Family of Five Taken to Jerome Hospital; Father Hurt Seriously in Crash

SHOSHONE, July 6 — An American Falls family of five, headed for Ketchum, wound up in St. Benedict's hospital Saturday night after the pickup truck in which they were riding left highway 93 and plunged into Big Wood river four miles north of Shoshone. B. J. Couch, 43, the father, is listed by hospital officials as "quite bad" while one of the children was rushed into surgery. Mrs. Couch sustained only minor injuries and would have been dismissed from the hospital had not the remainder of her family been injured. The condition of the other two children was not known late Saturday night.

Sanford Connell, Shoshone, passed the loaded pickup truck as he was returning to Shoshone from his ranch shortly before 9 p.m. He told police he saw the people in the cab of the truck, talking and laughing with one another.

As he passed, he said he looked into the rearview mirror of his vehicle and saw the truck go off the right side of the road. He said the driver righted the car but lost control and the vehicle shot across the highway to the west side. He said it traveled at a slight angle from the road for about 200 feet and then disappeared over the 40-foot embankment into the nearly dry river.

At Connell's turn around to help the victims of the crash, Earl Cheney, who lives nearby, rushed to the scene.

Omer Shook, whose service station is a little to the north of the river, heard screams of the children and telephoned Sheriff Thomas Conner. Then he, too, rushed to the scene.

The three children, Spencer, 13, Lawrence, 6, and Darrell, 3, and Mrs. Couch were scattered about the dry river bed and on the banks of the stream. Couch was not visible. The three men discovered him pinned beneath the vehicle in about two feet of stagnant water. They raised the pickup truck and dragged him to shore where Shook administered artificial respiration.

When the sheriff arrived with the McGoldrick ambulance, Couch was breathing again.

Three men from Mountain Home air force base, Charles Beveridge, Bob Dunlap and Jacob Varoga, took one of the children to St. Benedict's hospital and the sheriff took another. Mr. and Mrs. Couch and one child went by ambulance.

The pickup truck has the name "Power County Electric" printed on its doors. One of the children, believed to be the oldest, was in the bed of the pickup when it crashed and the other two children and the parents were riding in the cab.

The vehicle missed the Cheney edge by 20 feet and rolled as it went down the 40-foot gradual embankment into the river.

Wateruser Observes "Hole" in Canal

Area at Milner Without Water In Canal Break

MILNER, July 6 — The Milner Irrigation district was left without water Saturday afternoon when a break in the main canal dumped all the water for the tract into a coulee. The water was shut off at the reservoir to prevent further flooding and a crew with heavy equipment has been sent to the break to repair the damage. No estimate has been made as to how long the water will be shut off. Since the break in the canal dumped water into a coulee no damage was reported to crops or farm land. Officials of the canal company said they did not know what caused the break.

The break in the canal occurred in a dirt fill that carries the canal across the coulee. The escaped water poured down the coulee and into the main canal of the Twin Falls Canal company. There was a little flooding to nearby farm lands but owners said no damage had been caused. Before the water was shut off, flood water spilled over the roads at several points but there were no washouts.

The canal over the coulee was inspected Friday night and, at that time, there was no indication of an impending break. When the water broke through the walls of the canal a mass cleaning crew was nearby. While crewmen did not see the initial rush of water, they stood helplessly by while water widened the gap to nearly 40 feet.

The irrigation district has a heavy equipment of its own to repair a break of such magnitude and so the Tell Construction company of Twin Falls was hired to repair the break.

Top Official Calls Hells Canyon Dam Plan Extravagant

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP) — Secretary of Interior Fred Seaton said today he opposes enactment of a federal Hells canyon bill because he said it would constitute an "extravagant waste" of money marked for other reclamation projects. Seaton added he thinks the Northwest power supply will improve if new development is entrusted to private firms rather than to the federal government. He made his views known in a letter to Rep. Arthur L. Miller, R., Nebr., ranking minority member of the house interior committee.

Insurance Firm's Chief Agrees on Complacency

Editor, Times-News: Kenneth Dodds of the Dodds Insurance agency of Kimberly, Ida., has just sent me copy of your June 23 issue commenting on the tragic death of Terry Koepnick, as well as the editorial captioned "OUR TRAGIC COMPLACENCY."

The absolutely unnecessary death of this little child will tear the heart strings of anyone, whether he be a parent or not, and make us wonder who is responsible for this condition. Your well-written and thought-provoking editorial answers this question for us. As you say, it is not the youth but, as you also say, "OUR TRAGIC COMPLACENCY."

The article and your editorial will startle and surprise many people, more than it does us as we in the insurance business come in personal contact with this situation daily. Unfortunately, the insurance business has looked at it more in a monetary manner and tried to protect itself by raising the rates or avoiding the writing of teen-agers. This has had no beneficial effect, as a matter of fact, sometimes I think it has had the opposite.

The situation as you have outlined can be corrected only by the powers that be, from the governor down, and especially by the police departments and the courts. It cannot be corrected by admonishing the juveniles; they are used to that.

However, I have always felt there was one very strong corrective measure. Having had a juvenile in the family and hearing them talk, I know they do not feel the responsibility. I heard one lad of 18, a very intelligent university boy, say in a bragadoocio break.

Rep. Arthur L. Miller, R., Nebr., ranking minority member of the house interior committee. The bill authorizing the federal dam in the Hells canyon reach of the Snake river has been passed by the senate. A similar bill in the house was struck down by a house interior subcommittee last week in what Republicans called a "death blow" to the legislation. Seaton also told Miller, "We believe the addition of non-federal facilities now under construction by the Idaho Power company will bring about greater diversity in the power supply picture of the Northwest." He said present federal dominance of facilities in the Northwest means that in a power shortage, "the bulk of the interruption falls upon federal customers."

3,000 Visitors Are Expected At Rock Show

BUHL, July 6 — About 3,000 persons are expected to attend the Magic Valley Gem club's rock show July 13-14 at the Buhl high school gymnasium. No admission will be charged.

The show will open at 10 a.m. Saturday and continue until 10 p.m. Sunday. Display will start at 10 a.m. and last until 8 p.m. according to Harry Jennings, one of the chairman of the event.

Rocks, minerals, fossils, Indian artifacts, fluorescent and radioactive materials and desert glass will be shown by club members and other persons having collections. Jennings said everything from the rough rock to the finished stone will be on display.

The show is non-competitive and guests are invited to show their collections. Last year, Jennings said, 85 persons had articles on display and more are expected this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Fields, Gooding, will set up the fluorescent and radioactive materials, colored moving pictures and slides. (Continued on Page 11, Column 2)

Range Blazes Give Way for 2 Home Fires

House fires replaced range fires in Magic Valley Friday night with two reported in the same general area.

Damages estimated at $6,000 were caused at Joe Machacek's farm six miles south of Buhl on the Oiler road Friday night and while Claver and Claver were fighting the blaze, the firemen were called to a vacant house belonging to W. A. McDonald, one and one-half miles west of Buhl.

The Twin Falls County Mutual fire department truck from Kimberly also assisted at the second fire. The fire at the Machacek farm was believed started from a short circuit in an electric fence. The alarm was turned in at 9 p.m. and firemen stayed at the scene until 1 a.m.

The fire started in a shed and spread to a trailer house valued at $3,000. The roof of the Machacek home caught fire and the house and furnishings were damaged by water. Another shed and some barns also were burned.

No cause has been determined for the other fire but firemen believe burning weeds were the cause. Loss was estimated between $1,000 and $1,500. The fire was reported to be the fourth in the building.

Meanwhile, bureau of land management officials at Shoshone and Burley report everything is quiet in their districts. The range fire near Hollister that was reported by the Twin Falls sheriff's office could not be located by bureau officials even though the area was searched by airplane.

Names of 145 Homesteaders Are Drawn for Farms in Rupert Area

RUPERT, July 6 — One hundred forty-five veterans were cleared Saturday by the bureau of reclamation to start farming on Magic Valley homesteads. Names of the 145 were drawn Friday as a part of Rupert's annual Fourth of July celebration. The homesteads being given away by the bureau of reclamation constitute the fifth segregation on the north side project since the pumping division was opened. Eventually 700 homesteads will be awarded on the project.

Horse Show Entries Close Here Monday

Entries for the 14th annual Magic Valley horse show will close Monday, says Chairman John S. Feldhusen, who warned all local owners to complete entries now if they expect to be listed in the show program. At the same time, E. L. Holman, ticket sales chairman, said some 100 Twin Falls youngsters will begin a concentrated effort during the coming week to sell tickets.

A percentage of all tickets sold will be given to youth organizations and teams for their own use.

According to Feldhusen, entries for the show are coming in from several adjoining states and, as usual, the out-of-state horses are being entered ahead of local horses.

Lyle Cobb, Beaverfoot, Ore., who last year retired the National Horse show champion, Mr. Strutter, is bringing a five-gal horse and two new parade entries to Twin Falls this year.

Camp Ended

BOISE, July 6 — Swift jets and slow transport planes touched down at Gowen field airport today, signaling the end of summer training for the Idaho air national guard's 124th fighter group.

The 440 airmen and 87 officers, most of them from southwestern Idaho, trained at Casper, Wyo.

Rupert Winds Up Its Annual July 4 Events

RUPERT, July 6 — Rupert wound up its annual three-day Fourth of July celebration Saturday night with the final showing of the rodeo before a "packed house."

Officials of the celebration expressed complete satisfaction over the event which this year included the drawing of 145 new homesteads by the bureau of reclamation. The drawings for the homesteads took place Friday afternoon following ceremonies in the city park. Gov. Robert E. Smylie was the principal speaker.

The celebration opened Thursday with a parade which was described as one of the finest ever seen in Rupert. For three nights the rodeo was presented for large crowds.

The rodeo this year was marked by a complete lack of injuries. Officials of the show said final results in the rodeo would not be available until Sunday after all the points had been tallied.

Auto, Bicycle Crash Injures Ketchum Boy

KETCHUM, July 6 — Axel Backman, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Backman, Ketchum, is a patient at the Sun Valley hospital as a result of an automobile-bicycle accident at 4:15 p.m. here Saturday. He received a fractured skull.

The boy was riding his bicycle on the Sun Valley road just east of the main intersection in Ketchum when the 1956 Lincoln driven by Ezra Dean Nelson, 23, Soda Springs, swung around the corner.

Nelson told Marshal Lester Jankow "the boy on the bicycle seemed to appear out of nowhere."

Jankow, who investigated the accident, said the boy's body knocked a dent in the hood of the car.

Solon Sees Hope In Red Shakeups

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP) — Two members of the senate foreign relations committee expressed cautious hope tonight that the Kremlin shakeup could increase prospects for a disarmament agreement with Russia.

Senator Mansfield, D., Mont., said at the London arms talks, "the man to keep your eye on."

Senator Aiken, R., Vt., shared this view. Asken, who was picked out by Soviet communist leader Nikita Khrushchev, were bitterly anti-Western, Aiken declared.

"Any change at all will be for the better."

Auto Breaks Pelvis Of State Patrolman

State Patrolman M. J. Bays, jr., was reported in "satisfactory" condition with a fractured pelvis Saturday night at the Magic Valley Memorial hospital after being struck down by an automobile while he was checking another vehicle on Main avenue west. A Twin Falls physician would not give any further information on the patrolman's condition but an attendant at the hospital said earlier X-rays had been taken and the extent of Bays' injuries had not been determined fully.

Drivers Lose Privileges to Operate Cars

Two drivers, one of them a teenager, have lost their driving licenses as a result of traffic infractions in Twin Falls.

Driver's license of D. B. B. C. Wright, route 1, Twin Falls, was suspended for 30 days and he was fined $25 and costs after pleading guilty of reckless driving Saturday when he appeared before Justice of the Peace Claude Brown, Jr.

Wright was cited Wednesday by Constable Elton Holmes who says he was driving without due caution and with reckless disregard for the safety of persons and property.

Phyllis E. Self, 14, route 3, Twin Falls, was fined $35 and costs Friday in Twin Falls police court for negligent driving. Her driver's license was suspended for 25 days. She was cited last Saturday after hitting two parked cars while driving a Mercury stationwagon owned by Kenneth Self.

Three more drivers, caught in a radar net by State Patrolman Marvin Snyder Wednesday, have paid fines to Justice of the Peace Joe Whitte, Oakley. They are Freeman Whittle, Oakley, $11 and $3 costs; Darwin S. Peterson, Burley, $18 and $3 costs; and Perry Johnson, Pocatello, $8 and $3 costs.

Judge-Weldon has fined Glenn Munsee, Hazelton, $25 and $3 costs on a charge of failure to signal a left turn, and Rodney Turnbull, Paul, $10 and $3 costs on a charge of making an improper left turn. Cecil M. Peterson, Burley, has been cited to appear before Judge Weldon on a charge of running through a stop sign.

Lionel B. Miller, Buhl, was fined $5 and $3 costs Saturday when he was cited for driving without a license. (Continued on Page 2, Column 7)

Holiday Road Toll Running Under Normal

By The Associated Press
The nation's toll of traffic deaths took an upturn as the four-day Independence day week-end moved into its final hours early Sunday, but safety officials said the figure was lagging behind pre-holiday estimates.

The National Safety council had estimated 535 persons would be killed during the holiday period from 6 p.m. local time Wednesday until midnight Sunday.

More than a score of dead were reported in a two-hour period before midnight, EDT, Saturday. But a council spokesman said the toll was still behind the estimate and was running about the same as for a non-holiday period of the same length at this time of year.

A going-home rush in the last 24 hours of the long observance could be expected to accelerate the traffic death rate, the council said.

At 1 a.m. EDT, 29 persons had been killed in traffic in the steady increasing toll. Drawings had taken 156 lives and miscellaneous mishaps caused 71 deaths. The overall total was 322.

The council said it saw encouraging signs in the lower than expected traffic fatality figure thus far.

Absenteeism

ROME, July 6 (AP) — Italy's chamber of deputies had a record low attendance today of only eight out of 590 deputies.

Chamber attendants blamed the heat wave. They noted that 46 out of 237 members were in the senate. The senate is air conditioned; the chamber is not.

Gasoline Price War in T.F. Averted as Operators Fight Over Trading Stamps

A gasoline price war in Twin Falls, in retaliation against operators who have balked an agreement to ban trading stamps, was halted temporarily Saturday although at least five service stations are continuing to give stamps with gasoline purchases.

Mack Dodson, Twin Falls, president of the Idaho Retail Petroleum Dealers association, said Saturday night he had been around to all dealers Saturday to avert a gas price war. He said one dealer is the key to the stamps problem.

Dodson said all other station owners have agreed to stop if the ban is 100 percent.

Friday night at least one station, a competitor to one of the stations giving stamps, was reported to have slashed his price of gasoline three cents a gallon in retaliation. He returned to the old price after a conference with other station owners.

An special meeting Friday night a number of operators agreed to make a determined effort to draw the bidders back into line.

On May 22 all service stations in Twin Falls discontinued use of trading stamps, announcing that the small margin of profit on which they operate made the stamps too much of a burden.

"We still feel that way, Dodson said. "We are sick and tired of giving three per cent of our gross profits to the stamp companies. It's against all business ethics," he added.

"We think they are a leech-sucking vicious they are a tax on our business. We're doing all we can to rid ourselves of them. In the absence of proper legislation, the only way we know how to fight them is on a local basis, like this," he added.

The Twin Falls stations maintained a 100 per cent ban against the stamps for 32 days after the May 22 agreement. Then a group of stations relented and gave stamps for a few days. Then the stamps were back in a few of the stations again.

After Saturday's attempt to again gain a 100 per cent ban, Dodson said, "We still have four on five of them."

NEWS BULLETINS

SALT LAKE CITY, July 6 (AP) — Beta ray radiation in Utah's capital city rose sharply today in the wake of yesterday's nuclear test blast in Yucca Flats, Nev., 360 air miles southwest. State health department officials said radiation rose from 3.2 micro-microcuries yesterday to 4.08 today. Previous tests in the current summer series have increased the reading to as high as 6.88.

DUBLIN, Ireland, July 6 (AP) — Police raided the headquarters of Sinn Fein tonight in a city-wide roundup of persons suspected of belonging to the outlawed Irish Republican army. Sinn Fein is the political arm of the militant nationalist army.

IDAHO FALLS, July 6 (AP) — Sen. Henry Dworshak today wired this community the atomic energy commission has out its land acquisition plans in this area by 32,000 acres. The AEO had asked that 149,700 acres of land be added to its national reactor testing station near here.

Idaho Will Participate in 'Operation Alert'; Disaster Units to Be Tested

BOISE, July 6 (AP) — Strategic areas of Idaho will be subject Friday to a hypothetical atomic attack as part of a pretended aggressor offensive against the United States.

There also will be mock sabotage in vital areas and a pretended influx of west coast evacuees which could "cripple" transportation and relief facilities throughout the state.

The hypothetical attack, code-named "operation alert," is designed to test the nation's ability to cope with the awesome damage which could result from an actual surprise nuclear attack.

Rear Adm. W. C. Specht (Ret.), director of Idaho civil defense, said today only about 50 per cent of the Gem state's 44 counties had reported they were ready to cooperate in the alert.

A "critical period" of waiting will start the operation Monday. The waiting will grow increasingly "tense" until the simulated all-out attack hits Idaho between 8 and 9 a.m. Friday.

During the waiting period, civil defense officials will pretend that communist satellite countries have revolted and "brush fire" warfare is raging in the Middle East.

The United States will be "contemplating" aid to belligerents under the Eisenhower doctrine.

On Wednesday, said Specht, governors of the states will be informed of the world "situation" and evacuation of all non-essential persons from critical target areas will be ordered. All army reserve components will be "mobilized."

Long-range bombers and guided missiles will rain simulated destruction on the continental United States and NATO countries early Friday.

Specht said each county civil defense unit would be responsible for coping with situations supplied in sealed envelopes to be opened Friday morning.

From Boise, vital state personnel, including the governor, will move with skeleton staffs to a secret "reaction center" somewhere in the state and will keep government functioning from there.

National guard personnel, representing enemy saboteurs, will attempt to infiltrate into vital areas, including atomic energy facilities, dam sites, railroad depots and bridge crossings to plant "bombs." If they are successful, Specht said, adequate security will be considered lacking in such areas.

In addition to pretended bomb and sabotage damage, civil defense volunteers will have to cope with radioactive "fallout" and a hypothetical flood of evacuees from the west coast. Rationing of food, gasoline and clothing will be simulated immediately.

Cut in Prices Is Averted in Stamp Battle

Nations giving stamps, but one man holds the key to whether the ban will continue. He is dead-set on giving them. We think he is unreasonable.

"Most of us begrudge every penny we have to pay to the stamp companies," he declared.

One station owner told a reporter Saturday night that he cost him between $250 and $275 monthly for stamps when he was giving them to customers. "That knocked a big hole in our profits," he added.

Reports have circulated that trading stamp company representatives have offered lavish inducements to operators in an attempt to get stamps back in the stations.

Meanwhile, surrounding Magic Valley communities who joined the Twin Falls group in the stamp ban have held the line. "But Twin Falls is setting a bad example for them," declared.

With the exception of the five stations reportedly giving the stamps, other stations in Twin Falls are respecting the stamp ban agreement. One station owner Saturday night said he would continue to respect the agreement for a few more days to see what could be done to "bring the others back in line."

Man Resuming His Trip To Montana Sans Ulcer
A San Bernardino, Calif., man's trip to Montana, interrupted two weeks ago by ulcers, was resumed Saturday after the visitor praised Twin Falls surgeons and doctors, the Red Cross blood bank and Magic Valley Memorial hospital.

Glenn B. Farrell, vice president and general manager of United Motors Courts of America, left for Missoula, Mont., where he expects to visit his sister, Mrs. Brenda Wilson. But he left something in Twin Falls—most of his stomach.

Farrell is no stranger to hospitals. He said Saturday he'd had ulcers since he was 18 years old and had spent plenty of time in hospitals. Only two and one-half years ago, he underwent surgery for ulcers. He's 63 years old and he doesn't look more than 50 despite his lifetime bout with his stomach.

"But the doctor told me I was all through with this time," he commented. He said he was back to eating six small meals daily and just about ready to add meat to his diet.

Magic Valley Memorial hospital is just as good as any hospital I ever saw," he commented. "And that Red Cross blood bank is wonderful." He added that he'd had so many transfusions down through the years that he'd actually lost count.

"I'd do anything I could to help in any blood drive," Farrell declared. Farrell's troubles started here June 21 when he stopped at a Twin Falls motel. The next morning he was vomiting blood and his son, Wally, 16, took him to Magic Valley Memorial hospital. The following morning, he underwent surgery. Bouncing right back, he left the hospital a week later and has spent the last five days recuperating in a Twin Falls motel.

Range Inferno Is Halted After 12-Hour Fight

BOISE, July 6 (AP)—A range fire which blackened an estimated 13,500 acres of desert and burned to within a few feet of a restaurant and service station was under control today.

The blaze broke out shortly before noon yesterday and was brought under control some 12 hours later. Bulldozers trenched a fire line and patrols worked to extinguish remaining hot spots.

The bureau of land management fire dispatcher in Boise said the blaze was believed to have started at four different places in the tinder-dry grass and brush. It was stopped just short of the Bacon Inn, 20 miles south of Boise.

Smoke from the blaze was blamed for an accident in which a Mountain Home air force base airplane was injured. T/Sgt. Dewey Glenn, 32, was reported in fair condition at a Boise hospital today.

Another fire was brought under control yesterday after burning more than 700 acres south of Nampa. Both fires were presumed to be man-caused.

Long Wait
KIMBERLY, July 6.—Betty Mason, Kimberly, was rewarded Saturday night for a long wait.

A lone bud of a night-blooming cereus plant burst into full bloom. The plants aren't known for their profusion of blossoms, and they bloom only at night. The following morning, the blossom droops.

She has had the plant four years and this is the first time it has bloomed.

Hearing on Data Theft Scheduled
WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—House investigators will resume their search for someone in the Pentagon who knows of any secret data "purloined" by a reporter.

The navy and air force chiefs of information will testify before a house government information subcommittee headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D., Calif.

Subcommittee sources said one of the questions the military officials would be asked is whether they ever encountered any cases where secret information was "stolen or purloined" by newsmen.

T. F. Resident Back From Finland

Mrs. George Warberg, 551 Fourth avenue north, returning from an exchange program that took her to Finland, displays a Finnish hand-woven carpet she purchased in Helsinki. Mrs. Warberg Home After 307 Lectures To 34 Schools During Tour of Finland

Mrs. George Warberg, 551 Fourth avenue north, returned to Twin Falls Monday after a one year tour of Finland that involved some 307 lectures in 34 schools to more than 10,000 students.

Mrs. Warberg, a Twin Falls high school English teacher who accepted a Fulbright scholarship to study in Finland last July, traveled extensively throughout Finland lecturing on the English language, America and American life. Mrs. Warberg, who also made a thorough study of Finnish folk literature in Helsinki, was accompanied on the journey by her husband.

The purpose of the trip, and the aim of the Fulbright grant, Mrs. Warberg said, was to build international friendship and attain a better understanding between Finnish and American people.

The Fulbright grant also affords Finnish students the opportunity to come to the U.S. to study under an exchange program.

Upon arriving in Finland, Mrs. Warberg went through a three-week orientation course at the University of Helsinki. While she was at the university, she made a study of ancient Finnish "runes" or folk-tales which are passed from generation to generation orally. The University of Helsinki has a library of more than 100,000 untranslated "runes," Mrs. Warberg said.

Discussing her trip in terms of the problems she encountered, Mrs. Warberg cited the "communist press and American movies" as the greatest threats to Finnish moral stability.

Explaining this, she pointed out that communist agitators have taken such problems as integration and inflated them to balloon proportions, giving the Finnish people a twisted concept of the American internal structure. She said she was astonished to find out just how much of the communist propaganda the people believed.

Regarding American movies, Mrs. Warberg cautioned that too many movies which depict the "Cinderella" type situation are bad for Finnish morale. She said that many of the people tend to believe the movie situations and have a still more unrealistic concept of the U.S. because the movies show the "unusual" rather than the usual.

In her associations with students, she stated that the average Finnish student, after the grade school period, is on an academic plane about two years higher than the average American student.

The reason for the difference, she explained, is that the Finnish educational system stresses the formal atmosphere and the lack of elective subjects in the curriculum. She also said that there is a great importance placed on the study of languages in the schools. Summarizing this point she said it was due to a greater consciousness of the significance of fine arts.

Mrs. Warberg included all phases of American history, art, education, and economy as a part of her lectures.

In summing up her Finland journey, Mrs. Warberg said, "The American in Finland can see all about him indications of the closeness and warmth of Finnish-American relations. The people of Finland have long had a close spiritual and cultural tie with the people of America."

"It is my sincere hope that both Finns and Americans will continue to gain from their friendly associations. Out of this understanding there will come a lasting friendship which can serve as a basis for universal peace."

Mrs. Warberg received a bachelor of arts degree from Linfield college in Oregon in 1929 and while in Finland, she completed requirements for a master's degree in folk literature. While an undergraduate at Linfield college, she majored in romance languages.

A 20-year veteran of Idaho teaching, Mrs. Warberg taught at Eller high school for 11 years and in 1950 joined the teaching staff of Twin Falls high school, where she still teaches.

Neil noted this was more than two million dollars more than collections of $13,223,497 in the 12 months ended June 30, 1956.

A net increase of $1,998,347 accrued to the general fund for the period ended in 1957, the report said. Most categories of special taxes showed increases but in inheritance tax collections there was a decrease of $72,251.

Communism's Foundations Tremble as Khrushchev Topples Longtime Leaders

By The Associated Press
Nikita Khrushchev's Kremlin upheaval applies a squeeze on world communism which threatens the movement's whole future.

This is not simply another shock to the world's communists. It is clear evidence that the communists dominated by the Soviet union is on a long and never-ending crisis, providing violent contradictions and carrying the germs of decay.

Again, as so many times before, the communists are in confusion. It will be clear to them that despite Khrushchev's displays of confidence, he remains beset by many dangers and still can lose out in the long run. A sort of paralysis must set in while communists wait for the ax to fall again and again.

Khrushchev's purge must knife deeply into red ranks throughout the USSR and the satellite empire. Indications are that Khrushchev wants to avoid blood-letting in the Stalin style, but he may yet be forced into it.

Communists hardly recovered from the shock of learning from Khrushchev that Stalin was really an inhuman beast, now find confusion compounded.

An "imperialist" like Secretary of State Dulles turns out to have been right when he said the Soviet union impeded progress toward disarmament. Khrushchev admits it—but says Georgie Malenkov, Vyacheslav Molotov, Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shapilov were responsible.

After all these years, Tito turns out to have been right. There are "different roads to socialism." Yugoslavia's and Russia's communists can work together. The "anti-party group" was responsible for the sad state of Soviet-Yugoslav relations.

Mao Tse-tung is right. There can be certain peculiarities in the various countries "building socialism."

If "dogmatists and sectarians," meaning Stalinists, must go in the Soviet union, what happens in Czechoslovakia and East Germany, still ruled by old-line Stalinists? Obviously they must be waiting, too, for the ax to fall. Czechoslovakia are about to be hosts to Khrushchev and they likely will learn the ax from him.

But the real squeeze on communism is in Soviet foreign policy. Externally, Khrushchev probably will be forced to due for some sort of release from the most frightening of international tensions—the fear of nuclear war. Without some relaxation there, he has little prospect of rearranging the whole Soviet economy. But in suing for that much peace, he runs headon into serious contradictions.

He can be challenged on many fronts. How far is he willing to go to relieve tensions in the Middle East? How far will he go toward ending communism's world conspiratorial activities? Can he make peace on one front without coming to terms on others? If he comes to terms, won't he contribute to slow death for the world-Communist movement?

Internally, Khrushchev's dangers are manifold. There is conflict over his plans to revamp the economy. In the ranks, impatient managers and technicians want more say. There is disaffection among students, youth, writers and others eager for a breath of freedom. Certain generals probably will oppose aspects of Khrushchev's policies as dangerous: A satellite empire seethes with notions of independence. There is an increasingly powerful China, intent of equality with Moscow and regarding Asia as its own preserve.

And there is always the danger of a countermove from Khrushchev's

Accident Blamed • On Faulty Brakes

Faulty brakes resulted in a two-car accident at 12:01 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Blue Lakes boulevard north and Falls avenue. Darlene B. Wase, 19, 136 Ash street, told Twin Falls police she "pumped" the brakes of her 1949 Studebaker but they would not hold in time to keep her far from colliding with a 1953 Buick driven by Les D. Emerson, 21, Jerome.

Damage to the Studebaker was estimated at $50 and to the Buick at $40.

enemies. His warning is clear. Blood will be spilled if necessary. This was implicit in the words Khrushchev used in Leningrad to denounce Malenkov, his chief rival in the long struggle for power.

Khrushchev called Malenkov one of the "chief organizers of the so-called Leningrad case." That was the 1949 purge which liquidated many communist notables including the brilliant young Politburo member Nikolai Voznesensky, then chief of the state planning commission. In this case, security chief Victor Abakumov and five subordinates were executed in December, 1954. Khrushchev's words will sound ominous to Malenkov and the "anti-party

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday Ray Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international politics and personalities. Questions may be sent him at 7000 Hillcrest Pl., Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—Why? asks Mrs. L. O. Berkeley, Calif. "Is there so much opposition at Washington to calling off tests of atomic weapons? It seems to me that there is only one answer to that question. Stop them!"

Answer: There is widespread opposition against this first step in the program of disarmament. It prevails within the army, navy and air force, in the staff of the atomic energy commission and in congress. There are grave misgivings in these and other circles that any stoppage would jeopardize this nation's security, as well as the freedom of all our allies.

The basic reason, of course, is that nobody has grasped to trust any agreement which the Russians or any other communist regime will make on this subject. But there are also highly technical and scientific reasons for not entering into an atomic compact with the Kremlin.

STAGES IN MAKING NUCLEAR WEAPONS—As the experts explain it to me in A-B-C language, there are actually four different and separate stages in the making of an A-bomb or other atomic weapons. Three involve the preliminary study of nuclear processes and reactions, and the physical manufacture of the awful thing itself. The fourth step is the testing of the ultimate weapon.

But the plan envisaged by the administration contemplates a cessation of manufacture, as well as an end to testing. However, even with the most rigid inspection system, any international control agency would not be able to discover whether the Russians were devising and manufacturing atomic weapons, including types more deadly than those now existent. They simply would not stage any tests.

They could, and probably would, engage in this secret evasion of the proposed agreement to halt tests.

HONOR IN AMERICA IS EXPECTED—It would be possible, of course, for the United States to do the same thing. But there is such a difference between the minds, the thinking and the philosophy of Russian and American scientists that it probably could not happen here.

Every individual working in the atomic field in Russia is the employee and the servant of the Kremlin. If they were ordered to perform secret work on an internationally prohibited weapon, they would have no compunction about obeying the decree. Otherwise, it would be death.

In this country, however, although atomic construction is under governmental control and supervision, thousands of scientists and their assistants are privately employed. It is estimated that more than 100,000 people are engaged in this new industry.

UNTHINKABLE CONSPIRACY—Unlike the Russians, they would not agree to submit and to violate any international agreement of the kind under consideration. They would probably quit the job. Moreover, again unlike the situation in Russia, it would be impossible for anti-treaty violations to be kept secret. In my opinion, congress and the American press would refuse to abide by such an unthinkable conspiracy. They would prefer to terminate the treaty openly and honestly.

President Eisenhower, Secretary Dulles and Disarmament Adviser Stassen cannot discuss this aspect of the problem for publication. But these are the considerations which underlie their caution and official and unofficial opposition to what seems like a noble and humanitarian program.

"Don't you think," writes G. F. of Springfield, Mass., my staid and proper residence many years ago, "that the current attacks on the supreme court because of its recent decisions are un-American and destructive of respect for that body?"

Answer: I certainly do not. When any individual or organization in this country becomes so sacred that it cannot be criticized, it will be an evil and tragic day for the American people. I might note that this sort of immunity has never been granted to an American congress or an American president, from George Washington to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

LATE SENATOR BORAH'S COMMENT—I shall never forget what the late Sen. William E. Borah said to me after senate Progressives had fought confirmation of the late Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes: "Well, we lost, but I imagine that Hughes will be a better jurist because we singled his whippers!"

Many of the Progressives who opposed the Hughes selection subsequently apologized and congratulated him upon his performance on the big bench.

ACTION NEEDED, NOT DOUBLE TALK

Upon returning to Twin Falls after being out of the city for nearly a week, the writer learned that Police Chief Howard Gillette had gone before the city commission meantime to brand the editors of the Times-News as "rabble rousers" who "have used every trick in journalism to carry on their attacks" against his department and the city officials for what we have described as their complacency and indifference regarding teen-age drag racing in downtown Twin Falls.

By the chief's own admission, he got "hopping mad" after reading the Times-News editorial last Sunday and all the letters in its Public Forum department. That we can understand because the chief is one who cannot take any criticism, constructive or otherwise.

Chief Gillette's statement was so full of irrational accusations that we would be inclined to ignore it altogether were it not for the need of keeping the record straight.

We have made it crystal clear in deploring the death of a 3-year-old Twin Falls boy, that we regarded the two teen-age boys involved in the tragedy as no more at fault than all the other teen-agers who race in downtown Twin Falls, the parents who condone their antics, or the city officials and the police department for their complacency and indifference toward the drag racing which everyone in this vicinity has witnessed. Nevertheless the chief accused the Times-News of "crucifying" these boys and trying "to stir up hysteria."

He added that this newspaper had snowballed the "thing" into something terrible and that "since this tragic occurrence" the press has been attacking everyone from the governor on down.

The Times-News most assuredly does regard this "thing" as something terrible and our sympathy rests with the boy who lost his life and his parents. As we pointed out recently, the daily newspapers of Idaho have adopted as their No. 1 objective a determined campaign against irresponsible driving and inadequate law enforcement in Idaho, which definitely will extend all the way "from the governor on down."

When the chief said he was inclined to think there was "something phony" about a letter appearing on the front page of the Times-News last Sunday, he hit a low blow impugning our integrity. And when he referred to the author of that letter as sometimes having a tendency to be a "fanatic," he struck an even lower blow. Instead of accepting the constructive criticism in this letter, which should have concerned everyone in Twin Falls, he chose instead to vilify the author.

Starting on the front page of the Times-News today is another letter written by the chairman of the board of the General Insurance Companies of America with headquarters at Seattle. Chief Gillette has our assurance there is nothing "phony" about this letter upholding us in our contentions. We'll be interested in knowing whether or not he also will regard the author of this letter as a "fanatic."

For years the Times-News has praised Chief Gillette for the work he has done with his department. He should know as well as everyone else that no newspaper in the state or the entire country for that matter has worked harder or more conscientiously to discourage irresponsible driving and to save lives which are being lost needlessly.

When he stated to the city commission that the Times-News "never did one thing to help" in support of a 16-year-old age limit on drivers, proposed in a bill sponsored by the Police Officers association, he was talking loosely indeed, his misrepresentation being exceeded only by his anger.

The Times-News will not be intimidated by any such diatribes as that unloaded at the city commission meeting last Monday evening. Neither will it be impressed by the chief and the city commissioners patting each other on the backs for a job which they would like to have us believe is being well done. In this one respect they have failed miserably.

So long as teen-agers drag race up and down Main avenue and all other streets of the city, this newspaper will continue to condemn such open disregard for law and order until it is brought under control one way or another.

Such talk as "kids with drivers' licenses have every right in the world to use the city streets" insults one's intelligence. Who questions that right if they obey the traffic laws? Who questions that between 85 and 95 per cent of all drivers, young and old, are conscientious and law abiding? We have contended all along that the far greater percentage of our drivers respect traffic laws and the lives of others. Of course they deserve a lot of credit and they have our admiration. But they are not a problem.

The real offenders are that small minority who persist in speeding, drag racing, slipshod signs and such. These are the potential killers upon whom the city officials, police department and the courts should be cracking down, instead of indulging in a lot of double talk that will accomplish nothing.

Our police chief is wrong when he says it seems as if the editors of the Times-News "have been impatiently waiting for such a thing to happen."

To the contrary, we have been waiting patiently for the city commission, the police department and the courts to put an end to all this crazy driving which finally has resulted in the death of a 3-year-old boy and which hundreds of people in Twin Falls agree should be condemned no longer.

POT SHOTS

WASH 'EM, BURN 'EM

Pot Shots: To kill aphids (green or black) use one quart of soap suds and one teaspoon of kerosene or fuel oil. Be sure to mix well. Spray or pour but be sure to get it on off of the little beasties. Then kill the ants, so they can't carry more aphids onto your plants.

PUPS FOR KIDS DEPT.

Dear Mr. Pot Shot: Have been caring for more than a month for a small, homeless pup but cannot keep the pup because I have two big dogs to feed. The pup is white and light tan with good coat of hair, stands 12 inches high, male, frisky and playful, in best of health, well-fed, and has been kept indoors on my back porch. He would enjoy romping with children, is also a good pal for a couple. Want to place him with kind dog lovers.

NO FISH STORY?

Dear Pot Shot: At Roseworth reservoir last Sunday, a couple caught 18 fish in just one hour trolling, came in and docked and made the statement they were disappointed because they had caught fish so fast they would have to go home. This is no fish story.

KITTENS FOR KIDS DEPT.

These four kittens are two cute to down, don't include any green ones, says the owner, John Crowder, age 11. They're 7 weeks old and include one white, one black and two gray-striped. You can phone Twin Falls 1272-W or pick them up at 1411 Elizabeth boulevard.

Three kittens, one yellow, one black and one tawny-colored, have to be given away. They're 6 weeks old and good healthy kittens. You can phone Twin Falls 2376.

Two little female kittens, long-haired, need homes. You can phone Twin Falls 1959-W or pick up the kittens at 381 Dubois street. One kitten is gray, the other is "kinda black."

IF YOU CAN BE FUNNY

Dear Pota: Why are you always trying to shut folks off when they get going on something that might bring on a good argument? Always, you tell them that sort of stuff should go in the Public Forum.

What's the matter, afraid someone will write some truth now and then?

I. Burn
(Burley)

Pot Shots note: The primary object of this corner is to give everyone a smile now and then. Of course, if it were possible to bring a good, old-fashioned belly laugh to everyone, every day, Pot Shots would be a howling success, but it just isn't possible. If you can be funny about some of the things that have been "shut off" go ahead and write!

TIGHT MONEY

The nation's governors, meeting in annual conference at Williamsburg, Virginia, have urged the federal government to lower interest rates on state, school and local bonds. A resolution adopted by the conference declared that the high cost of borrowing was proving a serious burden.

The governors' stand is in direct opposition to the "tight money" policy supported by the Eisenhower administration as a means of curbing inflation. However, on the same day the governors acted a joint congressional committee unanimously endorsed the "tight money" policy and recommended against federal tax cuts, arguing that this is the best way to counter the inflation threat.

It is interesting to note the directly opposite views of governors of states and members of congress on an extremely complex problem. Even more interesting is the way that political lines were crossed.

Democratic strategists hope to make "tight money" one of the chief issues in the campaign for congress next year. Yet at Williamsburg all of the Republican governors reportedly went along with the interest rate resolution. And the congressional committee which supported "tight money" is under Democratic control.

Fiscal policies obviously should not be a political matter. Unhappily, the tendency to bring them into politics confuses the average citizen who, because he keenly feels the pinch of inflation, is tempted to listen to the peddlers of economic panaceas—Salt Lake Tribune.

MORSE HERE AND THERE

No doubt Sen. Wayne Morse will deny any inconsistency is involved, but his voting last week to "beat the heart out" of the foreign aid authorization bill (as Sen. Theodore Green, Rhode Island Democrat, described his proposed and defeated amendment), leaves his constituents to wonder:

Has Our Wayne changed from a Republican internationalist to a Democratic isolationist?

Senator Morse, these days, finds increasing occasion to sign himself, or to exert his "leadership" among, the small group of senators who view all efforts to help friendly nations, in our own best interests, as auspicious or downright immoral. Of course, Senator Morse fits into no classification. He should have remained an independent, and might have done so had he not feared defeat at the polls in 1948—Portland Oregonian.

TAFT-HARTLEY

The Taft-Hartley law is 10 years old this year. Presumably the anniversary will provide an opportunity for more labor speeches against the "slave code" of American workers.

Of course the act is not perfect. We doubt that there was ever a perfect law. But there are some revealing facts about labor's progress in the decade of Taft-Hartley.

In 1947 the average weekly earnings of factory workers was $69.92 (based on 1935 dollars); today it is $9.04. Ten years ago, as we recall it, $1.50 an hour was good money. Today it is nothing. And the $1 level is common in some trades. In addition, you can add 20 to 50 cents in fringe benefits by many employers.

We can only conclude that the American workingman is doing pretty well under a "slave code."—Kansas City Star.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—Insofar as a legislation is concerned, no one takes seriously the proposals of the commission on government security, being actively pushed by its chairman, Lloyd Wright, that those who publish classified information labeled secret or top secret be subject to the same criminal penalties as those in government who make it available.

While bills have been introduced to implement other recommendations of the commission, no member of congress has touched the proposal that seems to Wright's special goal. It has come under attack from various quarters in and out of government.

But the very fact that it could be put forward seriously is a measure of the threat to the freedom of the press in the climate of fear and suspicion that has so long prevailed. A first press is a hair shirt that authority almost always resists.

Presidents Roosevelt and Truman took an increasingly jaundiced view of the privileges of press, and they did not hesitate to try to curtail those privileges. President Eisenhower and his secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, sometimes reflect the view that the chief duty of the press is to sustain American diplomacy in the cold war.

This remarkable doctrine was explicitly stated by Dulles in his letter to Arthur Hays Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, in a discussion over the right of American correspondents to go to communist China and report the news from there.

But the proposed criminal penalties in peacetime for publication of information classified secret or top secret goes further than anything put forward in a very long time. It bears at least a family resemblance to the sedition law passed in 1798 which created a storm of protest.

Is That So?

Reptiles Now Pigmies in Comparison to Forebears

Of reptiles now living—many more, existed in times past—the largest in the world—as far as weight is concerned, is the crocodile of southeast Asia which may attain a length of 30 feet. For obvious reasons, few of the really large ones have been weighed. Strictly meat-eaters, they will devour anything they can overcome. However, they have been known to live in tidal waters and have been sighted far out at sea.

During the 180 million years in which reptiles dominated the world, these leftovers of ancient animals went into a rapid decline. Then, some 80 million years ago, reptiles were violent climatic changes which were unfavorable for these creatures which were dependent upon outside sources for their body heat, including the dinosaurs. Or, it may have been due to the arrival of the mammals with their more advanced methods of caring for their young and their ability to remain active in nearly all kinds of weather.

But quite possibly the climate became too warm for these great reptiles. These giant creatures found great difficulty in finding shade, let alone seeking cooler shelter underground. However, reptiles the size of most of our common lizards would have found it easy to cool their bodies by retreating into rock crevices or by digging holes as many of them now do in the hottest regions.

The largest member of this ancient reptilian tribe now living in the U. S. is the Mississippi alligator found in the southeastern states. Prior to the coming of the white man, they were extremely abundant in the southeast. Early explorers described places, such as the St. Johns river of Florida, as being so full of alligators that it might have been possible to walk across using the "gators' bodies as stepping stones, had it not been for the aggressive nature of these "sidewalks." However, instances of alligators attacking humans are exceedingly rare.

During the early part of the 20th century it was still possible to find "gators up to 20 feet long; mostly those seen today—say in roadside pools in Florida—are seldom more than five feet long.

Another great living reptile is the leatherback turtle, a sea creature. One gigantic specimen weighing 1,288 pounds was eight feet long. Another, taken off Vancouver island in the Pacific, weighed more than three-quarters of a ton. One captured in the Oceanic islands was 100 pounds. It is quite likely that some leatherbacks may weigh more than a ton, although this remains to be proved. At any rate, among living reptiles only the largest crocodiles are larger—and it is doubtful if these crocs are heavier.

The longest reptile living—say after writing this, I am going to duck—is the rich yellow, brown and black reticulated python. Specimens 28 feet long that weighed 200 pounds have been well authenticated, and 33 feet has been suggested as a possible maximum. This snake, found in southeastern Asia, the Malay peninsula and the adjacent islands, including the Philippines.

Fossilized remains of a snake found in Egypt among rocks which were laid down some 50 million years ago indicate that it was a snake estimated to have reached a length of 50 feet! Modern snake-tail spinners would have you believe that South American snakes range anywhere from 60 to 150 feet! Although scientists have not been taken in by such weird tales, some believe that it is possible that 40-foot anacondas do exist.

Much of the argument about the length of snakes comes from the measurement of skins—and it is easy to stretch a 20-foot anaconda to 28 feet! As for the boa constrictor, although commonly believed to be the longest South American snake, it is exceeded by the anaconda—and that, as we have seen, by the python. Perhaps the largest living boa measured was 18 1/2 feet long.

The longest snake found north of Mexico is the boa constrictor, measuring up to 13 feet.

Trucks Involved In Two Accidents

WENDELL, July 6.—Two accidents, both involving trucks, were reported near Wendell within a 15-minute period Friday morning.

Elmer Johnson, Wendell farmer, was driving a 1955 International highway district truck, loaded with gravel on highway 25, about a half-mile east of Wendell when the truck sideswiped with a 1951 Hudson driven by Billy L. Bell, airman from Great Falls, Mont., at 9:45 a.m.

Deputy Sheriff Bill Bunn and Wendell Policeman William L. Austin, who investigated, said the truck was making a left turn when the accident occurred. They estimated $400 damage to the auto and $40 to the truck. Bell was accompanied by his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Abbott, Hagerman. No injuries were reported.

At 9:30 a.m. a 1955 OMO truck, loaded with baled hay and driven by Jack Tackett, Nampa, overturned on the inside of a grade when it met another truck on Vader grade, seven miles west of here. Deputy Bunn said the mishap was caused by slow speed, slope of the road and narrowness of the grade. Bunn said damage was limited only to inconvenience caused in righting the vehicle. The driver was uninjured.

Zhukov Holds High Cards in 'Power Poker'

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower's wartime friend, Marshal Georgi Zhukov, is credited here with holding a kind of political power on the power of Soviet Russia Nikita Khrushchev.

This results from the help the army man gave Khrushchev in the fight against the Molotov-Malenkov faction of the Soviet leadership.

Is in Spotlight
The role and importance of Zhukov are coming increasingly under the attention of Washington officials today because of their significance in assessing the course of Russian policies from here on and because of the old Eisenhower relationship with the outwardly genial marshal. This relationship has been used in the past and could be used again, by either Zhukov or Khrushchev, to negotiate on relations between the United States and Russia.

Some American officials say that Zhukov could not have won his showdown fight with the pro-Stalinist faction trying to unseat him unless he had the support of Zhukov and the other armed forces leaders.

Moreover, this support may continue to be vital in the period ahead. Although the Kremlin conflict was resolved in the communist party's central committee a week ago with a vote of triumph for the Khrushchev faction, the fight is still going on over the country, in a sense. That apparently is the reason why the top communist leaders have now turned like angry bulls on their former comrades to destroy their reputations and popularity utterly.

Prevents Support
Under the Soviet communist system, this presumably is one of the techniques for preventing any support from developing in the country generally or in the lower party echelons for former Foreign Minister Molotov, former Premier Malenkov, former Deputy Premier Kaganovich and former propagandist and Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov.

The possibility that one or more of these men may have to be destroyed physically as well as politically had not been ruled out in the thinking of experts here. It depends on whether this is necessary to secure the Khrushchev rule.

Biggest Tourist Season Forecast During Summer

BOISE, July 6 (AP)—The state department of commerce and development is expecting the biggest volume of tourists ever to visit Idaho this summer, a spokesman said yesterday.

The department said it has received inquiries from all over the United States and a number of foreign countries. In June the volume of questions rose to 13,813 over 9,186 the previous month.

Idaho is becoming known among tourists as a "family vacation" state, the department said. Many of the letters ask where families may vacation with ease.

Spokesmen said the department is sending maps and other literature to answer requests from tourists.

Freedom Fighter Reported Killed

BUDAPEST, July 6 (AP)—Hungary's communist regime has executed Bela Barti, 30, for his role in a demonstration at Miklos a month after the crushing of the Hungarian revolt. Five people were killed, including two Russian soldiers.

A recent issue of the newspaper, Eszaki Magyarorszag (North Hungary) carried word of the execution. No date was given.

Landslide Hits

'Hams' Given Special Tags For Road Use

BOISE, July 6 (AP)—Idaho's amateur radio operators today began receiving the special automobile license plates which were authorized for them by the 1957 legislature.

A shipment of 100 special plates went out yesterday from the motor vehicle license division of the department of law enforcement.

Division chief clerk George Denney said there were about 600 amateurs eligible to purchase the plates in Idaho.

Each plate bears the symbol W7 to designate the area in which it is being issued and the amateur radio operator's call letters.

The words "radio amateur" replace the "famous potatoes" which appears at the bottom of regular license plates.

The radio operators pay an extra $5 each to cover costs of the special printing and equipment needed to manufacture the plates in the state prison license plant. The extra fee will drop to $3 next year, Denney said.

Dairy Record Is Set in State

BOISE, July 6 (AP)—Idaho milk production per cow reached a record level in May, the U. S. department of agriculture reported today.

"This reflects not only better selection of improved producing strains and other good management practices over the years but also an unusually favorable season this year for pastures and hay crops," the department said.

The department reported that milk production in May totaled 187 million pounds in Idaho, an increase of about two per cent from May of 1956.

Total dressed weight of red meat slaughtered commercially in Idaho in May amounted to 6,759,000 pounds. This was the second highest for May in the past nine years, exceeding only slightly by May of 1956.

Retribution

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, July 6—A large flying beetle—which wasn't in the cast—stole the show for a time from University of Idaho summer theater actors in "The Solid Gold Cadillac."

The beetle dove on the actors several times from the floodlights of the arena-style theater in the University field house. Like sea-serpents of the stage, they chose to ignore the insect even when it chose to land on the skirt of the leading lady.

Rita Larson, Clarkia, who plays the lead, solved the problem when the script called for her to sit down. She did. Right on the beetle. The beetle's brief acting career was finished.

This Once Was Irrigation Canal

This once was a canal carrying a full head of water for the Hillman Irrigation district. A break in the wall of the canal where the canal crosses a culvert dumped water from the canal into the couler. The water chewed a hole 40 feet wide and 40 feet deep before the flow was shut off at the Hillman reservoir. The Hillman tract will be without water until the break is repaired. Idaho Power Figures Out Size Of Potential Power Shortage

BOISE, July 6—The size of the electric power shortage facing southern Idaho and eastern Oregon, the area served by Idaho Power company, if the Brownlee project were not completed on schedule, was described today by T. E. Roach, president of the company.

"The 1958 shortage will be the equivalent of all the power used by two cities the size of Boise, plus the adjacent farm areas," he stated. "That is only the beginning, because the shortage in 1959 will be twice as great as 1958."

Roach said Brownlee is the only possible source of power in the Pacific Northwest which can be provided in time to forestall a brown-out and rationing of power. He estimated over three years would be required to construct a steam plant under present delivery schedules for heavy equipment.

"Steam power in this area is high priced, as compared with hydro power, and would cost users many times more," he continued. "Even so, steam power, if it could be made available in time, would be a valuable economic loss of a crippling power shortage of many years' duration, which would be paid for by the people of the area."

"What can the people who are out to destroy Brownlee be thinking? Where will they get the power needed so desperately now? They are looting dangerously with payrolls, purchasing power and security."

French Rights On GI's Trial Called 'Clear'

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The army said today "the French clearly have the right" to try American GI Dewayne McOsker on a murder charge, even though the army has asked France to waive that right.

This view was expressed in a "fact sheet" issued by the army on the case of the 21-year-old Manhattan, N. Y., soldier. McOsker is charged by the French police with the shooting of an Algerian in a Paris street on the night of June 25.

The fact sheet said France has the right of primary jurisdiction in the case under provisions of the status of forces agreement with NATO nations, which includes France.

In referring to the agreement, the army said that the case does not involve injury to United States interests or personnel nor has it arisen from an act or omission arising in the performance of official duty.

TIMES-NEWS PUBLIC FORUM—VOICE OF THE READER

Insurance Firm Chief Agrees
Compacency Blamed in Death

way that he had only had four accidents and two were not his fault. There is one thing these boys cherish above everything else—and that is their driver's license. They cannot wait until they can get their regular license at age 18 in this state. So far as I know, neither this boy nor any of his friends, although they have been in several accidents, have had their licenses revoked and in instances I know of, where they have had accidents that were entirely their fault, they have been commended by the police department because they had not been drinking. Drinking seems to be the major offense. I would just as soon be killed by a drunken driver as by a sober one, and it is our experience that there are more of the latter than of the former.

Also, I believe that 90 per cent of the accidents are due to carelessness, and I mean unnecessary carelessness on the part of one or the other. A person handling firearms carelessly would be shunned by his companions. I also think at least 50 per cent are due to carelessness on the part of each party, in other words, even if one of the drivers were careless, the other could have avoided the accident.

If a man is in an automobile accident, whether it be his fault or not, and has been drinking, he generally loses his license. I feel very definitely that anyone found guilty of careless driving or disobeying major traffic regulations should lose his license for a period of time commensurate with the offense. This should apply even more drastically to the teen-agers.

If a youth under the age of 18, without a license, should have an accident, his age for procuring a license should be extended for a year or so.

I am quite positive if these restrictions were enforced by the authorities, especially the courts, and not influenced by the position of the parents, the teen-age problem would be solved more quickly. In fact, I cannot think of any other solution. I cannot understand a father or mother not approving this policy.

Under the present arrangement, no insurance company will willingly write a policy on a car where they know teen-agers are going to drive it, and they do so only through coercion and influence of the agent, but for some reason that I cannot understand, the authorities, especially the courts, are hesitant, reluctant, and often stubborn about enforcing this provision, although I understand they have the right to discontinue licenses. If a better suggestion can be made, I would approve it, but something should and must be done.

I also feel the newspapers have a big responsibility as well as opportunity in this respect and that is the reason I am so enthusiastic over the position you have taken in your editorial. My congratulations!

For Acts of Teen-Agers Today

Editor, Times-News:

What is a teen-ager? I read the articles in your paper attacking teen-agers. It just made me thinking mad! For every teen-ager, there's a parent. How many times have you heard, "What's this younger generation coming to?" I've heard it till I'm sick of it.

Who sets the pace these young people are trying to live up to? They certainly do not. They aren't the ones responsible for making cars whose speed kills, nor the materials for war that kill nothing else.

Why spend time whipping them when that time could be spent helping them? What kind of a town has the older generation made for them? What kind of examples do the parents give these young people? Parents are supposed to give their children love, understanding, respect and faith in the future.

You parents of teen-agers ask yourselves this question: "Do my children respect me?" If the answer is no, you'd better get busy and do something about it.

Why not call a town meeting and let the teen-agers give you their side of it. It isn't fair to be so critical of all of them for the mistakes of a few.

The future should be something to look forward to, not be afraid of. The next time you people who have the authority to pick up a teen-age offender, go directly to the home and find the source of the trouble instead of putting all the blame on the youngster. Everyone has to have respect for himself or herself before they can have respect for anyone else.

Agreement Given
On Drag Racing;
He Urges Action

Editor, Times-News:

I'm in complete agreement with your stand on drag racing and traffic laws, and the lack of enforcement. Now let's see what happens, or doesn't happen.

Law enforcement reflects the policies handed down from above, just as the carrying out of policies reflects the thinking of the higher echelons in most any organization. I, as a private citizen and taxpayer, challenge the Twin Falls city commission to instruct the Twin Falls city police to enforce our traffic laws. All of them, and to stop drag racing on our city streets. I challenge the police department to carry out those instructions.

I further challenge the governor of the state of Idaho to do something constructive to stop this merciless slaughter on the highways and in the cities and towns. I submit that the governor should call a special session of the legislature to amend our traffic code to provide that driver's licenses shall not be issued to anyone under the age of 18, and that anyone who is issued a driver's license assumes the full legal responsibility, regardless of age.

This cannot wait until the next legislature meets. Will you people have the courage to do something NOW?

Workers Receive
Thanks for Help
Donated at Camp

Editor, Times-News:

The Twin Falls council of Camp Fire Girls wishes to extend a most sincere thank you to the Burley Camp Fire president, Dr. Keen and his working party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Judd Sedam, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Barry and Mrs. Orr Keen.

Further appreciation is given to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hatzfeld, Mr. and Mrs. Burley Howell, Mrs. Emmett Harrison, all of Twin Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Pries from Kimberly, and especially to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hatzfeld from South-west City, Mo., for a most successful work party at Camp Tawakani last Sunday.

We thank the many people who have contributed so generously to our finance drive but this is only a small part of the overall picture. Much help and work are always needed to open Camp Tawakani each year and more help is needed for the county fair booth; not to mention the wonderful work done by the guardians, leaders and committee members.

Our camp fee for each girl covers only food, insurance, staff salaries and various handicraft supplies. Labor for maintenance and camp cleanup must be donated by parents and other interested workers.

We wish to extend an invitation to all girls from 7 years to 19 to join our Camp Fire campers at Tawakani this season. Camp opens July 7 and for three one-week periods. More information is available from the Camp Fire Girls office located in the old hospital building.

Idaho Mother of

For Trip to N. Y.

Editor, Times-News:

Thanks, friends. I wish to take this method of thanking my many friends who so generously gave of their time and money to make my trip to New York as Idaho Mother of the Year possible.

It was a thrill and an experience that I will cherish and remember as long as I live, and for which I am truly grateful.

She's Asking Action Now That
Drag Racing Problem in Open

Editor, Times-News:

The main drag racing problem is at 18th out in the open, where we as a town can view it with constructive criticism. Just what can be done about it?

We can all get fighting mad, express our hot-tempered views, "dress" each other down, but what good will it do if we don't take concrete steps to correct it that would be effective, yet fair to all?

If all we do is make a few heated remarks, the dust will soon settle and all will be the same. In time, our Little Terrys may be lost. Next time it could be any one of our very own.

What could be done in fairness to all? Here is one suggestion we as a town might consider:

For the safety of children such as the tiny Koepnick child, the blind and crippled, we should pass a new law limiting the minimum driving age to 18. I say 18 for the sake of those of that age who are holding down responsible jobs and need to drive. However, all driving licenses for persons up to 20 years of age should be subject to these two conditions:

(a) If the operator of that license is caught doing any sort of reckless driving or otherwise breaking our traffic regulations, that his (or her) license be suspended immediately for one full year plus the required fine.

(b) If they are caught during that year driving without a license, the suspension be extended to their 20th birthday anniversary. (c) is optional.

Mother Is Disgusted, Fearful
Teen-Ager to Follow Pattern

Editor, Times-News:

Writing you as a mother of a teen-ager who will be starting high school this fall, I am not only disgusted but fearful should my child become as those I see, children brought up with little or no respect for the law who hold in contempt anyone who dares tell them. After all, aren't they learning all they need ever know in school?

It's a sad day and age when our youngsters become nearly monsters. Just who is responsible? The parents, you and I. We sit back and expect the schools to teach them all they need ever know. We shower them with every luxury their little hearts desire. New and beautiful, powerful cars, expensive clothes, and all them "go enjoy yourself, son." It's not a wonder we have a pack of thrill-hungry little monsters who will stop at nothing—even murder—and even brag about that.

We say, "What can we do? In the old days teen-agers earned their keep. Everything is so easy now. If Dad hasn't got it, you're considered a square. If Dad wants to save face for Junior (and he usually does) he can always run his soul into debt. Just what kind of parents are we? When we bore these children they were our hope, our joy. Somewhere along the way (when things became a little tough) we found it was easier to say yes than to put our foot down.

We have built a lot, a lot, independent of everything, except character, and that takes a lot of hard work. After shopping and playing bridge all day and pushing a lot of little buttons to run our automatic gee-gaws, we are just plain tired. We keep our homes ship-shape and let our youngsters and our community run ship-shod.

What are we going to do about it? First, we may start by letting our darlings have autos when they themselves have earned them. (Say 18 or thereabouts.) Second, we must curfew their hours to 10 p.m. instead of midnight or later. Spend more time with them ourselves to know what they are doing and thinking, giving them for the future not material things but a little more real love and understanding.

Then we better start housecleaning, put fresh young men on our commissions, men who are genuinely concerned with our problems; who want the job and not just the prestige which goes with it. They in turn can obtain a decent law-enforcing body, one which doesn't let a little down like Twin Falls get the reputation which it has now.

Perhaps then our babies will have a chance to grow up without being murdered by two or more tons of steel and glass being hurled at them by some misguided teen-ager.

Editor, Times-News:

The American Red Cross blood committee wishes to thank you for your splendid publicity during the bloodmobile visits to Twin Falls.

A special thanks for the many fine wreaths and pictures used before and during the mobile visits which contributed greatly to the success of blood drawings.

Our thanks to KILK, KTFI and KZUP for their valuable part in making Twin Falls people aware of the necessity of keeping their community blood bank filled, and a very special thanks to the many blood donors who, by their selflessness and thoughtfulness toward others, have so freely of their blood.

We are deeply grateful also to all of the behind-the-scenes workers—too numerous to mention—who gave so unstintingly of their time and effort during the blood drawings.

She Agrees Something Should Be Done to Rmely Situation

Editor, Times-News:

I was very much impressed with your letter written Sunday by Mrs. John Hayes and Elton Holmes. I agree wholeheartedly with Mr. Holmes that something should be done about this age of teen-age smartness.

I also agree with Mrs. Hayes that the fault does not lie wholly in the home.

I have watched one of these gang grow up here in Jerome from a hood to teen-age. A year and a half ago my mother's home and all furnishings were demolished, at age ranging somewhere around $2,000. Names of various members of this gang, who were seen in around the place, were given to police but we were told nothing would be done unless they were caught in the act of destruction. We were told it but they weren't caught.

During the past year, I am to say, one of my sons joined them and decided if they could get away with what they were doing he'd too. He didn't. Today he is St. Anthony. Part of the confessions he gave involved the leaders of this gang. The police chief refused to do anything to these leaders, as if he wasn't going to put a black mark on their records. They never saw the judge.

But my son and another who tried to follow their lead are in St. Anthony today. Where? These boys ever touched it because the Jerome police department believes it should let them tough ones get away? My mother had hoped to pay the "poor" department's salary in taxes 1934 until their death; my kid since somewhere around 18 myself paid taxes for years when we needed their services, couldn't even question those said.

And when the leader's caught dead to rights they put a "black mark" on the record.

My mother-in-law, raised 18 children was taken (her home with the help of the department and sent to Bol. Those who might have been told until she was they tell me up there she is not, but she is dying of grief and anion because of what has been done to her.

Jerome Man Asks
Further Probe of Tax Writeoff Plan

Editor, Times-News:

It is known that 900 corporations have got tax write-off certificates on the same basis and in each instance there should be a showing that the secretary of the interior recommended against it and the office of the secretary of defense mobilization has acted contrary. This should be looked after.

The private enterprise is well looked after, and the modernist Republicans are thriving. With the 4½ billion to Europe welfare and if anyone mentions welfare at home, oh by, that is creeping socialism.

Some that hath gets more, and he hat hath not is taken away from him even what he hath.

Teen-Age Writer Avers Real
Drag Strip Is Needed in T. F.

Editor, Times-News:

Upon reading your article concerning the two brothers drag racing, I noticed that you refer to Main avenue as the "drag strip" and I would like to point out the fact that a drag strip is not a city avenue but a specifically designed course supervised by police and the city safety council and one that is backed by a city that cares a little bit about the teen-agers who live in it.

I would also like to point out that if the city of Twin Falls had more people in it who would back a supervised drag strip you would be running more articles on adult violators, than teen-agers.

To me it sounds like you have something against teen-agers.

Approximately two years ago a group of teen-agers was trying to organize a car club and get a drag strip but couldn't accomplish it. Why, I'm not sure, but I will say that if Twin Falls had a drag strip there wouldn't be so much dragging on Main avenue. And you wouldn't have to write so many articles about teen-age drivers.

Contempt Noted
For Driver Who Hit Family Dog

Editor, Times-News:

I am writing this letter because I believe there is a "man" in around Twin Falls who should be contempt of himself. I have only contempt for him for two reasons:

In the 700 block of Second avenue east, this "man" driving an old make Chevrolet hit our dog. He not stop to see how badly the dog was hurt but kept right on going.

Our dog is a German shepherd weighing 60 pounds or over and he hit something. If he didn't he hit a 60-pound dog, then he hit a 30-pound child and is not capable of driving a car.

Which brings me to the second reason of my contempt for him. On three boys were heartbroken at the dog is a constant companion to them. He is never far from our young, a little 3-year-old boy. At the time the dog was struck, our 3-year-old was only a few feet behind the dog. The question in my mind is, would he have stopped had it been he who hit instead of the dog? He didn't stop to find out.

Girl at Burley Expresses Her
Appreciation to Chief at T.F.

Editor, Times-News:
We, a group of teen-agers from the surrounding valley, would like to express our sincere thanks to your Twin Falls police chief, Howard W. Gillette.

We feel that if more police chiefs would take as much interest in their town as yours has, we teen-agers would try to make our town a town to be proud of.

We could name a bunch of towns as an example, but the most appropriate of all is our own town. We teen-agers who try to make our town a town that people would be proud to live in by following the rules, are the only ones who get picked up.

As an example, last week we got stopped for our pipes and they weren't even very loud. And as we were talking to the police, a car went by with its pipes really loud and also speeding. What did they get? A mere shrug of the police shoulder! Is that the kind of justice that we teen-agers rate? Is that what is supposed to make us appreciate the "justice of the law?"

You teen-agers of Twin Falls really have something to be proud of, your police chief and the rest of the department.

To you, police Chief Gillette, we the teen-agers of the valley, salute you for all of your most welcome understanding.

You seem to understand that we need something more than rough treatment, that a little understanding does a lot more than rough talk and threats.

T.F. League of Women Voters
Reports on Driver's Age Bill

Editor, Times-News:
Since there has been much interest and discussion recently regarding the minimum driving age in Idaho, the League of Women Voters would like to give the public these facts.

During the last legislature a bill was introduced in the house (HB 294) to raise minimum driving age to 16, with this exception—that a 14-16 year-old could drive in case of "undue hardship" on him or his family. This last clause was included particularly with the farm youngsters in mind—their help often being indispensable.

The bill was drawn up by Kenneth Self of Twin Falls, in cooperation with the department of law enforcement, the prosecuting attorney of Ada county, and the chief of police of Boise.

In view of the League of Women Voters non-partisan policy of publishing voting records, those of Magic Valley legislators are given below: Twin Falls county, C. W. Coiner, No; Twin Falls county, Kenneth Self, Yes; Twin Falls county, Harry B. Turner, Yes; Cassia county, J. Ward Chaburn, Yes; Camas county, Fred Walton, Yes; Jerome county, E. E. La Turner, No; Lincoln county, Floyd Kilgus, No; Minidoka county, Leo J. Handy, Yes.

Some legislators were absent and excused at the time of voting. This bill was defeated 28-15, so it was not voted on in the senate.

Another bill (HB 326) provided for restricted licenses for those 14-18 years of age. These were to be issued only after training of prospective drivers in the schools. This bill died in committee.

The legislators will enact the laws that the public wants. Therefore, it is the responsibility of the citizen to make his wishes known on every important issue. The power of the individual is great—in a democracy! Yours truly,

MRS. RICHARD HIGH,
(President,
League of Women Voters
Twin Falls)

Report Given on
Camp Session of
4-H Youngsters

Editor, Times-News:
Camping, one of the best kinds of recreation, was experienced once again by the 4-H members of Twin Falls county when they went up to the Presbyterian camp above Ketchum for three full days of wonderful 4-H activities.

This camp was provided for especially to that the younger 4-H members could learn more about the 4-H program through songs, games and 4-H Fellowship.

One of the day's activities consisted of a class in basket weaving. Here each camper made a basket, which he was allowed to take home to show his parents and friends. Tours were taken to show what beauty nature has created. We had loads of fun going swimming at Ketchum and participating in sports such as baseball and volleyball.

Wonderful recreation periods full of games, square dances and social dances were organized by Jay Walker, a senior from the University of Idaho.

A candle-lighting ceremony with most of the 4-H members participating was given for the enjoyment of all. A talent show was presented. For added enjoyment, Mr. Walker gave several pantomimes.

I sincerely hope every 4-H member gets the privilege of attending this camp next year. Also this is a good opportunity for every junior leader to put knowledge to use.

Brokers Wait Anxiously for U. S. Forecast

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—Grain brokers are waiting for the government's July 10 wheat production forecast, and are anxious for the usual interest in the somewhat confused picture.

The report will be issued Wednesday, forecasting also total production of spring wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye and acreage for soybeans.

Weather Causes Slump

Improved weather and harvesting conditions caused wheat to slump this week on the board of trade. An uptick of three weeks ago, when oats and soybeans managed to stay slightly ahead of a week ago, was closed Friday 3 1/2 cents lower than a week ago. Corn was 1/4 to 1 1/2 higher, rye 1/4 to 1/2 lower, soybeans unchanged to 1/4 up and land 15 to 27 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Dips Expected

Traders said there is no doubt whatever that the government forecast will be down from the June forecast for winter wheat, due to continued harvesting delays, some acreage abandonment and generally low yields and poor quality.

Sharp losses in wheat production do not make for a dangerous supply condition, however. Even if the crop should be reduced 100 million bushels, there would be a sizeable carryover for a year from now. The carryover is believed to be down to about 600 million bushels now, from 1,300,000,000 a year ago.

Stocks Reach Historic Peak Of Industrials

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Industrial shares skyrocketed to a new historic peak this week.

For the stock market as a whole, prices on average were back at the previous 1957 high.

Despite the July 4 holiday, traditionally a dull time for the market, signifying the start of the summer vacation period, the average made its biggest weekly advance since the period ended Dec. 8, 1956.

The Associated Press average of 30 stocks rose $2.10 to $136.30, equating the 1957 high. The industrial component reached a new high of $277.30, topping the previous summit of $276.30 attained Aug. 2, 1956.

The Dow-Jones industrial average was at a new 1957 top of 513.38, the Standard and Poor's 500-stock index reached a new yearly high of 48.69.

A Veteran Wall Streeters could recall in parallel to the amazingly vigorous rise on the eve of July 4.

Exercise Is Held For Bible School

HANSEN, July 6—Certificates were given to 40 children at exercises held Wednesday afternoon for vacation Bible school pupils at the Community Methodist church.

Mrs. George Lindemood, general chairman, passed out the certificates. Mrs. Roy Hoffield conducted singing exercises and songs. She was assisted by Carol Hoffman.

Mrs. Tom Steelsmith conducted the preschool children's classes, assisted by Pamela Mothershead, Joyce Wilson and Mrs. Dick Callen.

Mrs. Walter Shouse and Mrs. Scott McMaster conducted the primary group, first, second, and third grades.

Mrs. Joe Engel had charge of the junior group—fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Mrs. Clifford Renz led the intermediate groups—seventh, eighth and ninth grades. Mrs. L. W. Moore was refreshments chairman.

After the program, each class held exhibits of its work, followed by a sack lunch picnic, ice cream and punch.

Area Farmers Get Soil Bank Checks

SHOSHONE, July 6—Acreage reserve payments began June 28, James Tate, office manager for the Lincoln county ASO office reports.

To date he has made payments amounting to $49,300. Total payments will be $84,000 in the county this year.

The acreage reserve (soil bank) payments are made according to whether or not the farmers have actually discontinued use of certain acres on their land.

Ninety-five farmers in the county are made the soil bank agreements, covering 2,380 acres of land to be left from cropping.

Swimmer Hurt

HEYBURN, July 6—Karen Heiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Heiner, fractured her left foot when she jumped from a bridge over the river while swimming in the canal near the Elmer Heiner home Thursday evening.

The girls had planned a slumber party and decided to begin with a swim when the accident occurred.

Karen will recuperate at home with her foot in a cast for the next six weeks.

Polson's attorney, Vernon K. Smith, Boise, indicated Friday he would appeal to the supreme court. Mrs. Johnson was placed in custody of Polson's mother, Mrs. Irene Polson, and released from the county jail Saturday morning.

A 12-member jury found Polson and Mrs. Johnson guilty of burglary, finding Wilson-Bates appliance store, Buhl, following a trial on June 14. Sentencing at that time was postponed to permit a pre-sentence investigation.

JIM PURVES SUCCESSFULLY DEFENDS T.F. JUNIOR GOLF CROWN

Two-Time Champion Spurs Through Second Nine Holes To Defeat Charles Cutler

Defending champion Jim Purves made it two in a row Saturday, downing Charles (Chic) Cutler 4 and 3 for the Twin Falls junior golf championship. Cutler, who had posted the low score in the tournament—70—against medalist Robb Smith to gain the finals, held Purves even through the first eight holes, but the champion birdied No. 9 to go 1-up at the turn. Purves added to his winning margin on 11, 14 and 16, clipping through in par while Cutler was taking bogies.

The 14-year-old runner-up scored a 78 total while Purves, 17, had a 74.

Purves gained the right to play for the crown Thursday by beating Ray Day.

In other final action, Scott Phillips took the president flight championship with a 4-3 win over Gary Lowman. Joe McElroy took honors in the first flight, defeating Dick Trail 2 up and Bill Newcomer won the first flight consolation award, beating David Driscoll 1 up.

Second flight winner was Jim Winder, who defeated Mike Harper 2 up. Louis Watson was the flight consolation champ with a 3 and 5 win over Alex Sinclair.

In third flight play, Frank McAttee beat Jim Perkins 2 up for the trophy and Ricky Renick beat Judy Laughlin 1 up for consolation prize.

All flight winners will receive trophies and Purves will have his name engraved on the perpetual trophy, donated by several Twin Falls professional men. The presentation of awards will be made following the junior state tournament to be held Tuesday and Wednesday here.

Cards Wallop Reds to Raise League Lead

By The Associated Press

Willard Schmidt pitched seven and one-third scoreless innings and Ken Boyer and Stan Musial homered as the first-place St. Louis Cardinals hammered Cincinnati 13-3 Saturday at Busch stadium.

Boyer knocked in four RBIs with a three-run homer in the first inning and a sacrifice fly. Musial and Joe Cunningham shared six RBIs for the winners.

Schmidt gave the rugged Rhinelanders only eight hits in his long stint and struck out seven.

Jack Sanford notched his 10th victory with the help of Philadelphia's 13th attack as the visiting Phillies defeated Brooklyn 9-4.

Comments by Rip Repulski and Ed Boicheck gave Sanford a 3-1 lead after five innings, and the young righthander had all the runs he needed.

The Chicago Cubs beat the Milwaukee Braves 3-2 in a game marked by sharp pitching despite the failure of both starters to go the distance before a crowd of 43,053, the largest of the season in County stadium.

The victory, his eighth against seven defeats, went to the Cubs rookie righthander Dick Crotts, who led the seventh after Andy Pafko in a pinch hitting assignment, bettered his first homerun of the season.

Frank Thomas whacked his ninth homerun into the upper left field stands off New York Giants' pitcher Stu Miller to boost Pittsburgh to a 13-inning 3-2 victory at the Polo grounds.

Minutes before, Thomas had been shaken up when he collided with shortstop Dick Groat going after a pop fly in the bottom of the 12th frame.

Bayou, Claiborne Farm fly, made three straight victories over three different tracks when she won the Atorn Stakes at Belmont park this spring.

Cowboy hitting fell considerably last week, leaving Magic Valley with only one regular above the 300 mark, according to figures released by William J. Wells, Pioneer league official statistician.

Louis Jackson was hitting .303 through Tuesday night's game, representing a drop of 13 points over the previous week and the poorest mark he has had since the season began.

Behind him came Duane Hermon with .291 and Dave Brian with .290. Denny Loudenback was fourth with a .375 mark and from there the hitting fell off sharply.

But the top hitter on the squad was pitcher Jack Schomer, who had a .316 average with six hits in 10 times at bat.

Bill Denney, Magic Valley's only All-Star prospect thus far, remained in second place as the winningest pitcher in the league. His six wins, no losses record is second only to Salt Lake's Vern Carson, who is 7-0.

The team hitting average went down two points to .247 and kept the Cowboys at the bottom of the list. However, they pulled themselves up another notch in the defensive standings, replacing Billings in third place. They have accepted 1541 chances with 105 errors.

Althea Gibson Snares Title at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England, July 6 (AP)—Althea Gibson, a Negro from Harlem's teeming sidewalks, Saturday won the Wimbledon women's singles tennis championship and fought back the tears as she received congratulations from England's smiling Queen. The tall, 29-year-old New York girl overwhelmed Darlene Hard, a chirpy blonde waitress from Montebello, Calif., 6-3, 6-2, on the famed center court steaming in 100-degree heat.

Venturi and Harney Lead Canada Meet

STE. DOROTHEE, Que., July 6 (AP)—Ken Venturi, the new "super boy" of golf, and long hitting Paul Harney, each with six under par 138, carried a one-shot lead into the third round of the $29,000 Labatt Open golf tournament today.

Venturi, the most promising young player since Gene Littler turned pro, shot rounds of 68-70, while Harney, the graying 27-year-old pro from Boston, Mass., paced the 21 shotmakers who were still under par at the half-way mark in Canada's richest golf event.

Pressing the two leaders were the veteran Al Bealnik from Grassington, N. Y., 70-69-139, and little Joe Cornak, the former air force sergeant, an 1954 British amateur champion, 69-70-139. Just two strokes off the pace were three others: Paul O'Leary, Culver City, Calif., who shot identical 70s over the par 36-38-72, Islesmere course; Leo Blagitch, St. Paul, Minn., and George Bayer, golf's longest hitter from Los Angeles.

Seven more were tied at 142 and a similar number were still one under par at 143. Five managed to equal par at 144.

Boxer Leaves After Seeing Poor Crowd

BAKER, Ore., July 6 (AP)—A light promoter said Diamond Dick Lane, Boise middleweight, glanced around at the 325 fans on hand Friday night and promptly put on his clothes and left.

Lane, promoter Ray Brown said, counted the house during the first preliminary and said: "I won't even work up a sweat over that crowd."

Lane was the first fight in motion in this eastern Oregon town in three years and it lasted just long enough for the first preliminary, which ended in a second-round TKO.

Lane had been guaranteed 15 per cent of the net receipts up to $1,500 and 20 per cent of anything over that to meet Willie Stevens of Reno, Nev., for 10 rounds.

Brown said he paid Stevens, the other preliminary fighter and gave the spare group of fans their money back. "It cost me $1,183. And it took the life of my own pocket," Brown declared.

Brown said he plans another fight card here soon.

Junior Golf Champion Accepts Second Trophy

Jim Purves, left, looks over the perpetual trophy, which will bear his name as winner of the Twin Falls junior golf tournament while Charles (Chic) Cutler, right, runner-up, looks on. This marks the second year Purves has taken the crown and he will be eligible again next year. Cutler, only 14, has four more years to play as a junior. City pro Cliff Whittle, center, will make the official presentation Tuesday. Purves and Cutler had final rounds of 71 and 78, respectively. (Staff photo-engraving)

Field of 100 Will Begin Exchange Club's Junior State Meet Tuesday

A field of 80 to 100 junior golfers is expected to take part in the Twin Falls Exchange Club's Idaho junior state golf championships tournament this week, reports Ray Sherwood, chairman. Sherwood said Babe Hisey, Pocatello, defending champion, will lead the players as they tee-off Tuesday morning. The meet will be completed Wednesday. The tournament is divided into four divisions, three for boys and one for girls.

Boys 16 to 18 years of age are eligible for the top division from which the champion will emerge. A "boys" division for youths ranging from 13 to 15 is the intermediate group and 12 year-olds and younger will participate in the Peeewe group.

The girls and the two lower boys divisions will play 18 holes per day while the junior boys class will be required to play 27.

Trophies will be awarded to winners and runners-up in each flight. Sherwood said there will be two flights in each classification. Those interested are asked to apply for entry at the pro shop.

Sherwood added entries from throughout southern Idaho are expected in addition to a strong contingent of junior golfers in the Magic Valley area. Rated to give Hisey a fight for the championship are Jim Purves, two time city champion, Robb Smith and Dick White along with several others.

Feller, in his first year of retirement after 15 years with the Indians, used plain language Friday as a news conference.

Why should the players choose the commissioner?

"The club owners will take care of themselves as they always have," he said. "The players, many of whom are afraid to speak up, need someone to front for them."

The 35-year-old pitcher, who made nearly a million dollars playing for Cleveland, also took a swipe at the farm club system. He said local ownership of minor league clubs was best for the game.

Famed Tag Team Returns to T.F.

Guy Brunetti and Joe Tanagero, favorites of the local fans last winter, return to the Twin Falls wrestling scene in the main match sponsored by the VFW at 8 p.m. in the Radio Rodeo.

The former champion tag team meets The Bat and Rocky Monroe. Only one other match is scheduled, but it is a no time limit affair and could last indefinitely or until the boys tire. Henry (Strongboy) Lenz is pitted against Jim Blood in the endurance test.

LIKE YANKIES

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Broadway add-makers have installed the New York Yankees 1-4 favorites to capture this year's American league flag, but are a bit undecided on who will win the National league pennant. They have made the Dodgers and Braves co-favorites at 2 to 1.

Others participating in the 36 hole qualification were Jimmy Shields, 109; Stewart Miller, 107; Dick Thomas, 100, and Tommy Cannon, who didn't finish.

Buhl Jaycees will award the top three contenders trophies at the next regular meeting Aug. 6.

Hoad Will Turn Pro This Week

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Wimbledon tennis champion Lew Hoad of Australia will sign a record $125,000 professional contract Monday and will make his pro debut in Jack Kramer's tournament of champions, starting at Forest Hills Saturday.

Although not officially confirmed, this was learned indisputably Saturday from a source who has helped in the negotiations. Both promoter Kramer and the Aussie Davis cup ace are known to have reached verbal agreement on terms.

Hoad will play in two professional tournaments, the one at Forest Hills and another at Los Angeles beginning July 29, and then will join Kramer's troupe on a tour of Europe, South Africa and Australia.

He won't get a crack at Pancho Gonzales, the world pro champion, until next January—except possibly in tournament play. Gonzales, involved in a contract dispute with Kramer, won't make the European tour.

One of the stipulations of Hoad's unique contract is that he have a "conditioning period" with the pro lights before taking on the powerful Gonzales in the customary co-match series.

Kramer, who arrived here Friday from Brazil, said he had not talked with Hoad.

"I made Lew a $100,000 offer which still stands," he said. "Only I have raised it to $125,000 because of his impressive victory at Wimbledon. It's $50,000 more than has ever been offered in a pro contract before."

"I hope to talk to Lew when he arrives."

Hoad, who swept past fellow countryman Ashley Cooper in the Wimbledon finals 6-2, 6-1, 6-2, scheduled to arrive by air Monday from England.

Hoad has denied immediate plans, saying he would fulfill his commitment with the Larc Tennis association of Australia.

However, it was learned he decided to make the pro jump now, while the offer was still dangling. Recurrence of a back injury, which forced him out of competition for two months at the beginning of the year, might jeopardize his career.

HOLLYWOOD, July 6 (AP)—Burt Daniels scored his 11th pitching victory with a six-hitter Saturday and got grand-slam homerun as port from Leo Rodriguez as Hollywood belted San Diego 12-3. T. Hollywood win evened the league series at 2-2.

BRAVES SNAP COWBOYS' WINNING STREAK AT THREE GAMES

Seventh Inning Outburst Gives Boise Win as Magic Valley Strands 12 Runners

BOISE, July 6 (AP) — The Braves of Boise trailed through six innings Saturday night and then pushed over two runs in the seventh to collect a 2-1 Pioneer league win over the Magic Valley Cowboys. The Braves got both scores, with two of their six hits for the night plus a passed ball. Bobby King doubled and Morrie Lerner moved him to third while beating out a bunt. King went home on the passed ball by Cowboy catcher Bill Schmidt and Lerner scored from third on a sacrifice fly.

Humphries, Ballantyne Lead T.F. Tennis Men

BOISE, July 6 — Brad Humphries and Tom Ballantyne, playing as doubles, held out the last hope for Twin Falls entries in the state Junior Chamber of Commerce tennis tournament Saturday as all the Twin Falls singles entries were eliminated. The two boys, playing in the junior division, enter the semi-finals at 10 a.m. Saturday here. They gained that right by beating Joe and Ward Parkinson, Blackfoot brothers, 6-1 and 6-2.

Twin Falls chances for a championship were dimmed somewhat when Bill Morrison, who won first in the city tournament, injured a toe, slowing his game. He lost his first match to Bob Wadsworth, Boise, 6-1 and 6-2.

However, the Twin Falls senior boys runner-up, Bill Babcock, ran into the quarter finals before being eliminated by Dick Johnson, Boise, 6-3 and 6-0. Earlier, Babcock knocked out wins over Bill Howell, Meridian, 6-1, 6-2, and Gordon Seward, Parma, by the same score. Morrison and Babcock teamed to try for the doubles trophy, but were beaten 6-1, 0-6, 6-3 by Shiller and Reigan, Emmett.

None of the Twin Falls entries has a chance to compete in the national meet in Santa Monica, Calif., next month, as only singles are eligible. But Humphries and Ballantyne can pick up a trophy by copping the additional crown.

Lois Lipe and Carolyn Aisms, Twin Falls girls entries, are slated to try the state tournament later in the month.

Bees Take 6-5 Win From A's In 12 Innings

SALT LAKE CITY, July 6 (AP) — Salt Lake battled the Pocatello A's for 12 cautious innings Saturday night before the Bees could collect a game-winning run and the 6-5 victory as catcher Al Kenders successfully stole home and ended the contest.

Kenders tried a steal from third and Pocatello receiver Tony Canizzo dropped the ball and caught an error instead.

Pocatello trailed 2-1 after four innings. Salt Lake picked up three in the seventh and the A's added four in the eighth before the squads settled down for the night's duel.

The Pocatelloans got their five scores on but four hits in the game and Salt Lake collected only eight.

Don DeGroote of Pocatello garnered his 10th homer of the season. The A's also had the only other extra-base clout with Don Brown's double.

The victory kept the Bees on top of the Pioneer league heap along with the Missoula Timberjacks. Both squads have won four straight in the second half of the league season.

AUSIE WINS HALMSTAD, Sweden, July 6 (AP) — Australia's double-Olympic champion, Jon Henricks, won the 50 and 100-meter races last night in his third competition in this country.

A crowd of 1,500 saw the young Aussie win the 100-meter free-style in 57.7 seconds and the 500 meter in 26.1 seconds.

A pinch homerun by Smoky Burgess enabled Cincinnati to tie the National league record of 221 home runs in one season in 1956.

National League Made 13-10 Favorite to Beat American League in All-Star Game

ST. LOUIS, July 6 (AP) — The National league team with five Cincinnati Redlegs in the starting lineup is favored over the New York Yankees-dominated American league squad in the 24th All-Star game to be played Tuesday at Busch stadium.

In recent years, the National has whitened the American's series margin to 13-10 by winning six of the last seven games. Ironically, much of this has been done at the expense of Manager Casey Stengel whose Yanks usually humble the opposition in the World Series. As an All-Star manager, Casey has won only once, 1954, in All-Star games.

Back in St. Louis for the first time since 1948 when the American league finished on top, the annual mid-summer contest is sure to draw a capacity crowd of 31,000. The long range weather forecast calls for hot, humid weather with scattered thundershowers.

The game will be beamed on network ABC radio and television across the nation as part of the new 5-year contract by which baseball gets $2,500,000 per year for the All-Star and World Series rights. Sixty per cent of this amount goes to the player pension fund.

Game time is 11:30 a.m. (MST) with a series of alternatives in case of bad weather. If it should be rained out, Tuesday afternoon it would be played Tuesday night. If it should be rained out Wednesday morning or afternoon.

Because of the National's recent victory surge, the fact that it will be played in a National park and the "Stengel jinx" on the American, the National has been made a 5 to 3 man-to-man choice.

Manager Walter Alton of Brooklyn and Stengel, who got their jobs with pennant-winning performances in 1956, won't name their starting pitchers until Monday. The test of the lineup already has been chosen by vote of the fans with heavy Cincinnati participation.

In fact, the Cincinnati vote was so heavy that all National starters, except Stan Musial, would have been Redlegs. If Commissioner Ford Frick hadn't stepped in, Frick put Willie Mays of New York in center field and Hank Aaron of Milwaukee in right instead of Cincinnati's Gus Bell and Wally Post. He also arbitrarily named Musial for first base but it turned out "The Man" from St. Louis already had enough votes to offset the Cincinnati campaign for their George Crowe. It will be Musial's 14th All-Star game, a record.

Musial, Mays and Aaron will be surrounded by Redlegs with Johnny Temple on second, Roy McMillan at short, Don Hoak at third, Frank Robinson in left and Ed Bailey catching.

Hurricane Warning

Hurricane Audrey wasn't the only big wind in the news as Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson stormed out of the New York boxing commission offices after refusing "one more handshake" with Floyd Patterson for photographers. Locke Wins British Open; Says Middlecoff Needed More Practice

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 6 (U.P.) — Bobby Locke of South Africa, who won, and Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, who finished 14th, agreed today on one thing about the British Open golf championship. Middlecoff didn't get in enough practice licks on the tough old seaside course known as the "cradle of golf." Be-knickered Bobby, who could afford to be generous after pocketing $2,800 for his fourth British open victory with a record-tying 279, said he was surprised Middlecoff hadn't done better but pointed out "he simply didn't allow himself enough time to get acquainted with the course."

"To that, Dr. Cary added, 'Amen.' 'I don't regret coming over,' said the former U.S. Open champion. 'It was a great experience. But here's a word of warning to anyone coming over here to play — don't leave it until the last moment before coming. You've got to get plenty of practice.'"

Middlecoff, 10 shots behind Locke with rounds of 72-71-74-72-289, went the entire distance of two qualifying rounds and four more in the tournament proper with a mental block about the speed of the St. Andrews greens.

"I've got it printed in my mind a hundred times 'The St. Andrews greens are not fast' but it doesn't make any difference," Cary said en route through his final round. "I'm playing them as fast when I know they're slow and putting short all the time."

Misjudging the greens, particularly on the back nine of each round, cost him the title, he said.

"I don't think anyone played better than I did — except on the greens," said Middlecoff, who won the U.S. Open in 1949 and 1956 and last month lost a playoff to Dick Mayer for the '57 championship.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, fully aware of the hazards of playing abroad, had no better luck than Middlecoff. His final rounds of 74-72 put him in a tie for 19th at 291 and he blew puts all over the place as he took 39 on his final nine holes.

Peter Thompson of Australia, who closed with a pair of 70's, made a game bid to retain the title he had won for three straight years but Locke beat him by a total of three shots as he closed with his 68-70.

Thompson was second with 282, worth $1,400, and Eric Brown of Scotland was third at 283. Angel Miguel of Spain finished fourth with 285 and among four tied at 288 was the leading amateur, Dick Smith of Scotland, who fell one shot of Bobby Jones' amateur record for the tournament.

The 39-year-old Locke, who won nearly $25,000 on U.S. tours in 1947 and 1948, had a stormy career on American shores. He was barred by the USPGA for a year in 1949 for failure to keep tournament commitments and several times he swore he'd never play in America again.

Sophomore Fred Braselton of Corpus Christi, Tex., ranks high in Georgia's "Twin" quarterback plans for the 1957 season. He weighs 190, is 6-feet-2 and is 19.

A's Outlast Detroit 3-1 In 12 Innings

By The Associated Press

The Kansas City Athletics rallied for two runs in the 12th inning Saturday night and defeated the home-standing Detroit Tigers 3-1 behind the sensational pitching of young Ralph Terry and Tom Morgan.

Victory Power and Hector Lopez drove home the deciding runs off Frank Lary, who was locked in a tense duel with Terry for 11 innings. Terry had restricted the Tigers to six hits and only a bunt single from the fifth inning on—until he gave up a lead-off single in the 12th inning to Ray Boone.

Billy Pierce, stylish Chicago White Sox southpaw, became the major league's first 12-game winner when he hurled a 5-1 victory over visiting Cleveland. Billy allowed eight hits but managed to scatter most of them harmlessly as he vanquished Bob Lemon, who was pitching despite a sore elbow.

At Boston the Red Sox went for the long ball to rout Baltimore 11-2 Saturday as big Frank Sullivan turned in his fifth consecutive victory.

Jackie Jensen's 11th homerun solo blast to the center field seats—Billy Klaus' ninth with a mate aboard and a two-run triple by rookie Frank Malzone were the biggest blows.

The New York Yankees thrived on inept Washington pitching for a 10-6 victory over the last-place Senators at Griffith stadium. Elston Howard pounded across four Yankee runs on a homer and three singles.

Shantz and Bob Grim.

Vic Wertz of Cleveland is the American first baseman, Nellie Fox of Chicago at second, Harvey Kuenn of Detroit at short and George Kell at third. Ted Williams of Boston will be playing his 12th game, will be in left and Al Kaline of Detroit in right. Stengel left himself only one "left-handed" pinch hitter, Charley Maxwell of Detroit.

The pitching may be left-handed on both sides with Alton expected to pitch between Milwaukee's Warren Spahn, who has made the team nine times and pitched in five games, and New York's Johnny Antonelli. His other pitchers are left-handed Curt Simmons of the Phils, and right-handers Lew Burdette of Milwaukee, Larry Jackson of St. Louis, Glen Labine of Brooklyn and Jack Sanford of the Phils.

Although the National starting lineup will include only two left-handed batters — Musial and Bailey — Stengel may pitch either Chicago's Billy Pierce or his own Bobby Shantz. Both are left-handers and Pierce has started three All-Star games, allowing only one run in nine innings.

If Stengel decides to save his lefties until later in the game when left-handed batters will be in action for the National, he might go with Early Wynn, the veteran Cleveland right-hander. Stengel also has Don Moe of Cleveland, a lefty, and Jim Bunning of Detroit, Billy Locs of Baltimore and his own Grim, all right-handers.

Hiskey to Defend 'Family Crown' For Sixth Year

The Hiskey family of golfers will be out to continue a recent domination of the Idaho state amateur tournament here July 18 when the top golfers in the state begin the meet on the two local courses. Noting the three Hiskey boys, Sonny, Jim, and Babe, have copped the trophy each year since 1952, tournament chairman Ed Purves reports this year's entries will push the defending champions.

3 Teams Are Undeclared in LDS League

Three teams in the LDS softball league based in perfect records Saturday night following the first week of play in the second half of the season.

Defending champions Piler, Fifth ward and Fourth ward all have 2-0 records followed by Kimberly and Sixth ward, 1-1, and First ward, Second ward and Murtaugh, 0-2.

Friday night the Fifth ward beat back the First ward for a 7-5 win and the Sixth ward defeated Murtaugh 11-5 in the nightcap.

Piler blasted Kimberly 9-2 Saturday night after Fourth ward had outlasted Second ward 12-10.

This week's schedule includes Tuesday, Sixth ward vs. First ward at 7:15, and Second ward vs. Murtaugh at 8:15. Saturday, Fifth ward vs. Kimberly at 7:15 and Piler vs. Fourth ward at 8.

Friday, Second ward vs. First ward at 7 and Piler vs. Murtaugh at 8:15. Saturday, Sixth ward vs. Kimberly at 7 and Fifth ward vs. Fourth ward at 8.

Reiterating his earlier statement, Purves said "Players in the championship flight this year will be the best caliber golfers in Idaho and the best ever to match skills in the state amateur tourney."

In addition to the two Hiskey boys, Purves listed several other local men who are capable of coping the crown. These include Dick and Rusty Sheppard, Twin Falls; Max Wilkinson, Gooding, and Ray Kowalski, Boise. A heavy favorite at tee-off time will be Ed Harper, Twin Falls, who has been state champion five times. Purves added several top amateurs from the Salt Lake City area and the surrounding states also are expected to enter.

Trophies for winners and runners-up in each flight will be provided as well as merchandise certificates to the consolation bracket winners. Purves added "there will be a fight for everyone who cares to enter, regardless of qualifying score."

Singer Sets Sights On Moore, Anthony Match for Title

LOS ANGELES, July 6 (AP) — Frank Sinatra's business manager said Saturday he and the sportsman-singer hope to promote a lightweight championship fight between Archie Moore and Tony Anthony in Los Angeles in September.

Hank Sankola said he and Sinatra had a "definite commitment" from Anthony, top ranking contender for the title and hope to sign Moore, the aging champion, in talks set for this week in Los Angeles.

"I had a nice talk with Archie yesterday," said Sankola. "He's all for it. We'll get together Monday and I think we'll work it out."

Sankola said the bout will be held outdoors in the ball park of the Hollywood Stars, a Pacific Coast league team. The date tentatively selected is Wednesday, Sept. 11.

Russets Drop 9-8 Decision To Mustangs

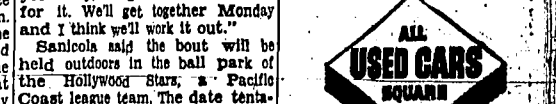

BILLINGS, Mont., July 6 (AP) — Winning pitcher Dennis Hueller singled in what proved to be the winning run in the seventh as Billings beat Idaho Falls 9-8 Saturday night for the Mustangs' third straight.

Chris Canizaro had singled in the tying run for Billings in the seventh and reliever Hueller's followed.

Duke Carmel of the Mustangs tripled in a pair to open scoring for Billings in its six-run first frame. He doubled in the fifth and scored the lone run in the fifth on a sacrifice.

The Russets went ahead 8-7 in the sixth with three runs—one on a wild throw by Carmel. Gordon Maxwell and Jim Gienhart singled in the others. Gilchrist doubled in a pair in the third.

Seaton Terms Plan for Dam 'Extravagant'

Don between Idaho and Oregon. Two of them, Brownlee and Oxbow, are under construction.

In a separate letter to Idaho's Rep. Harner Budge, Seaton said the bureau of reclamation has estimated the construction and transmission costs for Hells canyon and the allied Scriver creek project to be $25 million dollars, not including interest, maintenance costs and funds to reimburse Idaho Power for its project which would be flooded by the Hells canyon project.

"If the Hells canyon bill is enacted," said Seaton, "appropriations for the next six years for reclamation projects will have to be 60 per cent higher than those appropriated for the last six years."

He compared the estimated need of $140,484,000 for construction in fiscal year 1961 alone to the average for all reclamation and construction appropriated during the past 20 years, which he said was $124,046,000.

"Authorization of federal construction of Hells Canyon dam," he said, "would place bona fide reclamation projects in competition with a project the major purpose of which is power production. The Hells canyon project would not provide additional water for or reclaim one acre of arid land; it has nothing to do with reclamation, yet the funds therefor would be provided out of the amounts made available for reclamation construction."

"As a practical matter," he stated, "it would be impossible to justify to the taxpayers of the nation, overburdened as they are, the extravagant waste of authorization of federal construction at this time."

Limit Placed on McCall Airstrip

BOISE, July 6 (AP)—A use limitation was placed on the McCall airport beginning today to allow planes to complete spraying of 500,000 acres of southwestern Idaho forest.

State Aeronautics Director Chet Moulton said the limitation will eliminate all practice takeoffs and landings for 30 days, as well as require regular north-to-south takeoffs and south-to-north landings.

He said six to nine Johnson-Fly service planes will be using the airport as a base from dawn to 10 p.m. each day.

The company has a forest service contract to spray trees in the Chamberlain basin area.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., July 6 (AP)—The Harry S. Truman Memorial Library was dedicated to the service of America today by Chief Justice Earl Warren as an institution that will make the former President's administration "one of the clearest ages in history."

Many of the nation's leaders, past and present, joined a crowd estimated by police at 10,000 under a sweltering sun for the ceremony. President Eisenhower sent a brief message of greeting and 82-year-old former President Herbert Hoover, obviously uncomfortable in the 91-degree heat, praised establishment of the 21-million-dollar institution. It houses all the documents and mementos collected by Truman during his nearly eight years in the White House.

Truman contented himself with acting as jovial host. His own signed views were engraved in marble above the building's cornerstone and stood out as that block was laid ceremoniously in place. The inscription read in part:

"This library will belong to the people of the United States. My papers will be the property of the people and be accessible to them and this is as it should be."

Warren told the crowd that Truman, in making available for public use and study the 3,500,000 documents stored in the library, had furnished a means whereby "peoples of all the earth may... choose the world."

New Name Is Requested by Investigators

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Representative Doyle, D. Calif., a member of the house committee on un-American activities, wants the group to be known henceforth as the "committee on subversive activities."

Doyle said yesterday he agrees with the supreme court that the right paths in the years-to-come. Truman's period in office, from 1945 through 1952, the presiding jurist of the U.S. supreme court said, "already is recognized as one of the most momentous periods in the history of our country and the world."

term "un-American" is not explicitly defined clearly—a point the court raised last month in upholding the contempt of congress conviction of John T. Watkins.

The California congressman introduced a resolution he said was charter conform with the court's June 17 ruling.

In the court's majority opinion, Chief Justice Warren held that congress must spell out the jurisdiction and purposes of its investigating groups "with sufficient particularity."

Driver Is Blamed In Traffic Death

ONTARIO, Ore., July 6 (AP)—A coroner's jury returned a verdict of involuntary manslaughter Saturday against Richard Newlan, 28, Payette, driver of a car involved in a five-death smashup.

The verdict said Newlan was "under the influence of intoxicating liquor and driving on the left side of the center lane" when his car struck one driven by Olaf Berg, 65, Seattle, near here Wednesday.

Smoking Probe

OSLO, July 6 (AP)—Norway, which is planning a countrywide anti-smoking campaign, is trying to find out why people start smoking in the first place.

"The first thing to be done is to study the habit of smoking among youngsters," said Dr. Fredrik Melbye, of the social department's board of health. "We'll try to find out exactly what makes young people start smoking."

Canner Handles Large Volumes at Kitchen

Mrs. Goldie Leonard, Twin Falls, ladles dry beans into big cooker at Twin Falls Canning Kitchen as the first step in preparing pork and beans. Equipment at the kitchen permits canners to handle far larger volumes than they could at home. Expert supervision is provided for all canners. (Staff photo-engraving)

Housewives Discover No Experience Needed To Be Expert Canner at Twin Falls Kitchen

More housewives are discovering they don't have to have any particular experience to can meats, beans, vegetables or anything else. Thanks to expert supervision at the Twin Falls Canning Kitchen, rank amateurs in the art of canning can handle literally thousands of cans of food on shelves at home.

And lots of the expert canners swear by the kitchen because of the convenience and facilities which permit handling of far larger volumes than they would be able to complete at one time in their own kitchens.

So far this year, the kitchen has been open only two days, last Tuesday and Friday. "But we've been busy," exclaims Mrs. Edna Smith, manager.

The kitchen will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Tuesday and Friday this week. However, no canning is started after 3 p.m. The third week in July, Mrs. Smith anticipates the canning kitchen will have to stay open at least another day each week to handle the volume of canners.

However, the bulk of canning this early in the season is expected to be chili, pork and beans, meat and pudding. "We'd like to get most of these out of the way before the heavy fruit canning season in late summer and early fall," Mrs. Smith says.

Many women planning to can pork and beans or chili make appointments with the kitchen. Mrs. Smith says she prefers this system because it permits personnel at the kitchen to plan their work and make sure the kitchen capacity is used to the best advantage.

An average day of pork and bean canning finds incoming beans carefully washed and cleaned. They are then placed into a large cooker where they are cooked until not quite done.

While the beans are cooking, cans are filled with strips of pork and onion and are made ready to receive the hot beans. The nearly cooked beans are "scooped" into waiting cans.

The cans are wheeled via large dollies to a can sealer, where each can is sealed. Then what appears to be the finished product, is placed in large pressure cookers to be finished. After cooling, the beans are ready to be taken home.

Besides the produce and ingredients to be used in canning, patrons

South of City.

The Twin Falls Canning Kitchen is located south of the city, across Rock creek canyon. It is reached by going south on Blue Lakes boulevard south, crossing Rock creek canyon. A small sign on a pole indicates the narrow lane leading to the long, low, unadorned building. The lane turns east a short distance beyond the small store located on the west side of the road.

of the canning kitchen are required to furnish only their own working utensils. Plenty of pans are provided by the kitchen.

Standard recipes are posted in the entrance to the kitchen so all persons using the canning kitchen will be assured of the best possible results. By using the recipes, patrons can tell exactly what they must provide in the way of ingredients.

"We get lots of people here who have no idea of what they're trying to do," says Mrs. Smith. "But we just keep an eye on them and guide them along and the first thing you know they're doing a fine job."

Men Use Kitchen, too

In addition to all the housewives using the kitchen, several men are among the steady canners.

People visiting area residents also are among patrons of the canning kitchen. Mrs. Smith reports that produce canned at the kitchen has gone to some 26 states and several foreign countries. With only two days of operation so far this season, the kitchen already has registered two out-of-state visitors. They are Mrs. Rudy Kasel, Marshalltown, Ia., a sister of Mrs. Percy Greene, and Mrs. J. A. Schumann, Las Vegas, Nev., a sister of Mrs. Smith.

In addition to produce canned here and sent abroad, cans available at the kitchen are put to good use by families and friends of men serving overseas in the armed forces. Mrs. Smith says they will pack all sorts of items—including candy and cigarettes—into cans which are sealed for mailing overseas. "Things sealed in cans arrive in good shape, particularly in hot climates," Mrs. Smith explains.

No Spoilage

Other than an occasional can, nothing processed at the kitchen spoils, Mrs. Smith says. She notes that an occasional can in a big batch of some produce will spoil for no apparent reason. "We think something gets sealed in the can, but we can't explain it," she says. "But other than that rare can, we have no spoilage."

She credits the kitchen's record for no spoilage to proper methods of canning, proper sealing of cans and proper cooking.

The only cost to patrons of the kitchen is for cans. All expenses are figured into the price charged for cans. This year, cans will be somewhat higher than last year because of a six-tenths of one cent increase in the price of each can since last Nov. 1 and an increase of 40¢ in the cost of one load for freight.

Can Prices Reported

Mrs. Smith says the price of a "C" enamel size 2½ can will be 10 cents this year with "R" enamel cans costing 9 cents and plain cans costing 8 cents. All No. 2 cans will cost 9 cents. The kitchen has 87,000 cans on hand, sufficient to "start" the season but not enough for the whole season. The manager says she expects the kitchen to handle 175,000 cans this year. During the nine years the kitchen has been in operation, it has turned out some 1,125,000 cans of produce.

The kitchen has come a long way since it was started in 1948. Then it had just the bare essentials equipment. Almost every year since then, more equipment has been added until now Mrs. Smith says the kitchen has reached its capacity. There just isn't any more room for equipment.

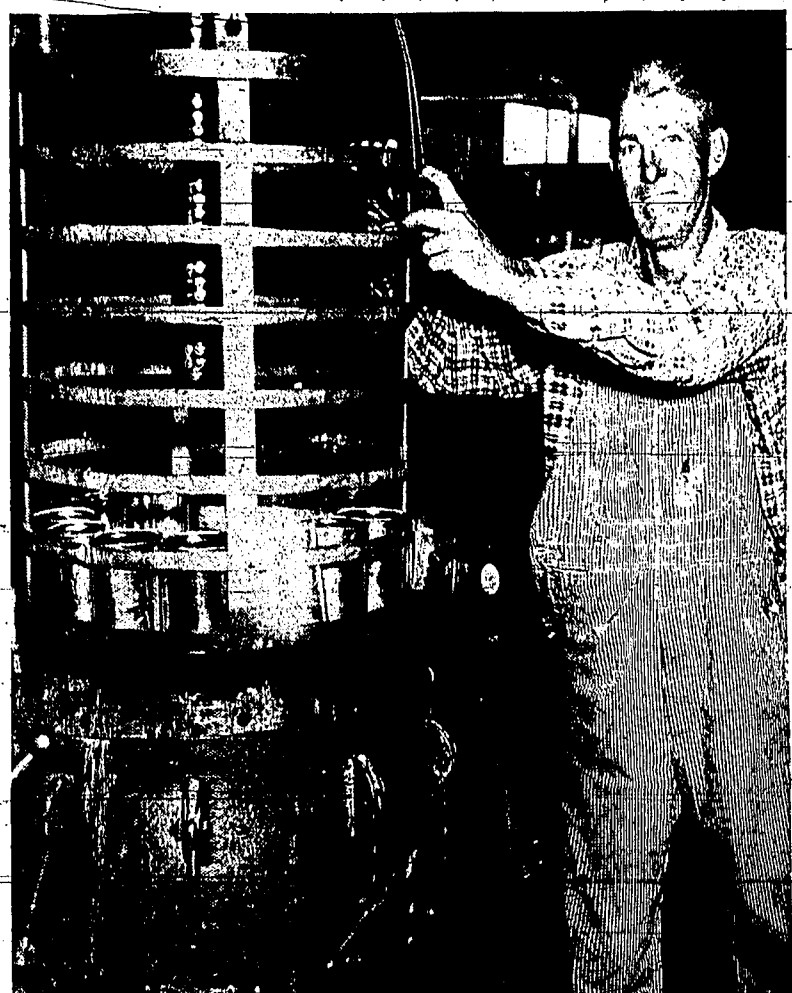

Nearly Became Zoo

The canning kitchen almost turned out to be a zoo. Twin Falls Jaycees casting about for a project 10 years ago sought public opinion through the Pot Shots column in the Times-News. One reader suggested a canning kitchen would be a much better project and others chimed in with their endorsement. Jaycees then asked if the canning kitchen would be preferred to the contemplated zoo. Times-News readers answered by the hundreds, all endorsing the plan for a canning kitchen. Some postcards were received with as many as 20 and 30 signatures, to ask for the canning kitchen.

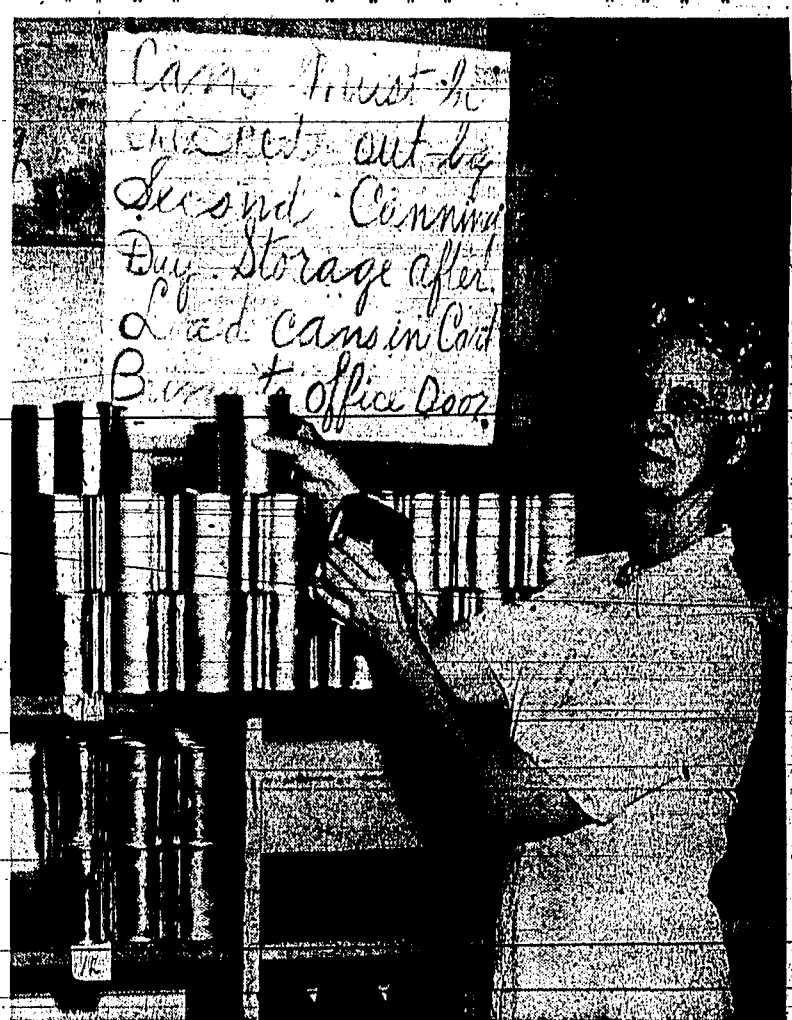

Jaycees didn't follow through on the project, but the Twin Falls Grange, which had aired the idea earlier, came into the picture with J. T. Greed and Harry Nelson leading the way.

The Twin Falls Canning Kitchen was formed and memberships were sold at $5 each with the idea of obtaining enough capital to start the venture. However, memberships were sold fast enough. So preferred stock was purchased by about 22 citizens to provide sufficient capital to start the venture. Mrs. Smith says about $1,275 worth of preferred stock remains to be paid off, but

Sugar Markets Defy Controls; Prices Move Upward in Spite of Regulation

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—The nation's sugar markets haven't been behaving lately the way well-regulated markets are supposed to act.

Prices are supposed to stay steady and stable. But they have been moving up. And more than that, they have been doing this in the face of government efforts to prevent it.

The advance hasn't been great—about five percent—but it has led agriculture department control officials to share their heads with the air of a parent scolding a naughty child.

Sugar is by law under more rigid government control than any other important agricultural commodity. The declared purpose of this law is to protect U. S. sugar producers from cheaper foreign competition and to protect U. S. consumers against unstable prices and supplies.

The domestic sugar market is divided among domestic producers, domestic and foreign producing areas which have historically supplied it. Each is assigned a quota or a share of the market, which is fixed by law.

The agriculture department estimates each year's requirements and then breaks this down among the sharing areas. The estimate is supposed to be one which will meet expected consumer requirements at a price that enables the domestic industry to make a reasonable profit.

This year's requirements were set originally at nine million tons. Supplies come largely from the domestic beet sugar producing area located principally in the Midwest and Far West, the mainland area of Louisiana and Florida, and Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, the Philippines and Cuba.

But the quotas have failed to hold prices at the stable level sought by the department. Things were happening to sugar in other parts of the world. Demand was rising, taking prices along with it. There has been considerable stockpiling in anticipation of possible shortages.

These developments had their repercussions on the domestic market. Those who owned sugar became reluctant to sell, except for rising prices. Little shortages began to develop in domestic consumer markets, particularly in the Northeast.

What was happening was this: Domestic beet sugar processors, who normally supply the bulk of Midwestern and Western markets because of a transportation advantage, were holding back. This led distributors there to reach into the East to get imported cane sugar.

This in turn reduced supplies in the East, which depends almost wholly on imported supplies.

The agriculture department turned to its regulatory powers in an attempt to halt the advance and to fill gaps in market supplies. It increased the quotas 100,000 tons. This was the employment of an economic principle—to halt rising prices, increase the supplies.

It also set aside regulations requiring supplying areas, as well as individual domestic processors, to hold back a designated portion of their quotas until later in the year.

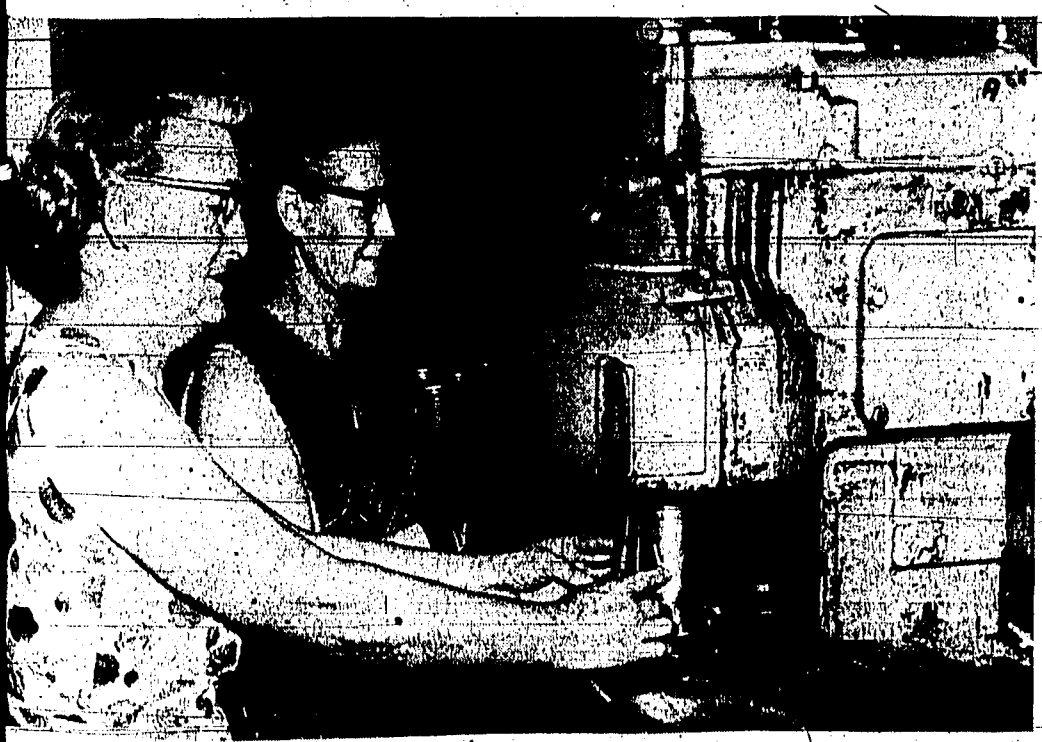

These actions have been followed by a period of relative price stability. But how long this will last, officials were reluctant to forecast. "We don't know when prices might start off on another spree," said one official.

Department officials said the availability of Cuban sugar in recent months has prevented a possible runaway in consumer prices.

Mrs. Leonard and Mrs. Margie Smith, also Twin Falls, scoop beans out of large cooker to fill waiting cans. Strips of pork and onion have been put in cans while beans were cooking. Although cans are filled, process is not completed yet because beans at this stage are not quite done. Final cooking is done after cans have been sealed. (Staff photo-engraving)

Two Machines Used to Seal Full Cans at Kitchen

Mrs. Leonard, left, and Mrs. Smith use one of two machines provided at canning kitchen to seal cans. Both women are assistants at the canning kitchen. Can sealers find use other than canning when friends and relatives pack variety of items, including candy and cigarettes, in cans to send to men serving in the armed forces overseas. Sealed cans are especially useful when items are being sent to servicemen stationed in hot climates. Items are packed into cans, sometimes using such "filler" as popcorn to prevent rattling, before cans are sealed. Persons using this system report items are received overseas in good condition. (Staff photo-engraving)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Alice Lon, singer with Lawrence Welk's orchestra, is responsible for an exceptionally lovely full petticoat.

Miss Simpson read an article about Miss Lon and her many petticoats. She wrote the famous singer and received in return, a personal letter and affection for making a nylon-net petticoat.

Mr. O. Simpson, Miss Simpson's mother, made the alp using nine yards of material. The first tier is cut in a circle to fit the waist and succeeding tiers are gathered on the last tier measuring 48 yards around. Forty-eight yards of ribbon were used around the bottom.

The fitted top circles makes a smooth fit on the hips and then swirls into a very full, gracefully swinging skirt.

John Lenker, the teacher, started the school in 1907 after going to SHOSHONE and informing the county commissioners that he was qualified to teach. He had arrived in Richfield short of funds and unable to find work. Thus, the first public school in Richfield was founded because a man needed a job.

Pope recalls four different school buildings before the town finally decided to build a new four-room rock school which is part of the present Richfield grade school building. The first school, which originally was one of a barracks for 64 hotel beds, was located on Lincoln avenue, or the center of the present Main street. Later classes

Wayne E. Likens' glasses fared much better than he did in a car accident near Jerome recently.

The driver of the car pulled to the side of a road, thinking an oncoming car was too close to the center. In attempting to pull back on the road, the car turned over and Likens' HANSEN resident, was pinned inside. He received a severe head blow, bruises and cuts and was hospitalized for a few days without his glasses.

Upon his release from the hospital, he went to the scene of the accident and found his glasses some 40 feet from where the car rolled over. They were intact. He just put them on and wore them as they were.

Likens says he thinks the safety belt he and his friend had fastened around them in the car saved them from serious injury.

Linda Regua and Virgil Frees were scrobbles, Lance Cantrell, Bonnie Lauer and Virgil Frees were clowns, Lynn Regua and Gary Regua boxed and Mickey Cantrell and Gary Regua wrestled. Dwayne Walker served as the circus fat man.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"Picking Fruit"

By HAROLD DILLMAN
(Pastor, Southern Baptist Church)

We have some friends who live in the country who have a few fruit trees on their place and when I go to their place now I keep looking at that tree of cherries that is about ripe enough to pick. Oh, I could pick the fruit now, but it would not taste right. So if I wait a while longer—it will be much better for me both in a satisfying and in the ability of storing some for future use.

Of course, this is not the only fruit on the place; and some of the other fruit is better for storage—because of the type of fruit. But the fruit that I want to consider now is the one mentioned in our scripture text. There are nine different types of fruit listed here and each of them affects each of us differently.

First, there is the fruit of love. This is one of the most attractive to the human eye of any. It seems to be so large and has such a beautiful color; and most of us have been tempted to pick it for our own personal satisfaction. Some pull the fruit and then just play with it rather than let it become of any benefit to them. You may have had the experience of becoming a part in such an affair. Usually you regret having had any part in an affair of this kind.

Somewhat I see people who trifle with the love of God just like some do the love of their fellow-people. God offers to give us His love, with the only requirement that our love be returned to Him.

Ordinarily when a young man falls in love with a beautiful maiden he will promise her that he will do almost what she wants of him if she will only receive him and his love for her, and if it is true love he tries to keep his promise for the rest of his life.

So it is with God. He extends the offer of His love to us with many promises, all of which he will keep. The assurance of this is the fact that He has never broken any promise yet that He has made—and there are about 3,000 of them in His Word. He asks us to receive Him to the extent that He becomes a part of our lives just like any other lover. Pick this fruit to taste of the most satisfying of anything you have ever experienced.

The second fruit we want to pick today is that of joy. This seems to be the object of almost every person on earth. Only the sour, skeptical kind don't want joy. Some people have joy in gathering money; others have joy in excluding others from their lives as they exclude themselves in a spot undisturbed by the world.

Yes, there are many ways in which people seek joy. But it seems that this type is not completely satisfying. The true joy that the Bible speaks of is that which comes after we have received the love of God. We must have God in our hearts in order to have the joy or peace that passeth all understanding. We can't understand it, neither can we explain it, but it gives to us the contentment that we have been looking for.

And that last one we want to pick today is that of faith. When you received faith in God really what did you get? Your faith in Him depends upon your estimate and perspective of the creator of all. Do you ask of Him things worthy of a God who has all power. Or do you ask Him to help you do only the things that any person can do?

Do you see a God who is supernatural who will perform supernatural works within your life and others? Our faith in our Master is limited by the picture we have of Him. Is he great enough to do marvelous things for you and others, or is He as small as you are? Eat of His fruit, for He has a marvelous orchard for your use.

But How Can EDUCATED People Be Catholics?

Some "intellectuals" reject the Catholic belief in Christ.

Jesus, they say, was a mere man—not God. Some of them acknowledge that He was a great teacher and rank Him with Buddha, Mohammed, Confucius and Moses. A few even claim that no such Person as Jesus Christ ever lived, and that the entire structure called Christianity is founded upon a myth.

While refusing to believe the Scriptures to be of divine origin, some of these educated people embrace Christianity because they feel that its moral laws are good for society.

The service of the Christian religion," declared one of these doubters, "and my own faith in essential Christianity, would not be diminished one iota if it should in some way be discovered that no such individual as Jesus ever lived." They are, in other words, willing to accept Christ's religion—but not Christ Himself.

It is ridiculous, of course, to suggest that the Catholic religion is the religion of the ignorant. For millions of educated people... and many of the world's most distinguished scholars, philosophers and scientists... have been devout Catholics. But discounting this fact, there is abundant evidence to support the Catholic teaching concerning Jesus.

It is to be found in the Four Gospels, in which the real Jesus is revealed to us. "But," argue some educated unbelievers, "you are assuming that the Four Gospels are an authentic recording of the life and teaching of Jesus Christ. We refuse to believe this."

The "intellectuals" are, of course, being anything but intellectual in taking this position. For there is more abundant proof of the genuineness of the Gospels than there is to support other historical records which scholars accept without question. References to and quotations from the Four Gospels date back as far as the first century of the Christian era—and are found in writings contemporary with the Apostles and the first Christians.

We will be happy to send you in a plain wrapper, without cost or obligation, an interesting pamphlet explaining... Why you can believe the Gospels... How the Gospels were written... Who discarded the Gospels... Why educated and intelligent people should accept Christ and His Church. And nobody will call on you. Write today—ask for Pamphlet No. KC-17.

YOUR POWER SUPPLY Hangs In The Balance

The people of southern Idaho and eastern Oregon must face this fact:

A Severe Power Shortage Is Immediately Ahead

It is likely to begin this year. The total capacity of Idaho Power's system—plus the costly steam power we have been buying from Utah—may not be enough even during this summer's peak of high demand for electricity.

The power supply situation will be worse next year—of that we are sure. The demand will be higher, and the power available from Utah this year will be cut in half next year, and will be non-existent in 1959. After that, disaster to the economy if the Brownlee project doesn't go on the line on schedule followed by Oxbow and Hells Canyon.

These are alarming statements. Unfortunately, they are true.

There Is No Source of Power in the Pacific Northwest

—nor can plants of any kind be built in time—to prevent a "brown-out" in this entire area if Brownlee is further delayed.

For nearly ten long years, Idaho Power has been waging a battle against time—hampered and obstructed every step of the way by people who have no concern or interest in the welfare of people in this area—to prevent what is happening today.

We have quadrupled the supply of electricity in the past ten years because our customers needed it and have used it. This rapid growth, which has supplied new industries, new homes, new businesses and new farms has sparked the economic welfare of everyone.

The next ten years demand another quadrupling of electric power, and therein is wrapped the growth this area will achieve—unless it is blighted by our inability to provide it. Here is another stark fact:

This Is Not an Overstatement Of the Problem

The proposed federal dam at Hells Canyon cannot put any power on the line in less than six years—cannot be completed in less than eight years. To put the first unit on the line would require at least four years from the start of construction. Its authorization, appropriations, engineering planning and letting of contracts would require a minimum of two years.

In the meantime, from the present date to 1963 or later, the need for power will literally be multiplied by three or four times. The area will suffer accordingly.

It can be solved in only one way—by community and individual action. Idaho Power can be like a voice crying in the wilderness if it were to stand alone. But you, our customers—who are most vitally affected—can make your voice heard.

A small effort will not suffice. You must state your case in great volume to the Congress of the United States.

WRITE TODAY
—to members of the House of Representatives. The time is very short.

Better Metals For Headgate Being Sought

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, July 6—Special research designed to find metal combinations that will give longer service life in control gates on southern Idaho irrigation and flood control dams is under way at the University of Idaho engineering experiment station.

The tests are financed by a $5,000 grant from the Walla Walla district of the U. S. army corps of engineers, reports Dean Allen S. Jansen of the college of engineering.

"The study deals with the bearing properties of some bronzes and stainless steel under load without lubrication," explains O. O. Warnick, assistant director of the engineering experiment station. The project is under his supervision.

The problem was created by the surface failure of some of the metal seats and bearing surfaces on the slide gate installation of a government dam in southern Idaho. The engineering tests will simulate the loading and conditions of motion between the sliding surfaces, both wet and dry, in an attempt to discover the best combination of metals for this application.

"By finding other combinations of metals than those now used it is hoped that the problem can be eliminated."

The project is being conducted by Harold Ames of the mechanical engineering department, assisted by Edwin Anderson of Coeur d'Alene, senior in that department. Veri Garrard of the chemistry department is chemically analyzing metal samples for alloy content.

Cherry Canning Season Just Starting

Mrs. W. F. Potter, left, and her daughter, LaWynn, wash cherries in preparation for canning them. The cherry canning season is just starting at the Twin Falls Canning Kitchen. Mrs. Edna Smith, kitchen manager, anticipates the kitchen will have to remain open at least another day each week by the third week in July to handle the volume of cherries. (Staff photo-Engraving) she anticipates it will be paid this year.

Memberships are still being sold to the cooperative at $5 each. The kitchen has some 800 members. After the original purchase, there is no further assessment or costs to members.

However, non-members are charged an additional penny a can for use of the kitchen facilities.

Mrs. Smith was elected to the board of directors at the first meeting and also was named manager. She has been manager ever since. Along with Mrs. Smith, who acts as secretary, the other members of the five-member board are I. T. Creed, chairman; James Busby, vice chairman; M. Z. Stansbury and Mrs. Lloyd Sharp.

Assisting Mrs. Smith in operation of the kitchen are Mrs. Goldie Leonard, 747 Locust street, a seven-year veteran of canning work; Mrs. Margie Smith, 195 Van Buren street, and Robert Hodge, Jerome, who has been on the job five years.

Highest production attained by the four-person staff was in August last year when the kitchen turned out some 5,000 cans of green beans. Mrs. Smith estimates value of the Twin Falls Canning Kitchen at about $12,000. Equipment includes three steam kettles and eight re-ports or pressure cookers. Lines of sinks have been installed along the walls and down the center of the kitchen and big tables provide ample working space.

In the words of one member, the kitchen "almost changes canning into fun. And my kitchen at home never gets mused up during canning season any more!"

Fairfield Man Is Blast Spectator

FAIRFIELD, July 6—Max Hanson, Fairfield, was one of the 60 people with civil defense responsibility or interest invited by the federal civil defense administration who witnessed what may have been the largest atomic test shot ever detonated in the United States.

This was the sixth shot of the current test series and the second of nine scheduled "open" shots in which the FODA will have observers. "Hood" was fired from a balloon 1,500 feet in the air, more than twice as high as any previous balloon shot.

INITIATION DISCUSSED
HOLLISTER, July 6—The Sizzor-ettes Tuesday discussed holding a candlelighting initiation with three other 4-H clubs in Hollister but no decision was reached. Delores Mills gave a demonstration. The next meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. July 15 at the Grange hall.

Dandruff of Scalp Rates High as Health Nuisance

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, MD.

Written for NEA Service

Dandruff of the scalp must be one of the most common health nuisances in our society.

No matter how often I write on this subject—I continue to receive a great deal of correspondence asking for more.

Incidentally, I prefer to call it a nuisance because it constitutes no danger to general health. It does sometimes cause itching of the scalp and it probably speeds the loss of hair in some instances. Furthermore, the shedding of dandruff on the hair and clothing often creates a problem of personal appearance.

I do not know whether dandruff is more frequent today. There is some possibility that this is the case. If so, possible factors include the greater use of barber shops and beauty salons where dandruff seems to be sometimes picked up from combs or brushes.

There are many reasons for believing that dandruff is, at least in part, the result of some infection. However, it has not been possible to agree on any single germ as the cause.

It is almost impossible to avoid dandruff. Nearly all of us have at one time or another developed dandruff and have found that once acquired it is difficult to cure. One thinks it is gone and then if some illness develops or one gets overtired it comes back worse than ever.

Care in avoiding combs and brushes used by others is about all that can be done to try to prevent dandruff. So far as treatment is concerned there are many things which can be done.

The general health should be kept up. Fresh air and exercise, tonics, nutritious foods and anything else which contribute to health may not cure dandruff, but are often suggested as measures which may keep it from getting worse.

President's Aide Sees Cycle Riding as Part of Big Task

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Every morning, Shane MacCarthy leaps from his bed and hurries away for an early workout on his bicycle. Undoubtedly MacCarthy is the only member of President Eisenhower's official family for whom an early morning spin is, at least indirectly, a part of his job. MacCarthy is executive director of the President's council on youth fitness. And since he firmly believes in setting an example of fitness—not only for youth in general, but for his five sons in particular—this ride combines duty, pleasure and research.

As he cycles along MacCarthy considers such matters as: Why should laws prohibit cycling on sidewalks? Particularly since so few persons walk on them nowadays? Why shouldn't certain streets, right in the heart of town, be set aside for play areas during all but the rush hours? Why aren't parking areas at big shopping centers used for tennis.

WAY BETTER TO HAVE TWO PRESCRIPTIONS FILLED? IVE GOT SOME MEDICINE AT HOME THAT HELPED ME...

THANKS A LOT... BUT MEDICINE IS ABOUT THE ONLY THING I WANT TO BORROW!

DRUGS

Anyone offering to share a medicine with a friend does so, of course, with the kindest of intentions. But this practice is risky... and the only sensible thing to do is to steer clear of all such offers.

Sometimes you might be tempted to "borrow" medicine. Your friend's symptoms were just like yours and you've been given... or at least think you've been given... the same prescription. So why let that leftover medicine go to waste?

But, as your doctor will tell you, similar symptoms don't always indicate the same trouble. Joint pains aren't necessarily signs of arthritis, and chest pains don't always mean heart trouble.

Even if two people happen to have the same illness necessitating the use of the same drug, it still would be hazardous to use another's prescription. For drugs come in many strengths and many forms... and the prescription that is right for someone else may be wrong for you. Then, too, some drugs lose their effectiveness within a few weeks or months after the original prescription is filled.

So don't let well-meaning friends keep you from getting the full benefit of your doctor's counsel and the medicines he prescribes. Seeking professional medical advice—and then following it—may well turn out to be one of the really big bargains of your life.—Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company, Detroit 32, Michigan.
