BOISE, Jan. 22 (AP)—Fred Smith, Boise, chairman of the Idaho Freedom to Work committee, said today legislators who support right-to-work legislation in the 1957 session "are backed by the largest group of people that ever sponsored such an amendment."

"Petitions with hundreds of signatures favoring the measure are being circulated in the state," he said.

Smith said nine major organizations in Idaho had passed resolutions and signed petitions favoring right-to-work legislation which would ban union shops and closed shops.

of 500 can qualify for grade separation.

Siemens says the cost of construction will be divided between the state and the Union Pacific railroad.

The government will provide 50 per cent of the money and the railroad 50 per cent.

Cost of engineering and preliminary plans must be borne by the highway district.

The highway district is the state highway department, Siemens says.

In order to get the plans for the improvement it will be necessary to furnish a 70-foot right of way.

Siemens says he added "I cannot make any estimate of the cost until the engineer completes his work."

The annual report covers projects completed during the year on the state highway system within the state highway district; new construction of roads, bridges, and structures; road and under maintenance and an inventory as of Jan. 1, 1957.

The mileage for the different types of roads at the end of the year are: state highway, bituminous surfaced, 71,500 miles; bituminous surfaced in the district, 220 miles; gravelled, 50.1; earth roads, graded, 80.7; earth roads, unimproved, 122.3 and primary, 85.4.

Several projects were completed during the year on the state highway system within the boundaries of the highway district.

One completed was the 4.4-mile, from Rogerson south to the 2nd and 3rd streets, at an estimated cost of $24,222.

Other construction completed under the highway system was a 5.7-mile project on Banbury hill on highway 30 east of Puhl at a cost of $49,600.

A total of 3.1 miles on highway 30 in the Twin Falls highway district.

Two bridges were completed, one over the highway on highway 30 east of Puhl at a cost of $57,775 and the other over the highway on highway 30 east of Puhl at a cost of $57,250.

Under the heading of grading the district advised the grade across back creek at a cost of $185.

The grade in Twin Falls was widened and a rock guardrail installed at a cost of $49,700.

Two files and a retaining wall were completed on the highway on highway 30 east of Puhl at a cost of $25,433.

Other projects brought the total cost for the year to $1,053,330.

The highway district paid the city of Twin Falls the sum of $4,000 as a share of the improvement of the highway.

Shouldering and draining of roads within the district required loading and hauling of 14,710 yards of dirt.

A two-inch bituminous road mix, 36 feet in width, was placed on 16,600 square feet of the highway on highway 30 east of Puhl at a cost of $48,156 per mile for oil mat.

Bridge construction for the year included the construction of two bridges, placing 31 corrugated metal culvert pipes and extensions.

Under the heading of grading, which totaled $2,024.40 for the year, it is noted that regrading and constructing fill on the side of back creek in the Washington, regrading and back sloping accounted for a major portion of the cost.

It cost the district $2,495.70 for snow removal during 1956 and $41,864 was spent on control of noxious weeds. Results to date showed a cost of $5,987.80 and $20,227.45 was spent for placing 17,248 yards of gravel on surfaced roads.

Maintenance and upkeep of culverts and bridges amounted to $37,474 for the year.

New equipment purchased during 1956 included one sedan, one pickup truck, one service truck and two, two-ton gravel trucks. The motorized equipment traveled a total of 264,239 miles during the year, using 28,760 gallons of gasoline.

The gravel trucks hauled 51,134 yards of gravel, 982 yards of oil gravel and 20,740 yards of dirt, 320.14 gallons of oil were applied during the year.

The inventory of the district including office furniture and fixtures, material, equipment and plant was set at $236,435.45.

Solar Scientist Learns Way To Predict Rainfall Amount

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 22.—A meteorologist says he has found a way to forecast fairly accurately the rainfall of a community for as much as 10 years in advance.

Under the heading of "forecasting," a system of forecasting is established in about 30 areas east of the Rocky mountains could be of enormous value, he asserts.

The method was developed by Dr. Charles G. Abbott, research associate for the Smithsonian Institution. He reported it in the Journal of Solar Science and Engineering.

This is a new publication sponsored by the Association for Applied Solar Energy, with headquarters here.

Dr. Abbott, who is 65 and has been studying solar problems for more than a half century, says weather bureau officials and professional meteorologists doubt the value of his method but note that he has checked its accuracy by "forecasting" the weather of past years.

The procedure is based upon finding that variations in weather are identical with minute changes in the amount of solar radiation reaching the earth's surface.

Variations ranging from 1-30 of 1 per cent to 1-4 of 1 per cent in solar radiation are paralleled, Dr. Abbott says, by changes of 5 to 25 per cent in normal average rainfall.

Weathermen generally do not believe that such small solar changes can produce such large weather variations, Dr. Abbott says. Nevertheless he asserts that his forecasting based on this idea has been 90 to 95 per cent correct.

The sharp peaks and valleys of daily weather graphs have to be averaged and "smoothed out" before they will match the solar graphs of the same dates. The reason, he believes, is the solar activity by varying lengths of time, depending on the community, the condition of the atmosphere, the extent of sunspots at the time and even the altitudes of the populations of large metropolitan areas, Dr. Abbott says.

"The institute said the agreement has now been reached by the parties concerned and should provide a basis for the prompt settlement of all claims resulting from the litigation without recourse to further litigation."

Fifty persons were killed in the collision of the two liners off Nantucket island, Mass., last July 25, five crew members of the Stockholm and 45 passengers and crew of the Andrea Doria which sank.

Laws Will Be Answer, Says Kimberly IEA

KIMBERLY, Jan. 22.—Members of the Kimberly Education association decided last week the answer to the current teacher pay situation should be sought through legislative action and a walk-out.

The group drew up a resolution on this subject during a meeting Wednesday.

The resolution calls for "positive, aggressive action by our executive committee of the Kimberly Education association to the point of calling the delegacy assembly to meet during the recess of the state of the legislature in order to improve upon them the wage increase for implementing the two-hour salaries throughout the state."

The group also voted to have a copy of the resolution sent to local IEA units in Idaho requesting appropriate action through their superintendents and principals at the administrators' meeting in Boise.

Debt's Long Haul

Something of an understatement was President Eisenhower's remark in his fiscal 1958 budget message that "The successive reductions in the debt from 1956 through 1958 are modest in relation to its size."

That's apparent on Newchart above, which shows how the increases (overshoots) in the public debt during 1953, 1954 and 1955 were turned into reductions in 1956 and (estimated) 1957 and 1958. Budget surpluses of those years were used to reduce the debt by $1.1 billion of 1958's 1.8 billion dollar surplus will be an applied. (NEA photo)

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—Western European statesmen are debating whether they should rely on the western hemisphere, especially the United States, instead of the Middle East for a steady and permanent supply of oil for the long-range needs of their countries.

Washington and in the oil-producing states is a harsh "No."

The view of the United States and similar regulatory bodies in other oil-producing areas have had a restraining effect on the production of crude oil, which is in especially short supply here and abroad. Due to peak demands for this winter weather, there is such a shortage that the price has had to be increased by 35 cents a barrel.

When British officials complained about the price boost and the refusal to expand output, an interior department spokesman replied to the British:

"Tell the British people that the independent state of Texas is a good deal more independent of Washington than the independent state of Britain."

BRITISH LOOK OVER NEW OIL SOURCES—The new Macmillan ministry has been forced to search for new sources of oil, both temporarily and permanently, because of the danger of future blockades of the Suez canal. It does not feel that it is prudent to trust O. G. M. A. and it fears that he cannot be overthrown in the near future.

Oil sources under consideration at 10 Downing street are the United States, Venezuela and Indonesia, with Canada and Mexico as potentialities. But the firmest source is the United States, which is relatively invulnerable to European submarines and planes.

American producers, however, refuse to overproduce oil and the United States will not sell to Britain more than will collapse in six months, when the Suez canal is operating again. They have offered to sell at premium prices for a short emergency period, or to negotiate long-term contracts.

The British people brand this proposition as a "typical American money-making scheme" but their own government is not so reasonable. It is an unnecessary precaution for producers and consumers of this vital national product. They have taken note of recent price increases in oil and crude, as well as threats of investigation by congress.

POLITICAL FACTORS WEIGHED—Far-reaching political factors weigh against British abandonment of the Middle East market. With oil as principal revenue for many Arabian states, they would produce such considerable sums of money that they would become easy targets for Russian invasion or infiltration.

These considerations led behind Eisenhower's new policy of not selling oil to the Arab states. The depletion of oil resources that would result from such a radical shift in the pattern of the petroleum market, along with the loss of revenue to the Arab states, does not seem to be a desirable alternative.

Does he want to throw the Arabs into communist arms by depriving them of their billion-a-year income from oil? (Chicago McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

NEED BETTER LICENSING PROCEDURE

Automobile owners who have waited in long lines in Idaho courthouses to get licenses probably will agree to this thought: The legislature might well consider ways of speeding up the licensing process.

Harried clerks at county assessor's offices probably will say amen.

Washington for many years has used a successful plan to take much of the pressure of issuing licenses off courthouse employees. It allows licenses to be issued at a station, for example, by a mail carrier or a newspaper carrier. These persons may obtain licenses quickly and easily, except in cases of last-minute rushes, with the time of the county assessor's office.

Washington also has a system that takes accuracy and saves the time of both motorist and license issuer. It is a system of "pre-licensing" in which the motorist fills out a form at the first of the year. It contains, in original and carbon form, duplicate data of the previous year's license, and the assessor's office can then check the motorist's record in the majority of cases, where motorists haven't traded cars since the previous year, this form works very well.

Oregon, too, has a licensing system that seems to work well. As this newspaper recently pointed out, it staggers the issuing of licenses over the 12 months of the year. About one-twelfth of them are issued each month, and there is no year-end crush.

It looks as though Idaho might do well to streamline its licensing procedure, to save both money and the time of the county assessor's office.

Why doesn't the legislature do something about it? And while it's at it, why not do away with that costly and confusing procedure of postponing the deadline every year?

THIS IS PROGRESS

When billions of dollars are poured into a half dozen states to concentrate their energies on getting one major sector of not to exceed 20 miles, completed and open to transcontinental traffic, the timetable on that project is bound to speed up.

Such a project is bound to speed up the Lewis and Clark or Lolo Pass highway from the Montana-Idaho boundary westward.

Mobilias has arranged to complete its portion of this Missouri-Lewis link as far as its west boundary, this year. A substantial sum of federal and state money, now allocated to connect in Idaho, will leave a little more than 10 miles on which appropriations and contracts will remain to be provided. There is good reason to hope that, with the support of interested parties in this state, the long-sought route across the frontier states will be ready by 1959.

The prospect of a saving between this community and Chicago of almost 200 miles, by way of the "Twin Cities" is indeed significant. What is more, the opening of a road of a vast area in North Central Idaho rich in natural resources, recreational opportunities, etc., has vast potentials for the economy of the inland Empire and, indeed, the Pacific.

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

CHICAGO — One Lester Velle, formerly of the late Collier, seems to have satisfied the ethical and professional requirements of the Reader's Digest and to have become a union jack.

I have occasion to disagree with Mr. Velle on matters of fact and I feel with satisfaction that when the Digest ran a story by another author of similar tenor, Lauding Irving Brown of Dave Dubinsky's privately-operated state department as a hero on our side of the barricades, I was not a bit less satisfied that he had been a Bolshevik in the treasonous communist movement in our country.

I challenged that authority. Brown, DeWitt Wallace, the editor and proprietor of the Digest, to prove that either Brown or Joe Loveston, his political chief who runs Dubinsky's state department, had ever been a communist. But the two men refused to do so.

I printed an advertisement in the Washington Post in which I stated that I was a member of the Washington Post and that I was a member of the Washington Post and that I was a member of the Washington Post.

Their testimony was discounted by their own testimony. Their own testimony was discounted by their own testimony. Their own testimony was discounted by their own testimony.

The occasion of this discussion is an article by Lester Velle in the Reader's Digest, in which he states that he is a member of the Washington Post and that he is a member of the Washington Post.

MORE PRAISE FOR ROSCOE RICH

While Governor Smylie knows there is some opposition to Roscoe Rich whose term as a member of the state highway board is expiring, he should not take too much opposition sentiment for granted.

We have contended all along that our new state highway administration setup has done a job far superior to anything we had before. It is the old political pressure system. And Roscoe Rich, serving as chairman of the board, has played no small part in the department's accomplishments.

It is significant that the reappointment of Rich is being urged by organizations throughout the state, even the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce, farm organizations, a number of newspapers, civic clubs and other chambers of commerce have joined in a plea that Chairman Rich be kept on the board.

Most of the opposition to Rich has come from the so-called North Side in southeastern Idaho, particularly from Jerome. But Governor Smylie should not be misled into thinking the North Side is solidly opposed to Rich.

The Hatties Times, for instance, has gone on record in supporting Mr. Rich's appointment, and its editor, Berwyn Burke, has called our attention to the North Side Communities, Inc., December meeting at Rupert, the minutes of which, he says, indicate that the opposition to Mr. Rich does not extend to all North Side communities. The editorial in the Hatties Times reads as follows:

"One of the tough jobs of being governor is making appointments of capable men, and at the same time pleasing as many people as possible. Governor Smylie has a puzzle to solve in naming a member of the state highway board to replace the late Mr. Roscoe Rich. The opposition to Mr. Rich is expiring. North Idaho towns have endorsed the reappointment of Rich, but south Idaho seems to be divided, with those on the south side of Snake river favoring Rich, and those on the north side opposed."

"We are speaking only for ourselves, as one taxpayer, when we say the best interests of the state would be served by the reappointment of Roscoe Rich. . . If he will accept. In the few times we have talked with Mr. Rich, we've been impressed with his intimate knowledge of highway conditions in all parts of Idaho, and we consider him to be a man of judgment who has done all that is possible of heading up the most important commission in Idaho state government. If Mr. Rich has made mistakes, as claimed by some north side Chambers of Commerce, we feel they were not deliberate and very likely were the kind best described as 'damned if you do, and damned if you don't.' The state highway commission just naturally have to make decisions occasionally, which they know will displease some people, and men of lesser ability could have done far worse than the present highway commission headed by Mr. Rich as chairman."

At the December meeting of North Side Communities, Inc., to which Mr. Burke referred, the town of Wendell declined to "go along with the North Side Communities, Inc., opposing the appointment of Mr. Rich, and finds that Wendell does not want their town mentioned in the opposition."

One representative of Wendell stated that he was "opposed to the idea of the North Side Communities" adding that "the organization should be of constructive help, as example, they could go on record favoring the completion of the federal interstate highway, which is of importance to Idaho."

When the opposition is analyzed, it probably can best be described as a minority. There is no denying that Roscoe Rich has received widespread endorsement for reappointment to the board and the condition of Idaho's highways generally is the best evidence that he and the board deserve praise and recognition for their accomplishments.

U. S. TRANSPORTATION

Drafts of 28 proposed new laws to improve the U. S. transportation system will be sent to congress this year. They will be presented by the interstate commerce commission under its 1957 chairman, Owen Clarke of Yakima, Wash., an Eisenhower appointee. This is the first time such a package deal has ever been presented.

Heretofore the ICC has sent general recommendations to congress in its annual report. But the nature of these proposals has always been so technical and so complicated that the actual drafting of legislation in many cases has been left to congressional committees. And nothing much ever happened.

It is to overcome this difficulty that the ICC in 1956, under Chairman Anthony F. Arpaia, decided to make it easier for congress by sending up actual drafts on what the commission thinks should be done. Over 500 bills were considered before the list was boiled down to the final 28. Interstate commerce committees of the senate and house can begin hearings on these bills and thus speed legislative time.

Details on the new transportation legislation program are being worked out. The ICC reports go to congress in February. The program will cover every phase of surface transportation—rail, truck, bus, water and freight forwarding.

3 'Doctrines' Are Given in Middle East

By United Press
The Middle East is certainly getting plenty of "doctrines."

First came the Eisenhower doctrine aimed at combating any communist aggression in the Middle East.

Soviet Russia and Communist China reacted with the Bulgarian doctrine, the expressed purpose of which is to prevent a reversal of the status quo in the affairs of the eastern countries by the United States.

Now we have the Egyptian-Saudi Arabian-Syrian-Jordanian doctrine, which says that these Arab countries will not permit themselves to be "spheres of influence" for any foreign power.

It looks, too, as if the four Moslem members of the so-called Baghdad pact may work out a doctrine of alliance with the United States.

Under the Eisenhower doctrine, the United States would use force if necessary to combat communism in the Middle East and aggression in the Middle East would put some money into the countries concerned to make them less likely victims of Soviet ambition.

What the doctrine really comes down to is a request for the use of American forces, in the theoretical situation in which one of the Arab countries—come under communist rule and attacked another Arab country. The country which came under attack would then have to ask the United States for help.

In Moscow last week, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Chinese Premier Chou En-lai came up with their own doctrine.

Bulgaria and China denounced the Eisenhower doctrine as a plot to "suppress the movement for national independence" in the Middle East.

Soviet Russia and Red China, under their doctrine, are "ready to continue rendering the necessary support to the people of the Near and Middle East so as to prevent aggression and interference in the affairs of the countries of this area."

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—Purity Life today it takes only a look at a "few so-called reputable" American newspapers to find they contain "biased facts, ill-intended insinuations and slanderous attacks on countries."

150,000,000 ☐ 206,500,000 ☐ 248,000,000 ☐
- Telephones are a good measure of a state's economic growth. In 1950, Idaho had only 101,000 of them. How many, would you guess, are in use today?
135,000 ☐ 127,000 ☐ 109,000 ☐
- The number of homes enjoying the ease and convenience of extension telephones is increasing every week. At the end of 1956, how many Idaho homes had extensions in one or more rooms?
1,200 ☐ 9,100 ☐ 11,000 ☐
- More and more people are finding that, in addition to "business use," long distance is the fast, economical way to keep in touch with family and friends. Proof of this is indicated by the number of long distance calls made last year. Which figure below do you think is right?
Over 2,000,000 ☐ About 4,200,000 ☐ 6,700,000 ☐
- Do you know that your telephone company is one of Idaho's biggest builders? Keeping pace with increasing growth means more new buildings, more equipment to put in them and more lines and cable to bring better service to each customer's home. How much do you believe we'll be spending to expand and improve telephone service in 1957?
$970,000 ☐ $7,500,000 ☐ $3,000,000 ☐
- Continuing telephone progress requires an ever-expanding number of employees... operators, business office people, linemen, etc. At the end of 1956, how many employees do you think we had?
870 ☐ 2,100 ☐ 3,300 ☐
- Speaking of employees, how much would you guess our 1956 payroll was?
$3,200,000 ☐ $6,000,000 ☐ $8,100,000 ☐
- In addition to the money our employees spend locally, the telephone company also helps support the cost of government through its federal, state and local tax payments. How much do you think our taxes amounted to last year?
Less than $1,500,000 ☐ Nearly $2,300,000 ☐ About $3,000,000 ☐
- As you know, your telephone company is working constantly to make better service available to more people. The dollars we'll spend on construction are indicative of this. And, of course, it takes money. From where do you believe the major portion of the money needed for expansion comes?
☐ sale of stock ☐ sale of bonds ☐ profits
- Bell System stockholders, who represent a surprisingly large number of your friends and neighbors, have invested their savings in our company. To compensate for their investment, they have a right to expect:
☐ a fair return on their money
☐ prudent, but forward-looking management
☐ the best service possible for the customers their company serves

Mass Markets Plan May Hit U.S. Economy

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—Mass markets are looking for expansion in 1957, but the congressional debate of now the congressional debate over expanding the barrier to mass markets is making the expansion of mass markets in the making across the Atlantic this coming year.

American exporters are watching the move of western European nations to unite in new trade barriers to erect new trade barriers against American goods. About one-fourth of exports are taken over by these nations.

The urge to unite economically in 1957 has been given a big push by the fact that all nations are facing a shortage of cash.

The Swiss Bank corporation of Zurich has said that this "democratic" union of nations is a common destiny.

Representatives of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands and the Benelux countries are meeting in Brussels to discuss the financial formal steps for setting up the formal agreement of the pact will come on Feb. 17, and some of the other nations have indicated that they would associate themselves in part with the plan later.

The ultimate goal is a customs union, which would mean no tariffs on goods traded among the members, but with the United States left on the outside. Some think the gradual lowering of these tariff barriers will take 12 to 15 years. Backers of the plan in western Europe have said the resulting stronger economy there would mean a greater market for American goods in the long run.

The plan is unlikely to affect American trade this year. And even if it does, the impact would be small, because American exports to Europe are blocked by the fact that the United States is not a member of the pact.

The national foreign trade council forecasts exports to Europe of one billion dollars to a new high of $1.5 billion this year. It expects imports of merchandise goods to be $1.5 billion, which also would be a record.
