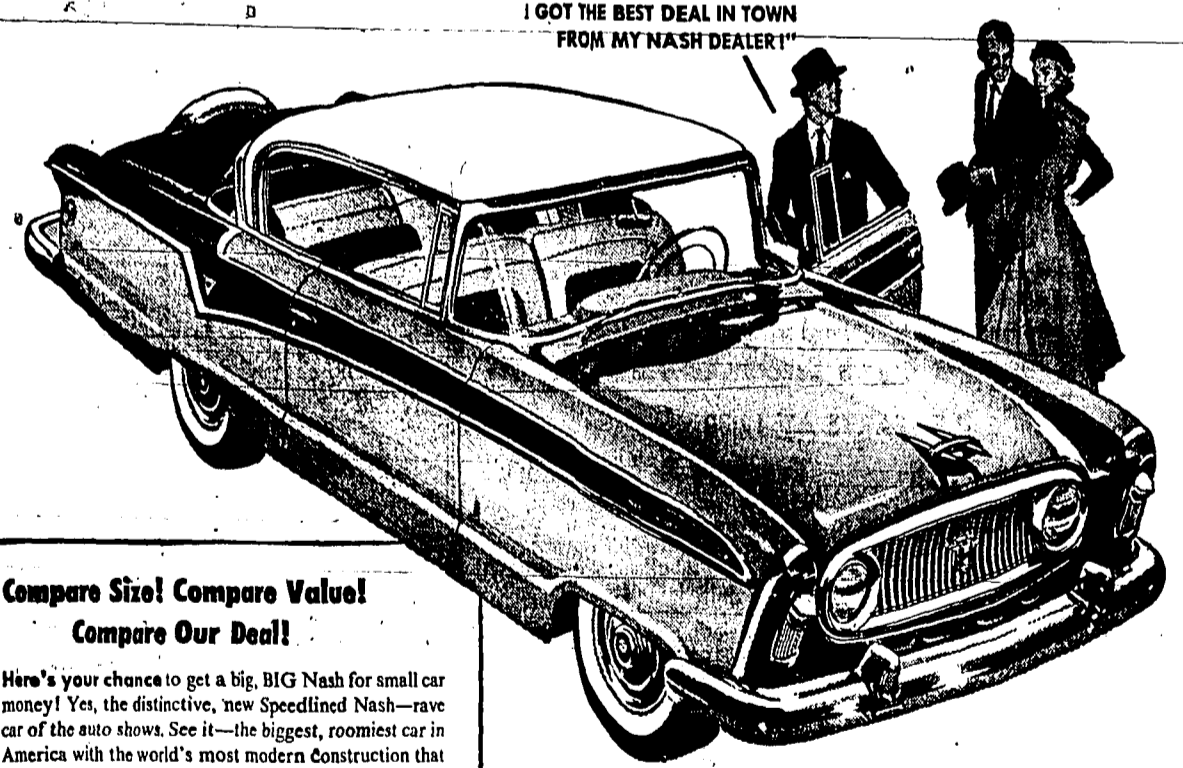

Should Mr. Eisenhower men have instead merely a list of potential candidates to substitute for the President, then this development should induce them to narrow their choice in preparation for a contest.

No one can say at this time how much strength may rally around Knowland if Mr. Eisenhower rules out a second term and the lists are open. He already has a strong appeal to the party's more conservative elements. Whether this is enough to enable him to take the nomination, or even make a real fight of it, is not yet apparent.

But this event in Illinois is a message to many in the party that there are at least some elements in its ranks which will resist the idea of handing the nomination to anybody on a platter. Anybody, that is, except Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Labor's Help May Be Lost To Democrat

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson's handlers had better take a fast look at their candidate's labor relations. Some things seem to be wrong there.

Michigan's Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams has been in Washington. Publicly on two occasions he gave Stevenson a political hotfoot fit to arouse a wooden Indian.

Expands Theme
Williams said first that on the basis of Stevenson's recent campaign tactics he could not support him for next August's Democratic presidential nomination. Later, in an off-the-cuff speech before the National Press Club, Williams expanded on the idea.

He objected to Stevenson's statement of some weeks ago that the time had come for moderation in politics. Moderation, he said, would do nothing to help the club lynch. He said the Democrats must have a bold and courageous program.

Harriman Whacks
Gov. Averell Harriman of New York also has whacked Stevenson on charges of being a political moderate. Harriman said there was no place in the Democratic party for moderation.

The herd fact which puts zing in Williams' words is that he is the political pal of one of the most powerful politically-minded leaders in the wide, wide world. His pal is Walter Reuther, head man of the automotive workers and boss of the CIO until it was merged with AFL. Reuther now is vice president of the merged giant.

Needs Support
It would be just short of miraculous for any man to win this year's Democratic presidential nomination against the combined left wing opposition master-minded by Reuther and his CIO sharpshooters.

They are not only skilled in labor organization, but in political organization, as well. It remains to be seen whether the AFL part of merged labor agrees with Williams. It is possible, of course, but not likely that Williams spoke without consultation with Reuther.

Britain Depressed By New Romance

ARCO, Jan. 31 (AP)—An Arco bank cashier has received a letter from a famous London columnist saying the English have been "deeply depressed by the talkative heartthrob behavior" of the John P. Kellys since their daughter Grace became engaged to Prince Rainier.

The comments were received by Mrs. Marc Hoebel Porter of Arco from Candidus of the London Daily Sketch. Mrs. Porter wrote the columnist an angry letter after Candidus said the proposed wedding gave him "the biggest pain in the neck."

She said Americans were "fed up for years with Princess Meg and her off-again-on-again romances with Lord this and that."

Candidus answered by saying the Kellys, because they were from Philadelphia, were expected to show "a standard of decorum, dignity and discretion... that is why we are so deeply depressed by the talkative heartthrob behavior of the Kellys."

"Now if they had come from Baltimore..."

Newspapers' Ads Hailed by Banker

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 31 (AP)—Newspaper advertising was described yesterday by a banker as "naturally" the backbone of any advertising program" by savings institutions.

Daniel W. Hogan, Jr., Oklahoma City, vice president of the American Bankers' association, said small, eye-catching ads "can sell savings accounts, especially if they are run frequently."

Hogan suggested a picture series of "human interest pictures of your customers reaping the rich rewards of their savings accounts when they buy that new home or sail for Europe."

Idaho's "Bachelor Buffaloes" Are Out on Prowl Near Town

ASHTOON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The "bachelor buffaloes" of Idaho are on the prowl again.

The behavior of the migrating bison, although the cause for tall tales in this area, apparently is no more than can be expected of this species.

The authoritative "Mammals of North America," by Victor H. Cahalene, has this to say about bison: "Frequently two, three or even more mature bachelor bulls will form a little club. Wandering about together they seem to get just enough companionship without manifesting any visible camaraderie."

Cahalene also notes that "other buffaloes are solitary hermits and have nothing to do with their kind."

This would account for the behavior of the original bull in the bachelor herd. He stuck around here a winter or two before coming back with a sidekick.

Buffaloes have been known to permit curiosity seekers to approach within 100 yards of them before either running away or charging. At other times, the animals have stampeded when anybody came within a half mile of them. For a few steps, buffaloes are as fast as a cow pony and almost as agile.

P. J. McDermott, Jr., chief of conservation enforcement for the fish and game department, says his personnel isn't taking any chances with the tickle animals.

"They're plenty dangerous," he says. "Besides, they charge with their eyes open. Even the maddest barnyard bull won't do that."

The state fish and game department, which keeps a motherly but wary watch over the enigmatic herd, is afraid it might have to corral Idaho's only wild buffaloes for the winter if they don't stay away from civilization.

The bison as they're correctly called (remember your grade school history)—wander down from their native habitat in Yellowstone park as winter comes on. They forage on the eastern Idaho grasslands where the weather is less severe than in the park. Apparently they do their mating when they return home for the bulls have never been seen in the company of cows in Idaho.

Anticipating the annual return of the animals, the fish and game department set up a feeding ground at Greentimber seven miles from here. There baled hay is tossed out in an effort to keep the buffaloes in an area where they won't endanger anyone.

Last year Game Refuge Manager Dick Wilson found out how unpredictable the bulls could be. As he was throwing hay out of his pickup, one of the bulky monsters (they range from 1,500 to 3,000 pounds) took out after Wilson instead of the hay.

Atomic Plane Engine Tests Set in Idaho

Gerard to be operated at a point sufficient to test out radiation shielding, cooling systems, the fitting of the engine configuration and weight into a big aircraft and other features.

"The AEO also announced that 'Project Sherwood'—the long range effort to tame the fierce hydrogen bomb and make it produce peaceful power as was done with the nuclear fission bomb—has been 'greatly expanded' since 1949.

But, the commission cautioned, "many years of intensive theoretical and experimental effort will be required before the first prototype of an operating thermonuclear machine is developed."

It pointed out some examples of the problem of increasing the fusion process, included was the question of how to create a temperature of several million degrees to bring about nuclear fusion and hold that heat long enough to provide continuing controlled fusion. The present hydrogen bombs are fired by the million degree temperatures as hot as the sun, but that temperature exists for only a split-second before the bomb detonates.

The commission did not mention another obvious problem—creating a metal that would resist such terrific heat.

Discussing the now ordinary atom-fission reactor, the AEO said the program for further development of industrial and naval reactors made "significant progress" during the past six months. In that time, the various reactors development projects involved expenditures of $62,300,000.

In a terse section on weapons, the AEO said little except that the 1950 spring series of nuclear tests in Nevada "opened new and promising avenues for weapons research and development."

The Sawtooth company offered to supply and install the beds and hoist for $2,315.

Other business included payment of current bills and approval of the monthly payroll; reading and approval of departmental reports and approval of a building permit.

City Manager Joseph Latimore told the commission he expected to have a report from Ralph Walstrom, Portland, on zoning recommendations for the city within two weeks. Walstrom recently made a three-day survey of the city to prepare the commission with material for drafting a new zoning ordinance.

U. S. Payment Of 1849 Debt Is Requested

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31 (AP)—The only living grandchild of Capt. John A. Sutter renewed hope today for U. S. payment of a debt owing since the forty miners swarmed on the family's land during the California gold rush.

The forty miners poured over Captain Sutter's Sacramento valley "empire" and ripped open his land for gold. He never favored the gold rush, and died in Washington in 1880 seeking compensation for the land that was his by right of Mexican grant.

Rep. J. Arthur Younger, R., Calif., asked congress yesterday to vote $50,000 to Mrs. William F. Young, 68, the former Anna F. Sutter, and to Sutter's 25 great-grandchildren.

Younger said congress in 1876 and again in 1880 recognized Sutter's claim as "just and proper." He said payment was put off in the rush of other business.

"Too Poor" Then
Anna said the country was probably "too poor" to pay the claim then.

Captain Sutter's son, John, Jr., was appointed by President Lincoln as American consul in Acapulco, Mexico. He had six children—all now deceased except Anna.

"I was only 9 when my father died of pneumonia there in Mexico," she said. "We were taken from Mexico on an American warship when the U. S. intervened in the Mexican war."

Live on Pension
She and her husband, a retired carpenter, live in a small rented home in suburban Daly City.

"We have only a pension," she said, "a little from the veterans, old age and social security. If we get the money, I would like a little home of my own."

"But I have been disappointed so often," Mrs. Young added, "and we are so old—this will be the last time."

Called "Destiny"
"It was just destiny," she said, that gold was discovered at Coloma, a community on her grandfather's land. Captain Sutter, a Swiss emigrant, had set up a great fort and 80 different industries in the building of a "New Helvetia" in the rich California valley.

When gold was discovered thousands of wealth-seekers poured into the area. Sutter's own workmen dropped their tools and began digging for the nuggets. The captain spurned the lure of golden fortunes. He persisted in his dream of a rich agricultural and industrial future for California—a dream now realized in the rich orchards and industries of the Sacramento valley. But his land was seized by the gold-seekers.

"My mother, Nicola, used to tell me about those days," Mrs. Young said. "She told me the captain was not bitter. Things were very upset in those days."

Japan Silent on Accepting Rose

TOKYO, Jan. 31 (AP)—The chief of the immigration bureau today refused to say whether Japan will accept U. S.-born "Tokyo Rose" if she is deported by the United States.

"We will make a decision when we are faced with the actuality," said Fujio Uchida, chief of the justice ministry's immigration bureau.

"Off hand I would say it appears strange that the U. S. government should start deportation proceedings against her when she was born in the U. S. and is an American citizen," he said.
