

16-Mile Area Is Burned by Summit Fire

HAILEY, Aug. 6—A rampaging forest fire near Galena summit encompassed a 16-mile area Tuesday and some 500 firefighters temporarily lost ground during the morning when winds fanned the blaze beyond their control. Weary crews battled the flames through the night Monday, hampered by the high winds and the "spot fires" that cropped up through the area. Six air-dropped pumps were being used along Pole creek in the areas where the blaze is in a low altitude. The 500 crewmen were using eight heavy tractors in their efforts to create fire barriers.

Two plane loads of pumps, hose and other equipment were flown in from Salt Lake City and one from San Francisco. Another San Francisco airlift was expected Tuesday afternoon.

During the morning Tuesday, the blaze was racing up the canyon at the head of Pole creek and appeared headed for a rock-covered mountain peak. Fire fighters had little hope the bare area would deter the flames, however, since the fire already has passed two such obstacles.

Gene Rodger, fire dispatcher at Hailey, said the blaze was somewhat quiet Tuesday despite the temporary setback when the flames leaped past the firefighters.

"We're in a position now where we can fight it with water from beaver dams," he said. This is the first time the blaze has been in a favorable position from a control standpoint since it started Saturday.

The fire crews were reinforced Tuesday by additional firefighters from a farm labor camp at Nyssa, Ore., bringing the total to 500 men.

Monday night as stiff winds pushed the fire onward and scattered blazing brands to start "spot fires" in new areas, forest officials met to reorganize and develop new strategy. They had hoped their forces would be able to contain the blaze before nightfall. This hope vanished as the flames leaped a mile across a rock outcropping and a half-mile or more at other spots.

Two Perish, Boy Is Hospitalized in King Hill Mishap

KING HILL, Aug. 6—Two Utah women were hurled to their death and a 13-year-old boy injured when the car in which they were riding went out of control and nosedived down a 50-foot embankment one and one-half miles west of here Monday night. Dead were two Brigham City, Utah, residents identified as Mrs. Daisy Bell Strong, 55, the driver, and Mrs. Ella May Strong, 38. The injured youth, Larry Hinson, Dugway, Utah, a nephew of the two women, was reported improving at Elmore County Memorial hospital, Mountain Home. Extent of his injuries was not determined and Elmore county sheriff's officials have not yet questioned him.

Deputy Sheriff Ronald Ross who investigated the accident with State Patrolman Charles Anderson of the King Hill post of entry said the 1955 Oldsmobile apparently went out of control on highway 30 about 9:10 p.m. The westbound vehicle hit the high shoulder, plowed back to the pavement and slanted down the embankment on the left side of the highway. It came to rest on the Union Pacific railway tracks at the bottom of the steep slope.

Identification of the two victims was made from billfolds found in the car. Ross said it was believed the injured boy was the grandson of the driver and the nephew of the other woman.

Elmore officials were unable to discover where the trio was headed. Papers in the billfolds indicated they may have been connected with the Intermountain school for Indians at Brigham City.

Meanwhile, attempts were being made to locate relatives in Utah. The bodies of the two were taken to the Brigham City mortuary, Mountain Home. The accident was reported to the post of entry here by a passing truck driver. The investigating officers found the smashed vehicle at the bottom of the embankment on the railway tracks. The wreckage was removed shortly before a train was due.

The double fatality brought to five the number of persons killed in the Magic Valley area of Elmore county since Jan. 1. Three others were killed July 16 near Glenns Ferry.

Local Man Killed In Auto Crash at City Intersection

A 32-year-old Twin Falls man was killed Tuesday morning when thrown from his 1947 Plymouth into a ditch and his vehicle crashed down on top of his body following a two-car collision at the intersection of Madrona street and Fourth avenue east. Fred L. Dedman, 535 1/2 Second avenue west, was pronounced dead on arrival by a physician at Magic Valley Memorial hospital. The driver and passenger of the other vehicle, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred V. Carlson, 854 Morningstar drive, were described in "fair" condition at 1 p.m. by their physician.

Mrs. Carlson incurred fractured ribs and a possible neck injury. Carlson has a possible chest injury and both have lacerations about the head.

Their physician said both were in shock and the extent of their injuries could not be determined until X-ray pictures were completed.

The traffic death is the third within the city limits since April 28. It is the 31st in Magic Valley and No. 12 in Twin Falls county since Jan. 1.

City police say Dedman was driving into the sun and ran through a yield right of way sign. His vehicle crashed into the side of the 1954 Chevrolet driven south by Carlson.

The impact caused Carlson's car to turn over onto the top. Dedman's car spun to the left, throwing him from under the wheel into the dry, shallow ditch. His car continued its spinning turn and crashed down upon him. It did not turn over.

When the Plymouth was lifted by a wrecker Dedman's body was found in a crumpled kneeling position with his head forced down under one arm. John Nussbaum, assisted city police and ambulance drivers in removing the body from under the car.

City Agrees to Study Tree Spray Program

The Twin Falls city commissioners agreed Monday night to set up a committee to determine what can be done in eliminating tree pests within the city limits. The committee, to be appointed by the commission chairman, will consist of technical experts and members of the city government. It will attempt to determine both an immediate solution to elm beetles and other pests and to study a long range program.

At the request of City Manager Joseph H. Latimore, several persons attended Monday night's meeting to give technical advice on control of pests now infesting trees in the city.

Kenneth Gibson, from the bureau of entomology, said the danger of losing the city's trees this year was not great but if the pests were to continue for another year without being controlled the city stands a good chance of losing all elm trees.

Warren Dalgh, county agent, told commissioners the best time for destroying many of the insects is during the dormant winter season. Dr. Cecil Reinstein outlined several types of sprays that could be used and noted the toxic effect each would have on humans. He said regardless of what type is used some persons would complain of being affected by the spray.

Latimore outlined a program used in Boise to control tree pests. He said the city has a forestry department and an ordinance charging a nuisance where a property owner fails to control pests or trim trees.

He said the city cares for all trees on public domain when the forestry officials call on property owners, the latter shows a receipt that his trees have been sprayed. If no receipt is available the trees are sprayed by the city.

Blaine Ground Water Supply Said Adequate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The geological survey says ground water can be developed to supplement surface water for irrigation in the middle Big Wood river-Silver creek area of Blaine county, Idaho.

The report was prepared for the bureau of reclamation.

The report explains the middle Big Wood river-Silver creek basin lies between the mountains of central Idaho and the Snake river plain. It is drained in part by the Big Wood river and in part by Silver creek. It contains 48,000 acres, of which about 20,000 is irrigated and 7,500 could be irrigated if water were available. Normal flow of the streams is not enough to meet demand for water late in the growing season.

The report says ground water withdrawals for irrigation were about 7,500 acre feet in 1954. It adds that "additional irrigation might increase the yearly withdrawals to as much as 68,000 acre feet."

It says the area contains copious supplies of both artesian and unconfined water, with the depth to the water table of the unconfined zone averaging about 18 feet.

Operation on Ike's Wife Is 'Not Serious'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower underwent an operation today for a "benign" condition. The White House said the operation was "not serious."

The first lady, 60, was reported to be in "good condition" following the surgery.

The operation was performed at Walter Reed hospital by an army gynecologist, Dr. Humbert L. Riva. Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Mrs. Eisenhower entered the operating room about 8 a.m. and the surgery was concluded two hours later.

While the operation was in progress, the President was meeting at the White House with Republican congressional leaders. Hagerty said the President would visit her this afternoon.

Hagerty said he was not able to describe the actual nature of the operation beyond saying it was for a "benign" condition, that it was not a tumor.

Hagerty said it has been "known for quite a little time" that the first lady would require surgery. He added that it was not an emergency operation and that Mrs. Eisenhower had not been in pain.

Her son, Maj. John S. Eisenhower, and his wife, spent most of last evening with the first lady at the hospital.

Hagerty said he did not plan to issue any medical bulletins on Mrs. Eisenhower's condition.

Hearing Sought for Manslaughter Count

Lester Pehrson, 26, 232 Monroe street, charged with involuntary manslaughter as a result of a rural accident July 18 that killed a 51-year-old man and hospitalized three other persons, Monday requested a preliminary hearing when he appeared in Twin Falls probate court. He is charged with wilfully, unlawfully and feloniously driving his 1953 Oldsmobile which crashed into a farm truck loaded with chopped hay about three miles south of Twin Falls on the airport road. Carroll Sparks Barber, Hoover trailer courts, was killed in the crash.

Boost in FHA Interest Rates Sparks Talk of Ceilings Fixed by Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—A rise in FHA interest rates, the second in eight months, brought talk today of congressional action to limit any further increases.

The federal housing administration made effective today an increase from 5 to 5 1/2 per cent in the maximum interest rate on home mortgages it insures. The rate was boosted last December from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent.

Along with the higher rate, FHA also announced Monday lower down payments on homes financed with government-backed mortgages. The biggest reduction applies to houses in the $10,000 to $25,000 class.

Lowering of FHA down payments was greeted generally with approval in congress. But the interest boost immediately drew the fire of Democrats who have been critical of administration monetary policies.

Representative Rains, D. Ala., chairman of the housing subcommittee of the house, said "congress must fix the ceiling on FHA interest rates." He said the possibility he would seek to fix a lower FHA rate ceiling.

"It may well be," he declared, "that we will have to enact legislation placing some sort of reasonable limit on FHA interest rates to stop the present administration's mania for continually raising interest rates."

Rains said "apparently this administration cannot take any action in the financial field which does not benefit the big banking interests in some way."

Congress in past housing legislation gave the federal housing administrator authority to raise the interest rate to as much as six per cent. New legislation would be required to lower or raise this ceiling.

Republicans agreed with FHA that a higher rate was necessary to keep FHA mortgage loans competitive with other financing demands in the current tight money market.

Mount Borah, State's Highest Mountain, Falls to Cleric, 70

SUN VALLEY, Aug. 6—A Springfield, Ill., clergyman, who admits he is over 70, added Idaho's highest peak—12,000-foot Mount Borah—to his "collection" of mountains during the week-end.

What was more remarkable than the Rev. P. W. McDermott's conquest of the peak is the fact that he has climbed the highest peak in each of 40 states and expects to complete his record by climbing Granite peak in Montana and Gannett peak in Wyoming later this summer.

Lou Blunt, assistant manager of the Sun Valley lodge, an experienced climber who accompanied the Rev. Mr. McDermott, says there is no record in the log at the top of Mount Borah of the peak ever having been climbed before by anyone in the clergyman's age bracket. Blunt, who has climbed the mountain several times, terms it one of the toughest grinds in mountain climbing in the nation.

The climb calls for a five-hour ascent from 7,000 feet to more than 12,000 feet. Although no vertical rock climbing is called for, Blunt calls it a "humdinger" for endurance as climbers scramble over exposed ridges and make use of climbing ropes and a difficult snowfield.

The Sun Valley climber gave his companion high praise for endurance, steadiness and sportsmanship in climbing and said that never once did the older man call for an extra halt for rest.

Flood Receding After Taking Pair of Lives in New Mexico

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Aug. 6 (AP)—Receding waters today marked the end to a flood in this area that took the lives of a Sapello, N. M., preacher and his 10-year-old daughter. The Gallinas river was principal troublemaker when it overflowed its banks early yesterday after three storage dams in the watershed area to the north broke under the pressure of torrential rains.

But today the 36 families routed from their homes at Lourdes to the south of here were sweeping out debris left by the high, muddy waters.

Drinking water here was uncontaminated, but public health officials warned owners of shallow wells to boil drinking and cooking water to avoid possible typhoid infection.

Dr. Mary Waddell said about 25 outdoor privies along the Gallinas banks may have planted potential disease breeding filth along the river's course.

Killed in an arroyo flood were the Rev. E. La Porte, 40, and his daughter, Laura, 10. Sheriff Robert Martinez said La Porte navigated one water-filled spot on state highway 3 en route to his Sapello home after attending church services here Sunday night.

But in trying to ford a washed out area 12 miles north of here, his car apparently hit a low spot and either overturned or was tipped over by the force of water speeding down the normally dry arroyo into the Sapello river.

Both occupants were swept from the car and their bodies deposited three-fourths of a mile downstream. Searchers found La Porte's body arched over a fallen tree, and that of his daughter about 100 yards distant against a pine fence.

Ranch and farm land for several hundred yards on either side of the Gallinas river were covered by knee-deep mud.

Timbers from the reservoir dam blocked the inlet to Storrie lake, which is used as an irrigation supply reservoir.

Forest Blaze Jumps Break In Sawtooths

where crews had sought to stop them.
Officials said the fire had swept up Pole creek about seven miles from where it started Saturday and that late Monday night it seemed to be burning at the head of Pole creek and to be "spotting everywhere around there."

Airplanes dropped marine water pumps to utilize water from beaver ponds in the area.
A helicopter ordered to the scene from Missoula to help distribute water and supplies to the firefighters was grounded, ironically, by rains in Montana.

J. L. Sevy, Sawtooth national forest supervisor, went to the fire scene Monday and consulted with men directing the action and with those fighting the fire.

Winds at elevations as high as those where the fire is burning (7,000 to 8,000 feet) keep blowing throughout the night, they noted, and give firefighters crews no respite from the pressing flames.

Meeting Monday to plan new strategy were Maurice Fishes, assistant supervisor, and Tom Matthews, assistant regional forester. Ogden: Edward Jerab, in charge of surveying, and Wesley Carlson, Twin Falls office staff officer.

Meanwhile, in Burley, Delwyn Hooks, Scoutmaster of Boy Scout troop No. 12, told the Times-News his troop was the first on the scene of the fire and the Scouts promptly began an attempt to contain it.

"They helped in whatever they could," said Hooks, "first by clearing a natural fire line and preventing the fire from jumping to the road. They helped cut down trees with a power saw and axes to clear paths for the caterpillars to get through. They helped put out sparks that jumped on other parts away from the main body of the fire."

"They helped clear away dead wood to prevent it from adding to the blaze, and helped carry drinking water to the men. They worked hard for four and one-half hours and are deserving of credit."

He said the Scouts were returning from Camp Cape Horn.

Hoffa, Meany Appear to Be At Showdown

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 6 (AP)—A showdown between Teamster crown prince James R. Hoffa and AFL-CIO President George Meany is expected to take place today following the rejection of the AFL-CIO building trades department of a Meany-backed proposal to end jurisdictional disputes.

The trades department yesterday apparently strengthened Hoffa's attack against the power and prestige of the AFL-CIO president by failing to accept a Meany-backed proposal for solution of job jurisdiction disputes between the industrial and craft unions.

The plint-sized trucking union vice president had come to the meeting armed with a resolution opposing the Meany solution to the jurisdictional clashes.

Hoffa Happy

He said he was "happy" after the more than 150 delegates attending the special one-day meeting of the AFL-CIO president by failing to accept a Meany-backed proposal for solution of job jurisdiction disputes between the industrial and craft unions.

The vote came after Peter T. Schoenbaum, general president of the Plumbers' union and chairman of a committee to study the issue, told the delegates that Meany had agreed yesterday morning to have his agreement reconsidered at the Chicago meeting.

"It's just what we wanted," said Hoffa.

Favoritism Seen

Hoffa's resolution, sponsored by the Teamsters' building council in his stronghold of Detroit, contended the Meany agreement would favor industrial unions.

"We are not prepared to pay the high price tags that the ultimate product apparently now carries," the resolution said.

Hoffa told newsmen following the meeting that there had been no need to submit this resolution.

"We're back where we're at," he said. "What else do we need?"

Meany's proposal, drawn up by a joint committee headed by him, would provide that new construction should be done by the craft-work building unions. Production and maintenance jobs would fall to the unions organized on plant-wide terms.

Meat Packing Figure Slumps

BOISE, Aug. 6 (AP)—Idaho's commercial slaughter houses produced less meat in June than in any month since October of 1955, the U. S. department of agriculture reported today.

Red meat production was listed at 1,283,000 pounds. The department said this was still the second largest June production on record, exceeded only by the 1956 June production.

The department also said that production of milk in June was three per cent above the advance estimates because of a near-record rate per cow, despite a slight decrease since last year in the number of milk cows. Production was estimated at 152,000,000 pounds, or nine per cent above the five-year average for June.

President Eugene Gluhareff of the Gluhareff Helicopter corporation at Manhattan Beach, Calif., demonstrates his company's one-man 'copter, described as the smallest jet helicopter in the world. He said the plane weighs only 68 pounds and can operate on cheap propane gas and three flashlight batteries. Powered by jet engines on the 10-foot rotor blades, the craft will be capable of flying 50 miles an hour, according to Gluhareff. He estimated the cost of a production model as equal to that of a large car. Flight tests so far have been conducted with the plane harnessed to a safety wire. (AP wirephoto)

The emergency move was ordered yesterday after a hastily called meeting of city and state officials. They met to plan a counterattack against a recent rash of juvenile crime.

There have been three killings and a series of beatings and brawls involving teenagers in the past 11 days.

The young rookies will be armed with nightsticks and pistols. Each rookie's beat will be linked with two others manned by experienced patrolmen.

The rookies are going into battle in such potentially dangerous areas as the Red Hook section of Brooklyn and Washington Heights in Manhattan. They will walk their beats from 6 to 12 p.m., the critical hours for teen-age violence.

The rookies are probationary patrolmen enrolled at the police academy. They were sworn in last June 28.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

BY RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON—Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., will be given the major blame—or credit—by foes and friends of the civil rights bill, if congress fails to pass it in a form satisfactory to the White House and to GOP politicians striving to recapture the colored and allied votes.

In this controversy and in other politico-judicial matters, Thomas E. Dewey's gift to the administration and a supposedly smart ballot-box operator has not been a successful servant to President Eisenhower on Capitol Hill. The criticism once reserved for Secretaries Benson, Dulles and Wilson now falls on him.

The Democrats from the South resent his persistent demand for no compromise on civil rights, even though he has expressed willingness to restrict it to protection of the vote. He has also been accused of writing a "concocted" and "deceptive" measure with deliberate attempt to "hornswoggle" congress.

He has rejected congressional and newspapermen's requests to make known the actual identity of the man who drafted such a confused conglomeration of legislation.

POT SHOTS

SLAVE!!!

Dear Pots:

Regular Mower is a slave to convention. Not only that, but, being of the fuddy-duddy type, implies that regular mowing is a virtue. I won't speculate upon the childhood, but will point out my sorrow for his children, if he has any.

Every spring when the frost leaves the ground the earth seems to sprout a greenish excrement that can be likened to a mould. This we call vegetation. It is essential to our lives and economy and is a livelihood for a majority of your readers. These latter are the professionals, the farmers.

Regular Mower, however, would have us amateurs regularly harvest a worthless crop of lawn clippings. How, even in the name of "keeping up with the Joneses" can he be serious? His conformist way of thinking indicates something not wholly in keeping with the great traditions of free thought and action that this country has long championed.

Indeed, our Regular Mower would indicate when our lawns were to be mowed, to what height, and when we were to water and what quantity. He probably has some sinister plan for the upbringing of our children without toys or joys and seems, as if this weren't enough, to be somewhat of an amateur critic.

We are "vacationing" this summer and proud of it. Sure, the grass could be cut, the toys could be picked up and there is a brown spot on two in the lawn. It will all get done, at least before winter, but in the meantime Mr. Regular Mower, since you have all this free time to criticize, please feel free to come on over and help me get it done. Right now, I'm busy thinking.

"WASHINGTON CALLING" BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—The deep feeling of disillusion over the sham battle that finally killed any effective civil rights legislation for this session is bound to be translated sooner or later into results where they count—in the polling booth.

There have already been many predictions of the effect of that midnight show-down attaching the jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill. But Northern Democrats, when they speak frankly in private, do not conceal their fears that the fact that only nine Democrats voted against them in the votes of Negroes in 1956, if not in 1955.

The Southern generalship was a superb one. On the ramparts Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia uttered one shrewd rallying cry after another. He said some quite extraordinary things that in the heat of the controversy no one seemed ready to deny.

In the closing days of the debate he warned that if the jury trial amendment were to be rejected the civil rights bill would apply first in Cook county, Ill., rather than in the South. The southerners had made much of racial disturbances in Chicago which had called for action by large numbers of police.

"If some public official in Cook county goes to persons whom he has helped to get jobs and tells them they had better vote this way or else they may lose their jobs," Russell told the senate, "he will subject himself to this harsh injunctive process because he will be threatening or coercing another person in relation to voting under the terms of the bill and will be subject to an injunction."

It happens, of course, that what Russell described is already a violation of law. No one rose to challenge this remarkable statement.

That illustrates the weakness on the Republican side. Sen. William Knowland, the minority leader, was firm and determined in his opposition to the jury trial amendment. But neither he nor any other Republican showed the articulateness, the persistence and the resourcefulness of Russell and other Southerners.

The chief of staff directing operations from his well-organized command headquarters was Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the majority leader of the senate. On the phone constantly when he was not working face to face with the doubtfuls, Johnson calmed, argued, pleaded. Unity was his theme—we must show that we are not a divided party.

So much of the strategy was shrewd that it proved effective. Or, at any rate, it was not exposed with comparable force and vigor. The amendment thrown in at the last minute by Sen. Frank Church of Idaho to insure the presence of Negroes on Southern juries trying individuals for contempt of court orders against those allegedly interfering with the right to vote was a brilliant and perhaps the decisive maneuver. It is believed to have been inspired by Johnson.

All citizens regardless of race, color or creed have been guaranteed the right to serve on juries as well as the right to vote ever since the Civil war. It is the exercise of those rights that was at stake in the civil rights bill.

The presence of Negroes on Southern juries in contempt cases involving the right to vote would mean little, according to those who know the South well. The dominant white majority on a jury would overawe or simply outvote the Negroes who might find themselves in the jury box.

The church amendment was nevertheless persuasive. It helped to align some labor support behind the jury trial provision. Actually, as administration spokesmen argued, there are six areas of the law in which a federal judge can now pass upon a contempt citation without benefit of a jury. This includes the anti-trust laws and the fair-trade practices act.

As so often in the past, President Eisenhower's role is difficult to define. Republicans in the senate say he did try to make a last-minute effort on the telephone to persuade those who were about to defect. These same sources add that some senators—John Marshall Butler of Maryland was one—refused to take the Presidential call.

With Democrats voting four to one for the amendment Johnson may rack this up as a score for unity. But as one embittered Northerner remarked in the aftermath, "We'd better be asking ourselves: Unity for what?"

Purchasing Power Going up Despite Slip in Dollar Value

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—The value of the dollar has been falling but most Americans are better off than ever before, government data indicate.

Sounds impossible? Let's see how it works out.

When economists say the value of the dollar drops, they mean that a dollar buys fewer things than it used to. The dollar itself is the same, but prices have risen.

The consumer dollar today is estimated to have a purchasing power about five-sixths of what it was worth 10 years ago.

Put another way, with the 1947-49 average of consumer goods prices equal to one hundred, the bureau of labor statistics' latest price index stood at 120.2—an all-time high.

Yet despite this record of inflation—a record that runs back into the 19th century—Americans on the average are able to buy more goods and services than ever before.

Commerce department figures show that national average per capita "real" income in 1956 was nearly 50 per cent greater than in 1929. That is, the average American could buy 50 per cent more goods and services last year than in the heyday of the Golden Twenties.

This despite the increase in taxes since then. And despite the fact that the purchasing power of the dollar (taking 1947-49 as a base of 100 cents) fell from $1.36 in 1929 to 86 cents now.

The explanation of course is that average income rose faster than prices and taxes.

Economists noted that these figures are for national per capita averages. Different segments of the population have fared differently. Some say nothing of differences in individual fortunes. As a class, manufacturing production workers had the greatest gain.

Rising prices probably have had their worst effect on older people who live on older incomes. Other kinds of fixed incomes have not increased as much as prices. This is one of the reasons why most economists continue to warn against much inflation—despite the present favorable situation of the "average" person as compared to past years. With inflation rising prices, the person who invests in bonds, insurance, other investments payable in dollars will see back dollars of lower purchasing power than he put in in the first place. Debtors may profit in such a situation.

Today's dollar would look much smaller if its value were estimated from 1913 prices instead of the 1947-49 now used. In that case, 1947 buck would be worth about 30 cents. Using this same base, last month's consumer price index, however would be 284 instead of 120.2.

"HIGHWAY ROULETTE"

The Times-News naturally is pleased with what Probate Judge Everett M. Sweeley had to say in support of the press, radio and television in handing down his decision in the case of the two local teen-agers involved in the death of a 3-year-old child.

After classing death and destruction caused by automobiles "as one of the most demanding social problems today," Judge Sweeley expressed his approval of the service performed by newspapers in keeping the public informed about what is happening on streets and highways.

"When the press," he stated in part, "publishes reports of what happens on our streets and highways, it renders a real and great public service in a field where powerful and repeated emphasis is a public need and where overemphasis is impossible."

He noted further that the Times-News account of accidents "reaches thousands of drivers, reaches them quickly when the impact of the facts is greatest."

"Even with all the help our publicity media are giving," he emphasized, "we are not doing too well. If that help was withdrawn, or toned down for less emphasis, our traffic problem would be hopeless."

"The toll of dead and injured . . . is so terrible and so continuing, and our success in coping with the problem is so mediocre," Judge Sweeley reasoned, "that it isn't possible to overemphasize any aspect of our traffic situation."

We were particularly impressed with Judge Sweeley's description of irresponsible driving as "highway roulette," which he said is even more dangerous than Russian roulette played with a loaded revolver.

"In gambling with the Russian variety," he said, "the gambler risks only his own life, and he is less despaired that the human life gambler on a highway. For on the highway the gambler risks not only his own life but the lives of others who are both innocent and helpless."

He observed that "for most people the sight of or being in a motor wreck is usually enough to cure permanently any willingness the viewer may have . . . to become involved in a highway gamble. Facts are persuasive and when we read . . . a timely, factual and objective report of something that has happened where someone has gambled on our streets or highways with tragic results, we are jarred by its facts into taking up the slack in our own mental attitude. And in time . . . the publication makes us better drivers."

To our way of thinking, Judge Sweeley's statement should go a long way toward bringing our local traffic problems into sharper focus, and he is to be commended for his forthright manner in discussing a serious problem so frankly.

If all our courts were as conscientious, we are confident law enforcement would be far more effective, which would be reflected in fewer lives lost and less property damage.

The only way we'll ever come anywhere near solving the traffic problem will be as the result of such realistic thinking as that expressed by Judge Sweeley.

The continued indifference of our city officials will get us nowhere, for instance, nor will our police chief accomplish anything by referring to the editors of the Times-News as rabble-rousers for performing a duty which Judge Sweeley has described as "a real and great public service in a field where powerful and repeated emphasis is a public need and where overemphasis is impossible."

In the same issue of the Times-News carrying the account of Judge Sweeley's decision, a story from Washington quoted FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover as describing the nation's highway death toll as "mechanized massacre."

"The reckless driver can cause as much grief as the kidnaper and the armed robber," he said. "No longer can we allow speeders and reckless drivers the false cloak of 'petty offenders.'"

WISCONSIN'S PRIMARY

The triumph of former Gov. Walter Kohler in the Republican senatorial primary in Wisconsin is of somewhat more than ordinary interest. He is an avowed Eisenhower man in a state which, in politics below the presidential level, has showed strong conservative leanings.

The contest is for the seat of the late Joseph R. McCarthy, who died this spring. McCarthy won election twice in Wisconsin, gaining powerful backing from wealthy industrialists.

Those same elements last year supported former Rep. Glenn Davis in a bid to unseat Sen. Alexander Wiley, but failed. Davis this time was the chief adversary of Kohler, and again enjoyed much conservative support.

Kohler's victory, while relatively narrow, was thus rather notable. Not only did he have to buck Davis, but he faced a wide field of opponents who served to divide the total GOP vote considerably.

Nevertheless, the outcome is obviously not a clear proof that even in conservative Wisconsin President Eisenhower's moderate Republicanism rings a bell. For Kohler as a former governor is popular in his own right, and it is hard to separate the two factors.

DENOUNCE BROWNELL'S SLURRING OF PREDECESSORS

Non-Southern and liberal Democrats now have their own complaints against him. Together with some Republicans, they think that it was atrociously poor taste for him to denounce his Democratic predecessors at the justice department while using a London platform for a partisan attack. Such quarrels, they feel, should be confined to the domestic hougings.

Nor have they forgotten that, in a belated exhuming of the Harry Dexter White incident, he virtually accused Harry S. Truman of tolerating suspects around him, even after he had been warned of their perfidy. No other cabinet member has raked over so many still flaming political coals as Brownell.

GRUDGE AGAINST ATTORNEY GENERAL

The Warren tribunal's recent decisions have been questioned and criticized by the American bar association at its London session, by the Association of Attorneys General, and by numerous law enforcement agencies. From FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover down to the lowliest town constable.

But Brownell refuses to voice an opinion for whatever influence it might have on the high court, although that is his privilege.

POORLY PREPARED BRIEFS

Here again, Brownell gets the blame on the ground that he has not shown himself to be a top-notch lawyer. In reviewing decisions in which the supreme court made it more difficult to punish communists, arrested criminals and contemptuous witnesses before congressional committees, Capitol Hill lawyers maintain that the legal staff prepared their government briefs and arguments poorly.

Industrialists and businessmen have joined the anti-Brownell chorus, including numerous strong law supporters in 1952 and 1954. With particular reference to the du Pont-General Motors litigation, as well as to his blocking of so many corporate mergers, they use the very phrase that FDR once applied to the supreme court.

They characterize him as a "horse-and-buggy lawyer," meaning that he does not appreciate the needs and trends and evolutionary processes of today's expanding economy.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

PAY-AND-A-HALF-RACKET

From Albany comes the strange report that thousands of workers in New York state are filing claims for unemployment compensation for periods during which they were on paid vacations.

This phenomenon becomes possible, it appears, because the state unemployment insurance appeals board last January ruled that under many union contracts vacation pay is a "bonus for past services" rather than current remuneration. Hence workers at a plant closed for vacation consider themselves "unemployed." Legislation to head off this type of claim was included in a bill vetoed for other reasons by Governor Harriman.

The state industrial commissioner believes that the number of such claims will be relatively small and that many of these will be thrown out on various grounds, such as whether the applicant was really "available for work" and whether the union consented to the unemployment compensation.

The unemployment compensation systems of the various states, set up under the federal social security act, seem to be special targets of many efforts to "cheat" or to obtain benefits not strictly due. Perhaps a less easily identifiable tendency is one to raise the level of benefits during good times to a level which reserve funds would not support through an adverse period.

At any rate, an effort to "cash in" on claims which could not be supported in good conscience must be resisted. The president of the Associated Industries of New York state makes the valid point that any "windfalls" are paid not only at the expense of the employer but also "at the expense of the steady, conscientious worker for whose protection the unemployment insurance fund was created."—Christian Science Monitor.

THE LEOPOLD CASE

"The lives of Loeb and Leopold were saved. But there was nothing before them, to the end, but stark, blank slates."

In "The Story of My Life," Clarence Darrow, the brilliant criminal lawyer who defended Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb in the "thrill" killing of young Bobby Franks in 1934, summed up his discussion of the case with those words. At that time, it appeared that neither would again be free. The judge who sentenced them to 99 years had declared they should never be released.

Loeb, a sex deviate, did spend the rest of his life behind the walls. He was killed by another inmate in 1936.

But Leopold stands a fair chance of enjoying some years of freedom, despite the denial this week of executive clemency by Governor William G. Stratton of Illinois and denial of parole in 1953 by the Illinois parole board.

Leopold may file for parole again and it may be that the board will look with greater favor on supervised liberty than it did on release without supervision in recommending against executive clemency. In any event, he will be released in 1959, if he lives and continues maximum "good time" allowance.

Perhaps Leopold would be able to resume his place in free society without danger to any other person. But his life was spared with the understanding that he would never again be a hazard to society. It is such assurance that this page has urged in proposing abolishment of capital punishment in Oregon.—Portland Oregonian.

SPEED, GREATEST KILLER

When you read of a traffic fatality . . . and you do almost daily . . . you can't help but be impressed with the number of fatal accidents attributed to high speed.

The Travelers Insurance company, Hartford, Conn., is sufficiently disturbed by what its actuarial rolls reveal to take paid advertising in many magazines in an effort to curb this menace. We reprint the advertisement here, and recommend it for your reading.

"Everyone who is in a position to influence drivers should know that horsepower in the hands of the heedless is the fundamental cause of our ever mounting auto-accident toll."

In 1956, 13,830 men, women and children were killed and nearly 800,000 were injured in accidents attributed to exceeding the speed limit.

"This means that more than 40 per cent of last year's record-breaking traffic casualties were the direct result of heedless horsepower."—Idaho Falls Post-Register.

Yep, folks sure like their baseball. And if they'll look around the stands now and then, there won't have to be any explanation next season, will there.

Barbara Base Is Bride of Reimer In Church Rites

RICHFIELD, Aug. 6—The marriage of Barbara Base and Wayne Reimer was solemnized Sunday afternoon at the Richfield Methodist church with the Rev. Ralph Lawrence performing the double ring ceremony.

Baskets of gladioli and shasta daisies decorated the altar with lighted tapers in floor candelabra forming the background. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Base, Richfield, and the bridegroom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Reimer, Hailey.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white tulle and lace, fashioned with a Queen Elizabeth collar, bouffant sleeves and lace panels, lily-point sleeves of lace, and fitted bodice. ## We, the Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

Her husband has gone up fast in the business world. Now she is frightened that she won't be a credit to him socially.

She writes:

"My husband has just received an important promotion. In this new job he will have to entertain, which is something we have never done very much of."

"I grew up on a farm and took a job before I finished high school. The wives of the men my husband works with are college graduates. They know how to entertain. And they have so much poise I feel uncomfortable around them."

"I would keep in the background. If I could, but my husband keeps after me to entertain the people who have entertained us. I know he is right, but I'm scared, just plain scared."

You needn't be. Plan a party carefully. With the help of a good cookbook and the aid of a standard book of etiquette you can do it easily.

Keep the party simple. Don't go in for anything too elaborate. Don't hesitate to borrow ideas for service, etc., from parties you have been to in the past.

On the night of the party, treat your guests with the same kind of friendliness and warmth you appreciate in others.

Above all, don't worry about the fact that some of your guests went to school longer than you did. That isn't important—if you will just relax and be yourself.

And if you will make a habit of reading good books and your daily paper, listening to good music, and boys and girls against their ignorance and inexperience.

Neither boys nor girls should go alone to adult parties, and for that matter, even to parties given for them. Some adult must be on hand to lend his strength of spirit, his experience and his authority if need be, to prevent the mistakes these children are likely to make.

This is difficult for parents today so many children are at a loose end. "Everybody does it. I'm the only one, etc." is hard to take time after time but the children's welfare must come first and adults must in order that they be trained and taught and kept safely.

The best insurance any child can have is the association, close and friendly, with his father and mother from the time he is born to the last time they have it. It won't do to wait until the children are adolescents. Habits, associations, friends are formed by then. It is imperative to start early in the way that is to prevail for the years ahead.

Do you force your child to eat something he does not like when you can substitute something else just as good? Do you explain how to get children to eat the proper foods in booklet No. 403, "Feeding Your Child." To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to him, "Times-News, P.O. "I was invited to visit a school friend overnight and attend a dance at the Country club but my parents would not allow me to go. They said first, I was too young and next, they did not know the people and they could not let me go. I am 15. Don't you think I ought to be allowed to go?"

No, I heartily agree with your father and mother, and you, instead of feeling mistreated, should thank them for taking care of you, protecting you from your helplessness. You are much too young to go alone on an overnight visit. Quite too inexperienced to attend a dance at the Country club at an adult party. It is quite impossible to tell you all the reasons why you should not do this and you would do better to take what your parents say on trust.

They are the best friends you have or ever will have.

Too many boys and girls in their early teens are at liberty to do where they will and do what they will and the results are bad for both parents and children. Parents, proud of what they can do for their children, are making the mistake of putting adult responsibilities on the shoulders of children and when the children get into trouble one way or another, blame them for it. It costs less in time, money and anguish to guard the inexperienced

Woman Assists In New Life for Idling Industry

BY AILEEN SNOODY
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Following the straight and narrow path may be old hat but it has paid off in executive jobs for a woman designer.

It's also paid off for the average housewife Mrs. U.S.A. now can step into the drapery department of a large store and walk out with "lace" curtains at a popular price.

All this has happened because Beulah Charlart, director of styling and merchandising for Scranton lace company kept her nose out of office politics. Instead she went after new designs with a redneck's determination.

As for the place of women in executive positions, she says, "There should be no complaint if a woman sticks to her job."

The keys to any woman's success in an executive area, she says, are luck and being prepared, with heavy emphasis on the latter.

Mrs. Charlart is in a field dominated for years by men. To them goes much of the credit for cabaret patterned lace curtains. These designs were almost the death knell of lace in this country.

"We want to bring back a sense of well-being and luxury to homes and help people live graciously and not just those of a higher income bracket," the designer explains.

"Lace has always been an item of gracious living. It landed on the basement counters and shelves because housewives grew tired of box-lace. Lace was hard to keep white, especially the floral or very ornate patterns," she points out.

The new easement cloth fabric Mrs. Charlart designs bears the magic words of the era—drip-dry.

How to capture the upstairs market through the average housewife faced Mrs. Charlart in her new job last year.

Her solution utilize what we have in this case it was the traditional weaving machines. The result was wide seamless widths of material that will cover most home windows.

And the modern designs, Scandinavian and Italian influenced, also appeal to men.

Her inspiration came from a city-block long Nottingham weaving machine the company uses. It could turn out endless quantities of 90-inch or wider material without stopping, she learned. Ninety inches is standard length for ready-made draperies.

The trick, Mrs. Charlart found, is to put the modern designs on the loom sideways. Thus the 90-inch dimension becomes the length of the finished drapery. The width of the seamless curtain is whatever you want it to be.

Although she took the frills out of draperies, Beulah Charlart could not keep them out of her hobby, making hats.

"Oh, I have closets of hats," she exclaimed. She describes her creations as having a "severely tailored base with frills and much tulle. You know, My Fair Lady."

In a penthouse overlooking the Hudson she follows her daughter's progress in studying design.

"My daughter is studying to put me out of business," she laughed in parting.

U. S. Slashes Payments by Home Buyers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—In twin moves to spur home buying among lower and middle income families, the government yesterday cut almost in half the minimum down payment for FHA-insured homes and boosted the interest rate from 5 to 5 1/2 per cent. And new strict controls were clamped on the amount of discount or premium—which may be charged borrowers or mortgage loans insured by the federal housing administration or the Veterans administration.

At the same time, the federal national mortgage association announced a new schedule of prices at which it will buy FHA and VA mortgages.

Albert M. Cole, housing and home finance administrator, said, "The new housing regulations are aimed at channeling 'a larger share of available mortgage investment funds into the financing of lower priced homes without increasing inflationary pressures in our economy.'"

The higher interest rate, new discount regulations and FNMA schedule go into effect on all loan applications received after Monday. The lower down payment rate is effective Tuesday.

The new FHA interest rate is expected to result in a related increase in the open market rate on conventional home mortgage loans now around 5 1/2 per cent. Some lending institutions already are reported anticipating a 6 per cent rate.

Reductions in down payments were authorized by congress in legislation President Eisenhower signed on July 12, and it was left to FHA to decide to put them into partial or full effect. The government decided to go all the way. Congress also directed the FHA and VA to impose "reasonable" discount regulations.

Monday's announcement was generally applauded by building industry spokesmen.

However, Representative Rains, D., Ala., chairman of the housing subcommittee of the house, said the FHA interest rate has now been raised so high "There is a serious question in my mind as to whether the whole intent of the FHA program is being nullified."

"The FHA program was designed to permit families of moderate income to buy homes with small down payments at reasonable financing costs," Rains said. "The financing tariff on these loans is now so heavy on the consumer that I think the congress must restudy the whole FHA program."

Reasons Set For Loans to Area Farmer

Refinancing of indebtedness, purchase of land, improvements to land and buildings, and general farm operations are major reasons for rural loans in Magic Valley, says Jay H. Felt, secretary-treasurer of the Twin Falls National Farm Loan association.

Felt noted that loans during the 1957 fiscal year reached a total of $871,000 to residents of Twin Falls and Jerome counties.

The association is a cooperative owned by member-borrowers and is one of 64 other associations located in Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Montana. These associations own the federal land bank of Spokane, Wash., for which they make and service loans.

The association's outstanding loan account on June 30 stood at $4,640,400, about $500,000 higher than the 1956 fiscal year. In Idaho, National Farm Loan associations closed $3,322,700 in long-term land bank loans during the 1956 fiscal year.

In four states, the bank's volume reached $29,017,800, the third largest year in its 40-year history.

Tiny Helicopter Being Perfected

MANHATTAN BEACH, Calif., Aug. 6 (AP)—A Russian-born aeronautical engineer has produced what he says is the world's smallest jet helicopter, a strap-on whirlybird weighing only 68 pounds.

Eugene M. Gluhareff says his copier uses cheap propellers and that the cost of operation "probably will be equal to that of a large automobile."

The tiny "chopper" will weigh only 45 pounds, Gluhareff says, when the next model is constructed, for he plans to use lighter materials. It flies 50 miles per hour for about 30 minutes.

Gluhareff's miniature craft is powered by burner-type jet engines mounted on the tips of two 10-foot rotor blades.

Two Cowboy Errors Assist Great Falls in Posting 6-5 Victory in 12 Innings

Two Cowboys fielding lapses in the top of the 12th inning gave the visiting Great Falls Dodgers a 6-5 win over Magic Valley Monday night and the rubber game of the three-game series. The Cowboys had fought from behind to send the contest into extra innings, but a bad throw followed by a passed ball let the home team win a crucial three-game test with second-place Billings.

The stage has been set for what could prove to be the best baseball game in Magic Valley fans this season. The second game of the three-game series between the Cowboys and the local team for the neck of the local team for the past week.

Currently leading the league by a half game, the Cowboys must win this opportunity to break the close second-half race.

Billings, who faltered after leading all other teams through most of the first half, gave up the mid-season crown to Salt Lake City, which is winning today.

Also of local interest is the fact that the Cowboys and the local team will see action during the same week over the Cowboys and the local team.

With little more than a month left in the 1957 season this series could prove to be the big one for the Cowboys. It would seem that near a 2000 mark could be expected if Magic Valley wants to see the best of the Cowboys back here next year.

Trainer Urges More Exercise For Athletes

SUN VALLEY, Aug. 6 (AP)—Athletes need more exercise than ever before because of automation, the local Idaho coaching clinic was told Monday.

For instance, by depending upon a automobile, the athlete of today is not getting enough walking to build his knees. Regardless of how good a system, or team, a coach has, he has an injured boy he can't have a successful season.

Frank Broyles, head football coach of the University of Missouri, told a coaches' earlier that high schools are increasingly using the so-called "relaxing" of football plays.

Adolph Rupp, head basketball coach at the University of Kentucky, will take over the clinic today. Clinics in wrestling will be headed by Babe Caccia, Idaho state college, and in track by Joe Sanders, University of Idaho.

The Rupert swim club splashed home with 90 points Sunday to cop first place in the annual Magic Valley invitational swimming and diving meet held at Harmon park. Following the Rupert Aces were Twin Falls, with 64 points; Jerome, 45 points; and Buhl, 40 points. Individual trophies went to Darrol Dixon, Rupert, in the junior boys division; Margaret Turbeville, Jerome, junior girls; Connie Abegglen, Twin Falls, senior girls; and Frank Hill, Twin Falls, senior men. Highlighting the day's events was a near-perfect diving exhibition by Robert Richards of Twin Falls in the senior men three-meter fancy diving event.

While a capacity crowd jammed into the swimming pool stands, swimmers and divers went through their paces in temperatures which soared above the century mark.

Tito, Russian Leaders Avow Fresh Accord

By The Associated Press
If Marshal Tito has again picked up the megaphone for communist party boss Khrushchev's campaign to win the hearts of Socialists around the world, as indicated after their conference in Romania, he faces a much tougher job than before.

This makes the third time in two years that word has gotten out of the establishment of a Tito-Khrushchev entente.

Apology

First came Khrushchev's visit to Belgrade to apologize for the 1948 break between Russia and Yugoslavia brought about by Molotov and Stalin. There were a lot of kind but veiled words between them. Tito took the attitude that if Russia wanted to be friendly all she had to do was prove it.

He continued to try to maintain a balance between East and West, and his overtures to the workers of the world consisted primarily of encouraging nationalistic communism in Russia's European satellites.

Last year there were more conferences with Khrushchev, and the world campaign is believed to have worked out then. But when Russia blamed Titoism for part of her troubles in Hungary and Poland last fall, Tito said in effect, "Well, of course we've been setting them an example."

Russia reneged on economic arrangements which had been made earlier.

"Cooperation"

Now they are believed to have been reinstated, and Tito is being called to spearhead the movement to establish "cooperation" between communist and socialist parties.

For their part, the socialists gave their answer last year, when the approach was from Moscow. They realized that in the Kremlin the word cooperation means submission they said "nothing doing."

Khrushchev has indicated several times recently that he doesn't realize how fresh and strong is the memory of what Russia did to Hungary last fall.

Then the Red army, which had been offered to the workers of the world as their defender, unmasked itself as a horribly brutal agent of tyranny.

The revelations struck the leftist world a heavy blow. Communists began resigning party memberships. Socialists reaffirmed their determination not to be absorbed. Liberals withdrew their tolerance of Russian communism as a social experiment.

Tito isn't big enough to sweep these clouds off the face of the Communist moon.

Yugoslavia is neither communist, socialist nor democratic. Tito is just a dictator, extemporizing as he goes along. He started as a communist, but has been shedding its tenets whenever the Yugoslavs put up strong resistance. He's not a very strong reed for Khrushchev to lean on as the Russian leader tries to rebuild a comintern.

Boom in U. S. Economy Has Troubles, too

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—The pains of prosperity can be just as irksome as any kind. Officials have been laying many of our ills today to the good times.

Top men in the U. S. treasury tell us that prosperity is one of the reasons we have a steadily increasing cost of living, why we have tight credit and dead money and soaring interest rates, one of the reasons we have big government spending and a big federal debt that grows ever more costly to manage.

The thinking behind much of this is the goal of full employment—or, more accurately, a minimum of unemployment. So many people are employed today that the total of personal income is at a record high. This means that consumer spending is at a record high, too. And this has contributed to the business confidence in continuing good times that has sparked the big boom in industrial expansion.

Consumer goods are for the most part in ample supply. Not all capital goods are. The urge of so many corporations to build new plants and equip them with new machinery and tools—and to do all of this right now if not sooner—is what has led to the tight money situation, and the rising price level in the view of the treasury officials.

Full employment, with a scarcity of labor in many of the skilled trades, has set the stage for the annual increase in the wage scales.

Tie the business expansion boom to a tight labor market and you get the demand and supply situation that keeps prices rising. As long as employment is so high and the total of personal incomes so high there will be little real consumer resistance to high prices. And so the spiral goes merrily on.

Those are the pains of prosperity.

Fewer Wheat Farmers Seen For New Plan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Federal farm officials expect a sizeable fall-off in wheat farmer participation in the 1958 version of the acreage reserve phase of the soil bank program.

They say several things may discourage sign-ups under the program. No longer can land diverted from wheat be offset by corresponding increases in acreages of other crops. This limitation—announced last Friday—will tend to hold income of a farm below what it otherwise might be.

The department made a slight increase in the acreage rates for retiring wheat land, but many farmers may figure it is not enough to offset the loss of income production possibilities under the new acreage limitation. The wheat rate will average $20.88 for the 1958 crop compared with $20.04 this year.

Another factor that may hold down participation is the great improvement in soil moisture conditions in the central and southern Great Plains. This improvement gives farmers there their first big chance in years of producing profitable wheat crops.
