Rival Groups Each Claim Decision in Forthcoming Farm Supports Balloting

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Rival camps staked out conflicting victory claims today in the hot political battle over rigid vs. flexible farm price supports.

Senator Ellender, D., La., spokesman for a group who wants rigid mandatory supports restored, said in an interview "we ought to win by about five votes."

"I don't agree with him," said Senator Aiken, R., Va., who wants the present flexible supports continued. "My guess is that rigid supporters will be defeated by from five to seven votes," Aiken told a reporter.

The senate is under agreement to start voting Thursday.

The initial test should come on a move by Senator Anderson, D., N.M., former secretary of agriculture, to eliminate a rigid support provision for cotton, corn and peanuts from an omnibus bill that has been debated for most of the past two weeks.

Two years ago the senate by a 49-46 margin voted to end rigid wartime supports and approved a system of lower, flexible supports.

Those favoring the flexible supports then included 39 Republicans and 10 Democrats. On the losing side were 36 Democrats and eight Republicans.

"We should win this time by about the same margin that we lost two years ago," Ellender said. "The other side is counting some senators who won't vote for them."

Aiken said the senate is closely divided again but that he is confident of the final result as he was in 1954.

So far only two senators have announced they have changed positions.

Senator Eastland, D., Miss., who supported the rigid levels last time, said he wants flexible supports now for cotton and other basic crops.

Senator Carlson, R., Kans., who voted for flexible supports in 1954 has announced he favors rigid supports on wheat for this year's crops to be followed by a trial of a "domestic parity price" plan. This is roughly described as a two-price plan, one for domestic markets and one for foreign markets.

Snow Survey Shows Big Runoff of Water

Snow measurements taken Friday in the watersheds of the Salmon tract indicate a large percentage of snow on the ground will reach the Salmon reservoir in the form of runoff.

W. A. Loughmiller, chairman of the board of supervisors of the Twin Falls Soil Conservation district, said the soil is saturated to the depth of three feet, indicating a great percentage of the water in the snow pack will reach the reservoir instead of going into the ground.

"The survey was made by Glenn Nelson and John Pastoor, supervisors of the district; Eugene Grif and Ralph Ward, farmers in the district; Lewis Clark, forest service ranger, and Walter Hankins of the soil conservation district.

Magic mountain, where the 10-year average of water content in the snow is 18.5 inches, now has 62 inches of snow with 20.4 inches of water. At this time in 1955 there were 48 inches of snow and 11.2 inches of water.

Trial Request Based On Iverson Hypnosis

GOODING, March 3—A 60-page amended petition for a new trial for Joe Iverson, 17, Gooding, who is serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary on a charge of lewd and lascivious conduct with a minor girl, was filed here Saturday by May and May, Twin Falls, Iverson's attorneys.

The amended petition includes 26 pages on an interview with Iverson on Feb. 11 while Iverson was under hypnosis. The petition also claims Iverson was deprived of his constitutional rights during the investigation of the crime, that he was deprived of his defense at the trial by force, fear and duress, that he was a victim of amnesia and that one of the jurors at his trial was guilty of misconduct.

Iverson was convicted by a district court jury on May 15, 1954, and sentenced to life imprisonment by District Judge D. H. Sutphen. The conviction was appealed to the supreme court and the verdict of the district court was upheld. His attorneys then asked for a rehearing, which petition also was denied.

Following this, May and May were retained as his attorneys and a writ of error coram nobis (petition for a new trial) was filed. At the same time an affidavit of prejudice was filed against Judge Sutphen and Judge Hugh A. Baker, Twin Falls, took Judge Sutphen's place.

Following arguments on the writ, Judge Baker ruled there was insufficient evidence to support the petition as it stood and granted an extension of time for Iverson's attorneys to amend their petition. It is this amended petition that was filed Saturday.

As a part of the original petition, the attorneys submitted a confession.

Negroes Face Damage Claim For 4 Millions

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 3 (AP)—Damage suits totaling four million dollars against Autherine Lucy, four other Negroes and the NAACP, set the stage today for new legal wrangling over the Negro college's attempt to return to the University of Alabama.

The four suits, filed in superior court in Birmingham yesterday, accused the defendants of trying to stir up "hate and strife" for "purposes of advancing their own financial gain."

Tells of Payment

They charged Miss Lucy had no "real desire" to go to the university and was being paid $300 a month by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Mrs. Polly Ann Hudson, who filed jointly with Miss Lucy a federal suit that opened the university to Negroes for the first time in its 125-year history, was charged as being "a woman of loose morals and unfit to associate with students." They said Mrs. Hudson, the former Miss Polly Ann Myers "with child although not a married woman."

Mrs. Hudson was rejected for admission to the campus on the ground of "personal morals and is now seeking a divorce from her husband, Edward Hudson, a $35 a week steelworker, who said that their separation was planned so his wife could enter the all-white school.

Answers Charge

In his answer to the divorce action this week, Hudson charged his wife was being paid $300 a month by the NAACP.

The suits also named the NAACP organization, NAACP special counsel Thurgood Marshall and attorneys Constance Motley and Arthur Shores.

The damage suits were brought by four non-students, accused by Miss Lucy of conspiracy with university officials in creating campus riots which prompted the school trustees to order her original expulsion for her own safety.

Road, Trains Are Blocked By Avalanche

HELENA, Mont., March 3 (AP)—Thousands of tons of thawing snow and mud today thundered onto east-west U.S. highway 2 and the Great Northern Railway company main line, blocking traffic near the Continental Divide.

Howling winds reported unofficially at up to hurricane velocities—75 miles per hour or worse, and driving blizzards paralyzed efforts of Montana highway department crews to break through.

"It has been too dangerous for the men to work today," said a Montana highway department official. "It may be five or six days before traffic can be resumed on U.S. 2."

The railroad's workmen were reported to have had narrow escapes from sliding snow on several occasions.

At least three of the Great Northern's top passenger trains were held up.

The avalanche on U.S. 2 was 600 feet long and 75 feet deep, the highway department spokesman said. It was the 14th slide in the Essex area since Wednesday night. No casualties have been reported.

Plan Offered

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Federal mediators handed company and union officials today a complete package proposal for settlement of the Westinghouse Electric corporation strike. They asked both sides for a reply Monday.

Details of the proposal were not made public immediately, but the mediators obviously were hopeful it would provide the solution for the longest major strike in the last 20 years.

Load Limits

Load limits will be placed on all Twin Falls district roads the first part of the week, J. D. Sinema, district highway engineer, reported following the commissioners' meeting Saturday.

He also reported the board voted to lease 15 1/2 shares of water this summer to J. H. Monroe.

A group of stockmen from Hagerman met with the board to discuss possible improvement of the Owsley-Crow's Nest road.

In other business the board authorized payment of payrolls and administrative bills.

Special Meeting Planned Tuesday to Air Problem Of Proposed "Eastgate"

Further efforts to clarify the position of the City of Twin Falls and residents of an area south and east of the city who are seeking to incorporate the village of Eastgate will be made Tuesday at a special meeting.

Meanwhile the three-man board of county commissioners is going ahead to determine legality of a petition presented for incorporation of the village.

Several signers of the petition will be invited to the Tuesday meeting to explain their attitude and position on the matter. Chamber of Commerce Manager Kenneth Montgomery is arranging the Tuesday meeting. Directors of the Chamber of Commerce met Friday with city and county commissioners.

City Commission Chairman Lyons Smith noted during the meeting that information available from the city and county commissioners would supply part of the answers to the petition.

Smith told the group the petitioners will not be opposed in their action but asked to explain their future plans for development of the village.

In outlining the city's position, Smith explained the city had planned annexation of the major part of the proposed village before the petition was filed. The plan was dropped, he said, in view of pending zoning plans and opposition from property owners in the area.

An ordinance annexing the land was rejected after a third reading on Feb. 13.

On Feb. 20 the city commission instructed City Attorney Robert N. W.

Fears Mount On Spread of Plant Strikes

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Government labor experts expressed fears today that a rash of east coast airplane plant strikes may spread to key plane and guided missile factories across the nation.

Labor union contracts with virtually all major aircraft and missile producers from coast to coast have either expired or are running out in a matter of days or weeks.

These are the giant plants of such producers as Douglas, Lockheed, Convair, Republic, Fairchild, Boeing and North American which make the long range bombers and super-missiles that form the keystone of the defense program.

Because of their importance to the nation it is believed certain that President Eisenhower would invoke the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley act to stop a spreading wave of strikes.

Walkouts so far have been confined to the New York metropolitan area where four Long Island plants of Republic Aviation corporation have been idled for two weeks. The AFL-CIO mechanists are seeking higher wages and a pension plan. Negotiations appear stymied but are to resume Monday.

A second strike was begun yesterday by the same union against a division of the Fairchild Airplane Engine company at Bay Shore, N.Y.

A third strike, by the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers, threatens on

Probe Slated On Boost for Freight Rates

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Senator Smathers, D., Fla., announced today a senate subcommittee heads will investigate railroad freight rates.

His statement followed yesterday's action by the interstate commerce commission in permitting a multi-million-dollar rate increase to take effect next Wednesday.

"It is my general impression that the railroads had done well financially last year and so far this year," Smathers said. He added, however, he was not questioning the necessity of the boost allowed by the ICC.

Smathers is chairman of the senate commerce committee's surface transportation subcommittee.

The ICC allowed an increase that in general amounts to about six per cent and is expected to result in some 423 million dollars additional annual revenues for the carriers. The increase will be subject to review by the ICC.

He did not fix a definite date for the inquiry but said he wants "an early hearing."

Officials Parley

NEW DELHI, India, March 3 (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd conferred today with Prime Minister Nehru after flying here from the troubled Middle East.

Official sources said one of the main topics of the 2 1/2 hour meeting was the Baghdad pact, a chief cause of friction between some Arab states and the West.

New Wave of Cold Shivers Parts of U.S.

By The Associated Press

A fast-moving cold front dropped temperatures into the 30s in parts of the Midwest Saturday, but no severe weather was in prospect.

In advance of the cooler air, showers and thunderstorms sprinkled Tennessee, the Ohio valley and parts of the Southeast.

Showers also dampened parts of Oregon and snow fell in Washington in the wake of gale winds that lashed these areas Friday night.

Snow and strong winds hit Montana.

An avalanche of thawing snow and mud closed east-west U.S. highway 2 in Montana and the Great Northern railway main line near the continental divide. A highway official said it may be days or six days before traffic can be resumed.

There were snow flurries in the northern Rockies.

BIDS ACCEPTED

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The White House said today that Mexican President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines and Canadian Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent have accepted President Eisenhower's invitation to meet with him at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., this month.

Crews Take Snow From State Roads

By The Associated Press

Highway crews removed snow and debris from state route 4 in Burke canyon Saturday, clearing the road for two-way traffic through the area hit by a snowslide Friday.

Meanwhile another slide was reported on Cuddezac hill on U.S. 95. The highway was open to one-way traffic. It was snowing there and there was a blizzard on Lookout pass.

U.S. 191 north of Ashton was closed for a while by drifting snow, but reopened later in the day. State 33 from Sugar City to Victor was first restricted to one-way traffic and then closed.

U.S. 26 was closed from Ririe to Swan Valley, as were state route 32 from Ashton to Tetonla and state route 47 at Falls river.

High winds were reported in eastern Idaho and in the Lewiston-Moscow area. Roads in southwestern Idaho were generally dry. State 15, however, was wet and slushy from McCall to New Meadows.

Blizzard conditions were reported around Boise on state route 28 and on state highway 48 between Gooding and Parkfield. Some icy spots were reported on south central and southeastern Idaho roads.

Temperatures stayed above the freezing mark in the early morning hours and climbed by midafternoon to such readings as 46 at Malad, 43 at Boise, 42 at Gooding, 41 at Burley, and 40 at Twin Falls. The weather bureau said colder weather was coming.

Campaign of Prop Ceiling Gets Delayed

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The administration has sidetracked for the time being its recommendations for a dollar and cent ceiling on individual farm price supports.

This came to light today in a new one-package farm bill sent to the house agriculture committee by Secretary Benson at the request of Chairman Cobby, D., N.C.

In an accompanying letter, Benson noted the draft bill "does not contain a provision placing a limitation on the amount of price support loans which may be obtained by any individual farmer."

He told Cobby: "It was contemplated that congress should consider the proposal and determine if legislation is necessary."

He gave the same reason for omitting earlier proposals to place marketing quotas for cotton on a pound or bale basis, instead of on an acreage basis as now.

Both had been suggested in general terms by President Eisenhower in his special "farm message" to congress Jan. 6.

Without naming a specific amount, Eisenhower said "I ask the congress to consider placing a dollar limit on the size of price support loans to any one individual or farming unit. The limit should be sufficiently high to give full protection to efficiently operated family farms."

The senate agriculture committee, which wrote its own bill, omitted any such limitation, but amendments are pending to include a limit in the bill now being debated in the senate. Voting starts March 8.

Jinxed Spot Claims Globemaster, Crew

LONDON, March 3 (AP)—A U.S. air force Globemaster carrying 17 persons crashed in flames in the stormy North Atlantic early today at the same jinxed spot where it almost ran into disaster a week ago.

Two bits of wreckage—a flame-scared oxygen bottle and a shattered piece of smoked plywood—picked up in the area where the giant military transport sounded its last frantic SOS were the only traces found. Lifeboats, rescue ships and search planes pined steadily over the area 250 miles southwest of Iceland in a waning hope of finding survivors.

Most of those aboard were air force personnel. The plane—a C-124—was flying from Iceland to Goose Bay, Labrador, and New York with its ultimate destination Warner-Robbins air base in Georgia.

The Globemaster is one of the largest transports ever built. It can carry 95 per cent of all the types of field equipment issued by the army, and with a second deck can accommodate 200 soldiers and their packs.

Just after midnight the plane radioed in "May Day" (extreme distress) signals that three of its four engines were dead and that it was losing altitude rapidly. Then the radio went dead.

Last Saturday the same plane radioed from 6242 degrees north, 2047 west—almost exactly the same position as this Saturday—that two of its engines were out and that it was preparing to ditch. But that incident had a thrilling and happy ending. While the pilot nursed his remaining two engines, air-sea rescue planes shepherded the ailing craft into a safe landing at Keflavik air base in Iceland.

The air force said the pilot and crew were the same this time as last Saturday.

The names of the crew and passengers were not disclosed. Sixteen persons were aboard a week ago.

Reason Given For Firing of British Pasha

BEIRUT, Lebanon, March 3 (AP)—Jordan's King Hussein fired Lieut. Gen. John Bagot Glubb for refusing to reorganize his Arab Legion to meet a possible Israeli attack, his government's radio said today.

The king—hailed as a new hero of the Arab world—immediately drew a pledge of all-out aid from Syria, Egypt and Saudi Arabia in event of aggression," a dispatch from Damascus reported.

The 20-year-old monarch's sun was rising in the tense Middle East as that of Britain—and the United States—sank lower.

The radio in Jordan's capital of Amman said Glubb was dismissed because he defied the king's demand that the legion be reorganized to meet any aggression from Israel on Jordan's western frontier.

"The king demanded that military plans be made for an attack if the Israelis attacked Jordan," the radio said in the first public explanation of the action.

King Hussein himself seemed to take on a more belligerent manner. He appeared the morning before a

Buhl Chess Player Leads Field for State Tourney

Glen Buckendorf, Buhl, led play-offers from four states as the 1956 Idaho state chess tournament reached the fifth of seven rounds Saturday at the Rogerson hotel.

The tourney will be completed by Sunday evening. It started Friday morning. Dick Vandenberg, Boise, is defending champion, but he trailed after completion of more than half the tourney.

Buckendorf was undefeated in the first four rounds. Right behind him was Harold Hughes, Boise, who had one defeat. Then came Fred Byron, Portland, and Dr. David Greenig, Caldwell.

Final two rounds will be played Sunday. There will be a banquet at 7 p.m. Sunday, election of officers and introduction of winners.

Lloyd Kimpton, Twin Falls, is the tourney director. "Competing are chess-players of Idaho, Utah, Nevada and Oregon."

"The highest-ranking Idaho player will be named Idaho champion and the tournament winner will be named Idaho invitational champion. A prize will be given the Idaho champion and other prizes will be given."

The seven-round Swiss system is being used. Three games were played Friday, two games Saturday and the final two are on Sunday. Sunday's play is billed from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 1:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Meeting Set

POOATLELO, March 3 (AP)—Directors of the Idaho Farm Bureau today suggested legal penalties for delinquent parents who permit their children to run wild.

"The startling juvenile crime conditions existing today reflect that in America the home is falling in its traditional function as the first and foremost classroom—a place of learning how to live as well as a place of living," he said in a signed editorial in the FBI Law-Enforcement Bulletin.

Hoover noted that more than a half-million youngsters between the ages of 10 and 17 were arrested in this country in 1954, and said that the current record birth rate forecasts a steadily increasing juvenile problem in the years ahead.

Delinquency, he said, is not confined to any one stratum of society or type of community.

"It is my firm belief that juvenile crime could be abated if parents were made to face legal and financial responsibility for the criminal acts of their children," Hoover said.

Aircraft Firm Studies Idaho Site for Plant

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Sen. Henry Dworshak, R., Idaho, said today a representative of the Glenn Martin Aircraft company plans to inspect the navy ordnance plant at Pocatello for possible future use.

The navy announced some time ago it planned to shut down the Pocatello installation on June 1. Later it said the plant would continue to operate at present levels during the current year.

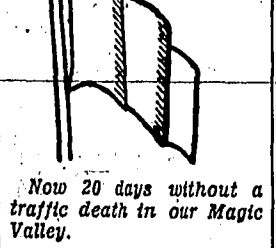

Since then Idaho's congressional delegation has been busy trying to interest governmental or private interests in taking over the plant and expanding its use.

Dworshak said he has asked A. L. Varrier, Denver, vice president of Martin, to inspect the Pocatello plant as a possible site for work on Martin's missile research program.

The senator said Varrier plans to send an inspector to Pocatello soon to determine whether machine shop facilities could be used by Martin subcontractors.

Dworshak also said he has been assured by Reuben Robertson, deputy secretary of defense, that the navy secretary has been "alarmed fully to the task of continuing studies for the expanded use" of the plant.

Equality Eyed In Handling of Senate Probes

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Senator Bridges, R., N. H., said today that, insofar as possible, Republicans and Democrats should have an equal voice in the direction of a coming investigation of lobbying and campaign expenditures.

Bridges is the senior GOP member on a special committee set up to look into any improper or illegal attempts to influence senators or other government officials. He has been working with Senator Gore, D., Tenn., to hammer out an agreement on operating rules for the inquiry.

Membership Split

Gore is expected to be elected chairman and Bridges vice chairman of the eight-member committee, equally divided between Democrats and Republicans.

Bridges told newsmen that the Republican members of the committee "want a definite settlement of the rules before we elect a chairman, a vice chairman, and a counsel."

Progress Noted

While no final agreement has been reached, both Bridges and Gore have reported making progress since the first regular meeting of the committee last Wednesday bogged down in a partisan dispute over rules of procedure for the $350,000 investigation.

The investigation was ordered as a sequel to a separate inquiry into whether a $250,000 campaign contribution which Sen. Francis Case, R., S. D., refused to accept from an oil company lobbyist was an attempt to influence his vote in the natural gas bill.

Rescue Made Of 5 Persons From Cantuta
PANAMA, March 3 (AP)—Four men and a woman who hoped to star in a movie thriller made at sea recuperated today aboard a rescue ship in the Pacific—safed from the perils of the storm-tossed raft Cantuta.

Their food almost gone after 90 days of drifting, the adventurers were taken from their 30-by-13 foot balsa perch last night by lifeboats from the U. S. hydrographic survey ship Rehoboth.

Amateur radio operator Juan Francisco Arias of Panama said the Rehoboth's operator messaged that the Peruvian raft's crew appeared in good condition although weak from lack of food.

Peruvian Eduardo Ingris, 45, a professional photographer, headed the expedition, which set out from Talara, Peru, last Dec. 4, hoping to vagaries of winds and water would carry them to the South Sea Islands. The voyagers were picked up about 1,000 miles northwest of the Galapagos islands, thousands of miles from their goal.

Whether the five would ask for supplies and attempt to continue their Pacific crossing was not immediately known.

Farm's Needs Are Stressed By Stevenson

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 3 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, continuing his drive for support in the March 20 Minnesota presidential primary, said today more than the soil bank program is needed to check falling farm income.

"We are going to need price supports at 90 per cent of parity," he told an audience of more than 600, most of them farmers, in Litchfield, 70 miles west of here.

"We need a program of farm credit which will help the farmers get loans at fairer interest rates. We need a farm program which is administered by democratically-elected committees of farmers to administer the price support, storage, acreage allotment, crop insurance and conservation payment plans.

"Above all, the entire farm program must be in the hands of people who really want to do something about the farm problem instead of sitting on their hands."

The former Illinois governor emphasized the importance of education and accused the Eisenhower administration of failing in its job to ward education.

"The Eisenhower administration has been liberal with words on education but it has been mighty backward with deeds," he said.

Role Is Asked On Peace Use For A-Energy

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Industry's views on its own role and that of the government in developing peacetime uses of atomic energy will be outlined next week to a congressional committee.

Sessions of the senate-house atomic energy committee will provide further discussion of recommendations made after extensive study by a civilian advisory panel headed by Robert McKinney, editor and publisher of the Santa Fe New Mexican. The hearings, starting Monday, are to last at least two days.

The atomic energy commission presented its views in two days of hearings this week. Members agreed with substantial portions of the report, but took issue with others.

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss, speaking for most of the commission members, discounted the need for all-out government efforts to push development of atomic power reactors. Saying private industry is proceeding satisfactorily with this task, he expressed confidence that America is staying "well ahead of the rest of the world."

AEC Commissioner Thomas F. Murray has called for a "crash" program for pushing power production, with strong federal support as a means of assuring America's lead.

Civil Rights Bill Will Go to Solons

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The administration is expected to send its civil rights program to congress next week.

Members of the house civil rights bloc said yesterday they believed it will call for new safeguards for Negro voting rights.

They said they expected it to be sent to the civil rights—touchy capitol in a matter of days.

The program is certain to get a cool reception from southern congressmen—many in key positions. Only yesterday Sen. James O. Eastland, D., Miss., became chairman of the senate judiciary committee.

Rotary Clubs Hear Talk by Caldwell Man

Good government is everybody's business. It rests on the ideals, interests and actions of the individuals it represents, so we get the kind of government we deserve, Erwin H. Schwiebert, Caldwell, told Magic Valley Rotarians Saturday night.

Addressing an inter-city assembly of Rotarians and their wives, the former state legislator pointed to responsible individualism as a requisite of all good citizens.

Members of Rotary clubs from Buhl, Burley, Jerome, Shoshone and Twin Falls attended the dinner-dance at the Turf club.

"The greatest enemies of good government are insincerity and moral laxity," Schwiebert declared. "Misinformation, half-truths, subversive activity or 'don't give a darn'ism and pocket-book politics are prime enemies of good government."

Schwiebert defined responsible individualism as an acceptance of obligations and duties of free men.

In elaborating on the individual's responsibility to good government, Schwiebert said, "Those who scoff at morality and religion are in bad company; those who duck personal citizenship responsibility saying that a single individual can make no difference are unconsciously expressing the totalitarian ideas the individual doesn't count."

James M. Cunningham was toastmaster. A musical program was presented for the Rotarians.

Distinguished guests included Rotary District Gov. Roger Mendonhall, Boise; Mrs. Schwiebert accompanied her husband to the meeting. President of the Twin Falls Rotary club is C. H. Higgins.

Probers Plan Meeting With State Officials

who renewed an earlier attack Friday with an enlarged statement.

In his previous attack Barlow cited a survey made by a federal team of the situation for the blind in Arkansas and said the report of the survey team had been rejected as "incompetent."

In his statement Friday he lists four reasons why the Arkansas report had been rejected but did not repeat his charge of "incompetence."

Barlow's statement follows:

In rejecting the survey of the Arkansas school for the Blind, Governor Faubus of Arkansas cited four reasons for his rejection of the report:

1. The report, "while containing many laudable and praiseworthy recommendations," also contained material and "comments which I know of my own knowledge not to be justified."
2. The report and the survey have been used as the basis for a membership drive among the state's blind and "such a drive actually was started before the survey was commenced."
3. It "apparently doesn't consider or acknowledge the wonderful work and fine attitude of the Lions clubs of Arkansas in their contribution to and support of the southwest rehabilitation center at Little Rock. This is a work with which I am familiar because of my affiliation with and membership in the Lions clubs."
4. The report includes personality criticisms "which should not be included in a document of this kind."

The governor further stated, "Since the report has become a springboard for controversy rather than a basis for a calm examination of any shortcomings that our varied programs for the blind have, I am compelled to reject it in its entirety."

Rescue Made Of 5 Persons From Cantuta

PANAMA, March 3 (AP)—Four men and a woman who hoped to star in a movie thriller made at sea recuperated today aboard a rescue ship in the Pacific—safed from the perils of the storm-tossed raft Cantuta.

Their food almost gone after 90 days of drifting, the adventurers were taken from their 30-by-13 foot balsa perch last night by lifeboats from the U. S. hydrographic survey ship Rehoboth.

Amateur radio operator Juan Francisco Arias of Panama said the Rehoboth's operator messaged that the Peruvian raft's crew appeared in good condition although weak from lack of food.

Peruvian Eduardo Ingris, 45, a professional photographer, headed the expedition, which set out from Talara, Peru, last Dec. 4, hoping to vagaries of winds and water would carry them to the South Sea Islands. The voyagers were picked up about 1,000 miles northwest of the Galapagos islands, thousands of miles from their goal.

Whether the five would ask for supplies and attempt to continue their Pacific crossing was not immediately known.

Trouble Plaguing New Organization

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—An attempt to “stop Eisenhower,” stymie the Democratic presidential nominee and throw the presidential election into the house of representatives is being planned by some leaders of an organization called “For America.”

But it has run into a family quarrel right at the start. Gen. Mark Clark (ret.), who has been listed as a member of the national policy committee of “For America” said last night he would have nothing to do with any “stop Ike” movement.

Strategists of the movement contend that leadership of both major parties is tainted with “international socialism.”

Brig. Gen. Boner Fellers (ret.), national director of For America, said the hope is to get voters to choose enough independent presidential electors to make it possible to elect a conservative as the next president.

Report States Two Irrigation Reservoirs Are Not Feasible

LEWISTON, March 3 (AP)—A pro-posed irrigation reservoir on the headwaters of Mission creek near here would be economically justified, but two others on the Lapwai creek watershed would not, a preliminary report by the soil conservation service indicates.

The technical report, compiled by SCS engineers, geologists and economists, weighs the economic feasibility cost more than the irrigation benefits they would provide.

3. That all three proposed sites are too high on the streams to provide significant flood control benefits. Therefore, the federal government would be able to pay less than 13 per cent of project costs.

The watershed study was begun last summer at the request of the Nez Perce and Lewis soil conservation districts. A public hearing on the preliminary report will be held at Lewiston March 8.

The two soil conservation districts have long sought a plan to control damaging flood water in the Lapwai creek watershed area and utilize them for irrigation purposes.

Last summer they obtained permission for a survey of the area, utilizing provisions of the small watersheds act of 1954.

Under the act, the federal government can support small flood control projects by paying half the cost of reservoir construction if the reservoirs are deemed beneficial for flood control and are built to federal standards.

On a cost-benefit ratio, if reservoirs are found only partly useful for flood control—and if the people still want them for irrigation purposes—the federal government will pay only that portion of the cost for which flood control benefits can be claimed.

In the deeply-ridged basin which forms the Lapwai creek watershed, some 60 families till about 3,200 acres of arable land along the main creek and its tributaries. The land lies both in Nez Perce and Lewis counties.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday, Ray Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international politics and personalities. Questions may be sent to him at 7005 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Has the handling of national and international problems suffered because of President Eisenhower's absences from the White House?" inquires Mrs. H. K. Altona, Pa. "I notice that quite a few people think he has not been able to give enough attention to official business."

Answer: It would be foolish to say that there has not been some slow-down and indecision at Washington as a result of Eisenhower's enforced absences and his physical inability to handle questions himself. But this aspect of his illness has been exaggerated, and, in my opinion, for political reasons.

POT SHOTS

FOUND: AUTHOR, VERSE

The Hiram Olsons of Buhl share with us their Twin Falls Times-News, and I note in the Pot Shots for Feb. 24 a part of a poem entitled Live Forever. No one seemed to know who wrote it and various printings had changed it quite a bit. The poem was written by Stoddard King, Journalist who lived in Spokane. He wrote it for his friend, Norman Adkinson, editor of Golden Idaho. It was first published in Golden Idaho. Stoddard King is better known for the song "There's a Long, Long Trail a-Winding" popular during the first World War. He died in the early '30's.

I have a letter in my files giving me permission to use this poem in a second anthology of Idaho verse, which I never was able to publish. The middle verse of the poem should not be omitted as I think it is the best one. It goes like this, if my memory serves me:

For some the lore of the Jersey shore
Goes straight to their solar plexus;
Some harbor a hope to throw a rope
On the beautiful plains of Texas.
And some find charm on an Iowa farm
And love each fertile acre,
But Idaho's hills will cure your ills
And baffle the undertaker.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—A report based on first-hand observation adds another note of warning that education in the Soviet Union is far outstripping education in the United States.

The massive educational program still expanding in Russia, under which today nearly twice as many students are enrolled above the high school level as in this country, is one reason for the extraordinary confidence expressed by Soviet leaders at the recent 20th congress of the Communist party.

For as the latest warning, from former Sen. William Benton, of Connecticut, makes clear, the Soviet educational system is geared to win the cold war.

Benton, who made an intensive study of Soviet education and propaganda last year, says that system is producing a surplus of engineers and technicians who will be assigned to carry out technical assistance in every uncommitted country of the world. While getting their scientific training, they are thoroughly indoctrinated in the Marxist-Leninist line. There are schools—and this seems to have escaped the attention of even specialists whose business is to know what is going on in Russia—in which all the training from the first grade on is in English, French or German. Graduates of these schools have a fluent working knowledge of the language they will need when they are sent abroad to do a technical—and propaganda—job.

With a Russian speaking interpreter and assistant, Benton took a tour of Soviet Russia, universities, technical institutes, laboratories and libraries. In a 30,000-word article for the Britannica Yearbook, of which he is publisher, Benton writes:

"The Soviets are now challenging us frontally at what have historically been two of our strongest points, technology and mass education. The present rate of Russian educational advance is faster than our own, just as their growth-rate in industrial production surpasses ours. The gap in total performance is closing. It is closing rapidly."

"In less than 30 years the Soviets have created a primary school system rivaling our own in university, with nearly 100 per cent enrollment. Their secondary school system is mushrooming amazingly. By 1960 every Russian youngster is to be given an education at least comparable to a better high school diploma.

"They have already surpassed us in both the number and percentage of students enrolled in institutions above the secondary level—with a 300,000,000."

In two speeches late last year, Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the atomic energy commission, sounded an equally grave alarm. He said it was evident the United States was rapidly falling behind Soviet Russia in the training of scientists and technicians with the "certainty that we are turning out less than one-half the number of scientists and engineers we require—an alarm to Strauss, in the high schools where science training has long been inadequate and standards of science teaching dropping rapidly. He cited the fact more than half of all American high schools fail to teach physics or chemistry.

In contrast, Benton points out that in the last years of secondary school, Soviet students must take four years of mathematics, including algebra, geometry and trigonometry.

Is That So!

Many Animals Can Boast Of Really Long Lineage

While man may boast pompously about a lineage that goes back to the overcrowded Hesperian (1620) or that his forebears fought in the Battle of Hastings (1066) there could have been standing room only in that encounter, (1066), there are many living mammals today whose ancestors hark back not just a thousand years, or a hundred thousand but millions of years before man even walked upright.

Strangely, the fossil remains of these ancestors are almost identical to their descendants today. So they are alike, in fact, that people digging up these million-year old skeletons often toes them aside mistaking them for modern animals.

Among the come-latelies of these living fossils are the bison (buffalo) of our plains and the musk ox of our northland. Both of these mammals, closely related to modern cattle, lived in North America, looking much as they do today, a few million years ago. Judging from fossil remains, the musk ox may have an ancestry dating only a million years. The upstart.

Although both these animals existed in large numbers, neither the shed by either male or female. It has an external covering which it sheds annually—the only mammal living which does so.

With goats, the pronghorn shares the peculiarity of using musk glands as a means of identifying himself, his herd, and his home territories. As well as releasing the musk when frightened, it has the ability to raise the stiff white hairs on its rump to signal members of the herd.

A North American mammal whose ancestry dates back much farther, perhaps 50 million years or more, is the manatee. A curious mammal, really, whose appearance may well have given rise to the many legends of mermaids. The nine-foot long water-dwelling mammal is a relative of the elephant although its rear legs have disappeared. It abounds in the waters of north Africa and southeast Asia. In our country, the only living species is found along the southeastern seaboard, principally in Florida.

Females rear part way out of the water to nurse their young—and at a good, long distance these shy sea-cows may have a madonna-like appearance; close-up, they are unbelievably homely, even dismissing their whiskers.

These sea-cows were already near their present-day forms when the elephants were still in their earliest stage of development.

But perhaps oldest of all living relics in America today is the opossum and, what is more, our American marsupial lives and looks much today as he did 60 million years ago. Although most opossum fossils are found in Australia, opossums are found in North America in nearly every world-wide-varying in size from mouse-size creatures to nearly six-foot long giants. From its long remains, however, we know that the animal which we may now find in our backyard has scarcely changed in those intervening 60 million years!

THE RED-CROSS DRIVE

The annual American Red Cross drive, now under way throughout the nation, is doubly significant this year. Not only is this the 75th anniversary of Red Cross, but the drive comes in the midst of the worst disaster year in the organization's history.

On account of its emergency fund being unusually low, principally because of the flood disasters on the west coast, the Red Cross has set this year's national goal at $90,000,000, approximately $8,000,000 more than in 1955.

In the first six months of the present fiscal year, the Red Cross spent more than $27,500,000 to help disaster victims, with the result that its reserves for such purposes are practically exhausted. For that reason, every one should appreciate the importance of restoring the ability of the Red Cross to respond to disaster calls which are sure to come during the remainder of the fiscal year.

While the spotlight is now being focused on disaster work, it should be borne in mind that 41 cents out of every dollar contributed to the Red Cross this year will be used for services to the armed forces, veterans and their families.

Last year 1,110,000 servicemen were aided by the organization in the United States and at military installations around the world. All this was in addition to the 821,400 families which received help from Red Cross home service.

Now that Magic Valley Memorial hospital is relying upon the Red-Cross entirely to maintain its blood bank, the drive has local significance from that standpoint. In this connection it is interesting to note that the Red Cross blood program provided 1,918,000 blood donations for civilian use and 292,000 for defense use during the fiscal year. A total of 3,800 hospitals received blood from the Red Cross and 2,100 of these depended entirely on the Red Cross for their blood supplies.

During the same period, 1,972,000 certificates were issued for the completion of special Red Cross training courses.

It is also of local interest that Charles I. Daugherty, supervisor of the Sawtooth National forest with headquarters in Twin Falls, is regional vice chairman of the Red Cross, an area embracing all of Idaho west of Twin Falls county and north to the Salmon river and two chapters in eastern Oregon.

Mr. Daugherty has been interested in Red Cross work for a long time and is enthusiastic in his praise of the organization. He has expressed his appreciation for the Red Cross tie-in with training the Magic Mountain ski patrol and for the first aid instruction provided forest service personnel.

As the Twin Falls chapter of the American Red-Cross goes about its task of raising its $20,000 allotment, we should all bear in mind the many reasons why the organization is worthy of support. Of this $20,000 quota, $3,425 will go to the blood program in which this community is particularly interested.

CONTESTION LACKS SUBSTANCE

Democratic presidential candidates speak frequently and critically of the dangers of an administration headed by a "part-time chairman of the board of regency." This theory creeps into numerous speeches on Capitol Hill, and into anti-Eisenhower newspapers and periodicals. However, tested by the very episodes they cite in evidence, there is not much substance to the contention.

The critics, for instance, insist that the fiasco over his veto of the natural gas bill would have been avoided, if he had been on the job. According to them, he was supposed to favor the measure, and he embarrassed GOP senators, who voted for it, by not lifting them off that he would disapprove it. Now, it is argued, they will have trouble in explaining their stand to their constituents.

NOT LONG NOW

Dear Pot Shots:

It is a slander on the state of Idaho to continually claim that Idaho has unpredictable weather. That is not so. Idaho's weather is unusually good. People in the Midwest or California or the East or nearly any other section of the nation would love to have the mild variety of weather we enjoy in Idaho.

Spring? It's at hand. You can see signs of spring everywhere from birds (cedar warblers) heading north, aprons coming up and buds getting larger on lilac bushes. Yes, we still have some chilly weather ahead of us, but the good weather is not far distant now. Just wait and see and let's not gripe about bad weather because we just don't have bad weather in southern Idaho.

LET'S NOT BE FOOLISH

The proposed formation of an incorporated village just east of the Twin Falls city limits is an unfortunate development any way you look at it.

Those seeking to establish the village of Eastgate in protest to being annexed by the city have brought about a situation that's serious from several angles.

In effect, the people of that area would disassociate themselves from Twin Falls, and their village would serve as a barrier standing in the way of Twin Falls' natural growth in that direction.

In certain respects, these people also would be making somewhat of a sacrifice, because, in addition to the few points they might gain from seceding, they would lose a number of distinct advantages in the way of services and administration itself.

No doubt, many of the people in the area involved are fearful of losing certain privileges, such as keeping chickens, cows and the like, but they should realize that allowances can be made by zoning regulations in such instances.

Any wideawake community is bound to grow, and it's incumbent upon all those living in such a community to shape its growth as orderly and harmoniously as possible.

Any city administration which fails to anticipate a municipality's growth and future needs would be derelict in its responsibilities, and likely as not would be criticized in later years by some of the very individuals who are now protesting annexation.

To our way of thinking, a level-headed approach to this problem by all concerned would be far more sensible than any such drastic move as that now under way. We can see no reason why all the points at issue cannot be reconciled with very few possible exceptions.

In a community as small as Twin Falls and yet having great promise for growth and prosperity, it stands to reason we all would lose eventually by becoming divided and antagonistic among ourselves.

We believe the issues have been exaggerated to the point of arousing unwarranted concern and controversy. Instead of going off half-cocked and doing something we'll all regret in the future to come, let's sit down and talk this all

HOUSE FOREIGN AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

"In view of the fact that the senate is entrusted with the supervision of foreign affairs," writes M. K. Flint, Mich., "why does Representative Richards, head of the house foreign affairs committee, complain that Ike and Dulles neglect them on this question?"

Answer: When "foreign affairs" involved only the ratification of treaties and confirmation of diplomatic appointments, it was exclusively a senatorial prerogative. But now that it includes the expenditures of billions in overseas aid, with the effect on taxes, the public debt and so many other domestic questions, the house has a deep and definite concern in these matters.

After all, the power to "originate" revenue measures is vested in the lower chamber by the Constitution. The able South Carolinian's protest is well based.

"Yes, Christ Gave Us The CATHOLIC MASS"

Perhaps you don't think so, or perhaps you never gave it a thought. And possibly you regard this age-old Catholic worship as mere pomp and ceremony.

But if Our Lord did institute the Mass, is it not vitally important to you to find out? If He did intend it to be a continuing sacrifice... expressing Christian adoration, praise, contrition and petition... is it not too great a truth to be ignored?

"Bosh!" some will say. "Christ offered Himself on the cross once and for all. Nothing more is necessary." But wait! Jesus dearly indicated at the Last Supper that more is necessary. For after separately changing bread and wine into His Own body and blood... signifying the coming surrender of His life on the cross... Christ commanded the Apostles: "Do this in remembrance of me."

He was, obviously, instituting a continuing sacrifice in which Christians of every generation might join with Him in the most pleasing act of worship that can be offered to God. In this, as in other ways, the Apostles were to act as Christ's earthly ministers... as priests in the external offering of the sacrifice. And when they followed Christ's instructions, Our Lord would offer Himself in sacrifice—the victim would be present as He promised.

This is the heart and core of the Mass, which has been the central act of worship in every Catholic Church on the face of the earth since the time of the Apostles. As successors to the Apostles, the bishops and priests at the Mass recite the very words Christ used at the Last Supper. And when this is done, Christ is present on the altar—offering Himself as He had promised, "for the remission of sins." If this were not true, "Do this in remembrance of me" would be empty and meaningless words, which is inconceivable.

If you would like to know more about the Mass... why it attracts thousands upon thousands of people into Catholic churches everywhere on earth every day... write today for an interesting, easy-to-understand pamphlet. We will gladly send it free and without obligation... in a plain wrapper. And nobody will call on you. Write today, ask for Pamphlet No. KC-6.

NOT ENOUGH PATROLLING

If Utah can just keep the traffic death record clean two more days it will balance off one of the blackest Januarys in history with one of the safest Februarys. Up to Monday only four persons had lost their lives in traffic accidents this month. In only three previous months since fatal accident records have been accurately maintained has there been such a low death toll in Utah.

As a result of the improved February accident situation, Utah's 1956 toll to date has at last been brought below the death toll at the same time last year.

This is encouraging, but anyone who has driven at all widely over the state's highways this month knows that in very large measure the improved record is due to good luck rather than to good driving. One sees far too many motorists continuing to take unnecessary chances. And far too many accept the 200, 250 or 275 horsepower under the hoods of their cars as so many individual challenges to get peak performance in the way of speed.

We will never really curb slaughter on the highway until we curb the speed demon on the highway. And that means more enforcement—far more patrolling of our highway than one sees as he drives around the state. Particularly we believe there must be far more of the inconspicuous radar patrolling. To the speed demons the sight of a plainly marked highway patrol car cruising or standing along the highway is only a signal to put on the brakes until he sees around the next curve.—Salt Lake Tribune.

DEARBORN ABANDONS K-9 COPS

Dearborn, Mich., rescinded much publicity a year ago when the city fathers "bit the five police dogs to help the cause of law enforcement in the Detroit suburb.

Now Dearborn is in the news again, because the dogs have been fired. The trouble seems to be that the dogs did not get enough attention. Looting made them "nervous." Their chief accomplishment was to bite two policemen.

Hiring the dogs created the impression Dearborn was overrun with saboteurs and cat burglars. Apparently it is just an average American community, so far as law-breaking goes. Maybe one of the armed forces installations will give the K-9 cops a home.—Houston Post.

Arms-for-Egypt Speed-up

Reports from Trieste, Italy, say that President Tito has agreed to permit arms from communist Czechoslovakia to pass through Yugoslavia to speed their shipment to Egypt.

Arms from Czechoslovakia and other Communist-dominated countries normally reach the outside world through the Polish port of Gdynia on the Baltic sea, as shown by dotted line on map. This tortuous journey of some 4,500 miles will be shortened to the 1,300 miles between Rijeka, Yugoslavia, to Alexandria, Egypt. (NEA)

Four Regional Safety Parleys Are Prepared

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The President's committee for traffic safety called four regional conferences today in an attempt to reduce death on the highways.

Chairman Harlow H. Curtis, who also is president of General Motors, said the conferences would be held as follows:

Eastern region, May 1-2, at Atlantic City; southern region, May 14-15, at Miami Beach; Midwestern region, May 23-24, at Chicago; western region, May 31-June 1, at San Francisco.

President Eisenhower has cabled on the governors of each state to send delegates. Traffic safety experts will serve as technical consultants.

"The President's recent appeal to reduce traffic fatalities deserves prompt and wholehearted response from all Americans," Curtis said. "Encouraging progress has been made but the toll of deaths, injuries and damage continues intolerably high."

KNOTHOLE NEWS

The final round of action in the city-sponsored Knothole basketball league ended in clear-cut decisions with no two teams tied for any position.

Winners in the seventh grade division were the Whirlwinds; sixth grade, the Kilowatts; fifth grade, the Freightliners; and fourth grade, the Typhoons.

The Whirlwinds secured their championship by downing fifth-place Comets 39-18 mainly on the 10-point contribution of Charles Culler. Mike Green dunked 12 for the losers.

A 34-12 score clinched second-place honors for the Sinkers as they roared past the Wasps 34-12. Louis Watson poked in 16 for the winners while Jimmy Langraw was garnering four for the losers.

With Bob Reynolds and Don McCowell stuffing in 12 apiece, the Junior Bruins had 58 to 19. Joe Kinney and Steve Berg paced the losing effort with six apiece.

The Sabers and Hotshots staged a close thriller all the way with the Hotshots finally eking out the win 26-24. Bob Leazer scored 11 for the winners and Gary Rene got seven for the vanquished.

A do-or-die battle with the division crown at stake saw the Kilowatts jump to a five-point lead and maintain that edge all the way in dumping the All Stars 26-21. Brad Humphreys with nine and Jerry Randolph with eight paced the winners, but scoring points went to All Star Tom Ditter who got 13.

Jackie Cox dunked in 14 points along the way as the Wolverines stopped the Eagles 42-13. Ronnie Kienle scored six for the losers.

Paced by the 16 points of Rick White the Fighting Five swept past the Unknowns 23-21. Charles Cosgriff scored eight for the cellar-dwelling Unknowns.

The Cougars came up with too little too late as they dumped the league-leading Freightliners 18-12 but the win margin stacked up by the losers earlier in season play gave them the division crown going away. Erwin Peck led the upset while Richard Roth scored eight for the champions.

An iron-clad defense and a race-horse offense enabled the Beggars to skunk the Fighting Five 46 to 0. Doug Schow's 20 points paced the rout.

It took all season to do it but the Typhoons received their first loss in fourth grade division play at the hands of the Bulldogs 14-12. Wayne Gugelman led the winners and the six contributed by Steven Beer was high for the losers.

The Shorties retained their place status by handing the Menhalls their 11th loss of the year to the tune of 18-13. Ricki Renick garnered six for the winners but game scoring honors went to Fred Olds, who bucketed eight.

The Toastmistress club met Friday morning at the Rogerson hotel with Mrs. Hugh Boone reviewing the book, "The Land They Fought For," by Clifford Dowdley.

Strength of Communist Troops Placed In North Korea Estimated at 700,000

TOKYO, March 3 (AP)—Gen. I. D. White says that, although Red China has withdrawn about 550,000 troops to Manchuria, there are still approximately 700,000 Communist soldiers in Korea.

The veteran commander of the U. S. eighth army and all American ground forces in the Far East gave the figures in an interview.

"The North Korean army accounts for half the total strength of the 700,000-man Communist force in Korea," the husky, ruddy-faced general said.

White commanded army forces, Far East, from a headquarters near Tokyo. His eighth army command post is in Seoul.

White pointed out about 650,000 United Nations ground troops are still in Korea. These include 45,000 American and 33,000 South Koreans, plus about an understrength division of others.

The Chinese "have the bulk of their forces in the center of the front-lines in Korea," White said. "The North Koreans are disposed on the flanks" of the demarcation line drawn across the peninsula in July, 1953.

"Since the cease fire, the Chinese have removed about 550,000 troops from Korea. The North Koreans have increased their army by more than 50,000. However, sizeable Chinese forces are available across the Yalu river for movement back into Korea."

White added he thought the "fire power within Communist units has increased."

"Officers and specialists of the North Korean army have been sent to schools in the USSR and China since the cease fire," White said. "Training in the field has progressed from small unit tactics to regimental maneuvers with supporting arms."

According to the best information, White said, "The combat effectiveness of the Communist forces is good."

"The moral of the soldiers, although considered fair, is influenced by unsatisfactory living conditions, poor food, poor health standards, and a caste system in which Communist party members receive favored treatment," he continued.

"The forces are greatly dependent on Soviet military equipment. Transportation facilities have been improved since the armistice, the main railroads and highways having been rehabilitated."

"In the event of resumption of hostilities, it is believed the Communist forces would be better supported logistically than before the end of the fighting."

Britain Offers Polio Vaccine For Children

LONDON, March 3 (AP)—All over Britain, mothers cluster in little knots discussing their little problem: Whether to have their children inoculated with antipolio vaccine this summer.

The health ministry has offered to inoculate 500,000 youngsters under 9. It guarantees the vaccine, a modified version of the American Salk serum, is "as safe as any vaccine can be."

No Campaign Set There has been no official campaign in support of the plan. It's up to the parents to decide for themselves. And for many it's a tough decision. They remember some children have contracted polio in the United States after being inoculated.

So far they have been unable to obtain guidance from their old friend, the family doctor. This is because the health ministry has given little or no information on the subject to the medical press or local health bodies, although promising to do so soon.

Britain lacks the United States' tradition of compulsory vaccination. In fact, inoculation against most diseases is strictly a voluntary matter in keeping with British dislike of what they think of as regimentation.

Difference Seen The new vaccine developed by British scientists differs from the Salk vaccine in that the "honey" strain, one of the three viruses used, has been dropped in favor of a less virulent breed called the "Brunhilde."

A ministry of health spokesman said: "We believe we have benefited from the experience of other countries and that our vaccine is the safest in the world."

Canine Lorelei, Friends Drown MISSOULA, Mont., March 3 (AP)—Lorelei, the siren who lured sailors to destruction on the Rhine river's rocks, had a canine counterpart here yesterday.

A female dog attracted some 15 "boy friends" to a rendezvous near the Clark Fork river.

She went out on the river ice with her barking entourage following. When the mob got on the ice, it collapsed and dumped the female and her friends into icy water.

All but one—including the female—were swept under the ice shelf and drowned.

Panic Baffles Two Boys in Deadly 'Tag'

DECATUR, Ill., March 3 (AP)—Two young boys played a deadly game of tag with a speeding passenger train on a 80-foot high railroad bridge over a lake, then realized after it was all over that much of their danger stemmed from their own panic.

Larry Reynolds, 16, incurred two broken arms when he was hit by the train. His companion, Ronald Kinney, saved his life by grabbing and holding onto him after he was hit and until the train had passed them and stopped.

Start to Run
The two boys were on the bridge yesterday throwing rocks into the lake. They heard the train approaching and started running for the end of the bridge.

They saw they were too slow. Kinney lay on the concrete bridge ledge and called to Reynolds to do the same. Reynolds couldn't make it in time and the train struck him. Kinney held onto him until the train passed and stopped. Crewmen took both boys aboard and to the Decatur depot where an ambulance took them to a hospital.

Didn't See Tracks
Later, Kinney said he was "too scared" to notice that the bridge had double tracks.

The unoccupied track would have given the boys plenty of room to get out of the train's path.

'Gimmick' Ads Lambasted by Car Producer

LOS ANGELES, March 3 (AP)—The president of General Motors yesterday urged the firm's dealers to eliminate "gimmick" advertising and to sell cars on their own merits.

Harlow H. Curtice asked dealers to refrain from any unethical advertising, "bootlegging" or "price packing" in the conduct of their business.

Curtice's plea, broadcast to 21,000 GM dealers over a closed-circuit television network, followed recent sweeping changes by the world's largest automobile manufacturer in franchise agreements.

Complaints Noted
The revised selling agreements were designed to eliminate many of the complaints aired before congressional committees in recent months by the National Automobile Dealers' association and some individuals.

The new agreement is the most equitable and most progressive ever developed in our industry," Curtice said. He hailed it as "the beginning of a new era in the relations of General Motors and its dealers—an era of good will—an era of progress and continuing prosperity."

Curtice told the dealers he deplored "advertising that engages in cut-throat tactics and emphasizes price to the exclusion of all else."

Denies "Bootlegging"
He denied that any "bootlegging" of new cars during 1955 was due to overproduction by General Motors and said if the dealers and factories both do their part "there will be no valid cause nor excuse for bootlegging."

The GM chief urged that "price packing" be eliminated by the entire automobile industry.

Health of Ike Is New Stand In Campaign

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 3 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson in a campaign speech for the Democratic presidential nomination last night made the health of President Eisenhower an open political issue.

Stevenson said he understood that a requirement of Mr. Eisenhower's candidacy for the Republican nomination calls for making "permanent" the special arrangements that were provided for the President's illness and convalescence.

"The office of the President is 'designed to be filled by an executive—not a board chairman,'" Stevenson said.

"The condition of President Eisenhower's health creates a 'new and compelling issue' in this campaign," Stevenson added at a rally of state Democratic-Farmer-Labor precinct workers.

"The issue calls for a 're-examination of the nature of the greatest office on earth,'" he said.

"To delegate the functions—and, of necessity, the authority—of the presidency on a scale we have not known in our time," Stevenson said, "presents an issue that is not the personal one of the President's health, but the public matter of how the office of President can and should be conducted."

Stevenson is on a five-day whirlwind tour of Minnesota, campaigning for the state presidential primary March 20. He faces Sen. Estes Kefauver, D., Tenn., in the contest.

Traveler's Horse Dies Near Finish

TULARE, Calif., March 3 (AP)—A Tennessee walking horse which carried a Maine woman in a cross-country trek, died Thursday of tetanus.

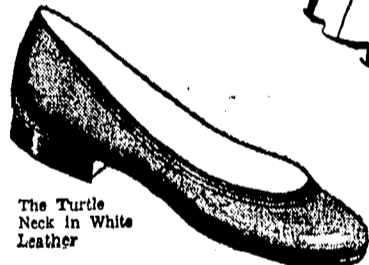

Mrs. Mes-Annie Wilkins, 64, West Minot, Me., who calls herself "the last of the saddle tramps" was stalled here early this week when Rex became too lame to continue.

She said he stepped on a rusty nail near Alwater, 80 miles north of here.

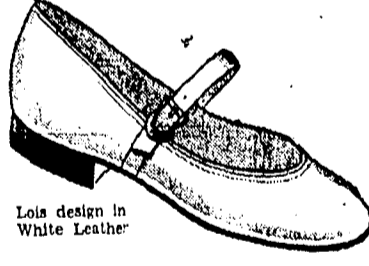

Mrs. Wilkins had ridden Rex more than 5,000 miles, which included a trip through Idaho, including Twin Falls. She was hoping to make it to Hollywood, 180 miles south of here, to keep a date with television entertainer Art Linkletter.

Her future plans are undetermined.

Public Forum National Foundation's Official Says Thanks for Aid in Drive

Editor, Times-News:

While the final March of Dimes reports are not yet complete, there is every indication that the 1956 campaign has been one of the most successful Idaho has ever had. On behalf of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and thousands of its volunteers please accept our sincere thanks for your wonderful cooperation and for your outstanding efforts in providing public information throughout the campaign.

Our appreciation is voiced for every Idaho family who will suffer the ravages of polio during this coming summer—and for those who have suffered from infantile paralysis in the years gone by. The National Foundation still stands behind each stricken family assuring proper medical care and every available medical facility to those who need it. At this time we are at last in a position to eradicate this crippling disease.

We fully realize the great contribution of your newspaper in the fight against polio. We are all very aware that your active participation made the success of this vital campaign possible.

Kimberly Man Warns of Reds' Threat Against United States

Editor, Times-News:

Both Lenin and Stalin stated that to conquer the U.S. all that was needed was to let us bankrupt ourselves. Stalin and company kept the cold war going so as to get us to squander our wealth on the world to buy friendship as that were.

Now they change tactics and pretend to dump Stalin as a no-good and bring out a policy of helping the world like good boys. Part of a master strategy. They want us to put on a master squander spree to match them and thus drain of America to the point where they can finish us off.

There's also the billion dollars' worth of uranium Russia has in view since she knows she will get most of it. It's a proven fact that power derived from uranium will be so expensive that it can't compete with coal or oil as fuel. The bulk of the billion dollars worth of uranium all tagged to be given away will no doubt go to Russia as most of the goods we send over there. They sell it to Russia.

May God above us wake us up for we really are in peril. No matter how valiant a nature it takes wealth to keep us armed and if we drain ourselves we are at Russia's feet. We need men of brains to see us through and not the nincompoops we got.

Mix Races in Politics, Urges Forum Writer From Fairfield

Editor, Times-News:

One wonders just how serious we are on the segregation of colored and white. World traveler Nixon could get more headlines if he would suggest we have a man of the colored race on the ticket for vice president. That would give Russia something to think about.

Also if Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower should have appointed a colored judge to the supreme court, as chief justice it would have shown they believed in desegregation, that would convince the south we are not trying to create a civil war.

As I see the pictures of President Eisenhower in the electric cart hunting quail and at the golf course and see the lines in his face and read his doctors report of his wonderful physical condition, it takes me back to the late President Roosevelt for his last term, how his doctor told of his wonderful physical condition and the public fell for it and he was elected. After election his real picture was shown on the newsreel and the people gasped and said we elected a dead man, now the same gullible people along with politicians and job holders are trying the same thing to President Eisenhower.

Queen's Hand Is Observed in Glubb Ouster

LONDON, March 3 (AP)—A beautiful queen was mentioned today as a possible prime mover in the action that ousted Lieut. Gen. John Bagot Glubb as head of the British-financed Arab Legion.

Soft-eyed Queen Zein, mother of British-educated King Hussein of Jordan, was mentioned in newspaper reports here as a behind-the-scenes influence in the removal of the 59-year-old Englishman.

Queen Zein, 41, a stately brunette, is a close friend of the Saudi Arabian envoy to Jordan. She is known as a close adviser to her 20-year-old ruling son who fired the famed Glubb pasha of Jordan's desert army yesterday.

Saudi Arabian oil money and Egyptian leadership also were seen here as figuring prominently in the ouster which has struck sparks in the explosive Middle East.

The expulsion of the commander of the Arab Legion, finest fighting force in the Middle East, was considered a blow to British and American prestige.

Britain is a member of the de facto organized Baghdad alliance. The United States has supported the pact. The alliance was formed as a bulwark against Soviet expansion into the Middle East. Glubb's ouster removed the last faint hope that Jordan might join the pact.

The foreign office here admitted the quick turn of events came as a surprise. Glubb, who flew hurriedly to Cyprus after his expulsion from Jordan, is on his way to London to give a first-hand account to Prime Minister Eden.

South Democrats Protest Hall Use

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Thirty southern congressmen asked President Eisenhower today to step in and bar use of federal auditorium for a national assembly on civil rights starting here Sunday.

The three-day assembly is sponsored by the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights of which Roy Wilkins, head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, is chairman.

The sponsors say they expect 2500 representatives of at least 50 organizations in 35 states to attend. Sessions are scheduled for the big interdepartmental auditorium in the labor department.

In a telegram to Eisenhower, the 30 congressmen, all Democrats, said "regulations expressly prohibit use of interdepartmental auditorium for sponsored meetings, meetings of a political, sectarian, fraternal, or similar nature."

Violent Wind Damage High In Northwest

SEATTLE, March 3 (AP)—Hurricane-force winds, lightning and heavy rain swirled across the Pacific Northwest coastal area last night in a brief storm which left widespread minor damage.

Worst hit by the 70 to 80 mph-an-hour winds and spectacular lightning display were trees, utility poles and transformers. The net result was the widespread blackout of rural residential areas, blockaded roads and many frightened persons who flooded newspapers and police with phone calls.

A number of small garages and other out-of-door buildings were flattened, trees fell across roads and power lines, fences toppled and plate glass windows caved in. No immediate reports of personal injury were received although the storm raged from southern Oregon to southern British Columbia, in varying intensities.

Oregon coastal regions reported winds of 70 miles velocities. Unofficial but unverified reports set the speed at 90 miles an hour at Ilwaco on Washington's central coastal section and 55 to 60 miles at Vancouver, B. C.

Puget Sound ferry service between Seattle and Olympia peninsula routes was discontinued on two routes and sharply curtailed on others.

Harold's Club In Reno Sells For 10 Million

RENO, Nev., March 3 (AP)—World-famous Harold's Club Nevada's big 1925 gambling establishment, was sold to a San Francisco property management firm for a reported 10 million dollars.

The seven-story club and all of its Reno properties, including a huge parking garage, a motel and skit range, were sold to the Morgan and Acosta company, headed by Jules Acosta, San Francisco.

Harold's Club was opened in Reno in 1925 by Harold Smith with three employees, a white mouse and a penny roulette wheel. The mouse scampered about the wheel and presumably attracted customers.

Now it has more than a 1,000 employees, hundreds of gambling games and is by far the biggest gaming concern in the state.

Exact terms were not disclosed. Smith's father, Raymond I. Smith, who had been general manager of the club almost since its opening, will remain as general manager, and additionally will bear the title "emeritus chairman of the board." Smith said the management's policy will remain unchanged.

Welker's Attitude On Name Lashed

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Senator Neuberger, D. Ore., said yesterday Senator Welker, R. Ida., is opposing "prowood and partisan" in opposing a suggestion that Clearwater national forest in Idaho be renamed to honor Bernard DeVoto.

Neuberger recently introduced a bill to honor the late author and conservationist by renaming the Idaho forest. Welker objected.

In a statement, Neuberger said he chose the Clearwater forest because it is associated in history with the Lewis and Clark expedition about which DeVoto did much of his writing.

"I hope," the Oregon senator added, "Senator Welker now does not try to erase Captain Meriwether Lewis' name from that part of Idaho, because the immortal Captain Lewis was a Democrat from the distant state of Virginia."

River Projects Under Attacks By Oregonian

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Senator Neuberger, D. Ore., yesterday charged Idaho Power company with "flagrant disregard of state and federal statutes."

Neuberger told the senate he had been told Idaho Power has built a bridge across the Snake river in connection with construction of the Brownlee dam. He said it had been built "without permission and without compliance with federal statutes."

Idaho Power, with a license from the federal power commission, is planning three dams on the Hells canyon stretch of the Snake. It is in this area that public power advocates want a single high federal dam instead of three smaller private structures.

Neuberger said army engineers told him that although the company applied for a permit to build the bridge, it hasn't been issued.

"Yet," he said, "an Idaho Power company bridge today spans this navigable, interstate stream for which federal approval must be granted. What is the purpose of the law if such defiance is to be tolerated?"

He also said construction was started without meeting legal requirements in Oregon.

Kidnaper, 65, Takes Girl, 5, To 'Bring up'

LOS ANGELES, March 3 (AP)—A 65-year-old man will be arraigned before the U. S. commissioner here Monday on charges of kidnaping a 5-year-old girl from her Tacoma, Wash., home "to see she would be brought up here."

The man, Melvin Messimore, was arrested last night by FBI agents at the home of his sister at Lancaster, some 50 miles north of here. The child, Mary Elizabeth Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Francis Hall, Tacoma, was found unharmed.

John P. Malone, chief agent in charge of the FBI office here, said Messimore and the girl had been living with his sister. Malone said the child, who had not been molested, was lodged at the juvenile hall here.

Tacoma authorities issued a local kidnap warrant for Messimore when the girl disappeared last December. Messimore was arrested by agents on a warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for the crime of kidnaping.

Malone said Messimore was a friend of the Hall family and told officers he brought the girl to southern California because he "wanted to see she was brought up properly."

Messimore recently let the parents know in a letter that he had the girl and she was well and safe with him. Malone said, but did not disclose his whereabouts except that he was in California. The FBI tracked him down to Lancaster.

Messimore did not resist arrest and had no other statements immediately. He was booked at county jail here.

Support Is Given To Flexible Plan

CALDWELL, March 3 (AP)—In letters to Republican Sen. Henry Dworshak and Herman Welker of Idaho, the president of the Idaho Farm Bureau federation said today the majority of Farm Bureau members favor flexible price supports.

L. B. Martin, Caldwell, said the flexible supports should be given a chance to work.

Because the objective of the surplus reduction provision of the soil bank plan is to adjust production to demand, Martin said:

"It would be extremely unwise to include in the senate bill any provisions for rigid price supports at 80 per cent of parity which would in reality provide incentive for increased production."

Obsolete LST Torpedoed

A geyser of water and smoke marks the end of a torpedo trail (see story on page 1) against an obsolete U. S. navy landing ship in an exercise off the coast at San Diego, Calif. The 385-foot LST 482 was sunk by torpedoes from the submarine Segundo and Pomdon, and five-inch shells from the submarine tender Nereus. Picture was made by San Diego Union photographer Joe Flynn who was aboard a U. S. navy helicopter during the exercises. (AP wirephoto)

Vintage Auto Is All 'Prettied up'

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 3 (AP)—For $45 Mrs. Ruth Barron figured she picked up a bargain—a 1937 model Ford she could use for errands while her husband took the family car to work.

The outside, and inside, admittedly were in disreputable condition, but Mrs. Barron started to work. With her neighbors helping she whipped up an interior of "really wild" pink print with ruffles. A matching ruffly pillow softens the worn driver's seat.

On the outside, pink polka dots were generously distributed. Even a big hole in the front fender didn't stop Mrs. Barron. She transformed it into a portable planter for evergreens and artificial flowers.

Everyone chuckled at the redecorating job but Mrs. Barron added a dignified note when she painted a sign on the back. It read: "Mine is paid for—45 years."

Stand Affirmed

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 3 (AP)—High nationalist officials today reaffirmed Formosa's determination to defend the offshore island bases of Matsu and Quemoy.

English, French Chiefs to Parley

PARIS, March 3 (AP)—French Premier Guy Mollet and British Prime Minister Anthony Eden will meet soon in London for a sweeping review of the world situation, it was announced here today.

The invitation for the meeting was given Mollet by British Ambassador Sir Gladwyn Jebb only 24 hours after French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau delivered a stinging criticism of western foreign policies.

Pineau, in a speech here yesterday, said the west has made "serious" errors in placing the stress on security measures alone. He called for a thorough reappraisal of western policies.

Red Members Might Split on Tough Policy

ROME, March 3 (AP)—Rank-and-file communists openly revolted against the "soft line" of Party Boss Palmiro Togliatti today with a threat to split the party in two.

The Italian Red party is the biggest communist organization outside the Iron curtain.

Demonstration Staged

Some 600 communists claiming to represent more than half of the one-million registered party members, staged an open demonstration against the Togliatti policies.

They demanded a return to the "tough line" of strikes and violence to bring communists to power in Italy.

Leaders of the revolt issued a manifesto demanding a national party congress to hear their complaints.

Offensive Starts

The delegates from all parts of Italy met today in the Astoria movie house in Rome's fashionable Parioli district to launch their offensive against Togliatti.

A little more than a year ago Togliatti beat down an underground revolt to depose him as party boss on similar grounds of softness. The delegates to the national Communist party convention in January, 1955, unanimously approved his policies and confirmed him as leader.

Togliatti attended the recent Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow.

Received Orders

The respected boss of Italy's reds is understood to have come away from that meeting with orders to pursue the "soft" line with the aim of establishing the "popular front" in Italy.

Delegates at today's meeting were angry at Togliatti's interview with United Press in which he said that communism should try to attain power by parliamentary means in Italy.

Togliatti's whereabouts was not known. He is not in Rome and communist headquarters refused to say where he was.

Idahoan to Fight Extradition Move

BISBEE, Ariz., March 3 (AP)—A lawyer said he had been retained yesterday to fight the extradition of Fred Chrest to Idaho on a perjury charge.

Chrest, 66, a retired railroad man from Pocatello and Glenns Ferry, hid $46,000 worth of government bonds north of Douglas several weeks ago. But the next day a road crew found them and turned them over to police. Chrest said later he hid the bonds because he feared they would be stolen.

When Idaho officials learned of the incident, they charged Chrest with perjury, claiming he took a pauper's oath and declared himself penniless during divorce proceedings in Idaho. Chrest is at liberty under $1,000 bond.

Sheriff Jack Howard of Bisbee said Chrest signed a waiver of extradition, but later retracted it. Attorney Dan Moore, Bisbee, said yesterday he had been hired to help Chrest fight the extradition.

Illegal Holding Claim Is Studied

BOISE, March 3 (AP)—An Idaho state prison inmate's claim that he is being illegally held by the state board of pardons has been taken under advisement by Dist. Judge Merlin S. Young.

Ronald D. Spanton, who entered the prison Jan. 11, 1954, appeared before Young yesterday at a writ of habeas corpus hearing.

He claims the board should release him because he has served more than a one-year sentence imposed by a Kootenai county district judge on a no-fund check charge conviction.

The board maintains the court erred in handing out a one-year sentence and should have sentenced Spanton to "an indeterminate term not to exceed five years."

Eisenhower Will Send Letter To Soviets on East-West Ties

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower is sending Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin a "friendly" letter reported to call for a new try at East-West disarmament.

Officials said the letter also rejects for the second time Bulganin's proposal for a 20-year American-Soviet treaty of friendship.

The President's message is expected to be delivered to the Kremlin within a day or two by U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen. A delay in delivery was caused by technical transmission difficulties between Washington and the U.S. embassy in Moscow.

Officials disclosed last night the heart of the President's reply to Bulganin's Feb. 1 letter was said to stress the need for disarmament progress—especially action on Mr. Eisenhower's "open skies" proposal.

The first text of the President's new plea will come later this month at a London meeting of the five-nation United Nations disarmament subcommittee. American, Soviet, British, French and Canadian delegates will renew their marathon search for disarmament steps.

The President's letter to Bulganin will complete the second round of their current correspondence, which began with a letter from Bulganin Jan. 23.

The original Bulganin letter—delivered by Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin—proposed the 20-year Soviet-American friendship treaty. The letter renewed correspondence between the big two that lagged after Mr. Eisenhower's Sept. 24 heart attack.

Mr. Eisenhower on Jan. 28 politely turned down Bulganin's friendship treaty, preferring instead to put U.S. faith in the peaceful purposes of the United Nations charter.

The President suggested the two powers and others take action on German unification; disarmament nuclear energy for peaceful purposes and generally increased East-West contacts.

Chile to Purchase Surplus Products

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 3 (AP)—The government announced yesterday that Chile will buy 35 million dollars worth of U. S. surplus farm products.

The deal includes cotton, wheat, and other products in amounts sufficient to cover the country's consumption needs up to next June. An additional 90-million-dollar deal is under consideration, an announcement said.

Chile will pay for the surplus in local currency and the money will be left in this country by the United States as a loan to be used in communications and farm production improvement projects.

Death Toll Rises

MANILA, P. I., March 3 (AP)—The two-weeks toll from a dysentery epidemic rose to 25 on Sulu island today with four more deaths, the Philippine navy announced.

A navy medical team on the island also reported 10 cases of chicken pox and 120 cases of malaria.

Falk, Vice said, brought the ship in wheels up and skidded off the road after landing.

Light Airplane Crash Landing; One Man Hurt

CASCADE, March 3 (AP)—A light airplane with its retractable landing gear frozen in the up position crash landed here last night injuring one of the four Sandpoint men aboard, the state police reported today.

Patrolman Matt Vice, who investigated the accident, identified the injured man as James Weaver, 70, who was taken to the Cascade hospital with a skull concussion. Vice said Harry Falk, 38, the pilot, T. C. Farnim, 47, and Barney Blasco, 37, escaped injury and were taken to Boise.

Vice said the four men were on their way to Boise to participate in the state department of aeronautics' annual air tour to Mexico, which starts Monday.

The officer said the airplane's landing gear apparently picked up slush during the takeoff from Sandpoint and became frozen in the wing wells when it was retracted.

He said Falk decided to land on the highway near here when he ran into bad weather but could not get the gear down in landing position.

Let Teen-Agers Entertain Friends at Home Parties

By PATRICIA MATTHEWS

If you are the mother of a teen-age daughter, then the lament, "But, mother!—What will we do?" is familiar when you suggest she entertain her friends at home. When a mother reaches the unthinkable age of 36, she is outdated, unstylish and above all, old-fashioned. A mother of this weird description could not possibly know what teen-agers would like to do at a party.

Strange as it may seem, though, mothers get smarter as they grow older and if mother can remember when daughter first walked, it's a good chance she can also remember what she considered fun when she was the dateable age. Times and progress change but people do not. The activities they consider interesting are carried on from generation to generation. A mother never stops worrying about her children from the day they are born but this worrying is called "old-fashioned."

If daughter wants a party, for heaven's sake let her have one. It's easier than wondering if Willy drives safely.

Buy plenty of soft drinks and fill the sink with ice cubes. Pack the bottles in the ice and one of the problems is solved. Boys of this age are much more interested in eating than whether Susan has a crush on them. Buy some lunch meat, bread and a few relishes. Put them on the kitchen table and let teen-age appetites take over. Don't forget the potato chips and popcorn.

Taffy pulls, making popcorn or fudge are all fun for children of this age. Be sure whatever is planned that everyone can get in it or you'll have the boys in one corner and the girls in another.

Be sure you warn the father of the house so he'll be prepared for the loud giggling, noisy records and the general havoc that indicates a good time is being had by all. It'd be a good chance for him to take off for an evening.

Parents should be home but they can gracefully retire to another room, occasionally putting in an appearance to see that the food is holding out or look for the magazine in the front room. It need not be obvious that you are checking to see if all the furniture is in one piece or that the front window still is intact.

Make sure everyone has a way to get home and above all, don't try to tone down the noise or start repairing anything broken before daughter's guests leave. This will not only make everyone uncomfortable but it's a good chance this will stop further parties, thus defeating your purpose.

Prizes make an added suspense to the evening and if you are wondering how to get everyone dancing solve your problem by handing each girl and boy a number as they come in the door. At a given time let them compare numbers and dance with those partners for the first dance.

It's true that teen-age parties take a lot of planning to keep from being tiresome and uninteresting but it's worth it to know that your daughter is proud to have parents that are not "old-fashioned." You'll find others will be asking their parents to let them have a party and thus one of the biggest problems of raising teen-agers will be on its way to solution.

Each entrant will be given a state certificate showing his rating. All of these ratings are reported to the National Quarters of Federated Music clubs, making superior students eligible for national scholarships.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Young people about to be graduated from secondary school and those approaching their senior year are likely to be thinking, dreaming, planning what they will do with their lives, what kind of work they will do, how they will live and where. Often their dreams outrun their plans and for a time this must be accepted by teachers and parents. A dream, a deep wish, can become an actuality if it is granted time to season in its creator's mind, time to take form there. Then it becomes a plan for action and the teachers and parents can be of real help. At times, older and more experienced people lose patience with the dreams and hopes of youth and squelch them with a "Why don't you come down to earth? How do you expect to do any such thing? Where did you get the idea that you know more than anybody else, anyway?" The youth is likely to know more about his secret hope for his future than anyone else. It is stirring within him and, while he has no words to detail the idea, indeed it is so formless as yet that no words would help, he feels power. Given time, allowed to experiment with his idea, given opportunities to meet and talk with people who are successful in the field he visions for himself, his power will rise and become strong in purpose. "Oh, I don't know. Here he is, a fine boy, and his heart set on being a doctor. Not just a doctor, mind

Lad Recovers From Delicate Head Surgery

POCATELLO, March 3 (AP)—Seven-year-old Thomas Davidson is back in his classes at Pocatello high school after surviving a delicate brain operation in which doctors said his chances were 100 per cent.

The operation was performed by Dr. Peter A. Lindstrom, chief of neurosurgery at the University of Utah college of medicine. It was done Jan. 31 in the Salt Lake General hospital.

Declines Discussion
Dr. Lindstrom, former husband of actress Ingrid Bergman, declined yesterday in Salt Lake City to discuss the operation.

But members of Davidson's family explained the operation required five hours during which six pints of blood were used in transfusions to keep the youth alive. They said the doctor removed a section of skull and applied clips to a weak blood vessel near the brain which had endangered the boy's life.

Returns to School
Four days after the operation Davidson was bathing himself. He was released from the hospital Feb. 11, and by Feb. 16 was back in class at school after a four-month absence. Doctors only advised him to "take it easy" for several years. The family said doctors explained the boy apparently had been born with the weak vein, but there was no indication of it until he collapsed last October while hunting with his stepfather, Chester Thompson. He was unconscious or semiconscious for 13 days, and had to be kept quiet for six weeks.

Taylor "Testing" Voting Sentiment

PRESTON, March 3 (AP)—Former Sen. Glen H. Taylor was here yesterday to "test the voting sentiment."

The ballad-singing Democrat did not say precisely that he was going to run again. He said he was still "considering" and was "getting the feel" of things, as well as renewing "old acquaintances."

Taylor of Pocatello, U. S. senator (1944-50) and unsuccessful running mate to Henry Wallace in the 1948 elections on the Progressive ticket, used to sing and act, with his wife, in this rural area about 20 years ago. They promoted their own acting troupe.

"The outcome of any election in Idaho," he said, "will depend on how the farmer feels."

Cases Dismissed

HAILEY, March 3—Two cases in district court have been dismissed with prejudice and an agreement entered into between Mr. and Mrs. Ray K. Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith, all Ketchum, concerning Ketchum property.

Basic Needs for 4-H Activity Reviewed for Training Meet

The need for personal independence in choosing projects was listed as one of the basic needs for 4-H members by Vernon Burlison, chairman of the extension youth advisory committee and extension forester, at a 4-H leadership training class Friday at the Twin Falls Grange hall.

He noted members will show better improvement and cooperation through "the desire to take part in things which can be identified with the member."

He said awards should become a goal within themselves rather than a motivating force.

Speaking on the topic "how to hold the interest of older members," Burlison said a group study is sometimes more interesting to the teenage members than independent projects. He noted the average age of English agricultural groups, who study larger problems, average 22 years of age while in this country 12.6 years is the average.

He said during the period of adolescence mixed groups are most often successful.

On his third topic on junior leaders Burlison stated adult leaders must put more confidence in the junior assistants. He urged them to "give the junior leaders a chance to choose the duties in which they are most interested and have them prepare a detailed plan to impress them with their responsibilities."

The 45 4-H leaders were guests of Idaho Power company at luncheon.

GOP Concern Is to Capture Solon Control

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Republicans acted today as though President Eisenhower's re-election already is assured and their chief worry now is to recapture control of congress.

Warnings against complacency and overconfidence were heard from such party spokesmen as National Chairman Leonard W. Hall and Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland. But the almost universal feeling in the GOP was that Mr. Eisenhower's re-election is virtually a sure thing.

Republicans therefore shifted their interest to these questions: Who should the party's vice presidential nominee be? Can the party regain control of congress?

Although both Hall and Knowland predicted that Vice President Richard M. Nixon would again be Mr. Eisenhower's running mate, moves were started in behalf of rival candidates.

Massachusetts Gov. Christian A. Herter, indicated he would entertain a bid for the vice presidential nomination if he is asked. Indiana State Sen. Roy Conrad said he was ready to start a boom for Indiana congressman Charles A. Halleck. The Cleveland Plain Dealer urged in an editorial that Secretary of the Treasury George H. Humphrey be given the nomination. And there were reports that former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York probably would accept the number two spot if Nixon were dropped.

Knowland would not specify whether he would be interested if Nixon were not accepted again.

As for the fight to win control of congress from the Democrats, GOP managers were banking on Mr. Eisenhower's coalitions to carry many Republican congressional candidates into office. They felt confident even though the 1952 and 1954 congressional elections showed that Mr. Eisenhower's popularity was not easily transferred to nominees for house and senate.

Demo Draws Aim on Issue Of Ike Health

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 3 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson took dead aim yesterday on the President's health issue and Sen. Estes Kefauver's bid for the White House.

He set out on a strenuous stump tour of Minnesota, where he and Kefauver will have their first head-on clash when the state's Democratic vote in the March 20 presidential primary here.

Flays Polioes Stevenson got his Minnesota campaign rolling with an attack on administration farm and labor policies. Before he even got to Minnesota, the Illinoisan served notice that he will not keep quiet on the question of President Eisenhower's health.

Makes Charge He charged that Mr. Eisenhower is asking the people to elect a "part time" President and that he spent 20 minutes in his Wednesday night TV-radio appearance "telling the American people not what he is going to do but rather what he is not going to do."

Stevenson, who lost to Mr. Eisenhower in the 1952 election, said he was "amazed to hear him say on his return from another long absence that he has fully performed the duties of the President for the past few weeks."

Everybody was willing to accept the fact that Mr. Eisenhower "would be temporarily unable to fully manage the hardest job on earth" after his heart attack, Stevenson said, but now "he evidently proposes to make this condition permanent."

Stevenson refused to admit that Mr. Eisenhower's entrance into the presidential race has hurt his own chances. In fact, he said, it may prove a Stevenson boon.

Prices of Some Liquor Boosted

BOISE, March 3 (AP)—A freight rate boost, originally scheduled to go into effect Feb. 25, but which has been postponed to March 7, has boosted prices of some items in wine liquor stores.

Fred Charlton, liquor dispensary supervisor, said he found out about the postponement too late to stop the hike in price.

He said the boost affected only about 40 of the 484 liquor items carried by the store. The hike is an even per cent increase asked by the nation's railroads. Indications are it might be postponed even beyond March 7, when a hearing is scheduled in Washington, because of numerous protests.

This Once Was Hot Springs Resort

These two buildings once housed the natural hot water swimming pools during the heyday of Artesian City. The metal building on the right enclosed the first swimming pool while the building on the left was built in later years. Both have been converted to granaries. Artesian City was once a popular place to spend a Sunday outing. (Staff photo-engraving)

Magic Valley Tours Artesian City Goes Through Many Phases, Emerging Now as Granary

Somewhere between the site of Artesian City and the foothills of the south hills there's a private cemetery. In it is buried one of the most controversial figures in the early history of Magic Valley. He was J. E. Bower, homesteader, foreman for the vast Shoe Sole cattle outfit and the man who confessed to the diamond slaying for which Diamondfield Jack Davis was convicted.

Whether he knew it or not, Bower was the father of Artesian City. The city lived beyond his time and then followed in his footsteps into the memory of but a few persons. He was the one, though, who discovered the artesian hot springs, thereby paving the way for what once was the favorite hot springs resorts in Magic Valley.

There's nothing much left today to remind one of Artesian City in its heyday. Located approximately four miles south of highway 30 just before reaching Murtaugh from the west, a person would miss the turnout if he didn't look sharp. The road to Artesian City continues on east and then south, eventually reaching Oakley.

Going through Artesian City there is danger, too, the location might be missed. There's nothing there to suggest a hot springs resort. The swimming pools still are in existence but they're hard to find since they're being used as granaries by the Copner brothers, present owners of the site.

Prior to Bower's time, Artesian City was a stage stop on the stage line from Kelton, Utah, to Boise. Its history dates back to some of the earliest in Magic Valley.

Bower homesteaded the site while foreman for the Shoe Sole and drilled two wells for stock water. Instead of cool, clear water, he got hot, clear water and had to mix the flow with water from Dry creek before the cattle would drink it.

Bower was a tough, two-fisted ranch ramrod. A partially on the strength of his confession, Diamondfield Jack eventually was given a full pardon in a gunning down two sheepherders near Rogerson. Davis worked for Bower on the Shoe Sole ranch at the time of the killings. The foreman never was tried for the deaths.

It was a well known fact Bower didn't like sheep and shepherds. It therefore is unusual he gave permission to Frank Somsen, a north side sheepman, to lamb at the artesian wells in early spring. Eventually Somsen even bought out the Bower interest.

Early in the 1920's a group of Twin Falls businessmen, including a doctor, approached Somsen with a plan to convert the wells into a health resort. Somsen went for the plan, sank a third well for additional water and built a swimming pool.

While Artesian City never became a health resort, it did become a playground for the young people in the area. In addition to the pool, Somsen erected a dance hall and a confectionery, installed an electric light plant and ran the place strictly for enjoyment. Large groups of young people from Twin Falls would motor to Artesian City on Sundays for a full day of swimming, dancing and picnicking.

From 1925 to 1928 the resort was managed by his father-in-law, F. J. Marshall, and in 1928 he sold to the Stonar brothers. Even though the popularity of the resort gradually waned, the community remained in existence for a number of years and at one time there was a school and teachers there.

Teachers at the two-room school were Lois Franacht, now Mrs. Henry Silvers, Jerome, and Emma Silvers, now Mrs. Arthur Terry, a teacher at

3-Point Farm Program Has Laughs in It

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Senator Humphrey, D. Minn., has handed the senate a three-point farm program:

1. Vote Democrats into office.
2. Restore rigid price supports.
3. Fire Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

Sent by Woman Humphrey said a Minnesota farm woman sent him the proposal as an answer to President Eisenhower's nine-point program, submitted Jan. 9.

Humphrey and Senator Kerr, D., Okla., also got some mileage, and a laugh from the galleries, out of the favorite Democratic joke of the moment.

Kerr asked Humphrey if it had not been reported that Eisenhower was anxious to retire to his farm near Gettysburg.

Humphrey said that was right. Kerr then asked if the President had not decided to try for another four years in the White House because "he could not make a living" on the farm as long as Benson was secretary of agriculture.

Maybe Some Unfair More seriously, Humphrey said "maybe some of us have been unfair to Mr. Benson."

"He's been carrying out the orders and those orders have come to him from Mr. Eisenhower. Some of us have been calling it the Benson farm program, but it's really the Eisenhower farm program."

"The responsibility for this farm program that is bankrupting American agriculture should be put right where it belongs, and that's at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue.

"The remedy is for the public to register their votes this year to fire the man who ought to have fired Benson."

Laxness for Civil Defense Stressed

BOISE, March 3 (AP)—Idaho's director of civil defense told a service club luncheon yesterday that some "important officials" around the state aren't exerting much effort in behalf of civil defense.

Speaking of the state civil defense unit, Adm. W. C. Specht told the Capital City Kiwanis club.

"Some of our important parts in the form of important officials haven't been too eager to exert the extra effort involved although it is to their benefit and the benefit of the locality to do so."

INJURES HAND

OAKLEY, March 3—Vern Okelberry injured his right hand Thursday while working in the farm shop at the Oakley high school.

Watch Close for Turnoff

The site of Artesian City is located approximately four miles south of highway 30 near Murtaugh. The turnout is west of Murtaugh and the paved road to it jogs around Murtaugh lake. The former resort lies at the junction of this road and the second class road that runs from Rock creek to Oakley. (Staff engraving)

Accompanying Hunter Nelson and Howard Bawes and Karl Kratzer, Glenn Smith on the snout was Robert Taylor, Halley high school youth, who went as far as the Galena store to help Mrs. Pearl Barber to shovel snow from the roofs of her 20 cabins at the Baptist camp buildings. He returned to Halley on More than six feet of snow was on top of most of the buildings. April Date Set For New U. S. H-Bomb Tests

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—The atomic energy commission indicated yesterday it will start its new H-bomb tests in the Pacific shortly after April 20.

It issued a public notice that an area of some 421,250 square miles around the Marshall Island proving grounds will be a "danger area" effective April 20.

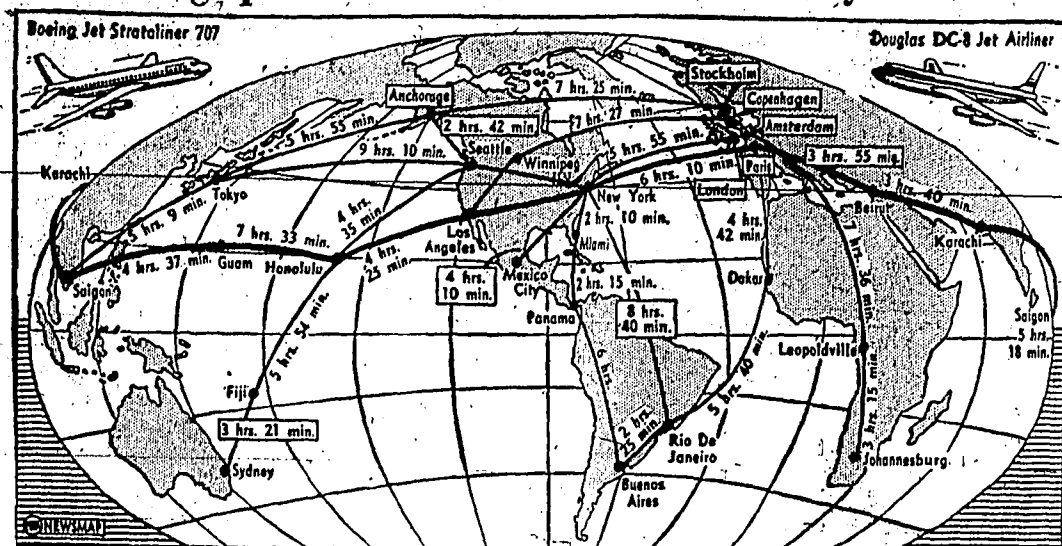

Widely Distributed
The notice, it said, "is being given the widest possible distribution through marine, aviation and international organizations."

The new tests at the Eniwetok-Bikini proving ground are expected to include experimental firing of "small" H-bombs and of nuclear warheads for a variety of anti-aircraft and other missiles.

Area Slightly Smaller
The danger area, roughly rectangular in shape, is slightly smaller than the 445,000-square mile hazard region set up while the big H-bomb tests of the spring of 1954 were under way.

But it is considerably larger than the danger area set up at the start of those tests.
The AEC said the region "has been redefined slightly for increased safety."

Coming up: Around World in 47 Hours — By Jetliner

The recent record-smashing flight of the British Comet III jet airliner from Montreal to London in six hours and 18 minutes puts the spotlight on America's race to catch up with Britain in jet plane passenger service. Map above, from Boeing Airplane company data, shows a globe-girdling network of 500-600 miles-per-hour jet passenger service planned for Pan American World Airways and American Airlines. Heavy black line traces 'round-the-world flight scheduled for 39 hours, 50 minutes of flight plus seven hours of stops. The Los Angeles-New York run will be four hours, 12 minutes. The network will use huge Boeing 707 Jet Stratoliners, a prototype of which has been operational for more than a year. Boeing has orders for 60 of these transports, 30 of them for American. A larger, more powerful version of the Stratoliner, called the Intercontinental 707, is in the works. Also in the jet race is Douglas aircraft, with orders for 106 of its jet-powered DC-8s. Third big entry in the "jet derby" is Lockheed, which has redesigned its short-haul, turbo-prop, 410-miles-per-hour Electra to give it a range of 3,000 miles. They have orders for 138 of these 66-passenger Electras. Lockheed also sees, for 1965, an airliner that will fly faster than sound—738-760 miles per hour at sea level. Huge craft like the Boeing 707 and the Douglas DC-8 cost between four and five million dollars apiece. Deliveries of these speedy jet passenger planes to airlines are being planned so service can start in 1958-59. (NEA)

Despite Appearances, Russia Has Not Really Challenged Leadership of U.S.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
The Soviet Union has led the world to believe it has challenged the world leadership of the United States. It is a long way from making the challenge stick.

With spectacular ventures Khrushchev, particularly in the Middle East and Asia, have created the impression in many minds that they have seized the offensive and are holding the initiative.

There are facts of life, however, that even the collective Soviet leadership must face. Earning a catastrophic economic collapse in the West, the USSR is by its own reckoning at least 10 years away from the fundamental goals that would put sharp teeth in the challenge.

Soviet strategic planning on the home front encompasses 10 to 15 years. In that period, despite a continuing necessity for bold and conspicuous maneuvers, the Russians likely will cautiously avoid moves entailing the risk of blundering into world war. In a decade many things can happen, particularly in Soviet internal development.

That may be the period of grace for the free world to wage another kind of modern warfare on a political-economic battlefield. And free world policy may have the opportunity to bring mankind to the brink of peace.

This is an election year in the United States, complicating the conduct of foreign policy. But it is a difficult year in the USSR too. The 20th congress of the Soviet Communist party opens Feb. 14. It will have to examine the new Moscow approach to foreign policy, to repeat fundamentals of the internal party line and the line for Communists abroad. It must nail down the policy of "all for heavy industry" which means progress without abundance. It may even clarify leadership questions.

Behind the scenes in Washington, there seems much thinking on these lines:
1. The United States is often criticized by its friends, abused by its enemies. But its policies over the cold war years have built a firm foundation for the job of waging peace.

2. Instead of dismay, the new Soviet ventures into the economic aid arena should bring cheers from the free world. The USSR made a big splash in 1955, but its actual investment in the welfare of other nations has been infinitesimal in comparison with that of the United States.

3. A prospective stand-off in a few years in nuclear weapons can promote peace if it is accompanied by a determined drive on the social-economic side to meet and turn back red challenges. Coupled with this would be a campaign to jog short memories and arouse moral indignation at the record of Soviet communism. The means for these drives exist. The method seems yet to be determined.

Members of the Soviet Communist party, noses buried deep in their compulsory homework, have received a tip-off of things to come. The journal Kommunist, in discussing agriculture, warned "it is impossible to forget the international aspect of this question." Soviet policy, it said, would depend for success on huge rises in industrial production and labor productivity.

Dam Building Starts Despite Legal Actions

PORTLAND, Ore., March 3 (AP)—The head of the Portland General Electric company has said his firm will proceed with construction of Pelton dam despite a threat of prosecution by the Oregon attorney general.

Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton said Wednesday PGE would be violating the law if it has started construction of Pelton dam on the Deschutes river, since it has not received a state license for the job.

Has FPC License
The firm has a license from the federal power commission. The state made a court challenge of the FPC licensing, and the supreme court upheld the FPC. The Pelton dam site is on land set aside by the federal government earlier for water power purposes.

Thomas Dezell, PGE board chairman, said, "They argued before the supreme court and lost... it is difficult for us and our legal counsel to comprehend upon what basis Mr. Thornton, who is a lawyer, has been able to reach a professional opinion running exactly contrary to that of the highest legal authority in the land."

Contract Let
Dezell said PGE would go ahead with construction. It recently let a contract for building of an access road to the site.

The Idaho Power company, which has an FPC license to build Hells canyon and Brownlee dams on the Snake river, adjoining Oregon, also was threatened by Thornton with possible prosecution for not having a state license.

The firm said Wednesday the FPC license was proper authorization, and indicated it would go ahead with construction.

Assertion Made
C. Girard Davidson, attorney for groups opposing the Idaho Power company plans, asserted the company still needs state authorization.

"Federal law requires a utility company to comply with state laws so far as irrigation, water supply and other vested right are concerned," Davidson said.

Thornton is awaiting reports from district attorneys in Baker county—where Brownlee and Hells canyon sites are located—and from Jefferson county, where the Pelton project is located. They are to report whether construction has started.

Ketchum Reports Pair of Accidents

HAILEY, March 3—Two automobile accidents were reported to the sheriff's office Wednesday. Both accidents were investigated by Ketchum Police Chief Lester Jankow.

At 4:30 p. m. Feb. 22 the 1947 Studebaker driven by Mrs. Dorothy P. Black, Ketchum, and the 1951 Mercury driven by Llewellyn J. Black, Vancouver, B. C., collided near a private driveway. Damage to both automobiles was slight.

In the second accident which occurred at 4:45 p. m. the same day, the 1955 Ford stationwagon driven by Richard R. Hooper, Lancaster, Calif., and the 1955 Plymouth driven by Emery C. Veer, Fairfield, collided on a curve. Damage to the Ford was estimated at $125 and to the Plymouth at $250.

Magic Valley Hobbies No. 10 Gooding Stradivari Gouges, Chisels And Scrapes to Build Dozen Violins

GOODING, March 3—If anyone ever calls Sam Daniels, Gooding, a chiseler, it won't be an insult. With planes, gouges, knives and scrapers, he has gouged, shaped and sanded wood with time-consuming painstaking care to produce more than a dozen violins so the world would be a richer place in which to live.

Daniels is not a musician. Although he plays the violin and several other instruments, he doesn't claim to be a musician. But he has an ability with his hands to construct the tools which other people can use to produce the music that is needed to make the world happier.

The violin craftsman is a farmer and a salesman. Last year he farmed Ralph Miller's ranch in Hagerman valley and this year, even though he owns a ranch near Gooding, he is living in Gooding and selling real estate.

Had it not been for Amati and Stradivari in the 1600's there's no telling where the violin would be today. Perhaps it wouldn't even be in existence prior to the two master craftsmen, the tonal quality of a violin wasn't much to brag about.

Amati and Stradivari were the first to make violins that were capable of producing beautiful tones. The two men set a pattern in violin making that has been changed little since then.

Daniels is following in the footsteps of the two old masters. He used model airplane construction as a springboard to violins, using tools that are far beyond the fondest dreams of the 17th century violin makers.

Today, as it was 350 years ago, it's the wood that produces the tone qualities of a violin. The wood must be so well seasoned there is no danger the finished instrument will warp.

Most of the wood Daniels uses is German maple that has been seasoned for more than 50 years. Seasoned spruce also is used and myrtle wood sometimes is used for backs of instruments.

Into a violin goes as many as 70 different pieces of wood, each shaped and smoothed to fit its neighbor perfectly. The pieces are glued together to form the instrument.

A violin starts with two blocks of wood five and one-half inches wide, one inch thick on one side and one-fourth inch thick on the other. The first step is to glue the two pieces of wood together on the thicker sides.

Then the chiseling begins. The thick middle has to be gouged out to give the violin top its arch. This process of thinning is called graduating. The top is shaped to the correct arch while the underside is hollowed.

When the top is finished, the edges have been thinned to one-eighth inch and the inside arch has been thinned to one-half inch. The top is most important for the tone control and Daniels uses callipers to make certain the wood is being gouged and chiseled to the correct thickness.

Inside the top is placed a bass bar which is a narrow strip of wood 10 1/4 inches long, three-sixteenths of an inch wide and one-half inch deep. This bar is tapered on each end to approximately one-eighth of an inch. The bar helps to control the tone of the instrument and gives depth to the D and G-strings, Daniels explains. Also inserted is a sound post which is between three-sixteenths and one-fourth of an inch in diameter. This post is located just behind the bridge over which the strings are strung.

The back is made similar to the top but is constructed slightly heavier. Inside the violin are six blocks of wood that are between three-fourths and one inch in diameter. They are tapered to fit the side walls or ribs of the violin. One block at each "corner" of the violin and two are at the ends. The end blocks are curved to fit the ribs.

Every violin is "lined" with thin wood one-eighth to one-fourth inch thick, glued to the top and bottom of the instrument and on the blocks.

The violin is painstakingly cut to shape and the openings in the top

Hours of painstaking work go into making a violin. Sam Daniels, Gooding, who has made a dozen violins since he was 21 years old, has discovered that in spite of all the modern machinery man has, making a violin still is pretty much hand work. The tools he uses, however, are much better than the tools used by violin makers centuries ago. (Staff photo-engraving)

After finishing a violin Sam Daniels, Gooding, tries it out for tone quality. With him here is his youngest son, Charles, 2, who likes to listen to the music his father coaxes from a violin. Daniels, in addition to his violins, also has built one guitar. (Staff photo-engraving) are cut with infinite care. Once the "scroll"—the part in which the tunbody of the instrument has been com-ling keys are inserted—are fastened

Probe Requested For Music Union

CHICAGO, March 3 (AP)—The American Federation of Musicians has ordered an investigation of the Los Angeles local 47 which has tempted to suspend its elected president.

The union's executive board has authorized James C. Petrillo, president of the union, to organize a five-man committee to conduct the investigation.

The executive board also received an appeal from the local's president, John Tegen, protesting the attempted suspension.

The Los Angeles local sought to suspend Tegen because of a disagreement over Petrillo's handling of union financial matters. Petrillo postponed the suspension while the investigation was under way.

The executive board and to the violin. Daniels purchases the scrolls ready made.

Then comes a long period of sanding until the wood is smoothed almost to a polish. The type of finish that goes onto a sanded surface is determined by the grain. Some violins are stained and then varnished while others are varnished without a stain.

The finishing of a violin is one of the most important steps since the finish can help determine the tone of the instrument.

Daniels doesn't make bows although he has repaired many. A bow contains as many as 150 horse-hair threads, he said.

Strings of early violins were made from the intestines of animals. Modern E strings are metals while G and D and sometimes A strings are gut overwound with silver, copper or aluminum wire.

Once Daniels deviated from violin making and produced a large, six-stringed guitar. The neck and top of this instrument are made of salmon juniper and the back and sides are of maple.

After he had finished it he went back to violins.

Although he doesn't claim to be a musician, Daniels enjoys playing his instruments. On occasion he and Sam Tate, Hagerman, get together for a "jam session" and almost invariably they are joined by Mrs. Tate with her mandolin or one of Daniels' violins. Daniels' 13-year-old son, Frank, chimes in on the juniper wood guitar.

Soviets Utilize Automation in Big Industries

MOSCOW, March 3 (AP)—The Russians are introducing automation in Soviet industry. They admit they have a long way to go before they catch up with the West. But what they do have is good.

Three American automation engineers who visited the Soviet Union recently and inspected industrial installations told newsmen they were impressed.

After touring the Kaganovich ball-bearing plant in Moscow, Nevil I. Bean of the automatic transmission division of the Ford Motor company said: "I've never seen a better example of automation in my life."

Others Agree
The other Americans, Walden H. Brandt of Westinghouse and Albert C. Hall of Bendix, agreed.

The automatic production line they saw went into operation last September after four years of preparation. Manned by relatively few workers compared to the customary rank of kocherled women, it is the prototype for 30 others to be built at the plant within the next five years.

Russia's automation "crash program" is guided by the newly-formed ministry of instrument building and automation," headed by Mikhail A. Leschke. This ministry will be responsible for designing and producing automatic machinery and complete production lines.

Role Assigned
The latest five-year plan assigns an important role to automation as a means of cutting costs and increasing output.

It calls for extensive automation in entire plants. It also provides for automatic operation of power systems, petroleum production and other branches of industry.

According to Soviet authorities, complete automation has already been introduced in some electric power stations, open hearth and blast furnaces and oil refineries.

ONE TO BE INITIATED
SHOSHONE, March 3 The initiative degree will be presented for one candidate at the IOOP lodge meeting at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the IOOP hall.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Manuel Williams, BURLEY, are observing some important events in their lives. First is their 65th wedding anniversary, then there's Mrs. Williams' 82nd birthday anniversary, and last, there's Williams' 90th birthday anniversary. They were married in real "bow and arrow" country, the Oklahoma Indian Territory, on Feb. 25, 1891.

The couple had 10 children, six sons and four daughters. Of these they reared nine to adulthood and eight still are living. They have 39 grandchildren and nearly as many great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Williams was 82 on Feb. 27 and her husband will celebrate his 90th birthday anniversary March 6.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams have lived in the Burley area for a long time, having come here from Oklahoma in 1929. For several years they farmed but for the last 12 years they have been living in Burley. Mrs. Williams said she worked every day at the Burley potato mill until she was 70 years of age.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Williams like to be busy doing things. She said that she enjoys making quilts and sewing. She does all her own housework and does quite a bit of reading. Mrs. Williams said her husband is an enthusiastic gardener and already has ordered the seeds for this year.

Mrs. Williams is a member of the Relief society of the LDS church and enjoys helping on work days when quilts are sewed.

The two enjoy pets and at present a very active member of the household is a little black and white kitten which reacts violently to the sound of running water. Instead of running away from someone unfamiliar, the kitten watches its chance to jump onto the unsuspecting visitor's lap.

School in Blaine county is older than the county. The first school was held in HALEY in 1887 when Blaine, instead of being Blaine county, was Alluras county.

From a minute book kept by the school board, there was no high school in the county in the early 1890s but the grammar school had four teachers in 1894 and 1895. The community had the first basketball team in the state and, in 1898, the school held its first graduation. Members of the class were Mrs. Mabel Fuld Hoake, Portland; Presley Horne, Caldwell; and Bertha Breunler, deceased.

Life was pretty rugged in those early days and, on July 29, 1898, the school board authorized the purchase of two cupboards for the library room. Tuition for pupils from outside the district was $1.50 a month, payable in advance.

Enrollment increased steadily and in 1897 there was a half-time teacher in addition to the four full-time teachers. The board specified one of the teachers should teach vertical writing.

Henry Hill, who died recently at SHOSHONE, apparently had a hard time deciding where he wanted to live before he reached Shoshone. He was born in Quebec, Canada, Dec. 8, 1889, but before coming to Shoshone in 1910 he had lived in various parts of the United States, different sections of Canada and even Alaska.

In Quebec he went to school four months out of each year and worked on a farm the rest of the time until he was 18 years old. Then he moved to Vermont to drive an ox team in a logging camp. Obviously that wasn't what he wanted for, in 1898, he went overland from Montreal to Vancouver, B. C., and then to Victoria.

At Victoria, he bought a year's supply of food—flour, beans, bacon, dried apples, evaporated potatoes, tea, coffee, sugar and rice—and went to Skagway, Alaska, to hunt for gold. He hauled his provisions on a hand truck to the foot of the famous Chilkoot pass and then packed them to the top on his back. Skagway was a lively place, too lively for one to stay there long. Soapy Smith was the mayor and was shot about the time Hill arrived. There was a snowslide while Hill was camped at the foot of Chilkoot pass that buried about 100 men. He worked three days helping to get them out.

When he got his provisions packed to the top of the pass, he put them on a hand sled again and ran them down to Crater lake, Lake Linderman, and to Lake Bennett. The ice on the Yukon river was getting soft and travel on it was not safe, so he and others sawed lumber for a boat and, when the ice went out, loaded their grub into the boat and went down the Yukon river to Dawson city.

PTA Council Taking Shape

SHOSHONE, March 3.—Bylaws were drawn up and plans made for the organization of a Lincoln county PTA council at a meeting Wednesday at the high school.

Mrs. Jessie Danner, state coordinator of councils, conducted the meeting and explained work of the council. She is serving as temporary chairman.

Appointed to a nominating committee were Mrs. Martine O'Connell, Shoshone; Mrs. Wayne Rathbun, Dietrich; and Mrs. Clifford Dayley, Richfield. Officers will be elected at 2 p. m. Wednesday at Lincoln School.

Drawing up the bylaws were Mrs. C. T. Knight and Supt. Camden B. Meyer, Shoshone; Mrs. Floyd Kishling and Supt. George Powell, Dietrich; and Mrs. Lester Stubbs, Richfield.

Neighbors Lend Hand to Victims Of Farm Blaze

HEYBURN, March 3.—Sixty members of the two Heyburn LDS wards, neighbors and friends gathered at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Wilcox Wednesday to clean up and rebuild their home that was destroyed by fire Monday. The 15-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox was burned fatally in the fire.

Thursday the debris had been cleared away, the walls were up and the rafters in place. Shingling of the roof was expected to be completed by Friday.

A benefit dance for the family scheduled for Thursday evening, was postponed for one week.

Here's the why of it:

There's so much excitement at the wheel of a '56 Buick, we had to do something to accommodate all the folks who want to get in on it.

So we set up a little Club to handle matters—and it's for fun and for free.

All you do to join is drive a new Buick—that makes you a member. And all you do to drive this beauty is ask.

From that point on it's pure thrill all the way.

Because then you'll feel the sheer bliss of cradled travel in the best riding Buick yet built—and of a wonderful handling ease in the car with the truest sense of direction yet...

Because then you'll tingle with the flash-fast power response that's yours from Buick's big 322-cubic-inch V8 engine—where horsepower and compression ratios hit lofty new peaks, and road command hits a soaring new level...

Because then—and only then—will you feel the absolute smoothness and the electrifying action of today's new

Variable Pitch Dynaflo*—where the first inch of pedal travel does new wonders for getaway and cruising and gas mileage—and where flooring the pedal switches the pitch for the most spectacular safety-surge in America today.

So if you want some fun and fast action—if you want to see what it's like to call signals on the most performance-packed automobile in all Buick history—come join our Thrill-A-Minute Club.

As we said, there's nothing else to do for membership except drive a new Buick. And, as we'll gladly show you, there's nothing to match this beauty as a bedrock buy—for we're making the best deals ever on the best Buick yet.

Drop in on us today or tomorrow—press that pedal—and let the thrills fall where they will.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"How Does God Help Us?"

By DONALD B. BLACKSTONE (Pastor, First Presbyterian Church)

A thrilling change is taking place in the religious thinking of many people today. They are eagerly trying to tap the teachings of Jesus Christ as a source of help for their living.

This new development was apparent to me when, a few weeks ago, a church member said, "I am familiar with the history and doctrines of our church, but I would like to ask this question: 'How does God help us?' what he usually has in mind is 'How does God help us in the daily struggle of life?' This is an excellent question, and there are several answers. In the larger sense, no one is without God's help. God is the creator. Life is his creation. And the essential substances which sustain it (air, water, food, sun, soil) are strictly His gifts.

In a more subtle sense, no one anywhere is without God's help. We lie down to sleep and awaken strengthened and refreshed. In life's common illnesses, healing processes which He has provided restore us to health. Some of God's love is in all people, so, most of us are kind to us and we are kind to them, not so much by choice as by nature.

But beyond these, much help comes from God, when we fulfill the conditions of His coming. What are the conditions?

The first condition is faith in God. In the great chapter on faith in the Book of Hebrews this first condition is clearly stated. "For whosoever would draw near to God must believe that He exists and that He rewards those who seek Him." (Hebrews 11: 6 R.S.V.). What kind of faith in God does one need in order to receive His help?

The gospels clearly answer that question. It is the kind of faith that a child normally has in his parents. The child never doubts the love of his parents. He looks to them for care, protection, understanding, sympathy, guidance, help. He freely discusses with them the day's experiences. He does not hesitate to ask them questions. He expects to be corrected by them and sometimes punished by them. He looks to them for help in plans and preparations for the years which lie ahead. All of this is suggestive of a Christian's faith in God.

Admittedly, many an adult will find it very hard to think of God as a normal child thinks of his parents. Nevertheless to so think of God is an essential condition of His help. A second condition is habitual obedience. Just as the child who readily accepts the guidance of wise parents, profits greatly, so the person who obeys God profits greatly from His obedience. What help does God give to all who meet the condition of His help?

He frees us from the terrible slavery of self-centered, thinking and living.

He lifts from our minds and spirits heavy loads of doubt and fear, worry and sorrow, which otherwise we would have to go on carrying.

He gives us the hope, inspiration and guidance we seek.

He makes possible the larger use of our minds and spirits, strength and lives.

He provides us with His companionship, so that no matter what happens, we are never utterly alone.

He gives a new and better life to all who are truly ready to make that kind of change.

These are some answers to the question "How Does God help us?" And, best of all, everyone can discover from his own personal experience that they are true!

New Slant on Traffic Safety Given in Talk

SPOKANE, March 3 (AP)—Tightening of traffic laws and tightening of "the nut behind the wheel" would save money and needless slaughter, Gov. Arthur B. Langlie said yesterday.

The governor advocated a change in slogans from "Drive Carefully" to "Drive Legally."

"If we can get people to drive lawfully and to be alert, it will be difficult to get involved in a traffic accident," he told a meeting of the Spokane Federation of Women's Organizations.

Langlie suggested use of closed-circuit television and block signals similar to those used by railroads as highway patrol aids. TV sets could be placed at strategic points along the highway and pictures relayed to monitor sets at control points where patrolmen could be dispatched to troubled areas, he said.

He cited use of state troops along the highways leading to Pullman on football afternoons which allowed a record number of cars to enter and leave the college city safely.

Cars Damaged

Two vehicles were damaged in a collision Friday near Gore's used car lot on Main avenue south, city police reported. No injuries were reported.

Involved were a 1953 Ford pickup truck operated by Raymond Young, 1239 Kimberly road, and a 1938 Chevrolet coupe operated by Kunitoshi Nakamura, 124 Sixth street south, police reported. The pickup truck traveling east on Main avenue, was damaged on the left door and fender. The coupe's front end was damaged. It was traveling south on Sixth street east.

SUCH THINGS COST MONEY! AND YOU ATE CHOCOLATE IN BED AND I HAD TO WASH AN EXTRA SHEET AND PILLOW CASE! FIFTEEN CENTS FOR MY TIME SEEMS FAIR ENOUGH!

WELL, MAYBE SO!

THEN YOU DROPPED A BASKET OF FIVE EMPTY GINGER ALE BOTTLES AND BROKE THEM! THAT'S 15 CENTS! AND I PAID A QUARTER TO HAVE A KNIFE SHARPENED THAT YOU USED TO WHITTLE!

HEY! WAIT A MINUTE--I'M NOT THROUGH YET--NOT HALF THROUGH!

I SAID GET OUT!
