Ike Will Boost U.S. Spending Near Records

One key Republican said Mr. Eisenhower would then raise the cost of defense and the military side would push the total to about 70 billion dollars or more. Another said the total could reach 75 billion dollars, depending on the size of foreign aid and whether the United States finances all shipping to Europe as a result of the Middle East crisis.

Either spending figure would exceed all previous peacetime spending except in the 1923-33 fiscal year when federal outlays soared to 74.3 billion dollars. During this 12-month period the government was operating half of the time by Mr. Eisenhower and half of the time by former President Truman.

Estimates of spending in the current fiscal year—1937—at 65.5 billion dollars by the administration last January—already have been revised upward to the billion dollars, and may have to be changed again.

Mr. Eisenhower and Treasury Secretary C. G. Humphrey told the Republicans yesterday that so long as tax revenues hold up the budget for 1937 and provide a "modest" surplus of perhaps 17 billion dollars. They ruled out any cut in defense.

GOP House Leader—Joseph W. Martin, Jr., held out hope, however, that there might be some "small" adjustments in taxes, but told news that he agreed there could be no significant general relief.

The Republicans agreed that the spending total for the new budget would be fixed more definitely after the President's speech today. Today of Democratic congressional leaders to his foreign policy proposals, including plans for blocking Soviet expansion in the Pacific, were called to the White House at 2 p.m. (EST).

WASHINGTON
By PETER EDSON

Mr. Taylor is taking his annual vacation through Jan. 1. He will resume writing daily for publication on Monday, Jan. 7.

WASHINGTON (NPA).—Waiting for President Eisenhower to drop his legislative shoes in his inaugural, the House of Representatives and the Senate will be in session on Capitol Hill in the next few days. There have been some predictions that the new session will be a quiet one, but the President's message last April put the length of the honeymoon at no more than a month. This is the time it will take for the President to send up his message and for the new Congress to organize its committees. Then the fun will begin.

There will be some opening skirmishes on changing the rules to limit filibusters. But it will be a surprise if this much-needed reform musters enough votes to pass.

Thereafter the Congress will proceed about as usual. That means many hearings, but little or no action in March.

EVEN WITHOUT the presidential message, there is enough unfinished business to make the 80th Congress a session. Many of these holdovers have been given new importance by developments since the election. Both at home and overseas.

Typical is amendment of the immigration act. President Eisenhower has sent Congress several special messages on this. There were five amendments pending when Congress adjourned. With the Hungarian crisis to deal with, immigration legislation has become more important than ever. But whether this lever is strong enough to pry loose a liberalization of the McCarran-Walter act is doubtful.

Extension of the foreign aid program may find increased support in the new Congress, however. The reasons are found in the anti-Russian revolt in Poland and Hungary, the tense situation in the Balkan area, the oil shortages and strained financial conditions in western Europe.

These major developments in foreign affairs also influence many domestic issues which the new Congress must consider. For instance, any hope of reducing the U.S. national defense budget has now gone glimmering.

THE BUDGET.—Federal budget reduces the prospect for tax reduction, though there is strong support among returning congressmen to provide tax relief for small business and larger tax exemptions for low-income families in particular.

Increased government spending has an inflationary effect on the whole economy. Coupled with increases in the cost of living index, the wholesale price index, increase in interest rates just after the election and the tight money situation in general, this development could become dangerous.

Dealing with all these inflationary pressures is possibly the biggest job Congress has as it meets.

The government's contribution to this inflation is found in many programs.

Increased government spending is inevitable next year under several laws passed by the last Congress. These include the soil bank program, the new highway program, aid to local communities, on small waterways projects for both irrigation and power.

CONTINUING DROUGHT in the southwestern plains states points to the likelihood of further government relief measures.

Since some form of a federal aid school bill seems certain to pass and since there is revived interest in stepping up the government's atomic power program, still further increases in government spending are inevitable. So far we have not heard of any such increases.

Inflationary pressures can be felt even in some of the labor legislation which Congress will probably consider.

A new drive is expected to increase minimum wage rates above the $1 an hour set by the last Congress, and to broaden coverage. Organized labor leaders are pushing the move, and the House and Senate would have the same effect. If this proposal makes any headway in collective bargaining.

In only one area is there really good news. Increased automobile production is reducing unemployment. It thereby reduces some of the demand for aid to last year's depressed areas.

KENTUCKY'S TRAFFIC PLAN

Now that Kentucky's new point system for keeping tabs on habitually careless drivers has gone into effect, it will be interesting to watch the results.

Under the system's provisions, any driver who accumulates as many as 12 "demerit" points within a three-year period may have his driver's license suspended for six months. Repeat accumulations of 12 points will result in longer suspensions.

Point values have been assigned to each type of traffic violation involving a moving vehicle. Reckless driving, for example, carries a penalty of four points. Three such convictions within a three-year period would automatically force the offending driver to surrender his license for six months.

Other violations and the point totals assigned them include: Misrepresenting or falsifying application for license, 12 points; speeding, six points; passing on curve or hill, six points; passing school bus that is loading or discharging passengers, four points; violation contributing to an accident, four points; exceeding speed limit, three points.

When a driver amasses as many as six points, he will receive a letter from the department, public safety, advising him to drive more carefully. When his point total rises to nine, he will be invited to appear before a department representative to discuss how his driving can be improved.

On the accumulation of his 12th point, a driver must either surrender his license or appear at a hearing to show cause why his license should not be suspended. If there is definite proof that the driver actually has become more careful, his license may be placed on probation for a period of one year. During such a probationary period, any type of conviction on a traffic charge will result in an automatic six-month suspension of his license.

If no evidence of improvement is presented at the hearing, the driver faces immediate suspension of his license.

The system does not apply to offenses for which Kentucky law calls for mandatory revocation of the driver's license. These include drunken driving, manslaughter or reckless homicide with a motor vehicle, perjury or false affidavit to the department of public safety, felony involving the use of a motor vehicle, three reckless driving convictions in 12 months, leaving the scene of an accident, and failure to stop and render aid.

On the other hand, Kentucky's system applies to the traffic problem makes a lot more sense than most of the double talking we hear nowadays.

With Idaho's staggering traffic death toll an all time high of 246 lives lost in 1935, as compared with 186 in 1934, it will be interesting to see what, if any, effective action will be taken by Governor Smylie and the forthcoming session of the state legislature.

Well, have to come up with something a lot better than the statistics the aid of the American Legion members for special patrol duty with the state police.

WHY THE SUBTERRANEAN?

It was no surprise when the state commissioner of law enforcement ordered a 15-day extension of time for purchase of 1937 vehicle license plates.

After repeated warnings by the department that there would be no extension of time, it went back on its word, gave law enforcement officials generally a black eye, and helped to establish what already has become a standing joke in Idaho.

It was to be expected that the 15-day extension would bring expressions of disapproval from county assessors, sheriffs' offices, police departments and the like. But the entire license plate personnel would have to be kept on duty at an additional cost to the taxpayers.

When the commissioner of law enforcement for a state makes a statement, I believe the citizens expect him to keep it. It was Twin Falls Police Chief Howard Gillette's observation. He referred to the department's subsequent late in November, a number of subsequent warnings that no extension would be given this year.

We agree with the police chief's thinking in this respect. What reason is there now for the people to pay any attention to the department's warnings? Why all the subterfuge, give the department a black eye, let it hear it be the end of the year or Jan. 15.

The department is not entirely to blame because in extending the time for buying licenses, it pointed out it was doing so "with the governor's approval."

A doctor says love can cause high blood pressure or a stomach ache. No wonder some young couples look sick.

NO PLACE FOR NEUTRALITY

Burlon E. Marvin, dean of the William Allen White School of Journalism at the University of Kansas, has declared that it is absolutely essential that the Daily Kansan remain neutral in all political situations.

It is easy to understand Dean Marvin's point of view. He is in a delicate spot because the university is a tax-supported institution. If a student journalist whipped out some inflammatory bit of political writing that offended powerful persons, the dean would take the rap.

And yet, surely the philosophy of neutrality is a subject that should not be taught in any institution of higher learning. This is not a neutral world. This is an intensely partisan world in which men must take sides whether they want to or not.

A neutral campus newspaper is a poor laboratory for training reporters and editors. American newspapers have had a dynamic part in creating the American way of life. The history of American journalism is filled with the stories of its publishers, editors and reporters who dared to take sides.

Think of William Lloyd Garrison, the editor who risked his life again and again in his fight against slavery.

Think of Joseph Pulitzer, the Hungarian immigrant, who founded the St. Louis Post-Dispatch as a weapon to support and criticize the American people in an earnestly loved and William Allen White, who led the long and well in behalf of Kansas civilization and who never hesitated to back powerful and influential persons, and against those who were fighting the wrong battles and for the wrong causes.

They were all partisan men. We defy Dean Marvin to name one man who has brought honor to journalism of being neutral. —Wichita Beacon.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

NEW YORK.—The Riesel maining...
Dubinsky can close down the whole industry.

Sam Berger, the president-boss of local 172, is immune to Dubinsky's discipline. He works as "cooperator" with the United States.

Victor Riesel, a syndicated columnist dealing with union affairs, was killed last April by a bullet thrown in his eyes as he left a Broadway all night restaurant.

Riesel is a close personal friend of Dubinsky.

Dubinsky, like Victor Riesel, has many other tyrants of unionism. He is the president of his union, the International Ladies Garment Workers, in New York. It will take a political revolution to kick him out. He has been president since 1922. He is swollen with importance and power and holds a mysterious, undefined authority in the foreign political service of our national government, which is supposed to be the exclusive business of the state department.

Long prior to 1933, Dubinsky realized that there were crooks in the official booklets of his own organization. So Riesel made advances to individuals who knew the underworld but were not crooks. He would world themselves, and seemed competent to investigate the manner of official commissioners such as state governors often designate with plenary powers to subpoena witnesses and books and reports.

Riesel's investigation led indirectly to the creation of a bureau of investigation within the international headquarters of the union in New York. However, Dubinsky himself made all the arrangements.

Brief announcement of this innovation appeared in the papers at the time. This bureau had the power of subpoena in Dubinsky himself, who promised to produce or make his subordinates produce any document which the bureau might request to compel his subordinates to come clean upon demand.

The bureau was not empowered to conduct trials or impose sentence. Its duties ended with the preparation of actual reports, without recommendations.

The worst spot in Dubinsky's realm was local 102 of the garment workers. This local is composed of about 1,000 truck drivers and helpers and is known as the truckers' local. Actually the jurisdiction properly belongs to Dave Beck's Brotherhood of Teamsters, but it is so bad that Beck did not press for jurisdiction and the dues and other rake-off which go without jurisdiction. He has troubles enough with racketeers in his own empire.

Beck made a few weak passes at local 102 and Dubinsky always pleaded with him to take it easy because the trucks and their crews are the backbone of the city and a great power in Dubinsky's automobile might have his power. The accumulation of a "treasury" of money estimated at more than $100 million dollars. With this weapon, Dubinsky can close down the whole industry.

Quizzed Hungarian Refugees Hoped for Help From Outside

By HENRY McLEMORE

MUNICH.—A great majority of the Hungarian refugees who are passing through Germany before being admitted to the United States in operation safe haven, believed that the western nations would come to their aid in their battle against those who had taken them from their homes.

The question of whether you thought you would get water aid? One of many being asked the refugees by representatives of the Voice of America.

With disappointment, but no bitterness, in their voices, almost all of the refugees answered "yes." And those who said "no, we thought we would have to do it alone," spoke without rancor.

Another question—Why did you believe that the western countries would supply aid?—drew an assortment of answers. But the gist of them all was this: "Because we have heard so much for so long about the sympathy the West had for our people."

"I just couldn't believe that America and England would not send us some money and planes," a 35-year-old Budapest draughtsman told me. "While you had never promised us military aid, we felt that that was what you were trying to tell us with your sympathetic words. We felt that you of the West were not so much matter how hard we fought, we never could hope to win without your help."

I asked him a dozen of the refugees, both men and women, if they would have fought anyway, even if they had known for sure that they were going to have to fight the Russians by themselves.

They all answered in the affirmative. And one of them, a 25-year-old escaped with his wife and three-year-old daughter after days of cruel fighting, said the length of the struggle was proof of this.

"We didn't stop when we saw you were not going to help us. We fought on, and there are thousands of us still fighting, and will continue to fight."

Why did the Hungarians start the revolution? They fought, they said, because of their hatred for the communists.

Dulles Aids in Shape of New 'The Doctrine'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today announced the "doctrine" of the "new Monroe doctrine" to be the guiding principle of the United States in the Western Hemisphere.

The doctrine, which Dulles said was the result of a long process of consultation with the American people, was announced in a speech to the House of Representatives.

Here's How New Congress Will Shape up

The Democrats have a 32-vote margin in the house of representatives (above) as the 85th congress convenes. There is one vacancy that will be filled by a special election in New Mexico. Rep. Antonio Fernandez, Democrat, died after being elected. As for the senate, there is a much lighter squeeze. The Democrats hold a thin two-vote majority. This could be changed early in the session if Texas elects a Republican to replace Sen. Price Daniel, D. Texas governor-elect who will leave the senate in mid-January to assume his new duties. (NEA)

1957 Arrives With General Fair Weather

The new year opened with relatively fair weather in the Snake River valley today. Holiday cheer was muted, however, by a mass of frosty clouds that swooped into the north and south sections of the country.

The chilly air thrust its nose into the middle Mississippi valley and the Ohio valley. Mercury readings dropped as much as 30 degrees over a 24-hour period in Minnesota, Wisconsin and parts of North Dakota.

International Falls, Minn., was probably the coldest spot in the nation today, with a reading of 16 below zero.

A snowstorm that clogged roads in the Northeast was predicted to hit away after dumping what was predicted to amount up to 15 inches of snow in the western New York area. Some weather stations reported an additional inch of snow during the six-hour period ending around midnight.

Except for a few flurries in North Dakota, the only snow precipitation today was in the far Northwest, where light rain and snow over the Pacific coast regions.

The frigid air was predicted to spread over the central plains and Ohio valley today, overlapping into parts of the middle and north Atlantic states. Flurries were expected to be restricted to the Great Lakes shores and northern New England. The rest of the country had fair weather today with the exception of the Northwest, where rains continued to fall.

Whites Ready Opposition to Negroes' Plan

Whites mounted new opposition to the hotel bus integration movement in the South today with a warning that the change in social customs would cause economic disaster.

The Citizens' Council of Tallahassee, Fla., urged Gov. LeRoy Collins to use his new emergency powers to stop a bus integration movement spreading in that city.

The council warned the Negroes toward attitudes toward whites that would result in open violence and bloodshed.

Negro's home was blasted by dynamite in Birmingham, Ala., last night during a rally of 600 Negroes to whip up a battle in a bid to thwart bus integration drive in that city.

Californians Pay Fee for Licenses

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 1 (AP)—California motorists will begin paying $2.00 license fees tomorrow for the department of motor vehicles and at temporary stations throughout the state.

Director Paul Mason of the DMV asked motorists to submit fees with the prepared statement card issued from Sacramento during the past year. He said it would speed operations to do so.

Mason also urged motorists to read carefully the instructions for attaching the new stickers to their license plates. A new type of restricted sticker replaces the metal tabs used during the past year.

FIRE DISRUPTS CELEBRATION—SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1 (AP)—A four-alarm fire within sight of celebrated Market street disrupted fund-raising for the city's first annual parade today.

San Francisco firefighters today, about 300 men suffered from inhaling smoke which billowed from a sporting goods store. Market street is cleared of cars regularly on New Year's.

Two New Bomb Threats and Explosion Spur Efforts to Apprehend Mad Bomber

NEW YORK, Jan. 1 (AP)—Two telephone bomb threats and an explosion early today kicked off the new year for married police in their search for the mad bomber.

The telephone threats, one to a doctor's office and the Hotel Statler, both proved to be unfounded. Police found no trace of one of the bomber's internal devices in either place.

An explosion, believed to have been caused by a hand grenade, shattered a window in the apartment of Joseph Titman in upper Manhattan. The telephone threat, a "unexploded" grenade was found lying in the street.

The telephone threat proved to be a hoax. Police moved to arrest a person in army infiltration course.

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Jan. 1 (AP)—Leftist and pro-Soviet cabinet was formed today in Syria.

Former Syria leader Assad picked five widely known leftist for government ministries in a shakeup that excluded the right-wing population, the largest single party in the Syrian parliament.

Assad himself has been leading the nationalist party toward the left for some time. Besides taking over the premiership of the 11-man cabinet, he gave himself the important interior ministry post. And he named two members of his party to other ministries.

Up until now, the population has held the brake against a stronger swing toward Russia, which has been furnishing arms to that strategic Arab nation.

Assad's old 10-man coalition cabinet resigned Dec. 22 after six months in office. He gave himself a free hand in obtaining a "more harmonious administration" to conduct Syria's internal affairs.

The new cabinet is expected to push Syria closer toward the communist bloc. That is a communist-inspired grouping of leftist, nationalist, and other leftist deputies.

Fund Donated

BELORADE, Yugoslavia, Jan. 1 (AP)—The United States has contributed two million dollars to the construction of industrial, agricultural, housing and transportation projects in a former zone of Trieste.

The money is in the form of Yugoslav dinars held in this country from sales of wheat delivered during 1954 and 1955. Maurice P. Arth, a U.S. representative, presented the check to the foreign office yesterday.

Arson Suspected In Church Blazes

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 1 (AP)—Pulaski shooting flames yesterday wrecked the huge and historic St. Joseph's Roman Catholic cathedral, Connecticut's largest. Damage was estimated at more than five million dollars by City Manager Carlton F. Sharpe.

The fire, the second in a Catholic church here in 31 hours, brought from Fire Chief Henry G. Thomas the statement that "they have to be more than coincidental."

The cathedral and St. Patrick's church, destroyed by fire early Sunday morning, are little more than a mile apart in downtown Hartford.

On the suspicion an arsonist might be on the loose, Police Chief Michael J. Godfrey quickly ordered police to guard every church and synagogue in Hartford, the state capital.

Bottles of champagne and other wine are stored on their sides to keep the corks from flying out.

Thfts in Burley Probed by Police

BURLEY, Jan. 1—Two business places were burglarized here over the week-end. Burley police reported, and $52 was taken from one of them.

Police reported the money was taken from a cash register at the Spencer's Auto supply store sometime Saturday night or Sunday morning. Frank Spencer is owner of the store. Police said the door was found open and fingerprints had been wiped from the door and cash register.

The United Oil company, owned by Al Smith, Main street, west, was found open Monday morning but no money was reported missing. A member of the sheriff's office said someone apparently frightened the would-be burglar away before he had a chance to take anything.

Plan Made to Give Refugee Canada Home

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 1 (UP)—Efforts are being made here to get permission for the "Refugee" from Norway to land in Canada and become a Canadian.

Hanna, 35, claims he was born in Norway, but has no known nationality.

Hanna is ill in his stowaway's cabin aboard the ship. The ship has been frozen in the ice since he stowed away at his location 18 months ago.

The country will allow him to land in 1957. He has been held in jail while the ship was in port.

Hanna's plight became known through newspaper stories published when the ship arrived here last Friday. Since then six Vancouver families have offered to adopt him.

And two members of a British Columbia Indian tribe visited him and offered to take him into their tribe.

Vancouver residents sent many gifts.

But Hanna, with no immigration papers, can only set foot on Canadian soil if the authorities issue a special permit. So a woman lawyer who wishes to remain unidentified will confer with immigration officials and is prepared to appeal directly to Jack W. Pickersgill, immigration minister at Ottawa, who could issue a permit allowing Hanna to land.

The freighter sails tomorrow for New Westminster, B. C., and then will call at Vancouver Island, where it had stop before heading for England.

Russian Premier Avers 1957 Could Usher in World Peace

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Russian Premier Nikolai Bulganin ushered in the new year with a prediction that peace will score "new successes" in 1957 despite "aggressive plans of international reaction."

Bulgann answered questions submitted by the press at a news conference after his New Year message.

"The Soviet Union," he said, "will not miss any opportunity to cooperate with those who are sincerely interested in the preservation and consolidation of peace, for the relaxation of international tension, for the triumph of the principle of peaceful co-existence of states with different social systems. As before, the Soviet Union will continue to work for the achievement of these goals."

The premier also said that the Soviet Union would continue to support the efforts of the United Nations to achieve world peace.

Asked "what in your opinion about 1957 bring to mankind," Bulganin replied:

"The most creative circle of some western countries and their propaganda are making considerable efforts to sow the seeds of distrust and lack of confidence as regards prospects for the preservation and consolidation of peace, to create a false picture of the stability of an armistice in the Far East."

"In their striving to prevent the peaceful development of conditions, they engage in military adventures and provocations."

"The French-Israeli aggression in Egypt and the American military intervention in Hungary are a clear manifestation of that."

"People have the right to be alarmed."

Bulganin said that "important agreements had been reached in 1957, but they have not been put into effect."

In the past year and said that the 1957 the two nations would concentrate efforts to widen co-operation in the economic, cultural and political life.

"The Communist party new leadership in the Soviet Union has in the last year in the history of our revolutionary century."

The paper recalled that in 1957, the Soviet Union since the October revolution and said that "all the Soviet prophets and philosophers have predicted that the Soviet Union had 'failed' adventures."

It predicted the same disaster for the United States.

GARY, Ind., Jan. 17.—Novelist Nelson Algren was rescued from 10 feet of water in an ice-covered room about 20 yards from his home here yesterday when a small boy heard his cries and summoned help.

Algren said he decided to take a shortcut home across the frozen lake. It gave way, plunging him into the freezing water, but he managed to hold himself up by hooking his elbows over the edge of the ice.

A 12-year-old boy, Arthur and Walter Larson, all Gary, happened to get a rope to the struggling author and pull him to safety.

1. The first step in the process is to identify the problem or issue that needs to be addressed. This involves gathering information and understanding the context of the problem.

1956 Was Good Year for Business and Also Bankruptcies; Reasons Are Noted

NEW YORK, Jan. 1 (AP)—This business judgment and lacking the necessary capital to survive in a highly competitive market. Population shifts have added to the problems of many small businesses who have found themselves stranded in a changing neighborhood or region. Inflation of operating costs and dearer money have blighted some firms.

But Dun and Bradstreet reports 10,505 business failures in the first 10 months of 1956, compared with 9,116 in the same period of 1955. Liquidations totaled about 30 per cent more than last year.

Mortality is highest among the average-sized firms. One fifth of the failing firms had been in the previous year, 2,800 in 1955 and 3,100 in 1956.

As the year-end nears the monthly averages have been 912 the year before, and 1,000 that followed in 1955.

Increased failures this year have been particularly marked among furniture manufacturers, followed by leather and shoes, electrical machinery and electrical manufacturing.

Lumber companies had the lowest rate.

Among retail stores the highest rate is for children's wear shops, followed by men's wear and appliances. The low rate is for packaged liquor stores.

While the number of business failures has been rising, there are still just about as many concerns in existence. Year by year the birth rate and the death rate in business comes close to balancing.

Helpfully lured by the good times and prompted by a desire to work for themselves instead of a boss will go right on setting up shop. This time, next year many of them will be closing their doors.

GIGANTIC TRADES!

Giants Willing To Make Trades Despite Crown

NEW YORK, Jan. 1 (AP)—The New York Giants, boasting their first National Football league championship since 1956, today notified their 1967 rivals that they won't stand pat with the squad that handed the proud Chicago Bears their worst playoff defeat. The Giants humiliated the favored Bears 57-10 Sunday before 66,000 chilled Yankee stadium fans and millions of warm television viewers.

The Giants, wearing sneakers on the frozen turf, had 10 points before the game was five minutes old and finished with six touchdowns and two field goals while throttling the team that led the league in scoring this season.

The temperature was 20 degrees below zero. The Giants were as hot as a five-alarm fire while collecting their highest point total since 1954.

The only worse beatings handed out in the little game were the 73-0 massacre of the Washington Redskins in 1960 and the Cleveland Browns' 56-0 triumph over the Detroit Lions in 1954.

"We're proud of our kids but we won't stand pat," coach Jim Lee Howell said as he sat in Casey Stengel's chair enjoying his first championship. "We'll try to make trades."

"We think we're better ourselves and we hope to line up some good boys in the player draft next month."

Howell's mention of trades is enough to cause rival coaches. He has just completed his third season as New York's head coach and rapidly is gaining the reputation of being as shrewd a dealer as coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns.

Defeat won the championship this season as it has every year since 1952 and key players on New York's defensive unit Sunday included defensive end Willie Davis, defensive tackle Ed Hughes, linebacker Harold Davis and Bill Sprobo and tackle Dick Modzelewski. The first three came from the Los Angeles Rams, Sprobo from the Chicago Cardinals and Modzelewski from the Oakland Raiders in a complicated four-team deal.

"If I had to pick one man who made us a championship team, I would have to be Robustelli," Howell said. "Although Modzelewski and Hughes also made us better, than we were in 1966."

While with Los Angeles, Robustelli gave Cleveland's Otto Graham a fourth year in the title game and set up what proved the decisive points Sunday. After fullback Mel Triplett carried up the ball, Robustelli's jarring tackle made Bear defensive end Willie Davis fumble. Davis recovered the ball on the Chicago 15.

Ben Agajanian followed with his 45-yard punt and the Bears never recovered.

"They had to gamble after that, because if they didn't, they would have lost," Howell said.

As when Emile Ruppell dropped J. C. Caroline on the Bear 45, the Giants, who Charley Conerly received the first down on a quarterback, scored in seven plays with Alex Webster punting the last two yards.

Conerly's short passing to Kyle Rote and Frank Gifford in the second half completed one of Chicago's longest drives in the history of the Bears and they hit bottom when Harrison Hill, their all-league running back, was tackled by the Giants' defensive end, Willie Davis.

The Giants hadn't won the title since they defeated the Green Bay Packers 21-17 in 1956. Sunday's triumph was particularly satisfying because it was the first time since 1956 that the team had won the title in the first game of the season.

Conerly's short passing to Kyle Rote and Frank Gifford in the second half completed one of Chicago's longest drives in the history of the Bears and they hit bottom when Harrison Hill, their all-league running back, was tackled by the Giants' defensive end, Willie Davis.

Southern California moved up to fourth by beating San Francisco 68-52. Mike Farmer collected 17 points in the losing effort by the Dons.

UCLA's schedule for the season includes Saturday, Dec. 27-33 and plays at Oklahoma City Monday night.

Robinson, Fullmer Wind up Drills As Championship Bout Nears

NEW YORK, Jan. 1 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson rang out the old year by battering sparring Lee Williams Monday in his final boxing drill for Wednesday's middleweight title defense while his opponent, Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, confined his training to road work at his Greenwood Lake, N.Y., camp. The idea of the extra sparring session, according to George Gairford, his head advisor, was "to show the public he is fit."

We want to assure Mr. Fullmer that he will walk into the Madison Square Garden ring Wednesday night, said Gairford, whose charge has been known to miss an engagement now and then.

"I have no ailments," Robinson assured the writers. "I thought I was in good shape before I had the virus and I think I'm in good shape now."

As for Fullmer, Robinson commented, "I have had the pleasure of watching Mr. Fullmer in a few rounds with Bobby Boyd. He's a choice fighter. They say he's rough and strong."

When someone mentioned Jake LaMotta's name, Robinson quickly said, "I hope he's Fullmer's opponent. I'm not as strong as Jake."

Wiley said he thought Robinson might be even better for this date. Wednesday, then for the original date, Dec. 12, when he came down with a virus attack and had to skip the fight.

"I'm very satisfied with his condition and mental attitude," Wiley said.

Ennie Brack and Harold (Killer) Johnson, Robinson's co-managers, might be expected to ask Robinson to reinforce the rules against butting and low punching.

"Fullmer charges in head down," said Johnson. "I never saw him do anything but charge in head down."

Williams, the rugged, stunted fighter from Australia, with a straight right in the first round and a hook in the second round with left uppercuts.

Always ready to put on a show, Ray deliberated his victory over Williams the final bell and then hugged him. During the sparring, Robinson nodded in friends at ringside.

Clintford put the champion on the ropes after the workout that included shadow boxing and leg punching. He weighed exactly 160 pounds.

Robinson, who claims he is 35 although the record books say he's 36, is an 8-4 underdog against the young Montana. It will be his fourth straight fight in which Sugar

Champion Is Underdog in Title Match

By The Associated Press

It's a unique occasion when Ray Robinson, fighting in his own class, fights himself, an underdog. But that's the way it will be Wednesday night in Madison Square Garden, the fight of the year.

On the one-time dazler, now 36, defends his middleweight crown against a 25-year-old, 160-pounder from West Jordan, Utah.

Taking notice of young Floyd Patterson's one-sided knockout of an ancient Archie Moore for the heavy weight title, the bookmakers have established the aggressive Rocky Robinson as the favorite.

The general feeling, not shared by Robinson for his handlers, is that the Haden dandy has to stop the eager youngster within five rounds to win.

Originally the fight was expected to be a 12-round affair. But Robinson's fight in more than a year.

Radio and television will add another $100,000 to the pot.

Robinson will collect 15 percent of the gate and 300,000 from the radio-TV receipts. Fullmer will get 10 percent of the gate and 100,000 from the radio-TV receipts.

Winn In Upset

MINNAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 1 (AP)—Norman Perry of Los Angeles upset top seeded Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif., 6-4, 6-4 in the semi-finals of the Orange Bowl Junior tournament.

Perry's 6-4, 6-4 victory over Crawford was a surprise for the team, which is coached by Coach Jim McMane.

Opposing Coaches Calm on Eve Of Rose Bowl Clash at Pasadena

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 1 (AP)—Pregame tension and excitement filled the atmosphere Monday night, but rival coaches of the Rose Bowl clash between the Big Ten champions and the Pac-8 champions, Coach Forest Evashevski of the Big Ten and Coach Tom Prothro of the Pac-8, appeared at the annual monster kickoff luncheon at Pasadena's Civic auditorium. The 2,000 box lunch guests and notables obviously were in a state of anticipation for this renewal of action in the big bowl.

And out of range, at their respective hotels, the Hawkeye and Oregon State squads spent their last hours of worry before the encounter.

But Evashevski, in a joking mood, disclosed he has worked out "offensive plans" and will use his short punt formation, and Prothro said he would have to hurry his offense to get into the game.

"The exchange brought a lot of laughter. On the serious side, the coaches said their teams were good shape physically."

"No matter what, Tommy, we said Evashevski, 'our boys are ready. Oregon State is one of the strongest teams in the nation, and probably the best in the conference.'"

Only Michigan, they said, could compete in speed with the Bruins. "If we lose, I want the blame put on my coach at Michigan, not on me."

Crisler, hitting a few snags, laughed heartily. Prothro was asked by sports Editor Ted Turner if he learned anything in the regular season. "I learned a lot about the game," he said. "I learned a lot about the game."

Prothro declared a loss, no matter how close, need not portend a loss in a regular season. He pointed out that professional clubs can reverse their records with a few wins in the regular season.

"I'm a tough man to get mad at," he said. "I'm a tough man to get mad at."

Prothro's new offensive was a surprise. "I'm a tough man to get mad at," he said. "I'm a tough man to get mad at."

Brennan Looks To New Year Without Hope

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 1 (AP)—Terry Brennan, feeling a lot older than his 28 years after "getting a lot of heat" for a "terrible" season at Notre Dame, looked grimly ahead to next season today without much optimism.

"We only lose three men but they're good ones," Brennan said. "The trio stepping down includes all-American quarterback Pat Haden, halfback Jimmy Morris and guard Gene Hedrick."

"You have to feel the loss of players like those, particularly on a young squad," Brennan explained. "Sure, we hoped to do better than we did, but six of the teams we were among the top 15 teams in the country. That's no reason to believe me."

Brennan's lips tightened when he thought of the "heat" which was heaped on him, including some scathing remarks by Frank Leahy, the man he succeeded as head coach of the Fighting Irish.

"I didn't say anything to him," he said. "I was just a coach. You know, I was just a coach."

It was a tough season for Brennan—his first as head coach of the Notre Dame football team. He was ranked as the underdog of the season. But the boys did their best and that's all he can expect.

Brennan indicated, without saying it outright, that Purdue was the best team he had seen.

Brennan still rates his 97-year opening kickoff return against Army in 1947 as the best.

"It was tremendous against us," he asserted. "The 40-0 score by which Oklahoma beat us was a disaster. As for how we did, we didn't play well against them."

That was the one in which his parents went to South Bend from Milwaukee to see him play—and his father was trapped under the stands getting him Brennan a cup of coffee and missed his own game.

"I was one of his top disappointments," he said. "I was one of his top disappointments."

Brennan said he was a great coach. "I was a great coach," he said. "I was a great coach."

Brennan said he was a great coach. "I was a great coach," he said. "I was a great coach."

Scouts Show Interest in Western Star

SEATTLE, Jan. 1 (AP)—Three professional football scouts approached the University of Washington today to show interest in a back in the East-West game, the Seattle Times reported Monday.

George Voshell, veteran sports writer who covered the contest, called it Derby's "greatest game."

Derby said the "feeler" was "rather sudden" after the bow and failed to give him a solid victory. "I had made other plans," he said. "I had made other plans."

Congress Faces Some Familiar Problems

Illustrated below are some of the old familiar legislative headaches that are likely to have many a member before the new congress reaching for the aspirin before the session is over. Some of them are comparatively new problems, like civil rights and federal aid to schools. The rest are perennial toughies that come up at every session.

THE BUDGET

FARM RELIEF

FOREIGN AID

The budget—Military spending is key to balanced budget. Congress on only indicates both parties favor cautious enlargement of federal welfare programs and more aid to small business. Barring serious international difficulties no major deficit financing is expected.

Farm relief—Efforts may be made to install high rigid price controls, but these will probably fall as the pressure for continued flexible price supports and soil bank improvements aimed at cutting overproduction. New drought relief legislation of some sort is expected to pass.

Foreign aid—The rapidly changing revision of the foreign aid program but does not foresee an end to United States' overseas spending. Our position "NATO" in exchange for an agreement to accept American military guard-lanship.

Civil rights—The house may again pass the bill providing the greater civil rights as proposed by President Eisenhower. Some southern senators are opposed. Could be sterner issue before congress.

School aid—The tough segregation issue will make it difficult, if not impossible, to enact a bill to provide money from the U. S. treasury to help the states build schools. However, both parties are heavily committed to finding federal help for construction of the desperately needed schools.

Tax cut—The outlook for a really big tax cut is poor. Like for a tax cut for small business and individual income tax cuts. The tax cut for the individual taxpayer. However, the heightened international peril which signals bigger defense spending will probably eat up any treasury surplus.

U.S. Savings Bonds Poor Investment, Charges Editor of National Magazine

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 1 (AP)—Savings bonds are a "relatively poor investment," department advertisement for savings bonds on page 34 of the magazine which describes them as "ranked with the world's finest investments." The magazine's editor, Charles Stewart, 14 months, in a car-truck crash in Blaine county on Sept. 15.

Soviet Paper Has Doctrine Under Attack

MOSCOW, Jan. 1 (AP)—The Soviet Communist organ Pravda charged today that the proposed "New Doctrine" for the Middle East would "enlarge people" and "set up" the United States as a "superpower."

The first detailed Soviet comment on the plan in a dispatch from New York. "It described the proposal as 'a plan for strengthening American colonial domination, worked out by U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles,' and proposed to the Middle East states that the United States 'defend' their territory and providing for so-called 'economic aid' in exchange for an agreement to accept American military guard-lanship."

Pravda said the plan would also give the President authority to use economic, political and if necessary military measures to oppose any Soviet aggression in the Middle East. "The living nature of the proposed goals of the new American plan are especially striking in connection with the participation of Britain and France in the recent aggression against Egypt—even though in the position of poor relatives."

The Communist party organ said that the British and French were convinced of the disinterestedness of U. S. aims in the Middle East. "The Soviet Union," it said, "in the Middle East is fighting for the hands of English colonialism—one of the aims of the American plan."
