BOISE, Feb. 22 (AP)—Senate Republicans lost a bid yesterday to bring the controversial so-called "right-to-work" bill to a vote in the Idaho legislature's upper chamber. Except for Sen. Ellis Shawver, D., Jerome, the Democrats stuck together and—with a vote of 24-20, allowed the senate labor and industry committee to keep the bill off the floor at this time. At stake was house bill 117, which already has been passed by the house of representatives. The industry and labor committee also has in its hands an identical senate-introduced measure.

Only 23 senators voted in favor of the resolutions, while 19 voted against them. A two-thirds majority is required for approval.

Chamber Told Union's Views On Work Bill

Position of local 272, Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders

When the Minneapolis chamber of commerce met last night, it was the first time since the passage of the work bill that the union's views were presented to the body. The union's position was presented by a representative of the union, who stated that the union was in favor of the bill, but that it was not in favor of the amendments. The union's representative stated that the union was in favor of the bill because it would give the union a voice in the government. The union's representative also stated that the union was not in favor of the amendments because they would give the union more power than it deserved. Salary raises

BOISE, Feb. 21 (U) — The house state affairs committee came up on yesterday with a proposed schedule of salaries for state officials and judges which would better the pay of Idaho's governor from $10,000 to $12,500 per year.

If the maximum salaries provided for in the bills introduced by the committee are approved in all cases, they will increase the state's salary

Historic Meet Scheduled by Two Aircraft

OPENHAGEN, Feb. 22 (AP)—Renowned pilot, the north pole, two commercial airlines peep each other over the top of the world Feb. 24 for the first time in aviation history.

And from that moment on, the north pole becomes as plain a point on the map to intercontinental pilots as the highway that leads you from home to work.

It has taken men only 48 years to convert the most remote spot on the map into a mere traffic signal.

Only 18 years and his dog team really planing the stars and stripes there on April 6, 1909, to the opening of the new Copenhagen-Tripoli-Tokyo route by Scandinavian Airlines.

A small band of brave men on the ice and in the air have pioneered the first commercial north pole route. There will be loads about route. There will be loads about route. There will be loads about route.

Scandinavian airlines arranged the north pole rendezvous to dramatize the way the distance between Europe and the Far East has been cut to 30 hours and 8,000 miles on scheduled passenger flight. This is 22 hours quicker and 2,300 miles shorter than the present route via Alaska and southeast Asia.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perkins are new members of the Hansen Woodman team with five members from Hansen and Twin Falls camp held their first shoot with a score of 123. Steven Ball was high with a score of 43 and Larry Anderson was second with a score of 41.

Penalty Warning Given for Unions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—Chairman John L. McClellan, D. Ark., warned today that a year in jail may await anyone who destroys union records which the senate labor racketeering committee has subpoenaed.

The chairman and committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy revealed that financial records of deals between "Teamster" union President Dave Beck and one of his top lieutenants are missing and apparently destroyed. But Kennedy said union officials insist the records were destroyed before the committee subpoenaed them.

The chairman warned that, his committee would press a contempt of congress citation against anyone who destroyed records after a subpoena had been received. Conviction carries a maximum $10,000 fine or one year in jail, or both.

Group Makes Study of U. S. Civil Conflict

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—Within the studies of the public arch that bears the name of George Washington, a little group of willful men made a study of a Civil War battle. The group is the Civil War Round Table of New York and their fervor is such as to make them a study in itself, as folks said in every war time, a caution to the jaybirds.

The membership cuts across social and business strata. At one meeting a surgeon who has researched Civil War medicine discussed Lincoln's wounds and said even modern medical science could not have saved him.

Another time a man displayed, from his private collection, a four-inch brass band of the Ford's center box in which Lincoln sat.

Speakers at meetings have included the late Douglas Southall Freeman, Carl Sandburg, Allen Nevins and Bruce Catton. Last year, the group president, John O. Pemberton III, grandson of the defender of Vicksburg, welcomed as speaker Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant III (ret.), grandson of the victor of that engagement.

Recent guests included J. E. B. Stuart III and Mrs. Julia McAfee, grand-granddaughter of Stonewall Jackson.

Event Celebrated For Declo's PTA

DECILO, Feb. 22—The Declo PTA Wednesday night observed founders day at the Declo high school. Mrs. DeVon Anderson was in charge of the program.

Changes in Approach to U. S. Reading Studies Are Outlined

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 22 (AP)—Every child learns to read in his own way and at his own pace. Some become fluent readers in the first grade. Others need many years of painstaking instruction to master the essential art of modern civilization.

How rapidly a child learns to read is not necessarily an index to his general intelligence. Emotional maturity, ability to perceive fine distinctions in sounds and shapes, and other developmental factors profoundly affect reading ability.

These are the basic concepts of a new approach to reading which is being adopted by many schools. Experts believe it will sharply reduce the "poor reader" problem which has become the number one headache of American education at all levels.

The new approach, which has been a major topic of discussion among the 19,000 school superintendents here for the 33rd annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators, calls for sweeping changes in some traditional ideas.

It repudiates, for example, the time-honored notion that reading is a "beginner" subject which should be taught only in the elementary grades. Virtually all authorities now believe that reading courses should continue to be a major part of the curriculum right through high school.

Emphasis is also being put on the fact that every teacher shares the responsibility of teaching a child to read, and reading improvements should be a goal of every school course, whether in literature, science or even mathematics.

Another long-established educational custom which is being re-examined, and in many areas abandoned, is the rigid division of primary schools into first, second and third grades. In an effort to let each child progress in reading at his own best pace without stunting him in achievement, some schools are turning to an "ungraded primary" system.

Under this plan, grade designations for the first three grades are dropped, and a child is allowed to move at his own speed through a series of "reading levels" until he reaches the level set for completion of the third grade. If it takes him four years or more to do this, he is spared the psychological blow—and the unnecessary repetition of subject matter he has mastered—which results from the old system of forcing him to repeat a particular grade.

Juveniles Nabbed On School Blasts

BOISE, Feb. 22 (AP)—Chief of Police Frank Demarest said today five juveniles have been implicated in a Valentine's day bombing which shattered several windows at the Washington grade school.

He said two of the boys were 15, the others 14. Demarest added that two of the youngsters were directly involved in the bombing and the other three knew about it.

The homemade bomb was dropped near the school, Demarest said, and shattered numerous windows when it exploded. The piece of pipe which contained the powder, which was then fused through the air and struck a house across the street. It ripped off a place ceiling.

The youths were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Lower Crash Rates on Good Roads Noted in Studies of Traffic Problem

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP)—You're when you drive on a good road. There are those who doubt that statement, contending that super-highways invite faster driving and therefore are more dangerous. But the facts support the claim that a well-designed road is safer than one with higher speed limits and merely faster-moving traffic. Giant toll roads like the New Jersey and Pennsylvania turnpikes have consistently lower accident rates than the nation as a whole. This superior record didn't happen, it is the result of these facts:

The turnpikes are better-paved, with more rigid enforcement of the higher limits. They are engineered for safety. Their traffic lanes are divided, scientifically banked, graded with no intersection and traffic lights. They are easier to drive on. They therefore eliminate one of the leading causes of accidents—driver fatigue.

When a turnpike accident does occur at a high speed, it can be a grisly affair. Yet turnpike officials say accidents are not the major factor. The Pennsylvania turnpike, for example, has a maximum speed limit of 70 miles an hour. But a survey of accidents along the highway showed that 75 per cent of the cars involved were traveling less than 51 miles per hour. The state's rural highways have 22 fatalities for every 100 million vehicle miles. The fatality rate on the state's rural highways is 3.9.

Other super-highways report similar statistics. An accident-caused by a car on a super-highway cannot be overrated. Recently, the American Automobile Association reported that two cars over parallel roads were on a super-highway. The car on an older, narrow road skidded through a number of towns and cities.

The driver of the second car drove early nine hours longer over approximately the same mileage, averaged 13 miles an hour slower, and pulled his brakes more than 1,200 times, stopped for 16 more traffic lights, made 45 more turns and 100 more stops for traffic. He naturally was more tired and much less alert at the end of his trip.

Last year, New York University experts put two identical cars on two identical roads to drive to New York City. One car was driven by a professional driver, the other by a novice. The professional driver was given the same instructions as the novice. The professional driver was given the same instructions as the novice. The professional driver was given the same instructions as the novice.

They were accompanied by pay-drove who were to give them the time of each day's drive. The one driving on the older roads was on the older roads three hours less than the first day's run was completed. This was a dramatic demonstration of what the nation's new 41-mile interstate system will mean.

U.S. Agriculture Department Moving In on Hollywood as Movie Producers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(AP)—The U.S. agriculture department has hired a lone photographer, bought a camera and went into the business of making simple motion pictures to help tell its story.

Today, the agency has one of the most modern motion picture units in the country — including script writers, directors, photographers, stage hands, film technicians, editors and distributors.

It pictures are seen annually by an estimated 25 million persons attending local farm school and other meetings as well as on one news show many who see some of them on television.

Since the modest start of the picture making back in 1907, the department has made 3,000 or more pictures. At any one time it has around 250 different ones in circulation. Old ones are "retired" and sent to the national archives and records service for preservation for future use.

Various agencies of the government use the motion picture to get across information and ideas to the public. But the agriculture department is the first to adopt this information device.

It was not strange that the department would turn to the motion picture. "The agency was created for the purpose of informing farmers of latest technical, scientific and economic developments in agriculture and to help teach them how to adopt better methods.

Officials gave this picture much thought for the rapid advance in farmers' ability to produce more and more products with less manpower and fewer and fewer acres. The department's pictures cover a wide field in agriculture—from the production, cultivation and harvesting of various crops to stock and poultry—problems—facing farmers today. It also has many films of wide interest to consumers.

One of its latest pictures, "The Agricultural Story"—depicts in detail the various services the agency has prepared to render the public. Released in the fall, officials estimate it has been seen on television by 10 million persons.

Department pictures are made available to schools, county agricultural agents, farm organizations and similar groups through more than 30 state film libraries connected with state departments of agriculture and state agricultural extension services. The charges for use of them are generally limited to cost of transportation.

Local farm leaders say they have found these films are very effective in helping to draw crowds to meetings.

'Pruning' for Budget Eyed By NAM Unit

PORTLAND, Feb. 22.—The National Association of Manufacturers has appointed a committee to study the possibility of which would save the taxpayers of the area some $70 million, the NAM's headquarters announced today.

Ray A. Ford, president of the Portland-based company and a member of the board of directors of the NAM, said that a suggested cut of $2 billion would be the number one item of business at a recent NAM board meeting.

Specific recommendations of the NAM included reducing of 41 billion dollars in civilian spending, 22 billion dollars in foreign aid, and 19 billion in military spending.

Gould said the elimination of these recommendations would mean savings to northwest states and to the northwest taxpayers, including $100,000 to Idaho, $120,000 to Oregon, $140,000 to Washington, $160,000 to Montana, or $494 per person.

The association's board also feels that the proposed federal spending of 73 billion dollars including federal highway program carried about 60 percent of the total cost of the continued economic growth, Gould stated.

The NAM board urged that the President take "firm leadership in the implementation of budget reductions," and that a speed-up be effected to the economies in federal spending proposed by the second Hoover commission, he added.

Gould continued, "The NAM board further urged to decrease in the nationwide concentration of power in the central government and a diffusion of power, resources and responsibility among the several levels of government."

In the field of domestic spending, the NAM feels that 41 billion dollars could be cut from the budget by judicious pruning. For example, 17 billion dollars could be trimmed by holding a number of programs to 1955 or 1957 levels and by reducing new projects, 14 billion dollars could be saved by eliminating unnecessary programs, and 41 million dollars could be saved by a 20 percent cut in grants-in-aid as a first step in returning functions to the states."

PRINCESS ESCAPED, GERMAN BELIEVES
HANNOVER, Germany, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Former German secret policeman Wilhelm Sykes said today police weapons tests did not disprove his theory that Princess Anastasia of Russia escaped death by using a pillow to deflect executioners' bullets in 1918.

Sykes investigated the execution of the Russian royal family by revolutionaries while he was attached to the German legation in St. Petersburg.

He said the Russian royal family was executed while he was attached to the German legation in St. Petersburg.

'Lost' Missiles Few for U. S.; Claim Experts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—The air force today assured the public that runaway guided missiles are a rarity.

However, despite the assurance, the house armed services committee directed its staff to make a preliminary investigation of how a missile guided missile broke from control yesterday at Alamogordo, N. M. An air force spokesman said the air force has launched more than 1,000 test missiles in the last seven years with "less than five mishaps."

One of the most sensational of the "mishaps" involved a Shrike—an atomic guided missile reputed to have intercontinental range. A Shrike launched from Patrick air force base, Fla., last December broke from control and presumably crashed in the Brazilian jungles 3,000 miles away.

A 1,500-mile-an-hour Nike guided missile was accidentally fired in 1955 at Ft. Meade, Md. Tridents gouged holes in the Baltimore-Washington expressway, but nobody was injured.

The missiles without the warheads are capable of causing approximately as much destruction when they crash as planes of similar size.

"Southern Hospitality"

Polloemen High Sharp, left, and Clarence Kennedy look into large hole where sticks of dynamite were exploded at Knoxville, Tenn., as Negro trumpeter Louis Armstrong was giving a concert inside auditorium. The blast occurred just outside the building jammed with 2,000 white and 1,000 Negro fans. Police said the dynamite apparently was tossed over a fence from a passing auto. No one was hurt. ## Various Items Are Returned

By Scientists

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—The fifth Archbold expedition to remote areas of New Guinea has returned with such varied specimens as a fruit bat with a five-foot wing spread and a rusted GI helmet, the American Museum of Natural History announced today.

The fruit bat, or "flying fox," was one of 87,000 ecological and botanical specimens collected by the expedition, led by Leonard J. Brase, associate curator of the museum's department of mammals, and sponsored by Richard Archbold, trustee and associate of the museum and president of Archbold Expeditions, a non-profit corporation affiliated with the museum.

The group spent nine months exploring the islands to the east of New Guinea's mainland. The expedition penetrated terrain that ranged from dry coastal plains to dripping rain forests and 6,000-foot mountain ranges never before visited by biologists.

Specimens being brought back by ship include a "tree-toad" with a prehensile tail, a five-foot monitor lizard, a 14-foot python, brightly colored birds, and a giant moth with transparent windows in its wings.

The GI helmet was found in a deep limestone cave on Kiriwina island, the museum said. The collection, although passing through villages rarely visited by white persons, found that the natives were unimpressed by the advent of Americans. They had seen many during the war.

Two Divorces Asked in T. F.

Two divorce complaints were filed Thursday in the Twin Falls district court.

Mrs. Harriet Shover charges cruelty in a complaint against Paul Shover.

They were married at Elko, Nev., Aug. 30, 1945, and have one child. She asks $100 monthly support, $125 attorney fees and $50 costs. She asks for all personal property with the exception of a 1954 Oldsmobile. She is represented by John G. Hopwood, Twin Falls attorney.

Mrs. Ruth Madron asks the court to award her the Twin Falls business known as the Twin Cat Inn in lieu of alimony in a complaint filed against Rodney Madron.

She alleges cruel and inhuman treatment.

They were married in Twin Falls on July 27, 1954, and have no children. She is represented by Karl E. Walker, Twin Falls attorney.

Indonesia Leader Calls for Red-Run Government Rule

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Feb. 2 (AP)—President Sukarno called on Indonesia last night to drop its western-style democracy and adopt a "new conception" which would let the communists help run the government.

The proposal brought immediate objections today from Christian and Moslem parties and warnings from newspapers that communist cabinet members seized power in Czechoslovakia.

Sukarno's plan has strong resemblance to the central people's government council of red China which functions like the politburo of communist states. Sukarno said western democracy is "wrong" for Indonesia, because under it the nation has "never achieved government stability" in the 11 years since it won independence from The Netherlands.

Sukarno outlined his "new conception" in an hour-long extemporaneous address broadcast throughout the many islands that make up Indonesia.

Wrong Flyway

EL MONTE, Calif., Feb. 2 (AP)—Charles Leslie Deline, 51, was fined $100 yesterday for literally flying on the wrong side of a road.

Deline pleaded guilty to landing his light plane on a highway and then taking off against oncoming traffic.

Unhorsed

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 2 (AP)—Back in 1928 a young man in Milwaukee enlisted in the army. He wanted assignment in the seventh cavalry division at Ft. Bliss, Tex., so he could be around horses.

He finally got to the big base on the outskirts of El Paso—after 28 years via side trips over most of the world. Now CWO Alex Meyer is to be retired.

"For years I've tried to get to this post," he said. "And now that I'm here, guess what?"

"No horses."
