

Reds Hurdled Backward in Tibet Efforts

By United Press

Communism has been thrown for a big loss in Tibet.

The Chinese reds who invaded the Himalayan country in 1950 have confessed that it is not ready for the Marxist way of life.

Consequently, the Peking government is withdrawing most if not all of its occupation troops and many of its civilian personnel.

Tibet will remain under Chinese sovereignty. But Tibetan troops are repelling red troops in the cities and Tibetan officials are administering the country's internal affairs.

China always has claimed sovereignty over Tibet, nestled 15,000 feet high in the Himalayan mountains.

But the Manchus and the nationalists who succeeded them never moved to exert the control they claimed.

The Chinese communists finally got around to asserting their claim to sovereignty in October, 1950. To the dismay of "neutralist" Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India, the communists invaded Tibet in force.

They announced that they intended to inaugurate in Tibet a "golden era" with all the blessings of communism.

After some determined opposition, largely by hastily-organized guerrilla bands, the reds overran the capital and occupied Lhasa, the capital.

But there were persistent uprisings in the provinces. In the cities officials did everything they could to make the invaders aware that they were unwelcome.

Partly because of their friendliness to the Chinese thought it unwise to get too rough.

Chinese communist Premier Chou En-lai visited India last December.

The two joint rulers of Tibet, the Dalai Lama and the Panchen Lama, visited India there also. They demanded that China take home its occupation troops.

Chou promised to consider it.

The two lamas are the temporal and spiritual rulers of Tibet, which technically is a theocracy. Under the lamaist religion, an offshoot of Buddhism, they are considered divine.

In April, the Chinese troop commander in Lhasa announced that Tibet would not be included in the next red Chinese five-year plan of development, which starts next January 1.

He said that any "reforms" would be undertaken only with the consent of the Tibetan people.

About the same time, reports started seeping into Katmandu, the capital of neighboring Nepal, that the Chinese troops had started to pull out.

Timber Crops

Now Balanced With Harvest

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The forestry industry claimed today that wide adoption of proper management practices has brought the nation's tree production into balance with tree cutting for the first time in the 20th century.

A report issued by the American Forest Products Industries credited this to a "tree farm" movement started 16 years ago. Under this movement, owners of forestry land reseeded and re-planted overland as soon as timber is removed.

The movement also is encouraging an estimated 4½ million small landowners to start growing trees for future sale.

The report said the industry is using more and more technically trained foresters to manage woodlands and to plant long-range timber operations. It said that more than 7,000 foresters were employed in the forest industries last year and that the number is increasing this year. In addition, approximately 1,200 foresters were said to be engaged as consultants or as managers for private nonindustrial woodlands.

The report said the wood-using and tree-growing industries have extended yield into the 21st century and are planning production to meet the anticipated needs.

SOS Believed to Have Been Hoax

NORFOLK, Va., July 23 (AP)—Search for a ship reported sinking after a collision was called off by the coast guard at 2 p. m. yesterday.

A spokesman said, "We assume it was a hoax."

Small ships reported Sunday night they heard a radio message—"SOS, SOS, sinking fast in collision." The message included the call letters "CLPH," which indicated, the coast guard said, that the message was sent by a ship of Cuban registry.

Drugs Found

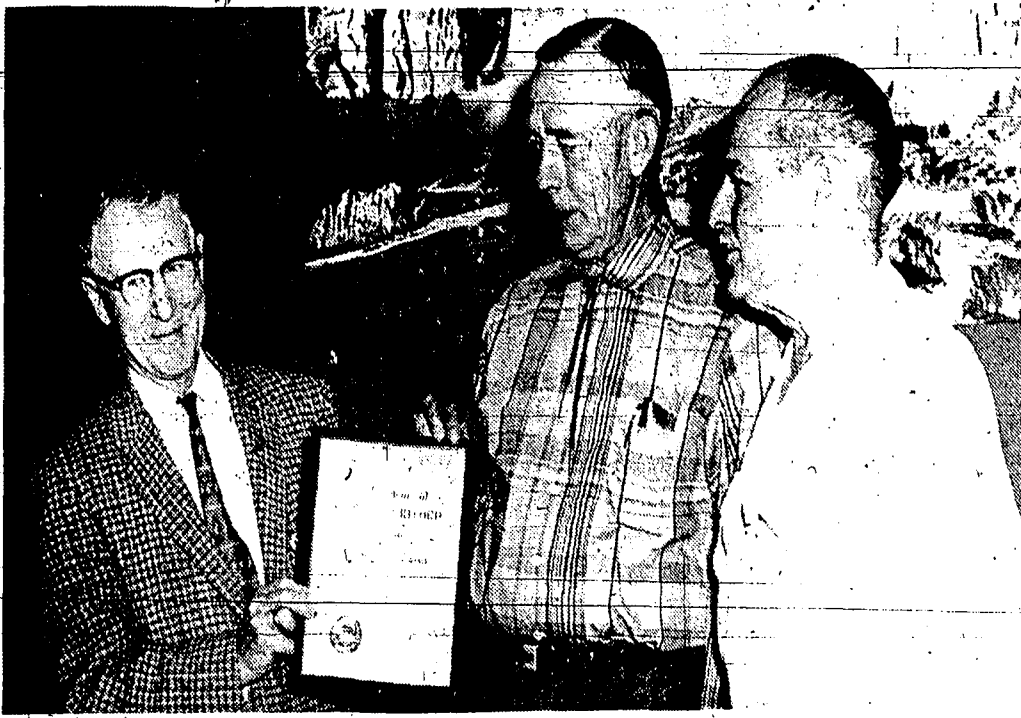

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla., July 23 (AP)—A heroin cache described as the largest found in the United States in "many years" was seized last night aboard a French freighter by federal agents.

Merrill D. White, U. S. customs collector for Florida, estimated value of the powdered narcotic at $700,000.

Award Presented for Pedestrian Safety in 1956

H. H. Barrington, left, representing the Idaho State Automobile association, presents an "excellence of pedestrian record for 1956" award to City Commissioner J. Ted Davis, center, and Police Chief Howard Gillette, right, Monday night at the regular commission meeting. The city had no pedestrian traffic fatalities during 1956. This was the third year the city has received the award. The 1957 record was marred a month ago by the death of 3-year-old Terry Lynn Koepnick. (Staff photo-engraving)

Library Increases Number of Books, Readership Dip Noted

Although there was a substantial increase in the total number of books gained at the Twin Falls public library during the fiscal year of 1956 there was a five per cent decrease in readership, Arthur L. DeVolder, librarian, reported to Twin Falls city commissioners Monday night.

In a written summary report on the library's activities from July 1, 1956, to June 30, 1957, DeVolder stated the present collection in the library, exclusive of pamphlets, pictures and related materials, now stands at 34,699, a gain of 1,225 books over last year's final total of 33,374.

Book circulation for the year, DeVolder reported, was $2,221, a decrease of five per cent from last year's circulation.

During the year 1,935 adult books and 472 juvenile books were added to the library collection. Of these items 613 adult and 11 juvenile books were donations.

A total of 1,183 volumes were withdrawn as missing over a period of years and 10 per cent were listed as books charged to persons who have moved elsewhere. The remaining 40 per cent, he said, were worn out or out-dated.

Magazines received by the library total 180 with 60 of these being gift subscriptions. This is a gain of 10 subscriptions. Newspaper subscriptions total 13 of which 11 are purchases and two are gifts.

Registrations for the year totaled 1,618. DeVolder stated a total of 898 of these new registrations are adults and 720 are juveniles. At present, he reported, the library has a total registration of readers of 10,918.

Miscellaneous receipts from fines and collections, country registrations and the pay shelf totaled $2,630.67 or 86 cents less than in 1956, the librarian reported.

DeVolder said unusually high maintenance expenses were encountered by the library during the fiscal year. This included, he stated, the replacement of hot water pipes in the building. Other major repairs included re-roofing the building and painting the periodical room.

He states that "expenditures for all categories of general fund disbursements were kept at a minimum but rising costs in all purchases were reflected throughout the year."

"All operational costs, with the exception of salaries, were up six to eight per cent," DeVolder stated.

In his report DeVolder suggests a new salary scale be studied to make wages, especially for semi-professional employees, "more equitable to those of city employees and teachers."

With the rising costs of living the present salary scale is not commensurate with the salaries paid other persons with equal educational training," the librarian stated.

Professional personnel at the library, he stated, includes the librarian, two part-time catalogers, and a part-time children's librarian. Semi-professional employees consist of a children's librarian and circulation-reference librarian who have had library degree work in addition to their normal college degrees.

Future plans for the library include improvement in electric light fixtures. He says the maintenance of the building calls for painting the remainder of the building interior.

New equipment added to the library during the past fiscal year, DeVolder reported, included a catalog case for the children's room at a cost of $304. He said the Boruphism club donated an auto-page book return at a cost of $265 and the Twentieth Century club purchased drapes for the projected youth room as well as a four-sectional steel book stack at a total cost of approximately $500.

The Idaho inspection concludes the group's tour of atomic energy commission plants in the United States. Members are from Belgium, France, West Germany, Italy, Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

Professor Named Department Head

CALDWELL, July 23 (AP)—Dr. Lee Underhill of Mt. Pleasant, Ia., has been named head of the philosophy and religion department at College of Idaho, school officials said today.

Dr. Underhill will replace Dr. James L. Martin, who resigned to join the faculty of Denison university in Ohio.

Marines Injured

LAKEHURST, N. J., July 23 (AP)—Six marines were injured fighting a roaring forest fire which threatened a housing development and two factories before it was brought under control early today.

The blaze consumed 1,000 acres of parched scrub pine and hardwood.

Chinese Reds Clamping Lid On Criticisms

HONG KONG, July 23 (AP)—Did Chinese communist leader Mao Tse-tung speak from the heart or merely bait a trap when he invited criticism of his regime?

Mao's publications say he was baiting a trap. Diplomats here believe he really wanted an intellectual controversy, but miscalculated how many Chinese intellectuals were ranged against him.

In a speech last February which was made public outside China only recently, Mao said in inviting criticism, "Let a hundred flowers bloom."

Mostly Thorns

Many more than 100 bloomed and Mao got more thorns than bouquets. The criticism poured forth in such a stream that Mao had to shut it off.

The Peking People's Daily, speaking for Mao's red regime, said on two occasions in July that Mao had issued his invitations to Chinese to express their opinions to set a trap. It was a device, the paper said, to show how "rightist" opponents of the regime were hurting the nation.

The object, it said, was to spotlight the opposition and then destroy it. Diplomatic quarters here are convinced, however, that Mao has used this "trap baiting" argument to cover up a mistake and to "take credit" for unearthing opponents of communism.

The diplomats believe Mao had expected only minor charges from a small number of opponents. The bitterness and volume of the criticism surprised the red leaders.

Taking Risk

Had Mao anticipated such outspoken attacks, he would never have permitted public denunciations, according to these diplomats. It was risky to let the masses hear criticism of the regime.

The regime's replies to its critics have seemed off-the-cuff, indicating Mao had no planned reply to answer the attacks.

Mao's invitation and the unexpected response have barred anew that there is unrest in China. A large "middle-of-the-road" group exists in the country — men who have not yet sided with communism, men to whom both the government and dissenters have been making strong appeals.

'Ike' Reported Unhappy With Aid Proposals

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—House Republican Leader Martin said today President Eisenhower is "not entirely satisfied" with the 1.2-billion-dollar school aid bill but probably would accept it if congress passes the measure.

Martin said, however, that "the outlook is not too good" for passage by congress of the compromise measure.

The Massachusetts Republican spoke with newsmen at the White House after he and other GOP congressional leaders had held their weekly conference with Eisenhower.

Five-Year Plan

The house bill would provide federal funds to the states for school construction over the next five years. It differs in several respects from an administration bill which would provide $1,200,000,000 in grants to the states over a four-year period.

There was no indication after today's meeting that Eisenhower would wage a personal campaign in favor of the school bill. Some members of congress have been saying he would have to do so to get the bill passed.

Martin said he didn't know whether Eisenhower would play an "active role" in trying to get the bill enacted.

"While he is not entirely satisfied with the legislation as it comes out of the education committee, he regards it as a start," Martin said.

May Try Revision

Martin apparently meant the administration could try to revise the program in later years once it was adopted.

He said he couldn't "predict with any certainty" that Republicans would support the present measure.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland, who also talked with reporters after the White House meeting, did not list the school aid bill among the legislative proposals which he said probably will come before the senate after it concludes its civil rights debate.

He said the sentence of four months at hard labor, a $200 fine and reduction in rank was out of proportion with the alleged crime.

The conviction and sentence will get an automatic review here, Sprung said that if he was not satisfied with the results of this he would take the matter to Washington.

Wheeler was charged by his commanding officer, Lieut. William Short, Seattle, Wash., with disobeying orders May 24 by refusing to get his head shaved on the sides and cropped close on top.

Short testified that all members of the honor guard at the Far East United Nations command headquarters in Tokyo, to which Wheeler was assigned, were supposed to get the haircuts for the sake of uniformity.

Wheeler balked. He said it would make him look "ridiculous... Idiotic... like a shaved jackass."

The court martial board, composed of four officers, took four sessions to hear all the evidence.

The air force went to great pains to emphasize that the issue did not concern haircuts at all, but deliberate disobedience of an officer's orders by an enlisted man.

The prosecutor, First Lieut. William D. Bridgen, Kings Tree, S. C., told the court in his summation that if Wheeler had disobeyed an order in the Chinese communist army "he would probably now be rotting in some ditch."

"The men who have fought for our country at Valley Forge, Pearl Harbor, France and Germany did not disobey orders," he said.

RFC'S LIVELY CORPSE

It was to laugh, the other day, when they took down the sign of the reconstruction finance corporation to celebrate the fact that it was now officially dead.

RFC was ordered killed by congress as of June 30, 1954. Three years later it still hasn't stopped breathing. There are around 100 employees trying to settle the estate. It consists of 80 million dollars' worth of loans and properties the government can't get rid of yet. But that's the least of it.

RFC left half a dozen heirs who are still in business at the same old stands. They have a combined lending authority of between 20 and 25 billion dollars. But instead of curtailing this business, congress is now considering a number of measures which would increase it.

For instance, small business. RFC got into the small business loans in 1934. Its portfolio was turned over to small business administration when it was created as a "temporary" agency in 1953. Since then SBA has lent some 350 million dollars.

But the house recently passed a bill to increase SBA's lending authority to 500 million, to lower its maximum interest rate from 6 to 5 per cent—even in this tight money market—and to make it a permanent agency.

That's liquidating 'em with a vengeance.

Then take the case of federal national mortgage association, an RFC sired child known familiarly as Fannie Mae. RFC sired this one to provide a market for federal housing administration mortgages which in the late 1930's couldn't be sold by lenders.

Fannie Mae was set up in business for herself in 1950. Today she owns more than 400,000 FHA and veterans administration mortgages worth around 3.5 billion dollars.

But congress has just passed a new housing bill which will increase Fannie Mae's lending authority by 900 million dollars. This is 580 million more than the administration asked.

And for special mortgage loans, congress has provided additional lines of credit totaling 425 million dollars.

The department of agriculture's commodity credit corporation offers an example of how another RFC boy grew and is still growing. The government's agricultural loan program began in 1953 when RFC set up CCC with a mere three-million-dollar capital to make 10-cents-a-pound loans to distressed cotton farmers.

Today CCC has 14.5 billion lending authority with 134 billion in loans outstanding. Eight billion of this is in farm surpluses. To help unload them, congress has now authorized a billion-dollar increase for the farm surplus disposal program during the next two years. If CCC needs additional money to finance these deals, it will unquestionably be provided by congress in a deficiency appropriation.

RFC provided the first money and helped set up the export-import bank in 1934. It was to make dollar credit available to foreign governments wanting to buy U. S. exports. The underlying aim was to build up American exports in the depression. RFC itself also made some foreign loans in the war.

But the restrictions on these loans made it necessary to set up softer lines of credit as the United States shifted from grants to loans under the foreign aid program.

So congress has now tentatively authorized 500 million dollars as the first year's contribution to a new two-billion-dollar revolving fund. This will enable the international co-operation administration to expand the foreign loan program.

RFC's strategic materials programs have been largely transferred to the general services administration, which now maintains a seven-billion-dollar stockpile.

RFC's disaster loans have been transferred to the small business administration, agriculture, federal housing administration, the president's emergency fund and other agencies.

No new increases in funds have been asked for these last two for the coming year. But for the others, the government is asking over four billion dollars in new lending authority, with a probable outlay of around a billion for next year. Even if RFC is officially dead and buried.

BAW, BAA

Nikita Khrushchev, on location in Czechoslovakia, livened up his comments with some figures of speech, as if he were trying to steal Sir Winston Churchill's platform laurels.

Discussing the big ouster of Malenkov, Molotov, et al, the Russian Communist party boss said: "We had some black sheep in a good herd. They thought they would take over power and you know how it ended. We took the black sheep by the tail and threw them out."

Nikita may have thought this all very colorful, and rather dramatically put.

But to those of us on the outside who have paid some little attention to the doings of the Kremlin in Stalin's time and since, the real question seems to be whether there are in fact any white sheep at all in the herd.

From this distance they all seem to be wearing matching black.

A girl won an oratorical contest in a western college. That doesn't sound so good for the man she marries.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—The politically-minded and experienced man around President Eisenhower has begun to court vast blocs of the electorate almost as actively and outrageously as PDR and James A. Farley ever did. And these ballot-box operators are so close to Ike that he obviously encourages this attempt to strengthen the Party for the 1958-1960 elections.

Indeed, they are operating along Farley lines. That skilled political promoter enunciated his strategy in the early Roosevelt years. It was only necessary, he said, to win and hold labor, colored and other-racial elements, which had previously been regarded as Republican in their voting.

Roosevelt and he were so successful in formation of this motley coalition that they kept the Democrats in power for 20 years. They might still rule the White House as well as congress if a popular hero like Eisenhower had not come along. But the GOP planners realize that they must prepare now for his departure from the political scene.

BOLD BID FOR VOTES—Under the guidance of Attorney General Brownell, an old political hand at Albany, the administration has made a bold bid for the colored vote, as well as for the support of all racial minorities—Puerto Ricans, Indians and other groups which sometimes suffer from some kind of discrimination. Their concentration in great cities makes them a powerful influence at the polls.

These elements began to show their appreciation of the Warren decision on school segregation in 1956 when Ike increased his 1952 margins in their areas. When the NAACP and its auxiliaries became highly critical when the administration made no move to implement that ruling with executive or legislative action, Ike has made amends with his demand for passage of the civil rights bill in its original form, and without adoption of Southern Democrats' curative amendments. Even at the risk of endangering favorable action, and after some uncertainty of his own, the President appears determined to force a test and a showdown on his more extreme measure.

DULLES TAKES STRONGER STAND AGAINST NASSER—Even foreign policy has taken a political twist with the obvious attempt to win back the Jewish vote. Secretary Dulles has taken a stronger stand against Nasser. He has declared publicly for Israel's right to navigate the Gulf of Aqaba, even if it alienates King Saud of Arabia.

He has resumed—or soon will—shipment of arms and funds to Tel Aviv, lifting the blockade he imposed after the attack on Egypt. Max Rabb, White House aide handling racial minority problems, co-operates with Dulles in this delicate field.

APPEAL TO LABOR—The GOP is also pitching a direct appeal to labor, whose bosses support of Stevenson did not prevent the rank-and-file from shifting to Ike in 1956.

Labor Secretary John P. Mitchell, an expert public relations man, has won the respect and praise of many union officials for his fair handling of their problems. He further satisfied them when he announced possible revision of the Taft-Hartley act next year. They do not expect him to seek to strengthen the features they despise in a congressional election year.

With the exceptions of two anti-Eisenhower men—Senators Goldwater of New Mexico and Mundt of South Dakota—Republicans are taking only a small part in the McClellan investigation of labor racketeering. They are content to leave the leading roles to Senator McClellan and the two Kennedys in an inquiry which many labor spokesmen now suspect and condemn.

HALL CRITICIZED FOR NEGLECTING YOUNG REPUBLICANS—Rightly or wrongly, Democrats complain that the Republicans are proselyting the youth vote. And it is a fact that National Chairman Wendell A. Hall has addressed more young Republican audiences than his predecessor, former Chairman Leonard A. Hall was criticized for his neglect of them.

Finally, Ike himself has moved to appease conservative critics of his management of finances. To the chagrin of Democratic economists, he has ordered department heads to spend less money than he had asked congress to appropriate for fiscal 1958. This reversal of policy appears to have been dictated by political rather than financial considerations.

POSSIBILITY ONLY

A fishing hole is a place that can be reached conveniently by auto. It's a place where you should be able to drive right up to the edge of the water. A nice grassy area immediately adjacent to the water is nice, but not deemed a necessity. However, it's absolutely essential that the area is equipped with plenty of sand.

The air should be pure and there should be ample quantities of it, particularly to assure the health and welfare of great crowds of mosquitoes. These insects, by the way, are extremely hungry all the time.

Water of this fishing hole can vary greatly. It can be murky, clear or even muddy. But to make a proper fishing hole, it should be of considerable depth so as to provide ample space for the great hordes of fish various fishermen expect to take from it in the course of a season.

On the bottom of this fishing hole is a great variety of items. There should be quantities of broken glass, empty beer bottles and salmon eggs, a variety of cans, a worn-out shoe or two and perhaps three or four old shoes and an old boot. In addition, there must be a jumble of rocks, two or three old stumps and a number of trees. These last are absolutely essential to snag all sorts of fishing gear.

There's another element, that's nice to have in this fishing hole, but it isn't absolutely essential: Fish.

Once in a while, Pot Shots reads some other part of the T-N, the comics, for example. Make no mistake—comics aren't confined to the comic page.

Recently there was something or other about "rabble-rousers." The term was used in connection with some people charged with the responsibility of keeping the public informed through the columns of the T-N. When folks start bandying words like "rabble" we always have to turn to an old friend, Mr. Webster. That worthy lists "riffraff" as a synonym for "rabble."

We know what that "riffraff" means and that knocks this business of "rabble-rouser" right smack in the head. There are no Rabble (or riffraff) among you Good Constituents. Occasionally there may be one or two, but they don't pay their bills and the carriers cut 'em off, but quick.

U.S. COULD COPY

In the news today is a little item about someone contending some sort of company known as General Motors has made something like 17 million bucks in excess profits. Naturally, folks are quite interested in any company that can make 17 millions "excess" profits, let alone profit.

But a guy by the name of F. Edward Hebert (pronounced "A-Bear") walks away with the fur-lined bathing suit. The gent, who happens to be a U. S. representative from Louisiana, says, "It looks to me like General Motors is trying to be bigger than the U. S. government."

He might be right, at that.

And if these guys don't get too nasty, GM might even show 'em how they should run the largest of all "big business"—the U. S. government.

COVER THOSE LEGS

The stocking industry is sagging.

And, according to the Wall Street Journal, manufacturers are rolling up forces of the advertising industry to combat the "barelegged attitude" of women and to reestablish leg consciousness.

One aim is to step up promotion campaigns to shame stockless women, put more bobby-sox girls in long hose and convince the ladies colored hosiery is the thing.

Hosiery producers acknowledge ruefully that the social pressure to wear stockings has been declining since World War II when women got out of the habit of donning hosiery. At one time if a woman failed to have on hosiery she was likely to be judged unfashionable, in poor taste or even a little immoral, said one spokesman. This social code is waning. Even ladies go without hosiery in hot weather.

Colored hosiery is on the style horizon and a big campaign is under way to convince women they need a variety of stockings to match accessories. This is to offset the effects of merchandising hosiery so sheer and natural colored that the legs looked bare.

We wish the stocking industry luck in its comeback drive. But remembering how the gals painted their legs to resemble hosiery during the war years, we're not sure colored hosiery is the answer. And what about all the wearers of pedal-pushers and bull-fighter pants?—Salt Lake Tribune.

SHARP CONTRAST

It is widely believed that just about all farmers and farm organizations are enthusiastically in favor of high, fixed price-supports. However, that is no longer the case. More and more farmers and authoritative farm spokesmen recognize the urgent need for a dependency by agriculture on government.

A few months ago president Charles B. Shuman of the American Farm Bureau federation, said in a speech: "Today the effects of price-fixing in the government-supported crops such as cotton, wheat, rice, and corn furnish a sharp contrast with the free livestock market. In January, 1956, the average farm price of hogs was $10.90 per hundred. Farmers cut hog production 6 per cent in 1956. As a result, the farm price of hogs was up to $17.30 per hundred in January, 1957, or 58.7 per cent higher than the same month a year earlier. The hog market, free of the price-fixing influence of a government program, was able to make an adjustment and clean the market."

Since Mr. Shuman spoke, livestock prices have held to levels that are favorable to the producer and, at the same time, these levels make possible retail prices for meat that are attractive to consumers. In other words, prices have been fair to all. And these prices are established, not by fallible human beings, but by the natural law of supply and demand, working in a free and open market.—Idaho Falls Post-Register.

WHO TAUGHT BECKS?

Neither father nor son, Dave Beck, should be blamed for making a monkey out of the Fifth Amendment. They were taught how to do it by Communists, by soft-hearted senators and pink-minded judges.

The communists paved the way for debilitation of the Constitution and the Beck's took advantage of a bum situation.

In New York, the Dlo case was dropped because the witnesses clamored up and the government had no case. The witnesses did not even condescend to plead the Fifth Amendment.

So what do we do about it? Read Mr. Justice Brennan's decision opening police files and figure for yourself what will happen. Fifth Amendment! Who needs that when your lawyer can read the FBI files?—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Reduction of "tensions" between Canada and the United States is being given a different twist by a new experiment just launched here.

It calls for trying to solve existing differences between the two countries by a Canadian-American committee of 40 prominent business, labor and farm leaders from each of the two countries. They will act as private citizens instead of through the usual government diplomatic channels.

If this effort is successful, it may set a pattern for reducing friction between countries in other parts of the free world—Latin America, Europe, the Middle East and even the Far East.

It has taken National Planning association more than two years to get a private venture started. NPA is a privately financed, non-profit and non-political research organization interested in planning for future economic development in the U. S. and overseas. Chairman and moving spirit of NPA is Danish-born H. Christian Sonne, president of South Ridge corporation, New York.

Co-chairman of the new Canadian-American committee will be President Robert M. Fowler of Canadian Pulp and Paper association and Dr. Douglas Stuart of Chicago, board chairman of Quaker Oats and former U. S. ambassador to Canada.

The committee will hold its first meeting in or near Montreal.

Smylie Urges Construction Of New Dams

LEWISTON, July 23 (AP)—The construction of four dams on the lower Snake river and the completion of the Lewis and Clark highway "are the most important chores facing Idaho today," Gov. Robert E. Smylie said in an interview here yesterday.

"By lying in the highway and the river, then you are in business," the governor said. He estimated Idaho as having the biggest tourist year in history as summer traffic counts show a 10 per cent increase on state highways.

"The most encouraging factor concerning the highways," the governor said, "is that it has attracted the support of previously silent persons in the west and northwest. The Williamsburg, Va. declaration made by the six western governors was most gratifying."

At the conference of governors, the six state leaders urged immediate completion of the highway and supported the proposed national turnpikes legislation before congress.

Smylie was in Lewiston to attend the state American Legion convention.

Mac Finds Himself Owner of Matched Brace of Spittoons

By HENRY MCLEMORE

COPENHAGEN—Wait until I show you what I bought while you were gone!

These words, when spoken by a wife to a returning husband are always cause for alarm.

They are doubly menacing when the wife is (1) hepped on antiques and (2) in a foreign country.

A husband—as I have learned from past experience—can expect anything from a Regency nutcracker to an Empire chest of drawers with no legs.

Even so, I was not prepared for what Mary had unearthed—and paid for—while I was back home. She could have given me 10,000 guesses and I would not have even come close. And I could give you 10 times 10,000 guesses, and you wouldn't do any better.

While I stood tremblingly, Mary hugged a large wooden box from the closet into the middle of the hotel room and started unpacking it.

There was a gleam of triumph in her eye as she pulled out handfuls of excelsior and shredded newspapers, and her voice trembled with excitement as she said "You'll never believe my luck when you see them."

She was right. I wouldn't have. Unveiled before me in all their glory, were two hand-painted, porcelain spittoons.

Words failed me which was just as well. It was no time for words. I just looked, unable to believe my own eyes.

A shrunken Viking head, yes. A skirt made of walrus whiskers perhaps. But a pair of matching spittoons—never!

But she had 'em!

"They were tucked away in a corner, all covered with dust, and I nearly missed them," Mary said. "What did you pay for them?" I asked.

"Practically nothing," she said. "I got them for 20 kroner, and that's not quite three dollars."

That helped a bit and I was able to look at the spittoons with a less jaundiced eye—and I had to admit that if spittoons can be pretty, these were kind of attractive.

They're decorated with gold, green and purple flowers. There is a fine looking lion's head on their sides, and they rest on lion's feet.

"You haven't heard the best part," Mary said. "They are not ordinary spittoons at all. I have a paper to prove that they came from the palace of Prince Rohan in Bohemia. Think of that."

It is something to think about at that, isn't it? Not ordinary spittoons from the North Dakota legis-

Interest Rate Increases Are Likely for '57

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—The treasury's bow to costly money a building up new pressure for another general rise in interest rates. The money managers credit high interest rates and tight money are holding the business boom and its traveling companion, inflation, to a crawl.

Would-be borrowers on the other hand, charge that tight credit and costly charges are causing a personal recession for them. In such cases, they say, it is keeping them from expanding their plans a building needed schools.

Bankers Happy

Bankers who have been wanting to raise their loan charges to 6 per cent, see the treasury's recognition of a high going rate for money as justification.

Those who have been expecting the federal reserve banks to raise again the discount rate they charge when lending to member banks are now asking if this won't be done after the treasury clears its 24-billion-dollar financing deal in its next few weeks.

The treasury is offering four per cent interest—twice what it did in summers ago, and the highest it has paid since 1933 ushered in the era of cheap money.

That is because the treasury is anxious for the holders of the 3 billion dollars of maturing securities to exchange them for the new offerings. Apparently it fears that if it offers any less than four per cent for cash instead, they could use that cash for investments paying higher returns.

This would force the treasury to go into the market again to get "new money," and cause embarrassment it would rather avoid.

Sets Pace

The government bond market has a big influence on all interest rates. And the new high price the treasury is paying is widely expected to put the nudge to the long-discussed rise in the banks' prime rate.

This is the charge that the bank's best risks pay. It is now four per cent, and most small businesses are paying higher interest.

Opera Star Sings Aria for Glasses

The girl who needs glasses can wear them and still be pretty in the opinion of Mildred Miller, Metropolitan Opera singer. She wears glasses in private life and thinks they should be conspicuous and dramatic. Here, she wears three pairs from her own collection, all of them in metal and in pastel colors. Sunglasses (left) are set in bronze-colored frame, have flexible metal bands at either side that are both decorative and handy for holding hair in place on a windy beach or in the car. Silver metal frame (center) is for dressy wear, is ornamented with tiny flowers at either side of frame. Another and far more elaborate version of frames with bandeau (right) offers the adjustable metal strips in flower form. Colors are gold and pink. Mildred Miller thinks that glasses should be regarded as any other beauty aid (eye shadow or mascara) and should be fun for the wearer. She also likes color in her frames, both vivid and pastel. (NEA newfeature)

Dashing Frames May Be Obtained For Every Event

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

As a foolish gal who needs eye-glasses and is too vain to wear them, she comes into the damage she is doing to her sight, eyestrain induces fatigue, and she'll soon find herself tired and worn out when the people she is with are still bent on a few more hours of evening fun.

Nothing is more unattractive than squint lines around the eyes, and they're bound to become a permanent fixture for anyone who needs glasses and won't admit that she does.

It's a particularly silly attitude to take these days, too, for glasses have come into their own. Frames are as feminine and glamorous as you could want them to be.

No one is more in the limelight than Mildred Miller, the lovely young mezzo-soprano of the Metropolitan Opera. Although she doesn't wear glasses onstage, she's interested enough in life, people and store windows to want to see what's going on, and she wears them as a matter of course when she's not performing.

Miss Miller is convinced that there's no such thing as an inconspicuous pair of specs, and feels that if there were, they'd be mousy and do nothing for you.

Selecting different frames is fun, and glasses can be an exciting addition to any costume. Many of the new frames do double duty. Some, for instance, come with ornamental metal strips attached to the earpieces, which can be bent around the head to make almost a complete bandeau. This type is excellent for sunglasses worn for active sports, for it keeps the hair in place.

For dress-up time, you can get a frame that has an adjustable spray of flowers which can serve as an attractive hair ornament.

There are dozens of shapes and sparkling colors to choose from, and they will add a smart note to dress or play wear.

If you need to wear glasses, wear them with a flair. You'll be thrilled

Cold Deceiving, Tepid Is Better

By NEA Service

The first really hot day of the year brings with it the temptation to down iced drinks, take a cold shower and eat nothing but cold food.

Resist the temptation. All of these things will make you feel temporarily cool but later on you'll feel warmer than you did before.

Actually, your bathtub is the best place to cool off, but not with a cold shower. A tepid, soapy bath, followed by a tepid rinse under the shower, will keep you feeling cool for hours.

Make good use of dusting powder to ease on kurtles and bra. Eat salads, certainly, but don't eat salads alone during the summer months. Your body needs hot foods, too.

And if your doctor has previously prescribed them, don't neglect vitamins just because it's summertime. They have an effect on the way you feel and look in the heat of the day, too.

BRIDGE IS PLAYED

HAILEY, July 23—Mrs. Charles Dunn entertained members of her bridge club Tuesday evening at her home. Prizes went to Mrs. Elvin Shipp, Mrs. Harold Schaefer and Mrs. Mary Alfred. Mrs. Harold Kipper received the guest prize.

We, the Women

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Service

A dissatisfied wife is a luxury few men can afford.

Gentlemen, it costs you when you neglect to tell your wife what a fine job she is doing as a homemaker. If she doesn't get any appreciation from you, she'll try to get it from other women, by competing with them in a never-ending struggle to fill her house with finer things than her friends have.

If she feels neglected and unloved she will consciously or unconsciously try to make you as miserable as she is, and you will find little peace at home.

If you have stopped complimenting her on her looks, she will need more expensive clothes, more accessories at a beauty salon, more beauty aids of every kind to reassure herself that she is still an attractive woman.

If you shut her completely out of your world of work she will fill the emptiness with useless, time-consuming social activities instead of working at the job of being your partner.

If you are too difficult to please, she will grow weary of trying and your happiness and well-being will become less and less important to her.

If you refuse to talk things over with her, she will start confiding in outsiders and you will no longer present a united front to the world.

In the end a husband always pays for letting his wife become dissatisfied. And he pays in many, many ways—in money, in loss of self-esteem, in contentment.

Since this is so, it is stupid of any husband to be so stingy with his praise, his compliments, and his attention that his wife feels neglected and dissatisfied with her place in life.

Good Attendance Noted for Family Reunion in T. F.

One hundred and eight members of the family attended the L. R. Arrington reunion Sunday at the home of Don Arrington on Addison avenue east.

Following a picnic dinner officers were elected under the direction of Don Arrington, outgoing president. LeRoy Arrington was chosen president for the coming year; Ver Cox and Woodrow Arrington counselors, and Mrs. Kenneth Arrington, secretary.

Melvin Arrington, Provo, was master of ceremonies for the program. Group singing was led by Francis Egbert with Mrs. Gordon Crockett as organist. Mrs. Noah W. Arrington read letters from absent members. Remembrances of Grandpa and Grandma Arrington were given by Alden Arrington, Roy, Utah. A sextet, Francis Egbert, Kenneth Arrington, Velma Cox, Virgil Arrington, Elsie Egbert and Joyce Arrington, sang several old time favorite songs.

A skit, "The Arringtons from Tennessee to Utah," written by Mrs. Howard Arrington, was presented. Charlotte Cox was narrator, with the younger generation portraying members of the original family.

Grover Arrington told of his and Jacob F. Arrington's experiences as the first members of the family to arrive in Twin Falls, Oct. 11, 1911. Noah W. Arrington told of the family living at Rossville, Ga., and moving to Oklahoma in 1905.

The afternoon was concluded with numbers by the sextet and the benediction by R. Glenn Arrington.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce S. Arrington and Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Arrington and family, Idaho Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fisher and family, Boise; Mrs. W. O. Fisher, Heyburn; Mrs. George D. Ward, Logan; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Arrington, Provo, and Mr. and Mrs. Alden Arrington, Roy, Utah.

Two members of the original family unable to attend were J. Earl Arrington, Hollis, N.Y., and Mrs. Ray Sparks, Oakland, Calif.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Children are forced into activity by the law of their nature which makes activity essential to growth. The 6-year-old boys, even some 5-year-old ones, feel this force pushing them to get into action but what action?

Many, many children must live in cities and towns where there is no outdoor space and no beckoning play work. They are confined to their homes and these provide scant room for the fundamentals of house-keeping much less for the rough play these small ones need.

Their play must be rough because it involves the big muscles in the back of the arms and legs. Big movements with as much power behind them as can be mustered are demanded. This means thumping, climbing, running, jumping and a great deal of shouting. Of course this is not permitted indoors and there's little allowance made for it outdoors in the crowded areas. It is not surprising that small boys get into slugging matches.

No matter the cause of the trouble we have to deal with it and try to teach the small boys that they are not to use their playmates as punching bags. We have to try to provide them with some outlet other than battling for their pressing needs of physical exercise. If conditions allow a back yard to be fitted with a swing, a sand pile, a jungle gym when it can be had—some boards (no tools please), and a welcome sign, a good deal of the battling will be reduced to loud argument, a bit hard on the ears but less dangerous to small boys' noses and neighbors' feelings.

A good bit of equipment for these youngsters is an old butcher block, or a sturdy tree stump, which can be thumped with a wooden mallet. If hammer and nails can be permitted, and the mothers will know about that, the boys can drive them into the block or stump with good effects on their muscular development and on their dispositions.

A goodly measure of the cause for temper explosions is due to the lack of hard exercise. This group of youngsters needs to be physically tired, that is, they need to expend their energy forcibly. When this is not possible and they are confined to small quarters, and to be still, making no noise, this energy forces the explosion. If it is expended outdoors, this will not be so likely to happen.

This state of affairs is one sound reason why children should be reared in the country. Too bad they all cannot have that privilege.

Learning to spell is difficult for some children. How you can help your child at home is outlined by Dr. Paul in his leaflet "All for Poor Spellers." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to him, c/o Times-News, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 10, N. Y.

Road Hearing Law Approved By "Doubters"

BOISE, July 23 (AP)—A law they viewed with misgivings before its enactment was cited by Idaho highway authorities today as one of their best public relations mediums. The law requires the state highway board to conduct public hearings on any route changes involving an urban area.

Primarily it is intended to prevent the by-passing of a community without giving residents an opportunity to protest.

"We were considerably concerned when the regulation was proposed," said Bryce Bennett, state highway engineer. "We were afraid that construction on a project might be held up indefinitely while we listened to protests."

"We had a number of other reservations about the proposal too but I've forgotten most of them."

"That's because" this law has turned out to be one of the best public relations mediums the state highway department has ever had."

Hold 30 Hearings

Since its enactment by the 1955 legislature the law has resulted in upwards of 30 public hearings. The act permits appeals to the district court from rulings made by the highway board following the hearings.

"Actually," Bennett said, "we haven't had one single appeal from the board's rulings. Most of the protests we have heard have been from individuals concerned with the loss of business by their filling stations or restaurants."

"But to offset that opposition most hearings have been marked by words of support from leaders of the community. Quite often minor changes in routes have been proposed at the hearings and we do our best to comply with those suggestions."

The secretary of the board, Wayne Summers, serves as hearing officer for the public sessions.

"The people leave the hearing knowing why certain things are being done and why certain other things cannot be done," Summers said. "They learn something about the future benefits of the proposed project to the people."

"The people know that their voices have been heard and that the department is not the deaf, roughshod, public servant some had perhaps heard about."

Give Explanation

For each public hearing an illustrated brochure is prepared by the highway department. It contains an explanation of the need for the proposed highway changes and includes maps and drawings to illustrate them.

Bennett said that advance preparations in detail are necessary for the hearings. Large wall maps and charts are prepared so that persons attending the hearings can see easily the proposals that are being made.

Before the hearing, too, highway department officials attempt to obtain favorable reaction from community leaders, who will express their views at the public session.

Opportunity is given for questions from the audience, with qualified men on hand to provide the answers.

Bennett emphasized that the hearings are held before final engineering plans have been drawn. For that reason changes can be made without much financial loss.

Man Gets 10-Day Term for Thefts

Bobby Burgess, charged with petty larceny, was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail Monday by Probate Judge Everett M. Sweely.

Burgess pleaded guilty to a charge of taking a rocking chair, a straight back chair, a day bed and mattress and four window shades, valued at a total of approximately $35, from Mrs. Walter Mathiesen. Mrs. Mathiesen signed the complaint against him.

Earlier in the day Burgess appeared in court and pleaded not guilty. At that time the judge set trial for Wednesday. Later in the day Burgess requested to change his plea.

Petition Is Filed On Reese Estate

A petition to probate the will of Harry Reese, who died Feb. 4, was filed in Twin Falls probate court Monday by his widow, Mrs. Viola Reese, Buhl, through her attorney, John C. Heworth.

The estate consists of property valued at approximately $10,000. Heirs besides the widow are two daughters, Mrs. Cynthia Pauline Parker, Buhl, and Mrs. Phyllis Marie English, Hazelton, and two sons, Ira Christ Reese, Buhl, and Roland Ewell Reese, Jerome.

A hearing is set for 2 p.m. Aug. 12.

Cowboys Drop to Second Place as Braves Win 5-4

Magic Valley's Cowboys dropped to second place in the Pioneer league Monday night as the Boise Braves squeaked by the home team 5-4 in 10 innings. The loss puts the Cowboys one game behind pace-setting Missoula, who beat Billings in another overtime contest. Losing pitcher Russ Wingo set the stage for his own downfall as he opened the 10th inning by issuing a base on balls to his opposing moundsmen Jack Hannah. Hannah went to second on a sacrifice bunt and scored on veteran Bob King's single to center field. The Cowboys posed minor opposition in their half of the inning as Bill Schmidt drilled a single after two were out. Bill Denney, pinch hitting for Wingo, backed Bob Jacoby to the wall on a long fly that ended the game.

The Braves got their runs one at a time, starting the game off with a tally in the first on a triple by Howie Bedell and Gayle Moore's double. They added another score in the fifth before the Cowboys could jump back to knot it.

Schmidt, starter Jack Schomer and Lou Jackson all connected for singles to load the bases. A base on balls to manager Walt Dixon forced in Schmidt and then a passed ball allowed Schomer to score.

But in the sixth, the Braves again took the lead with a lone tally and they upped their margin to two in the seventh with another run. The Cowboys came back in their half of the seventh as Dixon drew a free pass after two were out and rode home on Duane Hermanson's homer.

Wingo was called on in the eighth and he limited Boise to only one hit over the next two innings. The Cowboys threatened in the last of the ninth loading the bases with one-out but they couldn't get the clincher across the plate.

Junior division honors were captured by Mike Fuller, who posted a 144. Following were Glen Hopwood with 81 and second and David Klinton in third place with 69.

Paffel's Three Hitter Stops Dodgers 5-1

IDAHO FALLS, July 23 (AP)—Bob Paffel gave up only three hits as the Idaho Falls Dodgers defeated the Great Falls Russlets 5-1 in a Pioneer league contest here Monday.

The lone Dodger tally came in the fourth after two outs. Glen Pflaster doubled, and Sheldon Broadley's single brought him home.

The Russlets scored two runs in the seventh when Mo Benedict bled, was sacrificed to second by Gordy Maxwell and doubled home by Al Luce. Luce stole third and came home on a wild pitch.

Idaho Falls scored one in the second on three walks and a force out, and added another in the sixth on a walk, Jim Gilchrist's single and a passed ball.

The Russlets final run came in the eighth on a walk, a single and an error.

PGA Tourney Champion Began Golfing With Beat-up Driver and Pile of Stones

By OSCAR FRALEY

DAYTON, O., July 23 (AP)—This was 23 years ago in a barnyard in the little town of Lafayette, La., and the tiny, skinny kid was mad.

He was milking the cow, the bucket was almost filled and he needed another pail. To make it worse, his chubby little brother had snatched his one and only golf club—a beat-up driver which was his most precious possession—and was hitting stones with it.

"Hey," 14-year-old Jay Hebert shouted at 9-year-old Lionel. "You put down my club and get me another pail."

Lionel just kept on swinging, called over his shoulder, "Let me be playing golf."

"Get me a pail," the big brother yelled, "cause if I stop this darned cow won't give any more milk. If you don't, I'm gonna catch you and whip your tail."

Lionel ignored him and kept on swinging. Jay eventually filled the bucket, stopped milking and caught Lionel, and as promised, "whipped his tail."

But Lionel Hebert, 29 years old now, is still swinging—as the newly-crowned PGA champion. Only this time he "whipped Jay's tail."

For Jay finished no better than seventh as Lionel captured the most coveted championship of his profession by beating young Dow Finsterwald of Athens, O., 2 and 1.

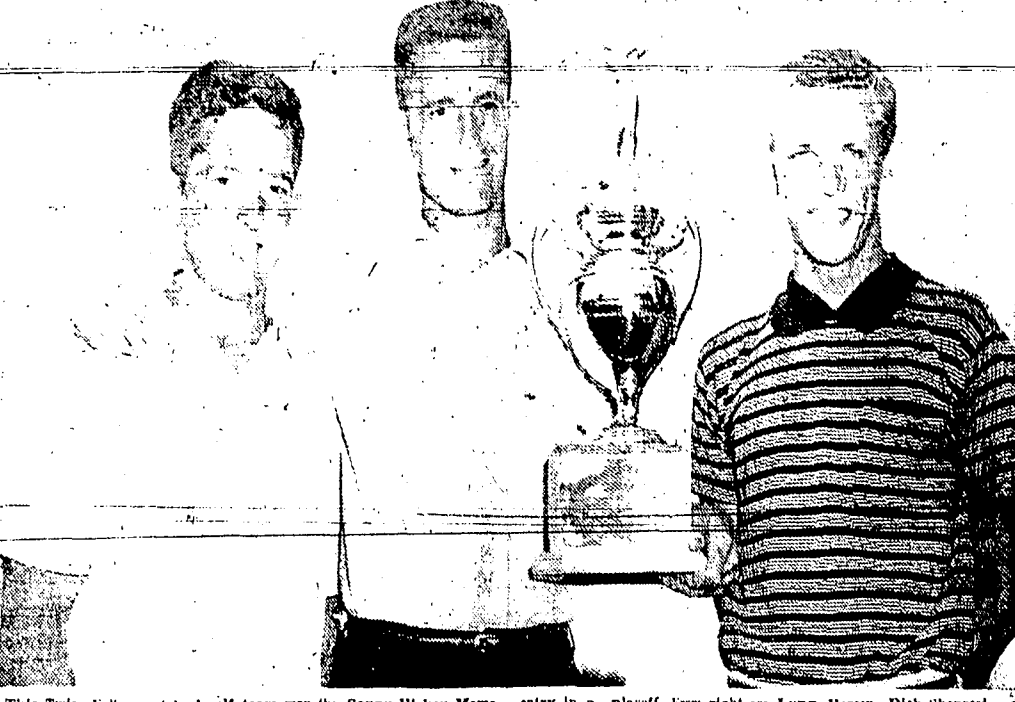

Lionel is a husky 185-pounder now, a handsome, dark-haired man who still retains certain amount of that boyhood chubbiness on his five-foot-eight-and-one-half inch frame. He has two children of his own now, a son, Glenn, 7, and a daughter, Jacqueline, 5. And he has come a long, far piece from that barnyard in Louisiana.

This victory, worth $8,000, boosted him to 18th among the year's money winners with earnings of $10,000. And assured him a coveted spot on the Ryder cup team. All of which is a payoff on his decision to "make a name in this game or give up."

He had been in LSU as a trumpet-playing music major, when he went into service for two years in 1946. Jay has been a marine captain wounded in the legs at two jumps. Lionel was a sergeant in the medical corps who was stationed in Japan.

Returning to LSU after his hitch, he switched to a bookkeeping course at Southwestern Institute but then turned golf pro in 1950 and worked with Johnny Bulla at Pittsburgh for four years. Finally he got his

Purves Gains Berth for National Tourney; Smith Is Disqualified

Jim Purves, brilliant young Twin Falls golfer, won the right to participate in the Junior Chamber of Commerce national junior golf tournament next month, by placing fourth in state competition at Lewiston last week-end. Another Twin Falls teenager, Robb Smith, missed an almost certain berth on the Idaho contingent because of a disqualification.

Purves, who has won the junior city championship twice here, had to rally in the final 27 holes Sunday, after getting off to a bad start as competition opened Saturday.

Following the opening round, Purves was nine strokes behind with a 115 total. But he put together rounds of straight 35's to sneak back for fourth place.

Smith was a solid third Saturday evening with a 108 score, but after his score was announced, tournament officials discovered he had exceeded the number of clubs allowed for each player.

Smith reported he was unaware of the rule limiting the number of clubs to 15, but the meet was conducted under PGA restrictions. His score was tossed out and Smith was declared ineligible for further play. However, Sunday he played 16 holes and was under par. His score was more than enough to clinch a place on the Idaho team. He was awarded the sportsmanship trophy.

Purves, along with state champion Gary Floon, Orofino; Mike Sweet, Parma, and Kuhlman, Lewiston, will leave for Columbus, O., Aug. 14 for the national tourney. They will have three days for practice rounds before the event opens Aug. 16. It will conclude on Aug. 24.

The boys will be shooting for scholarships on the Ohio State college course. These are presented by the Coca-Cola company, which is co-sponsor of the Jaycees.

Sam Crawford, McCarthy Taken Into Hall of Fame

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., July 23 (AP)—Joe McCarthy and Sam (Wahoo Sam) Crawford Monday were formally inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame by Commissioner Ford Frick at brief, colorful ceremonies. "Gee, I wish I could do it all over again," said McCarthy, referring to his 43 years in baseball. Marse Joe, now 70, spoke for several minutes pouring generous praise on the players, club officials, scouts, coaches, trainers and even the umpires who helped him reach this last highest pinnacle in baseball.

Visibly affected by the excitement of the occasion, the 77-year-old Crawford said only a few words of thanks.

"I had a speech ready—but I don't believe I can go through with it," he said as he sat down with tears in his eyes, after the long journey from his cabin hideout in Pear Blossom, Calif.

Crawford was one of the great sluggers of the early 20th century. In 19 years with Cincinnati and Detroit, he had a lifetime 309 average with 2,964 hits. His 312 triples still stand as the major league record.

"Most responsible of all in helping me were the great players," said McCarthy. "And goodness knows I won't attempt to name them all because I wouldn't want to forget and leave somebody out."

Looking around the crowded platform and the throng that jammed main street in front of the Hall of Fame and baseball museum, McCarthy singled out Mrs. Lou Gehrig, widow of the great New York Yankees star. "Many a sad memory but a lot of happy ones are brought back by seeing you," he said to Mrs. Gehrig.

McCarthy looked happy and trim after seven years of retirement. His record of winning nine pennants—eight with the Yanks and one with the Chicago Cubs—and never finishing worse than fourth in 24 years of managing in the majors, still is bright and shiny.

"This is the biggest thrill one could get," he said. "I don't know all the great players who are in here. I didn't play with many of them but I did manage a few. When a player gets in the Hall of Fame he does it largely on his own. But a manager has so many people to thank."

McCarthy mentioned Tom Brislin, former Wilkes-Barre sports writer who wrote a place in 1912 saying he might make a manager. That led to his first managing job at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Billings edged the Jacks sole possession of first place.

Is was the 11th victory for Missoula's Dick Schultz, who stepped into the game as a reliever in the 10th. Starter Tony Tegenkamp allowed all of the eighth knocks the Mustangs collected.

Missoula opened up with two quick runs in the first frame and picked up another in the seventh. Billings got his first two in the fourth and the tying run in the eighth.

Mustang starter Bob Greer did his best in leeling the Jacks collect only five clouts.

The only extra-base blow of the night was Ben Siquefield's homer for Missoula.

Billings for League Lead

MISSOULA, Mont., July 23 (AP)—A single dribbled into the outfield and pushed in the winning run in the bottom of the 10th inning here Monday night as the Missoula Timberjacks edged the Billings Mustangs 4-3.

Eisenhower Meet Attracts Big Field

DENVER, July 23 (AP)—The largest field of junior golfers in the nation is expected here Aug. 12 when the Eisenhower junior golf tournament opens at Willis-Gase municipal golf course.

The four-day tourney will determine the winner of the $1,000 Eisenhower college scholarship, top prize in the championship flight.

A special medal tournament for girls will be inaugurated this year with the winner being presented the traveling Babe Zaharias Memorial trophy.

Club Concerned Over Decline in Its Membership

James F. Blake, president of the Twin Falls Exchange club, expressed deep concern Tuesday over the club's dwindling summer membership.

Blake told members attending the weekly luncheon at the American Legion hall that an extended membership drive would be instigated sometime toward the end of the year in an effort to build greater interest in the club.

One member pointed out the big problem was programming. Blake said a schedule would be set up whereby more interesting programs could be arranged.

In other business, a brief discussion was held regarding the proposed football game between Idaho State college and the College of Idaho at Lincoln field at 2 p. m. Nov. 26.

Following the regular business of the meeting, a 34-minute film was shown featuring highlights of games played by the 1956 American Olympic basketball team.

Drivers' Boy Not Hurt in Accident

Drivers of two cars and a 5-year-old passenger escaped serious injury at 11:55 a. m. Tuesday in a traffic accident at the intersection of highways 83 and 79 just north of the Pettie Memorial bridge.

A 1956 Ford driven by Timothy Nielsen, 17, route 1, Filer, and a 1956 Ford driven by Mrs. Maxine Neal, Jerome, collided at the junction. Mrs. Neal's young son was a passenger in her car. The child's chin was bruised and his right elbow in the crash.

State Patrolman Howard Carr estimated damage to the Neal car at $450. No estimate was made of damage to Nielsen's auto which had the front end smashed. The Neal car was damaged on the right side. Both vehicles were towed from the scene by wreckers.

pointed out that the real award was in pedestrian lives being saved and the human suffering averted. "Almost every pedestrian accident," he pointed out, "results in serious injury or death. This makes it essential to place greater emphasis each year on pedestrian protection activities."

Barrington's final words at the presentation were warnings to both drivers and parents of young children, especially during the summer months.

"During the summer months," the insurance man said, "parents should instruct children to stay away from the streets in their play. Drivers should also remember that actions of a child cannot be anticipated."

In other business the commissioners rejected a curb cut on Blue Lakes boulevard north at Filer avenue until the Livestock Development company agrees to place a barrier between the proposed professional building to be erected and the Safety award presently being constructed.

John Bishop, representing the company, asked for a curb cut on the boulevard for a professional office building to be erected this fall. He said his company wants to do the black-topping and paving at this time. He indicated he was opposed to placing a barrier of any type between the store area and the parking lot to be built adjacent to the professional building.

The commissioners on the other hand indicated by a three to two vote they were opposed to traffic from the store entering Blue Lakes boulevard from the driveway to be used by the professional building. The professional buildings will be located in a C-5 zoned area and the store in a C-2 zone, or a general commercial area.

Bishop indicated the area should be left open so people going from one place of business to another could do so without interference.

Commissioner J. Ted Davis, acting chairman during the absence of Lyons Smith, stated that "people going to the grocery store have no business going to the doctor's office."

Davis then seconded motion made by H. H. Burkhardt that the curb cut be rejected unless a barrier is installed. Burkhardt, Davis and William Ostrander voted in favor of the motion. Chester Larsen and James Norfoll opposed the action. Smith and H. R. Grant were absent.

The commissioners approved a plat of the Blair Orchard subdivision on Addison avenue east and Sunrise boulevard north. This previously had been approved by the planning and zoning commission.

Plane Swoops 500 Feet; Two Persons Hurt

AMARILLO, Tex., July 23 (AP)—Several of the 34 passengers aboard a Trans-World Airlines Constellation airplane were thrown into the aisle and two persons suffered minor injuries last night when the plane swooped 500 feet, suddenly to avoid a possible collision.

The plane, identified only as "Captain Schaefer," said he was flying at about 1,000 feet over Amarillo-Tucson flight when he unexpectedly spotted plane "running lights" in front of him.

He said he had to drop the plane so hastily he didn't have time to flash a warning to the passengers to fasten their seat belts.

TWA Sales Manager Ivan Orsman said several passengers were tossed into the aisle by the sudden maneuver and that the plane made an unscheduled stop at Amarillo to check the condition of the passengers.

Mrs. Mary Clark, 68, North Adams, Mass., was hospitalized with cuts on the head and hostess Doris Rakos suffered a bruised hip and a possible back injury. A doctor examined the other passengers and cleared them for continued flight to Tucson by 1 a. m. today.

The pilot said he thought the unidentified plane he had seen was an air force ship, but that he did not think it was a jet.

It was the second such airline "near miss" within a week over Texas.

Two passengers were shaken up early last Wednesday when an American Airlines plane had to take a violent maneuver to avoid an unidentified plane 50 miles east of El Paso.

Nevada Woman's Condition "Poor"

DENVER, July 23 (AP)—A young Ely, Nev., mother was unconscious and in poor condition at Colorado General hospital today after being flown here in an air force plane for treatment of a kidney infection.

Graham Heads Into "Garden" After Respite

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—Billy Graham resumes his extended New York crusade after a two-day rest today, with the prospect of seeing the two million dollar revival extended through Labor day.

The evangelist's crusade to save New York was originally extended from June 30 closing to July 20, and only last Friday, it was extended again through Aug. 10.

But it was learned that Graham and his sponsors, the New York crusade executive committee, were so pleased with the record-breaking turnout of 100,000 persons at a Yankee stadium rally Saturday that they are thinking of running the crusade through Labor day.

Calling on Christians everywhere to renew their prayers for the New York crusade, Graham said today "The Devil is angry at the rising spiritual tide in New York," a city the revivalist has called "the spiritual mecca" of the United States.

"Many times after a great spiritual victory, Satan strikes the hardest," Graham said. He added that the Devil will most likely strike in "unexpected places at unexpected times."

"Right to Work" Group Is Formed

BOISE, July 23 (AP)—A corporation intended to carry to the people the fight for enactment of so-called "right-to-work" legislation filed articles of incorporation today in the Idaho secretary of state's office.

Vessel Moves Through Suez Toward Haifa

JERUSALEM, Israel, July 23 (AP)—The Israeli-chartered Danish freighter Brigue Toff was reported moving through the Suez canal today, and officials expressed belief an Israeli citizen seized aboard the ship would be released soon. The ship's bound for Haifa.

A Suez dispatch said the freighter entered the canal at 9:30 a. m. The last vessel with a declared cargo for Israel to transit the waterway since it reopened under Egyptian control.

Optimistic

The officials based their optimism on the general easing of relations with Egypt and particularly the mild tone of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's speech last night marking the fifth anniversary of the revolution against King Farouk.

Another factor for rising optimism was Egypt's announcement at United Nations headquarters in New York that it had formally accepted compulsory jurisdiction of the international court of justice in disputes arising from Egyptian nationalization of the Suez canal.

Still Tension

There still was tension with Syria, and Israel submitted a complaint to the U. N. true supervision or.

Dispatches from Suez said Egyptian authorities permitted the freighter to join today's northbound convoi but that they arrested an Israeli seaman taking pictures from the deck of the freighter. He was taken to police headquarters in Suez for questioning.

The man was identified here as Rafi Eylon, a newspaperman and resident of Elat, actually named Raphael Nelson. He boarded the freighter at Elat when it sailed for Rangoon last April. Authorities indicated they would protest his detention but predicted Egypt would release him.

Rights Battle Still Blazing In New York

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—For the record it should be noted that the United States senate is not the only political forum in which rages a dispute over the rights of Negroes to equality and integration.

It may surprise some persons, including the embattled Southern Democratic senators here, to learn that the other forum in which such a dispute prevails is the general welfare committee of the municipal council of the city of New York. Strange, but true.

A considerable part of the pressure on congress to enact the pending civil rights bill without any softening of its provisions comes from New York City and similar great urban areas outside the South. Even so, New York's general welfare committee has been troubled since last May 21 by a simple proposal. The proposal would make it unlawful to discriminate on reasons of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry in the rental or sale of dwelling spaces. The proposed ordinance is intended to open to Negroes dwelling units evidently now closed to them by reason of such discrimination.

Newspapers and individuals which long have championed such civil rights project as now confronts the senate have been less enthusiastic about the anti-discrimination project in their home town. The real estate boards of all five boroughs of New York City vigorously opposed the proposed ordinance.

After public hearings in mid-June, the project was sent back to committee. The mail column against the proposition was three to one at city hall. Some councilmen said their mail was four to one against. What happens next is anybody's guess.

The ordinance already has been substantially amended. It originally provided fines up to $500 for discrimination in the sale or rental of housing units. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R., N. Y., was among those staunch advocates of the civil rights bill now pending in the senate who urged modification of the New York project to eliminate certain punitive provisions. The $500 fine provision has been abandoned.

Buhl Church Sets Outdoor Services

BUHL, July 23—The annual outdoor services of the Methodist church, combining the Sunday school and morning worship, is planned for 11 a. m. Sunday at Camp Penstemon in the south hills.

Everett Martin, general superintendent of the Sunday school, and the Rev. Leonard Clark, will conduct the service. A choir of Sunday school children will furnish the music.

A bus will leave the Methodist church at 9 a. m. Children of the fifth grade and younger must be accompanied by their parents. Those attending are asked to bring food for their families, table service and fruit juice for punch. Ice cream and coffee will be furnished. The picnic will follow the service and the program for the afternoon will include volleyball, baseball and other games.

Want to Buy an Airplane?

The world's largest land-based airplane, the XC-99, based at Kelly air force base near San Antonio, Tex., will be put up for sale at an auction to be held at a yet undecided date. The flying Colossus is 233-feet long, and has a wingspan of 230-feet. The plane, accepted by the air force in 1950, holds the world's record for carrying more than 100,000 pounds by one airplane at one time. (AP wirephoto)

Legion Chief Hits Supreme Court Ruling

LEWISTON, July 23 (AP)—The national commander of the American Legion said last night that "recent supreme court decisions have done more to advance the cause of communism in the United States than any other element since the Korean war."

W. C. Daniel of Danville, Va., spoke at a session of the Idaho department of the American Legion convention.

Avenue of Escape

"The communists have been trying desperately in recent years to find a way to get out from under the provisions of the Smith act," Daniel said. "These recent rulings provide them with that avenue of escape."

"I, for one, am going to urge congress to pass appropriate legislation to plug those loopholes."

Daniel added that he felt more consideration should be given to the election rather than the appointment of supreme court judges.

"Expediency"

"Political expediency is taking the place of experience," Daniel said. "This has led to immature and dangerous decisions."

Daniel termed proposed federal aid to education a threat to state's rights and said he favored economy of government "but not at the expense of the veteran."

Daniel also presided at the lead of 40 units parade yesterday afternoon. Included in the parade dignitaries was Gov. Robert E. Smylie. Some 600 delegates are on hand for the convention which closes tomorrow.

Offer of Vaccine Draws Rejection

VIENNA, July 23 (AP)—Communist Hungary announced officially today that it has "temporarily" declined a U. S. offer of Salk vaccine to fight the current polio epidemic in the country.

Budapest radio said the U. S. legation in Budapest was informed that Hungarian health authorities had enough serum at present and were negotiating with private firms in many countries for more. The radio added that if the future situation warrants, Hungary will turn to the United States for aid.

Spying Charged

KARLSRUHE, Germany, July 23 (AP)—An elderly widow today was reported under arrest on charges she let East German communist agents secretly record conversations with foreign diplomats in her Bonn hotel.

Court officials confirmed the arrest on treason charges but refused to give her name or details of the charge against her.

4-H Club Meets

HEYBURN, July 23—The Happy Workers 4-H club Friday afternoon discussed achievement day on Aug. 16 at the Heyburn LDS church. Members also discussed the demonstrations they will present for home demonstration clubs of this area on Aug. 8.

90 Years Late

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 23 (AP)—Dr. J. R. McHugh figures the thief who took a package of $1,200 in currency from his home over the week-end will have a hard time spending it.

The loot was Confederate money.

Draft Call Is Cut to 8,000

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The defense department today dropped the draft call to 8,000 men for September but served notice it does not intend to eliminate conscription "in the near future."

The September call was 3,000 below the number called for August and was the lowest monthly quota since April, 1956, when 6,000 men were drafted.

The draft was slashed to carry out Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's recent order to reduce the strength of the services by 100,000 men by next January.

The army, the only service which drafts men, is shouldering half the total manpower cut Wilson ordered. Of its 50,000 reduction, 44,470 will be in the enlisted ranks.

American Travel Program Started

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The National Grange has inaugurated a "see America first" program for its farm youth.

Under this program, farm boys and girls from one part of the country trade summer homes with their counterparts in other parts of the country. The program is operated along the lines of international youth exchange programs except that the young people involved stay in this country.

The program is open to boys and girls between 14 and 21 and the exchange is for a month's time. The exchange is arranged through the farm organization's national headquarters here.

Quake Recorded

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—A "fairly strong" earthquake probably centered near the Aleutian Islands was recorded today in seismograph readings at Fordham university.

The Rev. Joseph Lynch, chief Fordham seismologist, said the tremor had a magnitude of 6.5.

Milk, regarded as a liquid, becomes a solid food soon after entering the stomach.

Moslems Give Okay on New Israeli Ruler

SALIMAYAH, Syria, July 23 (AP)—Aly Khan flew home to Europe today after a riotous reception here by 20,000 Ismaili Moslems who think he and not his son Karim should be their new leader.

Aly arrived here yesterday to placate the Syrian Ismaili community following reports of dissension at the nomination of his son, Prince Karim, to replace the late Aga Khan. The Syrian Ismailis had already elected Aly as their leader when Karim's appointment was announced.

Aly has been visiting his sunbaked village, center of the local Ismaili community, for the past 27 years. As far as the residents are concerned he, and not Karim, will always be their leader. The old Aga Khan and other members of his family never came here and to the simple country folk in their flowing white head dresses Aly virtually replaced the Aga.

"I came to see my people," Aly told newsmen. "I love being here and come whenever I can."

He said he expected no trouble over Karim's succession, and indicated that the over-hasty Syrians had already bowed to the will of the late Aga, who said he felt a young man was needed to lead the world's 10 million Ismailis.

Fish Fry Held

GLENN'S FERRY, July 23—C. J. Walz, Salt Lake City, president of the general committee of the Union Pacific Old Timers club, and Mrs. Walz were guests at the annual fish fry sponsored by the Old Timers club and auxiliary here Saturday.

Walz and R. C. Lorsep also Salt Lake City, spoke. Other guests from out of town were Mrs. C. Murry Dranfield and Aaron Greenhalgh, Manchester, England; Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Gibson, Ft. Worth, Tex.; Mrs. John Carnahan and children, Kosmas, Wash.; and Mrs. Jenny Hopkins, Seattle, Wash.

He said they didn't expect the red Chinese treatment, however, which was "not tough—just not friendly."

"I wouldn't want to return to red China even if Americans were permitted to visit the country," he said.

The young American from Cincinnati, O., said he left Korea, where he was a clothing salesman, for communist China because he was "curious" about the nation. He said they sought out the red checkpoint to report their entry and the "why fors."

"At first the reds seemed to like it," Blackwood said. "But then they changed their attitude, apparently because they found I was in the armed forces during the Korean war and was a businessman."

HOW MUCH YOU SPEND

... is up to YOU ... but get the TRUTH ... before you DO!

OUR business is to guide you intelligently ... in the selection of YOUR DIAMOND RING ... NOT to tell you WHAT to spend!

Your young lady will be MORE interested in WHERE you buy... than in WHAT YOU PAY ... don't EVER forget THAT!

Dignify THE DIAMOND YOU GIVE ... with the name of a RESPECTED jeweler ... she'll THANK you!

Yes, of course ... you may "charge it!"
