Utah Governor Sees Freedom's Loss for People

GOODING, Feb. 11—Although the Constitution was written to protect the rights of the people, they are in danger of losing their freedom, Utah Gov. J. Bracken Lee told a Lincoln day GOP banquet here Saturday night. "The Constitution was written to limit the power of people in public office but gradually the people in office have been exceeding their powers and now the people stand in danger of losing their freedom. Because of the limited capacity of the IOOF hall where the dinner was served, admission was limited to 300 persons. A luncheon in honor of Governor and Mrs. Lee was served at 2 p.m.

Chief of Firm Gives Alleged Bribe to Case

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—The $25,000 cash "campaign donation" rejected by Sen. Francis Case, R., S.D., at the height of the hot fight over the natural gas bill came from the president of an oil and gas company, senate investigators learned today.

Attorney Testifies

Wm. Patman, an Austin, Tex., lawyer for Superior Oil, testified he happened to have some "personal funds" belonging to Case, and used them to make the $25,000 contribution. He turned the money over to John M. Neff, lawyer-lobbyist, who gave it in the form of 25 $100 bills to a friend of Case's in Sioux Falls, S.D.

Neff declined Patman produced the money after Neff expressed belief Case would support the bill. Both Neff and Patman denied the gift had anything to do with the bill.

Suspected Profits

Case told the senate the contribution made him suspect there must be "extraordinary profits" for somebody in the bill, which would exempt natural gas producers from direct federal regulation. He voted against the bill Friday, but he passed the senate and is now on President Eisenhower's desk.

The principal business of Superior Oil company is crude oil and natural gas. Foes of the gas legislation charged it would cost consumers millions in higher gas bills; backers of the legislation denied this, and said the measure was necessary to encourage exploration for gas.

Growth and Progress for Idaho Are on Increase, Expert Avers

Idaho is on the move. Should there ever be any doubt of that a quick glance at a report compiled by Orland C. Mayer, Boise, director of industrial development division of Idaho Power company, would convince a person of the error in his thinking. Mayer used the report as the basis for his talk at the annual banquet of the Southern Idaho Contractors association at the Turf club Friday night.

State Sale of Guernseys Is Set for Filer

The 10th annual state 4-H and FFA registered Guernsey cattle sale, sponsored by the Idaho Guernsey Breeders association, will be held April 14 at the Twin Falls county fairgrounds at Filer, reports Jack Farrar, publicity chairman.

The association sponsors the sale to enable boys and girls to start in the cattle business without too much expense.

All purchased animals to be auctioned have been picked by a committee of Guernsey experts. They are consigned by various purebred Guernsey breeders throughout the state at the bidder's price.

Helpers must be under 30 months of age, vaccinated against bang's disease and be free of tuberculosis.

Only 4-H and FFA members or their authorized representatives may bid. By-bidding is prohibited and the violation will be reported to the American Guernsey Cattle club, Farrar said.

Walter Mathiesen, Filer, this year's sale manager, reported about 75 head have been promised so far with a few more expected before the sale.

Each of the animals is of will be registered with the AACC and the transfer of ownership for each will be furnished by the purchaser.

Mathiesen said these animals in addition to making good projects for the children are helping to improve the dairy herds particularly in this area.

Take Chains

Persons planning to take the Magic Valley tour to Magic mountain, described on Page 17 of today's Times-News, are urged to equip their automobiles with chains.

Although the road is in good condition and the grade fairly gradual, there are some icy spots on the road and approximately two inches of new snow fell Saturday, giving the area six inches of new snow in the last two days.

Automobiles equipped with good snow tires can make the trip to the top with no difficulty but it might be advisable to toss a pair of chains into the trunk.

Cautious drivers of cars with ordinary tires probably will want to stop at the checking station to put on chains.

There now are 68 inches of snow at the base of Magic mountain, 78 inches on top and the skiing is reported "excellent."

Winter Blasts Still Paralyze Europe Areas

LONDON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Blizzards scourged western Europe today. They sent four ships aground and brought fresh torrents to the disastrous two-week freeze-up. The death toll mounted to 269.

Two royal air force helicopters swooped out of the snows to rescue 10 British seamen clinging to the side of the grounded tugboat, the 692-Rumania. The Rumania, keeled over on the treacherous Long Sand 15 miles off the English east coast as it tried to pull off the grounded Brazilian freighter Loido-Non-duna.

Service Clubs Vie for Honors in Donating Blood

Presidents of three Twin Falls service clubs get a preview of the king-sized valentine to be awarded the service club sending the largest number of blood donors when the Red Cross bloodmobile visits here on Tuesday, St. Valentine's day. The Rev. Norman Stockwell, blood bank chairman, displays valentine. Looking it over are, from left, E. H. Heap, president of the Exchange club; Donald Steidley, Lions club president, and C. R. Higgins, Rotary president. Also competing for the valentine are the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis club. The bloodmobile will stop at the Legion hall from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday. The quota is 200 pints of blood. (Staff photo-engraving)

All-Out Efforts for Blood Quota Urged

Twin Falls residents were urged Saturday to make an all-out effort to fill this community's quota of 200 pints of blood Tuesday when the Red Cross bloodmobile stops here. The bloodmobile will be set up at the Legion hall from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Special efforts have been pledged by the LDS church, doctors, lawyers, Granges of the Twin Falls vicinity, local banks and service clubs.

Why, Teacher?

REDDING, Calif., Feb. 11 (AP)—A seventh grade science teacher at Sequah elementary school has a problem.

"In a diet experiment his class fed a white rat nothing but candy, cake and sweets. Another rat was given a carefully prepared 'balanced diet,' like all good children should eat. The rat with the sweet tooth is doing fine but his properly fed buddy died."

Free transportation to and from the Legion hall will be provided by the Bob Reese Motor company, Hopkins announced. Members of the Twin Falls chapter, Order of DeMolay, will unload and load bloodmobile equipment. No. 61, sponsored by the Methodist church, volunteered to distribute posters in the business district.

Hopkins urged individual citizens not to give up plans to donate blood because special efforts have been pledged by several groups. He pointed out that Twin Falls donated only 192 pints of blood, eight below the quota, when the bloodmobile stopped here on Dec. 19.

Mollet Finds French Ire Is Flaring High

PARIS, Feb. 11 (AP)—Premier Guy Mollet returned tonight from rebellion-ton Algeria and found a stone-throwing demonstration in progress against any French concessions to Arab nationalists.

About 1,000 demonstrators, most of them of student age but including many French Indo-Chinese war veterans, scuffled with police on the busy Champs Elysees. At least 100 demonstrators were arrested.

Meeting Called Immediately upon his arrival Mollet called a cabinet meeting to report on his findings in Algeria and offer his ideas for halting violence by Arabs demanding self-rule.

The 15-month-old Algerian revolt already has taken a heavy toll in hundreds, if not thousands, of lives.

Mollet, whose experience in Algeria included a shower of rotten tomatoes opposing Arab concessions, was conferring with French President Rene Coty only a few blocks from the scene of tonight's demonstration.

Defy Bans The shouting demonstrators, defying a bitterly cold wind as well as a police ban, smashed glass windows in the office of L'Express. This is the newspaper identified with former Premier Pierre Mendes-France, state minister in Mollet's cabinet and with him a leader in the left-of-center Republican front movement.

To much of the French public, Mollet and Mendes-France represent a policy of reaching agreement with North African nationalists through compromise.

Still Critical

BETHESDA, Md., Feb. 11 (AP)—The condition of Idaho Secretary of State Ira H. Masters was "slightly improved" but his name remained on the critical list, a spokesman at the National Health Institute said today.

The 78-year-old official came here Oct. 26 for treatment of cancer. He underwent surgery Nov. 21 and his condition became critical Dec. 24.

Evaluation of School Is Finished by Team

GOODING, Feb. 11—As the four-man evaluating team wound up its study of the State School for the Deaf and Blind here Saturday, Federal District Judge Fred Taylor, Boise, brought to a close another phase of the controversy that has been raging about the school for several months. Judge Taylor signed an order dismissing, without costs, the $100,000 libel action Dr. Burton W. Driggs, the school's superintendent, had brought against the Salt Lake Tribune. Dr. Driggs had based his suit on a story published on Oct. 8.

Roads Board Might Rehire Fired People

BOISE, Feb. 11 (AP)—Wayne Summers, secretary of the state highway board, said today the state highway department hopes to rehire many of the 128 employees it dropped last month if congress comes through with an accelerated road building program.

The department stripped off nine per cent of its field force and 13 per cent of its Boise staff in January because of an unexpected shortage in the salary budget for the biennium.

There is "a good possibility" that congress will appropriate more funds this year for federal highway spending in Idaho and other states, Summers said, and in that case some of the employees would "no doubt" be taken back.

He said there was no indication when such a federal program would be launched.

A board spokesman had said earlier that department officials used efficiency as a standard for deciding who should be let out.

PUC Reopens Rate Case for Idaho Phones

BOISE, Feb. 11 (AP)—The state public utilities commission Monday reopens a rate case which shocks the state supreme court two years ago and brought a two-million dollar refund to the telephone users of southern Idaho.

It is the three-year-old application of Mountain States telephone and Telegraph company for a rate increase for its 120,000 Idaho subscribers south of the Salmon river.

The company has been in and out of the courts and the PUC since early 1953 in an effort to get the new rates, which it claims are essential for continued expansion of its Idaho service.

It finally got PUC approval of a temporary increase last July, but not before the supreme court had ordered it to refund some two million dollars in higher rates collected.

Hunt Farmer Asks Ranger-Naturalist's Advice for Dealing With Jackrabbits

Little problems sometimes combine to make big ones. A jackrabbit, for example, may be a nuisance but he doesn't become a problem until he has been multiplied and re-multiplied several thousand times.

That's the plight in which Dee J. Poole, Hunt farmer, has found himself. He and a few other farmers on the Hunt project have a rabbit problem that goes beyond the imagination of those never confronted by it. Its problems became so acute he wrote to Eugene Burns, ranger-naturalist whose column appears in the Times-News, asking for advice.

Poole, the "D. J. P." in Burns' column appearing on the editorial page of the Times-News today, has done

No Inquest Planned in Auto Death

No inquest is planned in the traffic death of a 43-year-old Boise man killed at 7:30 p.m. Friday on highway 30 one-fourth of a mile west of Hansen. Wolsen L. Layne, a patient at state hospital south, Blackfoot, was killed by a cattle truck driven by Smith Rosen, route 2, Twin Falls.

The death pushed the toll for Magic Valley to five for 1956 and raised the state count to 21 for the year. The accident was investigated by State Patrolman Howard Carr and Deputy Sheriff Paul Ross.

Rosen told him the victim was apparently trying to hitchhike a ride. He said the man was walking along the right side of the highway and that he did not see him before the truck struck him. Carr said officials at the state hospital verified that Mr. Layne was a patient there. He was to have undergone surgery Saturday.

Traffic Death Scoreboard

Here is a comparison of traffic fatalities as of this date for 1955 and 1956 for Magic Valley and for the entire state:

|--------------------|----|
| Magic Valley, 1955 | 1 |
| Magic Valley, 1956 | 5 |
| Idaho, 1955 | 5 |
| Idaho, 1956 | 23 |

Attendants at the hospital were unaware Layne had left the grounds until they were notified of his death.

Layne's mangled body was picked up from along the highway and taken to Magic Valley Memorial hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Early identification was made by letters in the victim's pockets and by hospital marks in his clothing. Carr stated he could see no evidence of criminal negligence on the part of Rosen. He said the victim was walking on the wrong side of the road.

Gloomy Skies Are Forecast in State Area

By The Associated Press Gloomy skies continued snow or rain and slightly warmer weather were on the weatherman's books for Idaho Sunday.

Scattered light snow fell over the Intermountain area Saturday. In Idaho the storm dumped almost a foot of snow on mountain roads but was much less in the lower elevations.

Travelers Warned

The state highway department warned travelers that roads would be dangerous particularly in the upper Snake river valley and in the far north Panhandle.

Up to eight inches fell between Pocatello and the Wyoming state line and roads were icy in the Idaho Falls and Arco areas.

In Magic Valley the highway department reported a broken snow floor around Strevell and icy conditions on most roads.

Minimum readings Saturday morning were about 10 to 15 degrees higher than a day earlier except for Idaho Falls, where it was 5 above zero.

Lewiston Will Host GOP and Demo Rallies

BOISE, Feb. 11 (AP)—The Republican state central committee announced today the GOP state delegate convention will be in Lewiston on April 14. The decision was made at a meeting of the central committee in Boise.

Although the decision was unanimous, bids for the affair had been submitted by Twin Falls, Moscow and Coeur d'Alene. Traditionally the delegate convention is assigned to a city in north Idaho.

However in 1952 it was held in Idaho Falls and is being held in Lewiston for the first time in many years.

Idaho Democrats also will hold their convention in Lewiston but up to now haven't set the date.

The state conventions name delegates to the national conventions and elect a national committeeman and committeewoman.

Missing Man Is Object for River Search

Members of the Twin Falls and Gooding county sheriff's offices searched Snake river near Oweley bridge in Hagerman valley all day Saturday for the body of Jerry Teschmidek, 44, Castleford.

Teschmidek, reported missing since noon Thursday by his wife, is believed to have taken his own life. Mrs. Teschmidek told officers he has been despondent for several days.

Scouring of the river near the bridge and a diversion dam will be resumed Sunday morning. Sheriff James H. Benham said Saturday.

Dragging with grappling hooks from boats failed to yield a trace of the man Saturday.

An overshoot owned by Teschmidek was found on an abutment of the bridge and another in the water. His pickup truck was parked north of the bridge. The truck was reported at the bridge since about 2 p.m. Thursday.

He was reported seen at Silgar's service station near Thousand Springs around 2 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Teschmidek said her husband wore a red flannel shirt, overalls over light gray trousers, a light tan coat, brown cap and brown oxfords. He weighed around 200 pounds, has dark complexion with dark hair and brown eyes.

Sheriff Benham said more men will be recruited Sunday to search near the bridge and along the river banks.

President Has Full Exams in Army Hospital

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower spent 70 minutes today at the army's Walter Reed hospital where physicians completed a new series of medical tests on him.

The results to be announced in three or four days, could be a big factor in whether he seeks reelection.

Kisses Friend A smile on the President's face as he left the hospital broke into a broad grin when he recognized the wife of an old army friend and planted a kiss on her cheek.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, announced after the hospital visit that a team of top flight doctors had completed medical tests which included X-rays, fluoroscopic studies, a blood chemistry analysis, and a cardiogram tracing heart performance, and repair of heart damage since Eisenhower's attack last Sept. 24.

Doctors to Meet On Tuesday the doctors will get together for consultations based on results of the medical tests. They will make public their findings either that same day or Wednesday morning.

This was the first full-scale physical examination the President had undergone since mid-December.

New Blizzard Flays Island; 21 Are Killed

TOKYO, Feb. 11 (AP)—A raging blizzard lashed the main island of Honshu for the third straight day today, blocking road and rail lines and triggering an avalanche that crushed 21 workmen to death.

Nearly two-fifths of the island was blanketed in snow, with drifts up to 18 feet in some localities.

Snow was piling high on mountain slopes and threatening to isolate communities in Nagano, Niigata and Akita prefectures.

Trains were running hours late and weather forecasters predicted possibly 24 hours more of snow.

The 21 workers died when an avalanche crushed a frail cookhouse under tons of ice and snow Friday. The fall virtually wiped out a power company construction site at the base of "Cat's Throat" mountain, 150 miles northwest of Tokyo.

California Solon Lauds Ike's Plan

BOISE, Feb. 11 (AP)—Rep. Patrick J. Hillings, R., Calif., said tonight President Eisenhower's farm program now before congress will "improve the farm situation in the next few months" if enacted in its entirety.

He spoke to nearly 1,000 persons at the annual Boise Lincoln day dinner.

Hillings, who was Vice President Nixon's personal representative during the 1952 campaign, said the GOP plan offers a "positive program to reduce the terrible surpluses amounting to more than six billion dollars."

Two Bureaus Tangle About Sphere Issue

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—A sort of ill wind is blowing between the state and defense departments on the question of balloons.

The problem involves the high-altitude weather balloons Russia claims the United States is floating over the Iron Curtain for espionage purposes after Russia lodged a protest this week, the air force says.

According to reports circulating in the Pentagon, the air force's action misled Secretary of State John Foster Dulles a little. He was reported to have called Air Secretary Donald A. Quarles to complain.

It was understood that Dulles told Quarles that because the balloons had drifted into the realm of diplomacy, the air force should be careful what it says about them. Later a state department official called the Pentagon and asked the military to lay off the subject entirely.

The air force public information office promptly imposed a blackout on balloon news. But the defense department was less impressed.

However, after further consultations between the two departments, defense spokesmen agreed to go along with the state department's wishes.

In another development, the Voice of America announced yesterday it has "opened all lines" to Russia to broadcast the U.S. reply to the Soviet balloon charges. A spokesman said the Soviet government has not yet informed the Russian people of the U.S. note sent three days ago explaining that the only purpose of the balloons is to gather weather information.

Under the accord, direct French administration of the country was ended as of today. But the French resident general will retain the right of control of the Moroccan executive.

Utah's Leader Views Loss of U.S. Freedom

He to you and yet you turn around and reelect them," he accused.

The governor said it was wrong for government to guarantee the farmer or any other group one cent and the audience, a part of which was farmers, applauded wildly.

Lee maintained the people have created "an octopus" in government which might eventually destroy them.

"The bureaucrats own the public buildings—you don't," he said.

The Utah governor also lashed out at the United Nations, saying that in "our new intellectual thinking we teach love of the United Nations but not love of country."

He said this country had kept the balance in power in England by giving them this country's tax dollars and then asked, "How would you like it if England gave money to this country to keep the Democrats in power?"

He said some people in this country are trying to destroy the nation by breaking it. He urged his listeners to demand to go back to the Constitution and to curb the powers of government before it's too late. He asked them to refuse subsidies and with the refusal to tell the government not to give the money to someone else.

"People don't get better by appealing to their weaker natures," he said, "they get better only by appealing to their strength."

Pickets Slated for Waterfront Battle

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11 (AP)—A major waterfront battle appeared possible today as the Masters, Mates and Pilots union threatened pickets and other action if steam schooners are not union-deck officers to replace strikers.

Capt. C. F. May, west coast president of the striking union, said strikers would refuse to return to their jobs aboard the vessels and that pickets would be posted if the Shipowners Association of the Pacific made good its threat to hire non-union men in the event no settlement is reached by Wednesday.

If the association lets the ships sail despite picket lines, the union will appeal to the national AFL-CIO executive council, May said.

George Olson, president of the association, announced yesterday that officials of four maritime unions have assured him their membership will work steam schooners with non-striking masters and mates as long as "they are employed under union conditions."

Thirty-three bred girls brought an average of $69.44 each. Six fall boars sold for an average of $48.66. The total sale for 40 pigs was $2,603.

The disappearance was discovered at the evening checkup about 5 p.m. Warden Clapp said Bauer had left his prison clothes in a shack on the farm.

Union Chiefs Relax, Fish in Warm Waters

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 11 (AP)—The AFL-CIO executive council recessed its mid-winter conference today for a week-end of boating and sunshine.

The union chiefs, representing some 16 million members, planned to fish in the gulf stream and relax on the beach before resuming sessions Monday. AFL-CIO President George Meany said he would be "laid up" over the week-end but did not say with whom he would meet.

Announce Agreement
Meany and Charles R. Sligh, chairman of the executive committee of the National Association of Manufacturers, announced agreement on Feb. 23 for a top-level conference between labor and management.

The meeting will be in Washington, Sligh, in Boca Raton, Fla., for the NAM executive council meetings, wired Meany after the AFL-CIO president telephoned him earlier in the day.

The powerful council wound up the fifth day of closed-door discussions yesterday by issuing a statement blasting the federation for constitutional government for "economic boycott and intimidation of Negroes."

Leaders Vargued
The union charged several unnamed southern governors, congressmen and U.S. senators, judges and state politicians are members of a new "hate mongering Ku Klux Klan" organization.

Meany said the federation is made up of white citizens councils now organized in 44 states to fight the U.S. supreme court's anti-segregation ruling.

Dworshak Flays Plant for Ogden

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—Senator Dworshak, R., Ida., has protested the award of an air force contract to the Marquardt Aircraft company, Van Nuys, Calif., to build a jet engine plant in Ogden, Utah, an aide said today.

The air force announced approval Tuesday of a proposal by Marquardt to construct facilities in the vicinity of Ogden for production of ram jet engines.

The aide said Dworshak discussed the Marquardt development with Air Force Undersecretary Douglas who promised to investigate.

He said Dworshak protested the concentration of defense installations in Ogden. He said the senator suggested use of the Pocatello naval ordnance plant at Pocatello or its lease to private contractors.

Demos Called "Sloganeers" By Governor

PALO ALTO, Calif., Feb. 11 (AP)—Republican Gov. Robert E. Smylie of Idaho tonight branded the Democrats as "a collection of outworn sloganeers" who will never be able to unite in a program to all Americans.

"The man we choose to carry our banner" will talk "plain common American sense," Smylie said in a speech prepared for delivery to the convention of California's Young Republican federation.

Fourth Speech Given

It was Smylie's fourth speaking appearance in three days. He delivered the fifth and final address of his west coast tour at a Lincoln day banquet before the western day banquet, Republican club in Washington, Wash., Monday.

In his remarks to the young Republicans, Smylie reiterated his belief in the assets of youth in politics and again lauded President Eisenhower's program of "dynamic conservatism."

Predicts Failure

He said "half" the opposition was trying to "masquerade in the garments" of this conservatism but predicted their tactics would not work. "It will take more than a samour's flag of moderation to confuse the people," Smylie said. "And they will reject out of hand the left wing excesses. There is a history to cope with. You can't fool Americans that easily."

Tells Thrill

The 42-year-old Idaho governor, who is considered a likely choice for keymaster at the national Republican convention in San Francisco in August, remarked "less than 10 years ago I remember being completely thrilled by the prospect of attending my first state party convention as a delegate, chosen to represent the young Republicans of my county."

"And now, even though the know has not begun to show on the mountain, I'm past your age limit," said Smylie, who has a full head of dark hair.

Contractors Hear Power Firm Official

valued at 28 million dollars. In 1955 there were $506,831,000 in actual or inflated dollars on deposit in Idaho banks while the constant dollars on deposit amounted to 268 million dollars. He estimates there will be 600 million actual dollars on deposit in 1960 while the number of constant dollars will be 310 million dollars.

The per capita personal income in 1920 was $577 in actual dollars and $399 in constant dollars, while in 1960 he predicts the income will be $1,525 in actual dollars and $775 in constant dollars.

Measured in terms of total personal income, the total in 1920 was 249 million dollars in actual dollars and $171,810,000 in constant dollars. In 1960 he estimates the total will be 950 million dollars in actual dollars and 500 million dollars in constant dollars.

Retail sales in the state amounted to 165 million dollars in actual dollars and 139 million dollars in constant dollars. Total sales in 1954 amounted to $78,782,000 in actual dollars, compared to 360 million dollars in constant dollars again.

Idaho never has been known as a manufacturing state, yet the number of persons working in industry in the state has risen from 1,500 in 1900 to 23,700 in 1953. Mayer's survey shows. These age earners took home $318,000 in actual dollars or $1,063,400 in constant dollars in 1950 and in 1953 their total wages were $87,781,000 in actual dollars and $45,700,000 in constant dollars.

With 1939 as the base year for measuring the value of the dollar Idaho workers earned approximately 12 million dollars and produced goods valued at 90 million dollars, Mayer's survey shows.

While it is generally known that Idaho is a top-ranking potato state, few people know the state grows one-third of the nation's peas, that it leads the nation in yield per acre for hops, that it is third in the country in the production of sugar beets, that it leads the nation in per acre yield of both corn and hybrid corn seed, that it is fourth in the production of beans and first in yield per acre, that it is first in the per acre yield of oats, that it is sixth in the production of barley and top of the list with $68,902,000 and potatoes were second with $26,594,000. Sugar beets stood at $17,254,000 for third place and dry beans fourth at $15,596,000.

As with crops, there are many little known facts about livestock production in Idaho, Mayer says in his survey. For example, the dairy industry represents a 50 million dollar annual income for the state. Idaho produced 32 million pounds of butter and 22 million pounds of cheese in 1954. Wool gross heavier on Idaho sheep than on sheep any place else in the United States and Idaho hens lay more eggs than hens in any other state in the west. Idaho is third in the west in milk production and sixth in the west in livestock receipts.

In 1930 the value of livestock sold was $45,500,000. This was increased to $134,274,000 in 1954. Cattle and calves lead in value of livestock products with dairy products a close second.

More than one-third of Idaho is covered by forest and the annual lumber production is enough to build 100,000 five-room dwellings. The state is fourth in the nation in the production of saw timber.

Of all the people employed in industry in Idaho, more than half are engaged in forest industries. Idaho has the largest stand of white pine in the world and surveys show that new wood growth in the state exceed the timber footage going into lumber. In 1930 the income from timber was $19,160,000 while in 1954 the income had jumped to $79,200,000.

The state is the first in the nation in the production of silver, zinc, antimony, cobalt and monazite, second in cadmium and lead and third in elemental phosphate. The value of mining in 1930 was $22,258,000 while in 1954 it had climbed to $69,100,000.

Total value of Idaho's production in 1930 was $145,681,000 in actual dollars and $122,372,000 in constant dollars. By 1954 these total values had increased to $461,617,000 in actual dollars and $235,424,670 in constant dollars.

The report on the survey shows that in 1954 1,817,590 automobiles passed into Idaho through 10 routes. This was an average of 4,966 cars a day.

The average number of persons in these automobiles was three for a total of 5,437,770 persons per year. Based on a one-day stay in the state, these persons spent $385 each for a total of $48,124,265 for the year.

The report also touches upon motor vehicles in the state, pointing out that in 1913 there were 2,344 automobiles registered while in 1954 342,787. Mayer estimates the total in 1960 will exceed 400,000.

In 1932, 51,070,428 gallons of gasoline were purchased in Idaho but by 1954 this figure had jumped to 234,014,412 gallons of gasoline and 8,398,963 gallons of diesel and special fuels.

At the meeting at the Tuff club Friday Warren Barry was hostmaster. Barry also introduced officers of the association. They are Otis G. Hall, president; Les Sumner, vice president; and Donald Hulbert, secretary-treasurer.

The possibility of the decentralization of new defense plants was reviewed by the Boise executive. He cited a directive of the department of defense that recommended dispersal of new industries, suggesting they be built in noncritical areas.

Idaho's geographical position is such, Mayer suggested, to make it an ideal area for expansion of sub-contracting firms. He noted the valley is under the airplane used by the Boeing Aircraft company which runs from Wichita, Kans., to Seattle, Wash., further enhancing the area's usefulness to the aircraft industry.

Alplanes have been built largely in plants concentrated along the coastal area of southern California. This makes an easy target in case of war and would be disrupted in the event of a national emergency.

Much work can be done on the local and state level, Mayer continued, to encourage and attract many different industries to Idaho. He emphasized the importance of community cooperation, including active participation in promotions sponsored by Chambers of Commerce and business industries to locate new and branch plants in Idaho.

The speech was followed by general dance numbers by Lorraine Unander of the Lucille Townley dancing school.

 WEST-HOLIDAY CO., INC.

OUR CONGRATULATIONS

Once more the Times-News joins with the community in hearty congratulations to the winners of the Twin Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce distinguished service awards presented annually.

In selecting Fred Ingraham and J. Dean Mosher as senior and junior citizens of the year, respectively, those on the awards committee gave recognition to men who are highly deserving of this distinction.

As everyone in this community knows, Mr. Ingraham has been one of the city's most loyal civic workers over a period of years. He has served in many capacities ranging from city chairman of the Red Cross fund drive and general chairman of the Community Chest to president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce. Before his retirement in 1950 as sales manager of the southern division of the Idaho Power company he played an important part in the work of the industrial development commission.

As a First Methodist, Mr. Ingraham is a member of the church's official board, finance director of the building fund, vice chairman of the commission on finance and a member of the community cooperation committee with other churches.

It has been gratifying to see a local citizen carry on so willingly even after his retirement, which makes his efforts all the more significant as a public servant. How he has served his community stands out in sharp contrast to those who never raise a finger in any form of civic endeavor.

As recipient of the junior citizen award, Mr. Mosher was praised as the most outstanding member of the Twin Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce during the year 1955 "for his willingness and ability in carrying out the organization's projects."

Mosher's efforts were directed principally in support of Youth month, "Get Out the Vote," the Idaho open golf tournament, the polo benefit skating show, "Keep Idaho Green," and the Christmas tree burning and wren's nest for Twin Falls children.

It is reasonable to expect that this year's junior citizen will continue to play an important part in Twin Falls civic affairs and that this community will derive no little benefit from his efforts.

If there is anything the average community needs nowadays it's more men like Mr. Ingraham and Mr. Mosher.

Our hearty congratulations to both of them!

THAT 200-PINT QUOTA AGAIN

When the Red Cross bloodmobile visits Twin Falls this coming Tuesday it is hoped sufficient donors will volunteer to meet this community's quota of 200 pints of blood.

Inasmuch as Twin Falls has failed of its quota ever since the Red Cross assumed the responsibility of providing Magic Valley Memorial hospital with its blood requirements, a special effort is being made to rally volunteers for next Tuesday.

The LDS church, the doctors and lawyers, Granges, banks and service clubs have all indicated they will put forth a special effort this time in hopes of having Twin Falls reach its full 200-pint quota.

In spite of all the promotion the last time the bloodmobile came to Twin Falls, Dec. 19, local residents donated only 192 pints of blood, eight pints short of the quota.

The Rev. Norman E. Stockwell, chairman of the blood bank committee, and Dr. F. H. Fox, chairman of the blood replacement committee, have joined in a special plea that many more residents of Twin Falls respond to this worthwhile endeavor which is maintained primarily for the purpose of saving human lives in cases where blood transfusions are vitally needed.

Even though special effort is being put forth once more and the above mentioned organizations are volunteering their help, no one should take for granted that the 200-pint quota will be reached next Tuesday. We haven't been able to fill that quota any time in the past and our continued failures are certainly not to our credit.

Let's everyone keep next Tuesday in mind. More donors are needed than have volunteered any time in the past, if we are going to avoid another failure. By comparison, the smaller towns in this community have shown better cooperation.

HOSPITALS ARE EXPENSIVE

It is only for the purpose of comparison that we call attention to the operating loss of St. Benedict's hospital at Jerome last year. The loss, amounting to $22,634.48, was attributed largely to uncollectible accounts and a slight decrease in income.

As a rule, hospitals operated by a church are regarded as more efficient, because they are relieved of certain expenses which privately owned and publicly operated institutions cannot escape.

There is no doubt in our mind that St. Benedict's is a highly efficient hospital. But when an institution of this kind finds it difficult to pay its own way, it's easier to understand why Magic Valley Memorial hospital has its own financial problems. Under the circumstances, it would seem, Magic Valley Memorial is making a creditable showing.

A newly married man seldom suggests to his wife how to bake a cake. Maybe because he knows she has concrete ideas of her own.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday, Ray Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international politics and personalities. Questions may be sent to him at 1008 Millers Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Didn't you write recently," inquires M. S. Superior, Wis., "that the Democrats would keep the question of President Eisenhower's health out of the campaign? It seems that you were wrong, judging from Harry Truman's reference to a regency and a part-time chairman of the board."

Answer: I wrote exactly the opposite from what M. S. attributes to me. At least a month ago, I said that the Democrats would manage to drag this problem into the campaign, directly or indirectly. I cited Senator Monroney's insinuation that orders affecting civil aeronautics personnel had been issued and signed without Ike's knowledge.

STEVENSON'S ASSERTION—Stevenson hit the nail on the head. A kindly gentleman, he said with extreme forcefulness that he would not use Ike's health against him. Knowing politics and politicians, he added that he could not guarantee what other Democrats might do. His reservation was well taken.

With political insensitivity, Senator Kerr of Oklahoma first raised the health issue when he said that the army was preparing a special suite for Eisenhower at the Letterman hospital in San Francisco for the duration of the Republican convention. Of course, the army invited that suggestion by announcing its hospital plans without consulting the White House.

"Who held up the American troops from pushing into Berlin and beyond?" asks W. F. L. Rye, N. Y. "Why did we wait until the Russian army caught up and were allowed to be the first into Berlin?"

Answer: The decision on the allocation of enemy land to be held by the allied forces after Germany's defeat was made by the allied advisory commission, sitting in London and headed by Lord G. Winant, former governor of New Hampshire, who later committed suicide. Their decision, of course, was approved by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, although the latter agreed only reluctantly.

UNFORTUNATE ALLOCATION—This allocation has been the cause of most of our postwar difficulties. It enabled the Russians to penetrate central Europe. It did not even give us a land approach to subdivided Berlin, which lies wholly in the Russian area. Although neither Eisenhower nor Gen. Omar Bradley mention this question in their war histories, Bradley told me that he and Ike were "flabbergasted" when they were ordered to withdraw from territory their troops had conquered, and to turn it over to the Russians.

PENALTY FOR TRUSTING RUSSIANS—The only explanation for such a short-sighted policy is that liberals like Roosevelt and Winant trusted the Russians to behave after Germany's defeat, despite many wartime warnings to the contrary. It is to the credit of Gov. Averell Harriman, postwar ambassador to Moscow, that he tried to warn Truman against placing any faith or trust in Stalin.

SUCH BALLOONS NO MENACE TO PLANES—"How large are the Radio Free Europe balloons which we are releasing over the satellite countries?" asks T. L. Miami, Fla. "Do they really jeopardize planes in that area?"

Answer: Their top weight is seven pounds. According to the regulations of our civil aeronautics board, which was consulted on the problem, they constitute no menace to even the smallest planes.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

NO DRIVER NEEDS ALL THAT POWER
 In the years just before and just after World War II, engines of the popular low-priced cars—Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth—were rated at about 85 horsepower. As late as 1948 few American stock cars would do more than an honest 85 miles an hour, no matter what their speedometers said. In view of the existing highway system and state speed limits, this seemed adequate.

Then in 1948 Oldsmobile surprised the auto industry and delighted the customers with a new 135-horsepower engine which left everything else in the lurch when the traffic lights turned green. Other manufacturers hastened to bring out competitive engines and the big horsepower race was on.

Soon the Chrysler corporation announced a V-8 of 180 horsepower. The staid Lincoln became a hot rod, with a stock model winning the Mexican road race at speeds upwards of 120 miles an hour. With better carburetion, higher compression, improved manifold, the power output of standard engines was steadily increasing. Olds is typical: In 1952 it had 160 hp.; in 1953, 185; in 1954, 185; in 1955, 205, and this year it has 240. Now Ford and Plymouth offer 200 hp and Chevrolet 205.

Sports models boast even more. Studebaker has a special job with 215 hp. Buick is proud of its 255 hp Century that will go from a standing start to 60 mph in 9.8 seconds. A deluxe De Soto is rated at 320 hp, while Chrysler now offers the highest powered stock car in the industry, with 340 hp. When it is recalled the basic Chrysler engine, hopped up to 330 hp, performed creditably against foreign cars in the 150-mile-an-hour class in the 1953 stock model endurance race at Le Mans, the potency of the products now being offered in the auto showroom becomes clear.

There is reason for concern about this trend. Today's cars have better brakes, suspension and steering than did 1948 models, and highways are becoming wider and straighter and presumably safer. But still no driver can legally and safely use all the power Detroit is putting at the disposal of his right foot. Misused, such power is a menace to the owner and to all who share the road with him.

Congressman Walter Norblad thinks the federal government should require manufacturers to limit the speed of cars to 70 miles an hour. This proposal will be greeted with boos from Detroit, which knows a good sales pitch when it has one, and from motorists who have had their taste of power and like it. Mr. Norblad may not get very far with his plan. But he is right in his premise: Putting more and more horsepower under the hoods each year is needless and unwise.—Portland Oregonian.

BEER ACCOUNTS FOR MOUNTING VANDALISM

Warner Mills, Idaho director of liquor law enforcement, promises to "crack down on tavern keepers who sell beer to minors and on the youngsters who are buying it." In an interview given the press some two weeks ago he said: "Such illegal practices are on the increase in the state."

Mr. Mills also told the newsmen that the illegal purchasing of beer by minors, "accounts largely for the mounting vandalism in the state's cities and rural areas." That "too easy access to beer is one of the major causes of juvenile delinquency in Idaho," was the finding of the Idaho Interim legislative committee appointed in 1951 to make a study, investigation and report on causes of juvenile delinquency. A half dozen teenagers, an automobile and a carton or case of beer and the door for crime is wide open.

Mr. Mills and his assistants in the department of liquor law enforcement are doing a good job, considering the handicaps in the law they have to work with. By vigilance they can reasonably keep beer selling under control in the approximately 575 licensees for "on premise" consumption. These are the beer taverns and liquor-by-the-drink saloons. However, for so long as beer is sold by the carton or case for "off premise" consumption from some 1600 grocery stores it will be an impossibility to keep beer from minors, no matter how vigilant law enforcement officers may be.

For so long as beer is easily accessible to minors, juvenile crime and vandalism will be rampant.—The Idaho Challenged.

TALE OF THE TIE

Mystery, suspense, laughs—you'll find them all in the Tale of the Tie. Doesn't sound much like a necktie, does it? Well, this is no ordinary tie.

Back about 1937 Frank Peavy knitted a Tie. It was an awesome creation, done in several colors, but principally red and yellow. And right down the center of it is the wording, "Papa." It was his first and last bit of knitting.

The Tie went first to the late L. L. Breckenridge as a Christmas gift. He promptly borrowed a pair of loud socks from his son, then a college student, and proceeded to model The Tie. The loud socks sort of completed the costume.

Somewhat later, The Tie was returned to Frank, its creator. Since then, The Tie has changed hands several times, with John Breckenridge and Frank keeping the exchange going.

You'd expect that would be about all to The Tale of the Tie. But you're forgetting this is no ordinary tie. Whenever The Tie changes hands, it has to come as sort of a surprise to the recipient. Just for instance, John answered a knock at the front door of his home once. A taxi driver hurled a balloon into the house and hastily departed. Yep, The Tie was inside the balloon!

Another time Frank was a guest at the Breckenridge home. Turkey sandwiches were being served as a snack. Just as he was about to take a bite of his sandwich, Frank happened to notice a little spot of yellow. Yep, The Tie was inside the sandwich!

When the eldest Breckenridge daughter was born, a nicely-wrapped parcel arrived from New York. It looked just like a special, gift-wrapped package from one of Gotham's finer stores. That's right—The Tie!

The Tie is well-traveled, too. It's been from New York to Hawaii and lots of points between. It's been as far south as Brazil. Right now Frank is chief engineer for Morrison-Knudsen, South American operation, with offices in New York. He spent six years in Brazil.

John says he doesn't know where The Tie is right now, but he expects to find out someday. You see, it's his turn to receive a gift!

HOW TO GET TIME OFF

Without intending to, a gal discovered how to get a little time off from her work. She just casually announced that she'd sure like to donate a pint of blood to the bloodmobile Tuesday, but it just wasn't going to be here long enough.

Along about that time, the boss piped up with an offer to permit her to leave work early just so she could donate that pint of blood.

It worked for one, but there's no telling if it would work for others. If it did, there's a chance the city would have to declare a holiday everytime the bloodmobile was here.

FAMOUS LAST LINE

"... Herbert says he'll offer to give a quart of blood to the bloodmobile Tuesday, but if they limit him to a pint he won't make an issue of it!"

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—With the glowing generalities generated by the Eden-Eisenhower talks scarcely more than a pleasant haze in the air, the two governments must now do the hard spade work on the grave tasks that still confront them. For both Washington and London it is an "inauspicious" time to try to adjust the differences which kept President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden from reaching any agreed solution.

In the United States it is an election year. Any alteration of the basic assumptions of American foreign policy, therefore, is bound to come under fire. The prime minister and his party returned to England professing to believe they had an American pledge not to review the list of strategic goods kept from Communist China but to revise it downward.

Senator William Knowland, Calif., the Republican leader in the senate, believes it will be difficult, if not impossible, to demonstrate any gain to Britain or the free world in increased trade with China. He is convinced the United States will not sanction such an increase with Red China's leaders threatening to take Pormosa by force.

Knowland has important support in both parties on this sensitive issue. And, what is more, in the state department are those such as Assistant Secretary Walter Robertson, in charge of Far Eastern affairs, stoutly opposing any change in the present line.

In London the Eden government has a hard row to hoe. While the Conservative party rebellion that flared up a month ago has subsided, the root causes of disaffection remain. The continuing inflation and the decline of exports and the drop in the gold and dollar balance have produced a political-economic crisis that is partly disguised by a domestic prosperity feeding on itself. Eden is still sharply criticized for his indecisiveness in the face of new wage demands from labor and continuing high dollar imports.

A footnote to the talks, revealing the inhibitions on both sides of the Atlantic, concerns the interest payments which the British must make on the 3.5 billion dollar loan advanced by the United States in July of 1946. The agreement covering the loan, reached in the aftermath of the war, contains a complicated waiver clause.

As set out in that clause, under certain circumstances the British can inform Washington that they are passing the interest payment. In a tight squeeze this could be important in balancing income and outgo. At the end of 1955 London paid 71 million dollars in interest and 48 million dollars in principal. But British treasury experts were told last fall in Washington that the language of the waiver clause is so ambiguous that the exemption probably could not be claimed.

Congress would have to approve some clarifying language. Britain would like to have that done in order to be able to omit the interest payment should a severe emergency develop at the end of this year. The prime minister may have mentioned it informally in his talks with the President, although this was denied by the British delegation.

Obviously, in an election year even such a relatively minor change would produce some campaign oratory and congressional leaders want to avoid that embarrassment. After all, the new Eisenhower budget is theoretically balanced by a hairline fraction of a per cent and the loss of the British interest payment would make a difference here.

The claims of the budget-makers in both capitals inhibit any new or bold approach to the challenge of communism in the Far East and Middle East. In London the new chancellor of the exchequer, Harold Macmillan, who moved to that post from the foreign office, is staring down the cannon's mouth. Preparing the budget he must present to the house of commons in April, Macmillan must make some extremely unpleasant decisions if the present drift is to be checked.

According to private reports from London, he is considering two drastic steps. One is to impose a capital gains tax. Britain has never had such a tax and this has made it possible for a small group at the top of the economic heap to live on at least an approximation of the old British upper-class standard. Such a move would draw down the wrath of the right wing of the Tory party and jeopardize Eden's position. It would have to be balanced by the second of the two moves—relaxing stringent controls on dollar imports. This would help to damp down the inflation. There is some reason to believe that if Macmillan is able to master the current fiscal crisis, he would put himself in a position so strong as to be a powerful rival for the prime ministership.

So far as the Middle East is concerned, the area of greatest urgency, the talks settled nothing other than to prepare for three-way conversations including France. The one concrete suggestion for this trouble center contained in the communique issued at the end of the talks was for an increase in the number of U. N. truce observers. These observers—about 50 at the present time—report violations of the uneasy truce. Their findings were the basis for the recent resolution of censure against Israel adopted by the United Nations.

Those who take a hopeful view of the talks, and the hope is stronger on the British side than on the American, say two things were achieved. First, they will have a quieting effect on the Middle East. Moscow as well as Egypt and Israel are on notice that Britain and America will act jointly in the event of any aggression. By reaffirming faith in the Baghdad pact, the two powers have told the world that they do not intend to retreat from the northern tier pact. This should put an end to the agitation against the pact.

Second, despite the strong opposition in this country from critics such as Knowland the British are confident of a relaxation in the barrier to trade with Red China. They believe that rubber will come off the embargo list. This will mean the sale of about 50,000 tons from Malaya and Ceylon where, in the British view, the failure to sell basic raw materials has resulted in economic hardship which has in turn encouraged the spread of communism. By their confidence the British indicate that they were privately promised some relaxation, although the communique referred only to agreement that trade controls "should be reviewed now and periodically as to their scope."

If he has won a change in the strategic list, Eden will have increased his stature at home. That can be his answer to critics in the house of commons who accuse him of subservience to American policy. It was the first time for Eden in America as head of state, a difficult task in the light of the contrast with his predecessor, Sir Winston Churchill, the symbol of British courage and resolution and the most magnificent orator of his time.

The prime minister and the President could be prodigal with one thing—words. In the declaration of Washington they are brave words, sometimes noble words. But with the continuing drift in the Middle East and Far East toward communism one may well ask whether words are sufficient.

The United Nations says the world now has 1,200,000 physicians.

Is That So!

Farmer vs. Jackrabbits

In Idaho's Plains

"Would it be practical and morally right to introduce the deadly jackrabbit disease Myxomatosis into the jackrabbit population on the Snake River plains of southern Idaho for that matter in any other region where rabbits are a pest in an attempt to destroy the wild rabbits to aid farmers and stockmen? I realize there may be danger to domestic rabbits and possibly other rodents but I submit that the situation here in Jerome county is serious enough to warrant discussion of this question."

"My wife and I are farmer-sheepmen, making our living on one of the small farms occupied in 1949 by World War II servicemen in 1949 by the U. S. bureau of reclamation."

"For two of our six years here, the jackrabbits have been highly destructive, eating as the worst drawback to ranching here. This past year, they again built up enormous numbers—two neighboring farms lost at least 10 per cent of their irrigated crops. And if past experience is any criterion, the rabbits will continue to increase until natural disease or starvation decimates their number and then they will almost disappear for a year or two, only to come back again in another terrifying cycle."

"The nine farms in this section of the project are surrounded by sagebrush which is wonderful rabbit breeding ground with lush grass in the spring. In July when the range becomes dry the rabbits are driven in upon our irrigated section by hunger. And with the price squeeze now pushing the farmer anywhere even a small loss of irrigated crop or range grass hurts seriously. It is estimated that six large jackrabbits will eat as much as one sheep."

"And there are literally millions of rabbits breeding around us. Three years ago when winter snows covered the dry grass they came upon us in unbelievable numbers. During the daily invasion, just before dusk, I would stand at our haystack and shoot the oncoming rabbits as fast as I could pump a .22 rifle borrowed from the county agent for that purpose. Their dead struggles and screams went unheeded among the starving live rabbits as they came around and over the bodies of the dead to get at the hay in our stack. "These invasions would start at dusk and continue throughout the night. I have gone into the corn by moonlight, pointed my flashlight into a corner and killed as many as nine rabbits with one shot. They were that thick. Finally, my neighbors and I decided that Myxomatosis was useless against such numbers and half a dozen of us resorted to poison using strychnine furnished through government agencies. We had to overcome our distaste for using poison in order to save the hay. When spring came we estimated that we had killed at least 12,000 rabbits. The stench of rotting bodies pervaded the whole valley."

"You might ask about jackrabbit drives! They are OK but they don't get enough to do any discernible good. Or fences. They don't dig under them; in summer they walk over them when the snow drifts in."

"In an effort to build a home and follow best conservation practice, my wife and I planted a nut and a belt of trees. For three years a succession, the rabbits ate the trees nearly to the ground. When we planted yew and crested wheat on a burned-over area of our range, to prevent its blowing, the rabbits not only ate off the grass but literally dug it out by the roots and completely killed the stand."

"So the question is: are the pros and cons of introducing jackrabbits with the deadly Myxomatosis virus which helped clean up the rabbits in Australia and is now winning through Europe? I understand the doctor who introduced it into France is a hero to some people, particularly the farmer, and a heartless wretch to others."

"For the many who would hold their hands in righteous horror at the very thought of infecting our American rabbits with a virus disease, let me present one last thought: "My wife and I are so interested and religiously against any unnecessary killing that we do not hunt even butch our own farm animals for table use. Feeling this way, we should then come to our Snake River plains as a homesteader and have to kill, kill, and then kill some to protect your very livelihood. You should hear the rabbits scream when you have wounded them. You should smell the stench of dead bodies piled high when the snow melts. All because you are trying to protect your ranch against other God's creatures whose only crime is that they are too many and too hungry! Without us here, they would also die a slow death of starvation by the thousands. D. J. P. Jerome, Idaho, via the Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho."

Times-News Forum -- Voice of the Reader

Assistance Available for Vets; Notes Officer of DAV Chapter

Editor, Times-News:

Only 43 per cent of World War II disabled veterans are drawing compensation for total disability, according to figures released by the DAV. A report of claims indicated that 75 per cent of the men injured in World War II are rated by the DAV as less than 100 per cent disabled. A man who is rated 30 per cent or less is entitled to a compensation of $50. A 20 per cent disabled man draws $33 and a 10 per cent rating means $17 per month.

When a veteran is so badly disabled as to be considered totally and permanently disabled by the VA, he draws $181 a month. Contrary to popular impression, a very small percentage — 43 — is awarded this amount.

Most of the minor ratings and many of the higher ones, are not awarded permanently, but are reviewed at regular intervals. Many disabled veterans are not fully aware of this.

The assistance of the DAV national service officers, located in VA regional offices throughout the country, is available to all veterans free when their ratings are reviewed, just as it is when the disabled veteran makes his initial claim for compensation.

We see no let-up in the DAV service officers' work load for many years to come. Many disabilities will grow worse instead of better with the years, but compensation will not be adjusted automatically to compensate for the decreased physical ability of the disabled man. He may, in fact, be removed from the compensation rolls unless he presents evidence to prove his right to his benefits.

Any veteran who needs help in preparing and presenting a claim to the VA for service-incurred injuries, or who wants to arrange with other problems of rehabilitation, education or employment, is invited to contact the national service officer, Richard Pender, Boise, Monday at the DAV hall. He will attend the regular DAV meeting at 8 p.m.

Public's Interest in Contests Lauded by 20th Century Club

Editor, Times-News:

We note with interest the appreciation of the Twin Falls public in the current statewide contest in the liberal and fine arts promoted by the Federation of Womens clubs of Idaho.

Of inestimable value is any contest conducted upon a high level. It stirs the imagination and initiative of the contestant and prompts him into worthwhile endeavor. The latitude in this contest makes it impossible to include many young artists of both brush and pen.

The Twin Falls public library under the leadership of our librarian, Arthur De Volder, has already, in the short time he has served the public, stirred interest in the element of contest by various displays illustrating the imagination of the child and youth of today. These contestants are our potential thinkers of tomorrow—our brains of tomorrow. Out of the mind, dewey and fresh, of a little first grader comes this quatrain perfect in rhyming and near perfect form to win first place in the first grades.

Buhl Man Hopes To Balk Excess Outlay of Funds

Editor, Times-News:

I have a question that I would like to ask of the taxpayers of Idaho. Are we, the taxpayers, going to let the governor squander our road funds like he has the funds out of the state treasury?

I'll put in $10 on a fund to stop such tricks if some one else will start such a fund and I will put in $100 on a fund to throw that governor out. Even if I will have to go out and then beat him spring to pay the bank my $100 back.

Buhl Man Cites Improvements Needed in Schools' Situation

Editor, Times-News:

Continuing contracts for Idaho teachers, go into effect this year. Under the new arrangement a teacher remaining three years in one school will receive a 10 per cent increase. This is an automatic renewal contract. The board of trustees does not send notice to the contrary before March 1, in which case the teacher has a right to a hearing. This is undoubtedly a step toward better tenure but there are still other improvements possible.

Many of our school problems might be eliminated by allowing our qualified and certified district superintendent to be elected by the public, similar to the election of the former county superintendent. This would allow the people to choose the type of school management they want and it would stimulate a more active public relations program, one which would offer an airing of school facts, figures and programs.

This and certain veto rights would give the superintendent better control of his administrative assistants and staff so that they might work cooperatively to fulfill the needs of the children and community. This added control would tend to improve management, education conditions and tenure for school personnel.

John Dewey, one of our greatest American philosophers, believed it was wise to constantly seek improvement and to continually rearrange our democratic methods to encourage the maximum growth of each individual in our society. If our world changes as rapidly in the next 50 years as it has in the last 50, our present educational system will be too cumbersome to keep pace. Unanimity and harmony in administration is a necessity if we value the heritage of our youngsters.

White Man's Attitude Toward Indian Draws Fire by Writer

Editor, Times-News:

Nine men make up the supreme court. The people's rights are in the hands of these nine appointed men who are responsible to no one save a Higher Court who will one day judge them and others for aggressiveness against the Indians. They wish to enforce desecration upon those who do not want to claim segregation to be unconstitutional. If this be so, why were the rights, powers, privileges and possessions taken from the Indians who were segregated on reservations little less than the present-day communist prison camps?

The Indian contributed much to America by way of agriculture, arts, crafts, poetry and drama, yet the government did deliberately try to destroy Indian culture.

The Indian in his own land is actually a man without a country. No Negro nor any other race living within the continental United States has even been treated with such inhuman brutality as were the Indians by white aggressors.

Those in Washington who rule our country send each year millions to unappreciative nations abroad for fear of communist warfare and fail to enact rehabilitation bills for the 100 per cent American Indian regarding treaties as sacred. Does America do the same?

The Indian cannot make a move today without approval from the Indian department, yet let the NAACP demand and the supreme court give their approval. Back in the dark days of World War II, the Bataan march was considered a horrible incident. Not necessarily when compared to the "trial of tears" made by the Cherokees beginning in the year 1838. They were needed along like cattle; hundreds of men, women and children died of thirst, cruelty and starvation. Picture a once-proud nation plodding into exile because some greedy, grasping whites wanted their rich possessions.

The Indians had peace-loving chiefs like Cochise, Victorio, Crazy Horse and many others who became relentless and implacable enemies due to broken promises and colossal blunders of the white man. Treaties were made by one administration, ignored by another. Today the red man's land is a country teeming with commercialism and bitter competition. Some of our politicians are nothing but demagogues and glory hunters. We are a people who more or less patronize popular religious and charitable movements, which is decent, to hide our secret sins from the eyes of the world and to be used as a passport to the great beyond.

Love and charity are the first precepts of Christianity. Are we living in accordance with God's holy commands? I am a lovely Episcopalian whose church has extended the hand of Christian fellowship to our Negro brethren. Can we say we have given of that same fellowship and Christian charity to our copper-colored brethren? God almighty will continue to send disaster in all of its frightening forms, clouds of communism will loom larger and more threatening until this country makes some sort of restitution to right the wrongs perpetrated by white people against the American Red Man.

'Bomb' Slayer Fails to Slay Self in Prison

DENVER, Feb. 11 (AP)—John Gilbert Graham, accused saboteur of a United Air Lines DC-6B, fashioned a strangling cord from a pair of socks and twisted it around his neck late yesterday in an abortive attempt to kill himself at Denver county jail.

Warden Gordon H. Dolliver said the 33-year-old prisoner's attempt at suicide "could have been close" had it not been for the "quick action" of jail guard James Martin, 34.

Dolliver said Martin spotted Graham with the socks around his neck and rushed into the cell and removed it. The prisoner was unconscious for about five minutes, the warden said.

A doctor was called immediately and after an examination, reported Graham had suffered only very minor injury. He was not taken to a hospital.

Graham, who has been kept under personal guard at the jail, is scheduled to go on trial in district court here March 5 on charges he killed his mother, Mrs. Daisy King, for $37,500 in trip insurance he had taken out before the plane left Denver last Nov. 1.

The airliner crashed near Longmont, Colo., killing all 44 persons aboard.

Graham was turned over to state authorities after the FBI had broken the case and obtained a confession.

The state charges Graham placed a homemade time bomb in his mother's suitcase shortly before he boarded the ill-fated airliner. Persons who saw the crash said the plane exploded in flight shortly before plunging to the ground in flames.

East German Chiefs Ignore West Protest

BERLIN, Feb. 11 (AP)—The East German Communists today brushed off a Western allied protest against the formation of civilian armed groups in East Berlin.

U.S., British and French protest notes delivered last night, warned the Soviets they would be held responsible for any attack on West Berlin by the armed gangs of red workers and youths.

A statement broadcast by the East German radio today said the so-called "fighting groups" were formed "to protect the German Democratic Republic and its achievements."

The communist radio claimed the western big three protests to the Russians were designed "to divert attention from remilitarization in West Germany."

The East German statement was seen as an indication that the Soviets would reject the western protests, made to Russia's ambassador to East Germany, O. M. Pushkin.

The United States, Britain and France, in one of the strongest protests they have ever sent to Moscow, said the existence of armed bands in Red Berlin could have the "gravest consequences."

Up-to-Date Brochure to Boost Twin Falls Is OK'd by Board

Approval for printing an up-to-date brochure on Twin Falls was given by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors at its meeting Friday noon.

George Bever, brochure chairman, presented recommendations made of his committee.

He suggested a two-year supply be ordered so the pamphlets could be revised and brought up to date.

A. E. Vaughn, chairman of the welcoming committee, asked approval of a plan to give a maximum six-month complimentary membership to each new business in Twin Falls.

He noted this would give the new merchant assurance the chamber was behind him.

At the same time the question of re-evaluating membership was brought up but the board tabled the matter pending further plans.

They noted the re-evaluation was necessary as Chamber of Commerce costs have risen during the past several years.

Norman Anthony, chairman of the Retail Merchants bureau, showed the board the bureau's plan of sponsoring four major promotions annually.

The city has been divided into its geographical four parts with each to sponsor the big promotion in each season of the year such as the spring opening and the harvest festival.

Kenneth Montgomery, chamber secretary-manager, reported an acknowledgment of receipt of a letter protesting the reduction of air service here had been received from Sen. Herman Welker.

Delegates Go By All Means To Red Meet

MOSCOW, Feb. 11 (AP)—Delegates streamed toward Moscow today by reindeer, camel, automobile, train and plane for the 20th communist party congress opening Tuesday.

The Soviet communist party delegates came from all the far-flung districts of the Eurasian subcontinent constituting the USSR. Delegates from the remote areas of the Arctic circle made part of their journey by reindeer team, while Kazakh's Khirghiz delegates used camels to reach airports.

Two principal speakers — Party Secretary Nikita S. Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin — will dominate the congress.

The proceedings will be keynoted by an exhaustive review by Bulganin on the fortunes of the communist party since the death of Josef Stalin. He will follow the review with a report on the new five-year plan which is pledged to bring the Soviet Union to the threshold of economic parity with the United States.

Mid Eastern War Danger Emphasized

BOISE, Feb. 11 (AP)—Lieut. Col. Netanel Lorch, information officer of the Israeli consulate in Los Angeles, said last night there's real danger of war in the Middle East.

He told the fourth annual Boise Valley World Affairs institute that Egypt, armed by the communists, might be ready to launch a war against Israel by summer unless Israel is strong enough to discourage her.

But a spokesman for the Arab league took issue with Lorch's view.

Payez Sayegh, Arab states delegate to the United Nations, charged Israel has been the aggressor in recent border incidents. He said that future provocations might lead the Arab states to "lose their self-restraint."

Sayegh said the border incidents were planned military operations of the Israeli government.

Lorch replied that Egypt would not tolerate the existence of the Jewish state even if its boundaries were shrunk to the confines of the city of Tel Aviv.

Guard Slates 'Open House' For Saturday

Magic Valley units of the 116th Cavalry, Idaho National Guard, will hold an "open house" for public inspection of training methods and equipment Feb. 18, reports Col. James G. Leighton, regimental commander.

The program honors Washington's day, but because of school conflict, the program in Idaho will be conducted on Saturday.

This is a nationwide recruiting program with its objective being to bring all national guard units to their programmed strength, Leighton said.

Throughout the day, national guard contact teams will visit homes and prospective recruits to explain military obligation and the advantages of joining the national guard.

Col. Leighton explained under the legislation a man joining the national guard on his 17th birthday must remain a member for 11 years before he is exempt from the draft.

A young man enlists for six months of active duty in eight years. This program is fulfilled by remaining in the national guard for seven and one-half years.

At the present time the enlisted strength of the eight Magic Valley units is 600. Leighton said about 10 additional enlistees are expected by Feb. 18.

Two Men Die In Crackup of U.S. Airplane

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Feb. 11 (AP)—An air force T-33 jet trainer from army air force base, Colo., struck a tree and crashed today, instantly killing the two men aboard.

Col. W. J. Payne, commanding officer of the Charlotte air national guard, said the plane flew in on instruments at low altitude and crashed in flames two miles short of runway.

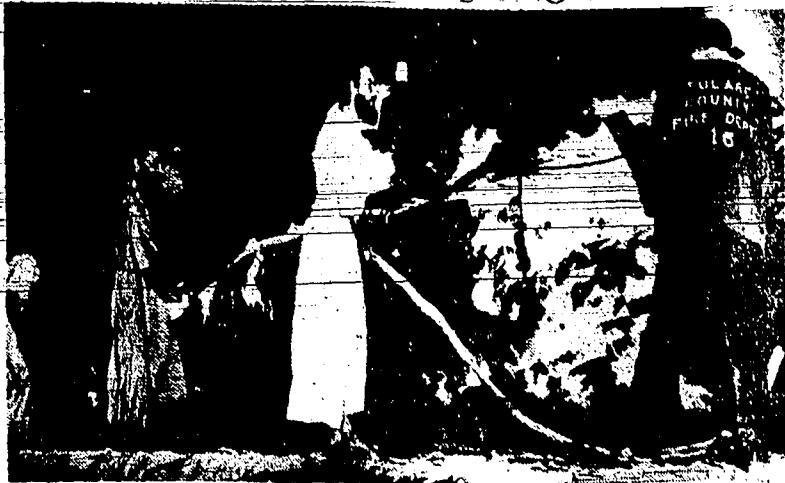

The victims were identified but their names were withheld by Low officials until their next of kin could be notified.

Payne said both the pilot and co-pilot were qualified jet instrument pilots.

The pilot of the plane did not go to the Charlotte tower, that was in trouble, Payne said. Observers in the tower saw the plane crash into flames as it crashed.

The plane was on a routine cross-country flight which began at Glenview naval air station, Ill.

Churches Preparing for Ash Wednesday, Lent and Easter

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11 (AP)—For over 59 years old, servicemen on active duty, or those whose "health or ability to work would be seriously impaired."

It is Ash Wednesday, and it marks the beginning of Lent.

Lent has been observed for centuries by the Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Anglican communions as a season of "fasting and penitence" in preparation for Easter. In recent years, a growing number of Protestant churches have been holding special Lenten programs.

The name "Lent" comes from an old Anglo-Saxon word for springtime. But the observance is even older than the name. Historians say that it was the custom of the early church, begun sometime before 300 A. D., to set aside a period of several weeks immediately prior to Easter for special emphasis on the Christian teaching that "man does not live by bread alone."

The custom was formalized in 487 A. D. by Pope Felix II, who lengthened the observance to 40 days to correspond to the period which Christ spent fasting in the wilderness.

On the modern church calendar, Lent is a season of 40 weekdays and six Sundays preceding Easter. Depending on the date of Easter, Ash Wednesday may fall anytime between Feb. 4 and March 11.

Roman Catholics are enjoined to fast on all weekdays during Lent and must forego meat at two of the three meals. Fasting, however, is not required of those under 21 or up something"—such as highballs, cigarettes, candy or the movies—as a gesture of devotion and self-denial. But comparatively few Protestant homes serve meatless meals during Lent.

In many Protestant churches, the principal emphasis is on "adding something" of a spiritual nature, such as attending midweek worship services or reading religious books—during Lent.

Episcopalians have no flat rule about fasting, but the book of common prayer urges each individual to undertake "such a measure of abstinence" as finds necessary to discipline his appetite for worldly pleasures and "bring the body into subjection" to the spirit.

Observance of Lent varies widely among other Protestant bodies. In nearly every denomination, there are individuals who believe in giving

Violinist Sets T. F. Concert For Students

Kerek Jarro, internationally-known concert violinist, will present a program of classical and popular music to the Twin Falls high school student body at 9 a.m. Monday in the high school gymnasium.

Widely acclaimed, Jarro carries on the virtuoso tradition of Hubay, whose pupil he was. As a child of 6, Jarro shattered tradition by being accepted as a pupil in the venerable Franz Liszt Academy of Music in Budapest. There he studied violin with Hubay and composition with Kodaly.

Three years later, at the age of 9, he amazed the musical world with a debut in which he played three major concertos by Paganini, Bruch and Mendelssohn under the baton of Franz Reiner in the Budapest Royal Opera house.

Since then he has toured the world often, appearing as soloist with leading symphony orchestras including those directed by Arthur Nikisch, Bruno Walter, Bodansky, Hertz, Rodzinski, and Hurbi.

During the war Jarro served in the army's signal corps and since the war has made three tours of the far east zone, appearing at times in the front lines in Korea.

Mild Setbacks Are Noted for Stock Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—The stock market took a moderate setback this week for obvious technical and political reasons.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped $3.60 to $174 in a series of four straight daily declines followed by a partial recovery on the fifth day.

Despite corporate news that was good for most part, the market had ample technical reason to adjust itself downward. In the prior week there was the best week's gain on average since early November and five straight daily rises. So some profit-taking was in the cards.

But as trading began this week it looked as if last week's bullish trend had lost none of its vigor. On Monday, prices were strong at the start but irregularly developed and then some mild softening.

The senate's 11th-hour maneuverings with the natural gas bill led to increased interest in shares of companies with pipelines and big reserves of gas. Nevertheless, with passage of the bill, which would free producers from direct federal price controls, most of the affected companies reacted indifferently in Tuesday's session. Panhandle Eastern Pipeline rose 2 points for the only sizeable gain in this group.

President Eisenhower's news conference on Wednesday gave the week its indelible stamp. The news that the President might decide whether to run for reelection by March 1 was on the wires in the forenoon but had no immediate effect on the gently declining market. It took about three hours for the realization to spread that a drastic change in the political climate might be only three weeks away. Then prices broke in the last half hour.

The momentum of the late Wednesday sell-off carried only briefly into an early Thursday flurry. Then trading proceeded at lower prices but at a mild pace.

Financial observers had no doubt that political uncertainty was the main keynote of the market's behavior.

Wheat Prices Post Increase During Week

CHICAGO, Feb. 11 (AP)—Wheat futures prices moved ahead a bit on the board of trade this week amid some conflicting forces and confusion.

Feed grains and soybeans practically all were lower, with movement to market picking up at times and feed grain supplies abundant.

Wheat closed the week unchanged to 1 1/2 cents higher, with the March contract reaching a new seasonal high at $2.16 1/2 Friday.

Compared with last Friday, corn was 1/4 to 1 1/2 lower, oats down 1/4 to 1 1/2, rye 1/4 to 3/4 lower, soybeans 1 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher and hard 5 to 10 cents a hundred pounds down.

During the week traders got some news they had been eagerly awaiting—price support levels for 1956 crops—but after they got it they weren't sure what to do with it.

Actually, the price support level is very much up in the air on the two main crops—wheat and corn.

The agriculture department has set the wheat price support this year at $1.61 a bushel, or 76 per cent of parity, and the corn price support at $1.40 a bushel, or 81 per cent of parity.

But that could be changed. The senate agriculture committee has voted to restore 90 per cent of parity on basic crops in the new omnibus farm program. Both wheat and corn are basic crops.

In both cases the difference is substantial. At 90 per cent of parity the wheat support would be about $2.14 a bushel. On corn it would be about $1.58 a bushel.

Commission Gets Problem of Dogs

BUHL, Feb. 11—If Dr. H. E. Hammerquist and other Buhl residents have their way, there will be no more dogs taken out to a pen at the city dump for impounding.

Buhl city council has tabled a request by Dr. Hammerquist for moving the dog pound to his animal clinic on Eleventh avenue south.

The dogs would be held at his clinic until the 72-hour impounding time had expired and then put to death by a painless injection if not claimed.

Husband Who Forgets Gift Tuesday Goes in Doghouse

By PATRICIA MATTHEWS

If any husband comes trotting home Tuesday without a box of candy, flowers or at least a package of lifesavers under his arm his life is in peril. For even if he should forget, it's nine chances out of ten that his little woman will remember Tuesday is St. Valentine's day.

A box of candy or a bouquet of flowers is only as far as the phone in a man's office and don't think Mother doesn't realize this. With all the decorations in stores and bright cards showing on every counter there is no excuse for a man to say he didn't know.

When your husband excuses himself after dinner Tuesday to "run down to the drugstore for a package of cigarettes," it's a good chance he has actually just become aware of the fact that he forgot again.

Florists prepare for the rush that hits every year on Valentine's day, mostly in the evening. Some teenagers and grade-school children purchase plants and flowers for their mothers and teachers but on the whole the buying is done by young married couples or older couples who need to patch up a "small" disagreement.

High-school children don't go in for candy or flowers much but they still follow the old custom of sending valentines to their favorite girl or boy friend.

Grade-school classrooms have valentine boxes that the whole room fills with cards and then sit back to see if that certain someone has put one in the box for them.

Because of the overwhelming popularity of sending cards to young and old, publishers of cards estimate that this year will see 375,000,000 valentines winging their way through the mails by Feb. 14.

It is still possible to buy comical and sentimental cards that tradition calls for, but now cards with even rhinestone bracelets and matching necklaces are being made for the more expensive tastes.

Cupid views the scene with implicit delight as more than one man succumbs to his darts of love. Cupid came to us through an ancient belief that love was an affliction and diseases were caused from poisoned darts aimed at people and sent by angry or evil gods. Cupid's bandage represents blindness and his wings, fickleness. Although Cupid may have begun as an evil little person, he is fondly looked on now as the welcome messenger of love.

On this holiday more than on any other the thought and not the gift means more to a woman whose family somehow tends to forget a kind word now and then.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Boys and girls, to become successful and happy in the days of your maturity, you must discipline yourselves. Perhaps you associate the word discipline with punishment. That is not its meaning here. Its meaning here is learning. To learn anything whatever, it is necessary for you to accept the idea that you and you only can do this and then to accept the task of learning to do it.

Learning anything from your first steps to earning your degree means making sacrifices of time, pleasure, desires of one sort or another, often discomfort and fatigue. Your willingness to accept these if they must be accepted in order to win your goal is real discipline. That discipline is what puts iron in your backbone, an edge on your intelligence, power in your thinking and doing.

I am telling you this because we are hearing that too many of you are unwilling to accept this discipline of learning, scan the catalogue of courses to find the easiest ones and so get your degree of certificate without too much effort. If that is true, it is too bad for you and very bad indeed for your country.

This country was not built to its present eminence the easy way. Remember? There was the Pilgrims who left their homes to sail an almost unknown sea to a wholly unknown land. They faced a New England winter without preparation.

World Prayer Is Planned Friday In Local Church

The United Church Women of Twin Falls are preparing for a three-day observance of World Day of Prayer to begin at 2:30 p.m. Friday at the Valley Christian church. Christians in 139 countries will be uniting in the service. Services will begin in the Fiji Islands, west of the international date-line, and will follow the sun as it circles the globe.

Each woman has an opportunity to share in an offering which helps to provide education for Christian leadership in India, Pakistan, Japan, Korea, Africa and other sections of the world; in service to foreign students in the United States; in providing Christian literature for new literates; to provide religious activities for 5,000 Protestant Indian students in government boarding schools in this country, and in service to agricultural migrants.

The local chapter is working with the Ministerial association to bring into Magic Valley a staff director from the National Council of Churches for a program of service to the migrant people who are here during the productive season. In 1955, $95,000 went into migrant work from the World Day of Prayer on a national level.

The theme for this World Day of Prayer is "One flock, one shepherd," and has been prepared by Indian American students at Cook Training school, Phoenix, Ariz. The students receive a portion of the World Day of Prayer offerings.

All women of Twin Falls are invited to attend the services.

PIONEER LEAGUE JOLTED AS BUTTE ANNOUNCES WITHDRAWAL

Montana Club Says It Can't Use Cincinnati Franchise Transferred From Ogden

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 11 (UP)—Butte, Mont., bowed out of the Pioneer-league Saturday before a pitch was ever thrown in the Montana city.

The end for the Butte entry in the class C league came shortly after midnight when directors of the club reluctantly decided to surrender the Cincinnati-owned franchise. It was believed that a financial squeeze play prompted the directors to withdraw less than two months before the season opening, which was to have been at Twin Falls April 25. The move, which came as a surprise to most league leaders, reduced the loop to seven teams and opened the door for speculation concerning entry of another team.

Valley Ekes Out 54-53 Victory Over Trojans

HAZELTON, Feb. 11—Two free throws lobbed through the hoop by Everett Schutte after the final buzzer had been sounded gave the Valley Vikings a 54-53 win over Wendell Friday night. The Vikings caught the Trojans after Wendell had led through the full 32 minutes of play. With a one-point lead and seven seconds left in the game, the Trojans missed a free throw attempt and Valley controlled the rebound. Schutte fouled just as the final buzzer sounded. He sank the first free throw to tie the score at 53-53.

The largest crowd of the season then held its breath collectively as Schutte arched the ball into the air and then burst into a roar as the ball plunged through the hoop to give Valley the victory.

Coach Don Hunt's Vikings pulled the game out of the fire after lagging 13-9 at the end of the first quarter, 31-23 at halftime and 43-35 at the end of the third canto.

The loss was a heartbreaker for coach Murray Stoddard's Trojans, whose Kent Woodall was the game's top scorer with 19 points. Severance notched 14 points for the winners.

The junior varsity game went to Valley by a 42-40 score.

League president Claude Engberg, when notified of the Butte decision, said "it was inevitable and comes as no surprise to me."

"I was in Butte during most of the week and it was apparent then that they were struggling to salvage the Cincinnati franchise."

When asked of the possibility of other teams entering the loop, Engberg indicated he would formally invite Ogden back into the league providing it can provide the financial backing necessary for operation. Ironically, it was Butte that replaced Ogden in the league after the latter city was unable to make professional baseball a paying proposition.

Butte had officially entered the league Sept. 24 with great expectations for the future. Much enthusiasm and optimism marked the Butte entry and most baseball men believed that the Montana copper mining center would produce a 100,000 attendance figure in its first year.

While the present group of supporters decided to return the franchise, some observers retained hope that townspeople would come to the rescue and save professional baseball for the city. Thus far no overtures have come from anyone.

The trouble at Butte apparently began after the franchise was secured. An estimated cost of constructing a new stadium was set at $200,000. However, later revisions boosted the figure to $300,000.

The directors studied the possibility of improving the present park in Butte, known as Clark field. However, even the cost of improving the 30-year-old park was considered impractical by the group. It was then that the directors decided to withdraw.

Engberg said it would be up to the league directors and the Cincinnati team to make the final decision on possible disposition of the Redleg franchise.

Ogden Ponders Re-Entry Into Pioneer Loop

OGDEN, Utah, Feb. 11 (UP)—Ogden civic officials Saturday said they would decide in seven days whether to take back the Pioneer league baseball franchise which Butte, Mont., gave up Friday night.

Bernie Diamond, manager of the Ogden Chamber of Commerce, met with civic leaders Saturday afternoon to discuss the possibility of taking it back.

"President Engberg (Claude Engberg of the Pioneer league) told me over the phone," said Diamond, "that Gabe Paul (general manager of Cincinnati) offered to give us the franchise free, nine players and no ties or responsibilities to Cincinnati."

Ogden held the franchise from 1929 through 1955 in the class C, eight-team league.

Diamond said his group will conduct a community-wide opinion poll through newspapers and radio to see if fans want Ogden in the Pioneer league.

"Under the new setup (in the Pioneer league)," said Diamond, "the Ogden club would be home-owned. The cost would run between $60,000 and $70,000 per year, based upon figures from president Engberg. This would necessitate an attendance of at least 60,000 fans during the year."

Engberg said four other cities are being considered as sites for the franchise if Ogden turns it down: Missoula, Mont., Casper, Wyo., Grand Junction, Colo., and Provo, Utah.

Oakley Nudges Filer 47-45 in League Game

FILER, Feb. 11—Oakley Hornets kept their undefeated record in Big Seven play intact Friday night by a bare two points against an inspired Filer team, 47-45.

The Wildcats lived up to their name, giving the smooth-working Oakley team a battle right from the opening tip-off.

Neither team was ahead by more than four points at any time. Filer held a three-point edge, 18-15, at the end of the first quarter, but Oakley surged into the lead before halftime and held a 27-26 edge at the intermission.

The score was tied at 37-37 at the end of three periods and with 21 seconds left Oakley had a 45-43 lead.

Willie Rosenbaum then tied the score, with a pair of free throws for coach Paul Ostyn's Wildcats. Oakley got control of the ball and Allen Adams put the Hornets in front to stay with a set shot.

Adams and Kent Woodhouse each scored 15 points for Oakley, while Rosenbaum led Filer with 14.

Filer won the junior varsity game 51-38.

Dental Health Week Observed

Dental Health Week Marked; Parents Urged to Care for Teeth of Children

The observance of the National Children's Dental Health week closed in Twin Falls Saturday with dentists urging parents to take advantage of all preventive measures available to keep their children relatively free from dental disorders.

Dr. Herbert Burgess was chairman of the Twin Falls observance. Posters calling attention to Dental Health week were distributed around Twin Falls. Dr. Burgess pointed out that over 85 per cent of the population of the U. S. is afflicted with some sort of dental disorder.

Early attention to proper dental health procedures will help children avoid dental diseases that plague parents, he noted. Improper diet is blamed for the most widespread dental disorder, tooth decay. Sugar consumption got special criticism.

He urged parents to substitute fresh fruits such as apples and oranges and uncooked vegetables such as carrots and celery for sweets as between-meal snacks for their children.

The toothbrush, Dr. Burgess pointed out, is one of the best weapons against decay. He stressed, however, that to achieve maximum benefits the timing and method of toothbrushing are vitally important.

He explained that since toothbrushing removes bits of food which have become lodged into the teeth, the teeth should be brushed immediately after eating. He said the brush should be firm and small enough to get to all surfaces of the teeth easily. For best results, he suggested that the upper teeth be brushed down and the lower teeth brushed up.

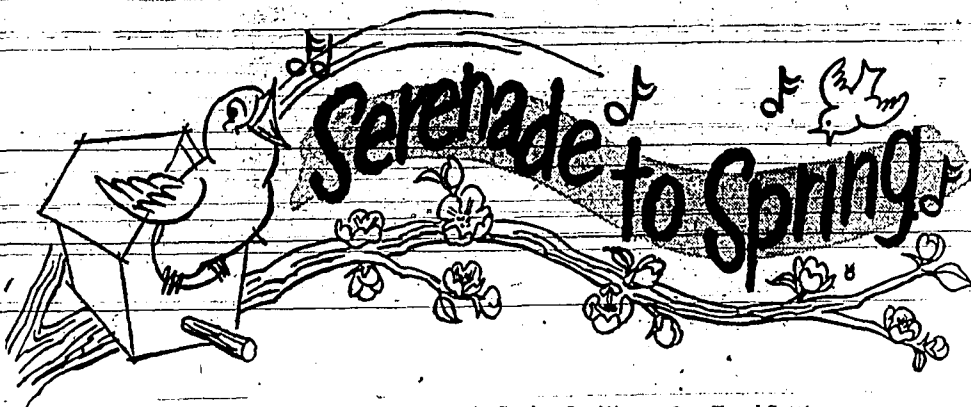

Another weapon against decay, Dr. Burgess said, is fluoridation of public water supplies.

"Scientific studies have shown that a fluoridation has reduced tooth decay as much as 65 per cent," he said. "No ill effects have been discovered from the measure which is currently in effect in more than 1,100 communities in the United States."

Fluoridation of Twin Falls water has not had time to show the usual results, he noted.

Dr. Burgess urged parents not to neglect periodic dental visits for their children in order that small cavities and other irregularities can be detected before they become serious. He also advised that early visits tend to eliminate any fears in the child, since little or no discomfort is involved.

Spectator Has Good View of Skiers on Pike Mountain

This towrope on Pike mountain at the Magic Mountain winter sports area is in full view of spectators. From parking lot at bottom of hill, spectators can see the whole length of the towrope. This slope is used chiefly by children and novice skiers. The more challenging runs of Magic mountain are located on the other side of the parking area, only the last portion of the Magic runs are visible from the parking area. Besides skiing or watching skiers, there's plenty of space to just play in the snow. (Staff engraving)

Magic Valley Tours Mountain Exerts "Magic" of Its Name To Provide Spot Where Twain Meets

To ski is one thing. Not to ski is another. And to prove there's magic in a name, the twain meets at Magic mountain.

Only 27 miles south of Twin Falls, skiers are drawn to the mountain not only by its proximity to population centers but non-skiers are drawn south into the hills by the beauty of the country. As many persons visit the ski area in summer as in winter, taking with them picnic baskets and hiking shoes instead of skis.

But since this is winter and since Magic mountain was named by a skier, it is skiing that comes to mind whenever the mountain is mentioned. Picnicking, hiking, fishing or Sunday driving are incidental to the main attraction.

To Roy Painter, Twin Falls, must go credit for at least the initial interest in Magic mountain, although when he first became interested, the mountain did not bear the name of Magic. Through him and others in Twin Falls, Alf Engen, famed skiing authority, was induced to survey the Rock creek area for a possible skiing site. Engen recommended a mountain near the head of Rock creek.

Magic did not get its name until four years later when the Twin Falls Ski club conducted a contest to name the ski area. The record does not show who won the contest but the name of "Magic" was picked.

Painter operated the first tow rope in the area, a rope for beginners on nearby Pike mountain.

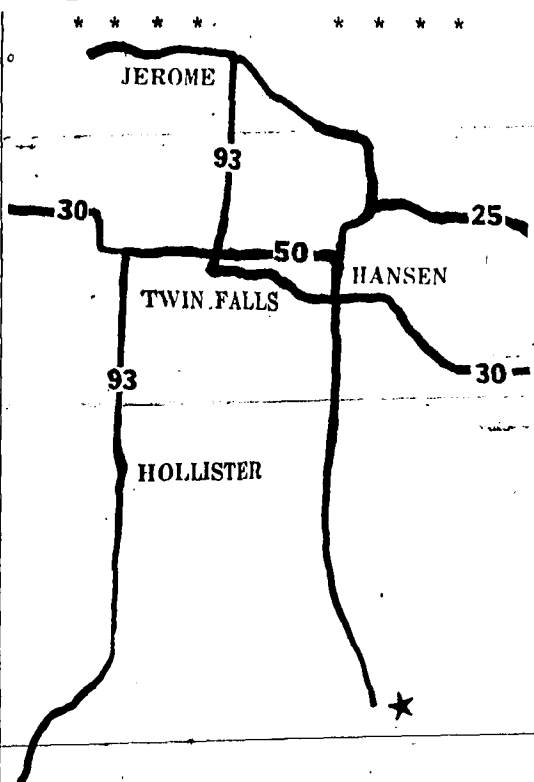

In the winter of 1939-40, Claude Jones and John Weaver built the first tow on Magic and continued the tow on Pike. In 1945 Jones put in an overhead cable and then in 1948 installed the T-bar-type of lift that can deliver 300 skiers an hour to the top of the mountain.

The lift is 2,250 feet long and has a vertical lift of 660 feet. There are eight runs down the mountain, from Nose Dive to a lengthy mile run for novice skiers. The elevation is 7,000 feet at the base of the mountain and rises to 7,800 feet at the top. The tow rope on Pike mountain is 1,600 feet long.

Winter sometimes is a fickle thing in Magic Valley but the season at Magic usually starts in late November or early December and continues until late in March or early April.

Died-in-the-wool though he may be, all but the avid skier usually loses interest in the sport by the latter part of March and there is little skiing at Magic after that time although the snow sometimes stays good for skiing until May.

The proximity of the mountain is one of its chief attractions. It provides a renowned ski run close at hand and gives a skier a chance to strap on his skis for a few quick

Turn south at Hansen and keep driving into the hills. In a few miles you will begin to climb but the grade is not difficult, even in winter. It is best, though, to equip your car with chains because much of the road to Magic mountain is snow covered. (Staff engraving) runs and be home for dinner. There's bus service from Twin Falls on either Saturday or Sunday or both during the skiing season, depending on the weather.

The road to Magic is paved well into the foothills and from there is graded and well gravelled and is kept in good condition both winter and summer. During deer season in the fall the unpaved portion takes a beating but snow soon smooths out the bumps.

At times, keeping the road open has been a headache but most winters the road not only is kept clear but is open to two-way traffic. Jones also maintains a large parking area near the lodge that is open for skiers and visitors on week-ends. In the lodge are a reception room, lunchroom and bar.

Skiing this year at Magic has been among the best on record. The snow is deep and hard-packed and is covered almost every week-end with powdered snow, the kind the skiers like. At the base of the mountain near the lodge the snow is more than five feet deep while at the end of the tow line the depth is between six and seven feet.

A Red-Cross trained ski patrol serves the area and for those who need lessons there are Jack LeClair, James Brown and Jones to help them.

THAT MUSIC HATH CHARMS...

...is evidenced by the fact that during three scant decades we have gradually become a nation of music lovers. Today there is scarcely a family that doesn't depend on music for a goodly share of its home pleasure and enjoyment.

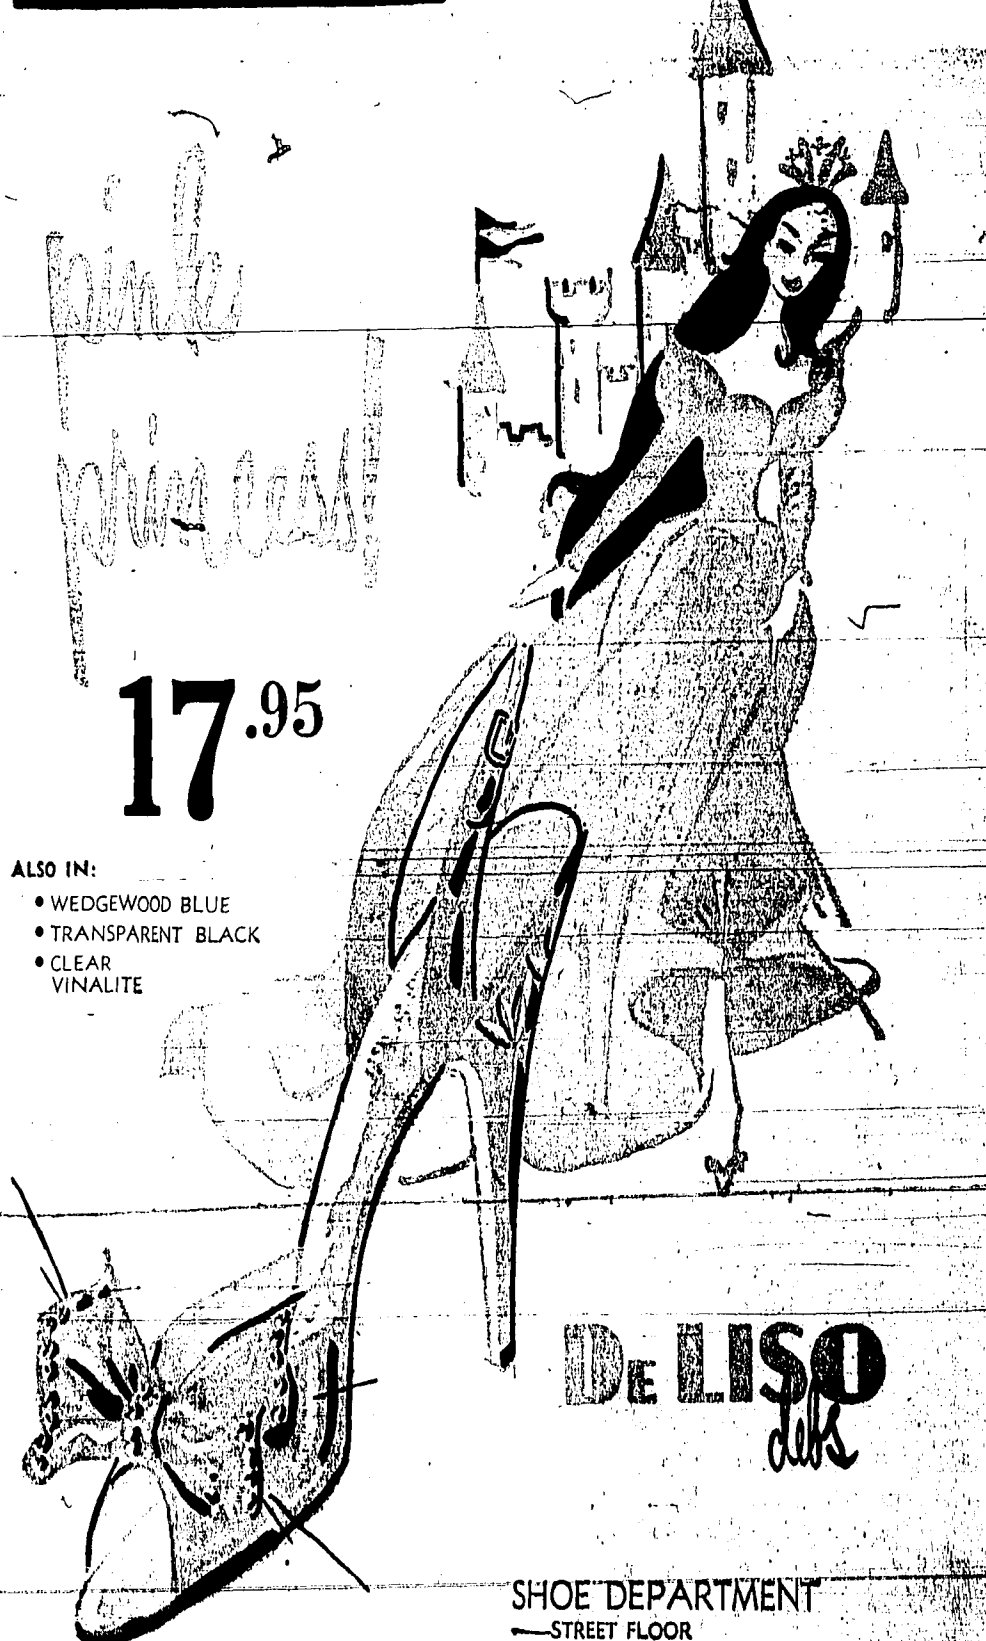

The wise home-planner, fully aware of this, often builds the living room arrangement around the music group and enhances the family's listening (and tele-viewing) pleasure by providing plenty of big, roomy lounge chairs and a luxuriously inviting sofa... pieces that will assure the maximum of comfort and relaxation.

If your group, or set, is on the more generous-sized side, you'll find that these pieces of equal importance and matched proportions will balance it and it won't appear to overpower the room. Sometimes placing the set off-center... or

Cassia Court Winter Term Calendar Set

BURLEY, Feb. 11—Frank Kearns, Cassia county auditor, reports the winter term of district court has been set and the calendar outlined.

On Feb. 14 the court will try Chester Buller, represented by T. H. Church, on charges of the theft of a John Deere Wheeland plow from Merrill Warr, Oakley. The only other criminal trial has been scheduled for Feb. 15 against Berlin Faught on a charge of failure to support his three minor children. Faught also is represented by Church.

Eight civil cases are scheduled for this term. On Feb. 16 will be Burley Estes versus Alvin Wageman. Estes charges Wageman was negligent in an automobile mishap on Sept. 26, 1953 and is asking for $1,013.77 damages. Lawrence Quinn, Twin Falls, is representing Estes, and Wageman is represented by Kales Lowe.

The court will hear the case of John McKelvey, represented by Jones, Pomeroy and Jones, Pocatello, against Lorin Lewis, represented by Kales Lowe. In this action, McKelvey claims Lewis took possession of 10 yearling heifers, valued at $1,000, without his permission and is asking for the total value plus six per cent interest from Nov. 12, 1954. This case is scheduled for Feb. 20.

Also on Feb. 20 the court will hear the case of John McKelvey against Wallace Banner who also is represented by Lowe. McKelvey claims Banner took 18 yearling heifers valued at $1,800 and is asking for the value plus six per cent interest from Nov. 12, 1954.

The case of Ivan Borz against Melvin J. Bailey will be heard Feb. 23 on a claim Bailey still owes Borz $1,105 for well drilling at Malta in 1954. Borz is asking for six per cent interest from April 7, 1955. Nielson and Nielson are attorneys for Borz, and Lowe is attorney for Bailey.

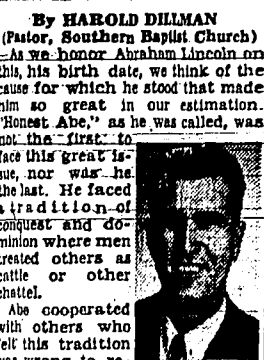

On Feb. 27 the court will hear the claim of Anne Barnes McCauley against Charles L. Barnes for failure to pay child support amounting to $5,400. The couple was divorced in Utah in 1948 and he was ordered to pay $50 a month for child support. She is represented by J. Alfred May, Twin Falls, and Barnes' attorney is Dean Kloepper.

A series of jury trials will be heard beginning March 19 for the Pacific Northwest Pipeline company for rights-of-way to lay pipeline for natural gas. The first two scheduled for March 19 and 21 are against K. C. Butler, Inc. Arbitrators appointed by the court to determine the amount Barlow should receive recommended $5,400. This was appealed by the pipeline company and a jury trial was requested.

On March 23, the case against Lovell Holyoak for a right of way will be heard. The case of the pipeline company against Fred Allen is set for March 28. Herman Bodke is attorney for the pipeline company and Lowe is representing the defendant.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

By HAROLD DILLMAN
(Pastor, Southern Baptist Church)
As we honor Abraham Lincoln on this, his birth date, we think of the cause for which he stood that made him so great in our estimation. "Honest Abe," as he was called, was not the first to face this great issue, nor was he the last. He faced a tradition of conquest and dominion where men treated others as cattle or other chattel.

Clerk Discusses Needs of School

RUPERT, Feb. 11—Financial needs for Minidoka county schools were discussed by Les Merrill, clerk of the school board, at a meeting of the RUPERT PTA Wednesday.

Merrill said valuations of property in Minidoka county are on the increase and that the average cost per pupil in the state is $145.03 a year while in Minidoka county the average is $117.60. He also pointed out that the average daily attendance in county schools is increasing.

A nominating committee was appointed to pick a slate of officers for the PTA election in March.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Mast, Mrs. Velly Linzy, Mrs. Ace Caldwell, Mrs. A. M. Mackley and Mrs. Enri Hutchins.

PLEADS GUILTY

RUPERT, Feb. 11—Rubeen Klein pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny when arraigned before District Judge R. W. Beckwith Friday. Judge Beckwith ordered a presentence examination and set March 1 as the time for sentencing.

was by force only the practice was removed, the desire was still in the hearts of practitioners. In many instances the reason was that the lords felt they were better than those who had been in bondage of slavery. They were looking from a materialistic standpoint rather than from the spiritual side.

Can you go back to the early part of the 18th century when men would go into Africa and hunt down these natives and herd them into boats like they were animals to be brought to America for sale or trade? This was sin blacker than the skins of those who were bought on the auction block.

This practice flourished for about 150 years to be stopped by the Civil war. We supposed the reason it was so hard to stop this tradition that had existed from the earliest recorded history was because it was a tradition. All traditions seem to have a grave fascination and are hard to break, even for something better.

When a babe was born into a slave home it was a slave and must be deemed if ever the condition was to be changed. Some were bought for a price and set free while others remained under the curse.

Election Slated by Wendell PTA Unit

The program was planned at an earlier special meeting of the program committee which includes Dr. and Mrs. John Hams, E. S. Lamb, Mrs. Arnold Albertson and Mrs. Ella Mae Parker.

Jurors Find for Parties to Action

JEROME, Feb. 11—After two and one-half hours of deliberation, a district court jury here Thursday found for both parties in a lawsuit with two causes of action.

Del-Motor company, Jerome, brought the action against Kenneth Peterson, Carey. One cause of action was based on a promissory note that was used in the down payment for an automobile and the other cause was based on the conditional sales contract. On the second cause the motor company was claiming a deficiency.

The jury found in favor of the motor company on the promissory note in the sum of $1,035. In the other cause of action the jury found in favor of the Carey man.

Pupils' Panel Is in Favor of New Building

BELLEVUE, Feb. 11—A panel of school students composed of Jim Spangenberg, Thomas North, Lawrence Peak and Freddie Carter presented opinions of schoolmates, as expressed at an assembly meeting, at the meeting of the Bellevue PTA Wednesday.

They said Bellevue pupils are 100 percent in favor of a central high school because pupils attending such school could do better in college than more scholarships are available in a large school.

School Supt. Paul Dempsey has requested each community to send representatives to meet with the board of trustees on Monday to advise the board on what each community wants for the schools.

Ray Rogers, James Wright and Orville Cameron are appointed to represent the Bellevue PTA and community at the meeting.

Mike Flenniken, principal of the Bellevue school, said Bellevue has been through its voting at previous bond elections. It is in favor of a central high school. In the event a central high school bond election does not carry, he told of improvements needed at the school here.

A nominating committee was named by the executive committee and includes Mrs. Ray Rogers, Mrs. John Stevens and Mrs. Charles Wright.

Mrs. Orville Cameron, Mrs. Willis Hefner, Mrs. Rod Peak and Mrs. McClure, seventh and eighth room mothers, served refreshments.

10,000 People in Valley Are Asked to Fight No. 1 Killer

An appeal to 10,000 residents of Magic Valley to help stamp out America's No. 1 killer—heart disease—was made Friday in letters asking for contributions to the Idaho Heart Association.

Locally, Camp Fire Girls of Can-O-Tawaki group prepared the letters for mailing. Enclosures include a sheet of air-mail stickers, which is the association's means of raising money, and a self-addressed envelope.

Preparation of the letters is under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Peavey, Twin Falls committee chairman. Recipients of the letters are requested to return contributions. Anyone not receiving a letter and who wishes to contribute may mail contributions to Weldon Haskins in care of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company, Twin Falls.

In appealing to Magic Valley residents to contribute generously to the fund, Dr. Luther Thompson, Twin Falls, president-elect of the association, said "We are at the beginning of the most important crusade for health that has never even been planned. We have a long way to go. We must protect both young and old from the hazard of today. Heart disease is our greatest killer."

Dr. Bernard Kriekamp and Norman Herzinger, both Twin Falls, are members of the board of directors and district chairman, respectively.

It was pointed out that heart disease is the cause of one out of every two deaths in the United States. Contributions to the fund support programs of research, education, and a continuing program aimed at conquering heart disease.

IDAHO POWER
Electricity... Does So MUCH Costs So LITTLE!

Heard About "BEST BARGAIN" Electricity?

Your automatic electric water heater entitles you to 700 BEST BARGAIN kilowatt-hours at only 9/10 of a cent each (after you have used your first 200 KWH). Since the water heater ordinarily uses only a portion of this BEST BARGAIN electricity, the balance can be used for other electrical conveniences.

For example with average family use, if you have BEST BARGAIN electricity to spare you can operate an electric dryer for only 54c a month.

Burley Youth Hold Program At PTA Meet

BURLEY, Feb. 11—Burley high school pupils presented a program on "Growing up in Burley" at the Southwest elementary school PTA meeting Thursday night.

The pupils, Dee Marsden, Irene Scott, Jean Chisholm, Lynn Thomas, Diane Wilson, Ray Clay, Hugh Stocks, and Carmi Sue Nichols, were introduced by Mrs. Kenneth Henderson.

Mrs. Henderson, student body president, outlined the various opportunities for students to hold leadership in the school. She said that each class has about eight leaders, each club has at least three leaders, and students have an opportunity in student government in the executive branch and the senate. "Every parent, he added, wants to see his child a leader, but a good follower is just as important as a leader."

Miss Scott, editor of the school paper, told how journalism in high school teaches pupils to "learn to meet various deadlines in their lives."

Miss Chisholm outlined advantages of musical instruction in the high school, noting "it gives the pupils a chance to compete with students from other communities and also helps them to learn to understand all types of music."

Thomas discussed the speech and drama department. He said that in drama, the pupils learn all phases of presenting plays including acting, scenery, lighting, make-up work, and costumes. Speech training, he said, teaches pupils to learn to speak publicly.

Miss Wilson emphasized the importance of business training for high school students. "We cannot escape business in our lives," she said.

Taylor told of the opportunities available in athletics. He said participation in athletic events teaches young people good sportsmanship.

The science and mathematics departments were described by Clay who said that Burley high school offers all classes of mathematics necessary to enter further study in college.

Stocks told the PTA members that courses are offered which will qualify pupils to enter any college, and he said that many opportunities are offered for winning scholarships.

Miss Nichols was moderator.

The members voted in favor of the pre-school health plan outlined by Dr. J. B. Kirchner.

A nominating committee including Gene Price, Mrs. Joe Olenchak, and Ray Coltrin was elected.

It was announced that the annual PTA carnival will be held Friday in the Burley armory beginning at 8 p.m.

Panel to Meet

SHOEHORNE, Feb. 11—Lincoln county commissioners will meet at the courthouse Monday to adopt the budget for 1956. Cuts may be made in the tentative budget but no raises can be made.

The tentative budget was set at $329,870.80. Last year's approved budget was $288,678.90.

Event Announced

BUHL, Feb. 11—Buhl Rotarians Thursday announced farmers night will be held Feb. 25.

G. W. Alwood, publicity chairman for the state Junior Chamber of Commerce, introduced Robert Erkins who talked on the recommendations of the Hoover commission plan.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Once a year the Blaine county American Legion post drops its usual role of being a patriotic organization and becomes the producer of a variety show. The show, described as the Legion Loonies, has become better and better with the passing years.

This year the Loonies will take on the theme of the diamond jubilee of the city of HAILEY and will be the first presentation in a long list of attractions to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the community. Dates for the show are March 23 and 24.

Jay Deering is general chairman of the show this year. James Leichter and Theron Buhler head the property committee and Kenneth Burrell is in charge of curtain. Fred Allen will head the fire and door guard and Buster Bridges will be in charge of scenery. Joe Astorquia and Lyle Brennenman will handle seating; Nate Scott, sound; Don Downard, stage light; and Robert Rigen, spotlights.

Orin Shirts is in charge of advertising and Delmer Nicholson is in charge of publicity and the public address system. Downard will take charge of posters advertising the event and Eldon Ames will see to it cards are sent to other Legion posts. Elwin Shipp is responsible for programs and John Bolliger, tickets. Bolliger also is chairman of the finance committee. Leon Freidman will handle tickets at the door. Jack Engeln will be responsible for making change and Fred Board and Anthony Bonin, program sales.

William Rutter and William Savelberg will be in charge of the ushers and Engeln the advance ticket sales. Bolliger and Oscar Cline will act as watchdogs over expense control. Deering will send out invitations to guests and will head a panel to select the judges for the various events.

Cline will act as director chairman of the show and will coordinate the rehearsal schedule. J. C. Mitchell will pick up loose ends as chairman of the miscellaneous arrangements committee. Under his jurisdiction will come the selection of prizes for the best acts.

Cline also will direct the Legion's act in the show, assisted by Robert Roberson. Mrs. Joe Astorquia will be in charge of the auxiliary's act. Organizations throughout Wood river valley are being invited to enter acts in the show as in years past. All the acts this year, however, should gravitate around the diamond jubilee theme, the Legion reports.

A queen will reign at the diamond jubilee in HAILEY this year but she still remains to be named. Louis Arambart, Mrs. Floyd Wilson and Mrs. Orin Shirts are to work out the formalities and rules for selecting the queen. Mrs. Shirts, Mrs. George McKay and Mrs. M. L. Elinger have volunteered to do the secretarial work for the project.

Jean Schuppenies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Schuppenies, former residents of SHOSHONE who now live at Rigby, will begin teaching in the high school at Afton, Wyo., on Monday. She was among the students of Idaho State college to be graduated in January. She will receive her BA degree in education-business at commencement exercises in June. In addition she will be qualified to receive both an elementary and secondary teaching certificate.

Miss Schuppenies was graduated from Shoshone high school in 1951. During high school she was active in the band and chorus. She plays both the saxophone and the piano. She also has been a member of the college orchestra that has played for the Shoshone Fireman's Ball at New Year's eve for the past several years.
