Dio Defended as Society's Victim Before 'Probers'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Anthony Doria, racketeer and labor leader, described today as a frustrated man who sought to become an honest labor leader but "society wouldn't let him." And, Doria testified to the senate subcommittee investigating racketeering, "I had nothing to do with the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel. Dio had opportunity last week to give the senate his own version of what he aimed to do, and what he has done. But he pleaded the fifth amendment to all major questions, saying his answers might tend to incriminate."

Six Declining To Surrender Travel Papers

MOSCOW, Aug. 10 (AP)—Six young Americans balked today at turning over their passports to Red Chinese authorities but still want to make the trip to the communist land with 42 other Americans.

Fred Grab of Alexandria, Va., who is acting as a collection agent in getting the passports together, said the six preferred not to give the Chinese authorities their documents. Grab declined to identify the six Americans.

The Americans have been in Moscow for nearly three weeks for the communist-sponsored world youth festival. Others in the 150-member U. S. delegation were leaving Moscow today for home.

The 48 who are remaining have accepted invitations of the communist Chinese government to make a tour of the Chinese mainland.

The number planning to make the trip increased today when Nina Landau and David Hollister, both New York, put their names on the list. The train carrying the group on an eight-day trip to Peking leaves Wednesday.

Strikers Go Back to Tasks in Two Cities

NAMPA, Aug. 12 (AP)—Carpenters in the Nampa-Caldwell area returned to work today following a claim by contractors that their 19-day-old strike was illegal. A check of major projects showed that carpenters turned up at all of them. Carpenters in this area joined others throughout southern Idaho in a walkout July 17.

Contractors said the men returned to work at the old rate of $2.25 an hour. The contractors claimed last week, in a letter to the union, that the old contract is still in force because the required notice was not given to reopen it.

They demanded that the union send its men back to work.

Union spokesmen were not available today for comment.

Carpenters returned to work on the Nampa high school gymnasium, a new station, an armory and a project at Mercy hospital at Nampa. In Caldwell, they showed up for work on a project just starting, a 20,000 one-story veterinary laboratory at the University of Idaho experiment station.

Carpenters had gone back to work on a dormitory remodeling at College of Idaho and a J. C. Penney store in Caldwell.

The original strike involved 1,800 carpenters. A third of them, in the Nampa-Caldwell area, settled for an immediate increase of 22 cents per hour with an additional 12 1/2 cents per hour on Jan. 1, 1958.

Negotiations aimed at reaching settlement in other areas of the strike were broken off in Boise Friday. They are scheduled to resume Aug. 21.

F. Teacher on Way to England; Replacement Set

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (Special)—Miss Justice, Twin Falls elementary school teacher, was among 20 American school teachers from 10 states who set sail for England today to spend a year under the Fulbright exchange teaching program.

Miss Justice departed from New York on the luxury liner United States Tuesday for England. Her replacement is scheduled to arrive in New York aboard the Queen Elizabeth.

Miss Justice will spend this year instructing at St. Paul's C. P. school, Guildford, Surrey, England, where Margaret Munroe now teaches.

Miss Munroe will join the elementary school in Twin Falls. After spending a week in Washington, she will include orientation meetings, a state department reception and visits to the British embassy, before leaving here Aug. 23 for the west.

Communists Win Election in Java

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Aug. 12 (AP)—A communist victory was won in a landslide in Bandung, capital of West Java, and rolled up big gains in other sections of the province, nearly complete returns indicated today.

The communist victory in Bandung gave the party control of all three provincial capitals. In sections last night the reds won victories in East Java and Semarang in Central Java.

Waves Farewell

Stefano Longhi, 44, waves to rescue plane Saturday on Eiger mountain in the Swiss Alps. It proved to be a farewell gesture as rescue attempts to reach Longhi and two companions were abandoned today after a fourth climber was pulled 1,200 feet to safety. Longhi was seen today, hanging head down, at the end of his climbing ropes. Observers said he undoubtedly had died in a blizzard which swept the peak. All trace of his two companions has been lost. Rescue Efforts Are Abandoned for Trio

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland, Aug. 12 (AP)—The huge rescue operation for a group of alpinists trapped on the north wall of the Eiger mountain was officially abandoned today. The only survivor among the four climbers, Claudio Corti, of Lecco, Italy, arrived at the Eiger glacier funicular station on a stretcher today.

The 90 volunteers from seven nations who took part in the rescue operation were ordered off the mountain by rescue chief Peter Frei, who said the three other members of the group were undoubtedly dead.

The four climbers have been on the mountain since Aug. 3, and became trapped on the steep face two or three days after they started the climb.

Blizzards halted rescue operations yesterday after Corti had been lifted 1,200 feet to the summit by a winch-operated cable.

"To go down the wall in this much snow would be a suicidal folly that would help no one," a guide said. "No lives will be risked in order to bring dead men down from the north wall." Frei told a tense group of guides and alpinists at the glacier station.

Air and telescope observations of the other Italian trapped on the wall, Stefano Longhi, 44, also of Lecco, left no doubt that he died of exhaustion and exposure during the night. He had been injured by a rock fall earlier and remained suspended at the end of a rope some 300 feet below the other three since Thursday.

He was seen hanging face down, covered by snow and motionless today. His body may remain hanging there as long as the rope holds his weight.

The two German members of the group, Guenther Noldhardt, 27, and Goetz Meier, 26, apparently left the ledge they shared with Corti early yesterday morning in a desperate attempt to make their own way to the top.

All trace of them has been lost.

Early Pioneer Of Area Dies

RUPERT, Aug. 12—Mrs. Bammie Hayes, 84, pioneer Minidoka tract homesteader who made the long trek across the plains in a covered wagon from Missouri to Oregon as a child, died Saturday night at a nursing home here.

Mrs. Hayes was born Aug. 26, 1872, at St. Joseph, Mo., and accompanied her parents to Oregon at the age of 4. Later she came to northern Idaho and was married to Arthur Hayes in Kellogg in 1894.

In 1905, she and her two sons, the late Gus Hayes, arrived at the Minidoka project and homesteaded a 103-acre tract three miles northwest of Rupert. The husband and Gus Hayes preceded her in death several years ago.

Surviving, in addition to the other son who lives in Osage Beach, Mo., are three grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Mrs. Hayes was a member of the Rupert Grange, Order of the Eastern Star, the Old Settlers organization and the Pansy club of Rupert.

Funeral services are pending at the Goodman mortuary.

Fair, Warm

While surrounding areas can expect temperatures below normal through Saturday, the weatherman foresees near-normal temperatures for Magic Valley, according to the five-day forecast received from Associated Press.

"Where's the heat wave we've been expecting all summer?" wondered the AP reporter as he read this forecast: "Temperatures averaging below normal except near seasonal normal in southern Idaho. Few showers possible, mostly toward latter part of week. Highs 84 to 90 and lows 48 to 68."

79 Persons Killed When Canadian Plane Crashes Into Quebec Swampland

ISTTUTON, Que., Aug. 12 (AP)—The fuselage of a wrecked Canadian airliner began sinking slowly into a deep, watery swamp today, complicating the task for an investigating team and the searchers going after the bodies of the 79 dead. The four-engine DC4 plunged into the swamp during a summer thunderstorm yesterday 15 miles south of Quebec City. The death toll made it Canada's worst air disaster. There were no survivors.

Available evidence pointed to lightning as one possible cause of the midafternoon tragedy. The chartered airliner was carrying veterans and their families back to Canada from a vacation with their folks in Britain.

The boggy crash scene was sealed off today from photographers and souvenir hunters. Bits of bodies, clothing, personal papers and charred remains of the plane were spread far and wide.

The toll of 33 men, 41 women and five children, including six crew members, surpassed Canada's previous casualty high of 62 persons aboard a plane that crashed last December in the Rockies.

The Maritime Central Airways plane left London for Toronto on a flight chartered by the Imperial Veterans' division of the Canadian Legion's Ontario command.

Many of the men were former British servicemen who had moved to Ontario. They had taken their families for a month visit to their former homes.

The pilot, 37-year-old Norman Ramsay of Montreal, whose flying license had once been suspended on a charge of negligence in a plane crash, stopped in Iceland on the way home.

He brought the plane up the St. Lawrence river valley in sunny weather, making the prescribed radio checks. At 2:07 p.m. he reported passing over Quebec.

Canon Alexandre DeBlair, out visiting sick parishioners at Ste. Croix about five miles from the crash scene, said he saw the plane flying very low when it ran into a summer thunderstorm. Lightning lashed the farm area on the south bank of the St. Lawrence.

"When I returned to Ste. Croix, the nuns who work in the presbytery said they had seen a plane flying very low. Seconds later there had been a frightening blast," the parish priest said.

Maritime officials said they had "absolutely" no idea of what caused the plane to crash.

54 Entries Compete With Model Planes

More than 54 contestants representing seven model airplane clubs in Idaho, Oregon and Utah participated in the 12th annual Magic Valley model airplane meet here Sunday. The contestants gathered at Harmon park for U-control events and McMasters Flats south of the city for free flight contests. Outstanding modeler for the meet was Donald Geisler, Twin Falls, who garnered 28 points for two first places and one second place. While Geisler grabbed individual honors, the Pocatello Prop Pushers, with 11 entries, was the club with the best representation.

The day was marred by a 500-acre grass fire ignited accidentally by one of the contestants.

First place in the flying scale category went to Noel Hess, Salt Lake City; Don Geisler, Twin Falls, second, and K. D. Williams, Logan, Utah, third.

The Ray Bush trophy in the glider class went to Sterling Davis, Emmett; Dean Thomas, Pocatello, second, and Richard Thomas, Buhl, third.

First place in the rubber powered model class went to Dean Thomas, Pocatello, followed by Don Thomas, also Pocatello.

In junior free flight competition, David Gaolet, Salt Lake City, was awarded first place; Darrell Lewis, Twin Falls, second, and Kit Taft, Salt Lake City, and Kevan McBride, Arco, tied for third.

In a free flight competition, Harley Hammond, Twin Falls, was first; Jim Spencer, Emmett, second, and John Slade, Sun Valley, third.

In class A freestyle, Sterling Davis, Emmett, first; Iola Peck, Clearfield, Utah, second, and Noel Hess, Salt Lake City, third.

Gasoline Fire Injures Boy, 8

PAUL, Aug. 12—Dennis Tremayne, 8, was reported in critical condition at the Idaho Falls LDS hospital Sunday where he was being treated for burns received when he ignited gasoline at the home of his grandparents here.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Tremayne, Idaho Falls, was taken to Rupert General Hospital Saturday morning after the mishap and transferred to the Idaho Falls institution immediately. The Tremaynes were visiting the younger's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Crawford who live near Paul.

Crawford said the boy apparently was playing with the gasoline in the shed at his home when the volatile fluid exploded. He rushed from the shed with his clothing in flames. Rupert hospital attendants said he was burned extensively around the body.

NEWS BULLETINS

CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—The AFL-CIO executive council today refused to recognize a union of its own employees. Federation President George Meany announced at a news conference that the council would resist attempts of a union formed by AFL-CIO organizers to get a collective bargaining contract. He made the announcement at a conference after the opening of a four-day council meeting at the Drake hotel.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Aug. 12 (AP)—The Northern Ireland government today imposed a night curfew on parts of the border with Ireland to combat a renewed outbreak of IRA violence. The outlawed Irish Republican army was blamed for five incidents within the past 24 hours in its campaign to bring Northern Ireland into the Republic of Ireland.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 12 (AP)—Eight persons were killed today when a seaplane of the Royal Dutch navy crashed shortly after takeoff on Dutch New Guinea, the navy information service said. The dead included six crewmen and two passengers. A seventh crewman was critically injured.

Fire on Galena May Flare Until Winter

POLE CREEK BASE CAMP, Aug. 12 — The 1,600-acre forest fire which has been sweeping through the Sawtooth mountains north of Galena summit during the past week probably will not be out until winter. This estimate was made by forest service officials who have been on the fire since it broke out along highway 93 on Aug. 3. A skeleton crew is continuing to hold the blaze within its perimeter but the fire is not considered as being under absolute control. The blaze, which has covered approximately 1,600 acres, was fought by more than 500 men when it was at its peak. Saturday night 33 Mexican laborers from Nyssa, Ore., were released and Sunday noon the remaining Mexican laborers were given their time.

Sunday afternoon a crew of 60 fighters, mostly smoke-jumpers and regular forest service employees, still were on the fire. On Monday officials planned to release 12 smoke-jumpers and to continue to gradually reduce the crew until the fire is completely under control.

Even after this base camp has been abandoned, however, a crew of approximately 26 men will be retained to constantly patrol the burned area to prevent the fire from flaring up again.

The fire along Pole creek, the largest in the Sawtooth national forest in at least 20 years, will be patrolled until winter because of the constant danger of fire from the sparks and burning embers in the evergreen needles and humus on the ground.

Big Watermelon Bust Results as Cargo Scattered

PASSERSBY feasted on 2 1/2 tons of watermelon Sunday two miles north of Berger after a trailer overturned in a borrow pit, scattering the melons over a wide area.

Only 20 melons were salvaged. The driver of the unit, Robert Everett Jeffers, 28, Lynwood, Calif., escaped serious injury.

State Patrolman H. E. Carr says the 1941 Sterling tractor and trailer went off the left side of highway 93, traveled 85 paces along the shoulder and borrow pit and struck a culvert.

The trailer broke loose from the tractor and overturned. The tractor did not overturn and traveled 66 paces beyond the culvert before the driver could bring it to a stop. Jeffers incurred a minor cut on his forehead.

Carr estimated the damage to the tractor at $1,500 and to the trailer at $2,400. Jeffers valued the melons at $1,100.

Keep the White Flag of Safety Flying

Now two days without a traffic death in our Magic Valley.

Fight Against Galena Blaze Is Continuing

difficult one to fight because of the unusual wind currents that have been sweeping the mountains. The wind swoops down into gullies and creates whirlwinds which fire fighters call "dust devils." These plumes of dust spiral along the ground, churning up the embers and humus, and if there are any sparks, carrying them into unburned timber. This unusual condition has made the Pole creek fire not one large fire but one large fire with countless smaller ones on each side and in front of it. While fighters were able to keep the blaze contained in a relatively narrow area along the ridge of several mountains, they were handicapped in trying to pinch it off.

The main fire, which now is being mopped up by smokejumpers, is along a high slope in Rainbow canyon several miles east of here.

Union Chiefs Start Confab About Ethics

room to open the council's four-day summer session. They will consider Dorfman's appeal tomorrow morning.

Two members of the executive council will have some explaining to do to their union brothers during the four-day meeting. Carpenter's union President Maurice A. Hutchison, one of the two, took the fifth amendment 37 times recently when questioned about an Indiana highway scandal by a senate and public works subcommittee. The AFL-CIO executive council has gone on record opposing use of the fifth amendment by union officials in investigations of corruption.

The other council member who may be called on the carpet is J. Edgar Hoover, Secretary-Treasurer John W. English. English, who succeeded disgraced Teamsters' President Dave Beck on the executive council, was quoted then as saying he would clean the Teamsters' dirty linen.

AFL-CIO sources noted that President George Meany is still waiting for word from the 1,400,000-member trucking union.

Septic Tanks 'Inadequate,' Says Official

BOISE, Aug. 12—Septic tanks are inadequate to process the sewage on the heavily populated "bench" suburban areas around Boise. Ada county-city health department director Dr. Terrell O. Carver says.
In a statement urging construction of a sewer system for the area, Carver described the Boise bench as "an urban residential area built on a thin layer of soil, floating on a sea of sewage."
About 20,000 residents live in the area, Carver said about two million gallons of sewage water daily are discharged into the soil.
Vaughn Anderson, director of the state health department engineering and sanitation division, said there is no city or village in Idaho with a population greater than 1,500 which does not have a sewer system.
A group known as the Bench Sewer committee is proposing plans to build a sewer.

Five Injured in Airdrop to Fire

RIGGINS, Aug. 12—Five fire fighters were injured yesterday in a 1,600-foot parachute jump into the Fox Force national forest to battle flames in grass and timber.
Two of the injured were brought out by helicopter today while forest officials described the 1,600-acre fire as "pretty well under control."
Twenty-four smoke jumpers were called in to fight the fire 30 miles east of here. The blaze was blamed on a careless smoker.

U.S., Bulgaria May End Long Spell of Diplomacy Deadlock

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—Some high administration officials are looking into the possibility of re-establishing diplomatic relations with communist Bulgaria.
The last time congressional leaders were sounded out on such a move, months ago, the state department drew a completely negative reaction and the matter was dropped. However, a new interest in taking action to end the seven-year-old break is now developing.
Diplomatic authorities are reported to feel the United States would gain by restoring normal relations.
One of the chief arguments is that the American government should have representatives in contact with all the Soviet satellite governments in eastern Europe and in position to observe closely developments throughout the European belt of communist governments.
Furthermore, they argue that the conditions which originally brought the decision to break off relations

Federal Fund Is Proposed to Help Colleges
WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—Sen. Clifford P. Case, R.-N. J., said he would introduce today legislation to authorize $2 1/2 million dollars in federal grants to help the states develop plans for expanding their college facilities. Under the plan, Idaho would receive $10,401.

Case's bill is a follow-up to the report made Saturday by President Eisenhower's committee on education beyond the high school.
Number Grows
The committee said the number of Americans seeking admission to college will double by 1970. To meet their needs, it called for federal-state cooperative programs to finance education at a low interest rate.

Case said his proposed $2 1/2 million dollars would be distributed among the states on a matching basis. Each state would receive at least $10,000, with the rest to be apportioned on the basis of school-age population.
Plans Second Bill
Case said he would introduce a second bill later to provide assistance to the states for establishment and expansion of two-year public community colleges.

Rebel Village Falls Before Sultan Force

found in rebel strongpoints at Figo. The find strengthened suspicions that the Iman has been supported by Saudi Arabia, which receives American military aid.
Nizwa leaders surrendered to the advancing troops. Brewer said in each village occupied so far leaders have assured the sultan's forces that inhabitants were completely loyal but were intimidated by small brands of armed tribesmen.
A sheikh at Figo estimated the hard core strength of the Iman's forces at 400 men. But Robertson said it was possibly only one-quarter as many, Brewer reported.
Britain, which is allied to the independent sultan, used rocket-firing jet fighters and—when these failed to intimidate the rebel troops—bombers and ground forces backing up the sultan's own British-officer-led native troops.

Earlier Friday, deputy marshals herded Prather's cattle off his ranch.

The army wants the land for a guided missile range, but Prather has refused to leave. He defied one court order to move, but the second order was followed by deputies moving in and driving off the rancher's cattle.

ODDS FAVOR HOFFA

The senate select committee on improper activities in the labor or management fields has long-range plans for Jimmy Hoffa.

It has no hope of blocking his election as president of the Teamsters when the union holds its election at Miami in September.

The committee would like to nip Hoffa's bid for this job now, as a result of its efforts to show this association with racketeers in New York. But members believe that a lot more research on the 44-year-old labor-leader from Detroit will have to be done before they can hope to halt Hoffa's career.

A committee spokesman explains:

"The upcoming election in the Teamsters union is a private affair in which general public opinion will not mean a thing. Certainly what we have been developing about Hoffa's association with gangsters and racketeers in New York will come as no surprise to the officials of the Teamsters union who will participate in the election.

"Look what we showed about Dave Beck's handling of union funds. This didn't get Teamster officials excited enough to get rid of him. So it's not likely that our New York situation hearings will block Hoffa's election."

Hoffa's activities since he was acquitted on federal charges of planting a spy in the senate committee staff indicate that he is in full accord with the committee's views of his chances for winning Beck's job. He is going full steam in the campaign and is boldly talking about organizing all transportation workers into one huge union combine.

The one other possible roadblock in Hoffa's race for Teamsters presidency—in addition to the senate committee's current hearings—is the ethical practices committee of the AFL-CIO.

Albert J. Hayes, head of the committee, has said that he will recommend the executive council of the AFL-CIO hold a special hearing on the teamster case sometime before the Miami election.

This move is obviously one to try to influence the Teamsters election against Hoffa. But its chances of keeping Hoffa from the presidency are not good, most experts agree. Thus it probably falls to the long-range work of the senate committee to try to get Hoffa out of the labor movement. And that's not going to be easy.

"In our investigations so far," a committee spokesman said, "we have come onto many leads which indicate that Hoffa has engaged in many questionable activities. But they will take patient and careful research to follow up. This won't be easy and it will take many months. But we are going to try to get at the real facts of his activities."

The case of Jimmy Hoffa is not the case of Dave Beck. The committee nailed Beck with high-handed use of union funds to feather his own nest. Hoffa's alleged sins aren't suspected of being those committed for fattening his own bank account.

From what they've shown of Hoffa's record so far, it appears that he has erred by being ruthless in his methods of gaining power in the union. The committee has laid ample evidence on the record to show that Hoffa has worked closely with some of New York's most notorious gangsters and crooks in his efforts to gain union power.

Hoffa's part in the New York labor picture was considered only incidental when the committee began investigating it. Johnny Dio, the gangster convicted of major crimes in connection with the acid-throwing which blinded columnist Victor Riesel, was the committee's prime target.

It's believed that Hoffa's activities in Detroit, Chicago and west coast will be the real pay-dirt for the committee's future investigations.

SILENT EXPLOSION

In all this talk of the world population "explosion," not too clear an idea has been conveyed as to which countries are exploding the most. Usually there's an assumption that it's the Asiatic lands. But the ascertainable facts suggest otherwise.

United Nations studies show that the four nations with the highest birth rates are Mexico (46.5 per 1,000 population), Venezuela (46.4), Colombia (40.4), and Peru (32.2).

The first big Asiatic country in the list is India with a rate of 27.4. But this is not much greater than the current U. S. rate of 24.9 per 1,000. Russia stands at 25.6, and China is not listed, presumably because accurate figures are lacking.

We are actually almost outpacing India, since its death rate per 1,000 is 11.5 against 6.4.

But even though Mexico and Colombia have death rates exceeding India's, their net gains are tremendous. Lower death rates in Venezuela and Peru give them a staggering population advance.

It looks as if Latin America takes the palm in the population sweepstakes. If the trend continues they may have to take to eating palms.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—The Eisenhower administration's more friendly attitude toward Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia shows signs of paying good dividends, according to diplomatic reports here and abroad.

Despite the more bloody Polish and Hungarian uprisings, which dealt a serious psychological and ideological blow to the Kremlin even inside Russia, the ferment visible throughout the satellite empire is generally attributed to Tito's original and successful desertion.

He demonstrated that the communist system is not so monolithic as it was generally supposed to be outside the iron curtain. He demonstrated the iron curtain is not so impenetrable as it was supposed to be. He demonstrated that the Gomulka regime at Warsaw, and at first he publicly criticized the Khrushchev-Dulles in resort to force in Hungary.

Both Tito and Gomulka are accepting financial and material aid from the United States without incurring Russia's wrath or retaliation. If the Kremlin masters do resent the new relationship, they are keeping strangely quiet about it, even though the dependence upon American bounty suggests that Russia is economically unable to assist them.

MAO TSE-TUNG MORE INDEPENDENT—Tito's audacity has had anti-Russian repercussions elsewhere than in Russia, central Europe and the Balkans. Mao Tse-tung, who began to show more spirit and independence, refusing to remain a puppet forever. He has demanded and obtained greater voice in administering affairs in North Korea.

Ho Chi Minh, North Vietnam president, recently visited Tito, showing a growing recognition of the Marshal's new status. And the Asian Communist apparently agreed with Tito's statement, made at a state ceremony honoring the official guest, that "complete and mutual equality" furnish the only sound basis for relations among communist nations.

TITO FOR GREATER FREEDOM FOR SATELLITES—In well-informed diplomatic quarters, the remark is regarded as a broad hint that Russia should loosen its grip on Tito's Balkan neighbors—Bulgaria, Rumania and Albania. Ever since the downgrading of Stalin, and especially since the ousting of the anti-Tito, Molotov-Malenkov faction, the Yugoslav leader has crusaded for greater freedom for these satellites.

Indeed, many diplomats believe that he has not abandoned the program for which he was severely berated by Moscow—namely, a federation of Balkan states headed by himself. The Kremlin may not like the idea of a "third force" along its southern border, but it may have to tolerate such an organization.

Tito is also reported to have urged less strong-arm tactics in Hungary, with possible return to the government of some of the Nagy supporters. It is known that Moscow does not relish the prospect of full-blown United Nations debate on its final action committee's condemnation of the brutal Budapest massacres and deportations. The discussion is now scheduled for early next month.

U. S. SKIPS AID TO RUSSIA AND CHINA—President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles were bitterly assailed when they resumed relations and offered aid to Belgrade. However, even though Tito is a card-carrying red, they decided to take a "calculated risk." Now, congress has agreed to ship food to iron curtain countries except Russia and China.

In administration opinion, the communist empire, as represented by Russia, cannot be broken up or weakened by external pressures alone. It was for this reason that the White House felt it could not extend aid to Yugoslavia, or to the Berlin, Polish and Hungarian rebels, or even request the United Nations to intervene.

There is still official hope that the Soviet empire will gradually wither away, especially if it becomes too costly and difficult for Moscow to manage. And, much as we may dislike the men and their methods, Tito, Mao and Ho Chi Minh are gaining positions of power in their respective areas. After all, we recognize and cooperate with several unsavory South American dictators.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

TEN-TON WORDS

Not since the days of Grover Cleveland has anyone in Washington been so gifted with ten-ton words and block-buster phrases as the secretary of state. President Cleveland made immortal the phrase "inexpensive despatch," but Secretary Dulles approached the weight of that with "agonizing rapacity," and went well beyond it with his new phrase: "Theoretical optimum desideratum."

It appears that diplomacy can only be carried on by means of Latin and Greek terminology. Words of Anglo-Saxon origin are too short, pointed and clear. For example, two words well-loved by Mr. Dulles, are "unilateral" and "multilateral." They simply mean "one-sided" and "many-sided," but the word "side" is unbearable to a secretary of state. It is not sufficiently vague, fuzzy or general.

What is the meaning of Mr. Dulles' new expression: "Theoretical optimum desideratum?" It might mean "the thing most wished for," or "the end most sought," but it may be that Mr. Dulles did not wish to be either clear or explicit. He prefers terms that may be reversed, turned wrong side outwards, or made elusive like a drop of mercury.

That way lies safety, but judging by the critical chorus being raised in foreign countries, it does not promote respect for the U.S.A. or reliance on its promises.—Chapel Hill (N.C.) News Leader.

PILLS FOR A BALMY DAY

This may be said to be the age of pills. Some people we know gulp them practically like candy—this pill to make them tranquil, and then another to pep them up. Folks with hay fever are presented with such a variety of pills they have to keep a color chart to be sure they're trying the different formulas which might give them new relief. And of course there are pills to lose weight or gain it. To induce sleep or stop it—not to speak of the placebo which doctors give to make patients feel better just because they think a pill should make them better.

So it isn't surprising that the air force is experimenting with a pill which will increase man's resistance to cold. The experiments are being conducted right now in Alaska, and it is indicated that a tablet containing a substance called glycine seems to do the trick.

All of which is fine—and no doubt next January we'll regard it as quite important. Right now we'd be more interested if the air force was working on a pill to make a hot mid-August day in Salt Lake City feel like balmy May.—Salt Lake Tribune.

PITCH BY POSTMARK

An article in the magazine Advertising Requirements tells of a commercial trend in direct mail advertising to obtain appropriate postmarks. For example, an insurance company might use Accident, Md., as the mailing point for a sales letter; a loan company, Cash, Ark.; a publisher, Book, La.

Oregon is well prepared to play a role. For a soft drink bottling firm there is Sodaville; for a builder, Sweet Home; the distributor of a British-made car might like Austin; a plumbing firm, Drain; an employment agency, Talent. Prospects for Banks and Baker are quite obvious. And what address could resist an investment offer postmarked Bonanza or Cornucopia? In fact, any sales pitch should gain by originating in Enterprise or Friend.

We hope that all of these will soon be doing as big a postoffice business as Santa Claus, Ind.—Portland Oregonian.

WE GROW 'EM

We'll buy Idaho prunes, thank you. Fruit growers of one Pacific Northwest state are sending brochures advertising their prunes to newspapers everywhere.

Like trying to sell ice cubes to Eskimos, the fruit growers are even sending their material into Canyon county. For their information, it might be pointed out that Canyon is among the nation's top 25 counties in production of prunes and plums.

Latest census of agriculture figures show an annual production of 161,928 bushels of prunes and plums for Canyon county. Such an output isn't to be sneezed at. If our Pacific Northwest neighbors don't mind, we'll stick with Idaho prunes and plums.—Nampa Free Press.

POT SHOTS

NEW GRASS COMING UP

Pot Shots: I am quite sure this little article will make most male citizens of our community green with envy for I am now on my way to fame and fortune.

I am about to develop a new kind of lawn grass, known as cat's fur lawn. It will be green and soft like a cat's fur lying in the sun and like a cat's fur will not grow much longer during summer and will shed in the winter.

There is only one thing that might block progress for me in this venture. If the women ever discover what a great benefit pushing the lawnmower is to stomachs, and hips, my scientific venture would be doomed to failure. Lawn mowers—bahl!

WHO KNOWS?

Pot Shots: This might seem like a pretty silly question, but do you or any of your readers know where I can find a rattlesnake?

There are other requirements: I have to find a rattler within a short distance of Twin Falls and in a place where I can drive within a short distance of Mr. Rattler. Preferably, the critter should be located out in the open so as to leave plenty of room for maneuvering.

WONDERFUL!

THAT'S RIGHT!

Dear Pot Shots: Everyone seems determined to paint youngsters as a bunch of vandals or young hoodlums. Maybe some of us are, but only a few.

Would you point out on this current question of drag-racing on Main that not all teen-agers engage in it? Sure, too many of us get carried away and go too fast, but no one can say all of us are drag-racing on Main.

Why hasn't anyone told the truth about all this speeding on Main? Don't people know that teen-age driving isn't limited to teen-agers? You know, a man 60 years old can be a teen-age driver.

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

CHICAGO—My address at this writing is room 882 in the Drake hotel. George Meany's address is rooms 527, 529 and 530 and Dave Dubinsky's is 942. They and about 150 other union leaders are just now pondering the problems of erring brothers accused of unethical conduct.

Meany was first elected president of the New York State Federation of Labor by the fraudulent votes of hypothetical workers embraced in imaginary locals of Joe Ryan's brotherhood of longshoremen. That was his first step up to power. Otherwise he might still be a nonentity.

Dave Dubinsky, knowingly and with the facts formally stated in an official report of his own bureaucracy, failed and refused to throw out of power in his union Sam Berger, one of the most notorious hoodlums in the country, until Berger "looked the fifth" in a recent episode. Dubinsky then "accepted" Sam's resignation for that reason, but not because Berger was a henchman and partner of Johnny Dio, as Dubinsky well knew for years.

The question naturally arises whether a private statute of limitations has run against Joe Ryan's frauds in Meany's favor, sadly admitted by Mr. Ryan himself. Was Meany's original election ratified by time or was it sanctified by Meany's own ostentatious resort to daily prayers?

About Dubinsky there seems to be no question. Whatever Dave Dubinsky does is ethical because he has 200 million dollars in his treasury and is deemed to control a collection of minorities large enough to frustrate the public.

Rooms in the Drake cost about $25 a day, average. Some cost more and the dignitaries of this grand racket will occupy all of those. The executive council, starting with Meany, a fallen-away plumber who for many years has never wiped a joint, that master swipe of the consummate scoundrel, are carried on a confidential roster as "very important persons."

The hotel is now air-conditioned throughout, and that decided the vote in favor of the Drake this time. Usually these union leaders go to Miami Beach, breezy in summer and benign in winter but now notorious for outlandish extravagance. Moreover, there has been a great mess of trouble with the hotel and culinary help in both Miami and the brisk ocean breezes have not yet blown the stench back into the Everglades. So Chicago was selected with fortitude and resignation by men aware that often in summer the air lies dead like a pall on Lake Michigan.

The moist atmosphere of the streets is pungent with the sweet-sour reek of the stock yards, the breweries and the pickle-plants, a few minutes inland. They can't air-condition the vast outdoors. The executive council of the AFL-CIO has taken all the outside rooms, mostly in suites, including, of course, all the views of the lake. The waiters and chambermaids are counting their tips with hypercritical eye.

Maurice A. Hutcheson, Indianapolis, president of the Carpenters' union, inherited his job from his late father, Bill, by provision of the carpenters' constitution. This is the frankest endorsement of royalty and dynasty ever observed in the union racket although many a way I thought well of the Roosevelt family.

James Carey always accommodated his morals to their without compromise on either side.

This is a notable feat of accommodation in view of Carey's sanctimonious pretensions and the Roosevelt's ribald contempt for Carey's professed standards. It is an age of miraculous paradoxes.

Richard F. Walsh and William McPetridge, presidents of the movie and stage and the building service workers unions, respectively, are living monuments to the success of patience in the presence of evil. Walsh was a junior in the old Browne-Bluff racket for years until they were laid by their heels by outsiders. McPetridge was a handwashing, ingratiating underling to George Scallies and other obnoxious strangers put in by Al Capone's organization.

He walked in fear until journalism disposed of them. Neither man uttered a peep and their contribution to reform in their ensuing opulent years of unimagined prosperity has consisted of slightly tardy assent to parliamentary motions condemning wrong as a general proposition. They are now self-acclaimed as arbiters of ethics and fit trustees of the 75 million American tollers.

Altogether, it is a fascinating moral and political phenomenon. This racket has billions, not mere millions, and a veto over the welfare of the people of the United States, tacitly acknowledged by presidents, governors and the morbid philosophers who dominate the nation. Yet none of these men ever was indorsed in a public election nor even by the faceless victims of the union system. Only five or six of them enjoy any acquaintance among the rank and file of people inside or outside the unions. They are mysterious strangers to us all.

Honors Awaiting Ship Battle Flag

BOSTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—A place of honor awaits a tattered battle flag when members of the USS Quincy association convene here Aug. 23 to 25.

More than 5,000 men, now widely scattered, served under it aboard the heavy cruiser. Many of them claim she was the first warship to engage the enemy in both the Atlantic and Pacific theaters during the big war. She also served in the Korean hostilities.

Is That So! Eugene Burns Wild Mice That Sing

Did you know that the snow mouse or collared lemming lives farther north than any other rodent? With the exception of a small Siberian hamster, it is the only rodent which changes its brown summer coat to one of snow-white in winter.

Besides, it is the only mammal which sheds its toe-nails annually. The third and fourth claws on the front feet grow excessively long and broad in winter and are replaced by normal claws in April or May. Quite likely the long claws are for digging in ice and snow.

Our pestiferous house mice and rats are European imports; they arrived in the United States about the time of the American revolution.

The wood mouse of Europe taught the Dutch hyacinth growers a valuable lesson in horticulture. Like this: The growers noticed that certain hyacinths instead of blossoming in the usual way, made innumerable bulbils and that in a few years hundreds grew to perfection where there had been only one. Examination of the bulbs when they first failed to bloom revealed that they had been gnawed to the heart by mice. Learning quick-like, Dutch growers now increase the supply of valuable hyacinths by clashing the bulb to the heart with a knife and cutting numerous cross sections.

This same little mouse makes one of the world's most broad-minded mothers. Frequently several families will live in one burrow and in what seemingly is one nest. Under these circumstances, the young accept milk from any one of the mothers which happen by.

The female multimammate mouse which may have up to 12 pairs of breasts averages about a dozen babies. This African mouse may have more mammary glands than any other mammal except the domestic pig which may have 28 in all.

There are several wild mice that sing... but reports of house mice singing is another matter. When experts have examined such "singing mice" carefully, they have usually discovered traces of abnormal conditions in the nose and throat. The supposed "singing," therefore, is nothing more than a bronchial disorder or asthmatic condition. The marmoset tree mouse of India has hands like a wee monkey with an opposable thumb for taking a firm hold of tiny branches and picking up seeds and berries.

Perhaps the biggest of all rats is the African giant rat which has an over-all body length of three feet—half of which is tail. Fortunately, it is an inoffensive, good-natured animal, feasting on fruits, seeds and berries.

Outside of bats, the rats and mice are among the few few placental mammals which reached Australia in early days. Probably they found their way to this long isolated land mass aboard floating trees. Or possible, primitive man took them there unwittingly.

The nest-building rabbit rat of Australia which has long ears and a blunt nose and sits hunched up like the familiar bunny, builds huge brushwood houses. Often times several families will be grouped together to form a little town, suggesting some sort of community activity. The houses are so well constructed that even Australia's wild dog, the dingy, cannot break in to devour its

Lee Declares Anti-Tax Aid Is Unwitting

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 12 (AP)—J. Bracken Lee says thousands of men are working day after day in furthering his crusade against the federal income tax.

Who are these men? Lee, the former Republican governor of Utah, they say, are the collectors of internal revenue. "I only wish," Lee says with a straight face, "that they would crack down on the harder."

Angry Nation
It is Lee's theory that the harder the income tax collectors work, the angrier the taxpayers will become. A cartoonist named Dan'l Hale, Lee says, is exactly what Lee needs.

"It is an evil tax, a dishonest tax," Lee says. "We started fooling around with the constitution and came up with the income tax."

"For this government is no longer by the people. The government is our master."

Lee went down fighting in last November's election, losing to George D. Clyde. Lee was trying for his third four-year term.

He became national chairman of the American last March. In his new job, Lee has taken to the road to campaign from coast to coast against the 16th income tax amendment to the constitution.

"Free Slaves"
His object, Lee says, "is to free the tax slaves."

Lee addressed the Salt Lake Exchange club last week at a luncheon meeting. He said later his speech was typical of those he delivers across the nation.

In his speech Lee said the people have lost control of their government and added:

"The income tax is evil... contrary to the constitution... advocated by the communist party... Where is freedom where men have power to go into your private papers to collect the tax?"

"Repeal of the 16th amendment is the answer."

Refused to Pay
Lee's fight against the tax isn't new. Last year, while still governor, he refused to pay a portion of his federal income tax, contending it was unconstitutional for the government to use the money for foreign aid.

But the internal revenue service got the money anyway by filing a lien against Lee for $1,203.10. The supreme court refused to let Lee file suit attacking the constitutionality of the foreign aid program.

Dulles Eyeing
Russian Notes
For Evidence

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has set American intelligence agencies the task of finding out whether British and Soviet diplomats Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean are taking an important hand in Soviet foreign policy.

Dulles has a hunch that Burgess and Maclean, who fled to Russia six years ago, were put to work in the Soviet foreign office. Dulles' suspicion was aroused when recent Russian diplomatic notes showed a better understanding of western psychology.

American officials do not feel that Burgess and Maclean actually are making Soviet foreign policy decisions. But their advice may be taken into account by Soviet foreign policy officials at the policy-making level.

Dulles Impressed
Dulles and his advisors have been impressed by some Soviet maneuvers in the Middle East where the communists constantly try to stir up trouble.

Significantly, Maclean was assigned to the British embassy in Cairo beginning in 1948. He was recalled to London in May, 1950, after wrecking the Cairo apartment of an American girl in a drunken brawl.

In Washington
Both men once were assigned to the British embassy in Washington. Maclean is regarded as the more competent and experienced diplomat. He was assigned to the embassy in Washington from 1944 to 1948. He worked primarily on atomic energy matters, including declassification of secret information.

He served on an American-British panel which worked inside the U. S. atomic energy commission headquarters. He was appointed chief of the American section of the British foreign office in November, 1950. This job put him in a position to know American-allied secrets during the Korean war.

Milk Production
Goes up in 1957

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—The agriculture department said last night milk production in the first half of 1957 increased a half billion pounds, or one per cent, above the same period last year.

Prices to farmers for milk averaged a little above a year earlier in the first half. Retail prices for dairy products also were slightly higher.

The department predicted consumption of fluid milk and cream per person during 1957 will be close to the 355 pounds of last year.

Comic Strip Creator Visiting Here

Creator of Comic Strip, Dan'l Hale, to Spend Week Here on Research, Talks

Cartoonist Norman Marsh, creator of the intrepid western frontiersman, Dan'l Hale, is in Twin Falls this week to gather further historical data for his adventure strip and to address several organizations.

Marsh, who constantly continues his research into 19th century history by visiting the locale of historical events, is traveling the old California trail. He travels in a well-equipped trailer complete with drawing board to keep four weeks ahead of the release dates of his daily adventure strip. He is traveling the California trail in reverse, going from Reno to St. Louis, Mo., with many side trips to historical spots marked on his itinerary.

While in Twin Falls, Marsh will address the Twin Falls Exchange club Tuesday; a joint meeting of Rotary and Lions clubs Wednesday at the American Legion hall and Wednesday night a meeting of the Presbyterian couples club.

The Dan'l Hale strip was started after Marsh completed his military service in World War II. Prior to the war he drew a detective strip, Dan Dunn, but let it drop during the war and did not renew it after his discharge.

"I thought a long time about the Dan'l Hale strip. I try to show what type or kind of people first moved into the West and I try to picture my characters as they actually were," Marsh explains.

He bases his strip and Dan's adventures on historical facts. Marsh disagrees with a lot of the legends concerning early frontiersmen and says Jedediah Smith was the greatest of the early western frontiersmen.

Marsh's research has led him to the conclusion that Davy Crockett was more legend and myth than a "bar shootin'-Indian fightin'" hero. Marsh admits Crockett died at the Alamo—but says he died as a hero.

Marsh has no patience with cartoonists who do a strip on some part of the world that they have not visited. "I try to spend as much time as I can and learn as much about the country where the action takes place," he said.

He has covered the route of the Oregon trail six times and plans to spend a month and a half on this current trip over the California trail.

He says he first began drawing a strip in 1925 but every syndicate he approached turned him down. He then went out and sold his own strips to individual newspapers.

Marsh says the Twin Falls area is a great "hunting ground" for amateur historians and persons interested in treasure hunting.

"Somewhere within 10 miles of Twin Falls is a cache 'planted' in 1813 by one Robert Stewart," he says. "This man was en route from old Ft. Astoria to St. Louis and made three caches containing powder, lead, rifles, muskets and supplies somewhere near the present location of Twin Falls. Stewart recovered two of his caches but the third has never been found," he claims.

Marsh says Lewis and Clark visited Boone before he died to obtain information about the West. At that time, according to Marsh, Boone mentioned a "big lake of bitter water" and the "rock mountains."

However, Marsh says Boone might have heard of Great Salt Lake and the Rocky mountains from conversations with Indians.

Students Face Probe in Trip To Red China

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—U. S. officials today said thorough investigations will be made of any American students at the Moscow youth festival who visit Red China.

The officials said stiff penalties for traveling to Red China might be invoked as a result of court action for any misuse of passports.

Dispatches from Moscow reported about 50 American youths at the festival are planning to visit Red China.

The state department can only investigate violations of its ban on travel to Red China. If American officials overseas have evidence that youths did go to Red China their passports, which are stamped not valid for travel to Red China, probably would be marked "valid only for return to the United States." Before this provision or any other limitation is placed in the passport the youths would have an opportunity to request a hearing.

The state department will withhold any immediate investigations until it is advised that Americans in Moscow for the youth festival actually go to Red China.

While criminal action is possible, it was not used in the case of three American newsmen who recently defied the state department ban and went to Red China.

None Left

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 12 (AP)—Robert Milliken hasn't got a leg to stand on.

He told police he was standing in front of his house Saturday night when Jack Ellison, 30, walked up and struck him in the right leg with a ball bat. The blow broke the leg.

He has a wooden left leg.

Scout Gets Award for Church Work

The Rev. Reuben Plener, pastor of the American Lutheran church, presents the "Pro-Deo et Patria" award to Eagle Scout Gene Helms, troop 66, at services held Sunday morning in the Twin Falls church. The "For God and Country" award is the highest to be presented by the church to a Scout. It represents 150 hours of service to the church which included building 12 Sunday school chairs as a special project. The boy's father, A. C. Helms, 857 Third avenue west, pinned the medal on his son after being presented by Scoutmaster Dean Patterson. (Staff photo-engraving)

U. S. Employment Hits New Record

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—Total U. S. employment climbed to an all-time high of 67,200,000 last month, the government reported today.

The commerce and labor departments jointly announced a gain of 700,000 from the previous record number of job-holders, set in June.

They said the increase reflected "further hiring of young people in summer activities."

Unemployment dropped to three million—a decline of 300,000 as summer job-seekers found work or stopped looking.

Try to Be Good House Guest to Get Asked Back

By YIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The most difficult role you may play this summer is that of being a good house guest. No matter how good you feel when you arrive at the home to which you have been invited you must cope with your host's mood. She may have been in the gayest spirits when she asked you to spend the weekend. But now perhaps she is dreading your arrival, for one reason or another. She may even have been hoping you'd call and cancel your visit.

Anticipate—that possibility—even if she is your best friend. Start out on the right foot by cheering her up with a small hostess gift. Bring her a bouquet of flowers or a new garden plant. If she collects something, glass or china, get her a small remembrance in her favorite color or pattern. A gift of that sort will show a thoughtfulness that should put her in a gay weekend mood.

Be sure to arrive at the time you have specified, whether by train, bus or automobile. If your hostess has prepared lunch or dinner and is left to cool her heels at a train you have missed, you'll surely antagonize her.

When you arrive at the house, go to your room as soon as she suggests it. After a 10 or 15 minute rest, appear on the scene again, unless she has asked you to make it sooner for refreshments. Anticipate her moods for the rest of the weekend and you'll get along fine. No house guest ever rests easy. Your hostess may seem irritable about extra chores even if she isn't, so don't let it get under your skin.

Here are some additional pointers for guests who want to be invited back again:

1. Does she want you to help with household chores or doesn't she? That's the first question to solve. If she grabs a dish towel out of your hand, she doesn't want help. If she weakly insists that you sit down and relax, she's probably grateful for your help. Some homemakers feel strongly that the kitchen is their province and do not like others barging in, even for emergencies.

2. Your room should be tidied as soon as you wake up. If you've spilled powder on the floor or bureau, wipe it up. Do not smear cold cream or lipstick on face towels. Do not comb your hair over the bathroom wash basin or leave uncapped tooth paste in the bathroom. Try not to borrow anything, unless it is absolutely unavoidable.

3. If you are sharing a bath with the rest of the family do not hang laundry around in it unless the idea is suggested to you by the hostess.

4. Avoid controversial arguments no matter how strongly you feel on a subject.

5. If you are visiting a family with children or pets, do not criticize the upbringing of either. You are not going to change their ideas, and will only antagonize them.

6. Be sure you have the proper clothes for your visit by weighing the habits of the family in advance. If you do not know what is on the agenda, it is a good idea to ask before you pack all the wrong clothes.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Ollie, 11, home for vacation time, was restless. He kept wanting. One day he wanted a horse although he lived where no horses could live or be used. He wanted a "little motor car." He wanted a ride in an airplane. He wanted.

His weary parents began to consider sending him to camp but that was one thing he did not want. "I've been in school long enough. They're always telling you something to do. I don't want to hear what to do."

One day he wanted a hut so he and his friend Ham could "live" in it and stay overnight and cook their own supper and breakfast and—"could I have a hut, Dad?"

"Sure, if you'll build it."

"Aw, gee. Can't you build it, or Mr. Clay? He knows how."

"I'll help you but if you want this hut on the river lot you'll have to build it. With help, but you will have most of the job yourself. Won't Ham help?"

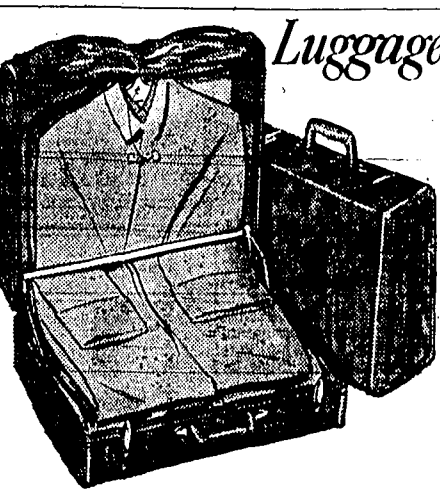

After a few grumbles Ollie agreed and his father helped him get the spot and loaned his presence until Dad began telling him to fetch that board, hammer those two together with those two long nails. Neither boy, although 11 years old, had ever used a hammer and a nail. But they learned fast and soon they began insisting, "Let me, let me do it. I can do it now."

Building that hut took many days but at last it was ready. The roof did not leak and the door would shut fairly well. The two top bunks were complete with straw-filled mattresses. The outdoor fireplace, a shallow pit surrounded by rocks and fitted with a crane made of green hickory sticks was adequate for hut-keeping and Dad and mother were invited for supper.

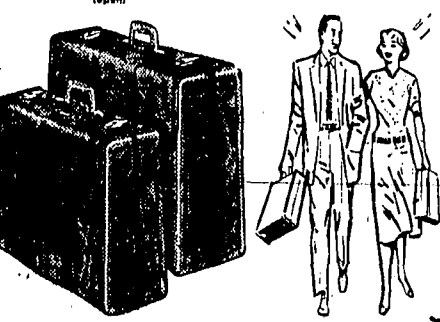

Vacation "wanting" can be satisfied only with something to do, something that shows, that takes work, that can be finished within reasonable time to the satisfaction of the workers. A vacation of idleness is destructive to the health of a child. His days must be filled with some sort of activity that makes the dawn of another day an opportunity to go on with an interesting job.

A hut is ideal for a boy. So is a boat. Be watchful about the building of a raft however, as they are likely to be dangerous modes of conveyance. For younger boys wooden packing cases, if they can be had in these days of pasteboard cartons, make ideal material for building. Smaller boxes for wagons are fine. The girls like playhouses, tree houses, huts, a corner of the garage; they like to put on shows for some charitable purpose. And they like to organize picnics and parties. They like to be working, all children must, to be healthy and happy.

Wife Is Going to College to Learn To Drive Trucks

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Betty Lou Mangum of Durham is going to college to learn to drive a truck.

The pretty, "22-year-old" blond wife and mother is the only girl in a class of 27 men in the Truck Driver Training school conducted by the extension division of the North Carolina State college. In fact, she's the first woman ever to enroll in the course.

Betty Lou says she'll never forget the day she entered the class. "I was awfully self-conscious," she admits. "As I entered the doorway of the classroom, some one exclaimed, 'Great Scott a woman driver!'"

Since that first day, however, Betty Lou reports that the men students have been wonderful to her.

"The only drawback with being the only woman in the class," she explains, "is that the men make me so first in all of the driving exercises."

Betty Lou's schedule of school days and homework keeps her on the run. The daily routine begins at 5:30 a. m. She gets up, feeds her husband and 2-year-old daughter, Terry Lynn, dons her pedal pushers, dresses Terry Lynn, drops her daughter at nursery school, and heads for driver school which begins at 8 a. m.

Her school day consists of classroom until 10:40 a. m., lunch, get-ready period to inspect trucks from 11:30 to noon, and then basic driving skills practice and road and city driving until somewhere between 5 and 7 p. m.

From driver school, she dashes back to Durham, picks up Terry Lynn, detours by terminal to pick up her truck driver husband, and heads for home, a four-room bungalow.

Then she cooks supper, washes dishes, bathes and puts Terry Lynn to bed, does her house cleaning and the family wash.

When the chores are finished, she settles down to study her lessons for the next day's classes.

Thus far, Betty Lou has learned double clutching, coupling and uncoupling and forward exercises such as off-set alley, serpentine maneuvering around barrels, overhead clearance estimation, and driving down a 100-foot alley with six-inch clearance on either side.

Now she is taking up backing exercises, parking, and road and city driving.

Truck driving is not a life-long ambition for the coed. She first became interested in taking the course when her husband attended the school in 1954.

A competitive sort of person, Betty Lou is determined to beat or at least tie her husband's record of finishing as fifth ranking student in his class.

Betty Lou and her husband, Bob,

We, the Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

A goodly number of my women readers have talked back to the mother who wrote that she was often made to feel guilty for not taking on any community work because of household duties.

Most said they "saw red" or were "highly irritated" by my advice to the mother to do the things she felt most important.

So let's give these "irritated" mothers a chance to present their point of view through one letter, which pretty well sums up the attitude of all who wrote.

"I have never felt impelled to take exception to any of your columns, but the one in which you upheld a 'busy mother of four' in her decision not to take on outside activities I found highly irritating."

"Naturally, your 'busy mother of four' is satisfied with her life. She works only for her own interests while her neighbors do the community work that makes life better for her children."

"She takes it for granted that other busy mothers will be her children's den mothers and campfire leaders. She doesn't have time to be a room mother and feels that her payment of the year's PTA dues is all her school has a right to expect from her."

"Theoretically, these community jobs could be filled by women whose children are grown. Actually, however, these women have already fulfilled their obligation to the children of their community during their own 'busy' years when their own children were interested in these activities. Many older women no longer have the energy and stamina that is required for leadership of eager, energetic children."

"A mother who is always 'too busy' and who forces other busy mothers to do her share in addition to their own definitely is, I think, shirking her responsibilities. It would be an unfortunate community which had many mothers like that."

Well, that's the other side of the story and I'm glad to present it. But I still think that each busy mother has to decide for herself what is of first importance.

Though most of the group activities for children are important, it is also important for a home to have a mother who is not run so ragged with outside activities that she hasn't the patience and peace of mind a woman needs to make a happy home.

by, have big plans for the future. They plan to buy their own tractor-trailer truck and, drive as a team.

"However," the comely coed adds, "if I never get to drive professionally, I'll never regret taking the course. It's one of the most interesting things I've ever done and I'm enjoying every moment of it."

Burley Team Gains Fourth District Softball Crown With 3-2 Win Over Jerome

Fats Beeline service of Burley emerged as district four softball champions Sunday following a full day of hectic action that saw Jerome's Merchants outlast several other teams for the runner-up spot. Burley dumped Jerome 3-2 in the finals behind the three-hit pitching of Clint Nelson after the Merchants had plastered well-worn Tommy Walkers in the semi-final. Burley and Jerome join Phillips-Wells, Twin Falls, hosting city league champs, as the fourth district representatives in the state meet, which will be conducted here from Aug. 23 through 25.

T.F. Team Eliminated In Legion Tournament

NAMPA, Aug. 12 (AP)—Payette and Lewiston play here Monday night for the Idaho American Legion junior baseball championship and the right to enter the regional playoffs at Portland Aug. 21-23. The Payette crew won its right to the finals by winning two games Sunday. Payette defeated the previously unbeaten Lewiston team 6-3 in the night contest. During the day Payette eliminated Twin Falls with a 6-4 decision.

Braves Drop Cards to Open League Race

A five-run sixth inning was all Payette needed to take the measure of the Lewiston players in the night game. A ninth inning solo home run by Vaughn Schiller was added for insurance.

Lewiston got off to a quick 2-0 lead when Ron Karlberg tripled and an error, two walks and a hit batted scored the tallies. A walk with the sacks loaded brought in the third run.

An overthrow by Lewiston pitcher Lane Phillips with the bases loaded scored the first Payette run in the sixth, and then Lewiston catcher Chuck McPherson dropped the ball on the throw-in for the second tally. Three quick singles by Tom Williams, Dick Killebrew and Dave Hill scored the final runs of the frame.

Lee Holloway's single in the ninth brought Payette its victory in the Twin Falls game. Payette took a 1-0 lead in the first, added a tally on the second with a hit batter when the bases were loaded and scored two in the third on singles by Pat Brubaker and Pat Ackerman.

Brubaker's double with an error sending him to third and Holloway's single scored the winning run.

Dick Hoffman's triple and Jim Mager's single scored a Twin Falls run in the fifth. A walk brought in the second run of the frame. Two doubles tied the score in the seventh.

Zuleta Picked 8-5 to Win Over Ippolito

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—Lightweight contender Orlando Zuleta is favored at 8-5 for his comeback start tonight in a 10-rounder with Frankie Ippolito at St. Nicholas arena.

Cuban Zuleta is still ranked third among lightweight contenders although he was stopped in the 15th round of his title bout with champion Joey Brown at Denver, June 15. He hasn't fought since.

Ippolito of New York, 23, is unranked; but he is well supported in the betting because of excellent performances in his two latest bouts. Also because he punches harder than 20-year-old Orlando.

On June 3, Ippolito tackled St. Louis Red, unbeaten German welterweight, and lost a split decision after a hard fight. And on July 15, Frankie won an upset technical knockout over Tommy Salem of Cleveland in the sixth round, after twice flooring Tommy.

It was Ippolito's 20th victory in 28 bouts. His five defeats include two TKOs. He has one draw. Unusually rugged Zuleta, a master boxer but a light hitter, was stopped only once in his 103 bouts. That was in his last fight. His 64-28-10 record includes only six kayos.

Onetime Wall Street investment broker, 33-year-old Mayer of La Jolla, Calif., made a $50,000 "killing" Sunday in the "World" with the same sort of sleeper finish which gave him the prestige-loaded U.S. Open title in June. CHICAGO, Aug. 12 (AP)—Handsome Dick Mayer, who became the year's richest golfer by winning just two tournaments—the National open and the $101,000 "World"—had a change of fortune even richer Monday by the stroke of the pen. Onetime Wall Street investment broker, 33-year-old Mayer of La Jolla, Calif., made a $50,000 "killing" Sunday in the "World" with the same sort of sleeper finish which gave him the prestige-loaded U.S. Open title in June. Monday, Mayer decides whether to sign with "World" tourney promoter George S. May an exhibition contract which could produce an additional $50,000.	W	L	Pct.	GB

Mayer, now leading the pros with $56,145, captured golf's biggest cash prize Sunday by a one-stroke margin over the two men who were expected to make the "world" a private-club-veteran Sammy Snead and Canadian Al Balding.	W	L	Pct.	GB

Snead, who held a 54-hole lead of one stroke over Balding, staggered to a final 74, while Balding took a 73, being hamstrung by a double bogey 8 on the 6th hole. Snead and Balding each received $7,500 for sharing second.	W	L	Pct.	GB

Mayer started the final round at the crowded Tam O'Shanter course five strokes behind Snead. With all attention focused on Snead and Balding, Mayer scored a 68 and sewed up the meet with his fourth birdie of the round by sinking a 9-footer on the 71st hole.	W	L	Pct.	GB

Writer Visits Liechtenstein, Even Learns How to Spell It

By HENRY McEMORE

VADUZ, Liechtenstein— I haven't been here but a few days but I have already learned several important facts about this country, one of them being how to spell it.

Until we crossed the border, and I saw it on the road—marker, it had always been Liechtenstein to me, which is robbing the tiny principality of an "e" and a "t." And when you're no bigger than Liechtenstein, you need all the letters of the alphabet I have gathered since arriving is that Liechtenstein is a prince, and that he is right home. I haven't seen him in person, but his photograph is in nearly all the windows. He looks like a combination of Tennessee Ernie and the Prince of Monaco, but not as good as either one. From his picture I'd guess him to be a pretty sharp fellow with a sharp temper.

The prince lives well, though. His home is the Castle Vaduz, and it sits high on a big rock, and must afford him a fine view, because the view from the average house level in Vaduz is beautiful.

I also have learned that one had better be careful crossing the street in Vaduz. Liechtenstein's capital city. When I say "the street" in Vaduz I mean just that, because one street is what it has. This street is narrow and winding and there are no such things as stop lights and stop signs. Motorists are free to whiz through as fast as they care to and they rocket around the corners a mile-a-minute. When crossing the street it is wise to hike up your pants and light out.

We are staying at the Hotel Adler, having selected it from a guide book, which has this to say about it: "The best of kitchens and cellar. Moderate prices. Rooms with running hot and cold water. Owner: Family M. Frey-Hagen."

The family of M. Frey-Hagen couldn't be any nicer. We were registered by one of the girls, and a pretty one, too, and one of the boys carried our luggage up the three floors to our room, there being no elevator.

Our room is right up under the roof, and a cozier one you'll never find anywhere. There are two feather beds as high as your head, and floating on top are elder down quilts, soft as sea foam. The floor and walls are of a wood that resembles bird's-eye maple, and they are polished until you can see your face in them. When you look out the window, mountains stare you in the face, and the air is as fresh as the pop corn you make at home.

When we checked in the hotel, a tiny one, even by European standards, the place all but rocked from the sound of a men's chorus. It was lovely singing, and Mary and I and the Frey-Hagen boy with the luggage, stopped on the second-floor landing to listen.

When we came back downstairs we learned from Frau Frey-Hagen that the singing was being done by a well-known choral group from Munich, in Vaduz for a concert later in the week.

We plan to look up an old friend of mine, Paul Gallico, while we are here. Paul has a home about 30 minutes' drive from here, high in the mountains. We've had one meal at the Adler, and the guide book was right when it said "best of kitchen." The book also was right about the running cold water. It must jump right off a glacier into the tap. It's about 10 degrees colder than ice ever is.

I think I'll go call on the prince now, and see what he has to say about how I look.

Ore Deposits In Venezuela Hold Promise

PUERTO ORDAZ, Venezuela, Aug. 12 (AP)—The tremendous development of fabulous iron ore and other rich mineral deposits along the Orinoco river in southeastern Venezuela holds bright promise of turning the vast area into the "Little Ruhr of South America."

The government is pushing construction day and night of a 350-million-dollar steel plant on 11,250 acres of land at the junction of the Orinoco and Caroni rivers here at Puerto Ordaz.

The plant is expected to start production early in 1959. Initial output is scheduled at 700,000 tons. This is to be gradually boosted to 1,200,000 tons.

Two Italian firms, Fiat Societa per Azioni and Innocenti Societa Generale per el Industria Metallurgica, are building the plant.

Meanwhile, reopened coal mines at nearby Naricual are producing 150,000 tons annually. A hydro-electric power dam on the Caroni river is estimated at having a potential production of 4,000,000 kilowatts. Huge deposits of natural gas, manganese and bauxite—the base of aluminum—are being developed.

While all this is going on, two U. S. firms are digging deeply into "mountains of iron" and shipping millions of tons of iron ore annually to plants in Pennsylvania.

One of the biggest mining developments is called the "Cerro Bolivar."

The mountain is six miles long and nearly one mile wide. It rises to a height of 1,800 feet above the jungle.

It is being developed by the Orinoco Mining company, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel. Walter J. Donnelly, special representative for U. S. Steel in Latin America, says output from Cerro Bolivar reached eight million tons in 1955, and this year's production will hit 12 million.

The production of iron ore in Venezuela—like that of oil which is making the government richer every hour—is based on the "50-50" system.

That means the government gets in taxes and royalties, a minimum of 50 per cent of the profits made by American mining companies.

Utahns Are Hurt In Sunday Crash

A Salt Lake City couple incurred minor injuries at 1:25 p.m. Sunday in a two-car collision two miles north of Five Points west at the intersection of the poline road and Washington street north.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Perkins were treated for cuts and bruises after their 1952 Chevrolet collided with a 1949 Buick driven by Thomas C. O'Connor, route 3, Jerome. Perkins was driving west and O'Connor north. Damage to the Chevrolet was estimated at $150 and to the Buick at $175.

No One Hurt

Neither driver was injured in a traffic accident at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of Second avenue and Seventh street south.

City police listed damage to a 1955 Chevrolet driven by Glenn D. Eekhout, Twin Falls, at $150 and to a 1949 Lincoln driven by Wayne B. Roper, Kimberly, at $25.

Montana Orphans Stop Here as Long Trip Nears End

William Hoops, right, manager of the Rogerson hotel welcomes Richard W. Little, superintendent of the Montana state orphan's home at Twin Bridges, Mont., and leader of 216 youngsters who arrived in Twin Falls Saturday night. The group was returning to Montana following a trip to Disneyland financed by Col. Benjamin Brinton, a retired New York stock exchange businessman. The group spent one week in southern California, visiting many points of interest. (Staff photo-enshring)

Young Mother Is Claimed by Death

DENVER, Aug. 12 (AP)—A 17-year-old Ely, Nev., housewife died Sunday—23 days after she was flown to Colorado general hospital here with "only 12 hours to live."

Mrs. Joan Young succumbed to an acute kidney infection.

Doctors said she at first showed satisfactory response to an artificial kidney but then relapsed. They said her condition was the result of childbirth.

The young mother was flown here July 20 from Provo, Utah. She was accompanied by her husband, Glade, and a Provo physician.

Fire School Set

IDAHO FALLS, Aug. 12 (AP)—Idaho Falls Fire Chief Bert O. Brown said today he expected about 200 firemen and fire insurance underwriters from Idaho, Montana, Utah and Wyoming to attend the first annual Idaho state fire school here Aug. 15-17.

The three-day program will include lectures and firefighting demonstrations.

GRANGE TO MEET

HOLLISTER, Aug. 12—Hollister Grange will meet at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday at the hall to work on grain sheaths for the Twin Falls county fair.

Blaze Halted by Chemical Airlift

BOISE, Aug. 12 (AP)—An airborne fire truck was used again yesterday to head off a potentially dangerous fire near Anderson Ranch reservoir southeast of here.

Forest officials said their Ford trimotor airplane dumped liquid calcium sodium borate ahead of a brisk grass fire.

The chemical solution checked the flames until crews could extinguish them, despite winds of 25 miles an hour.

The air drop method has been used on fires in this area about a week.

Picnic Held

SHOSHONE, Aug. 12—Personnel of the bureau of land management held a picnic at Mary L. Gooding park Friday evening.

Mrs. James Franks was in charge of general arrangements.
