

Warning Sent to T.E. Chamber on 'Painting' Racket

The Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce has received a warning from the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce that rampant painting crews have been victimizing home owners in eastern Washington and parts of northern Idaho.

They have been charging from $45 to $100 to apply straight oil paint thinner or solvent to roofs and shingles along with the claim it will prolong the life of the roof and add to the value of the home.

A widow in Couer d'Alene paid $65 to a crew that applied "something like crankcase oil" which left the walls messy and greasy and created a potential fire trap.

Manslaughter Charge Faces Man in Death

from the car, windows shattered and wheels sheared in the crash. The car was travelling west on highway 14 approaching the curve near the junction of highway 83 when Miles lost control. The car went off the right side of the road and skidded and rolled for 283 feet. It came to rest on the top of the frame minus the sheared top.

Mrs. Foran had severe cuts about the throat, face and head. The interior of the demolished car was soaked by her blood. She was found lying in the car by ambulance attendants with her clothing soaked in gasoline and a large pool of gasoline nearby.

Dr. J. Woodson Greed, county coroner, said an autopsy conducted Sunday shows Mrs. Foran died of "severe hemorrhage and aspiration of blood into her lungs."

The filing of individual manslaughter charges against Miles eliminated a planned inquest.

Miles was arraigned Sunday before Probate Judge Everett M. Sweeney on the involuntary manslaughter charge. He asked 14 hours to enter a plea and consult an attorney. The matter was continued until 4 p. m. Monday.

The complaint against him, signed by Deputy Sheriff Wayne Hankins, says Miles was "driving without due caution and circumspection... at an excessive rate of speed and lost control... so as to cause the car to skid and roll."

At the beginning of the curve where the car started off the pavement on its fatal skid a sign is posted cautioning drivers to reduce speed to 45 miles per hour.

Mrs. Shirley Mae Foran was born Dec. 18, 1930, in Omaha, Neb. She moved to Blackfoot from Nebraska in 1955 and seven months ago moved from Blackfoot to Pocatello with her husband. She was a member of the Catholic church.

Survivors other than her husband are three children: Walter Simet, 8, Sharon Foran, 24, and Jerry Foran, 11, mother; Mrs. Mabel McClellan, Omaha, Neb., and a brother, John E. Johnson, overseas with the U. S. air force.

"The three children are in Omaha with Mrs. McClellan. They were scheduled to leave Monday for Pocatello to be with their mother."

The body of Mrs. Foran rests at Reynolds funeral home, Twin Falls. It will be sent to Omaha for funeral services and final rites.

Vehicles Collide

BURLEY, July 1—Damage was slight when two automobiles locked bumpers at 9:30 a. m. Sunday one mile west of Burley on Highway 30.

Earl Lloyd, 26, Gigg Harbor, Wash., driving a 1950 Plymouth station wagon, started to pass Clarence Horne, 55, Burley, driving a 1952 Chevrolet, when a third vehicle started to pass both of them. Lloyd swung back into his lane of traffic and tried to pass Horne on the right side. The bumpers of the two vehicles hooked together but damage was slight and there were no injuries.

NEW YORK, July 1—Prince Faisal el Saud, crown prince and prime minister of Saudi Arabia, arrived here today for medical treatment of stomach ulcers.

House Group Has Hearing On Dam Bill

Gov. Robert E. Smylie, who said: "The Northwest, particularly Idaho, will experience a tremendous shortage of power in 1958 if the dam now building at Brownlee rapids by private interests is not completed on or ahead of schedule."

"We in Idaho need this power now, not in 1954 which is the earliest date that power can be available from the dam proposed by the bill under discussion in the house committee."

"And in order for power to be available in 1954, we would have to assume that the congress would be willing to appropriate 100 million dollars a year in each of the next six years to build this single project."

"We will have to shut down industries and curtail irrigation pumping in Idaho if the new Brownlee power is not available by late next year."

"Congress would be responsible for immediate economic damage to the Snake river basin, since its enactment would stop construction of two federally licensed plants which alone can reduce the present and increasing power deficiency in the Northwest. These plants will add over one-half million kilowatts in 1958. No other alternate plan can be completed by that time."

"In passing this bill, congress would by necessity assume the responsibility for providing immediate power supply for this area, and would consequently be committing itself to the expenditure of over one-half billion dollars."

"If the high dam is to be completed in 6 1/2 years, congress would have to appropriate at least 100 million dollars annually for the next five years. Each year the congress would have to appropriate for the high dam more money than it has ever appropriated in any years for any single project."

"The three-dam plan, which would be destroyed by the bill, was found to be the best plan of river development by the federal power commission... that decision was upheld in the highest court in the land."

Perry said Idaho Power's three dams would produce approximately the same amount of average energy as the proposed federal dam.

Death Figure Given as 350 In Hurricane

To do this quickly, he said, civil defense will enlist the support of other federal agencies.

Shed 4 on the Lake Charles docks, which Reid mentioned at the news conference, is where the dead from the coast are deposited by boats for spraying with a preservative and for identification.

Gov. Earl Long said last night that the dead and missing will exceed 400. The cleanup apparently had now reached the point where Reid, speaking for other officials, could lower the expected toll to 350 with some certainty.

Carpenters at Lake Charles worked in assembly lines, making coffins on the coast in the devastated towns and villages—Cameron, Creole, Grand Chenier—crews in boats patrolled the marshes, looking for bodies.

Deputy Sheriff Sam Mazilly sent a crew to the Sweet Lake-Big Lake area with pistols today to shoot cottonmouth moccasins, which are striking at rescue crews.

"The snakes normally live along the edge of the bayou in the brush. The tidal wave drove thousands of them up into the villages and towns where they angrily strike at anything that comes by."

The men going back and forth in small boats and swamp buggies to recover the dead complained that most people in relief efforts on the coast won't help them. They turn away when asked for help.

"In one way you can't blame them and in another way you can," one man who recovers bodies said. "Somebody has to do this job. I don't like to have to do it any more than the next man. But it has to be done."

Work Meet Held By 4-H Members

Mutual Society 4-H club, Twin Falls, held an all-day work meeting at the Union school Friday.

The meeting was conducted by President Lila Mae Killinger. Plans were made for a mother's picnic to be held at Harmon park July 10. Members were assigned items to bring to the picnic. Plans were made for talks and demonstrations.

Chris D'Arcy, junior leader, was appointed to procure song books for the club and information on judging.

Prior to the business meeting, demonstrations were given by Julie Anderson and Cecilia Huddleston.

Rolls Down Slope
Officer's said his car hit a hill which rises from one side of the Sinker creek road six miles south of Murphy. The vehicle bounced off the other shoulder and rolled end-over-end for more than 100 feet down a slope.

The week-end's first accident victim was Alexander Garza, 21, of the Homedale labor camp, who died Friday night of injuries received when his car failed to make a curve in Homedale the day before.

Two People Seek Building Permits
Applications for two building permits have been filed at the city hall. Applying for permits were Lavon Gilman, 305 Third avenue west, and J. C. Southerland, 252 Washington street, Twin Falls.

Gilman plans a 12 by 24-foot addition for bedrooms on his house. Estimated cost is $1,000.

Southerland plans a house on a lot located at 1813 Elizabeth boulevard. Estimated cost is $8,000.

Minister, Believed Drowned, Regains Memory After Lapse
PASCO, Wash., July 1—A clergyman who lost his memory while boating in Idaho two months ago said today he was "coming out of a tunnel."

The Rev. Andrew Daughters, 37, rector of the Episcopal church here, was reunited with his wife and four sons last night after "coming to" at a Sunday service in San Francisco's Grace cathedral.

His family had believed him drowned in a sudden squall. Daughters was unable to give any account of the weeks "lost out of my life." But he recalled the day he was boating on Lake Coeur d'Alene on April 26.

"I set out to paddle my boat across an arm of the lake after a conference at the church camp," he said. "A squall came up and it was rough, but the boat did not overturn. I remember docking the boat."

"The last thing I remember is stepping up on the dock. Then the next thing I remember is looking up outside the church in San Francisco. I remember the service only vaguely."

Daughters attracted curious glances from other churchgoers yesterday when he went to the altar for communion. He was dressed in a worn wool shirt—the same one he wore on the day he disappeared—and faded khaki pants that fit too tightly.

After the service was over, he began scrutinizing a list of names of church canons posted near the door. Canon Richard Byfield, who had officiated at the service, came by.

"May I speak to you?" Daughters asked. "I think I'm a minister—and the last thing I remember is crawling out of a lake."

Byfield questioned him at length in his office. The circumstances reminded him of the disappearance of a clergyman who was a brother of the wife of a fellow pastor, Mrs. Harold Phelan, at Spokane, Wash. He spoke the name Daughters.

"If you could have seen his face when I spoke the name Daughters, you couldn't doubt that memory flooded back at that instant," Byfield said. "Then he burst into tears."

Byfield notified Mrs. Daughters in Spokane and Daughters flew there last night for a joyful reunion with his family.

30-Day Term In Jail Given Tipsy Driver

driving. Unable to pay the fine, Judge Redford sentenced Unsworth to 21 days in jail.

Walter Allen, 48, Oakley, has pleaded innocent to a charge of drunken driving following an accident four and one-half miles south of Burley on highway 27 at 5:30 p. m. Sunday.

Allen, driving a 1955 Chevrolet south, collided with a 1950 Oldsmobile driven by C. Roy Jensen, 29, Burley, who was going north. Jensen said he slowed down and tried to avoid a collision but that Allen's car was "weaving all over the highway."

Justice-of-the-Peace, Joe Weiden, Burley, has set trial for July 10.

The driver's license of Marion V. Stone, 19, Eden, was suspended for 30 days and he was fined $50 and $3 costs Monday in Twin Falls justice court for reckless driving.

He was cited Sunday by city police who say Stone failed to have his 1948 Ford under proper control at the curving south entrance to Rock creek canyon bridge on Shoshone street.

State Patrolman Marvin Snyder cited both drivers Sunday following an automobile accident at 8:15 p. m. 20 miles west of Burley on highway 30.

Snyder said Glen K. Munsee, Hazelton, driving a 1954 pickup, made a left turn off highway 30 onto the road to Milner without signaling and that Ed Fahnenholz, Twin Falls, driving a 1956 Chevrolet, was going too fast to stop. His car skidded sideways and overturned.

The state patrolman arrested Munsee on a charge of failure to signal and Fahnenholz on a charge of reckless driving.

Darrell Kuhlman, 14, driving a 1956 Oldsmobile without his parents' consent, has been cited by State Patrolman Marvin Snyder on a charge of negligent driving as a result of an accident Sunday three and three-fourths miles south of Burley on highway 27.

Damage to the Oldsmobile was estimated at between $200 and $300, and damage to a 1951 Studebaker, driven by Mrs. Mabel Matthews, Oakley, was estimated at $75. The accident happened at the teen-ager was trying to pass Mrs. Matthews.

Mrs. Maxine Hightower, Evergreen, lodged paid fines Monday in Twin Falls justice court for failure to yield the right of way and driving a car without a driver's license.

She was fined $5 and $3 costs for failure to yield the right of way and $5 and $3 costs for no driver's license. She was cited Thursday by city police near the intersection of Third street and Second avenue south.

Jury trial of Anastacia Blunt, route 1, Twin Falls, on a negligent driving charge was vacated until the end of July Monday in Twin Falls justice court at the request of her attorney, Fred Schwartz, Twin Falls.

State Patrolman M. J. Bays, Jr., cited Mrs. Blunt May 12 west of Twin Falls on highway 30 following a traffic accident.

Senate Confirms Defense OfficialWASHINGTON, July 1—The senate today confirmed by voice vote the nomination of former Gov. Leo A. Hoegh of Iowa to be federal civil defense administrator.

Also confirmed was the nomination of Richard E. Horner as an assistant secretary of the air force, a post he has been holding on an acting basis.

Hoegh, defeated for re-election as Iowa governor last year, was nominated by President Eisenhower to succeed former Gov. Val Peterson of Nebraska as civil defense chief. Peterson has been named ambassador to Denmark.

Man InjuredHAILEY, July 1—James McCurry, Hailey, was run over by his own tractor while working on his ranch three miles north of Hailey Sunday. He is a patient at the Sun Valley hospital with several broken ribs and internal injuries.

McCurry said he stopped his tractor and as he was getting off, the tractor slipped into gear again and started forward. One rear wheel passed over his chest.

The camp is open to any girl regardless of membership in the Camp fire organization.

Allies Prepare Fresh Plan on Banning Arms to come from France. French delegate Jules Moch flew home Thursday to take up the new plan for the French cabinet and see what effect it might have on French arrangements to complete its atomic weapons within the year.

Similar opposition developed in the Eisenhower administration. Atomic scientists stressed to President the necessity of continuing atomic and thermonuclear work during Western consultation with the NATO powers in Paris. Reliable sources said it offered Russia concessions on the tests themselves and on a conditional ban against the use of nuclear weapons in warfare.

The four-part plan called for: 1. A brief suspension of nuclear tests to give a breathing-space to details of other points are worked out. No time limit was decided, but Britain and the United States have a 10-month limit. If no final agreement is reached, the tests would resume.

2. A ban on future production of fissionable material for military use coupled with some form of international inspection.

3. An agreement in principle to start reducing bomb stockpiles by converting uranium and plutonium to peaceful use in non-military reactors under an inspection plan.

4. A ban of the use of nuclear weapons except for legitimate self-defense by individual nations and alliances under article 51 of the United Nations charter.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without PrescriptionStops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N. Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

This formula is so effective that it is the physicians' leading asthma prescription—so safe that now it can be sold without prescription—in tiny tablets called Primatene®.

Primatene® opens bronchial tubes, loosens mucous congestion, relieves tight nervous tension. All this without taking painful injections.

The secret is—Primatene contains 8 medicines (in full prescription strength) found most effective combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose.

So look forward to sleep at night and freedom from asthma spasms—get Primatene

Workers Win Increases for Pay Envelope

PITTSBURGH, July 1 (AP)—The three-year contract, which ended the 34-day 1956 steel strike has the mathematics of the industry tolling at their calculators and electronic brain.

Under the agreement, which gave steel a July 1 free of strike threat this year, the payroll figures for 700,000 steelworkers go up in seven different categories today.

Putting into effect the increased benefits, which the United Steelworkers said total 16.51 cents an hour per man, entails nearly five million payroll changes.

Costs Completed

On top of this, the management figure men have been busy at the giant task of tabulating increased costs and compiling higher price schedules. Steel officials said prices had to be boosted to at least partially cover their higher labor bill which they said went up 21 cents an hour per man.

U. S. Steel opened the price parade last Thursday with announcement its basic steel price would go up $6 a ton starting today. Other big companies immediately began announcing similar price changes.

The price issue was virtually the only major disagreement between the union officials and industry executives which was not settled by last year's strike-forged agreement.

Called "Inflationary"
Steel officials have called the increased wages inflationary. USW President David J. McDonald charged price increases are wholly unjustified in the face of the "fantastic profits" of the steel companies.

At the one-third mark of the longest contract ever signed by the steel union, employees of the basic steel companies and some large fabricating firms receive the following benefits:

General wage increase, 7 cents; wage increment 12.29 cents; incentive pay impact of .32 cents; Sunday premium pay 2 cents; holiday premium .41 cents; and pensions .98 cents.

In addition, the workers received a July 1 cost-of-living increase of four cents an hour, the second under the contract. Last Jan. 1, the cost-of-living increase was three cents an hour.

For the steelworkers, today was a sharp contrast to July 1, 1956. Before the Pittsburgh works of Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, millworker Al Simpson stood reading the headline in a union paper.

"New pay raises July 1," he grinned. "I'm sure glad to be reading that instead of the picket sign I was picking up a year ago."

The USW estimates the average hourly wage for steelworkers now is $2.78 an hour.

Pipeline Project
Slated by Nasser
CAIRO, July 1 (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser teamed up today with Greek-born tanker king Aristotle Socrates Onassis to build a Suez to Port Said pipeline—Nasser's biggest coup since nationalization of the Suez canal.

The 37 million dollar project will take an estimated one year to complete. The pipeline would vary from 32 to 38 inches in diameter and would have an initial capacity of 600,000 barrels per day.

Huge supertankers—too big to use the Suez canal—would load oil in the Persian gulf, and unload it into the pipeline at the Port Said terminus, 102 miles away.

Girard Planning Wedding Friday
TOKYO, July 1 (AP)—U. S. army Spec. 3/c William S. Girard will marry his Japanese sweetheart Friday in the army chapel at Camp Whittington 40 miles from Tokyo. It was announced today.

"Plans are being made by Spec. 3/c William S. Girard to be married Friday, July 5, at 3 p. m. in the Camp Whittington chapel. Full details will be announced tomorrow when completed," a brief army announcement said today.

Earlier today, Maj. Stanley F. Levin, Girard's legal adviser, said that the 21-year-old Ottawa, Ill., soldier is "sweating out final army approval." Levin said the young soldier is "just as nervous as most guys a short time before his marriage."

Girard's girl friend is 27-year-old Harb Gandy Gueyama.

Thomas also said he put the senate in the unsatisfactory class for its action to place civil rights legislation on the calendar. The 72-year-old politician said congressmen have a record of "almost total neglect" in aid to school construction, public power, inflation, budget cutting and civil rights.

Scores Congress
WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—U. S. socialist leader Norman Thomas yesterday described the 65th congress as "one of the least satisfactory" in his memory and he referred to the senate's passage of a bill to authorize Hells Canyon dam.

Thomas also said he put the senate in the unsatisfactory class for its action to place civil rights legislation on the calendar. The 72-year-old politician said congressmen have a record of "almost total neglect" in aid to school construction, public power, inflation, budget cutting and civil rights.

Still Tough

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—Margaret Fisher and her older sister, Ann, put up a battle Sunday when two robbers invaded their home. The robbers were able to subdue the sisters and fled with $800 in cash and jewelry.

Margaret is 32, and her sister, 29.

Stress Urged
For Guidance
MOSCOW, July 1 (AP)—Idaho's school administrators have asked all schools in the state to inaugurate guidance programs and then be rated on the adequacy of the programs.

The request came in the form of a resolution Saturday at the end of an administrators' conference at University of Idaho.

Dr. Ray Berry, head of the university's department of education, said "A survey revealed that schools are lacking in common guidance services. In some cases, trained personnel spend all of their time teaching instead of counseling students."

The State School administrators association elected Earl Vopat, superintendent at Grangeville, as vice president and Harold Farley of the state department of education at Boise as secretary-treasurer.

The president, D. H. Moster of Coeur d'Alene, and his assistant, George Denman of Boise, will stay in office one more year.

SMITH ACT DECISION

The Smith act making it a crime to conspire to teach and advocate the overthrow of the United States government is admittedly one of the most controversial laws dealing with political liberties.

The supreme court has brought it back into the news by freeing five California communists convicted under the statute, and ordering a new trial for nine others.

The court said that in these cases the federal government had failed to prove its case, that the trial judge's charge to the jury was defective, and that one of the counts in the indictments should have been ruled out by the statute of limitations.

The net effect of the ruling will be to make the government's job of getting convictions under the Smith law somewhat more difficult. But it should be noted that a majority on the court continues to believe in the constitutionality of the act—which it upheld in 1950.

The court clearly takes the position that the U. S. government has a right to move against any individuals who have participated or are participating in a conspiracy to teach and advocate the government's overthrow.

It argues in other words that government need not wait until actual action toward that overthrow has begun, but can move to forestall it by nipping the conspiracy in the bud. Quoting the earlier court decision, it repeated: "It is the existence of the conspiracy which creates the danger."

Nevertheless, the court in its newest decision insists that careful distinction be made between theoretical advocacy of overthrow and an advocacy looking toward definite action. Said the majority:

"The essential distinction is that those to whom the advocacy is addressed must be urged to do something, now or in the future, rather than merely to believe in something."

The high court was insistent, too, that in the 14 cases before it, as in all those tried or to be tried under the Smith act, the conspiracy to urge action toward overthrow must be proved in each individual instance. In other words, proving mere membership in the Communist party is insufficient, even though that party be organized to promote such a conspiracy.

In this decision the supreme court would seem to have walked carefully the tight rope between the danger of trampling on individual American political liberties and the danger of hamstringing our legal defenses against internal communist conspiracy to destroy our form of government.

FATALLY WANDERING MINDS

Just about the toughest lesson to hammer home to the motorist traveling today's crowded highways is the high price of inattention. Driving is, of course, a business and always has been, even when the purpose of a trip is pleasure.

Measure the size, weight and potential speed of a present day car, multiply it by 65 million, and you can see that our streets and highways in 1957 are no place for the man who can't keep his mind on his driving.

University of Michigan traffic engineers in confidential interviews with drivers involved in accidents found that a substantial share frankly acknowledge they were upset one way or another at the time and not paying full attention.

Their stories had a thousand variations but they all spelled worry or preoccupation with some personal or business problem—a divorce, an operation, falling profits, a fight with the wife, and so on.

Industry, incidentally, has found that the same emotional causes tend to make factory workers "accident prone." Driving in this age is hazardous under the best of conditions, given booming traffic and inadequate roads. If you add to this a driver with a wandering mind, the result can be an open invitation to death.

OUR EXPORT BUSINESS

Whatever the merits of our postwar habit of giving a certain amount of money every year to our friends abroad, there can be no objection to their buying things from us. And the record indicates they are doing more purchasing all the time.

In 1950 our total exports hit a new peak of 19 billion dollars. Already in the first four months of 1957 they have climbed 28 per cent above the comparable period of 1950. And last year's yearly total represented an 18 per cent bulge over 1955.

In a compact review of the foreign trade picture, the New York Times noted that foreign sales today consume some 20 to 25 per cent of America's wheat, rice, cotton and tobacco, more than 10 per cent of its coal, and 15 to 20 per cent of its heavy machinery and vehicles.

Some economists evidently see our foreign trade not only as an important sustaining factor for industry in good times but as a healthy balance in times of mild recession. In 1953-54 the value of all goods and services dropped 1 per cent—but exports rose 2 per cent.

Therefore it would seem plain that they are a definite stabilizer in averting sharp downswings.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON — Only a handful of non-elected men at Washington still believe that communism no longer poses a threat to the security of the United States. Yet they have blunted every weapon which the federal government and the 48 States possess for fighting this internal and foreign conspiracy.

Moreover, under the ruling of these seven black-gowned members of the supreme court, it is extremely doubtful if congress or the state legislatures have any remedy against this judicial law-making and alleged usurpation of their power. Barring a constitutional amendment, any corrective legislation would be struck down whenever it came to a test before the Warren tribunal in future trials. As Charles Evans Hughes once said, although not indicating that he agreed with his own statement, "The constitution and the laws are what the judges say they are."

But Tucker
DISAGREE WITH SUPREME COURT RULING — A survey of law enforcement individuals and agencies at the capital, both executive and congressional, reveals that none agrees with the supreme court majority in its weakening of anti-communist statutes.

Both President Eisenhower and Attorney General Brownell have opposed the opening of secret documents or informants' data to defending attorneys to have conspired against the United States. So did President Truman and Justice Tom Clark when he was attorney general.

Besides forcing publication of FBI data and detective methods to communists, the supreme court's ruling may also apply to the secret files of state, army, navy and air force intelligence. It is even possible that it will throw open the hush-hush matters of Allen Dulles' central intelligence agency and the subversive activities control board. And it affects adversely every local police force in the country.

FBI DIRECTOR'S OPINION — J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, does not concur in the seven jurists' belief that the American communist party is no longer a menace to this country. It is simply "gone underground," in his opinion. He constantly warns against its more subtle activities. He employs scores of agents and spends huge funds to keep track of them.

The SACB has pending many cases against so-called "front" organizations, which have been cited to it for adjudication by Attorney General Brownell. It cannot use the evidence already collected by the department of justice, although it has been compelling its former agents.

In fact, Brownell may have to scrap his list of several score groups already held by SACB to be "subversive." This means that they will not have to file periodic reports to Brownell or their membership, their practices and the source of their funds. It means, too, that Moscow can resume its financing of their operations without any federal checkup.

"FRAUD AND HOAX" — The senate internal security committee, which is headed by Sen. William E. Jenner of Indiana, does not agree with the supreme court majority on any count involving communists.

Whereas they seem to believe that the anti-communist drive has been overdone to the prejudice of individual liberties, the Jenner group's latest report brands American reds alleged divorce from the Kremlin as a "fraud and a hoax" on the American people.

Contrary to the court's findings, the senate investigators report that the communists are still organizing, and still inciting by violence. Never, perhaps, was the supreme court so out of step with the two other coequal arms of the government of the United States. And, it might be added, with the American people and press!

WEAK LINKS IN SAFETY — Confronted with figures showing only seven drivers who had been involved in fatal accidents last year convicted of manslaughter in Utah, Governor Clyde cited justice of the peace courts as the weak link in the chain of traffic law enforcement.

This is true, despite the fact justices of the peace courts do not try manslaughter cases. Because the chain which finally leads to killing on the highways starts with minor traffic law violations—and it is here that justice courts, as well as other courts at times, are weak.

All fairness it must be acknowledged that courts are not the only weak link. There is often weakness in enforcement—too few men patrolling streets and highways, too much looking the other way at law violators which do not lead to accidents. There has certainly been in the past weakness in driver training, fortunately now due to be remedied thanks to a new program adopted by the 1957 legislature which should soon bring almost universal driver training in our high schools.

There has been weakness in the control of drivers—failure for many years to do anything about periodic reexamination of all drivers, and still wholly inadequate measures for checking on the compliance of some 6500 drivers whose licenses are revoked or suspended each year.

But it needs to be constantly emphasized that the end of the education, driver control and enforcement line is in the courts, and especially the justice courts. If the courts do not uphold the traffic safety program with conviction and adequate punishment of the guilty, the whole structure of traffic safety collapses. Education loses its meaning. Enforcement is discouraged. And driver control is a farce.

The number of convictions for manslaughter "is really not the most significant index of traffic control." By the time the traffic accident tide reaches the point of death it is often too late. In many cases the responsible drivers are dead. And a surviving driver may himself be the innocent victim of someone else's recklessness.

The time to stop the flood is when the trickle begins far up the mountain slope, or when the first little leak shows in the dike. And the time to stop the rising tide of death and serious injury on the highway is with the first violation—too speeding—or reckless—or drunken driving.

Only when people, including courts, officials and police, recognize that fact will they begin to make a real dent in the traffic toll which last year took 40,000 lives, caused 1,400,000 disabling injuries and cost an estimated four and three-quarter billion dollars.—Salt Lake Tribune.

LET US HAVE A DIVIDEND
Rep. Engle, California Democrat, is our man of the hour. He wants Pacific Gas and Electric, now in possession of an accelerated depreciation certificate on a $18 million dollar project, to follow the lead of Idaho Power and send the certificate back. Under the current method of figuring the cost of these certificates, this one would cost the federal government $80 million dollars over a 50-year amortization period. Idaho Power, to use the same figures, would have cost the government $39 million dollars. That's something more than a billion dollars, unless our adding machine is out of kilter.

Now these projects are being built in every state in the union, in various industries including private power. Oregon has 63 million dollars involved, which will cost the taxpayers just about the same $39 million dollars tagged on Idaho Power's 65 million dollar program. The state of Washington has $4 million dollars certified, which would be another half a billion. And so on across the nation. The projects listed here are only a minor portion of the total.

Therefore, we are going to urge Representative Engle, who is well known in Idaho, to expand his interest and go after the entire list of accelerated depreciation certificates, or write-offs, as the propagandists want to term the situation. Because if the figures are accurate as to the eventual cost to the taxpayer, then cancellation of every one of these depreciation permits will save the federal treasury so much money that all personal income taxes can be eliminated and a huge bite taken out of the national debt.

We are not interested in seeing all this money that has been saved by halting these permits go to waste. Let's have a dividend so that the home folks will really feel the full impact of the enormous savings that are being made in their behalf. There is little joy in saving these millions unless the man in the street can feel some of it in his pocket.—Boise Statesman.

BUT IT MEANT SOMETHING

Dear Sir:—Been thinking about the note written by Mike Lullabye concerning the complete absence of fireworks these days. And after thinking it over, I don't know whether it's a good thing or not. In fact, the lack of fireworks on our Independence day may be the result of another communist plot.

Sure, back in the days when we celebrated with fireworks, folks were hurt and killed. But there weren't near as many killed as we're bumping off every day with automobiles and no one is suggesting that we ban cars!

But the fireworks set the Independence day apart from all others, giving it special emphasis. The day meant something to everyone. It doesn't particularly mean anything to me now.

About all folks think about now in connection with the Fourth of July is that it's a holiday and most of them don't have to work. Of course, we could follow the same line of reasoning that resulted in the ban on fireworks, and outlaw anything and everything that constitutes a hazard to life and/or limb. That would mean the auto would be junked (which might be a pretty good idea) and so would bathtubs and just about anything else you care to mention.

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

The supreme court has clamped another toehold on itself in holding that a union has no right to picket an employer to force him to drive his workers into the union. The lower court decided that local 695 of the rotten Teamsters union was trying to make the owners of a Wisconsin gravel pit do the union's dirty work. Wisconsin law forbids this as "coercion." The muddy federal Tenth Circuit law comes to the same point.

By relieving employers of the legal obligation imposed by the old Wagner act to help the union to hire more employees, the majority opinion in this case was written by Felix Frankfurter, who wrote exactly the opposite in the notorious cafeteria case in 1943.

Briefly, a union picketed a cafeteria run entirely by members of a family who owned it and had no employees outside the family. In many cases affecting small enterprises, loosely known as "mom and pop stores," unions were demanding that the family members refrain from working in their own employ and put on outsiders dispatched from the union halls.

Numerous obvious effects could ensue. The family members would have to pay initiation fees and dues for union membership and the union workers sent to take their places could insult their customers and, in restaurants, could contaminate the food, break dishes and otherwise sabotage the business. Communists were likely to put a private enterprise out of business as a minute contribution to the "revolution."

Louis B. Boudin, the lawyer for the union, had a large communist client. He recently was the subject of about 30 pages of a report by the Fund for the Republic, entitled "Books of American Communism," as a founding father of American communism.

Speaking for the court in 1943, Frankfurter admitted that the pickets told lies about the cafeteria. Nevertheless, Weenie had the cold gall to assert that the pickets were guilty of no wrong in lying about the cafeteria and the persons who owned it. For support of this decision which thus became the law of the land, he cited the Washington labyrinth.

He said the union had a right to lie and to "make known the facts."

However, in one of those precedents by which Weenie tried to justify an endorsement of malicious, vicious, harmful slanders against innocent victims, the decision also provided that the slogans and outcries must be "truthful." In the cafeteria case, resort to lies was not denied. But Frankfurter wrote that "to use loose language or undefined slogans that are part of the conventional give-and-take in our economic and political controversies like 'unfair' or 'fascist' is not to falsify facts."

Of course these lies were clearly intended to destroy an honest enterprise of an American working family and that was absolutely clear to all the brutal enemies of the American morality who joined Weenie. And they did falsify the facts.

All the New York courts had held that it was a lie to say that the owners were "unfair" to organized labor because the cafeteria had no employees; to say that the cafeteria served bad food and to say that customers by their patronage aided "the cause of fascism." The pickets lied further, according to the New York courts, in representing that a strike was in progress.

To justify all this corruption, Frankfurter, and the supreme court of the United States, held that it was wrong to deny "free speech in the future" because of "isolated incidents of abuse" in the previous record of that picket-line.

The effect which the union and the court desired was to compel the cafeteria to hire union members. For a long time, this nasty doctrine deterred lawyers for injured American individuals and firms from seeking relief in junior courts.

Now it is reversed until further notice.

Attorneys Form Bar Association

REXBURG, July 1 (AP)—Attorneys in the new 12th judicial district have formed a new bar association. Fourteen of the 17 lawyers who live in the district attended. They elected Grant Young of Rigby as president.

Other officers chosen were Neil Sahli of St. Anthony, vice president, and Reynold George of Rigby, the Jefferson county prosecutor, secretary.

Eugene Burns
Mule Has What It Takes in Warfare

Major Gen. Walter J. Muller who saw to it that a minimum of one million gallons of gasoline and oil at all times accompanied Gen. George Patton's army's sweep through France and Germany in World War II, told me recently: "Armored divisions are good to deliver a massive blow—but unfortunately, specialized situations arise when mechanized wheeled equipment cannot operate. When soldiers must take to foot and depend upon pack animals to get their fighting equipment up front, often through mud or snow and in mountainous terrain."

Even specialized situations arose on many fronts in World War II. In Italy our army was forced to "regulate" every mule and donkey in sight and holler for more. In the Philippines, Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright used both mules and horses to stem the Japanese advance while he made his successful retreat down the Bataan peninsula, taking a heavy toll of Japanese.

"And what's more, if we have another far-flung war fought in difficult terrain," predicted General Muller, "these same four-footed jeeps may be called up again to serve our fighting forces and save lives. Particularly mules."

Although an "armored specialist," General Muller knows that mules have proved themselves in previous wars.

Also, he's in good company. Gen. George Washington was among the first military officers in America to experiment with the mules and soon found that the mule is ideal for peak purposes and much more rugged than the horse. In addition, it can withstand more hardship and work longer hours on less food, is more sure-footed and cautious, and when necessary will subsist on far meaner fare.

More than 30,000 mules served with the American expeditionary force in World War I—with around 5,000 killed. In spite of streamlined, eight-wheeled transport trucks, tanks and jeeps of the second world war, almost 10,000 mules served the U. S. overseas.

Mules have what it takes. In today's warfare where screaming shells, rattling machine guns, chattering anti-aircraft fire, screaming dive bombers and thundering jets terrorize horses and drive them crazy, the imperturbable mule keeps plugging along with his 250-pound pack as oblivious of danger as his young recruit's high-placed commander.

Man has bred the mule—a cross between a male donkey and a female horse whose progeny is almost always sterile—since prehistoric times. A cross between a mule and a female donkey is a hinny.

Since Biblical times when the early kings of Israel rode mules into battle, they have served man well in combat. For that matter, they pulled chariots long before horses were brought into the Near East. But I ask you, would that look good in movies?

Senate Nears Okay for Bill To Test Rain

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—A Senate subcommittee is expected to take favorable action this week on a bill to set up a rainmaking experimental research program, according to Sen. Francis Case, R., D.

Case, author of the measure, said he is "extremely confident" the subcommittee will approve the program Tuesday and send it on to the full Senate and the House.

The South Dakota senator also said he is confident the bill will be passed by Congress at this session.

Call for Program

Case's bill calls for establishment of an experimental research program to coordinate state, federal and local studies on rainmaking methods.

The senator said he expects only one change to be made in the bill before it is sent to the Senate. He said it undoubtedly would be amended to place administration of the program with the National Science Foundation instead of with President Eisenhower's advisory committee on weather control.

Expended Sunday

Case said the President's committee expired Sunday because Congress has failed to appropriate funds to keep it going.

The senator said the bill already has received important bipartisan support. He said Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas and Sen. Carl Hayden, R., Ariz., chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, have said they "strongly favor" the measure.

Four Bills Drafted

Four identical bills have been drafted in the House. Case said he expects quick action on them after the Senate measure is cleared.

The Case bill does not endorse any particular approach to rainmaking but would set up an experimental program for developing all methods.

Under the bill as it is expected, the amended National Science Foundation would be empowered to make contracts with existing agencies, schools and foundations, hire people for research, and make grants for research.

Seven Rocket Firings Set in Satellite Plan

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—The men in charge of launching the U. S. Earth satellites said today that seven test rocket "vehicles" will be fired before an attempt is made to launch the first artificial moon in the sky.

The launching program, known as Project Vanguard, as being directed by Dr. John P. Hagen of the Naval Research Laboratory. Not until a "streamlined test program" is completed will Hagen's rocket men begin the scheduled six satellite launching attempts.

Hagen presented a paper at a symposium being held here on the eve of the International Geophysical Year (IGY) which started formally at 8 p. m. (EDT) Sunday and will continue through December, 1958.

Hagen gave no timetable for the first attempt to launch a satellite after the tests are completed. But he said various reasons it is not expected until next spring.

It is hoped to fire all six satellites before the end of IGY. Scientists do not expect more than four to be successful.

Russian IGY scientists also plan satellite launchings in the next 18 months. They have withheld any timetable except to say there will be firings from time to time, "throughout" IGY.

Some U. S. testing already has been going on at the air force missile test center on Florida's Cape Canaveral where the satellites will be launched.

Solon Claims None Is Sure Of Radiation

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—Chairman Chet Holifield believes his atom bomb subcommittee hearings on radiation hazards has established one thing—nobody can say for sure what level of bomb testing is safe.

As a layman, I was somewhat shocked to find out how much the experts admitted they did not know about the long-term effects of radiation," the California Democrat said in a house speech.

"In fact, when I thought over how little is known about it, I wondered how some officials of the government could be so positive that bomb tests were so safe."

Holifield's joint atomic subcommittee recently completed hearings at which scientists were asked for advice on the controversial bomb test radiation issue.

Emphasizing that he was speaking only for himself, Holifield said the inquiry showed "there is reason to be worried" even though atomic energy commission experts assume that radiation from bomb tests is well below safe levels.

He said some control and limitation of weapons tests "obviously" are necessary. But he warned against halting U. S. tests without a general agreement that all other nations also would quit.

Treasure Found

BERKELEY, Calif., July 1 (AP)—Mrs. Ernest Gray told today how she dusted an old light fixture and almost like Aladdin and his lamp—turned up a treasure.

The hoard consisted of $44,000 in cash and about $5,000 in diamonds.

The money and jewels apparently had been hidden in the light fixture by the former owner of the Gray's house, Mrs. Frances Mathews.

Stubborn, Fearless Cameron Citizens Pay Dearly for Disregarding Warning

CAMERON, La., July 1 (AP)—Oil changed the tiny city of Cameron in the past 10 years, but it never changed the people. They were calm, stubborn and unafraid—even of hurricanes.

Few of the old time residents of the city of 3,000 worried when the U. S. weather bureau warned them to evacuate the lowlands and reach safety up north. It was the recent arrivals and the transient workers who left. The rest remained to face death, and the destruction of their city.

What was their city like? How did they live when the community was normal? Survivors of the destruction have taken time out from their search for relatives and friends to recall these memories of once-proud Cameron.

The city was a mile long stretch along the Calcasieu river just before the stream pours into the Gulf of Mexico. One part of the city was a beach on the gulf.

The gulf—now the agent of death—had always been their life. At first, it was the gulf that Cameron residents counted on for a steady supply of fish. The winds came Thursday morning, trees whirled and windows shattered. The wind came Thursday morning, trees whirled and windows shattered. The wind came Thursday morning, trees whirled and windows shattered.

The new industries included a mud supply company for the use of oil drillers, a new fleet of boats to take men out to rigs and special radar centers to help boats search for the black gold.

The prodigious landmark was a two-story brick courthouse, that looked down upon a tiny theater, a two-story hotel, a bank, a gas station, a few grocery stores and a barber shop.

By Wednesday, the warnings to leave this pleasant calmness became more frequent. But still the people did not talk much about it. Some survivors now claim the warnings should have been more specific.

The winds came Thursday morning, trees whirled and windows shattered. The wind came Thursday morning, trees whirled and windows shattered. The wind came Thursday morning, trees whirled and windows shattered.

Three and a half hours later Audrey's 100-mile-per-hour winds, slashing and uprooting, roared into the calm town, and blasted almost everything to splintered wood. Then a 20-foot high tidal wave loomed over the city, slapped at the tiny people hanging on to bits of wood and pulled them, perhaps hundreds of them, into deep and cold death.

Cameron became part of the water that once gave life—the Gulf of Mexico.

Gen. Lung Yun, vice chairman of the national defense committee, took advantage of the new freedom to direct a hearty swipe at Soviet Russia. He complained of the way in which Russia looted the industrial areas of Manchuria after World War II. He said that Russia ought to pay a share of red China's costs in the Korean war.

As the result of statements like these, Mao and his fellow-leaders appear to have had some sober second thoughts.

Mao issued a long directive to the national police last Tuesday. He said that the police must hunt down "counter-revolutionaries." He said that they must "keep close contact with the people, listen to their opinions and regard themselves as public servants."

It looked somewhat as if "counter-revolutionaries" would prove to be those whose criticisms of the government and the communist party were too frank, and that the police would be listening especially to people who dared to talk too much.

Premier Chou En-lai followed this up in a speech he made last Wednesday at the opening of a session of parliament in Peking.

Chou warned critics of the government that they might be branded as "enemies of the people." He called upon them to repent and accept opportunities for remodeling themselves.

This all adds up to the fact that in a communist country even a little liberalization is a dangerous thing.

It is true that President Tito of Yugoslavia has materially liberalized his regime. But it still is a dictatorship. It is true also that in Poland, communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka has gone even farther than Tito. But Poland, too, is still a communist dictatorship.

Nikita S. Khrushchev found out in repudiating the methods of Josef Stalin that liberalization might get out of hand. His liberalization policy led to the Polish and Hungarian revolts.

Study of Oil Imports Gets Solons' Okay

WASHINGTON, July 1 (AP)—Oil-state members of congress generally welcomed President Eisenhower's call for a new study of oil imports but there was some Democratic criticism of the action as "belated" and "delaying."

Senator Kerr, D., Okla. said the President "still further postpones decision and action by appointing another cabinet committee, to determine a fact which has too long been painfully apparent both to the President and every member of the committee he has appointed." But Kerr added, "I am glad that at long last he has done that much."

Senator O'Mahoney, D., Wyo., calling for a "positive" program to control imports, expressed confidence the committee would make "a diligent attempt" to come up with a solution.

The President named a six-man cabinet committee, headed by Secretary of Commerce Weeks, to determine whether oil is being imported "in such quantities as to threaten to impair the national security." Under the tariff laws, he has the power to curb imports if they endanger defense-essential industries in this country.

O'Mahoney questioned appointment of Herbert Hoover, Jr., former assistant secretary of state, as consultant to the committee. He said Hoover may know a lot about the Middle East oil but "I don't know how much Hoover knows about domestic oil."

CONCORD, N. C., July 1 (AP)—Earl Wedmaster, a 38-year-old farmer, was charged today with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Police said he drove his tractor down the wrong side of Concord's main street.

Budworm Control Spraying Started

BOISE, July 1 (AP)—Spray airplanes today were to start operations over the Boise, Challis, Salmon and Targhee national forests to fight the spruce budworm in about a half-million acres of timberland.

Agencies cooperating in the aerial spraying program included the U. S. weather bureau, Southern Idaho Forestry association, Idaho Forestry association, state forestry department, state department of aeronautics, state pest action council and the Southern Idaho Timber Protective association.

Mayflower Docks

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—The Mayflower II arrived in New York today for a traditional harbor welcome—glasses, whistles and waving cannon—at the start of a visit of four or five months.

Tomorrow has been designated "Mayflower Day." There'll be a ticker tape parade for Capt. Alan Villiers and the crew of the tiny bark.

Bob Hope Tells 10,000 Jokes Annually; Still Going Strong

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK, (AP)—Bob Hope, the comedian's Croesus, believes he probably has told more jokes than any other man in history.

He's been slipping them out past his 51st birthday at the rate of better than 10,000 a year for the last quarter century.

"I figure I've told at least a quarter million jokes," he said, "and if you count repeat jokes, that is jokes told over and over to different audiences while on tour, the number would go into the millions."

"I doubt if anyone else has told more," he said, adding with a grin, "who else has had the chance?"

When you look over the field, the candidates are few. Can any other gag man match his combined experience in vaudeville, radio and television, movies and on tour? He still travels 25,000 to 30,000 miles annually, and in a two-year period during World War II he racked up 450,000 miles entertaining U.S. servicemen.

Fans need never fear that Hope will run out of jokes. The Mississippi river is more likely to go dry.

Although he is known as one of the best ad libbers in the business, Bob also is as methodical as a clock. He has perhaps the finest individual humor library of anyone in the show world. It runs to about 80 file cabinets.

Once he had 12 writers and three secretaries at work building up his laugh library.

"It must contain at least between three and four million jokes," he remarked.

Many times he has gone to his library to help out fellow entertainers in desperate need for fresh material.

The stern anxieties of comedy that have driven many present day funny men to psychoanalysis leave Hope unruffled.

"I'm not a couch man myself," he said. "And I'm not sad—just disgustingly normal."

"Every comedian is an individual, but television—the problem of trying to be funny every week—can drive anyone to the couch."

"It gives a man the feeling he's in a rut. It takes a lot of work sometimes to get rid of that feeling. I think the best answer is to change—to try something different."

Hope feels he escaped the danger of rut-rust by starring in "Beau James," the life story of former Mayor Jimmy Walker.

"It was more of a straight dramatic role. One problem I had was that the mayor was a skinny guy. I had to lose 15 pounds."

What defeats most people in life and keeps them from success?

"Over-eating," said Hope, "and marrying the wrong girl."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinking) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astounding statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H. At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

We are now able to lend you as much as $1,000, under terms of the revised small loan law.

This means that Pacific Finance can now take care of most of your cash needs, promptly and in a friendly way that many of your friends and neighbors know and appreciate. For example, we can consolidate your bills with a PF All-In-One Loan that lumps your bills, reduces your monthly payments, give you extra cash besides. Figure your money needs...bring them to us today.

Call or come in anytime for your PF All-In-One Loan...now bigger and better under revised state laws.

Jerome Resident Weds Lou Olson In Church Rites

SPokane, July 1.—Lou Ann Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Olson, Opportunity, Wash., and William Allen Bauscher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bauscher, Jerome, Ida., were married June 22 at the Manila Methodist church.

The Rev. David Seamon of the First Methodist church, Moscow, Ida., officiated at the ceremony before the altar decorated with bouquets of pink and white stock and carnations.

Mary Gae Nelson was soloist accompanied by Douglas Babcock, organist, who also played the wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white embroidered organza. The bodice was fashioned with a square neck and short puff sleeves. Her fine English netting veil was attached to a disc crown of embroidered nylon flowerettes. She carried a white orchid on a white ribbon.

Marilyn Norseth, Seattle, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina-length gown of white embroidered nylon and a white and pink disc covered with pink and white nylon flowerettes for a headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet.

Beverly Gregerson, Seattle; Harriet Evans, Spokane; Ann Hamblin, Lewiston; Rita Chiridello, Wallace, Ida.; and Mrs. Gall Gillespie, Moscow, Ida., were bridesmaids. All were dressed in gowns similar to the maid of honor's and carried colonial bouquets. All the attendants are Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority sisters of the bride. Beth Adams, Caldwell, was flower girl.

Jerry Zilberman, Nampa, was best man. Thomas Olson, Spokane; Richard Weeks, Boise; Dan Davis, Twin Falls; and Richard Gillespie, Moscow, and John Rosholt, Lewiston, were ushers.

The mother of the bride chose a pink lace dress with pink accessories and corsage. The mother of the bridegroom wore a beige lace dress with pink accessories and corsage. After the ceremony a reception was held at the Manila Golf and Country club. Surefire Tip on Beauty Involves Falling in Love

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeature Beauty Editor

What is it about love that makes women more beautiful? Is it the feeling of being needed, belonging to someone, have something to cherish, perhaps, that accounts for the radiance of a bride-to-be or a girl opening a Valentine.

Why can't that "look remain"? What happens after she snuggles the man? The glow in the eye is likely to grow dimmer until finally there is only complacency, no spark, making the woman look older.

It is not strange to notice that an unmarried woman of 40 in love is likely to look 10 years younger than the woman of the same age who has been married 15 years. But why can't married women be in love?

Women who have been smart enough to realize that their working husbands meet glamorous ladies in their businesses every day of the week do manage to rekindle the romantic spark occasionally. Some of them learned the hard way, after the man had begun to stray.

There are women who will say their husbands lost interest in romance before they did. So why bother? But most women realize this is a mistaken idea when they suddenly see a husband spruce up, look alive and youthful once again, and then too late discover that another woman has come into his life.

Any man will respond to a new spark in his wife as any married woman who has experienced it will tell you. Instead of finding a complaining, nagging, dowdy character slumped over the stove when he returns from work, imagine how he may react to a smiling, neat, cheerful type who gives him a kiss with love in her eyes.

Everyone needs a pep talk occasionally to be reminded he is slipping. The boss gives one to an employee, the teacher reminds the student, but to whom shall the housewife turn for her lecture? She'd be insulted if her best friend tells her, may get furious with her.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Summer camping is wonderful for children if the camp is the right one for the child. The change from home is good for them. It allows them to gather experience with strangers, both children and adults. In camp they discover that they have to give up some things so that others can have their fair share of what there is in space, in food, in entertainment and fun.

A camp cabin or tent is small and each occupant must keep within the limits of the space available—material space and that intangible area of personality. At home one can leave things around—at least for a time, or until one's mother speaks firmly about it. This is not so in a camp cabin. At home one speaks right up to brother and sister and mother, too. Better think twice about that in camp. And this is not bad at all for it trims down one's feeling of omnipotence a bit.

Camping has its duties to home people, and they have some to the camp. There is the matter of letters. The camper should write to his family once a week, not just for more money and more of something else but to keep in touch with the family, letting them know how things are going, how the food is, who is who, what the games are and what is planned. The counselors usually push the campers to do just this.

When a child is entered in camp, the parents are turning over to the care of their youngsters to the director. He needs to have all the necessary information about him or her in order to do what is best for him. This means that any idiosyncrasy of health or temperament should be made clear to the director. If he could not be trusted with such information, of course, the parents would not place the child under his care.

Tell the director if the child walks in his sleep, or if he is allergic to any food or other subject. If he has any ailment, be sure to let him know so he will protect a child who has a touch of rheumatism or a heart murmur.

The good camp has a few basic rules and the director hopes these will be respected. Often he asks that no visits be paid the camper for the first month. The reasons are many and obvious. Further he is likely to ask that no supplements to the camper's diet be sent him. The good camp has a dietitian who watches the weight, the growth, the nutrition of each child, and any addition to the prescribed diet might cause difficulties for the child.

Try not to telephone the camp to ask about the welfare of the camper. He is usually a busy, contented child with little thought of home and mother at the time. Just trust the camp you selected.

A cowardly attitude is often due to shyness. Dr. P. H. discusses this trait and offers his advice in leaflet P-12, "The Shy Child." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P.O. Box 29, Station 6, New York 17, N. Y.

Veterans' Group Has First Woman To Lead Events

WASHINGTON (NEA) July 1.—The way for a woman to get ahead in a man's field is to be charming. This is the simple philosophy which enabled air force Capt. Dorothea McLaughlin to crack one of the last barriers to females and become the first woman to head a veterans' organization.

She has just been unanimously elected president of the Reserve Officers' Association air force group in the District of Columbia.

"I found that the feminine touch was welcomed as soon as I joined this organization, which had traditionally been dominated by men," she explains. "When there were small parties or any social function I just went out of my way to be a good hostess and the men appreciated it," she admits modestly.

Recently Capt. McLaughlin proved to her ROA male comrades that her charm was essential to the organization when the group honored Gen. John Kennedy, D-Mass., at a big party. "Dorothea's planning and hosting made the event a success," a member reports.

Captain McLaughlin is stationed at nearby Bolling air force base. She did not join the ROA to make a career out of it or try to tell them how to run their business.

But since she has done what no other woman has ever done in a veterans' organization, she is exercising her feminine right to change her mind. She has some pretty positive ideas on how the air force branch of the ROA should conduct its affairs and plans to carry them out.

"I think separate chapters of the air force ROA should be created around the special activities of its members," she says. "For example, there would be individual chapters of officers in operations maintenance or research," she explains.

She's about to launch a membership drive with this objective in mind. Another long-range objective is getting women to become more active in all U.S. veterans' organizations. "If we don't, we'll lose all that we have gained in the service," she insists.

Dorothea's job in the air force carries the impressive title of director of special projects in the office of deputy chief of staff for personnel at headquarters command, USAF. "What it amounts to is social work," she explains. "We handle the special problems of the misfits, the delinquents and those who haven't adjusted to service life," she says.

She entered the USAF in the first WAP class to be established in 1948 and was commissioned in June 1949. Before that she was a social worker for the West Virginia department of public assistance after attending Westhampton college, Richmond, Va., and West Virginia university.

husband for "criticizing" her, and pay no attention to her mother, who after all, she considers "in another generation."

Here's an S. I. (Self Improvement list) just compiled by one housewife, who decided she'd like to try the romantic beam again. (P.S.—She says it really works.)

1. Be pretty when he comes home from work. Keep your hair shampooed. Take time to pin-up it. Have it attractively arranged. Put on some fresh makeup. (Don't forget to wash your face.) Manicure your nails regularly.

2. Wear a clean apron over a nice dress. Don't wear your oldest thread-bare torn clothes to greet your man at the door.

3. Make the table attractive. Don't bounce and bang the china on it when he's trying to read his paper. Hell put the paper down—if you're worth it.

4. Try to have much of the cooking done in advance, so you can have more time for conversation with him. Listen with interest to his office stories.

5. Give that man a verbal pat on the back occasionally. That's the way another woman can beat you out. Instead of ridiculing him discover what he excels in and brag on him in that department, especially when his friends are around.

Plans are underway to sponsor a pool for securing a refrigerator for the club kitchen.

The club will sponsor 4-H members to summer camp next year. The selection of campers will be based on this year's 4-H work.

A report of the golf association luncheon served June 20 was made by Mrs. Eaton, Mrs. Marvin Johnson and Mrs. Higgenbotham. The June 13 Chamber of Commerce dinner reports were given by Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Higgenbotham.

A card of thanks was read from Jeri Gates, Girl Stater, sponsored by the Jay-C-Ettes.

Following the business session the group gathered at the home of Mrs. Dale Gilbert for the social part of the evening.

A lingerie shower was given for Mrs. Roy McFarlane, a recent bride. A mother and daughter shower honored Mrs. Gilbert and her infant daughter.

Late refreshments were served by Mrs. Higgenbotham and Mrs. Johnson.

We, the Women

BY RUTH MILLETT
NEA Service

What are a woman's greatest assets?

One, certainly, is friendliness. A cold, aloof, disinterested woman may be beautiful enough or famous enough or wealthy enough to turn eyes in her direction, but she will never go through life making and keeping friends.

Another asset is a pleasant voice. A woman whose voice whines or shrills is a strident, demanding attention, is a woman who isn't easy to be around.

Then there is kindness. Women can be unkind and often are. But no woman is attractive to anyone in the world when she is being unkind.

Enthusiasm is another great asset to a woman. Some women drag through life, doing their duty grudgingly, and though they may be "good women," they make life dreary not only for themselves but for everyone around them.

Men often claim that women do not have a sense of humor. And it is true that a lot of women don't. That is why a woman who can laugh at herself and at life has a rare and wonderful gift.

Seriously is still another great asset to a woman. A woman who faces life calmly has a strength that others sense.

A woman needs pride, too. Not the kind of pride that puts a chip on her shoulder but the kind of pride that makes her carry her head high, keep her troubles to herself, and makes her trouble for the respect of others rather than for their sympathy.

Beauty can be a great asset, too. But only if a woman is wise enough to know that it is her most fleeting one and can never stand alone.

"Easy Planning" Is Club's Lesson

PAUL, July 1.—"Easy Planning" was the lesson for the Paul Planers Home Demonstration club last week at the home of Mrs. Fred Pack.

Several varieties of food were cooked the easy way, and a watermelon fruit basket was the centerpiece. Recipes for quick meals were exchanged by members.

Mrs. Blain Nielsen, president, announced that a leadership school would be held on the afternoon of July 8. Mrs. W. D. Barday and Mrs. Nielsen were chosen to attend.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gibbs with Mrs. Clifford Nielsen as co-hostess.

Veteran Politico Is New Chief of Women of GOP

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Mrs. Peter Gibson, a veteran of 20 years in Michigan politics, has taken over as president of the National Federation of Republican Women.

She says the role of the federation, an educational arm of the Republican party, is "to see that we have good government." The federation claims a half million members.

The program she says she'll push in her two-year term will concentrate on "the congress situation in 1958." The Republicans are in the minority in the new congress.

Blue-eyed, with graying hair, trim Catherine Gibson of Monroe, Mich., comes into her new post from the vice chairmanship of the Michigan State Central Republican committee. She has been a member of the federation's board of directors for eight years, and is the first to move from the post of first vice president into the presidency.

Mrs. Gibson and six other officers were elected at the group's Chicago convention last September. But they were sworn in at the start of a two-day directors meeting here.

The GOP federation was organized in 1939 during the Democrats' "new deal" era.

Mrs. Gibson, now 48, then was just getting started in politics. She had her first taste of it in 1936, helping a friend collect absentee ballots. She says she got into politics chiefly because she was concerned about a drift toward one-party government.

The federation is dedicated to the principles of the Republican party and has a "constant interest in recognition of women" in politics, Mrs. Gibson said.

Inaugurated with Mrs. Gibson were Mrs. Richard Simpson, wife of the Pennsylvania congressman, first vice president; Mrs. Gladys Leggett Penland of Berkeley, Calif., second vice president; Mrs. Harold McGeorge, St. Petersburg, Fla., third vice president; Mrs. J. B. Parks, Pueblo, Colo., fourth vice president; Mrs. W. H. Detweiler, Hazelton, Ida., secretary; Mrs. Henrik L. Matson, Avoca, Minn., treasurer.

Group Feted by Birthday Dinner

RICHFIELD, July 1.—Richfield Eastern Star chapter held the only summer meeting Thursday night with a birthday dinner preceding the meeting.

Members whose birthday anniversaries were celebrated were Mrs. Birk Albert, Mrs. Clifford Conner, Mrs. LeRoy Outright and Frank Pope. Birthday hats were worn and places cards and candles marked the places of the honorees.

Mrs. Outright gave her report on grand chapter as official delegate. Visitors were Mrs. Maule Saunders, Bellevue; Mrs. Robert Ross, Mewhall, Calif.; and Mrs. Ivan Trowbridge.

Mrs. Konecny Is Program Leader

BUHL, July 1.—Mrs. Aldrich Konecny directed the program at the tea of Rebekah Kensington Tuesday afternoon at the IOOF hall.

Diane Roskelley played piano selections and Patricia Konecny, Linda Hartman and Sue Owens sang piano solos. Joyce Spradling and Peggy Zurek presented a dance. Richie Hill and Carolyn Clore gave a musical sketch.

Guests included Mrs. Florence Fowler, Victoria Park, London, England; Marietta Lacy, Daley City, Calif.; and Mrs. Ida Kamrich, Melrose, Mont.

The next meeting will be a pot-luck picnic at the city park on July 23.

Yankees Back in First but Sox Pose New Threat

By The Associated Press

The New York Yankees were back in first place Monday but a new threat has risen in the American league pennant race in the person of the Boston Red Sox.

Winners of 11 of their last 13 games, the streaking Sox have rushed into a virtual third place tie with Cleveland.

Andrews Gets Par Score in Opening Play

Betsy Rawls, second from left, of Spartanburg, S. C., beams on receiving trophy emblematic of women's national open golf championship while Jackie Pung, left, the apparent winner until disqualified by officials, is on verge of tears at Winged Foot Golf club at Mamaroneck, N. Y. Mrs. Pung, Hawaii and San Francisco, was disqualified when check of scorecards revealed she had been given a five instead of a six at fourth hole in final round. sen contributed a grand slam homer and double while Malzone, the newest Red Sox flash, rapped a single and triple.

Kansas City pitcher Ralph Terry came within five out of a no-hitter and Yankee pitcher Don Larsen handed his first complete game of the season.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 10.—Gene Andrews of Pacific Palisades, Calif., shot a par 72 over a 36-hole course today to win the Andrews' sun-baked Old Course 2-day in the first round of qualification in the British open golf tournament, and appeared certain to qualify.

The season as N York made it 11-1 in a row over their Athletics, coupling with a 2-1 and 5-1 sweep of a doubleheader.

Roy Slevers 18th homerun, his second of the day, gave Washington a 10-inning 11-9 victory after the Chicago White Sox had tallied for four runs in the ninth to win the opener 7-6. The Sox overcame a 9-3 deficit in the second game knocked Slevers' second homer broke them out of a first place tie with the Yankees.

Baltimore won its first series from Cleveland since it returned to the American league in 1954, capturing the third game in the four-game set as Billy Loes pitched a 4-hit 12-3 triumph over the Indians.

Henry Aaron became the first

Tom Draper of Detroit took over the par-2 Old course, as Clare Hardwick of Los Angeles scratched.

Australia's Peter Thomson, using his fourth straight British open title, and Gary Middlecott of Memphis, Tenn., were the heavy favorites as the field began play over two Andrews courses, which Thomson called "R and A," meaning "ragged and awful." Even the top local big Scottish golfer Eric Brown, called the course a "dirt track."

Under such conditions, Andrews played very good. But he had to work hard to get it. He was in over four for the first six holes and seemed doomed to miss qualification.

He sank a 20-foot putt on the 12th hole, and a 10-footer on the 17th.

NEW YORK, July 1 (AP)—Mrs. Jackie Pung said today she will represent the United States Golf Association in the 1956 U.S. Women's Open to "tighten its scoring rules for women" in order to avoid a repetition of the mixup which cost her the U. S. Women's open golf championship.

At the same time the Hawaiian-born housewife revealed that she already had received $2,530 in "consolation money" raised by well-wishers at the U. S. Open.

"I'm fully recovered from that ordeal and have no hard feelings," Mrs. Pung was disqualified after apparently winning the women's open championship Saturday when USGA officials discovered a "mistake on her scorecard. Betty James, a well-wisher at the U. S. Open, said she walked off in a green.

Under those conditions, Pung and Miss Jane Knapp turned in their cards after only a check of the additional 18 holes. USGA officials notified the two women of the disqualification both before and after the 18th hole.

major leaguer to reach 100 hits and batted his 22nd and 23rd homeruns as the Milwaukee Braves swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 7-4 and 6-5. Eddie Mathews' two-run homer in the 13th won the second game ankept the Braves in first place, a half game in front of the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Brooks Lawrence turned in a 6-hitter for his ninth victory in Cincinnati's 6-1 triumph over Philadelphia, then came back to snuff out a Philly rally in the ninth as the Redlegs also won the second game 6-2.

Ruben Gomez became the first National League pitcher to post 10 victories as the New York Giants defeated St. Louis 5-3 in the first game but the Cardinals came back to win the tie-break 7-1 behind Boston right-hander Lindy McDaniel.

Stan Musial hit a three-run homer for the Cards, his 18th in the season, as the Braves took a 37th loss to the Cardinals.

PORTLAND, July 1 (AP)—Oregon and Washington fisheries officials and three Indian tribes—Yakima, Umatilla and Warm Springs—have agreed to new Indian fishing rights on the Columbia river below the Dalles dam.

The states said they would not adopt closures which would limit the historic Indian dip net fishery almost wiped out by flooding caused by completion of the dam.

The agreement will permit assistance dip netting during commercial closures, but the Indians will not be permitted to sell stored fish to tourists. Also, the Indians will be permitted to dip net only for salmon below the dam this year.

Engberg said the vote deadline is midnight Friday.

The league president added that two top vote getters have been dropped from the poll because they

Great Falls' Bob Yoder, who held the lead for the third-base post, has been recalled by Macon, and Idaho Falls' catcher Jim Johnson has been reassigned by the Detroit Tigers.

No votes cast for either will be eligible after this summary.

Joe Ala. of Pocatello, who was second to Yoder, moves into the top third base position, and the Bees' Al Kenders, who was second behind Johnson, now moves into first.

Brown continues to lead the pitchers, but Billings' Ernie Evans took over second.

Idaho Falls' Al Lakeman moved into the top post in the manager's division, taking over from Eddie Lyons of Billings.

The former Pittsburgh Pirates wall-loper, for sixth place in the all-time major league list.

It was Musial's 17th of the season, coming with a man on base in the first inning.

Only Babe Ruth (714), Jimmy Fox (654), Mel Ott (611), Lou Gehrig (404) and Ted Williams (437) have hit more than Musial.

Clarence (Jake) Kilne, math professor at Notre Dame, has been coaching the baseball team there for 14 seasons.

BOISE, July 1—July 1 is opening day of fishing season for a few areas where late spawning or other considerations have prompted special regulations, the Idaho fish and game department said today.

Rose Leonard, director, said many high lakes formerly remained closed until July 1, but experience indicated that most of them could open without harm with the general season.

"Fishing pressure on these lakes is usually moderate in any case, but the late thaw and poor conditions or travel at high elevations usually leave them plenty of protection early in the season," he explained.

High lakes in the Big Lost river drainage will remain closed until July 15. Hawley Hill, district supervisor for the fish and game department, reported.

Fishermen should check the regulations in detail to make sure whether or not a special season is in effect on their favorite waters, as some do remain unchanged, he said.

If the water is unlisted, it is open in the general season," he said.

He urged fishermen to check regulations about emergency closures before changing any plans they may have. "There has been a fluctuation," he said. "The only emergency closure of general interest this year in effect in the state is that on Silver creek in Blaine county."

Among the July 1 openings are Riley creek on the Hagerman refuge which is open to juveniles 14 years of age only, Oster lake on all the sloughs and new improvements east of highway 30 on the Hagerman refuge and Big Lost river from the swinging sheep above Snake reservoir to the Bedford bridge at Bellevue. On these places opening July 1 or Hagerman refuge, the hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and the lake is five trout.

Debate Rages On "Villain" For Inflation

NEW YORK, July 1 (U-P)—Is industry the victim or the villain of inflation? In the great debate that is breaking out on the heels of today's rise in steel prices, that is one of the prime questions.

Another is: Does this price-wage hike signal another inflationary surge that will spread through many industries and further cheapen the buying power of your dollar?

Prices Rising

In the steel, aluminum, oil, auto and other industries prices are going up or are freely forecast on the basis of increasing costs—and this seemingly in the face of the old law of supply and demand.

In all these industries there currently is more supply and more capacity to produce than there is demand. But prices are rising anyway. The reason given: Rising costs can't be absorbed—it's better to cut back output if demand weakens further.

Steel companies say they are the victims of inflation—that inflation of costs is already here and they are merely stepping in line—rather than being the initiators of a spreading new round of price hikes that in time will lead to further wage demands.

Contract Clause

Many long-range labor contracts are now tied to two things: 1. The cost of living—if it rises, the wage scale goes up automatically, and 2. Productivity—an annual wage increase is granted on expectation that the output per man hour will rise enough to absorb it.

Long-range labor contracts are very much with us these days—the three-year steel contract calls for another pay increase a year from Monday.

Production Rises

Productivity has played a big role in this country in keeping the price of products down. For example: Cold reduction mills once produced 1,500 feet of steel per minute. Now the mills, using the same number of workmen, can turn out 4,500 to 5,000 feet per minute. Another example: Present day autos cost a lot, but if made by hand instead of on mechanized assembly lines they would cost many times more.

But corporations point out that achieving this productivity is an expensive thing—elaborate machines can't be installed for a song.

The second question: Whether today's wage-price hike in steel will spread—historically it usually has. Other unions are inspired to ask as much, especially if the workers find the price of the things they buy going up. And manufacturers, finding their steel bills higher, try to pass the costs along to the consumer whenever competition permits.

Navy Decides Sodium's Use Out in A-Sub

WASHINGTON, July 1 (U-P)—The navy has decided not to use sodium-cooled reactors in new ships of the atomic fleet because of a troublesome leak on the submarine Sea Wolf.

The congressional atomic energy committee disclosed the decision in reporting on hearings relating to the navy's reactor program and the Shippingport (Pa.) atom power project.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D. Wash., and Rep. Melvin Price, D. Ill., both committee members, suggested development of an advanced gas-cooled reactor like those built by the British.

Adm. H. G. Rickover, chief of the naval reactors branch, told of the Sea Wolf's troubles. He said sodium becomes 30,000 times as radioactive as water.

But "stress corrosion" of stainless steel in equipment used to transfer heat from the reactor to the turbine system resulted in a small leak, he said. It took three months working 24 hours a day to locate and correct the leak. Repairs cut the Sea Wolf's power by about 20 per cent and out its speed by two or three knots per hour.

Officers Elected For Title Group

MCCALL, July 1 (U-P)—The Idaho Land Title association concluded its annual convention here Saturday by electing Charles Bigsby, Wallace, president.

Ray Bowen, St. Maries, was elected vice president for the Panhandle district; Emerson Stokols, Boise, vice president for southern Idaho; and Bill McFarland, Idaho Falls, vice president for southeastern Idaho.

Jeanette Eplinger, Boise, was named secretary and Ralph Smith, Twin Falls, treasurer.

GRANTS ANNOUNCED

NEW YORK, July 1 (U-P)—The Alfred P. Sloan foundation has awarded Sloan national scholarships to 108 men for study at 21 colleges, universities and technological institutions beginning next fall. It was announced today.

Union Claims Steel's Prices Cuts Possible

PITTSBURGH, July 1 (U-P)—U. S. Steel corporation could reduce steel prices $6 a ton instead of raising them by that amount and still enjoy the greatest net profit year in its history, the president of the United Steelworkers contends.

David J. McDonald thus joined some senators and Robert Anderson, nominee for secretary of the treasury, in protesting the steel price boost.

U. S. Steel said the price increase is necessary to offset what it says is a 21-cent hourly package pay boost for its employees under a three-year contract with the U.S.W. Both the wage increases and price boosts are effective today.

McDonald claims the package wage increase amounts to 15.5 cents. He said U. S. Steel "seeks to hide its fabulous growth of profits by minimizing them, exaggerates the wage increase received by its employees and thereby seeks to pin the blame for higher prices on Steelworkers and their union."

Permits Issued

BOISE, July 1 (U-P)—Licenses to practice dentistry in Idaho have been issued to 25 candidates who passed written and practical examinations June 17-19, the bureau of occupational licenses said today. Three licenses to practice dental hygiene were also issued.

China Mainland Groaning Under Burden Of Feeding Its Population of 600 Million

WASHINGTON, July 1 (U-P)—The China mainland groans under the burden of feeding 600 million people. Most of them work the land. They farm with wooden plows, primitive fertilizers, and the water-wheel. All but a few are bitterly poor.

Moreover, the population is constantly increasing, an estimated 12 to 13 million more births than deaths per year.

How will Red China support its multiplying millions?

This is the great problem—ever more food and jobs that the communists must solve. It is potentially the most dangerous of all their problems.

And this is the crux of the debate in the free world today over the move to ease controls on trade with Peking.

Britain and West Germany have announced that they intend to broaden the base of their exports to Red China. Other major trading nations may follow. The United States so far is holding fast to the total embargo on trade with the reds. But there is talk in Washington about a shift in American policy.

The Senate committee on interstate and foreign commerce is preparing to review all the pros and cons on the question. It has many ramifications. Perhaps the most important is this:

By widening the range of exports to China, will the free world be helping the Reds to industrialize, to create jobs, to take more people off the over-burdened land, to win their race against time?

The official American answer—with some doubts in congress and also apparently in the White House—is "yes."

By contrast, the British feel that the embargo has not seriously hurt the communist program in China, and that yielding to solve the perennial problem of want.

The tidal waves of rebellion that swept China in the last century were stirred, in large part, by economic misery. Eventually, they engulfed the imperial government. Nobody expects a sudden rebellion against the reds today.

However, a highly-placed state department officer said in an interview:

"The Chinese communists are in terrible shape. Their five-year plan is hopelessly bogged down. They're not getting anywhere trying to industrialize. They've got trouble piling up on all sides."

"At Geneva, the very first thing they asked was that the American embargo be lifted. Why? Because, to build factories and industry, they need things that they can't get in quantity anywhere but in the free world."

In short, our policy is just beginning to pay off. It's too bad if any government eases up on the Chinese at this point."

He said some important British officials, on the basis of late information from China, have come around to the same point of view. The officer declined to be identified. He said he did not wish to disagree publicly with President Eisenhower.

In a recent news conference, the President said:

"I don't see as much advantage in maintaining the differential between trade with red China and with the Soviet bloc as some people do; although I have never advocated its complete elimination."

The background of the "differential" is this:

In December, 1950, after Peking sent "volunteers" into the Korean war, the United States clamped the lid on all exports to China, regardless of the nature of the article.

Five months later, the United Nations recommended an embargo on "strategic" items, including those "useful in the production of arms."

The major trading nations of the free world honored this control and it still stands today.

But few of them went so far as the United States. They continued to ship goods which they consider "non-strategic."

The pattern of this trade is highly illuminating.

One item keeps re-appearing as a major import-fertilizer. The reds are buying it in quantity from at least seven free world sources. Along with chemicals, it amounted to nearly 40 per cent of Japan's $7 million dollars in exports to red China last year.

In one month alone, Hong Kong police caught smugglers with high speed cutting tools, auto brake plates, ball bearings, smoked rubber, steel plates, 78 tons of tin plate, copper tubing, 2,712 pounds of iron cuttings, 1,750 large bottles of acetic acid, three trucks, and 1,195 volt meters—among other things.

They even spotted a "frog man," slippers and all, towing two inflated bags. In the bags were American-made tool bits.

This illicit trade—far more expensive and usually small in quantity—shows how badly the reds need such items, American officials argue. They say machine tools and precision instruments are even more vital to industrializing, and that the Soviet bloc can't supply them in sufficient quantity.

The Soviets are under a different control system, administered by the free nations. That is, the Russians are permitted to buy many items that Red China can't buy. This is the so-called "China differential."

Last May 30, Britain announced her intention to "reduce the level of controls on trade with China to the level of the controls at present applied to trade with the Soviet bloc."

A state department statement said the United States "is most disappointed by this action."

A Korean government spokesman said the trade even in "non-strategic" items to China will "definitely augment communist war potential."

directly or indirectly. We feel it is deeply regrettable."

In announcing the action, the British pointed out that the Chinese communists could get around the "differential" by having Russia or some other Soviet bloc country buy items that China can't buy.

That is one argument for applying the same trade controls to Peking as are applied to the Soviet bloc. Here are some others:

1. That commercial intercourse with the West may tend to draw the Chinese reds further away from Russia by weakening their dependence on the Soviets.
2. That the present control system may delay the Chinese five-year plans for building industry but can't halt it entirely.
3. That nations like Britain, Japan and West Germany are far more dependent than the United States on an export trade and must find new markets wherever they can.
4. And here are some arguments American officials advance for continuing the "differential."

1. That Peking is tied to Moscow by ideology and economics (about 80 per cent of China's trade today is with the Soviet bloc) and that these bonds are not likely to be loosened merely by trade.

2. That any change in relations with the reds will tend to throw the 12 million Chinese who live outside metropolitan China (not including those on Formosa) closer to Peking because it will be seen as a step toward world recognition of the communist regime.

3. That red China's aggressive designs in Asia have been held in check, to a large degree, by the fact that her industrial base is not capable of supporting a long large-scale war.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1 (U-P)—A fire hydrant thief is on the prowl here. Eight have been stolen in the past few days.

All were taken from the South Basin wartime housing site, now being razed.

Charles Kay, an engineer, said the thief unbolted the hydrants and lifted them intact. There was no water in the mains.

4. That even though the Soviets act as "brokers" for China, buying articles for them, the cost of transportation allows delivery of the goods and makes them far more expensive.

Hero Faces Trial

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 1 (U-P)—A foreign ministry spokesman has announced Maj. Gen. Balazs Mader, hero of last fall's anti-Russian revolt, will be tried by the communist regime.

The charge presumably will be treason. Several officials and the communist press have accused Mader of this.

Do feed the NIBBLERS

(Give 'em all 8 Clover Club Varieties)

At the first sign of a holiday, nearly everyone becomes a nibbler. Nibblers come in all sizes and you see them wherever living is relaxed and happy—backyards and front porches—picnics—resorts—everywhere!

Some nibblers won't eat anything but Clover Club potato chips, the favorite with six out of seven. Others insist on Corn Chips or Cheez Nibbles; no matter what they're doing. Some could die happy with a bag of Barbecue Chips or Cheddar Cheez Chips. With many nibblers, it depends on their mood—and they're probably in the mood for Bacon Rinds or Popcorn or Shoeshinings.

So keep your Holiday Nibblers happy. Give 'em all 8 Clover Club foods to choose from.

They're so good, and so good for you!
